Because he asserted his need to show her the paintings despite the fact she was busy with other chores, he attracted a series of negative responses from her that sorely disappointed. It was not the details (i.e. the quality of the site or the paintings or the artists) that was the problem, but the way he initiated the communication. Had he been more sensitive to his friend's needs, and been more patient to show the site, he might have elicited very different results, including the possibility that his friend might have admired every bit of the online presentation, and indicated that there indeed was "a wide variety of beautiful art"!

No Title

For one on the path, egotistic, rambunctious silliness quickly attracts negative conditions.

Reader: rambunctious silliness??

Response: uncontrollably exuberant silliness. Here, especially for one on the path it becomes an overbearing and grating ego movement of the vital being, so it attracts negatively. An evolved, cultured, high consciousness person should not act this way\ no matter how entertaining or well-received, as it pulls him out of his higher consciousness, attracting negative vibrations and therefore circumstance from the lower vital plane.

No Title

Because I began making the effort I promised myself of creating more space in my mind for Mother, She quickly came in the form of Blessings.

(thanks to Karmayogi via RK)

Pioneers of the Spiritual Age

The coming of a spiritual age must be preceded by the appearance of an increasing number of individuals who are no longer satisfied with the normal intellectual, vital and physical existence of man, but perceive that a greater revolution is the real goal of humanity and attempt to effect it in themselves, to lead others to it and to make it the recognized goal of the race. In proportion as they succeed and to the degree to which they carry this evolution, the yet unrealized potentiality which they represent will become an actual possibility of the future. (Sri Aurobindo, The Human Cycle)

(thanks to BBB)

In all we feel his presence and his power.

A blaze of his sovereign glory is the sun,

A glory is the gold and glimmering moon,

A glory is his dream of purple sky.

A march of his greatness are the wheeling stars.

His laughter of beauty breaks out in green trees,

His moments of beauty triumph in a flower;

The blue sea's chant, the rivulet's wandering voice

Are murmurs falling from the Eternal's harp.

(Sri Aurobindo, from Savitri: Book X, The Book of the Double Twilight; Canto III, The Debate of Love and Death)

No Title

Performing an act of goodness is surely a wholesome thing. However, often buried in it are small or larger movements of Ego, which have their negative consequences. When we think we are giving, we should examine our motives, acting only if they are perfectly pure and unselfish. If there is any ego involved, one should refrain from that initiative, at least until one's motives are set right.

No Title

It is gradually, slowly, with perseverance, first of all with great care and much attention, one becomes conscious, learns to know to remember the Divine and then to become master of oneself to constantly be with Divine. (The Mother)

thanks to RK

No Title

Consecration doesn't normally lead to a positive through a negative, but through a positive. Normal life however almost always does.

No Title

Each of us think we are good, but according to Sri Karmayogi's view virtually every one of us is fully selfish.

Reader: Mother's Grace Yes, I agree

Which means it is our own preference or feeling or kind of wanted

But how do we overcome? Pls. Advice uncle Is it different that our like or selfish?

Response: We overcome it by first observing it in ourselves; by watching for instances of in the course of our day, especially taking form as Ego movements. If you are sincere, you should experience a dozen or two at least. Also keep an eye out for each time you forget to consider another or other's around you as you act. More selfishness will show there. Even if your thoughts are merely about yourself in the course of the day without thinking of others concerns, it is additional selfishness. Once you perceive 50 instances of it you will see why you, we are fully selfish. Now you can start reversing each of those attitudes to become its opposite - ie Self-giving.

Reader: Mother's Grace. Thanks uncle. Can I know that likes and selfish? Are they related each other?

How do we differentiate it? Or all our likes are attaching with our selfish? Pls. Advice

Let me try to work with Mother's Blessings

Response: Like that is wholesome aspiration to improve one's self or connect to the Mother or have deep connections with others or do a work perfectly, etc. are not selfish.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo says the glorious Sun is just a shadow of what must come.

No Title

His ways challenge our reason and our sense;
By blind brute movements of an ignorant Force,
By means we slight as small, obscure or base,
A greatness founded upon little things,
He has built a world in the unknowing Void.
His forms he has massed from infinitesimal dust;
His marvels are built from insignificant things.
If mind is crippled, life untaught and crude,
If brutal masks are there and evil acts,
They are incidents of his vast and varied plot,
His great and dangerous drama's needed steps;
(from Savitri by Sri Aurobindo)

No Title

One who expresses a positive attitude, is cheerful, and maintains their poise in the face of a difficult situation is an evolved personality.

No Title

Intense Aspiration is what is necessary if we want to rise in life. Not self-satisfaction of what we already have. How to build up the intensity of Aspiration is a key question. What creates Aspiration? Some deep motives create it, as in the case of Steve Jobs. How can we find those levers in ourselves? What great achievers have are intensity of values, or urge to achieve what one sees as a possibility, or the force of life that compels one to change, etc. How can we discover those levers of intense aspiration that enables great achievement in our own lives?

Human Personality, Individuality, and Accomplishment

The question of development of Human Personality and its role of human accomplishment is one of Sri Karmayogi's great themes. And that was actually first described in detail by Sri Aurobindo in certain chapters of The Life Divine.

The five levels of personality are just mimicking others (Manners), Behavior (just unconscious self-movement and expression, like Lydia in Pride and Prejudice), Character (that which makes a person seem unique, instead of like others), Personality (highly developed character and individuality like Steve Jobs or Winston Churchill, who can have a big impact society) and Spiritual Individuality (who change the world from within through their soul connection; their ultimate self. They are ultimate individuals).

All told is a movement from non-individuality to complete individuality. Also the more one moves up the scale, the more one accomplishes. Darcy who had Character changed his nature and moved to the edges of Personality (the 4th stage) releasing great accomplishment in his being (in the form of marriage with Lydia).

The scale is Manners > Behavior > Character > Personality > Spiritual Individuality (Soul of Personality). It is from non-individuality to ultimate individuality, enabling ultimate achievement.

No Title

After we make a certain progress due to the intensity of our aspiration, we tend to level off. But it really is the start of a slow decline. Where then will come new sources of inspiration and aspiration? One must look deep within and find it there where our most cherished values reside, or we can discover new values from a deeper source still, emanating from the Soul and Spirit.

No Title

Energy is the source of the universe, and Divine Conscious-Force is the source of it.

No Title

You can silently aspire for the success of another individual without mentioning it, and attract great benefit for that person ... as well as yourself

No Title

RK says Unwillingness is our incapacity and inability to cope with a situation or person. Sri Karmayogi indicates it is unwillingness to give up the present faculty. Higher consciousness however perceives that unwillingness and changes it to acceptance; or better yet, embraces it enthusiastically, indicating a higher faculty at play.

RK: Dear Roy Posner

How can we discover those levers of intense aspiration that enables great achievement in our own lives?

1. By becoming so self-aware: By tracing back each of our traits and its origins in our own lives or its inheritance from our parents, brought up, social background, etc., by then detaching from each trait as it arises in our daily experience and offering it, consecrating it to the Divine

When we aspire, we effectively free the being on the present level of personality and experiences a wonderful flow of energy, joy and freshness into the daily activity, a widening of consciousness, and a rising to the next higher level. After achieving that we get satisfaction and on fear of losing that we tend to do ""our"" best which gives way to gradual emergence of habits and traits from the next deeper level of our psychological heritage, or opinions and prejudices - which dampen the aspiration on accomplishment and reduces the intensity of the freshness and establish themselves as a new routine. Our receptivity and aspiration subside, growth slackens or ceases, we remain in the same plane.

2. By acknowledging the knowledge that: Life is energy of HIS / HER / Divine / Conscious force. We can use that energy only to the attributes of manifesting aspects so that we can find the lever or lever comes out itself- to give Delight to the world.

For example Steve Jobs – knowingly or unknowingly practised other man point of view / customer point of view – an attribute of expansiveness – to the maximum and through that everybody's wish or aspiration on how a hand phone should be came out. (according to Steve Jobs, he gave a product to the world, which they don't even know that they need it). But when the company started looking on commercial point of paid OS / monopoly OS it started declining. So to find the lever or to become instrument to serve world the concise force should be expressed in every of our act.

Group Experiment In Consciousness - Cleanliness & Orderliness

We have begun a group movement to increase the level of Cleanliness and Orderliness in our lives in order to attract sudden good fortune. I have informed a number of people of the undertaking. I started the ball rolling this morning, and instantly got a response!

If you need any guidance, please click on the link below. Otherwise, please begin this group movement of cleanliness and orderliness whenever you can. See if you can attract something very positive very quickly. That is the normal experience of people who make a serious effort to raise their level of cleanliness and orderliness. If you receive the response to your effort, please report back here and describe your experience. Thanks for joining this group experiment in consciousness! Best of luck!

Further comment: Cleanliness and Orderliness Checklist:

My desk

My files

My computer apps

My workspace

My storage space

My to do list

My calendar

My hygiene

My appearance

My wardrobe

My living space

My auto

My storage facility

Other?

No Title

When you try to move to a higher plane of accomplishment and success, your weak points will be revealed.

Reader: Thanks. Could you please explain this with an example? I am unable to understand this.

Response: In Pride and Prejudice by Jane Austin, Mrs. Bennet the mother of 5 daughters wants them married off to prosperous men so her and her family's status and wealth can improve. However her own obnoxious, churlish nature and her meddling actions deflect, block every chance of that reality happening.

Likewise Mr. Darcy is in love with Eliza, the eldest Bennet daughter, but in trying to win her, all his normal worst characteristics come out, including his pride and arrogance. Yet incredibly he changes his nature, overcoming his negative attitudes. and life rewards him with Eliza's love and their marriage.

The same phenomenon can be seen in business, politics, individual nations, etc.

No Title

We take for granted all of the benefits of society we are born into, as we see here in America. We strongly believe in our own individuality, yet obviously relate to the social fabric underlying our existence. It is ingratitude and ignorance; a limited construct and worldview. We should instead be grateful for the wonders society has provided us upon birth. Such a view will give us an added power and perspective of life that will actually strengthen our individuality. Sri Karmayogi says the greatest form individuality takes is when one serves the wider needs of society, not just one's own. Here the individual and the universal join together in the true Person.

On Perfection

-Perfection comes - when the receptivity from below is equal to the force from above which wants to manifest. – THE MOTHER.

-Perfection is not a summit, maximum or an extreme. Whatever you do, there is always the possibility of something better and exactly this possibility of something better is the very process of perfection. Perfection is Eternal. it is only the resistance of the world that makes it look like a process of progress. So perfection is maintaining an equilibrium and harmonization in every next level, till you become exactly as the Lord wants you to be. – THE MOTHER.

thanks to RK

No Title

Life Response is a mere concept for people until they have the actual experience. Then their lives are changed forever. The degree of emotionally relating to it from that point forward then depends on how vigilant they are in recognizing it, and how aggressively they pursue it and its miraculous-like effect.

No Title

Recent revelations of science -- like non-locality/entanglement, which is the basis of life response; and Dark Energy, which may be akin to the Conscious-Force of Satchitananda (chit) which is the basis of creation -- seem more mystical than the ongoing rituals and superstitions of religion who have drifted far from their source teachings. I wonder who is really mover closer to the Spirit, and who away.

No Title

"Life Response" phenomenon ultimately becomes the study of what Life truly is.

Reader: Response Is LIFE.

Response: Yes. All of Life is Life Response, and vice versa.

Token Initiative/Do What You Can

One powerful method of attracting good fortune (i.e. Life Response) is that in any difficult situation, including a hopeless one, look around, think about it and DO WHAT YOU CAN, even the smallest thing. It can open up vast opportunities you would never have dreamed of.

A man had just lost his entire business and his home on top of that. He was living at a friend's house who was away for a while. The man did not know what to do with his life. One thing he thought of however, was to look for a job in the paper for a sales position. ANY sales position!

To his surprise, several weeks later he secured a job for an Energy Conservation company nearby to sell energy saving products. Soon after he was made sales manager for that division, and thereby organized a team of sales people to do what he had done before. While on the job he helped develop a spreadsheet program that calculated energy savings for the client if they purchased his team's products. He enjoyed this and as a result he took an interest in the personal computer, a fledgling technology at the time. Several months later, he became a computer sales person, which kicked off a 30 year career in that field that he practices till this day.

By doing what he could in that original desperate situation, by making that token gesture to seek sales employment of any sort, his entire world quickly changed! It was an overwhelming response from life due to a small token initiative for improvement.

Further comment:

When you are in a desperate situation, you need solutions, wherever it comes from. Calling to Mother is always the first option. She can then reveal tiny openings that we should take and not ignore. Or we simply perceive them without having opened to Mother. They are just there.

When something is going to fall on your head, that is Life's Initiatives. If you are in a desperate situation that too is Life's Initiative. In both cases something needs to be done whether or not you open to Mother. In these situations, life always opens a crack for possibilities through which we can act.

A man had limited medicines for a physical problem and was suffering greatly as a result. The instructions told him the dose. But then he looked it up on the Internet and found that he could take the medicines more frequently and if necessary multiple ones per swallow. He followed the former advice, and was therefore now able to navigate his time out of intense pain before seeing the doctor.

He discovered the crack of knowledge and acted on it. It was the Token Initiative that got him out of his intense quandary. He did what he could do.

No Title

Life is a Play of energies in which created forms of that force carry out their conscious or unconscious intention, intersecting with one another, revealing patterns and principles that together give it a character.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo and Mother say move away from religion and its ritual, and toward direct spiritual experience. Also away from empirical scientific view and toward a Science of Life that includes all planes, not just the material.

Life's Acts Repeat

Life's acts -- whether involving ourselves, others, or the world; whether positive, neutral, or negative -- repeat over and over again, until there is a countervailing force that alters the dynamic.

—

"Buying the very first property in his career, someone paid Rs. 5850/- for a property which had no bidders when auctioned for 1200/- because he wanted a property unencumbered. Eight years later this act exactly repeated its character when he bought a second property. He was alerted. Five years later when he bought his biggest property, no trace of earlier debts was there. His knowledge helped him to overcome the irresistible power of repetition of an act. Not only acts repeat. Names also repeat. The character of the act - rasi - repeats. Occasionally the exact spot repeats; the fixed hour repeats. Repetition is the character of physicality. The earlier one gets rid of it the better." (Karmayogi)

Reader: 1. is our life taken for granted by Life.

2. Will life too act like this.

3. When we analyse our life, many such incidents can be seen in our everyday life. Thanks for sharing.

In the article, overcoming repetition thru Spiritual force, u have been coming earlier than ur friend . U have followed the principle of punctuality, patience , non reaction . But for 25 y times life was repeating the same thing, that is it made you to wait for yr friend . So is life taken us for granted .

Bcos i m in the same kind of situation for many years

Response: K, because one is punctual does not cause another to be. Life owes us nothing. Even when I worked with this person, he was late for meetings. He could have used discipline from the boss which he might have gotten, though he was a top producer. I could not scold him as he was my friend. Yet Consecration changes ALL the dynamics. (By the way, it's also possible I came too early!)

RK: Our part is limited to our acts. Our time is limited to our life. Our space is confined to where we live.

We always have a choice - to choose the truth or aspects of the truth -it is leaving the part of the good for whole good. Till then life repeats so that we turn to that truth. We call that as knowledge.

Mostly we are unaware of the acts repeating in one form or another. Occasionally it strikes us in our life, especially the second or third time. For example, till the age of 37, my qualification was school final (HSC) and proudly said that it is waste to study. Life repeated so many things several times to make me conclude that education is a necessity-and when I took that path-I got masters in management –and the life has returned all that I have lost so far.

No Title

Life repeats until the underlying causality is changed.

Further comment: E.g. in the US every summer or two there is a race riot or similar locally in relation to police shooting black individuals as excessive force. The underlying problem is the poverty and unemployment of these people, which has not been comprehensively addressed by all aspects of society

When the news makes a big brouhaha on the latest occasion, they act as if it never happened before, when in fact it happens over and over every year, seemingly infinitum. One smiles at the current ignorance of past iterations. The same with Israeli-Palestinian issue and much more. Even the media is stuck firmly in the repetition, as they too see no way out, or worse yet, do not really care. The higher Knowledge and consciousness necessary to bring to bear to prevent the repetition is absent. On the other hand, on occasions there are big breakthroughs, often instigated by someone or some group seeing a new way out of the travail and repetition.

Reader: The media acts always in the commercial interest by wanting to publish only sensational news.

Response: Yes, that is true, but even the unsensational media is reporting this way in their ignorance of the fact that this has occurred many times in the past, repeatedly over and over, as if it had never happened before. Only a very few outlets actually discuss the underlying issues that have caused the problem to occur again and again, including providing real, tangible, fresh, solutions to resolve it. This is the way forward, rather than through conflict and strife.

Reader: In the end the taxpayers' money is wasted, and the problems are perpetuated which may be gainful to some.

Response: It is a question of harmony of the various parties involved, actually the entire society involved, collectively addressing these issues so they can be solved, enabling all of us to move forward. Each segment tends to be stuck in their own ignorance. Each cares only about its own interests. Yet there are competing interests; and all interests need to be harmonized, which is the essence of what enables progress.

It is a question of harmony of the various parties involved, actually the entire society involved, collectively addressing these issues so they can be solved, enabling all of us to move forward. Each segment tends to be stuck in their own ignorance. Each cares only about its own interests. Yet there are competing interests; and all interests need to be harmonized, which is the essence of what enables progress.

No Title

It's so easy for us to blame somebody else. It is so difficult for us to look deeper and take responsibility for it ourselves.

Reader: It is said that for any mishap we should take 50 percent of responsibility.

Response: I am in the original quote above trying to express the yogic view of life. That everything that is problematic happening around us that we blame others for, we can take responsibility for by discovering a corresponding wanting quality in our nature that attracts it to us, and overcome that aspect in ourselves. Now life will self-correct through life response phenomenon.

Actually there is a first step, which is absolute non-blaming of others. From a poise of stillness, when the tendency to blame others arises we can catch it and cancel it in our being. It is the first spiritual poise of silent being. A further step is to see into the depths of the issue and take responsibility by discovering and overcoming the corresponding quality within.

RK: Karmayogi says:

Every time we blame others or circumstances – we are discarding a chance to evolve, a chance to progress because every time we blame others, we turn away from true knowledge and from the true solutions. Even a minute of thinking - that I may be a reason too - is starting point of self-awareness and humility that can open a new door.

When you are of a higher consciousness, life is constantly feeding you indicators of what the truth is, what to do or not to do, etc. The end result is indicated at that beginning point. All you have to do is pay attention, discover it, and then follow that path. What you then perceive to be true or act upon related to this matter will be precisely what actually comes about.

No Title

When you refrain from asking for your benefit, instead focusing on the needs of the other party, they will soon start asking on your account, about that which fulfills your needs.

No Title

Each moment or event in your life offers subtle clues on the right actions to take to derive the maximum result, including instantaneous miraculous outcomes.

Consecration to Mother

A central tenet of Sri Aurobindo is the surrender of the devotee or sadhak to the Mother. She stands as the instrument through which the divine shakti, the supramental power flows. Devotees are asked to open up to Her Power, or simply just to Mother when engaging in all facets of life. That will insure that the supramental force can enter their person and transmute all aspects of their existence, including their own nature as well as the unfoldings of life around them. By doing so, instantaneous miraculousness can occur.

Since Mother has left her body, the action of Her Force seems to be growing, with an ever-increasing power and effectivity to transmute the targeted aspect of life; whether parts of our own nature – mental, vital, and physical -- or the life around us we engage in.

No Title

The more you unnecessarily speak or think, the more you block the Grace from coming in and creating good fortune in your life.

Reader: By all means, the unnecessary thinking has been coming just like that while we walk or see if any things whichever happened in our life. How do we avoid or overcome this. Hope it is very important to know. We used to call Mother whenever we start work or any problems arise usually. Looking for your advice uncle.

Response: Perhaps 50% of the speaking and thinking we do is necessary. But if you watch yourself in the course of the day, you will see that the other 50% is unnecessary. It can be replaced with fewer words and softer speech, as well as less thinking. This is a discipline one can learn to follow. It allows good fortune (i.e. Grace) to more readily flow through you. You can try it out as an experiment for proof. Calling Mother regularly also tends to calm the urge to speak and think.

Reader: Thanks uncle for your immediate answer with clear information. Yes I agree with you. Let Keep call our Divine Mother. Let Thy will be done Not my will.

Fulfilling the Divine Work and Intent

There is the Divine work and Intent. The human being is an instrument for fulfilling it. Man however fulfills it unconsciously through the workings of Nature, which is the slow and painful method of evolution through contradiction and conflict we experience in life, through our lower, Ego movements. The Divine itself carries out the remainder behind the scenes.

The CONSCIOUS collaboration with the Divine Intent occurs when we are in touch with our deeper self; the soul and psychic being within. Here we experience peace, harmony, goodness, love, and delight, which enable a dynamic, infinitely positive relation with the world and others, speeding up and perfecting the evolution, enabling the Divine Work and Intent to be realized in the world.

No Title

Psychological strength and fortitude in the face of life's vicissitudes is key to success and happiness.

Reader: Pls. Uncle, could you explain?

Response: People who are strong when difficulties arise pass through them and can attain success. People who are psychologically weak when there is pressure, when there are difficult conditions, will wilt under the strain and not successful.

No Title

Success depends on a deep Aspiration to achieve a goal, an intense will and desire for it to come about, the persevering effort to make it real, the psychological strength to overcome problems that arise along the way, the right attitudes and values, and the necessary skills and knowledge.

Reader: I thought desire is not part of Yoga?

Response: Aspiration is the wholesome yearning to improve one's condition; to lift one's self up, which is almost spiritual. On the other hand, "desire" as commonly used means wanting, needing, hungering for something, which is a movement of the lower, vital nature.

No Title

The Divine aspired to create a universe, and did. We can aspire to create a better life for ourselves and others, to uplift our world.

There is also an even higher form, which is Aspiration for the Divine. It is a deep seated yearning for the Spirit to increasingly enter one's life. It is pure Aspiration of the soul for ever-increasing peace, harmony, light, presence, goodness, love, and delight in our lives. That aspiration begins as a burning flame in the core of our being that rises to manifest itself as real in the world.

Aspiration vs. Desire

Aspiration is the wholesome yearning to improve one's condition; to lift one's self up, which is almost spiritual. On the other hand, "desire" as commonly used means wanting, needing, hungering for something, which is a movement of the lower, vital nature.

The Divine aspired to create a universe, and did. We can aspire to create a better life for ourselves and others, to uplift our world.

There is also an even higher form, which is Aspiration for the Divine. It is a deep seated yearning for the Spirit to increasingly enter one's life. It is pure Aspiration of the soul for ever-increasing peace, harmony, light, presence, goodness, love, and delight in our lives. That aspiration begins as a burning flame in the core of our being that rises to manifest itself as real in the world.

Perfect Outcomes without Dark Shadows in Supramental Life

In normal life, such as in science, a dark bi-product often emerges for each positive advance. E.g. power stations which supply energy also produce pollution. Nuclear fission created energy, but also bombs threatening to destroy the world. It is because not all aspects are considered when developing the item; here only the material. The same in business, such as we recently saw with the financial crisis, where the increasing fluidity of money to spread (a good thing) led to its abuse by financiers engaged in unregulated speculation that early destroyed the world economy.

In the supramental existence, where one opens to Her Force, no negative shadow is ever created when something new is developed; only the self-Existent Good. Here in Sri Aurobindo's epic poem Savitri, She is experiencing that very thing. As Divine Goddess and Savior of the world, Her spontaneous beingness and actions always lead to perfect outcomes that are devoid of the dark shadow, and as a result each action is an opportunity for Joy to spread throughout the world.

Reader: "She saw all nature marvellous without fault "

No Title

On the very day in May of 1985 that CEO Steve Jobs was being fired from Apple by the board, I was at Apple headquarters interviewing for a job there. As my interviewer began to speak, one could hear voices calling out about there something very important going on with Steve. In the tumult, my interview was suddenly halted and then cancelled. As it turned out I never worked at Apple, and on that day Steve Jobs was relieved of his duties. He would return in 12 years and create the most valuable company in business history.

No Title

When Steve Jobs was fired from Apple in 1985, he created a new company NeXT, where he developed a computer that many believed was even better than the Mac. But it didn't sell. In one sense, his was a vendetta against Apple for being cast out. Yet when he was convinced to take up a NEW direction in his life by investing in Pixar animation, Jobs had great success. Thereafter Apple invited him back to lead a failing company, using his NeXT software technology, and went on to create iPod, iPhone, and iPad, making it the most valuable company in business history. Accepting a new possibility in a different direction from the old, and thereby shedding some psychological baggage, was pivotal in the turnaround of his life, and the history of technology.

No Title

... the Consciousness where the two contraries, the two opposites are united, the nature of both changes. They don't remain as they are. It's not that they unite and remain the same: the nature of both changes. (Mother, from Agenda).

Further comment: Sri Aurobindo tells us that life progresses through contradictions, conflicts, dualities between parties, events, ideas, beliefs, etc. This is the slow and difficult way of Nature (Prakriti). However, to resolve such divisions in a more conscious way, individuals develop higher consciousness relative to the situation, enabling a new knowledge or possibility to present itself, allowing for a meeting of the minds. Note that this is no mere compromise, but a higher harmony reflecting a New Possibility that was not there before. In this process, these newly discovered and revealed possibilities present themselves because both parties have grown in consciousness.

No Title

The small thing you avoid with intensity when overcome will quickly open the door to great success in your life.

No Title

When a wholesome, cherished value of yours is threatened by another person's lower needs and desires, but you hold tight to what you believe, unexpected, overwhelming good fortune can suddenly appear at your doorstep.

Example: A young man was involved in a relationship. The partner wanted a physical relationship; he desired more than that from romance in his life. After persisting in the expression of her needs, the young man told her that what she wanted from the relationship, he did not. A short while later there was a visitor at the door, and the young man figured it was the girl again. Instead it was his previous high school girlfriend returning after a long time from college with whom he shared a deep romantic relationship. His insistence on his more positive, wholesome romantic value attracted that which he really wanted.

This same dynamic can be seen in all facets of life, including business, sports, family relations, romance, etc. Even in the movements of nations and society. Deep-seated and felt values will trump all; attracting life's boons in the face of others' lower intent.

No Title

When the Grace descends, the mind should be still and devoid of all thoughts; otherwise it deflects the Power from Above from manifesting beneficial results.

No Title

Often the go-ahead and blossoming of a significant project or undertaking waits on a single small reluctance on our part overcome. Life then rushes in with great benefit.

No Title

When another person offers an opinion, the mind rushes to give an alternate one. Embracing and expanding on what they have said occurs only in a small number of cases. It is due to the exclusive rather than the inclusive nature of mind that seeks to express itself.

Reader: If there is a willingness to learn from what others could say then one might listen.

Response: Very true.

No Title

What a parent intensely fears might happen to their child moves toward tending to occur. Withdrawing that fear substantially reduces that risk.

Reader: I know this happens but how?

Response: It happens because when we are fearful we send out negative vibrations which align with corresponding negative conditions. This is the life response phenomenon (or power of attraction) phenomenon in action, but from the negative side. There is a famous statement that "Fear attracts the object of fear."

A person can recognize and change a serious wanting attitude, habit, or belief, or instead go through a serious illness or such that knocks that "physicality" out of their being.

Reader: Can u give one example of this

Response: Often we see people falling very ill. If we look closely we will see that it is due to a psychological cause; e.g. a serious negative attitude in their lives. Often life forces them to overcome the psychological cause through illness, which forces them to change, or they can be conscious of the psychological deficiency and change it on their own, avoiding the illness. This is discussed in greater detail with examples here: in the section "Illness and Our Psychological Condition" (you may have to scroll a bit down to see it)

No Title

Consecration is shifting your faith from your capacities to Mother's.

No Title

To have the right attunement with the outer world, one must move to an increasingly deeper poise within, culminating in soul. Then one has the silent "Witness Consciousness" that can perceive the true nature of the occurrences of the outer world.

On the other hand, fixation with the outer only through the senses (including the visual and auditory) gives that person a surface view of things, riddled with limited information that leads to false conclusions, wrong decisions and failed actions.

From the soul one is calm and peaceful, feels harmony with others and the world, tends to perceive the full truth and knowledge of what is happening, operates from a sense of goodness and self-givingness, feels love in their heart, and, all told, experiences intense delight in being alive.

On the other hand, the surface view can only feel these in small bursts, which is quickly followed by their opposite, leading to continuous oscillation between the positive and negative ad infinite in one's life.

No Title

There is an enormous difference between being lost in the moment and being trapped by it. In the former, one lives in a kind of timelessness where one is not burdened by time. In the latter, one is burdened by concerns of the future or the influence of the past affecting the present. The first is a spiritual experience; the latter is normal life.

No Title

The Supramental Being that we are destined to evolve into as envisioned by Sri Aurobindo and the Mother is as different from the human being as the human is from the primate.

No Title

It's best not to jump to a definite conclusion when one has only limited knowledge of the facts, as it can set you on a very bumpy road.

Reader: Also many people could not express themselves clearly, and this partial understanding could lead to wrong conclusions.

Response: Yes exactly.

No Title

In normal life the key is successfully navigating your way through the difficulties that present themselves. In spiritual life the key is successfully navigating your way through the positive openings that continually present themselves ad infinitum.

Reader: Hi Roy Sir, does that mean the difficulties are the positive openings in spiritual life? Or will the difficulties be less in spiritual life?

Response: In spiritual life it is continuous stream of positives. But one must be conscious of those openings occurring and embrace them, which a spirit-oriented person will tend to do.

No Title

Negatives will come to a spiritual-oriented person, but they will be understood as positives in disguise. In Spirit one perceives that ALL serves a purpose, including the negative. The totality or Reality includes all things, and their interaction; thus everything must be embraced and included in the unfolding,

It's also worth mentioning that in Spiritual life one tends to create outcomes that have no negative side; only positive I.e. the result is Self-Existent. In normal life, negatives often follow as shadows of the positive.

Naturally it depends on what level one has attained in spiritual life. The greater the intensity of joining the spiritual life (as e.g. being a fully practicing sadhak in Sri Aurobindo's Integral Yoga), the more these aspects are realized as true.

No Title

Enthusiasm comes from an intense will to achieve a goal, which releases emotional energy that makes one enthusiastic. The intense will comes from deep aspiration to have something accomplished, including the personal values behind it.

Tolerance and Education Level

It was recently reported that the higher the educational attainment of the individual, the lower the chances of reporting intolerance towards people of other groups - including ethnic, language, religious, national, sexual, class, caste, etc. Tolerance for diversity and education go hand in hand, and is critical for the evolution of society.

-thanks to Janani at World University Consortium

No Title

Whereas mind, influenced by the lower vital nature, is generally closed to new possibilities, Curiosity and the knowledge that follows opens the door to infinite-like results.

Further comment: E.g. during a heat wave once notices that the fan is not operating as required. One can ignore the problem and lose the opportunity to resolve it, or take to curiosity and discover how the fan actually works via an online article, providing not only the solution to that problem but to many others; even an opening to the Unexpected.

Embracing the Unfolding Of the New

Our willingness to accept what is necessary to do in the unfolding of the new moment -- whether requiring new discovery, learning, or belief -- is the key to furthering our progress and the evolution.

E.g. an issue or problem presents itself. We may not want to be disturbed from our present situation and deal with it, as the tendency is just to go on doing what we are doing or liking. As a result, the opportunity for progress is lost.

However, if we embrace the conditions of the new -- whether issue or problem, -- rather than ignore it or reject it, we will tend to make the effort to discover the necessary knowledge, ideas, beliefs that will resolve it, enabling positive response and progress all around.

No Title

Over-assertion of one's point of view is the wrong point of view.

Token Initiative/Do What You Can

All problems in life are solvable. What is required above all is a higher level of Harmony among the parties to resolve it.

Further comment: Sri Aurobindo says all problems in life are problems of harmony.

True Cause of "Black Swans"

A few years ago Nassim Nicholas Taleb wrote a book entitled Black Swans exploring the significance of extremely rare, high impact, unpredictable events in the life of humanity and in our personal lives – events such as the end of the Cold War, advent of the World Wide Web, and many other historical facts. The falling of The Book at Moe's Bookstore was a Black Swan in my life as it was in the life of Dan and the other characters in my novel.

Taleb did a remarkable job of documenting the importance of events that appear so unlikely we assume they could never occur and he criticizes social science for focusing on normative data and ignoring the role of the unexpected. He concludes that life is so inherently uncertain that the only thing we can be sure of is the unpredictable. His perception is wonderful, but my impression is that he has missed the most important point. Rare events are of momentous importance not because they occur, but because we have the power to make them occur. Life Responds miraculously, as Roy has explained so thoroughly in his own book.

The Cold War did not end. It was ended by the courageous actions of one man – Mikhail Gorbachev – which embodied the aspirations of millions for an end to nuclear confrontation and hostility. WWW did not just happen. It happened as the result of growing aspiration of millions of individuals to reach out and connect with one another, to empower themselves so they have a voice in the world. The truth of Black Swans is that they reveal the unity between the subjective inner world of human beings and the objective outer world from which modern science and mental education has divided and divorced us. Black Swans do not prove that Chance is the presiding deity in this universe. Rather they evidence that Conscious Force is the real creator of everything that happens. (Garry Jacobs, The Mother's Service Society)

Sri Aurobindo's Grand Unification

Sri Aurobindo's Life Divine achieves the grand unification that modern science can only dimly conceptualize and aspire for. Great science has always involved the unification of phenomena that were previously perceived as separate and disparate from one another. Maxwell discovered that electricity and magnetism were two forms of the same reality -- electromagnetism. Newton discovered that objects at rest and objects in motion were expressions of the same laws. Einstein revealed that Matter and Energy are two expressions of one Reality and even conceived of Space and Time (could any two things appear more dissimilar to one another?) as a single reality Space-Time.

So in Life Divine, Sri Aurobindo has reunited God and the world, revealing that God has become the world. He reunited God and Man, by revealing that the individual is the incarnate representative of the Divine on earth, the evolving Spirit which is destined to become the Ishwara. He reunited Consciousness and Force, Spirit and Nature by showing that the Force is Conscious (it is ALWAYS conscious even when we perceive it to be inanimate) and that Life is the expression of that Conscious Force responding to our consciousness at every moment. (Garry Jacobs, The Mother's Service Society)

No Title

Perfection of work is to be utterly absorbed in the details, while observing the highest standards and scales of quality, reaching the highest point of each. When reached, life responds out of all proportion.

No Title

Each party shedding Ego relative to the situation is an important first step in resolving life's conflicts and conundrums.

Aspiration That Attracts Grace, But Then Levels Off

Every devotee has a market or potential of Microsoft or Apple. Many may aspire for that. But may fail to grow after an initial growth.

Grace always meets the aspiration through the field of expression. Leveling off, arises when the original emotion is lost and irrational extension of the same is resorted to even in higher levels.

Some of the things we do in higher level or during growth are: Arrears in human effort, hesitation to do all in Mother's ways, belief in falsehood and its ways, extraneous motives, vanity and show off, making money to serve the darkness of the physical and vital, no efforts for value implementation more than earlier etc. (RK)

Further comment: We can say that when there is an upward movement of consciousness, there needs to be a descent as well, otherwise, the lower will reassert itself. R's list of "fall backs" are precisely where the descent has not occurred and the lower fills that space. By being aware of these when ascending, we can be vigilant when there is that tendency to slide. Now the ascent is supported by the a "descending strategies." If implemented then each of the fall backs become opposite of their negative character and support the ascent. The Ascent and Descent of consciousness are complete. Leveling off and backsliding from the original Grace meeting the Aspiration of consciousness is overcome. (This is one approach.)

Great Transitions in Our Lives

We understand the great transitions in our lives in hindsight, but not so much when they are occurring. Yet we can recognize them if we develop a higher consciousness, as well as a faith in life and spirit. Then we see that all negatives, including great life changes are positives in disguise. We just need to think about it, contemplate the transition, rather than react to it, which often comes as a shock or sting.

If we look back on our lives, we will recognize the wonder of these transitions which seemed so problematic at the time. As far-fetched as it sounds, as a truly evolved being, we can actually learn to feel a certain joy in these powerful transitions instead of being pained by them. It is a subtle recognition that we are moving up in our lives in terms of our personal growth and development. It is actually a spiritual transition sanctioned by our Soul.

No Title

What ultimately makes a nation's economy grow is the intensity of aspiration, will and values of its people.

No Title

Controlling egoistic-oriented chit-chat is one sure sign of progress on the spiritual path.

No Title

Life is going to continually come at you. So be prepared, relax, have faith, and enjoy the ride.

No Title

One man's perfection can save the world. (Sri Aurobindo)

Further comment: "One man's perfection can save the world is what Sri Aurobindo laid down. Whatever the problem, if one man in any such field can aspire for that Force to come into his own Perfect Work, that problem will be solved for the world, be it poverty or unemployment or radioactive fallout. This is the spiritual possibility the Force has made available to all men since 1956. When people succeed in such ventures, Mother says it is not announced by the beat of drums." (Sri Karmayogi)

Reader: In Tamil language there is a saying that even if there is one good man in this world for his sake alone rain showers to the benefit of entire mankind.(Thollulagil nallar oruvar ularel avar poruttu ellorkum peyyum mazhai.)

Response: Excellent.

No Title

If your emotions well up negatively, quickly control them, as they indicate perceptions likely in the wrong.

Reader: thanks Roy. Controlling negative emotions - is this the same or different from suppression of negative emotions? Please explain.

Response: Very similar. There is perhaps a slight difference which I cannot easily explain.

Reader: thanks Roy. I asked because in psychology, suppression of emotions could lead to various disorders. I'm trying to get a deeper understanding of this topic.

Response: I am not advocating suppression of emotions per say, but of controlling negative attitudes that are harmful to one's self and others. Control is in large part a mental capacity that perceives the negative reaction and tries to rationally put an end to it. Suppression is a stronger term indicates a suffocating of the emotion with less of a mental and more of a forceful control.

Some schools of psychology advocate expressing a negative pent up negative feeling one has toward another so it does not get further internalized and exacerbated. My own view is to make the effort to understand such negative feelings, such as anger or jealousy, to get at the root of it, and therefore change it. In the interim it is worth controlling our expressions rather than just blurting them out, which can easily intensify and worsen a problem and any relationship involved. I believe this is a more conscious and spiritual approach.

No Title

Every negative can attract a corresponding positive when taken in the right spirit.

No Title

Regular consecration, opening to Mother will consistently save you from any number of major and minor disasters.

No Title

People want certainty in their lives; but there is none. Only Mother, the Divine can bring certainty.

It is said that "God it in the details." One way to explain this dictum is that when we perfect a work against several standards of performance, the supramental divine with its integral perfection consciousness and force tends to rush in, attracting powerful life response results. Thus, God enters our lives through our efforts and realizations of perfection, turning finite conditions into infinite-like results.

No Title

The only thing for certain is uncertainty. Embracing it will broaden and enrich our lives.

No Title

There is an inherent Oneness permeating all things in the universe and its spiritual source beyond. Though everything is inextricably related and integrated from that perspective, the consciousness of Oneness is hidden from us -- in our relation to life, the cosmos, others, work, circumstance, etc.. It is due to our limited minds and the dominance of our lower vital nature which amplifies the separative ego that blocks our experiences of Unity and Oneness.

And yet the experience of Oneness is available to us if we seek it out. In particular, when we move to a deeper consciousness within and feel the presence of our True Self, the psychic entity, the wall that separates us from the world breaks down, and the Oneness can be experienced. Now we tend to move into harmony with all that comes our way. Life conditions unfold magnificently. Deep Joy becomes our ongoing experience.

For an ungenerous man, every act of generosity brings a wonderful surprise.

Reader: thanks Roy. Could you please explain this?

Response: Say you are a person who does not normally consider others when making a purchase; or is tightfisted about spending on another, as you tend to be preoccupied with your own needs. Now after a friend has expressed her desire for something simple she would like to have, you realize that this is an opportune moment to change your ways.

So you seek to purchase what she desires. You even come to realize that it might be an expensive purchase. And yet when you find the item, you discover it is actually on sale and costs far less than expected! In fact, there is even one available for yourself at very little additional charge! Life has in essence responded to your shift from self-absorption and tight-fistedness to self-givingness and generosity evoking an unexpected, wondrous response for both.

In fact, every time this individual thinks and acts this way, he will receive startling results from the field of life, as he has moved from the local domain of self-absorption and ego to the universal one of self-givingness.

By the way, this phenomenon is not just for conditions where people are tight-fisted, but for any situation where one overcomes a negative attitude and feel and/or acts in the opposite way - such as jealousy, pride, unwillingness, anger, insularity, sloth, tardiness, lack of cleanliness and orderliness, etc. etc. Through this "reversal of consciousness," life will instantly respond and bring good fortune to all the parties involved.

Reader: Apart from material aspect, Generosity in non-material like time, space to others tend to respond in 'elastic'

Elastic nature of an orientation quite pretty Reactive/responsive. Thank you Sir.

Reader: how do u come up with such beautiful thoughts?

Response: By studying the works of Sri Karmayogi and seeing how his principles are applied in the experiences of others and myself.

No Title

Emerging technology is higher consciousness at the material plane.

Reader: Mother disapproved High-tech like Nuclear Fission as it breaks the matter to give energy while approved Nuclear Fusion as it unites the matter to give energy and thus gave an occult or consciousness basis to it. A new emerging technology is neuromorphic engineering in which novel devices are designed to function like brain does and thus be faster, smaller and dramatically power saving. But the most striking featuring is their self learning like brain does. Sir, how do you see these sort of 'conscious' devices?

Response: In one sense technology is neutral. It is the consciousness we bring to bear that determines the benefit. Eg Einstein's formulae led to nuclear power, which can be used positively only if radiation effect on humans can be eliminated. Higher consciousness occurs when people consciously weigh all the effects at all planes of being. This has not occurred for most scientific and technology developments, meaning that it is not Self-Existent, ie it has a dark shadow to its positive qualities. (Nuclear bombs are negative to begin with.)

Any scientific invention and the technologies that issue from it tend to have dark shadows, which are due to Man's unconsciousness as explained above. Manufacturing that enables prosperity brings pollution. Internet brings security breaches, nuclear power can bring world destruction, medicines bring side effects, etc. When Man brings his highest consciousness to these efforts no dark shadows will be created. The result is fully positive; ie Self-Existent. When the vital, mental, and spiritual planes - not just the physical - are considered when the scientific discovery and technology products are developed, the results will tend to be self-existent.

Opening to Mother's Force during the invention and development phases enables the Self-existent Good to emerge without dark shadows. We intuitive the right things even as she rearranges the conditions to enable Self-existent outcomes.

These principles and methods will continue to be the same for any emerging technology - like genetic engineering, neuroscience, neuromorphic engineering, and dozens of others.

The Internet has this Self existent quality to a degree because it issued from mental values of communication and collaboration. The higher the values, the more likely the Good will be created.

Likewise every discipline needs to interact with every other one to create the most dynamic and Good product. Eg science and technology researchers developing a product should be knowledgeable of corresponding pertinent issues related to biology, sociology, psychology, sustainability, etc. etc. Cross-discipline analysis leads to greater perfection and the development of the Self-Existent Good.

Reader: Thank you, Sir!

Avoiding Dark Shadows in Science & Technology

In one sense technology is neutral. It is the consciousness we bring to bear that determines the benefit. Eg Einstein's formulae led to nuclear power, which can be used positively only if radiation effect on humans can be eliminated. Higher consciousness occurs when people consciously weigh all the effects at all planes of being. This has not occurred for most scientific and technology developments, meaning that it is not Self-Existent, ie it has a dark shadow to its positive qualities. (Nuclear bombs are negative to begin with.)

Any scientific invention and the technologies that issue from it tend to have dark shadows, which are due to Man's unconsciousness as explained above. Manufacturing that enables prosperity brings pollution. Internet brings security breaches, nuclear power can bring world destruction, medicines bring side effects, etc. When Man brings his highest consciousness to these efforts no dark shadows will be created. The result is fully positive; ie Self-Existent. When the vital, mental, and spiritual planes - not just the physical - are considered when the scientific discovery and technology products are developed, the results will tend to be self-existent.

Opening to Mother's Force during the invention and development phases enables the Self-existent Good to emerge without dark shadows. We intuitive the right things even as she rearranges the conditions to enable Self-existent outcomes.

These principles and methods will continue to be the same for any emerging technology - like genetic engineering, neuroscience, neuromorphic engineering, and dozens of others.

The Internet has this Self-existent quality to a degree because it issued from mental values of communication and collaboration. The higher the values, the more likely the Good will be created.

Likewise every discipline needs to interact with every other one to create the most dynamic and Good product. Eg science and technology researchers developing a product should be knowledgeable of corresponding pertinent issues related to biology, sociology, psychology, sustainability, etc. etc. Cross-discipline analysis leads to greater perfection and the development of the Self-Existent Good.

No Title

From the holistic view of Supermind everything that has happened in your life is exactly as it should have been. It is a vision of Brahman, the Reality, the embracing of the All, all things. From the dualistic view of Mind, your life is viewed as a series of circumstance ranging from positive to negative, and all points in-between. From that perspective each and everything is subject to scrutiny and judgment. The perspective of the whole is lost.

Reader: I wish to know sir, what is dualistic view of mind. Could you explain? Is it the positive and negative thoughts that arise in our mind at the same time?

Response: The dualistic view of Mind is to perceive contrast, to differentiate: this compared to that; this is bigger than that, greater than that, better than that, etc. Mind does not readily perceive the Reality before it in its Seamlessness and Oneness, but instead differentiates qualities, always judging them, expressing preferences, favorites; constantly advocating things it likes, and rejecting things it does not.

This exclusive tendency of Mind to differentiate judge, prefer, etc. creates a kind of separation of one's self from life. As a result, we continually come into conflict with others and the world; even are divided in our own selves. Furthermore, Mind influenced by the lower vital nature, including our needs, desires, and egoistic preferences hardens this view, further separating ourselves from the inherent Oneness of existence.

There is an analogy: Mind can view the different shadings and colors of the rainbow, which is a good thing, but then harps on one or several of the colors, favoring it, losing touch with the entire spectrum of existence.

On the other hand, the spiritual mind of silence, light, and intuition tends to embrace Other, all things; not judging, opinionating and taking a stand. It is inclusive, Holistic in outlook; not divided. It accepts others' viewpoints, the various truths of any matter, not just one's own perspective.

Also when we move to our deeper Self within, this harmonic relation with the world increases, as we look out on the world as Silent Witness and pure Being; whereas living on the surface of life reinforces the ego view, the separative consciousness that is divided from the totality of existence, the Reality, the All.

Reader: The truth will set you free Dualistic view shouts out from all today at our children from their very first step, captured by canned experience. Yet the appearance of the truth is more obvious once seen because of this sharp 21st Century contrast of physical man versus spiritual source. IMO

Reader: One should always try to understand a subject clearly. Thank you sir. (Ethayium sariya purinjikkanum)

No Title

Conscious restraint from impulsively initiating, engaging in life actions builds up Inner Power.

No Title

Where the ordinary mind experiences gaps in causality, the subtle mind perceives deep connections.

From Dualistic To Harmonic View of Reality

The dualistic view of Mind is to perceive contrast, to differentiate: this compared to that; this is bigger than that, greater than that, better than that, etc. Mind does not readily perceive the Reality before it in its Seamlessness and Oneness, but instead differentiates qualities, always judging them, expressing preferences, favorites; constantly advocating things it likes, and rejecting things it does not.

This exclusive tendency of Mind to differentiate judge, prefer, etc. creates a kind of separation of one's self from life. As a result, we continually come into conflict with others and the world; even are divided in our own selves. Furthermore, Mind influenced by the lower vital nature, including our needs, desires, and egoistic preferences hardens this view, further separating ourselves from the inherent Oneness of existence.

There is an analogy: Mind can view the different shadings and colors of the rainbow, which is a good thing, but then harps on one or several of the colors, favoring it, losing touch with the entire spectrum of existence.

On the other hand, the spiritual mind of silence, light, and intuition tends to embrace Other, all things; not judging, opinionating and taking a stand. It is inclusive, Holistic in outlook; not divided. It accepts others' viewpoints, the various truths of any matter, not just one's own perspective.

Also when we move to our deeper Self within, this harmonic relation with the world increases, as we look out on the world as Silent Witness and pure Being; whereas living on the surface of life reinforces the ego view, the separative consciousness that is divided from the totality of existence, the Reality, the All.

Cause & Cure of Illness

Illness is caused by an individual's short or long-term negative attitudes, habits, beliefs, expressions, etc. that attract corresponding negative forces from the field of life that subconsciously penetrate an opening or weak point in the subtle physical protective sheath of the body, thereby negatively affecting particular organs, tissues, fluids etc. that is enhanced by fear and is devoid of spiritual protection.

The cure for illness is remain calm, be patient, stay positive and cheerful, and continually call to the Mother Force, while reversing the negative psychological cause (attitude, belief, habit, etc.) that attracted the illness in the first place. The balance of energies that were disturbed will then be restored, and health will blossom.

Reader: But what if a baby has some illness they don't have any negative attitude or habit

Response: It can come from the parents consciousness, other members of the family, the surrounding general atmosphere, etc. etc. in which there are negative feelings, vibrations, etc. circulating. (By the way, even babies genetically inherit negative propensities from their parents, grandparents, etc.) There can also be karmic influences from past lives, etc.

No Title

Opinions are many; Truth a lonely orphan.

No Title

Yoga (conscious evolution) is the shift from struggle life to surrendered life.

No Title

In yoga you patiently live as if you had all eternity to accomplish, while doing those things inwardly that integrally and rapidly attract the future into the present.

Further comment: This is a personal challenge Karmayogi has given me.

Mother's Startling Experiences of Time Shift

As explained in Agenda, Mother would sometimes stop and stare for a moment or two, and then tell Satprem that She had actually gone through hours of experience in that time period. Conversely, She would stare for 20 minutes and then indicate that only a few seconds had actually gone by for Her. Mother in these and many other situations was living beyond the normal bounds of time, indicating that we have the capacity to do the same.

Reader: Time and space is the perpetual zones to explore. Now is actually related by the Mind Equation towards infinite. Thank you

Response: wow!

No Title

Often before we can catch the Big Fish, we need to embrace the practical smaller ones demanded by life. That gives us the solid foundation, strength, and security for our larger endeavors.

No Title

We must have a great deal of patience and a very wide and very complex vision to understand how things work. (The Mother)

Further comment: Sri Karmayogi revealing all of life's laws from every conceivable angle has helped immensely in fulfilling Mother's requirement.

No Title

The manifestation of the Supramental upon earth is no more a promise but a living fact, a reality. It is at work here, and one day will come when the most blind, the most unconscious, even the most unwilling shall be obliged to recognize it. (The Mother)

Further comment: This is Mother's well-known and very powerful remark that vibrates through our time. It is the single great key to the evolution.

No Title

Do not legitimize the normal material laws of the body's existence. The Supramental can alter them in a moment. (paraphrase of the Mother)

Reader: Kindly explain in detail PLEASE... I am trying to understand this in particular. Thank you.

Response: In life we normally believe in the obvious cause and effect. If this happens, then that must happen. If that occurred, then it was caused by this. But in Supramental life we see subtle cause and effects that bring us to a far greater awareness of than the normal dynamic. We see subtle causes that brought about a result, such as a person's positive or negative attitude, or the effect of the atmosphere of the surrounding people and community, or the effect of the spiritual Force.

In other words, we perceive the laws of life response and their power to attract events. The causality has shifted from the seemingly rational to the subtle.

When we open to the Mother's Force, the conditions can be quickly rearranged. You expect such and such to occur at a meeting, but then you consecrate it, and when you arrive the conditions are completely different. Where is the normal cause and effect dynamic? It is out the window! One has shifted from the Logic of the Finite to the Logic of the Infinite through Mother, and through other positive reversals of consciousness we have made.

Reader: Thank you very much Sir.. Of course to be able to Live The Supramental Life, one needs to Reverse the (Finite) Belief System installed by the Society... and that's like changing our Nature....I am unable to do that. Therefore I take refuge in The Mother and CONSECRATE the negative thoughts that try to convince me about the cause and effect theory you were talking about. Of course perceiving the Laws of Life Response and following the Principles with COMPLETE FAITH will change even the most negative conditions, to be FAVOURABLETHEREFORE, what helps us transcend from this ordinary Life to the Supramental Life is THIS INTEGRAL FAITH. Hence it all starts with FAITH. Am I Right??

Response: Yes. The more faith we have, the more we consecrate, and the more we consecrate, the more faith we develop. Either way, through that orientation we increasingly perceive the subtle signs around us, the subtle causality behind things, and are thus able to apply the right subtle method that evoke the instantaneous positive response. This IS supramental life.

On How We Waste Our Energy

Human beings don't know how to keep energy. When something happens - an accident or an illness, for example - and they ask for help, a double or a triple dose of energy is sent. If they happen to be receptive, they receive it. This energy is given for two reasons: to restore order out of the disorder caused by the accident or illness, and to impart a transformative force to repair or change the source of the illness or accident.

But instead of using the energy in this way, they immediately throw it out. They start stirring about, reacting, working, speaking ... They feel full of energy and they throw it all out! They can't keep anything. So naturally, since the energy was not sent to be wasted like that but for an inner use, they feel absolutely flat, run down. And it is universal. They don't know, they do not know how to make this movement - to turn within, to use the energy (not to keep it, it doesn't keep), to use it to repair the damage done to the body and to go deeply within to find the reason for this accident or illness, and there to change it by an aspiration, an inner transformation. Instead of that, right away they start speaking, stirring about, reacting, doing this or that!

In fact, the immense majority of human beings feel they are living only when they waste their energy. Otherwise, it does not seem to them to be life.

Not to waste energy means to utilize it towards the ends for which it was given. If energy is given for the transformation, for the sublimation of the being, it must be used for that; if energy is given to restore something that has been disrupted in the body, it must be used for that.

Naturally, if a special work is given to someone along with the energy to do this work, it's very good as long as it is being used towards the end for which it was given.

But as soon as a man feels energetic, he immediately rushes into action. Or else, those who don't have the sense of doing something useful start gossiping. And still worse, those who have no control over themselves become intolerant and start arguing! If someone contradicts their will, they feel full of energy and they mistake that for a 'godlike wrath!' (the Mother, from Agenda July 21, 1958)

Reader: Talking in loud tone is also a sheer waste of energy, besides being annoying to others

Response: Yes, very true. We tell companies and people to reduce the loudness of their voice, as well as keeping words expressed to a minimum, which builds up positive energy that attracts positive conditions such as company near failure turning around to success, success, sudden influx of money from out of nowhere. etc.

No Title

The purpose of difficulties is to make our realizations more perfect. (the Mother)

No Title

Sri Aurobindo says that as you progress you become more universalized, and thus you take on the burdens of others and the world. (the Mother)

No Title

For me sadhana consists in loving the Divine more and more integrally, more and more absolutely, with a love so total that it leads to identification. (The Mother)

Thanks to RV

Response: "Identification" means being one with, no separation with something; here with the Divine. It is Mother coming into complete Identity with the Supreme.

Why Are We Here?

Here are several spirit-oriented explanations of why we are here:

-We are here because our psychic being, our evolving Soul has entered this body so it can continue on its multi-birth journey to Integral Knowledge and Consciousness through our personal experiences.

-We are here to realize our highest consciousness, and aid in the transformation of ourselves, as well as the world in the evolutionary process.

-The Divine created this universe out of itself, extended Itself, so that infinite forms like us can also become Creators of infinite possibility as well. We are here so each of us can create infinitely just like the Source, but each in our own unique way.

-We are here to express the spiritual attributes of Silence, Oneness, Truth, Knowledge, Goodness, Creativity, Love, Delight, Timelessness and Infinity in our life, which are the attributes of the Source consciousness Itself.

-There is a Transcendent Purpose and Intent that is fulfilled through unfoldings in the Universal plane, itself through the actions and experiences of Individuals who have discovered their true spiritual Individuality and Self

-We are here to reunite the Consciousness and Force which were separated in the Involutionary process on the way to creation.

-Others?

No Title

The true Spiritual applied to life brings out the very best of the physical, vital, and mental.

No Title

The inner-oriented individual takes responsibility for the conditions he finds himself in, while the outer-oriented person blames any number of perceived deficiencies of the world.

Reader: Dear uncle, could you explain with some example ? Pls. Uncle Mainly How do we differentiate or identify inner and outer oriented person?

Response: [Situation]

Response from Inner vs Outer individual

[I am currently poor.]

It is my fault and responsibility vs It's the world's fault.

[My project went wrong.]

I made foolish decisions. vs They botched it up.

[Spouse is agitated.]

I will be calm and not react vs Why do you act so crazy?

Reader: Mother's Grace Thanks Uncle Is it meaning as

'Let Thy will be done not my will'

Then We do our best and let us surrender to Mother be continue with calm to progress

Am I saying correctly?

Response: The more you consecrate life activities, situations, take other person's point of view, move to mental silence, etc. the more the center of consciousness moves deeper within, and the more you tend to embrace life conditions as yours - not others - to improve or resolve.

No Title

Airports are gateways into other physical realities. Mother and Her Force is a gateway into other spiritual realities; actually all realities guided by Spirit.

No Title

Stale, outworn habits tether us to the past, blocking our brighter future.

No Title

The more you remain positive and cheerful, taking full responsibility in consciousness when another party has provided deficient resources under a contract agreement or such, unexpected new resources tend to suddenly present themselves.

Accelerating Inequality in America

75% of the wealth of US is shared by 30 million inhabitants. Remaining 300 million people share the other 25%. (And this trend is accelerating.) This is opposite of what the ratios were previously. This makes the country ripe for mass protest and insurrection.

Reader: This revolution is going to happen in India too but for different reasons because total absence of law enforcement. Big crime makers totally escape from punishment in this country.

Response: Perhaps.

No Title

In India the revolution will come if the 600 million only making 30 rupees a day get fed up and organize in the street demanding improvement.

Reader: Already land is very scarce and building own house is a Himalayan task.

Response: Yes. India has four times the population and half the land of USA.

India is also in the process of urbanizing into big cities, which is a positive sign of being more aware, educated, and sophisticated.

Reader: With a positive spiritual background perhaps India stands on a different plane

No Title

In the 1970s the Mother said communism and capitalism would come to an end. Communism ended and everyone was shocked. Not Mother. It is now capitalism's turn. That system almost ended in 2007 with the extreme financial crisis. Uncontrolled financial speculation and overwhelming wealth concentrated in the hands of a very few sets the stage. The change can happen peacefully, like the end of communism, or through insurrection like the French Revolution.

A Human-centered economics can be an important step on the way to the coming Spirit-oriented Age of Humanity. It can emerge peacefully, replacing capitalism, which is on the verge of teetering, with something great that can serve man.

Reader: I wish to know why not the present leaders try to correct the system there. As the saying goes "Where wealth accumulates men decay"

Response: Leaders do not know what to do. If the people revolt or the system implodes then the leaders (of both parties) will be compelled to stand up and take action. Even then, the leaders may not know what to do.

No Title

The values of the world have to change. "Every man for himself" in a dog eat dog jungle environment that capitalism has become has to give way to collaboration.

Also the problem, (including its other various forms like high unemployment, stagnant wages, debt, et al) is really a Global problem. Only global collaboration through strong initiatives can fully save the system; or instead build a new, Human-based one. That's what my colleagues at MSS and their contacts are working on.

Reader: I think the present democratic system compels the leaders to 'adjust to everyone.'

To Be Titled

The truest expression comes out of an absolute Inner Silence. (Sri Aurobindo)

To Be Titled

A relatively small negative occurrence in one area will often indicate a much greater one to come in a different sphere. However, if we catch it, perceive the potential connection, remain still and consecrate the initial small negative, offering it to the Mother and Her Force, the much greater difficult circumstance will tend not to manifest.

To Be Titled

The world is but a spark-burst from its light
All moments flashes from its Timelessness
All objects glimmerings of the Bodyless
That disappear from Mind when That is seen
(from Savitri by Sri Aurobindo)

To Be Titled

From out of Silence, from the Vision of a "Silent Witness" came the infinite universe. So too we can take to a still and silent heart and mind, enabling infinite abundance to manifest around us.

Focusing On Something Intensely Attracts More Of It

When you intensely focus your thoughts on a matter, more of it comes streaming back to you, often in the form of unexpected new developments.

An instructor intensely discussed a media technology he had used for years with several of his students. He hadn't thought of the item in months; plus there had been little technological advances on it in a very long time. The next morning when he opened his favorite tech news site, he was astonished to see this little-reported technology as the lead story, and how it was about to take a huge technological advance for the user!

To Be Titled

One of the key qualities of a great leader is to stay positive in all aspects of his being: from the inner feelings of the heart to the outer visage on one's face.

Forgetting Problem Brings Solution

Often the best way to solve a problem is to forget about it. Then the answer comes. E.g. you have a pressing work issue involving calculations. You have tried hard to solve it, but without success. But then you put it aside. In fact, you forget it. The next morning when you awake, the answer is right there in the mind. You try it out and it works perfectly.

What has happened is that the subconscious has been working on resolving it on your behalf. Or another way of putting it is that because the mind has been stilled, it has become an empty vessel, allowing the intuition of the necessary knowledge to enter from the universal field in the period you have forgotten the matter.

This too can be considered one expression of the "life response," sudden good fortune phenomenon.

To Be Titled

When one opens to Mother and perceives Her Force operating in our daily lives, all the ordinary, fixed laws of life seem rather pale in comparison, as the supramental power overcomes any limits of nature, setting right all conditions in a thrice.

To Be Titled

If you are depressed you are living in the past.

If you are anxious you are living in the future.

If you are at peace you are living in the present.

(Lao Tzu)

To Be Titled

When you go the extra mile for a party such as a client, other seemingly unrelated things that were moving slowly or were in limbo will suddenly move faster or unexpectedly get completed earlier than expected. It is the life response power of making the extra effort and self-givingness together in action.

Life Response Power of Perfection & Multi-Tasking

Life responds to perfection in a work. When there is the necessary intent, the goal envisioned, the work executed with emotion, skill, and right attitudes, we are well on the way to perfection. This is called "The Complete Act" by Sri Karmayogi.

However, perfection also requires one to measure all of the factors and develop a scale of perfection for each. When one reaches the upper ends of the scale for every factor in that work, perfection is near. Life responds overwhelmingly; even from the smallest work.

And yet when we try to do too many things at once, such as different activities at the same time, we tend to chase away perfection, as each thing never has the opportunity to mature into perfection. It is because we lose the necessary concentration to make original act perfect. Thus, life tends not to respond, as acts become diffused, releasing little energy that can attract corresponding good fortune from the field of life.

Perfection thus requires an all-intensive concentration to engage in a Complete Act in which all of the mitigating factors have reached the high-end of the scale. Now life responds overwhelmingly, as we have reached the supramental plane of perfect perfection.

Behind everything in life there is an Absolute, which that thing is seeking after in its own way; everything finite is striving to express an infinite which it feels to be its real truth. (Sri Aurobindo)

Further comment: This is such a profound statement about the nature of existence and its ultimate purpose and potential.

To Be Titled

Sri Aurobindo asks us to live in the ever-Present, where we have access to the necessary information and energy from past, present, and future in the Eternal Now. By living in the depths of the True Self, the evolving soul within, we have access to this extraordinary time-embracing experience and power.

Non-Reaction to Newspaper Article Contents Attracts

If you refrain from reacting to another individual's obviously uniformed and distorted viewpoint, you often discover a short time after that this individual comes around and expresses changed views that are much more in accordance with your own.

Eg a newspaper journalist had consistently shown bias against a certain region of the state and country in his articles. A reader of the online paper read the obviously incorrect assertions in the article, but was able to keep his emotions intact and also avoided responding with a comment. He just smiled and moved on to other matters.

Several weeks later that same author presented a new article where he greatly admired that very same region he had earlier disparaged. By being still in the heart and mind, the reader attracted the author coming around to his point of view. It is the Life Response power of "Non-reaction" in action.

To Be Titled

Fear has its roots in undivine forces, so we must do everything we can to prevent its occurrence, enabling the further descent of the divine in our lives. Going within and discovering a deeper center, stilling the heart, and having faith in the Higher Power/the Mother are essential counterbalances to fear.

To Be Titled

What keeps life fascinating is the constant creativity of the soul. (Deepak Chopra)

Further comment: When we move our consciousness to the deepest parts within, culminating in the True Self and Soul, the Psychic Being, the doors open to infinite inspiration and creativity. Constant consecration, opening to the supramental force, to the Mother will bring us there, unleashing a torrent of imagined possibility.

To Be Titled

90% of what I personally report in this forum has their roots in the principles of Sri Karmayogi or variations thereof.

To Be Titled

Surrender to what is. Say 'yes' to life—and see how life suddenly starts working for you rather than against you. (Eckhart Tolle)

Further comment: If you continually accept what life is putting before you, -- instead of being aloof from it, or rejecting it, or wanting something else, or in general being unwilling to embrace it -- good fortune will be your never-ending companion, catapulting you to the stars. This has been the very real, and quite startling and dramatic experience of those who have followed this subtle yet powerful principle of life.

To Be Titled

The supramental by its very definition is the Truth - Consciousness, Truth in possession of itself and fulfilling itself by its own power. (Sri Aurobindo)

Further comment: The Supramental, which is the Force we open to when we self-offer circumstance to Mother is not just the integral knowledge, the full Truth of that thing or matter or condition, but it is also the power of it to manifest itself as real in the world - doing so suddenly, unexpectedly, integrally, magnificently, perfectly.

To Be Titled

Another person's uncommunicated hostility and anger can be experienced as a sudden deep fear in one's self in regard to a related area.

To Be Titled

One rule Mother gives is the greater the difficulties, the greater the opportunities. (Sri Karmayogi)

To Be Titled

When a sincere Mother devotee gives the required minimum attention to a problem -- such as a non-functioning machine -- that entity tends to quickly "self-heal."

To Be Titled

A positive opening that can take one to another plane of accomplishment, consciousness, etc. is often opposed by a suddenly-rising external force or party.

To Be Titled

We are vulnerable to the ill-will of others at certain points in our being based on the situations we currently find ourselves in.

To Be Titled

There are fanatic Muslim fundamentalists in Pakistan because there are fanatic Hindu ones in India. And vice versa. Life is a mirror of our attitudes and beliefs. It is the law of Inner-Outer correspondence in action.

To Be Titled

Mother and Her supramental Force ended the Cold War. Various devotees collaborated in that process.

To Be Titled

Supramental (i.e. Truth) consciousness is one level higher than Overmental. Supramental -- Unity consciousness -- created the universe and is the Force we open to through Mother's that sets right all life conditions. Overmental is universal consciousness of Krishna and the Gods that is also great, but has the first signs of division and duality. (This God is unaware of another's power and purpose.) In Supermind all is integrally known about a matter or thing, with an added power for its tendency to manifest as real in the world. Sri Aurobindo and Mother embraced Overmind, but then sought to go beyond it, which is what they discovered in Supermind, which they brought down into the earth's atmosphere for all of us to access and thereby evoke its miraculous power.

To Be Titled

When we are of a higher consciousness and realize we don't have time to do a work and consciously put it aside, often to our amazement someone out of the blue will step forward and do it for us.

To Be Titled

In addition to any obvious ones, there are always subtle signs presenting themselves of what should take priority in our work and activities. Following those signs will always lead to great success.

To Be Titled

When life continuously comes to you with good fortune, providing wonders from all sides, when you hardly have a chance to think, then you know you are on the supramental path.

To Be Titled

As you rise in consciousness, your choices, view of things, and such are increasingly borne out by future events.

To Be Titled

"Romantic love endeavours to please the other on the other's terms, not on our terms."

Further comment: True Love is only giving; expecting nothing in return.

To Be Titled

The yogi moves life from within, not from the outside.

To Be Titled

90% of the problems of the world can be solved collectively; by working together. But Man insists on solving things locally, alone; in isolation. It cannot be solved that way as the individual problems are too big for any country to resolve; as the issues span many if not all nations. The evolution of the world requires this decisive step of global cooperation and collaboration.

For this to happen, each nation needs to give up its Ego to begin the cooperative process. Sri Aurobindo says all problems in life are problems of harmony (not of resources, or capacity, and the like). Harmony between the nations to work collectively to solve all of the political, economic, and social problems is the great global step that awaits us in the evolution of humanity.

To Be Titled

Life is continually attempting to penetrate the chinks in our physical, vital, and mental armor, which we experience as challenges and problems at that level. It is Nature's (Prakriti's) slow and difficult method of progress. And yet, if we are conscious in our being, we can identify the chinks within ourselves and change them before difficulties arise, or consecrate them when they do come to fruition so they fully disappear. This is the way of progress through Spirit or Soul (Purusha).

To Be Titled

Only Mother and Her Force can expedite a complex situation, resolving it into simplicity and perfection.

To Be Titled

True Love is only giving; expecting nothing in return.

Conception -- Perception -- Realization

For most, these inspirational thoughts are mostly at the level of conception; i.e. they are simply inspiring ideas. A level up is Perception of the idea through real life experiences of the inspiration. E.g. you have had several real life experiences in which you have evoked a life response in this area. Realization is a further and ultimate stage. It is the spontaneous expression of one's being of a principle in our moment to moment lives. There we have fully embodied it in our nature, as it is second nature to express this inner or outer behavior. The idea has now manifest fully as real. Thus Conception -- Perception -- Realization is the scale of fully realizing a given idea or truth in life.

To Be Titled

Global cooperation requires not only harmony of purpose but a deep knowledge of the areas under consideration from a variety of points of view, so the best solutions can be devised and implemented. The world thus needs integral approaches for solving so many global problems like unemployment, lack of skills, poor education, stagnant wages, poverty, debt, disease, terrorism, weapons proliferation, environmental degradation, etc. etc. Integral solutions would need to be devised for each area that spans the globe. Single nations cannot develop them on their own as it is too overwhelming for them to solve by themselves. The earth is one body, and requires the involvement of all the parties in taking the society forward. This - collaboration and integral solution blossoming into human unity -- was Sri Aurobindo's dream; a necessary stage he envisioned for the further evolution of humanity.

To Be Titled

Idealism alone cannot bring about the solutions to life challenges and problems. One must also be aware of the practical realities on the ground. The integration of the two will powerfully move life forward.

To Be Titled

Life response is occurring more frequently, actually accelerating, not only because people are more conscious, are increasingly overcoming negative attitudes, are more often consecrating events, etc. -- i.e. a movement of "Ascent" -- but because the supramental power (Mother's Force) itself is densifying in the atmosphere in an ever-increasing Descent.

To Be Titled

When people get personally abusive in their conversation, such as in an online dialogue, their argument no matter how true will tend to lose its validity and power.

Reader: Can you explain further sir.

Response: When someone is argumentative, the idea he is trying to get across will tend not to persuade others as it is clouded over by emotion. Also life does not respond positively to it. In fact, negative response, conditions are likely to follow.

To Be Titled

Irritation and impatience often go together. Patience rooted in inner serenity can be a powerful antidote.

Reader: In one of karmayogi Appa's writing, he mentions "Irritation is incompetency". Recollected

Response: Yes, irritation is often due to one's incapacity or incompetency. One does not know what to do, or is powerless, or is lacking in the necessary knowledge, or is disappointed, or is outraged by others' behavior and cannot do anything about it, etc.

Perfection In Work

Life responds overwhelmingly to perfection in a work. When there is the necessary intention, the goal envisioned, the work executed with emotion, skill, and right attitudes, we are well on the way to perfection. This is called "The Complete Act" by Sri Karmayogi. Good fortune is almost certain to follow. This can be said to be the vertical view.

Perfection also requires one to measure all of the mitigating factors and develop a scale of perfection for each. This is the horizontal view. When one reaches the upper ends of the scale for each success factor in the work, perfection is near. Life can respond overwhelmingly; even from the smallest work. It is because Perfection energizes the supramental plane (Mother's Force), which is the Truth consciousness, where all things are perfectly blended.

To Be Titled

Aspiration for perfection in one's daily life can be fulfilled by reviewing, correcting, consecrating every negative movement one has made in the course of the day. The life response reward will be in proportion to the depth of our sincerity and feelings.

To Be Titled

When we try to do too many things at once, different activities at the same time, we tend to chase away perfection, as the original act never has the opportunity to reach its full potential. By multi-tasking, we lose the necessary concentration to make the act perfect. It becomes diffused and as a result releases little of the energy that attracts good or great fortune.

To Be Titled

Irritation turns to anger when raw emotions and feelings get the best of us. It is the loss of the mental component, substituting uncontrolled vital sensation.

To Be Titled

An individual with a deep-seated consciousness will tend to perceive irritation when it arises and therefore have the wherewithal to control it. Positive conditions will likely follow.

To Be Titled

Subconscious ill-will can cause one to make misstatements or otherwise engage in errors related to that party.

Example: A highly respected technology commentator and media personality had harbored a long term grudge against a major tech company for not inviting him to their major rollout events. Though he continued to use their products and admired the technology involved, over a period of time he made a number of predictions about the company that turned out to be absolutely false. Being a good and self-reflective man, he even professed shame about his mis-statements on the air. Because he harbored subconscious ill-will toward the company, he developed negative urges that took shape in the form of wrong predications about that firm. Had he been more conscious of his ill-will and shed it, life would not have presented him with the opportunities to make his erroneous assertions.

To Be Titled

If you intensely express a negative attitude or feeling, it is likely that soon after one or more small or significant things will go wrong.

Eg in Pride and Prejudice Eliza Bennett is bitterly disappointed that Mr. Wickham has not come to the party, as he is someone she has a crush on. As a result everything after at the gathering goes wrong for her. Her sister's miserable playing and singling becomes unbearable for those gathered, Mr. Collins her cousin acts foolishly in front of important people, and others. The evening thus becomes a complete disaster for Eliza. Had she calmed herself and held in check her feelings of disappointment, many of these things could have been avoided. Her uncontrolled vital attitude of anguish had unloosed these negative events.

In another case a woman was jealous that her rival won a cherished prize at a Christmas party for her company. Not two minutes after, she learned of some disturbing news about her son.

To Be Titled

The deeper you go within, culminating in your True Self and Soul, the less likely you are to engage in separative ego movements, and the more likely you are to experience unity and mutuality with others.

To Be Titled

Often a particular event will suddenly trigger the simultaneous occurrences of related circumstance.

Eg someone makes a request of you to use your presentation, and suddenly thoughts come pouring into one's mind about another presentation due, or one notices an error on one's website on that very topic that you now thankfully have the opportunity to correct, or one receives an unexpected call on this matter from another person whom you haven't heard from in years, etc. It as if the first circumstance came not only to fulfill a request but to get your attention about the others. It's a subtle working of life.

To Be Titled

Every societal disaster when taken in the right spirit offers the opportunity to improve the conditions of the world.

On Self-Reliance, Non-Dependency of Grace

Life in general does not encourage depending on others to get things for oneself. The regular and well-formed habit [in India] of asking other family members to secure grace for oneself may be advantageous materially but spiritually harmful in the sense that it does not allow one's faith to grow. Such people are requested to wake up at least at this point and take charge of their own affairs and build up the faith required to restore their health. Self-reliance always helps whether it is money matters, carrier matters or family matters. This is true of spiritual matters also. One does not have to pay a huge price in terms of one's health to learn this common sense rule. Help offered can be accepted but the policy of habitually seeking help or demanding help can only be counterproductive. (N. Asokan, MSS)

Through Intuition Comes New Knowledge

Kant observed, "All human knowledge begins with intuitions, proceeds from thence to concepts, and ends with ideas." Einstein stated it this way: "The intellect has little to do on the road to discovery. There comes a leap in consciousness, call it intuition or what you will, and the solution comes to you and you don't know why or how." (Garry Jacobs & others, Cadmus Journal)

Further comment: Intuition is to garner a knowledge of or a solution for something without having to think about it. It just appears in the mind complete. Einstein and Ramanujan had occasional intimations of it. For Sri Aurobindo it was His modus operandi of garnering wisdom and perceiving the truths of life.

We can develop the intuitive capacity by regular consecration, self-offering to the Mother which deepens the consciousness that in turns opens the mind to the higher, spiritual planes of mind, including intuition.

To Be Titled

As global problems accelerate beyond the bounds of a single entity, the need for nations, regions, continents to increasingly and seriously cooperate looms.

To Be Titled

When you remove your mind from a stressful situation, life quickly begins to work in your favor.

To Be Titled

The Creator wishes each of us to become ultimate creators, thereby fulfilling His mission in Creation.

To Be Titled

Accepting everything that comes our way is to be one with the Reality.

To Be Titled

When a Mother devotee refrains from engaging the mind, the Grace tends to descend into his life.

To Be Titled

There are no final, absolute outcomes in life. There is only change.

To Be Titled

As we see, we devotees and others are engaged in what Sri Aurobindo calls an "Adventure of Consciousness." We are so very lucky to be taking an active part in that evolutionary movement.

To Be Titled

Key to success in a pressurized situation is practicing detachment of thoughts and emotions; i.e. cultivating a silent mind and a calm heart. As a result, life will now tend to work out smoothly in your favor.

To Be Titled

In fact, from the depths within, our natural state is to continually feel harmony with others and with life, so there is far less chance our separative consciousness in the form of ego, anger, fear, etc. will occur.

Yoga (conscious evolution) is the process of developing our deepest poise (of the Soul) so that none of the wanting qualities of human nature present themselves. Taking to Sri Karmayogi's methods of the devotee listed above is an interim step, which will ordinarily be enormously effective.

To Be Titled

Cast aside any adversarial feelings towards others in your being. Offer them to Mother so they never return.

Consciousness Approach to Anger

Anger is a primal reaction and can only be controlled by an equally powerful force of self-control. It is like an explosion of bright light that envelops you and takes control of your being. There is little power we ordinarily have to gain the upper hand. Only a re-orientation of the nature can bring about the power to control an outburst when it occurs.

So perhaps the more important question is not be so much how to control anger when it arises but how to prevent it from arising in the first place.

For devotees, if one is constantly opening to the Mother and Her Force, continually taking the other person's point of view no matter what, and practicing non-reaction to people's intensities, then anger will occur far less often.

Over time, taking to these methods has the effect of deepening the poise, and therefore one is far less reactive, or if one does react and takes to anger, irritability, and the like, then one is able to recognize it as it arises and handle it better.

In fact, from the depths within, our natural state is to continually feel harmony with others and with life, so there is far less chance our separative consciousness in the form of ego, anger, fear, etc. will occur.

Yoga (conscious evolution) is the process of developing our deepest poise (of the Soul) so that none of the wanting qualities of human nature present themselves. Taking to Sri Karmayogi's methods of the devotee listed above is an interim step, which will ordinarily be enormously effective.

To Be Titled

When you accept all possibilities, including those things that are counter to your interests, life returns the favor and gives you what you really want.

To Be Titled

I continue to engage in experiments in changing the outcome of real time events in society from within, with a handful of dramatic successes. The key is to bring to bear the right behavior of consciousness for that particular changing situation. E.g. recently the acceptance of any possible outcome as well as silencing all thoughts have proven to be two powerful levers, especially when working in tandem.

To Be Titled

A surface view of a situation often leads to a surface opinion about it that is invariably riddled with error.

Overcoming Computer Problem through Spirit

(reader) "I was struggling with our PC at Mirra for the past 30 min, and it could not be started at all. I tried all possibilities using the recovery procedures with my little knowledge, but it was in vain.... I then tried calling our PC Technician but his line was busy and never returned my call... My stupid brain never commanded me to call the Spirit, the Divine Mother.

Just a few minutes ago I realized that core spiritual method, and called Mother by closing my eyes and chanted the mantra "If this she....." I recited the mantra about 5 times. When I then opened my eyes, I saw the PC with Mother looking at me in the Desktop background which was now reset!"

To Be Titled

A combination of each member expressing true individuality in their work and each losing themselves in the needs of the team evokes great fortune for the organization.

The Individual and the Collective

The individual and the collective evolve in tandem. The collective imparts its acquired capacities to its members. The emerging individual acts as a catalyst to spur further development of the collective.

(from abstract of article 'The Conscious Individual' by N. Asokan of MSS; slight paraphrase)

Further comment: Eg Steve Jobs is born into a solid middle class environment in America, where he can explore the possibilities of developing a personal computer for the masses. He does so at Apple, is very successful, and the computer revolution is born. It takes a further step with the smartphones, et al. which he also spurs. The society gave him the opportunity to create, he used his genius to develop something of great utility, which in turn helped spur the further development of the society/collective (through use of the technological tools he spawned).

Emergence of the Conscious Individual

There has been an evolutionary development of human consciousness in the form of an increasingly complex and sophisticated organization of human personality; from the instinctive behavior of the animal and the subconscious conformity characteristic of early forms of human civilization, through progressive stages of transition from physical to social to mental levels of awareness; from the undifferentiated social consciousness of the member of the tribe to the emergence of independent thinking, creativity and uniqueness, which characterize the Conscious Individual.

(from abstract of article 'The Conscious Individual' by N. Asokan of MSS; slight paraphrase)

Conscious Individual & World Problems

The individual must become conscious in order for the society to follow. For the conscious individual, there is no problem in the world too difficult to solve. Rather the conscious individual will discover opportunities all around.

(from 'The Conscious Individual' by N. Asokan of MSS)

To Be Titled

Americans do not seem to have any substantive knowledge about the culture, events, and goings on in India; and vice versa. It is as if the nations exist in separate universes. Bridging the gap and turning the contradictions between the two into complementarities will be a fascinating thing to observe in the coming decades. I believe the further progress of humanity depends on it.

To Be Titled

As an organization, business, association, sports team, etc. goes through great adversity yet is able to rise to the top, it has acquired a profound life knowledge which it can far more easily apply in future iterations involving similar conditions. It now garners a knowledge that others do not have, unless they take the time to closely observe and practice the unique capacities that the first org has passed through and realized. We can see this as one process that society goes through in its development. Education then becomes one way to internalize the new knowledge for all.

GJ responds: I fully agree with your perception. Everyone fails. Not everyone learns from their experience. Learning from experience is the essence of wisdom and high accomplishment. Much of this learning can be institutionalized and passed on to future generations.

Reader: Learning through experience is the key.

Response: Yes. And learning through others' experience (education) makes that much easier.

Reader: Learning through others experience gets benefits for us and saves us from sustaining wounds in the learning process.

Response: Yes, very true. It relates to why Karmayogi is fond of saying that "education is the yoga of the collective;" that passes on wisdom to the recipient, facilitating progress. That includes the subtle, inner powers that lead one to success, which awaits education in future.

To Be Titled

Virtually all physical illnesses have psychological causes. Mother says it is 95%. Therefore if we discover the psychological limitations of our being -- in terms of poor attitudes, habits, beliefs, etc. -- and reverse it, the body will quickly heal itself.

Garry Jacobs Speaking At Oxford on Global Education

World University Consortium was invited to present its vision of the future of global higher education to an international assembly of university leaders at the Oxford Summit of Leaders in Oxford, UK on October 13-14, 2014. In his address, Garry Jacobs (CEO, World Academy of Art and Science & World University Consortium) highlighted the need for a new paradigm in higher education to address the multidimensional global challenges and the unprecedented intellectual, economic, social, technological and organization capacities now available to humanity. New paradigms in knowledge are achieved by unifying phenomenon that were previously considered separate and independent, as Maxwell unified electricity and magnetism and Einstein unified matter and energy. There is urgent need for leadership in thought and action to bridge the gulf between the university and the society, to unifying teaching with active learning, and the unifying theory in the social sciences with the realities of social life. Jacobs called for revolutionary ideas commensurate with the revolutionary social forces now acting to shape the future of education. Leadership in education is needed to provide educational leadership to society.

Synchronicity of Thought

When multiple parties in separate places scattered long distant apart have the same thought or express the same idea without anything obvious connecting them materially or otherwise, it is an indication that knowledge traverses the plane of Mind and those individuals have tuned into it through their common interests. Or we can say that due to a certain densification that particular knowledge presses down from the plane of Mind causing several parties to experience it simultaneously. This is sometimes referred to as synchronicity or parallelism, which is one expression of the phenomenon of Life Response in action.

Further comment: It is interesting to note that Sri Aurobindo's first great spiritual experience was to fully realize that all thoughts come from the outside, not inside, which led to utter stillness in His mind that lasted the remainder of His life.

To Be Titled

Subconscious disdain of another party instigates surface errors and mistakes in relation to them on our part.

Reader: Exactly. Mutual deeper understanding or rather accepting the existence of others is a wiser approach. Most of us try to eliminate others or those we do not like from our world but the soul flowers because of them is not understood. If we note many degrees and elevation in status got that kick from those who pricked our ego and not those who fanned us. Maturity of mind comes with age or education. But more with understanding our own life experiences.

Response: Very true and eloquent.

To Be Titled

Irritation is impatient helplessness.

To Be Titled

Sri Aurobindo's first great spiritual experience was to fully realize that all thoughts come from the outside, not inside, which led to the utter stillness in His mind that lasted the remainder of His life.

Further comment: He imparted that Silence on Mother in one minute on the day they first met when She sat at his feet.

The Essence of Diwali

The celebration of Diwali as the "victory of good over evil" refers to the light of higher knowledge dispelling all ignorance, the ignorance that masks one's true nature; not as the body, but as the spirit immanent within us, and the infinite, transcendent reality that encompasses all things.

With this awakening comes compassion and the awareness of the oneness of ourselves with others and the world.

Diwali is thus the celebration of this Inner Light over darkness, knowledge over ignorance, right over wrong, good over evil, harmony over ego, spiritual self over surface being, joy over suffering.

(with some help from Wikipedia)

To Be Titled

The mind must become silent in order to let the Supramental Consciousness take its place. (the Mother)

Comment: Yes, the silence not only allows the supramental Force to bring us the necessary integral Knowledge and understanding of anything or any situation, but it alter conditions of the world around us for our and others' benefit. When the thoughts are out of the way this dual dynamic of supermind has a clear pathway to unfold. It is one of the keys to successfully navigating conscious evolution/integral yoga for ourselves and the world.

To Be Titled

Most of us try to eliminate those we do not like from our world. However, we do not understand that the soul flowers BECAUSE of them. We should realize that many degrees and elevation in status we received came from those who pricked our ego, and not those who fanned it. (DK)

Reader: Actually we grow as better persons by the criticisms of others.

Response: Yes, very true; if we adhere to their criticisms. We also grow through the long-term goodwill and support of others.

Further comment: D's original post above, which I have paraphrased, is magnificent.

To Be Titled

In 95% of the repeating acts we engage in we take the same basic approach as before ad infinitum back in time. Do we ever stop to pause and consider executing a repetitive act in a fresh, new way, thereby releasing positive energy that attracts good fortune from life? Let's be more conscious during our day, and pause to reflect on how we can perform the next upcoming repeating act better -- perhaps with a new approach, or with a better or deeper understanding, or with more enthusiasm, or with greater dexterity and skill. The process and the likely life response/sudden good fortune outcome will be revealing!

Reader: Thank u sir. Reading the technique itself gives joy. Will implement during the day

To Be Titled

If you don't insist, to the point of even forgetting the matter, others tend to quickly come around to your point of view.

Further comment: It's a form of "Silent Will."

Startling Predecessor-Successor Life Dynamic

Everything we observe is a sign of what is to come even though we see no obvious correlation. However, we can learn to examine a current significant event and look back on how it was presaged by an earlier seemingly insignificant act. Likewise, we can look at a small thing occurring now and have a sense of something significant to come; even anticipate precisely what that will be. Either way, when our consciousness has risen to a certain level, we are not surprised by this correlation between a predecessor and successor event; through we are likely to still be amazed.

Example: On a video podcast technology show in which the guests were discussing various aspects of the scene I was struck by how all of the members were using Apple laptop computers. After all, the industry is dominated by windows PCs. Moreover each Mac laptop was shining silvery, with the Apple logo prominent, which caused me to feel that there was something significant going on. Later in the day, Apple announced its highest sales yet in its last quarter, including a very unexpected boom in Macintosh laptop sales. This was highly significant when you consider that the PC industry had been floundering or barely growing in sales over the last few years. Now in the news the reporters were describing an unexpected boom in Macs for the last quarter.

It was clear that earlier podcast of the reporters and their silvery Mac laptops all in a row with the prominent logo shining presaged the boom in Mac sales that was to be reported later in the day. This phenomenon of events foreshadowing larger events is occurring all of the time, in every single act in the universe; without exception. It is a startling concept that has been brought to the attention of the world by seer and sage Sri Karmayogi.

Reader: Perfection in work, Silent will and Silence collaborating for world change if not inner change attracts responses in advances. Are they indicators or actual results ? Say one morning I saw a particular model car moving in the road. Myself and my daughter started counting and within 10 minutes we counted at least 23 .That was last year.

May be matter 's victory over spiritual mind. Now it may be different. Anyhow spiritual mind should always see things in good view is Appa's constant guidance. May be we see more victory in the world of matter through spiritual mind .

Response: "Perfection in work ,Silent will and Silence collaborating for world change if not inner change attracts responses in advances. Are they indicators or actual results ?" Utilizing these methods we become conscious creators; a step above normal means of Nature where there is non-conscious means of engaging the predecessor/successor dynamic. With these spiritual methods the practitioner is consciously looking forward to create a result. Through their act they envision and create the future, and when that future arrives that person can see the effect, and the cause. These methods are therefore conscious predecessors of outcomes that are successors. But being conscious of it at all points, it all melts together; intention and result; predecessor/successor, subject and object. The main difference is that it is consciously initiated (i.e. Soul/Purusha), not waiting on Nature (Prakriti)'s slow and difficult method.

To Be Titled

When you give up a particular resistance or reluctance in your being, Life does the same for you, quickly working on your behalf.

Eg each time Apple gave up a resistance to offer certain products, it triggered a sudden, unexpected, and overwhelming boom in their business. The same dynamic holds true for the individual. Where then are our resistances? Shedding them can go a long way in determining whether or not we will truly be successful in our lives.

To Be Titled

Not being discouraged by bad news, error, forgetfulness, delay, etc. will quickly attract good fortune.

To Be Titled

Indians in the Unites States are earning more than any other ethnic group in the country; over $67,000 (4,098,725 rupees) per year.

So in essence emigrants and their family from the poorest county in the world (India) in terms of total population are earning the most of any ethnic/racial group in the richest country in the world (US)! It is an astonishing development, indicating the enormous subconscious aspiration for prosperity among the people of India.

To Be Titled

When your have an intense aspiration to make something complex simpler or something long-term occur sooner, or both, life quickly affords you an opportunity to do so.

To Be Titled

If you overcome your reluctance and do what another requests, you may not take pleasure from that particular activity, but other conditions will quickly arise that WILL provide enjoyment. Then you will see the benefit of the entire engagement, including the importance of acceding to the other person's original request.

Heeding another's point of view will always attract benefit to you in its wake, no matter what their position. The act of accepting has more life response power than the contents.

To Be Titled

It is astonishing that an Indian is now running Microsoft, and another Indian is second in command at Google, and could become its leader soon. That is, 2 of the 3 biggest tech companies in the world are being driven by Indians at the very top. It is also astonishing that over 1/3rd of the companies in Silicon Valley were founded by Indians. Many of these founders and their families and compatriots then went back to India and formed powerful new tech companies there.

If Indians in India can overcome their dishonest and slothful ways, become entrepreneurial and truly individualistic instead of following the herd, there is nothing India cannot achieve. Moreover, if they can utilize the unique psychological and spiritual endowments they are blessed with and apply it to the field of business and other work, they can become the richest country on earth within 50 years. This has been Sri Karmayogi's powerful and profound message to the Indian nation.

If as Sri Karmayogi anticipated 40 years ago that India could bring 500 million into the middle class in less than 40 years, then the country can quickly bring the remainder of the nation forward, including the 700 million poor. If Indians can learn and apply the outer and inner ways to success, they can achieve anything their hearts desire in a very short period of time. Then they can take their rightful place as Guru of the world and through its spiritual wisdom guide the earth forward.

Further comment: Here is sage and seer Sri Karmayogi's free book 'Spiritual Opulence' on the means by which Indians can become infinitely successful.

Beyond The Gods to Mother and Her Power

Mother has asked followers to refrain from worshiping Gods and instead surrender to the Supramental power which has descended into the earth's atmosphere and has vast power to change the conditions of life when opened to.

As she explained in Agenda, Mother worked with several Gods to convince them to surrender to the Divine Mother and Her Supramental power. They would appear before Mother in full view and She would explain how the Supramental plane and force was superior to the Overmental plane of the Gods, where each God, moving along a single line of thought and focus was invariably at odds with the knowledge and power of the others. It is therefore where Ego and Ignorance begin to emerge in the cosmos. Though Overmind (of Krishna and the various Gods) represent the universal consciousness, where all can be known, where the Spirit can be experienced in a thrice, the Supramental power is also a UNITY consciousness, where all forces, powers and knowledges are integrally Unified in an ultimate plane of existence. In addition, the supramental Power has a great tendency to manifest the knowledge it apprehends as real results in the world. Thus it has vast capacity to bring about rapid progress for the individual and the world, thereby furthering the Evolution.

We should also keep in mind that Supermind is the creative power that enabled a universe to emerge from a Divine Source, and yet is also now available to each of us at any moment in our own lives. Many devotees have frequently witnessed astonishing results and miracles take place in their lives by opening to Mother and Her Supramental Power.

Reader: Above the mind there are several levels of conscious being, among which the really divine world is what Sri Aurobindo has called the Supermind, the world of the Truth. But in between is what he has distinguished as the Overmind, the world of the cosmic Gods. Now it is this Overmind that has up to the present governed the world: it is the highest that man has been able to attain in illumined consciousness. It has been taken for the Supreme Divine and all those who have reached it have never for a moment doubted that they have touched the true Spirit. For, its splendours are so great to the ordinary human consciousness that it is absolutely dazzled into believing that here at last is the crowning reality. And yet the fact is that the Overmind is far below the True Divine. It is not the authentic home of the Truth. It is only the domain of the formateurs, all those creative powers and deities to whom men have bowed down since the beginning of history. And the reason why the true Divine has not manifested and transformed the earth-nature is precisely that Overmind has been mistaken for the Supemind. The cosmic Gods do not wholly live in Truth-Consciousness: they are only in touch with it and represent, each of them, an aspect of its glories. For, in the Overmind there is already the play of possibilities which makes the beginning of this lower triple world of Mind, Life and Matter in which we have our existence. And whenever there is play and not the spontaneous and infallible working of the innate Truth of the Spirit, there is the seed of distortion and ignorance. The Overmind, therefore, does not and cannot possess the power to transform humanity into divine nature. For that, the Supramental is the sole effective agent '. (The Mother from Questions and Answers 1929-1931, p. 173)

Those who still believe in Gods can certainly continue to worship them if they feel like it - but they must know that this creed and this worship has nothing to do with the teaching of Sri Aurobindo and no connection whatever with the Supramental Realisation' (The Mother 1964. - from The Words of Mother - vol 3 - p. 13)

To Be Titled

Give in and fully accept the other person's point of view on the small stuff, and life will reward you aplenty with the big stuff.

The New Backup Program (The Force Knows the Future)

Mother, the Supramental Force always knows the arc of our future, and therefore we should trust in it when transitions are demanded of us in life, even forced on us.

I had an online computer backup program that I used for many years. It worked quite well. Then one day it began to falter somewhat; plus there were issues concerning its price. Thus somewhat reluctantly I was forced to adopt another program. I had no choice. I consecrated the matter to the Mother, and let it go as it may.

As it turned out, the new program worked quite well. But what was most interesting to me was the fact that whereas the backed up files of the old program had become a bit of a mess, the new program cleaned that up perfectly in its own backup. Though I had been grappling about other matters when the transition between the two programs was forced on me -- the fact that the older program was having troubles working problem, price issues, etc. -- Mother, the supramental Force knew that the transition was necessary to derive a more perfect backup. She had looked into the depth of the matter and through Her Force compelled a change whose benefit I would only understand in full once the transition was complete.

To Be Titled

There is no use dwelling on the past unless it can uplift your future.

To Be Titled

If in your heart and mind you accept the possibility of any and all outcomes for the current situation, including those that might not seem favorable, you dramatically increase the chance of attracting the outcome you desire.

To Be Titled

Complaining replaced by reasoned argument has greater life power to persuade, and therefore leads to action that achieves. Non-Reaction and Silent Will are spiritual approaches that have even greater life response power in such situations, as the results unfold miraculous-like through the action of the Force.

To Be Titled

Before offering an opinion, consider if it is the right time and occasion to do so. Also ruminate on the truth-value and consequences of verbalizing the remark.

To Be Titled

In a situation where you want a favorable result, withdrawing attachment to it, or forgetting about it completely can quickly attract its achievement.

To Be Titled

When man refuses to ask, life gives him what he needs more copiously. (Sri Karmayogi)

Comment: It is a form of "Silent Will." Actually it is more than that, as the inner desire for any outcome dissolves, opening the door for life to rush in copiously. Eg don't ask the boss for a raise. Don't even silently will it. Instead eliminate all wanting. Life will reward you on its terms and your consciousness of deservedness. The book 'The Secret' says Ask and the universe will respond. Better still is NOT to ask and Life will give to you abundantly.

The book 'The Secret' says Ask and the universe will respond. Better still is NOT to ask and Life will give to you abundantly.

Reader : Roy Posner sir, Sometime getting afraid that if we don't ask , our wish is not get fulfilled.

Also how aspiration differ from asking. For me asking is also a part of aspiration which is expressed thru words or thinking or feeling

Response: Aspiration is the intensity of what we want to achieve. The focus on the deep value behind it is what really counts. Holding true to it attracts. Offering it with Thy Will Be Done is not quite asking, but offering. Holding back asking the universe intensifies the aspiration, which it more readily responds to.

To Be Titled

We learn in hindsight. Mother acts through foresight. If we open to Her and seriously develop our consciousness, we can have that same future-knowing and realizing capacity.

To Be Titled

When you emotionally accept a negative situation - where there is no inner stirring of feeling or bother - conditions tend to quickly reverse themselves.

Life Response Power of Generosity

Acts of true generosity have the capacity to attract extraordinary positive conditions from life.

-One woman loaned a desperate boy a small amount of money and shortly after her long-lost beloved brother of 40 years suddenly appeared at her doorstep.

-A young golfer won a major tournament and offered his winnings to his loyal caddy, and suddenly attracted his estranged father who now for the first time in his life accepted the boy's profession and career.

-A women who wrote on culinary matters selflessly allowed her co-writers to be listed before her on the cover of their new book, and soon after she rose to become the most famous culinary figure in the world, while the others were forgotten.

To Be Titled

Has the center of the world now shifted to Asia as a number of pundits have suggested?

Reader: It could be as no interesting news can come from already developed nations And hence it is turned to emerging economies such as India.

Response: Yes, that's true. And perhaps the Euro-US culture has run its course in terms of higher values. Asia has buried psychological and spiritual values that are reemerging in a modern context. Sri Aurobindo said the rise and re-awakening of Asia is key to the further development of human unity and the gradual emergence of a spiritual age. Naturally India emerging out of poverty and her reunification with her neighbors in some forms are several of His other aspirations for that to come about.

To Be Titled

Evolution - from energy to matter to life to mind to spirit - is the Divine's Plan. Involution - from spirit to cosmic mind to energy to matter, also Its Plan - preceded it.

To Be Titled

"Westerners always think they have to fill that awkward pause, but things left unsaid can have more value than what is spoken." (paraphrase of BBC site)

Further comment: Americans cannot be still for 15 minutes. They always have to be doing something. Their outer, physical-oriented consciousness is intimidated by the silence. It's what enables them to achieve greatly, but at the expense of a balanced life.

Reader: Perhaps they have lot of energy and comparatively free from mental burden unlike here.

Response: Yes. Enormous physical and vital energy. Very surface, material, empirical. They think through what they see; the visual. That stimulates their minds. There is little use of the mind to engage in inner contemplation.

A few are psychological; especially when highly educated. Americans mainly think to achieve; not to garner deeper truths. Thus they don't contemplate the next set of deeper human values required to lead the world forward. However, that COULD change.

Americans are very stressed because they live too much on the surface. Life out of balance. Karmayogi says they "think with their bodies" meaning the sense inputs of visual and auditory dominate their thinking and actions. They need to develop higher values and take to silence and spirit.

Reader: As their higher standard of life is the cause for generation of excess energy it should be directed to physical activities rather than mental activities.

Response: Yes, and toward spiritual "non-activities." - ie mental silence and other inner movements that will enable balance in their lives. This will give them vast power to help evolve the world out of its limitations, and then perhaps they can resume their position as Leader of the world.

To Be Titled

RK: Thank you Very much Mr. Roy for your following comments: I had my own confusion on my angle but you are apt to the point.

Comments by Mr. Roy Posner for my previous post / status:

Yes, Sri Aurobindo, different from the tradition, emphasizes that the evolution occurs through the Mind. Ie from sense to human reason to true reason to absence of thought to spiritual mind, where the spiritual light and supermind descend and transform the other parts - eg lower vital to the higher consciousness of the heart.

So yes, even in taking to higher attitudes, values, it can be for selfish reasons. But as we see the true truth through this evolution through Mind, we can increasingly see into our ego, control it, cast it aside, all the while getting closer to a True Motive.

In the process we go deeper and deeper until we reach the psychic where the Motive is pure. Now the true Self existent benefit comes when we call to Her.

Thus, it's a great journey - for us individually, humanity - from sense/surface to planes of mind to evoking infinite, pure Ishwara-power from the Psychic.

To Be Titled

Try to not to outwardly ask for what you want. Be silent and see if that entity moves toward you. That is the inner method of "Silent Will." It's a common technique of Karmayogi devotees that invariably works.

Reader: Karmayogi devotees. A new coinage of words like Appa's" Life response". I like this Sir.

To Be Titled

Worrying about a problem energizes it, making it worse. Shifting your attention elsewhere to the point where you have forgotten about the issue tends to quickly resolve it.

Yogic-Based Evolution Beyond the Limits of Involution

- Involution is the process by which Spirit became Matter in the universe.
 - It is a movement initiated by the Divine from Consciousness to Unconsciousness to enable a universe with infinite variation of possibilities and delight.
 - At every step of involution, provision is made for evolution. (I.e. there is a corresponding way to evolve out of the limitation that the Divine has sanctioned.)
 - The deep rooted area - the darkest of Matter - is the point where involution and evolution meets at shortest distance.
 - That is why Sri Karmayogi says in the yoga to focus one's aspiration to making the change at that deep point.
 - How do we do this?
 - Existence can be seen as either dividing or uniting.
 - As the involution is dividing, evolution is to move from the divided part to the united being.
 - What then will enable the uniting, from matter upward?
 - Inertia is of ignorance and division standing in the way of matter responding.
 - Ignorance can be overcome by knowledge. Division can be overcome by shedding ego.
 - Both free inertia from the lock with wings of inspiration and aspiration.
 - That is point we aspire to unite with our soul by evolving.
 - At the same time this aspiration, which is a dynamic force also releases all that is human in us: all the deficiencies of the mind, all the attachments of the heart, all the refractoriness of our vital emotions and the inertia of the physical body. All these aspects have to be rejected.
 - In other words, they have to be given to the human will. As long as there is something to be rejected, the human will has to take effort. The aspiration combined with the rejection and followed by surrender will complete our yoga.
- (thanks to RK's explanation of Sri Karmayogi's wisdom based on Sri Aurobindo's teachings, which I have reconstructed a bit. Also thanks to NR for raising the issue in the first place.)

To Be Titled

People of one area do not like to celebrate another region's success, victory, etc. The ego attachment to one's own community does not allow it. It is similar to feeling indifference, jealousy or contempt toward individuals we know of who have recently come into good fortune.

Life Response Power of Making a Token Effort

If you make a small token effort to overcome a seemingly insurmountable problem, life will soon reward you by presenting a relatively easy solution to the entire matter.

A friend asked me to retrieve a very difficult to get at important device held in storage. For months we discussed ways to dislodge it from its location, and then have it shipped back and returned. Then one day I took it upon myself to make an effort to retrieve the item, even if I had to climb over heavy, difficult to move boxes and other furniture-based obstacles. After making a small, yet strenuous effort, I soon realized that I could get to the desired item much more easily than I had thought. And so I was able to quickly retrieve it and then return it via airlines to my friend who was ecstatic when she received her beloved sewing device. Months of anxiety on her part had now come to an end due to one small token effort on the part of her friend.

To Be Titled

GENEROSITY is to find one's own satisfaction in the satisfaction of others. (The Mother)

To Be Titled

SELFISHNESS is to put oneself at the center of the universe and to want everything to exist for one's own satisfaction. (The Mother)

Reader: It seems most humans are like that

Response: Yes, for the most part; in varying degrees.

Reader: I wish I just should gradually shed ego

Response: if you wish it, it will occur. All sincere aspirations for change are answered.

Reader: A good place to start is to observe each Ego movement in the course of our day and then stop it in its tracks. Over time, we will increasingly be able to recognize and then block them when they occur. One will then gradually move from a self-orientation to an harmonic one with others and the world. Consecrating them to the Mother will further dissolve such negative attitudes and feeling to the point that they will rarely manifest again in the future.

To Be Titled

LOVE is self-giving without asking for anything in exchange. (The Mother)

Further comment: Yes, we call it "unconditional love."

To Be Titled

Divine psychological perfection is a smile in any circumstance. (The Mother)

Further comment: Developing a deep, inner orientation and poise as well as practicing the spiritual method of Non-Reaction to the intensities of others and life helps establish the profound outlook of having a smile in all situations Mother speaks of.

If you badmouth a competitor, such as disparaging their product compared to your own, you may quickly find that your own service suddenly fails or encounters other serious problems.

A famous airlines and outer space technology mogul disparaged similar technology of an equally famous competitor. Within several weeks of that caustic remark his own space device product exploded on takeoff, creating great anguish and embarrassment for him and his organization.

Reader: Thanks for making me understand my mistake

To Be Titled

Everything happening to you on the outside - positive, negative or in-between - is a reflection of who you are inside, including your attitudes and beliefs. Therefore if you want to change the outer negative condition, discover and reverse the corresponding inner wanting quality within yourself. When you do, life will instantly respond in your favor. This is the principle of "Inner-Outer Correspondence" in action, reflecting the inherent Oneness of life.

To Be Titled

At the outset of a meeting with another person make the effort to focus on them, their needs and concerns; keeping yours at bay. It establishes the very best atmosphere for attracting a successful outcome.

To Be Titled

Involution is the movement from Ultimate Consciousness (Spirit) to the inconscience (unconsciousness) of Matter in the universe. It precedes Evolution, which is the movement from unconscious matter to life to mind to Spirit (ultimate Consciousness).

To Be Titled

People want boons from the Mother to solve a problem, but neglect to consider their wanting attitudes that block receptivity to Her Force.

Reader: True. Which should mean we ourselves deny practical infinity. To overcome that denial syndrome inside us we can ask ourselves if we are opting only what we accept or we ourselves do not believe but just be with the movement. Close relatives, familiarity sometimes create a block. That is why Indian spices get recognition worldwide mostly than in India. I remember Appa's words local market will not give best price or rather appreciation.

Response: Yes, we see at least types of receptivity-related issues. One are poor attitudes - like being disturbed, being angry, unwillingness to change, jealousy, selfishness, and a hundred others qualities that block receptivity when we open to Her in particular situations. The Force cannot penetrate our limitation, or perhaps it never really gets engaged.

Another type is that people cannot quite believe in the infinite possibility that is available when we open to Her Force. We fall back to empirical, normal cause and effect view of life that is a fundamental disbelief in the body of the miraculous; of the infinite quickly replacing the current finite.

Reader: One more is people cannot accept the truth about themselves. At one point we must learn or hear remarks about us which is also grace. Crossing that line by accepting our fault or mistake is a joyful adventure. May be people think what they hold is wealth. 😊

Response: Yes, ability to accept others' criticism or critique takes a brave heart psychologically.

To Be Titled

In general, political elections is to shift from one form of Ignorance to another; even if one side knows a bit more than the other. The integral truth of things lies somewhere beyond in a distant future.

To Be Titled

Societies that lurch from one crisis to the next have not yet learned how to take control of their destiny.

To Be Titled

When people, businesses, organizations, nations, etc. give up their resistance to change, they and society evolves - success-wise, psychologically, even spiritually.

Non-Insistence Attracts

Withholding insistence of one's position compels an uncooperative party to cooperate with one's intent.

An instructor was not receiving the attention of three advanced students in the class who were preoccupied with other matters. Though he started to get annoyed, he quickly caught himself, knowing it was not the right, higher consciousness approach. He then went a step further and cleared all insistence from his thoughts. When he returned to the class several moments later, he was stunned to find all three students fully immersed in their classroom assignments.

To Be Titled

If you are tired, try to get the necessary rest. You can also create energy by calling "Energy" into yourself. In a short while you may be surprised by how energetic you have become.

Reader: What is 'calling energy' Roy Sir?

Response: It is calling to the universe for energy to come into your being, which it obliges.

To Be Titled

Sometimes you need to board a bus using polluting gas to get to a destination where you have an opportunity to eliminate it.

Reader: Can you please explain by an example Sir

Response: It means that sometimes you have to make a certain compromise with the current reality and conditions to get at what you ultimately want.

To Be Titled

Politics is the art of enthusiastically presenting certain higher values, but then retracting them in the name of expediency.

To Be Titled

90% of the problems in USA can be solved by the people, the government and private sector working together cooperatively. Now each pulls in their own direction, based on ideology or ignorance or indifference. As Sri Aurobindo says all problems in life are problems of harmony. Each entity egotistically pulling in its own direction is the opposite.

Reader: Towards a goal unity in diversity arises. But when goals become individual aims it tends to disintegrate.

Response: Yes, the individual needs to align his own goals to those of the collective. It is a wider view, emanating from a deeper part of himself that is more deeply in alignment with others and life. In yoga it is called Unity consciousness, as in all for one, and one for all; which is Supramental.

To Be Titled

Society evolves when pioneer individuals take to breakthrough initiatives that are then supported by the public. The pioneer is actually bringing forth new possibilities that reflect the subconscious aspirations of that society.

To Be Titled

When progress is set loose by a pioneer individual, there often arises an opposing, resisting, anachronistic force, which in turn further energizes the progressive person to counter it, releasing even greater success for the world.

To Be Titled

It's not just what you see that is the truth; but it's also what you don't see. In fact, the overwhelming majority of Truth is the latter. It is one reason to be humble in our thoughts and opinions, and be more open to the knowledge and experiences of others.

The Mother's Force is Unity consciousness: through it everything in disarray gets Unified, and scattered knowledge is integrally Known.

Call Center Miracle

Sri Karmayogi says every act, article, object, material, word, has "jeevan" (soul-like consciousness) - and they remember everything we do to them, and give an appropriate response at the appropriate time.

Example:

Few years back one of my friend- who is resident of a town Thirupur, a far away place from Chennai -planned to open call centre for some service provider -but for some reason dropped the plan. The place for the call centre was booked long before that, and so it was lying idle for about eight months. As he asked another friend-in Chennai- to look after the place once in a while -the Chennai friend asked his office-maid to visit that place-which is about two KM from his office- once or twice a week and clean it-and paid telephone electricity bills etc.

After some time my Thirupur friend vacated the place-as he felt the outsourcing business would no more be feasible. Now-after a year or so-when the Chennai friend needed an office for his new venture-and we both went looking for one.

We had a shock of the lifetime when the broker took us to the same office space which my Chennai friend looked after once-at much cheaper rentals than he expected and fully furnished with no extras cost. (RK)

To Be Titled

If you keep an open mind and dwell on what another has written, said, presented in detail, keeping your own thought and opinion at bay, the presenting party will unexpectedly describe your own view as well.

It happens when we lose ourselves, are fully absorbed in the thoughts of another; without interruption; being still and patient, with full concentration on their ideas. By focusing exclusively on their content, life responds and presents your view as well.

To Be Titled

In the Silence of our minds, backed by Her Force, the world rapidly rearranges itself to our advantage.

Further comment: I am in a restaurant and they play continuous pop music, mostly of typical subject matter - romantic, etc.. But just after making the above post I heard a song "We are Surrounded By Silence Now", a completely unusual subject matter for such a music station. What a lovely coincidence (life response) and affirmation!

Now just a few moments later, I have heard another song on the same pop-romance radio station where the chorus is "It's Amazing, It's Amazing what we can do!" Repeating over and over; almost like an Indian chant. It is the universe's further comment on the above two entries. It is a startling chain of events! One affirmation after another in this thread. One is left speechless.

To Be Titled

It is focus on the Power of Silence vibrating out in various ways. The repeated quick responses indicate mental silence's monumental potential if we were to seriously take it up.

To Be Titled

By not broadcasting your association with a significant person who has provided key wisdom and important advice, that knowledge expands in multiple dimensions in one's life.

Reader: One obvious way of broadcasting is to boast about it and feel complacent in that but some other subtle or hidden ways are also possible that we don't recognize.

Response: There are indeed subtle ways by which we and others can derive maximum benefit from life by controlling or directing our intention, feelings, thoughts, etc.

Silent Will -- We can inwardly "broadcast" our intention through Silent Will. Here we hold back from vocalizing what we want, would like to discuss, our opinion on a matter, which stores up the energy, moves out toward them, causing the other person shortly after to express the very thing we had on our minds for us. This miraculous-like, subtle life technique and phenomenon works nicely when people are in close proximity, engaged in phone conversations, having meetings, etc.

Goodwill -- We can also silent broadcast our good will towards others, showering them with genuine good feelings and affection, which brings powerful positive circumstance to their person, and over time enables us to receive benefit in return.

Power of Restraint -- Then there is simply the holding back of broadcasting our progress on a matter, project, etc., which intensifies our ability to accomplish much more. Eg suppose you are on a project and want to gleefully express the progress you have made to a colleague or boss. If you restrain yourself, and hold back sending out that information, you will see that you are able to make even greater progress in a short period of time. By holding onto the energy, we concentrate our capacity to create and attract greater results. This we call the Power of Restraint.

Synchronous Experience of the Same Idea

Since, as Sri Aurobindo discovered, all thoughts originate outside one's self in the plane of Mind, within and beyond the universe, when we experience that thought it occurs synchronously to others as well who have also picked up on it.

They may then contact us about that idea to which you would reply that you were thinking the very same thing. It is because it has become a shared idea in the plane of Mind that both parties have simultaneously picked up on.

Thus an idea is really a current, a vibration of mind energy. When the Mind is still and silent, and therefore receptive, this dynamic is especially active and noticeable.

To Be Titled

Space-time began at the outset of the universe when the Divine's Ideas (peace, harmony, knowledge, love, delight, etc.) extended from their non-dual state to subject-object relationships. Eg from Love alone to Lover loves the Beloved; from Knowledge alone to Knower knows the Known; etc. Forces and then forms based on an emerging cosmic energy followed to reflect and embody these Divine Ideas.

To Be Titled

By steadily raising our consciousness we can increasingly perceive and follow the subtle signs life is presenting that can take us to infinite-like abundance and joy.

Response to Appreciating a New Social Value

When you appreciate a higher value and policy of an organization in society such as a business, that benefit suddenly comes to you out of nowhere and at just the right time.

I had heard on the radio that the phone companies had switched from nickel and diming the public for overage charges on their data plans, and now simply gave unlimited coverage. I saw this as a higher social value and benefit. Moreover the commentator said they even warn the user if he is approaching such overages where they do exist.

Well wouldn't you know it but one hour later I received an sms message from my service provider indicating I was approaching my overage, something I do not recall ever receiving before in years of use!

Coincidence? Or rather the result of appreciating a new value in society, that has now turned around and descended into my person as real benefit.

To Be Titled

Religion is exclusive and non-integral in its thought. Each one has only a small part of the truth of spirit, of life, which each believes is the entire truth. They have also drifted widely from their source teacher or teachings, lost in ritual; often caught up in superstition.

Also, religions' fringes are filled with fanaticism (whether Christian, Muslim, Buddhist, and Hindu), which is the crack that reveals the chink in the armor that seals their doom in their current forms.

A New Age beyond these, with deeper and wider knowledge and experience of Spirit and Life awaits us.

To Be Titled

Deeply relating to, believing in a social value and its benefits later brings those same positives to you through unexpected circumstance..

To Be Titled

When you are criticized for something, take it seriously; for what led to the outer problem may have been something very different from what you might have thought, of what surface logic dictates. Discovering the subtle, deeper cause will make you more conscious, helping you avoid such pitfalls in future.

To Be Titled

One sign that you are on the very best track is when the person least interested in your knowledge or advice later becomes the first to ask for it.

To Be Titled

When you mentally and emotionally embrace your mistake, taking full responsibility without anguished remorse, good fortune tends to quickly follow.

To Be Titled

When you make the extra effort to relate to the DEEPER needs of another, whether one of your students, family members, colleagues, etc., good fortune tends to suddenly rush towards you; sometimes from multiple directions simultaneously.

Further comment: The other day that happened; from several directions at the same time there was a blurry blitz of positive developments in front of me, each different from the other, due to the awareness of a deeper possibility for the group which I took. It was a quite startling experience. Like several storylines intersecting and revealing themselves, offering at once a variety of short and long-term benefits.

To Be Titled

When you enthusiastically, sincerely agree to help another person requiring your assistance, you may find that when it comes time to helping them they have already solved the problem on their own.

Further comment: The positive willfulness opens the doors for life to reconfigure itself in one's favor.

Reader: Sir can you please explain further

Response: Life is constantly responding on the outside to our level of consciousness within. One way "life responds" is to the intensity of one's aspirations. Life brings us what we want if we want it intensely enough. Another is when we are self-giving to others. Life brings us positive things when we make the extra effort to help others. Together -- as in this case involving a consultant -- we create a formidable power within us that moves out into the field compelling other related parties to also act from a higher position.

Let's then look at it from the other person's perspective, Here the other person might have e.g. decided to solve the problem on their own, not depending on the first person to help him. That attitude of self-sufficiency is a positive one that was influenced by the positive vibe sent out by the first person. The second person has also create a positive vibe that moves out into the field of life.

When the first sees the second to help him, the second has already solved the problem on his own. It is a life response for the first person, as his positive energy saves him the effort of having to help; as the second person has self-learned on his own. Meanwhile the second person in solving the problem on his own has saved time, not having to wait for the first person. So that's a positive development for him.

Because of the mutual and interdependent benefits, the two parties have subconsciously met at a common point in space and time, where they share their experiences.

If we take the time to observe. we will see that things outside ourselves are always responding to our level of consciousness within -- whether positively, negatively, or in between. If we act or feel in a more positive direction, we align with other positive conditions from other people and circumstance that we experience as an instance of sudden good fortune.

To Be Titled

When an elected leader goes beyond his party line and works collaboratively for the sake of the people it is Patriotism in action

Reader: Rare to find them.

Response: Yes, very rare. Yet there are degrees of doing this. Even a great patriot like Nehru could not fully shed his party line. Roosevelt was close in that he advocated war against the Nazi, which was against the pacifist left wing of his party. Churchill the same against the conservatives of his own party, also advocating for the same war. But integrally going beyond party lines seems almost like an impossibility. Bill Clinton did it in several ways, and he is now regarded as perhaps the best of the last half dozen US presidents.

How to break the bounds of the party of whom you got elected? It takes great courage and advocacy of the Truth; even convincing those on your side that there is a more integral way than just the old party lines. In fact, this is how parties evolve.

Often it takes the needs of the time to enable one to overcome the limits of the party line to become a true patriot. One is forced into that role, as Jerry Brown, the Governor of California was forced into being a physical conservative when the state accumulated so much debt. Then the people voted for a tax that balanced the budget. The people were realistic. He helped push in that direction because he too became realistic.

Overcoming one's mental prejudices and seeing the entire spectrum of the problems of the nation will help one come up with policies that are integrally effective, and that transcend the party line. It is almost a yogic movement of the purification of the exclusive mind.

Perhaps true patriotism cannot come from the top, but amongst all levels of the population of the people below who work with others for the common good. In most nations it begins with happily paying your taxes, which is your fulfillment of your contract with the government. You pay in, and the government protects you and helps organize life so you can thrive. The paying out of the tax is an example of a Patriotic Act. It is a recognition of a wider truth of being a citizen of that country.

Developing such an integral mental awareness of what is most helpful to the society and emotionally seeking improvement for your nation enables one to become a True Patriot. He becomes a pioneer who leads the people into a better and brighter future.

Reader: May be always being in power too gives a lax attitude over the responsibility. If there is difficulty to win the people's support and there is an urge for the politician to win their appreciation then it may be crossing the lines and serving the people and thereby the nation

Response: I think it depends. Governor Brown has been in office for four terms, but he saw the need to act. He wasn't lax. (He has vast energy and idealism for his age. (76) He was governor previously in California in his 40s!)

Others will be lax. It depends on the urge and desire to implement high values over time. In democratic system that restricts terms to say 2, there is more of a compulsion to do something positive, yet the party line is sticky.

Politics ultimately needs to be replaced by something else, or evolve out of itself something new. What is it? I once had this discussion with Karmayogi. I gave some suggestions. One was the development of various Parties of Ideas, a Greek like approach.

In recent years Appa said that it is the end of the age of great political leaders. All profound ideas and therefore power is coming from below, pushing upward. MSS's work with its partner organization on the international stage is a testament of such influences. It is the first light of the emergence of a Golden Age of international collaboration. He is spearheading this evolutionary change in the world. We too can collaborate with that effort. It is Service of the highest order.

To Be Titled

When we make assumptions based on what the eyes tell us, without any substantial thought behind, we tend to misread the situation. This is an extremely common mistake we make on a daily basis that almost everyone misses.

Taking Another's Point Of View Attracts Success

If you switch from your position to the other person's point of view, while remaining still inside, everything tends to go right thereafter.

Eg rather than take the same approach to shopping for new clothes, you recall in the back of your mind your friend's suggestion to shop at a particular store. When you take her advice and go there, remaining still and calm at each point, everywhere you turn you find just what you were looking for, and more. You feel like you have experienced the miraculous.

Reader: I think God has made it that we can at any time have only one side of the picture so that people have to necessarily cooperate with others to get the full picture. This is one way to promote human relationship.

Response: It is a profound and true statement. And one that brings up many issues (almost all of which are addressed in vast detail by Sri Aurobindo, Karmayogi, and others).

One is that the Divine wanted to create an endless multiplicity of possibilities in creation, and to do that allowed for Ignorance, which is in essence our very part knowledge. This He calls the Involution.

We can however evolve our mind so that we can develop more of the necessary whole or integral knowledge. This is the Evolution.

It is also true that through this process we can acquire that knowledge through our association with others. And yes through that process, one is compelled to cooperate with them and their understanding, which also enables us to grow as individuals.

Going through this progressive process also causes life at each step to respond with good fortune. That is the extra magic of growth in consciousness, in addition to benefits of experiencing Integral Knowledge, Harmony with Others and Life, intense Joy in being alive, and Love for others and the Divine.

To Be Titled

When someone sends you unsolicited important information on a certain topic or area, it is often a subtle suggestion to look at RELATED areas and discover and overcome errors or other mistakes there. When you correct them, you will smile and see the cosmic-like Reasoning of Life that compelled you to receive the original message in the first place.

America's great success over the decades is due in large part to her continuous waves of immigrant population who refresh the nation with new ideas and capacities. As a living laboratory of this approach, US serves as a model for the world. However, she must find UNITY within that diversity to continue to be a template for the rest of society.

To Be Titled

Indians have a natural tendency to relate to and appreciate others' experiences of the subtle laws of life, while Westerners, with their filtering rationality and mechanistic view of reality have a hard time fathoming it.

Restraint's Accomplishment Attracting Power

The more you restrain yourself and hold back the expression of built-up energy, the more it strengthens and attracts more benefit, including greater accomplishment in a work.

E.g. an individual who is too eager to put out some material he has been working on or feels too much of an urge to express what they have so far accomplished on a project can instead silently hold communication of it inside. As a result one attracts good fortune -- such as more and higher-value work, the earlier completion of a work, or the work taking on new dimensions that are beneficial to all parties involved. That is the power of not broadcasting a work too eagerly, and instead practicing restraint by holding it inside and build up accomplishment attracting power.

To Be Titled

The prerequisite for integral yoga is coming out of prejudices and opinions. Every time we come out of that we will have a minimum of one pleasant experience. (Ramesh Kumar)

Comment: Eg as Ramesh narrates, when he came out of prejudice about the worthiness of an alcoholic associate, he suddenly experienced a powerful synchronicity emanating from that individual. Giving up the prejudice opened the door to a remarkable, pleasant experience.

To Be Titled

Society normally goes through expression and experience of freedom before it learns willful self-control. If we examine the arc of history we can see a progression from rigid control, to liberalizing freedom, to greater self-control within a wideness of culture. Those who short-circuit this process and become moralistic -- condemning society for such things as abortion, promiscuity, breakdown of the family, various forms of wild culture, et al, -- can have the net effect of sending the society BACKWARDS along this scale or worse. What is needed is not moralism, but self-awareness that leads to self-control. It occurs best in an atmosphere of true freedom.

Flowers and Their Messages

The rishis of ancient India discovered the One Existence in all things. They saw the animate and inanimate alike as manifestations of Spirit pervaded through and through with living consciousness. They recognised not only the divinity of all but also the uniqueness and individuality of each. What they saw was codified and recorded in the holy scriptures, the Shastras. These rishis did not know by the mind or the senses. They perceived by a direct inner vision and identity with the object of perception.

Of all animate and inanimate things on earth they found that flowers are nature's purest manifestation of the Divine. They knew that each flower embodies in its color, form and fragrance a particular vibration or consciousness and that contact with a flower can bring one into contact with that vibration. For this reason flowers were commonly used in all forms of worship, offering and devotion. Through the ages flowers became an integral part of Indian culture playing a very significant though often forgotten role. (The Mother's Service Society)

Unusual Impatience & Restraint Incident

Two men were waiting on a long line for their important travel documents to be processed. The first man's number was next, and he was very eager to be called. However, the more eager he became, the longer the delay continued.

Another man standing next to him observed and understood this inner-outer dynamic involving this impatient individual. He could have told the first man to give up his impatience, and thereby unblock the negative energy that was keeping his number from being called out, but he exercised restraint and kept it to himself.

Suddenly, the first man's number got called. It came as a result of the second man's understanding of the wrong attitude of the first, plus his restraint in not saying anything about the matter.

The first man now happily was served, while the second man smiled an inner smile to himself. Reader: perfect example of inner strength!

To Be Titled

If you don't complain about another's mistake, you will receive more than you asked for.

To Be Titled

If you withdraw all fear when another person is struggling to fulfill your need, the problem will disappear, often through a creative movement of life.

To Be Titled

Even the worst of men can make one helpful brilliant decision.

Further comment: Nixon in China; that help open it up, is one example. Mother called him a brute.

To Be Titled

The moments when great movements envelop one are his most helpless moments. For the same reason, they are the most propitious moments to invoke Mother. (Sri Karmayogi)

Further comment: This is my very current experience.

To Be Titled

Matters from your subconscious that irritate you (e.g. problems of childhood) will keep attracting negative iterations of it in your present life -- such as difficult people who represent it, -- until you consciously recognize it for what it is and reverse it in consciousness. Then if it also consecrated, you will be unburdened from that psychological issue forever.

To Be Titled

"How to perceive the Divine's play as enjoyable as He is playing?"

In Vedanta and in Sri Aurobindo's view there is an ultimate Reality, and each plane from spirit to matter are expressions of it. It includes all things, positive and negative, great and small, every detail in life, every circumstance, everything.

When one develops a deeper consciousness within, culminating in the psychic, one perceives the utility of all these things, including all the problems and challenges we experience in our lives. We perceive the Reality (Brahman) for what it truly is, in all its facets. As a result, we perceive the working of the Play of the Divine (Lila); including its movements and intent.

By developing a deeper consciousness within through consecration, our mind expands from ordinary to silent mind to intuition, culminating in Supermind, where we have a glimpse of this infinitely multifaceted Reality. We see each thing and its purpose. We perceive how all things in our lives and the world around us fit together, and are necessary.

Sri Aurobindo says this Vision of the Reality is the ultimate view of existence given to Man. It is to perceive the true workings of life, as well as the Divine's Play, including Its Delight in the process. Now His Joy becomes ours.

To Be Titled

Surrender: The turning of all the movements of the being towards the Divine. (The Mother)

Surrender, is the Conscious Act of Forgetting, all the layers of our Personality, so that MOTHER takes it up. (Sri Karmayogi)

To Be Titled

(response to various questions asked)

America is definitely embracing socialistic values within capitalistic framework. Becoming humanistic is an even higher goal. I.e. adopting human values above all others. Mother also said end of capitalism is on its way, especially in its money-oriented, non-humanistic form.

Obamacare is an excellent initiatives that takes up what Roosevelt initiated, but didn't live to realize. Some of it IS realized in Europe, especially Scandinavia.

The world is changing rapidly. Financial crisis almost annihilated the world economy. More radical disruptions are bound to happen if the nations of the world don't collaborate -- to set policies, establish regulations, and overcome economic malaise such as unemployment, stagnant wages, under development, etc. etc. The time to come together is now. World governance with teeth is necessary to solve the vast global problems that transcend national boundaries.

Reader: We learn by experience after all everyone including Nations are selfish in the beginning.

Response: FDR's Second Bill of Rights Speech which demonstrates some of the Humanistic qualities that could be part of a New Paradigm of existence, and is more relevant today than ever (though he did not live to see through)

Further comment: He was way ahead of his time in a number of areas. Karmayogi says however that he caved in to other interests and did not push that agenda. (Or something to that effect.) Also it was near the end of his life.

The video had been lost since it was recorded, and was rediscovered in 2006. It was ironically rediscovered at the dawn of the financial crisis, the Great Recession, which was the time that so many economic and social issues he addressed in the speech have come to a head.

"Roosevelt's January 11 address was delivered via radio, as the President was suffering from the flu at the time. During the last portion dealing with the Second Bill of Rights, he asked news cameras to come in and begin filming for later broadcast. This footage was believed lost until it was uncovered in 2008 in South Carolina by Michael Moore while researching for the film Capitalism: A Love Story. The footage shows Roosevelt's Second Bill of Rights address in its entirety, as well as a shot of the Six Rights printed on a sheet of paper. ((Wikipedia)

To Be Titled

Lord Krishna broke all rules of dharma He came to establish. To win for truth in a plane of falsehood, a pinch of falsehood is essential. (Sri Karmayogi)

Further comment: It is distantly related to my earlier comment that you may need to ride a bus that gives off pollution in order to get to a conference in which the elimination of pollution is discussed.

During WWII the western spies practiced lies and deception in order to capture the Evil Nazis who practiced it at all levels.

Jesus was angry and threw things around at the money changers in protest of their hoarding of funds, a seemingly unspiritual like action on His part.

New Paradigm for Global Society (Summary)

Introduction to New Paradigm for a global society by MSS leader and World Academy CEO Garry Jacobs:

"The multi-dimensional challenges confronting global society today will not lend themselves to resolution by piecemeal sectoral strategies and incremental measures. Their causes are deep, inextricably interconnected and result from deficiencies in values, concepts, institutions, policies and actions. Fundamental change is needed in both thought and action – a new intellectual paradigm that is comprehensive and integrated combined with a new institutional policy framework founded on the values of human welfare and well-being.

At every crucial juncture in human history the advent of new paradigms has precipitated radical change. Past paradigm changes confirm that the problems created by human beings can be solved by human beings. At such moments, ideas have the power to precipitate radical change driven by compelling social forces and emerging deep drivers.

Today the pressure of rising expectations for freedom and prosperity, unprecedented technological capabilities, burgeoning global financial assets, and an inevitable movement toward an integrated global society combine to generate the opportunity and necessity for fundamental change. The starting point is the willingness to challenge the irrationality of the premises underpinning the existing paradigm.

Paradigm change is not only possible. It is inevitable. The only question is whether it will occur by gradual, progressive, peaceful social evolution now or drastic, sudden, violent and potentially catastrophic revolution later."

The Great Good of Difficulties

The reaction of our mind and emotions to challenging situations and conditions is a distorted view of things. When we are confused, upset, feel helpless, in those difficult moments, our mind has a very limited perspective of the truth of things and our emotions have been overwhelmed by what it experiences.

However, from a higher consciousness and view, it is just more stuff, more flux, more fact, more reality that is necessary for the unfolding and progress of ourselves and the world. The individual who has developed a stillness within and opens to the Higher Power, to the Mother will see these difficulties in a more positive light as challenges.

He can even go further and see them as golden opportunities. At the highest level he sees them as great goods, and feels gratitude that he can further develop his being and the world's conditions through them.

To Be Titled

Making the extra effort in work, pushing through our inertia, causes space-time to quickly cooperate with our intent.

Reader: True. Not stipulating the time or monetizing the work should give the same benefit.

Response: Yes, they are corollaries of the same essential principle. They often all go together simultaneously. E.g. consultant who makes the extra effort loses himself in the needs of the client, forgetting the clock, as well as the income. When he does, great benefit is attracted, such as the remainder of the work being unnecessary as it has already been done; that the project has been completed much earlier than expected; etc.

Becoming Irrelevant In Higher Education

Recently at a global symposium of education leaders the heads at Oxford boasted that they were in the top 10 colleges in the world, and that they would be at the same spot decades from now by doing what they were doing.

Garry Jacobs, the CEO of World University Consortium (WUC) told me that he listened to this speech, and then stood up before them with his own and then very boldly told them that they would become irrelevant and even disappear if they stay pat and do not embrace the changes that are happening and are going to happen in higher education, such as low-cost online systems, including Moocs, and other dramatically new forms of learning that are in the process of being developed.

To Be Titled

Every difficulty is a knock-on-the-door on how to improve things.

'Interstellar' Film & Life Response

I recently saw this very popular and well-received science fiction film 'Interstellar' and in it, as one columnist says, are instances of non-local connection, entanglement, what I call synchronous connection that is one expression of Life Response.

He says "Nolan introduces the concept of quantum entanglement. That's when two particles that have interacted with each other behave as one even though they might be far apart. He then shows how people in love display some of those same features. They react in the same way at the same time to the same things. [no matter how far apart]

The characters in the movie are frequently experiencing cross-cutting and mystical connections that transcend time and space.

...As the poet Christian Wiman wrote in his masterpiece, "My Bright Abyss," "If quantum entanglement is true, if related particles react in similar or opposite ways even when separated by tremendous distances, then it is obvious that the whole world is alive and communicating in ways we do not fully understand. And we are part of that life, part of that communication. ..."

Further comment on the film: What is made dramatic through a science fiction adventure traversing the galaxies occurs in the most mundane of daily acts if we have the eyes to see them. If the average person can clearly see how the power of Love and other forms of harmonic connection –silence, goodness, truth, etc. -- can abridge space and time, and be experienced as a miraculous unfolding in one's own life, then the society would truly make a great leap in awareness.

To Be Titled

- The more you hold back verbalizing or asserting your success, the more it will rise.
- The more you withhold speaking of your success, the more others will speak it out for you.

Entanglement, Space-Time, and Life Response

The ancient rishis of India experienced that all things are one in space and time. When we raise our consciousness (such as overcoming a negative attitude), we connect with related items in space-time that come to us as a response of good fortune. Space and time are overcome, as the thing comes to us instantaneously.

Science understands entanglement (non-local connection, alignment, synchronicity) where two particles on either side of the universe can influence one another's action. This is in essence Life Response. Science however does not know the Oneness of existence that enables this to happen. It also does not perceive the types of higher inner behaviors that allow this to occur – such as overcoming a negative attitude, intense feelings of goodwill, including love, not reacting to another's negative feelings (non-reaction), making a firm decision and commitment, and a number of other inner behaviors - psychological and spiritual.

Sri Aurobindo and Sri Karmayogi also explain that when we move deeper within in consciousness, we increasingly experience past, present, and future in the Ever-Present. In each moment we know the essential influences of the past on the present, the present conditions, and sense what the possibilities are for the future. This is in essence supramental perception of time, as we know all of the essential details in any given moment.

Also from that depth, culminating in psychic being (evolving soul), when we call to the Mother, to the Force, we evoke ultimate responses of good fortune; also thereby overcoming space-time, as the positive conditions come to our doorstep rapidly or instantaneously.

To Be Titled

What will ultimately convince you of the reality of Life Response is your actual experience of the phenomenon.

To Be Titled

Sarcasm tends to evoke negative response from life. Even being Satirical can evoke problems, as it often has sarcasm built into it.

One man jokingly shared with a friend his mock rewards for his worst purchases of the past year. A few minutes later, he was trying on a newly purchased shirt, and it turned out to be far too small! Now he had to return it to the department store!

Speaking a negative will tend to attract more of it.

To Be Titled

If you make the right crossroad decision at each point, - eg listening to others, taking their point of view, doing what the subtle signs are indicating, holding back ego, applying positive attitudes wherever possible, etc. - you will RAPIDLY arrive at your desired destinations and fully achieve your end goals. It may even appear as if an invisible hand were guiding you at each step along a forethought path to your multifaceted destination.

Reversals of Attitudes That Attract

We have developed a scale of attitudes, with each pair ranging from negative to positive. When you shift from the negative to the positive on any of them, you are likely to attract sudden onset of good fortune.

--Unwillingness to Willingness

- Arrogance to Humility
- Self-Importance to Respect for Others
- Impatience to Patience
- Suspicious to Accepting/Trusting
- Unreliable to Reliable
- Pessimistic to Optimism
- Defensive to Expansive
- Insecure to Self-Confident
- Closed Minded to Open-Minded
- Self-Satisfied to Aspiring
- Resentful to Goodwill, Gratitude **
- Sarcasm to Sincerity

E.g. in Garry Jacobs' novel 'The Book' a key character Anya felt deep anguish and resentment toward her professor, with whom she had been out of touch for a long time. After ruminating on the idea that her current outer problems -- the negative attitudes of the people around her -- were the result of the negative attitudes she harbored toward her professor, she suddenly out of the blue received a call from him in which complemented her as being the most brilliant student he ever had, as well as offering her a very significant new project for her fledgling company.

That is the life response power of reversing from Resentfulness to Goodwill and even Gratitude. Good or great fortune follows.

To Be Titled

When you make an effort and solve a problem, life tends to present you with additional related problems, which you can now easily handle. It is the same for issues and opportunities.

Eg a man noticed that a light was not working. He investigated the situation and discovered the battery and back panel was missing. He then moved shelving out of the way and discovered the two missing parts on the floor. He then replaced them in their socket, and the light now worked. While moving the shelving to find the missing parts he discovered that the floor was filthy there, which he then happily cleaned. That led to additional discoveries, and new opportunities for improvement. The original effort had opened up the doors of multi-faceted change.

To Be Titled

- Mind leading without emotional baggage that holds back from vital accomplishments
- Body immediately taking to action from compulsion of Life is not interfered with by Mind also accomplishes and spreads.
- Doing the right thing in that and every moment always attracts right outcomes, including new possibilities.
- Non-interference of vital and mind (and any inertia of the body) to a necessary activity - where one acts Now - attracts supramental action and power (which is powerful, dynamic, ever-expanding).
- Inner value of 'Continuous Progress' continuously opens doors to new possibilities.
- Overcoming time through immediate action attracts the recognition of issues, problems that can be easily and quickly solved.
- etc.

Every Act Is Indicated Beforehand

Each life event is indicated, presaged by an earlier one.

When a man went to return a shirt that was the wrong size, he had to wait in a lengthy line, which was kind of unusual for that store. It turns out when he first purchased the shirt a week or so earlier, he also confronted a long line at checkout, even though it was a quiet shopping day. The second event was indicated by the first. Karmayogi says that there are absolutely no exceptions to this rule.

On the other hand, if you consecrate the original problem event, it will NOT repeat.

Further comment: By the way, this also pertains to positive events, as well as anything in between. Thus EVERYTHING is indicated beforehand; an astonishing phenomenon!

To Be Titled

Sri Aurobindo said that increasingly the problems of the world will not be solvable by Mind, as it requires solutions that only Spiritualized Mind -- silence, intuition revelation, supramental perception, -- can bring. The Middle East region with all of its conflicts, conundrums, contradictions, and ironies is a good example.

Reader 1: It is like playing Chess game against Ten Magnus Carlsens

Reader 2: Even in my day to day problems...I find that solutions given by mind don't help much...and these solutions are not integral

Response: Yes, exactly.

However, stilling the mind and consecrating the situation to the spiritual Force (the Mother) can bring the necessary integral knowledge for that issue.

To Be Titled

If you get upset with someone else's mistake, you are likely to make a number of errors yourself soon after. (That negative energy disturbs the mind and leads to faulty thinking.)

Reader 1: How do we overcome this situation?

Reader 2: This happens often in office where...people often shout at others without knowing the why such a mistake happened and yes they also commit the same mistake

Also I HV observed that many people consider themselves far more superior in doing a task ... And they often get surprised when someone does the same task better

Response: "How do we overcome this situation?"

One must develop a new center of consciousness; not on the surface, but from a deeper poise. This is one of the goals of yoga (conscious evolution) and a change from the ordinary life. In addition, one can readily practice non-reaction to situations, others, so one does not react when others make a mistake. It takes a commitment to change one's being this way.

Sri Karmayogi also advocates regular consecration, opening to the Mother before events which helps the life conditions so all parties involved avoid the negative and do the right things; plus it has a calming effect inside, enabling one to more readily practice the method of non-reaction to life's and others' intensities, so in this case one does not react to another's mistakes.

To Be Titled

If you are having problems with others - whether spouse, family, friends, co-workers, boss, subordinates, etc. - understand that it is a reflection of some lacking consciousness on your part. Rather than blame or try to change others, discover the corresponding wanting element(s) inside and change that. When you do, the outer conflict, contradiction, or problem with others will quickly disappear.

To Be Titled

Harmony is a key to finding the solutions to entrenched social problems, as it removes Ego from play among the parties, allowing for collaborative answers. It also creates a solid foundation for each individual to develop his own integral solutions via his own unique capacities and genius, while creating a soothing effect that allows each person to gather all the necessary knowledge through silence in the mind and intuition. Together it can have a great power to solve any societal problem.

Power of Organizing That Attracts

When you take several moments and plan out what is to occur and then consecrate it, the work happens dramatically quicker and with more creative action from life than one would have imagined.

E.g. I briefly planned how I would go about organizing some new case studies for my 7-day presentation on life response. I also consecrated the matter, offering it to the spiritual Force. What I originally thought would take perhaps 3 or 4 sessions of perhaps one hour each, occurred in less than a half hour. Matching that swiftness was a sense of JOY of how each thing dovetailed with the next!

Aided by engaging the Force, we see the power of rational Mind to organize and thereby create energizing and deeply satisfying results that overcome space and time.

To Be Titled

There are times when the Mother will not give us what we ask for, as She perceives the totality of conditions that we do not

Moving the concentration away from the act at hand disperses the energy and increases the chances of attracting the negative.

Further comment: E.g. Multi-tasking can have its down side, as no one thing is done correctly.

To Be Titled

The more you emotionally and egotistically insist on your position, the more you are taken astray.

To Be Titled

Before you speak to another, make sure they are ready to be spoken to.

To Be Titled

Reader 1: At every stage of perfection of an aspect or a thing, redefining what is perfection from that stage is called perfection. A stage where it cannot be redefined for that aspect or thing, it is called perfect perfection.

Reader 2: Perfect perfection can also be redefined by past consecration or my mere thought to define something may also be an error. For example I wanted to try my luck in an admission process which I failed to get few years ago. I was confident even on appealing but no was the outcome. May be correcting errors of the past too did not work out as I should have never exercised my energies. Why you want this to happen is the question before us or me now. Contemplatingabout it.

True "Giants"

I have seen the local professional baseball team (San Francisco Giants) win 3 world titles in the last 5 years solely due to team unity and deeply calm yet firm leadership by the manager, though their talent was limited compared to the competition.

And they won in the most extraordinary, unconventional methods; constantly dangling from the edge of a cliff facing elimination.

I have also added my consciousness at each point. My approach: at each point I watched them and they started losing, I withdrew from watching, and they then suddenly started winning! I practiced this technique as well as detachment from the outcome through each of the three championships.

The baseball world is completely baffled by the Giants' extraordinary successes.

Thinking about these events always makes me smile; and who knows, there may be more to come!

Life Response Power of Transforming Our Attitudes

The [negative] attitudes we have created are one of the ways by which the Infinite has become finite. Our job now is to reverse the direction and make the finite Infinite. The way we do that is to reverse our attitudes, of which we have thousands.

There is a method that can work for all of us. Wherever we feel a strong reaction, without trying to justify it in any way, let us say "I offer this attitude to you, Mother. Let me give it up. Let me make a progress." Call Mother at that point to reverse it, to dissolve that attitude.

There is infinite prosperity behind each of our opinions, attitudes and habits. Each time we come forward to give one of them up, we release an enormous energy that translates in our lives as the disappearance of a problem or the sudden appearance of a great opportunity.

(from Lectures On Sri Aurobindo's 'The Life Divine' by Garry Jacobs)

To Be Titled

If you study your own life or the lives of great achievers, you will see that enormous opportunities have emerged when small attitudes are rejected.

(from Lectures On Sri Aurobindo's 'The Life Divine' by Garry Jacobs)

Further comment: E.g. Apple's CEO Steve Jobs didn't want to allow the iPod music player and iTunes music store to work on PCs, only Macs. He held very firm on this. It was a foolish belief. But then he changed that small-minded attitude, and business suddenly boomed for Apple, and from that moment on it was set sailing for the stars; the highest valued company in the world.

To Be Titled

The Mother has entered our lives so we can be instruments and pioneers of the New Species, guided by Her Force and Love and Power.

Inner Response to An Opportunity

How should one react when an opportunity comes to us? Karmayogi says the following:

-The very first thing that is necessary is to recognise the incoming opportunity as GRACE and FEEL a thrill of thanksgiving, which is GRATITUDE. It is difficult.

-Mind, at this moment, should entertain ONLY positive thoughts. It should not indulge in expectation. Discourage and eliminate expectation, dwell on whatever is positive.

-Any negative thought entering by itself or initiated from inside is too great an insensitivity which this fresh opportunity and its atmosphere can admit.

One's experience should make him know that this new opportunity is too very sensitive in life and will not survive in the subtle plane the touch of or even the presence of a negative sensation.

-It is possible for us to know that right atmosphere. Silence is not the right atmosphere, but Silence behind the Silence is the region where these secrets dwell. Can you create it inside? Can we give the spiritual support it needs to be assimilated by our awakened spiritual being?

The atmosphere around us is social which is the very opposite of this requirement. To be able to view any social event from this Silence behind Silence is the only possible way.

-What one can receive depends upon the positive, creative sensitivities that can receive and negative sensitivities that can reject the undesirable vibrations.

Reader 1: Yes very informative. That is accept all opportunities in the positive vibe and do not give negative or any expectation. Just like sightseeing enter all fields of life and get the knowledge in it.

Reader 2: Thank you Sir for the post. Could you please further explain:

"Silence is not the right atmosphere One should go silence behind silence to perceive the new opportunity". Thank you.

Response: It is the Silence of Brahman.

There is mental silence of non-thinking.

When before going to bed, we consecrate and empty our thoughts, we can enter the silence of Brahman ie Satchitananda in sleep. Mother says five minutes in that place can give complete nightly rest. This was Mother's regular experience and reality.

The Rishis experienced the Infinite Brahman, and therefore the Silence behind the Silence, but apart from life.

We can achieve the same during the day through connection to the psychic being in the depths,

Through regular consecration and taking the others view as much as possible we can move deeper within to the subliminal and then the psychic, where we also experience ultimate silence as well as other spiritual aspects - like oneness, light, goodness, delight. Love, etc.

Silence has been my experience, but rarely the Silence behind it. However I am most interested in attaining it.

USA's Wageless and Top 1% Only Recovery

"Median household income continues to drop [in the US]. This is the first "recovery" in memory when this has happened.

Jobs are coming back but wages aren't. Every month the job numbers grow but the wage numbers go nowhere.

Most new jobs are in part-time or low-paying positions. They pay less than the jobs lost in the Great Recession.

This wageless recovery has been made all the worse because pay is less predictable than ever. Most Americans don't know what they'll be earning next year or even next month. Two-thirds are now living paycheck to paycheck.

So why is this called a "recovery" at all? Because, technically, the economy is growing. But almost all the gains from that growth are going to a small minority at the top.

In fact, 100 percent of the gains have gone to the best-off 10 percent. Ninety-five percent have gone to the top 1 percent.

The stock market has boomed. Corporate profits are through the roof. CEO pay, in the stratosphere. Yet most Americans feel like they're still in a recession.

And they're convinced the game is rigged against them."

(Robert Reich)

Further comment: Conditions are ripe for insurrection unless something is done.

Reader: The underprivileged should make vociferous demands.

Response: Yes, but it is also the middle class that needs to express their voice vociferously. The illness has spread from the underprivileged to the middle class because no serious action was taken by the society over the last number of decades to rectify the problems of the lower class. Now it has spread like an Ebola virus throughout the society.

What is needed are HIGHER skills amongst the population that is coordinated among all parts, including the people, the government, and the private sector, which will bring the higher wages so people will not be on the edge of the cliff as the lower and middle class are now. (i.e. almost zero savings, and strained to pay the bills.)

Further still a new form of Economics needs to emerge. It is just a matter of working together, of harmony not a shortage of resources. (All problems in life are essentially of harmony not resources and the like.)

The irony is that even the upper classes will want to be involved when there is a clear Plan.

To Be Titled

"Our problems and diseases are social conditionings. Break that conditioning, the problem disappears." (the Mother)

Let us examine the ways social conditioning determines in our own individual lives and try to reverse them so life opens up like a flower for us.

To Be Titled

When attending large functions like company Christmas parties and the like devotees and those close will tend to win special prizes is my experience; often sensing the vibration of the win just before it is announced. And when it does happen, it is still startling to them, but somehow not surprising.

To Be Titled

It is not in a day that one can overcome one's own nature. But with patience and enduring will the Victory is sure to come. (The Mother)

To Be Titled

There are times when focusing one's mind on a matter concentrates the energies and attracts a desired result, while other times attracting a result requires the mind to be silent, even forgetting the matter. Perceiving when to use either comes through subtle awareness of the situation.

Reader: Could you throw more light on difference (1) when the mind needs to visualize the result on a constant basis and (2) when the mind needs to consecrate the goal to The Mother and then remain SILENT. Thank you.

Response: The Secret asks us to visualize a result. It can be an effective method if one also addresses other issues that go along with it as explained by Garry Jacob at MSS site and elsewhere. I personally don't use this approach.

If I visualize at all it is visualizing Mother in certain ways as explained by N.Asokan at Karmayogi net forums, such as imagining your debtors each being paid off by Mother, or her touching an afflicted area, or similar types of scenarios.

I generally practice the 2nd method you mention of consecrating situations to Mother, followed by "Thy Will Be Done," which is a kind of silence as you indicate.

To Be Titled

To continuously be in the exact right place at the exact right time is Supramental.

Supergrace That Transcends Our Capacities

Our past is collected in us as our present capacities. Our past is our karma. As long as we believe in karma, Grace cannot act. The moment we move away from our karma, our being is no longer occupied in any fashion. It is fresh. Grace acts at once and allows us to reap the rewards of our own endowments unhindered by the past or karma.

There is a further progress open to Man. It is his ability to give up his faith in his own endowments. Man is not constituted to withdraw from his endowments because he is his own endowment. His identification with his endowments is total. Should he do that, grace at that moment turns into Super Grace. Grace permits you to work unhindered by karma. Super Grace brings the end results in the beginning, as it is not our own endowments that are at work, but Her endowments that do the work. (Sri Karmayogi)

Further comment: An example of Supergrace: You are assembling an important piece of new furniture for your home. You have consecrated the entire effort. Now you are at a critical point, and you are relying on your strength and skill to accomplish the work. However, things go a bit roughly and as a result you remember and decide not to depend on your capacities, but on Her. When you make the smallest effort to go further, all of a sudden the particular difficult action starts working out, which in turn leads to similar successful actions, leading to near perfect execution of the entire undertaking. You have cleared an important milestone in your new home by forgetting your capacity, in exchange for Her life response Power.

To Be Titled

Restraint from commenting is spiritual.

To Be Titled

Research has shown that the best way to be happy is to make each day happy. (Deepak Chopra)

Further comment: Yes, happiness can be viewed as the accumulation of happy moments -- where we seek and increasingly experience a more harmonic existence with others and life. Where there is no dark side, and we are free of want, desire, and ego movements that end in unhappiness.

Ultimate, non-stop happiness comes when we connect to and commune with our higher or deeper self, or with the Divine Itself, collaborating with Its Intent, losing ourselves in its being. Such true happiness is called "Joy" or "Ananda" or "Delight of Being."

Consciousness is experiencing the transcendence and perceiving it everywhere and in everything, including one's self.

Consciousness is the field of All. The Reality. It is non-local, beyond space and time, yet imminent in both.

Our perceptual experience is nearly the opposite of this, as we are caught in our surface, ego self, -- instead of being freed into the unbound Infinite Existence; that All; that Reality we are part of; that we are.

To Be Titled

In a tense, difficult situation, remain calm and still inside, and call Mother. The problem will tend to quickly dissolve.

To Be Titled

Creation emerges from the Force of Consciousness. It begins as unconscious matter, which we inherit and is the basis of our essential Ignorance. In this Involutionary process the original Consciousness is hidden, buried, involved. However, through our conscious progress, we release the involved Consciousness, reuniting it with Its Force (chit), thereby hastening the Evolution.

To Be Titled

The full understanding and realization of a deep principle reaches its peak when it can be expressed with great simplicity, brevity, and clarity to an unintelligent person.

To Be Titled

Complaining about a problem is easy. It is a sign of weakness. Devising an inner or outer method to help rectify it is empowerment, a sign of strength.

To Be Titled

Evolution is the Spirit unfolding in life.

To Be Titled

Karmayogi says that when we discover our Psychic Being (our evolving soul within) and from there surrender to the Mother and Her Force, we hasten the Evolution. It is the essence of the Integral Yoga, which is done for ourselves and the world.

To Be Titled

The more you complain about a matter, the worse things tend to get, in that or a related area, as the negative energy spreads.

Complaint is an understanding or idea surrounded by a negative emotion. Such emotions attract negatively.

To Be Titled

Intense loyalty all around, in every direction builds harmonic power that can attract enormous success, catapulting an organization or other entity to the top of its field. Such "all for one, and one for all" mentality is supramental, delivering the individual and one's group to the pinnacles of success.

Eg the players on a team deeply respect management, and vice versa. The team rises to win three championships in five years even though their overall talent is limited. At each critical point they rise to the occasion and succeed beyond all expectations. Their harmony created powerful energies that attract positive outcomes at key moments taking them to the stars.

To Be Titled

Impatiently waiting for a thing to happen tends to delay, lessen, or cancel it.

Eg in drought conditions an individual impatiently waits for and dwells on the reported coming storm. As a result the storm weakens or is deflected.

To Be Titled

In a positive atmosphere, the negatives are eventually swallowed by the positive. In a negative atmosphere, the opposite.

Eg a man makes a foolish mistake in relation to a conference. Still the conference, bathed in a positive atmosphere is very successful, and even his mistake turns into a plus.

To Be Titled

The smallest negative remark, even one made in jest can quickly attract negative circumstance, such as a small accident. Best to hold such thoughts to one's self.

Life response is consciousness manifesting an evolving reality. (Bill Hultquist)

To Be Titled

Karmayogi indicates in ordinary life we reach levels of what we can consider "perfection." But even there we can perceive how we can go higher still. With Perfect Perfection there is no obvious way to improve one's self at that level. It is ultimate perfection. It is Truth consciousness, supramental, the Essence of That which created this world, which we have achieved through our creation.

Further comment: I should add that when we reach perfect perfection in a work, life responds out of all proportion with good fortune, as the infinite replaces the current finite. (Yet ANY movement in that direction will also evoke proportional life response results.)

To Be Titled

When you give up your fear or anxiety or bother about doing a work or activity and fully commit to it, what occurs when you do is either much easier than you thought, or the need to do it at all disappears completely.

The ultimate form of individuality is to use one's capacities to create something unique for the betterment of the world. Examples are Steve Jobs, Albert Einstein, Srinivasa Ramanujan, Mohandas Gandhi, and Eleanor Roosevelt. In their cases, individuality and communality become integrated and one.

To Be Titled

Freshness in our everyday life occurs by being open to new possibilities, by embracing uncertainty and the unexpected, by continually shedding old/dead habits, and by continuously aspiring for something new and wonderful to enter our lives.

Reader: Roy Sir, nowadays I'm consciously changing the habits which gives me energy, enthusiasm

Response: Excellent.

To Be Titled

All of life is life response. There is nothing but it.

To Be Titled

All that needs to be done, gets done based on the logic of the Infinite.

Further comment: (Whereas the logic of the finite, of our reasoning mind has a very limited perspective of what is and isn't necessary.)

Universal Energies and Life Response

Life response can be explained this way: There is equilibrium of energies in the universe in a given infinitesimal space-time moment. Something gets "disturbed," positively or negatively as a result of a shift in consciousness by something, someone. Life however always seeks to restore its equilibrium of energies, so it offers a Fresh Act. That fresh act comes as a Response from life. The equilibrium of energies in the universe is restored in relation to that micro space-time event, but now at a higher level (if it is a positive response). Life continues to unfold endlessly, infinitely, yet progressively according to this cosmic energy-related dynamic. Each powerful vibration you give off through shifts in consciousness expresses as one or more significant events in the world.

To Be Titled

It is said by the guru that we are not inside our body, but the body is inside us. That would indicate that we are vast, infinite-like beings, even though we perceive ourselves as limited and finite.

To Be Titled

Sometimes we take action, get a result, not knowing why. Only later on do we discover the purpose and meaning. It is the subconscious leading the way forward, compelling our body to act. It is the subconscient that is in touch with the superconscient that perceives all space and time, and therefore the right path to our future.

Reader: Sometimes the things we do are to our ruin

Response: Yes that is mostly due to bad habits, poor attitudes, and wrong beliefs.

Reader: Is it soul's guidance?

Response: Yes, the subliminal and soul receive the guidance from the superconscient, and pass it on subconsciously to the individual. Appa says that the soul exists inside the subliminal which is inside or on the edge of the subconscient.

The consciousness wants the Mind to be still, but it continues unabatedly, so there are headaches. Listening to that inner voice to change replaces it with stillness that expands to soothing peace. Now we become fit instruments for the Force to descend in us and create practical, life-changing results.

How Practical Knowledge Is Absorbed As Skill

Knowledge of the mind taken down to vital and physical for effectivity is skill. Skill is practical knowledge.

In the long process of manual labour and vital adventure man acquires the physical, vital skills such as building a house, or killing an enemy tactfully. The essence of this long labour collects as a mental residue, viz. knowledge. Hence knowledge is mental skill.

The process of evolution provides for hastening it either by education or concentrated effort, but it does not admit of escaping any step.

Therefore acquiring the right skill of each level and gathering their essence in mind as knowledge is an inevitable process of evolution.

(thanks to RK)

To Be Titled

Humility in one's significant achievement opens the door to even greater success.

RK: Appa says humility is a state – where we dissolve our ego or deny the scope of expression of ego or at the least deny the scope of assertion. He also says according to Mother, She know only one person with humility – that is Sri Aurobindo. For us Appa says – awareness of our ignorance in every moment is humility. He gives a formula : humility + determination to have that = Sustained greatness.

We often confuse - our obedience to any one, politeness due to social needs, keeping low profile due to incapacity , being good for some reasons – all as humility. It is not enough to be humble in public or private, because it is only a behaviour. Humility must be acquired as inner character for it to be of value in Spirit. Inner humility is awareness of the divinity in others or inner outer correspondence or the feeling of oneness.

To Be Titled

Often in society charity and other forms of generosity are honored above all other values. Yet the application and openness to Truth -- true Knowledge and Wisdom of the conditions -- has the power to bring about results that rapidly solve the problems that charity and generosity aspire to overcome. It is because Truth is rooted in the Spirit and Its Force, which can take any limited condition, any finite and rapidly turn it into an Infinite; i.e. great abundance that also brings joy.

The Great Choices of Great Individuals

If you take most great men, their contemporaries will say, "He is not exceptional, many were his equal, and sometimes they excelled him. It is luck that favoured him." This is what they believe. When you read the CHOICES the great man had made at every step of his crucial life, it will be clear all those who had equal abilities did not choose as the great man chose. Greatness always chooses the RIGHT side, which every other person shirks. (Sri Karmayogi)

Success in Life That Does Not Plateau

Most people who rise fast due to their capacity, receptivity, et al, also level off after sometime. As soon as their life rises, all the lower urges -- competition, jealousy, self-assertion, demand, desire, etc. -- rise up. However, through Spirit one can continue to rise if one develops the necessary inner qualities that build up success; such as overcoming negative attitudes and fixed habits, thwarting ego movements, applying high personal and business values, maintaining high levels of aspiration and will to achieve, being open to all possibilities, maintaining inner silence, and calling to the Mother and Her Force. Then one builds up a powerful, magnetic level of receptivity that attracts the Force, evoking ever-increasing levels of success into one's life. (based on thoughts of Sri Karmayogi)

To Be Titled

I am happy to report that my book 'The Miraculous Phenomenon of LIFE RESPONSE' was just favorably reviewed in the Hindustan Times of India. (You may need to expand your browser setting to 250%+ to read it clearly on a PC.)

To Be Titled

The Mechanistic view of life -- mechanical, material, "logical" cause and effect -- and the Life Response view - subtle, causal, nonlinear, overcoming space-time - are polar opposites. Shifting from the former to the latter dramatically elevates one's consciousness, hastening Evolution in the world.

Resolving the Web Of Conflict & Sub-Conflicts

Examine any conflictive situation in the world. There will be different aspects, with a variety of inter-related sub-conflicts, issues, and challenges.

The process of the resolution of the central conflict relates to and is intertwined with the resolution of the subs. This is how the world changes; how Nature works, how the world (slowly and painfully) evolves. Nature works by resolving deeply connected multiplicities of issues simultaneously. It is the Genius of the Cosmic Master who conceived evolution through Nature's contraries.

Eg in Pride and Prejudice the elopement episode of the youngest daughter caused or was simultaneous to at least half dozen other interrelated issues. For the overall resolution of the potential scandal to occur, a series of psychological issues, each one unique in scope was required on the parts of the individuals involved. It is Nature's multi-pronged, interconnected, difficult way of progress.

And yet there is a higher form of evolution. It is through the soul, spirit, higher consciousness. In this dynamic evolution radically speeds up, as it occurs not through conflict, but through harmonic actions that trigger others in a chain of never-ending positive response from life.

Trace Backwards & Forwards

If you observe an egotistic movement by a player in a film or novel or in real life, you can sense that something problematic will arise for that person later on in relation to that behavior. When you discover and look back from that point to the underlying wanting quality that precipitated it, you can clearly see the connection; how life responds negatively to that original wanting attitude or behavior. I call this perspective "Trace Backwards" or "Trace Forwards", depending on the vantage point.

Eg rather than being humble and calm, an FBI agent celebrated wildly and with malevolent feeling when he trapped an attorney who was allegedly involved in an underhanded scheme. However, a while later the agent discovered that the attorney was actually a plant, and that instead he himself had been completely duped by the fake lawyer, nearly ruining the agent's career.

In this situation we can see the way the agent originally responded - with lower physical and vital feelings/emotions -- whose vibration went out and then later rippled back to haunt him. In this way, we can take any story or real life experience and watch for signs of negativity that are likely to manifest as instance of ill-fortune somewhere down the line. Likewise we can track back the original malfeasance of an individual or collective from the current negative circumstance.

There are ways out of such dilemma in our own lives. E.g. if we recall that we have acted in a false way in the past, we can consecrate it by offering it to the spiritual Force so that it does not ripple forward and lead to a problematic outcomes in the future. Or we can examine a negative outcome that has come to us and trace it back to a wrong attitude and behaviors of the past and consecrate that so that it will never happen again in the future.

A Problem Flushed Out

Sometimes what we think of as a bad thing is the accumulation of falsehood that has built up, is for some reason no longer allowed to fester, and is then released before us in full view. In other words, it is the forced elimination of an accumulated negative, which is actually a good thing.

For a long time the water in the bathtub of a house renter would occasionally back up and not flow out. It was a minor nuisance. Then one day, the entire system backed up, and it was discovered that the pipes leading into this home and several others were filled with serious debris. On this occasion, the renter of the home quickly took action on a Sunday morning, when usually no one is around to fix such things. However, after a call in, the landlord quickly arrived on the scene, and was beaming that he had brought the best plumber expert he had ever known. Such a response on a Sunday morning when most were slowly rising! The plumber then proceeded to discover the entire mess in the pipe system. It was solved in less than a half hour, which almost seemed miraculous-like.

As it turns out in the days and hours leading up to this problem, the Force was strong and the atmosphere filled with good energy. Moreover, an extra special important positive event in the life of the house renter had just taken place. We can say the atmosphere and conditions forced the system to present its true colors, which was the accumulation and overflow of the putrid water and debris. Now that this problem presented itself in full, it could be solved once and for all in one fell swoop.

It is interesting to note that the owner of the home had remained calm throughout the situation and took direct action when confronted with this difficult situation, which in a very positive surrounding atmosphere "flushed out" the negatives, bringing things to a head, enabling a resolution, which all told meant that it was a positive in disguise.

To Be Titled

Taking to Integral Yoga -- i.e. surrender to the Mother through the psychic to become the Ishwara (creator) in the world -- we are not limited to the one time attainment of material and spiritual progress; to a leveling off. It is instead a never-ending ascent. This is to go far beyond the devotee level in our spiritual aspiration, to the yoga of the sadhak. It is our choice whether to take this difficult, unchartered, infinitely-ascending, ultimately rewarding path to the Future.

Power of Higher Harmony

If any entity or organization wants to achieve at a higher level, it can begin by creating more harmony - amongst its people, its customers, the levels of organization, etc. Harmony enables higher achievement even when there are limited resources, talent, energy, etc. Increasing harmony generates the right atmosphere that can take an individual or collective to the pinnacles of success. In fact each attempt at higher harmony will tend to attract good fortune from out of nowhere.

That being the case, how can you create more harmony around yourself or within your organization?

Reader: By advising them to stop their investments or by taking the authoritative approach on subordinates to get matter fixed quickly.

Reader: Appreciation, positive reinforcement, giving them enough space to share their views.

Response: Very good, Hemi.

Some others that come to mind: tolerance, openness, acceptance, respectfulness, discovering mutual interest, coordinating views and actions, shedding ego, all for one/one for all attitude, not asserting, not blaming, not interfering, crossing over the boundary between us, agreeability, taking the other person's point of view, patience, deep listening, not dwelling on another's weakness or sore point, finding the mutuality of spirit in others, etc.

Reader: Thanks Roy Sir, Now we are implementing these values in our small business. By The Mother's grace we started seeing significant improvement. Thanks for your more points or views. Sure, we will develop these values too. Simply we want our employees to be happy and feel more comfortable at work place. My father always states that point all for one/one for all attitude for family harmony.

Response: "Simply we want our employees to be happy and feel more comfortable at work place." To do that focus on how you can help develop each individual staffer to the max

To Be Titled

It's important to give others the right to be wrong.

To Be Titled

At the lowest level we are anguished by a situation or circumstance. From a level higher we perceive it as a difficulty or problem. Beyond that it is perceived as a challenge. Above that still it we see it as an opportunity. Higher still we recognize it as good fortune. Beyond that we recognize it as Grace.

Reader: "Lydia's Elopement in Pride & Prejudice"

- Mrs. Bennet took that as great difficulty and deeply depressed.
- Mr. Bennet took the conscious responsibility and took that as a challenge and he tried his very best to go to London in search of them.
- Darcy took that as an opportunity to demonstrate his inner change and reversed the elopement to marriage. He did that impersonally though.
- Jane Austen, the author had applied the principle of Luck behind the misfortune knowingly or unknowingly.
- Sri Karmayogi explained the principle behind that misfortune as Grace since that incident accomplished the other 2 marriages (Elizabeth & Jane) and brought everything back to Mr. Bennet's family which they thought had lost. In his commentary He has said. "Lydia's elopement is a marvel"

In practical life problems, one may perceive the issues as challenge or up to opportunity. To perceive it beyond (as Luck or Grace) one will need to know the issue in totality which is usually difficult by the ignorant mind as the mind divide the reality into parts and pieces and perceive that as real. Perceiving till difficulty or challenge is Nature's slow method of evolution which accompany with pain and suffering. Perceiving in higher context is conscious evolution which makes Life to respond in many miraculous ways. One needs to develop his personality in various aspects in order to perceive such higher levels.

To Be Titled

The more you complain, the more life will present you with situations to complain about.

Reader: Roy, if you were a cricket or baseball player, you'd hit the ball out of the park every time.

Additional: Shifting from complaint to non-complaint (and withdrawing the corresponding emotion inside) evokes powerful positive response from life.

To Be Titled

Disappointment indicates wrong original attitude.

Reader: Please explain it with an example. Thanks.

Response: You are over-anxious about something you want to come about. When it doesn't, you are disappointed. The original over-anxiousness cancelled the possibility of the desired thing to take place. Replacing it with calm, steady aspiration would likely have attracted a far better outcome.

There are a number of negative attitudes that attract disappointment and related negative emotions.

Impatience, over-eagerness leads to mistakes; causes one to jump to wrong conclusions. Instead use the mind to contemplate, to dwell on the issue, which will lead one closer to the facts; to the recognition of the true truth.

RK: According to Appa the bottom line to be seen is not to be disturbed by the impatience of others or over eagerness to meet the deadline of others.

Reader: Yes ur right....I have often seen people relating their over eagerness and impatience to their being more dedicated and sincere than others and they feel that faster they do things the better they are however that's not true

Response: Faster is good if one has the patience, organization and capacity to meet that speed. Faster with impatience and other lower movements will invariably lead to a crash of sorts.

To Be Titled

Evil manifests when the regressive, dark forces hidden in the invisible realms meet the lower vital emotional being of the individual whose thoughts are saturated with dark, intense, negative attitudes and feelings that lead to action. The confluence of these two movements usher in evil into the world.

To Be Titled

Before each major activity you engage in, offer it to Mother, with intensity, and without expectation. The conditions will now tend to work out splendidly.

Reader: Yes, I'm doing that. Thank you Roy. I'm grateful for your reminder to continue to offer it to the Mother.

One should not be disturbed by the impatience of others, or be overeager to meet their deadlines. (paraphrase of Karmayogi)

thanks to RK

Additional comment: If we are steady and calm in such situations, the conditions will tend to shift and move toward smooth flow.

Reader: tried, it seems it is really hard

Response: Recognizing it when it happens is a first step. Establishing a kind of inner strength is helpful in these situations.

Also, practicing "non-reaction" is a method we often employ that has great power in these sorts of situations. Would need to know the details (eg via message) to help you.

Response: Thanks Roy Sir, will try it.

To Be Titled

The truest devotee waits on Mother's initiatives to come to him first, and then acts on these alone

Further comment: Success is almost 100% here when the opportunity is taken up. And the results are far beyond one's expectation or belief. Initiating on one's own has perhaps 50% success rate, and tends to be riddled with problems, great ups and downs, etc.

To Be Titled

"God is in the details" is a corollary of the principle that perfection in work attracts the Infinite.

To Be Titled

Each act of self-givingness attracts an unexpected positive result back to your person.

To Be Titled

When you perceive and begin realizing the integral nature of the Reality, of the All, thoughts come pouring in that express it in novel and instructive ways.

To Be Titled

"Sri Aurobindo reminds us that in the involutionary process, Satchitananda (Existence, Conscious-Force, Delight) is hidden, absorbed in nature. That consciousness is thereby also hidden in Man, which is the source of his essential Ignorance.

How then can Satchitananda be brought back and flourish in human existence in the evolution so that Man's Ignorance is overcome?

He says it can happen when Man gains the True, Integral Knowledge of the nature of existence: of his own True Spiritual Individuality, as well as of the Universal (cosmos) and Transcendent (Divine) nature."

(from 'An Analysis of Sri Aurobindo's The Life Divine' by Roy Posner)

Ways to Build Up Psychological Strength

[Here is my response to the question of how we can build up psychological strength in our lives.]

One approach is to start by examining where our weakness lies in a given situation, and then reversing it. If we see we are weak in a situation, we can think about why, and then devise strategies to do the opposite, or at least take a small step out of that weakness. When you do life will open up in several unexpected ways. Moreover, the entire matter will now give you added strength. In the book [The Miraculous Phenomenon of Life Response] I give several stories where the weakness showed, where they recognized it, and then made the conscious decision to take to some action that brought about the response from life. It built up their confidence in that area.

Naturally when you have the positive response from life as a result of the effort to shed weakness, you will be more amenable to express your strength when situations appear in the future.

Often people feel weak because they are in an untenable position or they have no control over the situation. The stories in the book address these. Then there are situations where one feels weak out of fear.

Say some client owes you lots of money, but now you are unable to collect for a while. A key here is not just having the strength to collect, but not feeling fear and anxiety inside. In other words, just by not giving in to the negative sensation of fear that makes you feel so vulnerable, you can attract good fortune. It is like saying no to a naughty child. We can do the same when fear appears. Tamp it down, and try to relax. Again, once that person sees the positive life response results, they are more likely to take to in future. This is in essence the process of developing the capacity of "equality of being," or we can call it "non-reaction." It is a spiritual virtue that can build up over time. Offering difficult matters to the spirit can also give you inner strength and produce astonishing results.

To Be Titled

It's best to turn complaint and assertion of your position to accepting their point of view and even feeling gratitude toward the other person for what they have done on your behalf. When you do, there is a good chance that what bothered you materially will be found to have never existed in the first place.

Reader: Roy, could you please give an example?

Response: A man was complaining to his wife that the tuna he was about to open from a can was not solid but mushy. The title on the can was "Chunk Light." He insisted that she should purchase ones that just said "Chunk" without the Light. She said it doesn't make a difference, that the others were more expensive, etc. Then at one point he decided to shift away from his complaint and position, and feel grateful for the fact that she made the purchase in the first place. When he then opened the can he discovered that the tuna was all solid! -- even though it was called Chunk Light. By shifting his consciousness, what he perceived to be materially a fact actually never was to begin with.

Negative Response to Panelist's Questionable Value

A young, intelligent woman on a talk show indicated that once hackers had broken into an entertainment company, the press had a right to reveal any of the hacked company's secrets to the public; a dubious conclusion on her part.

Well it turned out that right after making that remark she had trouble staying on the air due to technical problems, mainly caused by her husband who was playing video games, disturbing the speed of connection. In fact the discussion amongst the panel members went on about the particular game he was playing, instead of the issues at hand, thoroughly embarrassing the woman on the air in front of thousands of people.

Because she had taken an ethically dubious position about the company that was hacked, believing it was fine to reveal private matters publicly, life returned the favor by embarrassing her publicly on the air with gossip that threatened to ruin her marriage, as she jokingly put it. It was a classic case of a negative response of life to a low attitude and value.

To Be Titled

A persistent effort to overcome a sticky problem will often reveal at the end an unexpected, wonderful new opportunity.

To Be Titled

Karmayogi says that when we shift from faith in our own skills and capacities to Mother we attract Super Grace

Tuna Can Response

It's best to turn your complaining and assertion of your position to one of accepting the other person's point of view; even going so far as to feel gratitude toward the other person for what they have done on your behalf. When you do, there is a reasonably good chance that what bothered you materially will be found to have never existed in the first place!

A man was complaining to his wife that the tuna he was about to open from a can was not solid but mushy. The title on the can was "Chunk Light." He insisted that she should purchase ones that just said "Chunk" without the Light. She said it doesn't make a difference, that the others were more expensive, etc. Then at one point he decided to shift away from his complaint and position, and feel grateful for the fact that she made the purchase in the first place. When he then opened the can he discovered that the tuna was all solid! -- even though it was called Chunk Light. By shifting his consciousness, what he perceived to be materially a fact actually never was to begin with.

Reader: That's really true I experienced it in my life

New Human Species on the Horizon

It is said that as a result of World War II and its outcome humanity sped up its progress by 100 years or more. Such developments as the UN, the EU, global trade, higher education for the masses, the personal computer and smartphones, the mass knowledge and power of the Internet, greater health awareness, artificial intelligence, the vast multiplication of money, billions coming out of poverty in Asia and elsewhere, environmental awareness, new views of personal growth and spirituality, and many others have dramatically accelerated the mental development of Man. They may have taken centuries longer to appear had not the world gone through the calamity of WWII.

Along another line the Mother said it would take 30,000 years for humanity to evolve a new Supramental species and a Divine Life on earth through Nature's normal progression.

However, she said it could occur in 3000 or even 300 years through the supramental power; Her Force. She even mentioned the extreme possibility of it occurring in 30 years if people en masse learned of and took to the Force. She said it would only take a certain current of thought for humanity to switch directions, take to a higher consciousness, thereby accelerating the Evolution.

The Force alone ended the Cold War, the greatest danger to the world in history, in less than a year. A further movement toward Human Unity among the nations can be a great support for the development of a new spirit-based humanity and species.

To Be Titled

Every moment has its very specific needs. The question then is are you able to maintain your connection with them, or are you easily deflected? Being one with life flow of life, with the unfolding of the Reality puts you in touch with the exact requirements of each moment. If you then act on them, good fortune will be your never-ending friend.

To Be Titled

Despite all the shocking daily attention it garners in the media, it startles people when they are informed that violence in the world has radically decreased in recent years. It is now around one tenth of what it was for the average year of the 20th century. It has gone from - 5,000,000 deaths a year to well under 500,000, and this downward movement is accelerating . Another way if saying this is that the media is covering each violent death over 10 times more intensely than before.

In his book, Steven Pinker an authority on the subject writes: "The decline of violence may be the most significant and least appreciated development in the history of our species."

Some of the reasons for this change:

- more democratic nations
- more highly educated population
- greater literacy; more mental society
- human life now considered more precious
- higher human values

Reader: Yes the news from far reaches make it into our living rooms in seconds not days or years!

Response: It creates reality distortion field that we fall into. It's not that the facts are not true, but the importance of events in the context of the greater scheme of things is warped. Instead, we need to turn off the media more - especially the visual - and think.

Reader: Warped is a good word choice. Time and distance are flattened to a single concentrated point that misleads.

Response: Yes, exactly.

To Be Titled

When in Mother's consciousness you feel compelled to do things more perfectly. That's because it is supramental, where each and every thing has added significance.

Reader: Yesterday have read in Appa's book Narumanam - when we do a simple / small work in the attitude of doing a big work, it becomes perfect and a way to poorna yoga

Response: Excellent point. Thanks.

Perfecting an Act

The perfect execution of any act requires-

- clear perception of what needs to be done
- an aspiration for it to be accomplished
- the decision and commitment to actually do it
- the persevering will to carry it out
- the knowledge and skills to bring it to perfection
- the necessary resources for it to be executed
- the right attitudes at every step of the way
- the full absorption in the act at the expense of other matters (i.e. focus)
- bringing to bear one's appropriate high personal values (e.g. orderliness)
- bringing the spiritual Force to bear as necessary

Joy will rise up from within as the activity proceeds, and life will frequently respond in unexpected positive ways to such efforts.

You will see the Process of Creation of the universe in miniature.

Reader: Excellent roy, Roy Posner sir. Have analysed some of my activities which was failed. Sometimes "the right attitude " is missing . The attitude behind the act was selfishness, not taking other man's point of view. Thanks for sharing, an eye opener msge

Response: Yes, generally that is the big hang-up.

How to Attract Particular Results in Life

Sri Karmayogi offers these ways to create a particular result in your life:

Need money -- examine your willingness to work

Need friends -- examine your attitudes

Seeking Promotion -- examine how far you are willing to raise your talents

Seeking Popularity -- Initially it depends on how far you deserve it, later how far you do not seek it.

Husband doubts -- purity of thoughts

Disobedience in children -- overcome your uncontrollable mature

Disease -- Faith in disease, medicine, doctor, lack of faith in Mother, unwillingness to give up disease-creating gunam (qualities of your nature).

Marriage -- your opinions, circumstances.

Negative Response to Abandoning One's Highest Values

Abandoning the high personal, business, or societal values that got you where you are tends to attract one's ruination.

Examples:

-A sports team dedicated to teamwork, state of the art execution, and catching the progressive way -- thereby winning title after title -- resorts to machismo attitude, hiring players who advocate such, lack of concern for the community that helped it succeed, which in turn leads to failure in big games, the onset of acute losses, continuous embarrassment in the press by the foolish deeds of its players, and the loss of coherence and faith of the players in their organization and in themselves.

-The largest department store chain in the world, famous for trusting in its customers to return goods without question, as well as utilizing the latest resources and technologies of its time is able to maintain the trusting value, but abandons seeking new methods of offering its products, which leads to its ongoing rush toward imminent collapse.

Evolution of Papacy

As described in detail in Her 13-volume diary "the Agenda," the Mother worked inwardly to have a positive effect on the Vatican, so that its old superstitions would begin to fall away, opening the doors to new social values and possibilities in society.

Well it turns out that just after Her inner efforts Pope John Paul II came to power and played an important role in ending the Cold War; and now Pope Francis appears to be demonstrating human values that are even higher.

If there is no regression, the Mother's aspirations along these lines will have been realized. It is the subtle conversion of the Papacy to higher values, which is probably necessary for the evolution of life on earth.

To Be Titled

A person will almost never change when we complain about their attitudes, habits, beliefs, etc. Though there may be some short-term improvement, soon after they are likely to resort to their old ways. They CAN however change if we consciously withhold our complaint, which tends to quickly attract positive conditions all around.

Life Response Methods Working In Tandem

Non-reaction approach to the intensities of others can elicit a positive response from life as a result of one's Silent Will that follows. Thus the two inner techniques can work in tandem.

Suppose someone is disorganized. One day for the nth time she is anguished when she cannot find an important document she is looking for. Instead of catching her vibration and complain about her lack of organization, I refuse to respond. It is non-reaction. Moreover, in this situation I inwardly aspire that she become to more organized, without expressing it outwardly. A moment later she reveals that earlier in the week she actually found someone to take care of all of her papers for a reasonable costs; price which is the answer to her (and my Silent Will) prayers.

Non-reaction, non-complaint, and Silent Will all working together can create such a magnificent response.

Thinking Addiction

Like eating, watching sensationalist tv, playing on the smartphone et al, we are also addicted to thinking. Mental thought gives us mental energy that spreads through our body. The problem is that non-thinking - mental silence - brings ten times the essential knowledge required when we do think, and does so in one tenth the time.

Reader: Hi Roy, so that means that mental silence is better for us.

Response: Yes. A lot of our thinking is wasteful. It competes with rational thinking and mental silence for effective "Mind-space."

Also, thought after mental silence often comes as Intuition and Light, without having to think, where one just knows the essentials of what needs to be known at that point of the day. The knowledge just appears in the mind from out of nowhere.

(Actually it comes from the universal plane of Mind, which is nowhere and everywhere.)

Reader: This is rather interesting. I have experienced this after meditation many times Response: Yes. Very good.

Forget About It!

If you are bothered by a problem, simply forgetting the issue and withdrawing any anxiety about it can cause the matter to self-correct!

A man was frustrated that he couldn't get his virus protection and backup programs to work in tandem. He had to turn one off to enable the other to work. After various attempts to solve the problem, including calls to tech support, he put aside the entire matter. A week or so later the problem self corrected and the two programs were now working in perfect sync.

In another situation, an individual was trying to make contact via phone to the Indian visa office in San Francisco. He had to wait a half hour or more to get through each time he called over the course of a month. The situation had now reached the point of absurdity as many other issues tied to that office had also failed the man. Seeing that after consecrating the matter, it still remained problematic, he decided to forget the matter completely. A week later he contacted that office twice and in both instances was INSTANTLY connected, without a minute delay. Plus the underlying mystery of what was causing the delay in the processing of the visa was discovered.

In both cases forgetting and withdrawing emotional angst attracted the resolution of the problem on its own.

Reader1: When we forget, our soul take the matter

Reader2: Consecration is the key

Response: Yes, S, in the two episodes there may have been subconscious or background or residual consecration tied into the forgetting.

Yes, K, forgetting is a kind of detachment that allows the subliminal being, the soul to take over in the background.

Part of the spiritual growth process is the seeker seeking ways out of impatience and towards patience. It is a spiritual attribute. These difficult, prickly situations are a test of our patience.

It is through these we develop the unmoving "witness consciousness" that silently and without judgment looks out on the world. Forgetting is one means of embracing this spiritual quality.

To Be Titled

One solution to ending terrorism in Pakistan and India is for the two nations to reunite.

Reader1: Roy Sir, thanks for the post. Few days back, u have posted one msge about how mother force ended WWII. When mother can stop world war, she can stop the terrorism in the world. In MSS, we used to pray for rain before meditation for 2 minutes as advised by Appa. I thought of sending mail to Appa to add 2 min prayer to evoke mother for peace, in all MSS meditation. Bcos for the atmosphere in MSS, whatever we aspire, mother sanction the same.

Reader2: Thanks K for the note on prayer and meditation. In MSS what mantra did you use when meditating and praying for rain as advised by APPA Unity of India and Pakistan would mean unity of religions and ushering in of spirituality. Correct or right.

Response: Yes, at least at a later stage. Now there are more Muslims in India than there are in Pakistan, and they get along reasonably well. So social harmony would likely take place in a newly united or federated India/Pakistan before spiritual unity.

K, I believe terrorism will end when poverty (and the unemployment and angst that issues from it) ends. If we pray to Mother for prosperity for the Middle East and African nations then the roots of terrorism can be overcome. This is one approach.

To Be Titled

Since any act in life will repeat over and over, sooner or later, it is best to consecrate each negative circumstance as it arises in order to prevent its future repetitions, including iterations that are exacerbated.

RK: Basically life repeats – to teach you something to evolve. But we don't want some happenings repeat again, that we perceive as negative circumstance. I remember some of Appa's advices.

When we feel the circumstance is negative due to failure in work, instead of lingering on negatives look for number of positive strands for future work that reveals success in higher planes.

- In a negative circumstances, let no negative thought enter your mind or let it find its expression. If you have to express one, try to express it as positively as possible. Best thing is to listen others, not to talk. When listening, keep mind quiet without any prejudice, opinions and preferences.

- Learn to see things in a positive aspect which come to you negatively. In yourself for each positive action, see the negative counterpart and vice versa. Try to station yourself at the core where positive and negative meet, consecrating both.

- Think of how grace acted in similar situations earlier. In negative circumstance or atmosphere - Start with Consecration end with Gratitude.

Response: This is a wonderful approach on how to act, to be in negative situations to prevent repetitions of those circumstance. No negative thought, seeing things in a positive light, see past in light of how Grace unfolded.

Brain, Mind, Knowledge

We believe that Brain, Mind and Knowledge are essentially the same thing, but in reality they are three distinct entities.

--BRAIN is like the physical hardware of a computer, phone or tablet. It is the material entity that is the interface between our body/person and the unseen universe.

--MIND is like the software operating system of those devices, which is NOT physical and does not reside in the brain, but rather exists as planes of mental being.

Each plane of mind we are at determines the quantity and quality of knowledge that can come into our field of awareness. Mind's levels range from sense mentality (visual and auditory alone) to spiritual (like intuition and revelation); from surface awareness to perceiving life from the subliminal/soul depths within.

--KNOWLEDGE is waves of consciousness that permeate the universe surrounding our being. They describe the nature of the Reality from infinite points of view.

Our level of consciousness, the plane of mind we are in, determines our level (quantity and quality) of knowledge. Integral yoga (conscious evolution) brings us integral knowledge where we know the essence, the details and the whole of anything in any moment in a unified oneness. It is known as Supermind.

To Be Titled

English historian and broadcaster Michael Wood called the Tamils the last surviving classical civilisation on Earth, because the Tamil mainstream preserved substantial elements of their past regarding belief, culture, music and literature despite the modern globalised world.

To Be Titled

In romantic relationships trying to change the partner is a futile gesture. In fact, NOT trying to change them has the best chance of changing them.

Reader: According to The Book, "The real essence of permanent romance is self-giving"

Response: Yes, that is the active spiritual element of romance. It is almost opposite or inverse of complaining.

To Be Titled

Helpful, practical solutions are always preferable to complaining. Complaint has the element of weakness, including an inability to solve the problem in a harmonious way,

To Be Titled

When the nerves are weak it is best to remain silent until one recover one's energies.

To Be Titled

Every difficulty is another opportunity to engage in, put our faith in Mother.

Reader: Like when I am facing a disciplinary hearing

Response: Yes

To Be Titled

When the world is moving toward ever-increasing modernity and you hold your ground or move in the opposite direction, you are likely to be pummeled by life somewhere down the line.

Example; Russia has pretty much built its economy on oil alone, instead of diversifying, let alone taking to new environmentally friendly energy technologies. As a result its economy and currency has been pummeled in the downturn in oil prices. The frackers of the American mid-west, the North Sea of the UK, and the like are currently meeting with the same fate.

Anachronistic forces will meet with negative fate -- sooner or later. It can occur at the level of the individual or of the collective - whether families, communities, societies, nations, businesses and organizations.

To Be Titled

Cynicism is best replaced with helpful solutions. Look at the problem from the perspective of overcoming it, rather than being contemptuous and sarcastic.

Reader: I totally agree with you on this!....in my office whenever I try to bring out a solution people try to bring out the negative aspects of it saying that we are being cynical because we want you to overcome these weaknesses but then in this process they ignore the goodness or the vast potential of the idea, moreover (as you said) they don't come up with solutions and instead hinder birth of the idea with their cynicism

Response: If the owners develop a "can do" environment, and hire people who think along these lines, or at least management influences the current culture and staff to be positive, i.e. it becomes a business value permeating the organization, it can help the situation greatly.

Another line of thought: If the ideas you promulgate regularly elicit negative reaction, it might be best to withhold them, or hold them silently within till you see a positive response from life (including from the skeptics).

Reader: yes but if that's not the case in India specially in IT companies, people don't consider the values of the company as their own and keep changing companies or opt for higher education I guess there are many reasons such as top management not being concerned, lack of opportunities in the company etc.

Response: If people don't consider the values of the company their own, then either the company isn't hiring people who share those values, or the values are not being implemented deep within the company at the extreme level of details. Another issue is how sincere the company is about the values it says it believes in. This is definitely a problem in India, and a sign it needs management consulting support. She is just coming into success, and the management/employee relationship still has a way to go, especially compared with US, EU, Japan, etc. Still things are starting to improve.

To Be Titled

Perhaps the most foolish thing an individual can do is not learn from their experiences - whether positive or negative; in work, relationships, or other aspects of life.

Therefore why not take the time to contemplate your past and make a list of all your major experiences - whether successes or failures - and what you have learned from each. Now try to integrate those lessons into your current, daily life. If you make that effort, life will blossom everywhere around you.

To Be Titled

Life is the Becoming. Our challenge is to bring the Being (the spirit) into the Becomings of our lives, creating a divine life on earth.

To Be Titled

There have been 10,000 generations before us. And yet ours is the first to have access to the supramental Force, which has the power to instantly set right the conditions in any area we wish to apply it.

To Be Titled

The more unstable our mind, the more unstable our choices. (a proverb)

To Be Titled

Society evolves by increasingly applying higher social values in evermore complex situations.

Several Thoughts Related To Christmas

-Christmas is much older than Christianity, when it was celebrated as the return of the Light, a symbolic and spiritual event.

-Christ humanized Europe.

-Christ was selected as one of the Avatars by Sri Aurobindo, but not quite in the top tier 4 or 5.

-Santa helps children have faith in the invisible, and appreciation of generosity and goodness.

-The Virgin (Mary) was an incorporation of the Divine Mother Goddess of earlier times. Catholicism retained that attribute.

-The Papacy is being converted by the Mother; Pope Francis the latest example.

-The extreme beliefs of fundamentalists of all major religions shows that religion's reign is drawing to an end.

-A new reign of clearer thinking and direct spiritual experience is at hand.

-Santa is a clear thinker; an invisible harbinger of goodness, continually rekindling Jesus' message of Love.

Reader: Perhaps after New year Christmas should be the widely celebrated day crossing religion and boundaries. Is this correct?

Response: Yes it could be. Or the New Year could be recalibrated to occur on the solstice December 21st. I.e. Christmas, New Year and solstice all start on current Dec. 21, but it is converted to a new January 1. Perhaps it is too much to ask of the world!

How to Take Negative Circumstances Positively

"I remember some of Karmayogi's advices.

When we feel the circumstance is negative due to failure in work, instead of lingering on negatives look for number of positive strands for future work that reveals success in higher planes.

In a negative circumstances, let no negative thought enter your mind or let it find its expression. If you have to express one, try to express it as positively as possible. Best thing is to listen others, not to talk. When listening, keep mind quiet without any prejudice, opinions and preferences.

Learn to see things in a positive aspect which come to you negatively.

In yourself for each positive action, see the negative counterpart and vice versa.

Try to station yourself at the core where positive and negative meet, consecrating both.

Think of how grace acted in similar situations earlier. In negative circumstance or atmosphere
- Start with Consecration end with Gratitude." (RK)

To Be Titled

Life repeats in order to teach you to evolve some part of your nature.

To Be Titled

RK: DK: "But how to know that we are in a zone that is comfortable? Sometimes circumstances deceive us."

The main points to see are:

We know but we don't do it:

We act in million points in all our personality, character, attitude, vital, mental, physical etc.
- in a lower level or plane though we very much know what is higher consciousness, what is higher values , higher perfection - even at the level of higher manners and etiquettes. It means that we are in comfort zone when there is no pressure to perform in higher levels. Appa gives example of Indians visiting Singapore and maintaining the cleanliness there and as first thing they through garbage and spit as soon as they land here.

Inefficiency and clumsiness:

This happens when lower does anything in its comfort zone or trying to do the higher job which requires based on higher principle, higher values higher consciousness etc., shows that we are not bothered to learn, change, develop, know or progress. Appa gives an example of compounder on the pretention that he knows everything may have all the knowledge but he cannot do everything trying to do all that a doctor does.

Conflict in mind:

Contrary to above. Where we perform at lower levels than designated or delegated. For example when I came up to a manager level from lower rung labour level, I had lot of problems in handling them on fear of losing relationship. Particularly no more I can have tea in road side shop or accompany them to liquor bars. Only after coming out of that I succeeded.

To Be Titled

The best inspirational Facebook entries are not mere slogans presented, no matter how profound, but are those that are deeply felt and experienced by the person offering the post. That vibrates a truth energy that touches others directly, even if they are unaware of it.

To Be Titled

Living Mother's Life is so utterly different from the ordinary life. As great a change as it was from the human to the animal, Her Life is different than our current way of living.

To Be Titled

The future belongs to Spirituality, not religion, says The Mother. The time of religion is over according to Her. Religion is many following the inspiration of one enlightened person. Spirituality is each one seeking his own illumination. As Protestantism removed the priest between Man and God, Spirituality will enable each man to seek his own God, seated inside. (Sri Karmayogi)

Reader: But when will happen Sir Mixing Religion & Spirituality is the order of the day. When we are bind in religion for so many years how people will realise their divinity

Response: Prosperity often helps people shed religion. Most of acute religion is in poor areas. The world is rapidly coming out of poverty, though certainly not fast enough (as terrorism indicates which is rooted in poverty and unemployment). In prosperous areas where there is religion, it is generally fairly weak as in EU and USA..

Education also helps end religion, as people see the variety of teachings, each of which is utterly insufficient. And Internet speeds this process of knowledge.

In India religion is so entrenched, yet it is mixed with spirituality. As people are more educated and prosperous there too they will take more to an enlightened spiritual view.

In most of the world religion is on the decline, and people associating themselves with a particularly religion is rapidly decreasing. First in EU and USA; then it will happen in Asia in its own way. We see religion in terms of fanaticism, a sure sign that its time is rapidly coming to an end.

Prosperity, education, Internet, personal mobility, movements to urban centers, are among the factors that create the antidote to entrenched religion. Also the rise of Individuality, not following the herd view, and its cousins entrepreneurship., making one's own way economically in the world.

Then there is the Force that is increasingly deepening in society that has its effect, which can breakout new possibilities at any time.

To Be Titled

Responding to another's dysfunction in a negative way creates more dysfunction. Detaching from it evokes the best conditions.

From Criticism to Praise Attracts In the Wipers Times

A simple shift from condemning someone to praising them can instantly attract career-changing circumstance.

An officer heading a troop of soldiers was about to criticize another high ranking official for his sarcasm. Instead he praised his insightful mind and nature. Within five seconds of making that remark, he was informed that a printing press had been found that would enable him to put out a humorous journal that would entertain the English soldiers of WWI who were stuck in their cold, muddy trenches, risking death from the enemy.

Your ability to progressively move forward in life is proportional to your ability to continuously shed outworn habits, attitudes, and beliefs.

To Be Titled

One who learns and practices regularly the essential 25 laws of Life Response can be the one person in his time who changes the course of the world.

Reader: merry Christmas Roy!

And thanks. Could you please repost the link to the 25 laws of Life Response?

Response: Human Behaviors that Evoke Life Response:

- Be positive, optimistic, and cheerful
- Give up a wanting attitude or belief
- Turn negative emotions positive
- Try to make any situation better
- Choose what is positive and helpful
- Make a decision about something
- Take the necessary physical action
- Embrace what life has put before you
- Overcome any reluctance you have
- Feel deep enthusiasm in your work
- Make the full exhaustive effort
- Take responsibility for a situation
- Increase cleanliness & orderliness
- Systematize an activity
- Organize facts into ideas
- Maximize the use of a resource
- Give people/objects more attention
- Implement money-attracting strategies Shift your focus to others
- Be selfless and self-giving
- Show gratitude to others, life
- Send others good will
- Forgive others when wronged
- Take to greater psychological strength Hold back a thought so others speak it
- Talk less; and in a low, soft voice
- Take the other person's point of view
- Eliminate thinking in intense situations Move from agitation to stillness
- Be calm and equal when problems arise
- Do not react to others' intensities
- See negatives as positives in disguise
- Hold back initiating; drawing others
- Execute an activity perfectly
- Open to the spiritual Force
- Really aspire for something to happen
- Plan, implement, and execute a goal
- Focus on what should be accomplished
- Embrace the truth of things, not shun it

- Forget a problem, not dwell on it
- Change a long-standing negative habit

Further comment: Principles of Life Response:

- The phenomenon of life response reflects the principle of inner-outer correspondence.
- Inner-outer correspondence indicates that the inner and outer are One.
- The inner and outer are one single contiguous stream of existence.
- Inner-outer correspondence also indicates that the entire universe is contained within.
- The outer reflects the inner state.
- If you change, the inner, the outer instantly responds in kind.
- When life responds, the parties come into an alignment.
- When an act creates a disequilibrium, the response creates a new equilibrium.
- Each act that evokes a response causes the universe and its associations to realign.
- Life response creates a constant refreshing of the cosmos.
- Life responding occurs within the context of the constant realignment of energies in the universe.
- Life responds at the gross/material, subtle, or causal plane.
- Life responds because all and everything are interconnected in the cosmos.
- All is connected in the cosmos because of the Conscious Force behind it.
- The Intent of the infinite, timeless, spaceless, immutable Being is behind the alignments in the cosmos.
- Life response occurs in ways that transcend normally perceived limits of space, time, causality, and possibility.
- Life response is due to physical, vital, mental, spiritual energies moving out and aligning with corresponding energies.
- Life can respond positively, negatively, or neutrally.

Reader: Thank you Sir but difficult to remain focused in this hectic world

Response: It depends on what you are committed to; where your priorities lie. If you are deeply committed to several of the life response behaviors, outer hectic life disappears, as life give you what you need in a thrice.

To Be Titled

Most people achieve up to a point and then level off. This is their Comfort Zone. They don't try or know how to go further. Often they are self-satisfied at what they have achieved; what they have become. It is here that they rest. Unfortunately, they don't understand that it is the beginning of the end of their lives.

To Be Titled

Humans are quick to judge, slow to learn.

To Be Titled

Before you can be supramentalized (into the new human species), you first need to be universalized. In practical terms it means that for the Supramental Force, Mother's power to fully act and transform your being and the life around you, you need to first accept any and all things as necessary in the unfolding.

To Be Titled

Non-bother and reaction to thoughts of others that drift off into foolish or unrelated areas, opens up discussion for yourself and your others in the right ones.

People respond to events in the world with the subtlety of an unfettered mob. There is little chance for discrimination and nuanced understanding of the issue. As a result, the society goes through a lot of pain in that area, only to arrive back at the subtle suggestions originally proposed by those who were drowned out.

Reader: Most people tend to put the horse before the cart without first looking at the issue

Response: Yes S, they think with their emotions, which is not thinking. It is reacting.

To Be Titled

True resolution of contradiction between two parties is not mere Compromise between them. It is rather a Higher Harmony; a synthesis to something new, unheard of, unexpected, creative, and dynamic that is beneficial to both parties.

Example: when the Germans settled with the Allies after WWII, it was not just an armistice that was created, but the United Nations and other global entities, including the EU.

The same Higher Harmony beyond the contradiction can occur at the social level, between two organizations, two people; even two ideas.

To Be Titled

Writing Process: Once you have a sketch or outline of what you want to cover, including key ideas, you can go wide and let expansiveness take over your thoughts. Then examine your draft and compress what you have created with fewer words. Finally, review once more and polish the content to perfection. A final title can now become the crown.

RK: Something I remember, related to this:

- Try to tell the same in few sentences.

- Try to minimise words by using more appropriate words.

- Try not to bring your conclusion, prejudice and preferences.

- Though perception and opinions cannot be avoided, try to transform your all related consciousness and attitudes from the human to that of Spiritual.

- When reviewing remember Mother in every start of sentence.

Reader: This is the way to make postings in Facebook.

Response: Yes. It is the way I and associates of mine and many others write books, extended articles, create presentations, as well as produce smaller entries as here in Facebook.

Unfortunately people generally don't have the patience or wherewithal to do this. It therefore mars their final output. So much of what people comment on is therefore either incomprehensible or riddled with faulty arguments.

To Be Titled

If you read many of the letters to the editor or comments by readers to articles written in the New York Times, the results are well thought out; mainly because the people commenting are well-educated and reasonably rational.

The authors of the articles themselves, as Ramesh points out, are able to choose just the right word or words that express the idea being raised,, substituting for their rambling expression. They have built their reputation on the ability to compose articles that come out diamond-like. It is a high value of the founders.

Bob sir once told me that the European mind has developed this unique capacity to express themselves so clearly in language. It has a lot to do with their success over the years. The US naturally adopted much of it. It continues now to spread around the world.

Reader: It could also be due to the Editors skill in presenting the letter

Response: Yes, the editors appreciate letters of high quality, especially in terms of content as it relates to the article that was written. The editors then highlight those articles; making them stand out. The editors thus have high standards for the public, just as they have high standards for their own writers.

The editors also appreciate when the commenter stays on topic. Most people tend to drift off into sidelights that take them far astray from the original issue(s) being addressed. The human mind is like this. It has trouble staying on topic; even staying close to it. It is the ego in the mind, ignoring the important issue initially raised for the sake of what excites one mentally.

To Be Titled

In normal life you solve a problem by addressing and then tackling it. In supramental life you resolve the issue by consciously ignoring it. It then self-corrects.

Response: Example: an individual wanted his spouse to gather together and remove a number of books that were scattered about the house. However, instead of complaining, he withdrew all such thought and feelings. The next morning the man noticed that his spouse had gathered together a number of those books in anticipation of returning them to the library.

To Be Titled

It is useful to recognize patterns in your life - so you'll know what to continue doing in future ... and what things to avoid.

RK: As usual Sri Karmayogi gives a different perspective in observing the pattern. In a success or failure particularly when it repeats he asks to observe the pattern of behavior, attitude capacity, skill, opinion and prejudices. Though not exactly, the distant analogy is: When an official is acting based on power, delegation, skill capacity we see only him – we don't see the power of the entire organization that gave power to him, is behind him. Similarly, we don't see what made us to do that or behave or express skill or capacity in particular way. As a surface man, we see only our own action.

Sri Karmayogi says, Man rarely knows what he wants. He aims at one thing, but actively drives at another. Observation of patterns of life will be a great moment in his life to know what he really wants, because that knowledge will help him to achieve it., by avoiding the weakness and enhancing the strength.

To Be Titled

One definition of consciousness is the capacity to learn from one's past experiences. Unfortunately, there are many individuals who would not pass this test.

Music & Dreams

People who are close to me know that I am secretly a composer of music. For decades I have been writing and playing my own compositions.

It turns out that a tiny fraction of my pieces came to me in dreams, some of which I have carried over. If I remained very still when I awoke, the music transferred intact from the ethereal plane to ours. However, the most magnificent of that music I was unable to bring into this world.

It turns out that we can take this same basic approach of stillness to remember our dreams in full upon awakening. Mother explained this technique in Agenda.

She also explained in Agenda the spiritual approach to sleep. She said that if we lay flat, relax and become like a dish rag without thought, quietly drifting into sleep, we can enter a dreamless state of spirit that Indians call Satchitananda. She indicated that if we experience that for one single minute, all of our energies would be restored, without the need for the normal 7-8 hours.

Mother Herself would go in and out of this state in later years and reached the point where she hardly slept at all. She had harnessed a titanic energy that simply carried over from day to day. She had brought the power of the conscious-force Within to affect her body without, just as I had the pleasure of doing several times through music.

Reader: Nice musical experiences Roy Sir. Thanks for sharing

To Be Titled

The Lord comes immediately, without delay to one who makes a fundamental shift from skepticism to Belief.

Further comment: A young man was skeptical of the power of a great being who was capable of bringing both practical as well as divine-like gifts to his followers. The young man stood in a vast crowd of thousands of helpers who were devoted to that divine-like personality, and there felt alternately skeptical and hopeful.

At one point something deep inside him awoke, releasing a profound faith in that spiritual being. An instant later, in a mirroring-like device he held in his hand, the young man was stunned to see the reflection of the divine leader right behind him, about to address him alone and impart his wisdom and grace.

To Be Titled

When you take action that produces a result that has no apparent reason for existing in the present, but proves very useful in the future, you are subconsciously living in supramental time.

Token Effort to Improve Things Attracts

If you make a small token effort to overcome a seemingly insurmountable problem, life will soon reward you by presenting a relatively easy solution to the entire matter.

A friend asked me to retrieve a very difficult to get at important device held in storage. For months we discussed ways to dislodge it from its location, and then have it shipped back and returned. Then one day I took it upon myself to make an effort to retrieve the item, even if I had to climb over heavy, difficult to move boxes and other furniture-based obstacles. After making a small, yet strenuous effort, I soon realized that I could get to the desired item much more easily than I had thought. And so I was able to quickly retrieve it and then return it via airlines to my friend who was ecstatic when she received her beloved sewing device. Months of anxiety on her part had now come to an end due to one small token effort on the part of her friend.

To Be Titled

All our difficulties are utilities to spur us toward greater personal growth.

To Be Titled

Startlingly, according to some statistics, America is the most religious country in the world! It may be wide, but is actually quite shallow.

To Be Titled

In general the practical cannot achieve at the highest level without the involvement of the subtle. However the subtle alone can.

Eg an individual will not ordinarily accomplish at a very high level by merely developing a plan and then carrying it out with gusto. He requires one or more of - higher attitudes than he has now, application of deeply felt personal values, capitalizing on changes occurring in society, utilization of the power of spirit, etc. - to take him to the highest heights.

However, one application of the right, subtle element at the right time in the right place can attract results that take him to the pinnacles of success.

To Be Titled

In normal life we view the world from our own individual perspective. Thus separateness and ego are its hallmarks. In Supermind one perceives life from the perspective of each of the other parties or influences simultaneously. Thus it is an ultimate, Unity consciousness. The method of taking the other person's point of view is one step in that direction.

To Be Titled

RK: Roy Posner Sir,

Yes! It is intriguing me for quite some time. Probably that is theme we can concentrate this year. Though we all try to live Mothers path after certain stage we level off – the plane being our unavoidable comfort zone which we are afraid of leaving. Though maximum we live on what we know as principles, values etc., I think that is the point our ego is getting saturated.

For example, I compromise many things for my family members in the name of harmony which is actually border comfort zone of other man point of view , freedom and exploitation of my attitude. Similarly I fought a lot with lower officials in government departments and against corruption but I was bit “flexible” in case of ministers and higher officials which is again a comfort zone. I am happy to get name like I am straight forward person, I keep my word, financial integrity and in the process I maintain the level of comfort zone within in quality and perfection . If the payments get delayed beyond my capacity I get into corrupt practices. I keep harmony only till my ego is not touched – even fighting for Appa or MSS is satisfaction of the ego , a comfort zone on not taking higher principles to solve the problem like silent will or inner outer correspondence.

If I analyze every moment I am having comfort zone – may be at higher level than others. This is actually contrary to Mothers words – Truth or Abyss . Also it is contrary to Life Divine’s basic formula –you cannot stop in the middle”.

Mother asks us to make the maximum possible progress through Spirit at any given moment without seeking for comfort. She says, Grace instantly moves in and accomplishes the Divine intention at that moment.

So I think (Based on Sri Karmayogi’s Advices):

- As a devotee our effecting physicality, venturing vitality, curious mentality – all no doubt seeking a higher consciousness in their own ways. But they are seeking the Divine in their own domains. But coming out of comfort zone is seeking Divine through Spirit.
- So we should not - particularly seek psychological comfort.
- To come out mental comfort –c heck ourselves on what we call as our rational decision all the time. Even if it is right based on our known ethical, values, conscience etc., Only question we have to ask is whether Mother likes it or not.
- Every moment we have to evolve and expand in the aspirations of the Divine.

Response: I had the thought after reading this that The Comfort Zone for an Aspirant is one where one is unable or unwilling to make the corresponding Descent to any Ascent in consciousness. I.e. he does not implement his higher consciousness aspiration (ascent) in the details of his life so it is accomplished (descent). He is happy to remain where he is in a kind of "static" ascent, not completing the process.

RK: Yes that is what I am trying to elaborate from the Chapter “Delight of Existence” - Infra-ethical, Ethical, Supra-ethical - Levels.

Response: (to continue my thought from above) On the other hand, the true Aspirant is continually releasing his aspiration for improvement (Ascent) and then manifesting it in the details of life (Descent). His Comfort Zone is eliminated, at least for now.

And yet we can identify a further stage. Interestingly once you descend and apply the higher in the lower, you are likely to discover additional Highers to aspire for, as you perceive new limitations in your being and therefore new ways to elevate your nature. Then growth becomes never-ending. Comfort Zone is transcended.

Eg in Gary Jacob’s book The Vital Difference he discusses how one man can make a great difference by improving one aspect of his life. In the example a man decides to conquer his lack of Punctuality. This is his ascent. The descent is to do all of the things necessary to make that happen. Eg create a firm time-bound to do list, garner the cooperation of his family, etc. etc. Well in the process of carrying out those details he realizes several other deficiencies in his being. Now he wants to conquer these as well! So he ascends to carry out each of these, which in turn requires their corresponding descents, ad infinitum. Now he has risen very rapidly in the company. In fact, changing it (and himself) forever. He has long ago passed his Comfort Zone, replacing it with his never-ending Evolution Zone.

To Be Titled

On the surface we perceive contradiction and division. In the depths we perceive these as Complements on the way to a Higher Harmony.

Ascent & Integration beyond Our Comfort Zone

The Comfort Zone for an Aspirant is one where one is unable or unwilling to make the corresponding Descent to any Ascent in consciousness. I.e. he does not implement his higher consciousness aspiration (ascent) in the details of his life so it is accomplished (descent). He is happy to remain where he is in a kind of "static" ascent, not completing the process. On the other hand, the true Aspirant is continually releasing his aspiration for improvement (Ascent) and then manifesting it in the details of life (Descent). His Comfort Zone is eliminated, at least for now.

And yet we can identify a further stage. Interestingly once you descend and apply the higher in the lower, you are likely to discover additional Highers to aspire for, as you perceive new limitations in your being and therefore new ways to elevate your nature. Then growth becomes never-ending. Comfort Zone is transcended.

Eg in Gary Jacob's book The Vital Difference he discusses how one man can make a great difference by improving one aspect of his life. In the example a man decides to conquer his lack of Punctuality. This is his ascent. The descent is to do all of the things necessary to make that happen. Eg create a firm time-bound to do list, garner the cooperation of his family, etc. etc. Well in the process of carrying out those details he realizes several other deficiencies in his being. Now he wants to conquer these as well! So he ascends to carry out each of these, which in turn requires their corresponding descents, ad infinitum. Now he has risen very rapidly in the company. In fact, changing it (and himself) forever. He has long ago passed his Comfort Zone, replacing it with his never-ending Evolution Zone.

To Be Titled

Sometimes the Ignorance also serves a purpose as it conditions us to evolve our being. As Darcy did in 'Pride and Prejudice' ignorantly proposing to Elizabeth, which exposed his hidden weaknesses, compelling him to transform his nature. It is the Divine who enjoys the process of self-discovery from the Ignorance. We are not aware of that since we are exclusively concentrated on ourselves. (recollected from Garry Sir's speech) --paraphrase of SM

To Be Titled

Misunderstanding can be a great first step toward understanding.

Reader: can you explain further.

Response: A man was having trouble getting the right information from another person. He persisted but things just seemed to go in circles. Finally he drew up a list of examples for the other person to follow. In doing so the first man now had sample data he could now send to a variety of other users. It also compelled the second man to forward a paper revealing much information about himself, something the first man did not ask for, but helped him understand the second man's mind. The whole misunderstanding had the net effect of creating better understanding about the process and data required. Life evolved quickly through a conflictive unfolding that secretly had a higher purpose.

Reader1: How does misunderstanding in a relationship makes the first step for understanding. In all cases it leads to problem only

Reader2: Gaps in knowledge or lack of communication too may lead to misunderstanding.

Response: Misunderstanding if pursued in the right spirit can reveal much that might have never come out, which can strengthen the relationship, or at least create a better one for the future.

It is another form of the journey from Ignorance to Knowledge, so key for the evolution.

Suggestions for Happy Harmonious Relationships

(each when taken up will also evoke positive conditions from life for you)

1. Complaining aggravates the behavior it seeks to cure. Lose the ability to complain.
2. The less you react, the less cause and provocation you will have for reaction.
3. Disengage yourself from every conflict as soon as possible.
4. Give your partner the benefit of the doubt, always, at all times.
5. A touch of patience dissolves disharmonies. Genuine patience comes from knowing oneself.
6. Avoid cynical humor, teasing and sarcasm in the guise of being funny. They are like acid rain that poisons the flowers in a luxuriant rain forest.
7. Never attribute ulterior motives to your partner, even when you feel justified.
8. The capacity to completely forget a problem is the way to overcome it forever. Let go of the grievances of the past without trace.
9. Whenever you are very sure you are right, take your partner's point of view. You will always discover a truth in it that should be honored.
10. Being right and having your way are the triumph for ego, which destroys relationships. Be generous, considerate, loving and self-giving
11. The more you try to improve yourself and the less you try to change your partner, the better your relationship will become.
12. Acknowledge your partner's feelings and perceptions, without judgment or criticism.
13. Undivided personal attention fosters intense affection.
14. Taking 100% responsibility for making the relationship better without expecting anything of your partner is the best way to evoke your partner's fullest cooperation.
15. Learn to cherish the differences between you and your partner.
16. No act is too small or insignificant to serve as a means for expressing affection.
17. Don't take anything for granted. Give full credit to your partner where it is due, even for the smallest happy occurrence.
18. Silent Will is more effective than the spoken word. When you intensely want something from your partner, will for it silently rather than asking in words.
19. Listen to your partner's silences. Respond with understanding, acceptance and affection.
20. Gratitude is a spiritual emotion that brings more of what we feel grateful for.

To Be Titled

Mother's New Year Message:

"Blessed are those who take a leap towards the Future."

Moving Beyond Taking One Side or Another

Most of us tend to hastily jump to one side or the other when a key issue arises. That one side attracts us because it agrees with our experiences and beliefs, energizing us in that direction. Unfortunately it is only a part truth we are holding onto. We do not have the discrimination to embrace the many sides of an issue, accepting the variety of things that are true, while rejecting those that are not. We instead embrace or reject the idea out of hand, whole heartily, as we are influenced by the preferences of our lower nature. However, as we rise in consciousness, we become more attuned to the many sided truth of things, instead of merely adhering to and being slaves to our preferences and opinions.

I was reminded of this when I read the other day that doctors today in the US are becoming more entrepreneurial and are offering their clients more custom, higher end services. You can see how people will tend to jump to one side of this issue or the other. One side will feel this is a very helpful development as it broadens the available solutions and technologies to solve any type of health problem. The other side will indicate that this is another example of health care costs being driven up to new heights beyond the reach of the average citizen. And yet the truth is that both of these conclusions are likely valid, as well as other truths that are contained between the lines; that require our interest and patience to bring out.

To have such discriminating power our mind must be detached from our lower human needs, preferences, habits, et al, and be continually open to a wider sphere of existence; to a multiplicity and variety of truths inherent in the idea. As we move into a deeper consciousness through meditation or opening to the spiritual Force, or simply by rejecting ego-based limitations in thinking as they arise, we eventually expand the mind beyond its narrow vision, opening it up to broader vistas. In the silence of the mind, it becomes more rational and tends to think through possibilities. Through intuition of the mind, it garners knowledge and truth of things without thought at all. Beyond that are supramental planes of truth consciousness where the entire matter suddenly presents itself inside us in its various dimensions. There we do not react by taking a side, but are at the other extreme where an infinite-like variety of truths are presented, enabling us to come to a comprehensive view of the idea, with its various ions, its shadings of possibilities, which can support our quest to make serious positive contributions to the world.

Life Response Power of Making a Decision

A mere decision for something to be accomplished can evoke the extraordinary has been my experience. This again happened today:

Over the last month I had positive results in guiding the weather patterns into California, evoking rain storms, thereby overcoming the worst of the great drought and more. However, I was unable to generate results further south in my new hometown. The whole area remained bone dry.

Today I noticed that while a big storm could once again pound the north, a smaller amount was headed our way in the south. It seemed so small, and there seemed little hope here. Then I said "enough is enough" and finally aspired for serious rain to come here in southern California.

A few minutes later I turned on the radio and the announcer indicated that in fact a very big storm was headed our way in the south and would arrive a few hours. This was utterly astonishing because it was contrary to what I perceived.

No matter I thought. What was truly important was that it occurred, plus I realized that the mere DECISION to want significant rain in my area was enough to instantly evoke a tremendous response from life. It seemed nothing less than a miracle.

It was in fact yet another example of the extraordinary, instantaneous, infinitely creative life response power of making a decision about something one desires to accomplish; especially if one was previously hesitant, unwilling, or unaware of the possibility.

Embracing the Infinite Power of the Force

The Supramental Force essentially won WWII and ended the Cold War, and yet we believe so little in it to elevate our own lives. To help us to move to the heights of success, wealth and other forms of greatness would seem to be but a trifle for the Mother, yet we hardly ask this of Her, believe hardly at all in Her ability to help us reach such heights.

This is mostly due to our extremely limited understanding of the nature of Reality,... which includes our inability to recognize the vast power of the spiritual Force to quickly act and alter the conditions of our lives. We can literally have anything we want, manifest any deep aspiration if we simply and intensely open to Mother and ask for it. We can become great in our field, be wealthy beyond compare, find the love of our lives, and discover the deepest riches of our inner being and the outer life.

Our inability to capitalize on this Ultimate Opportunity is due to our essential Ignorance born of creation, which expresses through a puny mind that sees a tiny sliver of the truth of things. Boggled down on the surface of life, locked into our preferences, held captive by our fixed habits, chained by our wanting attitudes and misbegotten beliefs, our mind misses 99% of the truth and power of existence, including the vast power of the supramental Force to rapidly change conditions for the better.

And yet we can begin to overcome mind's limits, its fundamental Ignorance by embracing Mother and Her Force in full. When we enthusiastically believe in it and open to it, She will quickly act and help us realize our fondest dreams, while elevating us from Ignorance to an integral awareness of the truths of life.

Progress and Evolution Via Physical, Vital, Mental Planes Of Our Being

Understanding distinctions between physical, vital, mental, and spiritual – as pioneered by Sri Aurobindo and taken up in full by Sri Karmayogi -- and seeing them in life is very helpful for understanding conditions and deriving or providing solutions to life's problems.

If a person is just material/physical oriented he will only see the surface of things. He is ruled by sense -- the visual and auditory, not the Idea or the Value as in the mental plane. E.g. If I go to the scene of a crime and blame a person who I physically don't like or are otherwise ill-disposed to, one is engaged at the physical plane, which is mostly of ignorance. On the other hand, if I look around and think about the matter and thereby perceive other possibilities, and finally perceive who really is to blame, then I have moved to the mental plane. That is a progress.

Likewise, if a person is obese and his life is organized around eating, then he needs to widen his vistas by moving up the higher planes -- of having feeling, or relating to others (vital), or better still knowing that obesity can destroy one in so many ways (mental). If he takes this up in earnest there is progress, even evolution.

There is also another movement, which we can call "Ascent and Descent." It is where you move up in a plane, but have to apply it through lower planes. Thus if say you have an idea (mental) and don't apply it "down" to the physical plane of matter and action, it does little good. E.g. I want to lose weight is an idea, but only when applied at the lower, vital plane (willfulness to do so) and physical (the losing of the actual weight), it won't do any good, and just remain an idea. This is an Ascent (to mind) followed by a Descent (to the body.) It too is progress and evolution.

The spirit is another, even higher plane, having its own dynamics, with infinitely greater power for progress, evolution, and even transformation. This is where ultimate possibilities and discoveries take place.

To Be Titled

Shifting from unwillingness to willingness - such as becoming willing to take a particular, required action - instantly attracts favorable conditions.

To Be Titled

People reflexively jump to conclusions based on what they learn in the media, speak it out, and then sheepishly feel like fools after it proves to be false. This is the excited, surface mind that has not developed an inner poise of calm, patience, and wherewithal to perceive the actual truth.

To Be Titled

Those who hold back expression - whether in speech, opinion, urge, action, etc. -- are often the ones who prevail in the end.

To Be Titled

Many hundreds, perhaps thousands of Mother's miracles have I witnessed over the years.

"Complete Act" Attraction Power

Sri Karmayogi tells us that any act - even the smallest, such as writing a check, or cleaning a carpet, or eating a meal, - if done to perfection can instantaneously attract good or great fortune.

To perfect an act is to make it a "Complete Act," where we have an aspiration for its accomplishment, the inspired will to make it happen, and make the persevering effort through right skills, positive attitudes, and high personal values. Doing so will achieve our goal and much more, as the infinite will emerge from that finite, putting in our hands the same capacity as the Lord.

Additional comment: This once again shows that the infinite can emerge from the finite, as Sri Aurobindo explains in The Life Divine. It is so because every finite thing in creation has its source in a Divine Infinite. However it is hidden from us in life. And yet if we make any life activity a Complete Act, the infinite reemerges as life responds out of all proportion.

To Be Titled

For a smaller or greater goal, there is often one great obstacle to its achievement, and it often resides in one's attitudes and feelings. When that limitation is identified and overcome, accomplishment of the goal comes quickly; often through commensurate positive response from life. When the wanting quality is not overcome, one can still achieve the goal, but it is often accompanied by difficulty and pain.

To Be Titled

Restraint on our part builds up energy inside, attracting positive conditions outside.

To Be Titled

If anything is to be achieved for the world, it is to be accomplished first inside. (from 'The Book' by Garry Jacobs)

To Be Titled

Passivity is not the same as Restraint. The former is a form of uninvolvedness, bordering on obliviousness. The latter is practicing self-control that builds up energy, invariably attracting positive conditions.

Infinite Power of the Finite

To know the significance of the infinitesimal is to discover the power of the Infinite. All that we see as finite, limited, ignorant and impotent is in reality a frontal appearance of the Infinite. Behind every finite appearance lies an infinite potential. It means that every individual, every circumstance and every moment possesses infinite possibilities. (Garry Jacobs of MSS)

Reader: It is then up to the individual to reach the infinite possibilities through consecration

Response: Yes, very much so. As well as in combination with other methods, such as practicing higher levels of cleanliness and orderliness, non-wastage of resources, overcoming negative attitudes, practicing non-reaction towards others' intensities, not blaming others, taking responsibility, making a decision overcoming ego and selfishness, feeling goodwill toward others, gratitude, making the mind silent, silent will, taking the other person's point of view, seeing negatives as an opportunities, creating greater harmony with others, etc. etc. All attract powerful positive response, especially in tandem with consecration to the Mother's Force, which in effect is evoking the Infinite from the finite.

Making Life Respond

As we are to Life, so Life is to us. This is a great spiritual truth based on Oneness. The individual is not separate and different in essence from other individuals or from the world around. The individual and the universal, the person and the world, or two manifestations of the One Reality, the One Existence. This truth has immense practical consequences in the world and is the basis for acquiring an invaluable practical knowledge and effective power in life – – the power to make life respond to us.

Actually, life is responding to us all the time. We arbitrarily draw a line between what we call ourselves and our own with the rest of the world of theys and its. But in reality that distinction is valid only for our surface consciousness. At a deeper level, all existences are interminably linked together. What we think is "inside" and "outside" us are not separate and distinct at all, but only two expressions of one Life.

When we carefully observe our inner and outer worlds, we discover a close correspondence between them. A subtle connection appears between what we think and feel, and what happens around us. We think or speak about a person and suddenly she calls us on the phone. We go to a 1000 page dictionary to look up a word and open the book to exactly the page on which the word is listed. We desperately want a particular thing, and without our having mentioned it to anyone, it comes to us on unasked. We watch a scene on TV and the next moment the same thing happens in real life.

These apparently "random coincidences" are only glimpses of the much more pervasive and comprehensive set of correspondences between our inner and outer life. Our outer life is a direct expression of our inner consciousness.

Acquiring a deeper knowledge of the relationship between our inner and outer life requires careful, patient, dispassionate observation and sincerity. Once acquired that knowledge becomes a valuable instrument for inner progress and outer achievement. When we encounter an external obstacle in life, we can look within ourselves and discover an opportunity for inner growth. When we take the effort to make that growth, outer problems dissolve and new opportunities open for us. Even if life does not present any outer problems, we can press the inner keys of our personality to make life respond in wonderful ways. (Mother's Service Society)

To Be Titled

Excellent decision-making begins by bringing to bear the right Consciousness to the situation - in terms of attitude, awareness, knowledge, energy, will, values, spirit, etc.

To Be Titled

What fresh, new resolutions have you made for yourself for the New Year? Would they truly be helpful if accomplished? Most importantly, are you sincere about carrying them out? Sincerity - as opposed to mere thought or talk - is the critical psychological state that truly moves one forward.

Reader: My father asks me to take resolution for every New Year to giving up unwanted attitudes. Honestly I am not very sincere about to keep that up. Hopefully in 2015 it will work.

Response: Once you are clear about what they are, you can make it part of your everyday routine to rid them, through specific to dos. Doing so will tend to quickly attract positive conditions. Are you interested in obtaining these results?

Reader: Yes of course, I try to practice silent will and ' non-reaction'

To Be Titled

Today is tomorrow's memories.

Tomorrow is today's dreams.

Yesterday is faded - memories and dreams.

To Be Titled

If I have witnessed thousands of Mother's miracles along the way, then I have also experienced ten thousand synchronicities, simultaneities, parallelisms, and related in that time.

To Be Titled

The happiest people are often those who happily make others happy.

To Be Titled

If you consistently identify and then try to improve several weak points in your being, you will always be riding the fast train to greater success. On the other hand, those who are self-satisfied, who are happy with where they are now will remain stuck at their current "station."

To Be Titled

When two individuals realize that they have had the very same thought, though they have not been in communication long or short term, they have in essence been locked into the same thought-wave passing over them.

To Be Titled

There is a gradation of Reacting among the ascending planes of our being: Physically it is with reflexive material force, Vitally it is with uncontrolled emotion, Mentally it is through counter-argument, Spiritually it is by not reacting at all.

Reader: Mother advises us to learn to be quiet and silent. When we have a problem to solve, instead of turning over our head all possibilities, all consequences, all the possible things one should do or should not do, if we remain quiet with an aspiration for goodwill, if possible a need for goodwill, the solution comes very quickly. And as we are silent we are able to hear it.

To Be Titled

For any problem you have, intensely ask Mother to resolve it. Then let go, offer it up, and say "let Thy will be done." Have Faith in the answer, in what She brings, yet without expectation or demand.

Reader: So you mean every problem we have we just bring to mother and it will be solved. I had a lot towards end of 2014 even among family .My house vandalised by a jealous relative and my brother not talking to me

Response: Had your been regularly consecrating, it would have given you protection from such things. At another level what happens on the outside is a reflection of something inside yourself or someone close. Discovering the correspondence -- usually found in our negative attitudes; towards others life, self, work - recognizing, and consecrating it will eliminate these sorts of outer events from occurring in future. If it involves the wider community, then you can consecrate on behalf of the collective as well, and things will improve there too.

To Be Titled

The deeper we go in our own consciousness, the more we perceive the Infinite Consciousness that is the source of, that permeates, that makes up (through forces and forms) creation.

To Be Titled

Quantum entanglement proven by science indicates that if a particle on one side of the universe changes its spin, direction, etc. a corresponding particle on the other side of the universe will instantly do the same. This indicates that the law that nothing can move faster than the speed of light -186,000 miles per second,- is false, as things can move a trillion times faster; and it proves that the instantaneous miraculousness of Life Response is a reality.

To Be Titled

Quantum laws of physics indicate that the universe cannot exist unless it is being observed. Who is then doing the observing? It is the Infinite Consciousness, that is its source. And it is also we who are increasingly coming into a higher consciousness.

To Be Titled

An empirical Science says consciousness emerges only from life, i.e. through higher life forms in the evolution. However, the laws of spirit indicate that consciousness is previous to matter, and is its source. In fact, the consciousness that emerges at each stage of the evolution - from matter to life to mind - is already there, hidden, involved as a kind of seed of consciousness ready to come out, as it was formulated previously in the involution.

To Be Titled

Involution is the process by which the universe was created from a Divine Source through a process of self-absorption of consciousness. Evolution is the process by which the universe emerges in ever higher planes through the reemergence of the involved, hidden, absorbed Consciousness-Force.

To Be Titled

Recent discoveries in quantum physics indicate that nothing fundamentally exists in the universe; that the underlying quantum particles have no material reality and exist only as mathematical potentials. Then what binds the universe; what is the truth behind these quantum particles? It is Consciousness. The Conscious-Force of the Infinite Divine is actually what we recognize as quantum particles that is the basis of all existence. That would make everything in the universe Divine in essence.

Unifying Subject and Object

In higher Consciousness subject and object fuse and become one. E.g. the lover is one with the beloved; the thinker is one with the thought, etc. In lesser consciousness they are separated; e.g. the lover seeks, longs for the beloved; the thinker strives to know/understand the thought, etc.

In normal life we are in the second category. However, as we rise in consciousness, we move to the first, making life blissful, filled with ease and inner fulfillment. All is unified and one. It reaches its apex in Supermind which is complete Unity consciousness where all subjects and objects are experienced in Oneness, including the unity of Spirit and Matter.

We however live in Ego consciousness, where subject and object are very much divided and separated from one another. My concerns as opposed to yours; instead of mine and yours. My superiority as opposed to your inferiority. To bridge this gap we need to make the journey from ego to oneness. It occurs through elevation of consciousness, which moves us to the depths within, and the universal without. There subject-object pairs move into alignment, creating harmony of purpose. Oneness and the Joy that issues from it are the result.

To Be Titled

If you are tired when doing a work, take time out to replenish your energies by resting, eliminating thinking and if possible connecting to or melting into the Divine Mother. When your energies return and you resume the work, the results will tend to be extraordinary.

To Be Titled

Nothing in our human nature evokes powerful response from life more than our attitudes - whether negatively or positively.

To Be Titled

Concept waves emanating from the Infinite Divine, called "Real Ideas" by Sri Aurobindo, establish the underlying purpose and destiny of the material universe. Among the Real Ideas are Silence, Peace, Being, Knowledge, Truth, Goodness, Creativity, Beauty, Love, Delight, Timelessness, and Infinity. Waves of these spread through the Involutionary process that establishes mind and energy, but are hidden at the birth of the material universe. Through our evolution we reintroduce them and make them real in the world. We actually experience them as Values, which are combinations of Real Ideas that we manifest in life. Thus, what the Divine intended in the involutionary process, we help fulfill in the evolution.

Reader: Thank you Sir.

Does evolution always happen in an ascending scale? For example, if we learn a good value (or reversed a negative value) in this birth, will we remember that in the next birth such that it would be an asset for us and we progress further or we may have to go through life experiences again to find out that.

Similarly, how do we know that what are the values which we have learnt from previous births, but we may not aware of our potential and we might be doing exactly opposite of what we had perceived as life experience before? Thank you Sir.

Response: First of all I don't believe it is the normal I that is reborn in successive births. It is rather our evolving soul and psychic being. On the other hand, if we identify with our soul, then the soul and I are same.

The evolving soul (psychic being, true self) is that which learns from the life experiences of the person it inhabits, and carries over to its next birth so it can continue its journey from Ignorance to Integral Knowledge. So yes each rebirth of the soul is a progression; and the newest birth is to discover something it has not yet realized through the experiences of the individual it now inhabits.

As for knowing the values of previous births: If we are in touch with our soul, we can sense the values the soul has already realized, that is a part of "ourselves," plus perhaps what it seeks from us in this life through our personal growth and development experiences.

Does the rebirth succession happen in an ascending scale, without regressions? I am not sure. I believe the psychic being prepares between births whose body to enter in the next birth, so it might avoid regressions, barring something unexpected.

It's interesting to note that Mother said she was able to experience her past births when She connected to Her own psychic being which enabled a kind of portal of awareness into key events in Her past life. Eg She saw herself as Egyptian queen Hatshepsut at a key moment of that life, and similar with her births as Catherine the Great, Mona Lisa, and others. She said in Agenda that she hoped to be reborn as an ordinary person in the next birth as it would be easier on Her!

To Be Titled

In Consciousness subject and object are One. Eg the lover and beloved are one. The seeker of knowledge and the knowledge are one. However with limited consciousness subject and object are divided, separated. Eg the lover tries to love the beloved. The seeker tries to know the knowledge. As we rise in consciousness all dual pairs in creation move from a divided state of incapacity to a unified state where subject and object are one. It culminates in Supermind which is Unity consciousness.

To Be Titled

There are two formations of Brahman. One is the Divine Brahman, the transcendent, the Infinite Consciousness that is the Source of all. The Supreme. All things in creation originated in it, are formations of it. There is also Brahman that is the All, the Reality. It is both spirit and matter; the One and the Many; all in creation and all behind it. It includes the Infinite Brahman, plus everything in the universe. It is the All; the Omnipresent Reality, the highest conception of existence given to Man. In Supermind it is glimpsed and realized.

To Be Titled

When one rests in the Spirit, each failure is only temporary, and leads to an even greater success. Eg after failing to secure a loan, one obtains an even larger one from another source. Or one who longs to be a distributor of a product fails to do so, but becomes an executive for the manufacturer. Consecrating or otherwise bringing the spirit to bear has this exceptional life response power. (paraphrase of Sri Karmayogi)

What Comes To You Spreads & Astonishes

There is a difference between what you initiate and what comes to you. The latter is alive, filled with a kind of will, that when embraced will invariably be successful, and will also surprisingly connect with others' interests thereafter.

They will say that it is an astonishing coincidence that you brought up that matter just at that particular time when they were experiencing the same or they found it helpful, but the deeper truth is that you have caught a vibrating wave of knowledge or information, have recently been its caretaker, benefitted from it, and then it moves and passes on to others. Their interest and yours are simultaneous and synchronous. It is the Force in action, moving in the world.

The Power of Ignorance

Sri Aurobindo tells us that the Ignorance we experience is a power of the Infinite consciousness; that it serves a purpose to hasten the evolution.

He also says that Ignorance is a greater power than knowledge. Through all of the false and mistaken feelings, thoughts, behaviors and actions of our lives, we learn key lessons that hastens our knowledge and hence our progress. Even moving through knowledge alone would not so speedily and in such depth reveal the profound life lessons we can garner and therefore the progress we can make as through the Ignorance.

Thus we could say that the power of Ignorance is one that enables Self-discovery in the world, as well as the Joy we have in that discovery. If that is so, then Ignorance is helping the Divine Life unfold in the universe

To Be Titled

White is all colors reflected. Black is all colors absorbed.

To Be Titled

Impatience extends illness, short-circuits success, creates errors in judgement, delays funds, attracts accidents, compounds a problem, wastes resources, causes friction, delays outcomes, and makes one seem foolish, to name several.

Rishi Wisdom of India Applied Now

Q: The ancient Rishis of India discovered the spiritual Reality behind existence, and was able to intuitivize it, as captured in the Vedas and other sacred texts. Then why didn't the great spiritual insights of the Rishis take hold back then, 2000 years ago? They had discovered the Spirit at its source, and explained it in detail. Why didn't India and the world take heed?

A: In essence the world energies shifted from the Rishis to the rest of the globe -- i.e. development of Europe, America, and now Asia, -- so that their added experiences, ideas, cultures, positives, negatives, etc. could later be gathered up and spiritualized through the insights of what the Rishis had discovered. In other words, Life had to wait till now, after these historical developments and evolution at the material level, before Rishi's wisdom could be applied to the details of life. That would give it a far vaster and multi-faceted reality to apply it to.

Sri Aurobindo and The Mother have come to bring the Rishi's wisdom to the world, at the dawn of a new psychological and human-centered spiritual age. And yet they have also incorporated the evolutionary insights of the West to the direct spiritual intuitions and insights of the Rishis, giving it a far greater power. This is fully embodied in Sri Aurobindo's metaphysical opus 'The Life Divine.' Also they have brought down the Supramental Force in the earth's atmosphere, providing a direct conduit for people to apply the spirit into the daily lives, evoking instantaneous miraculousness.

Discovery of Supermind & Other Traditions

Q: Why isn't the descent of Supermind explained in other traditions, religion or philosophies?

A: The ancient Rishis of India had kind of discovered Supermind 2000 years ago, but Sri Aurobindo went back to those teachings and realized it at a deeper level, and then worked to bring it down to earth plane for humanity. Other traditions do not have the depth of experience to perceive what the Rishis experienced, let alone what Sri Aurobindo and the Mother had realized and then embodied for the world thousands of years later.

Also, other spiritual traditions have little knowledge of the involutionary and evolutionary process as described in 'The Life Divine.' I.e. a comprehensive theory of Creation, which includes the key role of Supermind in that process.

Sri Aurobindo had a vast integral knowledge of all philosophic, religious, and spiritual traditions. From these he was able to glean his own unique, comprehensive, integral, and thoroughly original view, including his apprehension of Supermind in the scheme of things. It was ultimately based on his own spiritual experiences, not mere philosophy that gave him the depth of understanding. No one had the spiritual, let alone the intellectual capacity to come to such a profound understanding.

To Be Titled

When you energetically come around and do what you were hesitant or reluctant to do, you garner immediate positive response from life - such as very quick service when you expected a long wait, a much simpler process to go through, and benefits beyond what you expected

To Be Titled

If you observe life very closely, you will see small, seemingly insignificant circumstance around you that subtly mirror, reflect a significant event in the world occurring at that time.

To Be Titled

We live cloistered behind our skin, focused only on our own small affairs, not realizing that at every moment the entire universe is inside and available to us.

Reader: Sir, Thank you. Normally our mental chatter & imagination is negative, if we shift it to +ve , situations will be favourable.

To Be Titled

If you have a pessimistic view that negative things are going to happen to you, they generally will. Best to reverse such self-fulfilling attitudes.

To Be Titled

Over-expectation or over-anticipation have roots in psychological incapacity garnered genetically, from childhood, socially, or otherwise.

To Be Titled

Everyone wants to get something from God, the Divine. Yet no one wants to Surrender to It; to follow Its Guidance and Will. It is the difference between ordinary and spiritual life.

To Be Titled

The best method of progress is to constantly come out of one's Comfort Zone. (Ramesh Kumar)

To Be Titled

If you consecrate a serious problem and Mother does not solve it, look for deeper causes.

To Be Titled

"Initial occurrence portends future outcome."

It is one of the great principles about the Nature of Acts offered by Sri Karmayogi: Here are two true life experiences:

Example (positive) From seemingly out of nowhere two well-dressed women approached an executive to do be an instructor for their training company. For the next 25 years people would contact him regularly unsolicited to do training for their organizations without him having to pursue them at all.

Example (negative) A man was trying to find the location of a small business in the suburbs that would give him a chance to participate in the most important and profound work of his life. On the drive there he got very lost among the endless streets of hundreds of suburban homes. After being in deep anguish he finally made it there by consecrating the situation. Seven years later after working with the company and founding his own to continue that relationship, his company went out of business, which too created great emotional pain.

To Be Titled

As long as I avoid a bad person, my inner knowledge keeps the inner Ignorance at arm's length. Avoidance is austerity; acceptance is prosperity. Ignorance does not transform into knowledge as long as we avoid it or avoid the person in our life who represents that Ignorance. He is there for us to make a progress. When we make that progress, mysteriously he vanishes. He tells us by his jealousy that there is jealousy in us. We are not aware of it, or we are unwilling to concede it. That is the positive value of a negative person. The moment we recognise it and exhibit a willingness to give up the bad trait, that man disappears. (Sri Karmayogi)

Reader: this was an excellent post by RV

Sir, after reading his post, tears were rolling from my eyes. I have avoided so many people if I don't get along well with them. Now i came to know it is for us to change mother sent all those. Now i am doing past consecration to mother that "Pl convey the lessons / progress to my soul , i should have made, if I accepted them,during my earlier days . I have realised the mistake now after so many years. Without meeting the same kind of person again, pl give me the knowledge to my soul"

To Be Titled

Terrorism represents a complex, even subtle problem that demands corresponding solutions from the society, requiring enormous, detailed cooperation of all nations. It thus ironically serves the cause of furthering Harmony of Purpose and Human Unity in the world.

Reader: yes that's true....but why do we need terrorists to make progress...why do we learn only after a terrorist attack?

Response: It is due to unconsciousness. Why did it take WWII before the UN, the EU, etc were made possible? It was in order to shatter the physical ego of the society to bring out the sincerity of the all parties to cooperate. Before that nations pulled in their own direction, all puffed up with sense of self.

Terrorism is very minor compared with those times, but requires even more subtle cooperation amongst all nations because the problem is more subtle.

The nations of the world are still ruled by Ego, though they are slowly evolving.

We can progress rapidly without violence through higher harmony, but that is not in the cards due to the ego of ALL nations. That is the way of Purusha. Man still progresses through Nature's slow and difficult way (Prakriti). Each nation getting rid of its Ego that allows for greater, more subtle cooperation and collaboration is the shift from Prakriti (Nature) to Purusha (conscious being and self-awareness/soul).

Higher education, internet, and perceiving the deeper laws of life can reveal the way forward. Mere mental good and evil view will lead only to confusion, anguish, etc. That is where we are now.

My own view is that terrorism is mostly an economic issue. It grows out of unemployment, low wages, and poverty, which leads to frustration. As people become prosperous and buy material things they lose the fundamentalist edge.

Will the world work together to create a new Human-centered Economics that helps all, not just those with monetary power? A degree of World Governance can eliminate the roots of terrorism by developing better economic, educational, and social realities for all nations. Internet can help implement it very quickly.

In the meantime a World Army, a global rapid reaction force would also help at the security level; to address immediate threats to the peoples of the world.

To Be Titled

Things that are normally perceived as being in contradiction and conflict are recognized as moving towards a Higher Harmony in Supermind (Unity consciousness).

To Be Titled

Though we recognize the material, empirical, mechanistic causes at work in a tragedy, there are also the subtle, attitudinal, vibrational, atmospheric factors that attracted that misfortune as well. Knowing them is wisdom.

To Be Titled

Sri Aurobindo indicated that Truth had to manifest first before the power of Love.

Additional comment: Mother said that were divine Love to manifest now, it would crush us. However, in an environment where the atmosphere of Truth was established - as opposed to falsehood, disharmony, and ego, - Love would manifest more stately, sweetly, purely, without any opposite reaction.

To Be Titled

Accepting the other person's points of view, instead of insisting on what you already know, leads to new understandings and bursts of creative insight along lines you hadn't considered before.

Interest, Decision, Commitment, Determination, Action (In Sales)

["Life Response" is the evocation of good fortune from out of nowhere back to your person"]

"Life responds to mind's interest with information. It responds to mind's decision by moving toward us. It responds to the vital's [emotion, feeling] consent and commitment with action. When the enthusiasm becomes vital commitment and determination, action of life is inevitable. When the movement touches the subconscious (physical), it brings instant results." (MSS)

--"Life responds to mind's interest with information."

You as salesperson think about a product you are interested in selling at the store you work at, and you see an ad for it just as you turn the page of a daily newspaper.

--"It responds to mind's decision by moving toward us."

As salesperson I decide to overcome my reluctance to work weekends; and the person who can give me an enormous response decides to shop at our store that weekend.

--"It responds to the vital's consent and commitment with action."

When I as salesperson make this commitment, the potential shopper decides that he wants to purchase a number of goods, which will be an overwhelming response for the salesperson if purchased.

--"When the enthusiasm becomes vital commitment and determination, action of life is inevitable."

With my commitment and the customer's aspiration to buy, we too are in alignment for great results.

--"When the movement touches the subconscious (physical), it brings instant results."

When as salesperson I enter the store on the weekend I recommitted to, the customer appears at the door, the only one to enter the store, ready to buy, which he then does; an overwhelming response for myself as salesperson.

(another example) In Pride and Prejudice, Darcy appears at Pemberley from out of nowhere to Eliza as she has fully changed her psychological view of him at all levels down to the physical/material.

To Be Titled

We can progress by taking up opportunities that come to us on their own, or by overcoming challenges and difficulties presented to us in the right spirit, with the right consciousness and its application. Both will attract the cooperation of life, bringing favorable results, enabling our further growth and success.

To Be Titled

All achievement originates inwardly, not outwardly. The outer success is the result of the right consciousness inside.

Vision, aspiration, will, decision, commitment, right attitudes, right motives, high values, deep knowledge, inner strength, level of energy, right perceptions of obstacles, use of the spirit are among them.

Collaborating With the Determinates Of Evolution, the Force

There are fundamental aspects and attributes of the Spirit that are trying to be realized in life. They are the determinates of all human existence, including our own lives. Those who identify and then consciously choose to collaborate with those spiritual aspects will ride the tide of progress and evolution forward. Those who swim against it will be drowned by the Force of progress.

Example: In Pride and Prejudice there is a force that is trying to create collaboration between the middle and upper class. Rather than have violent revolution as in nearby France, England took a quieter, more harmonious tact. All those who participated in it, like Eliza, Darcy, the Bennet family, greatly benefitted with it. Those who opposed the union of the two classes, like the effete aristocrat Lady Catherine were washed away by the tide of history.

There is thus a Force of movement forward. It contains one or more of the cosmic determinates, such as equality, freedom, peace, silence, harmony, light, truth, creativity, beauty, love, delight, etc. These forces are there in the Supreme Consciousness and moved out as waves in creation, moving in infinite directions as needed in the evolution. Those in touch with these waves, with that Force will be successful. Those who oppose will be washed away by the tide of history.

To Be Titled

We have free will within the bounds of what the Infinite consciousness seeks to manifest in life. We can choose to collaborate with that Divine Intent, and if we do, we will be lifted up by that tide of progress.

To Be Titled

Make a list of several negative things in your life. Now find the corresponding wrong attitude, habit, belief, behavior that precipitated it. Once you discover and reverse it, the outer negative will quickly disappear, often instantaneously.

To Be Titled

Try to remember the Mother before you engage in any important activity. Each time you do, life will fully cooperate with your intensions.

To Be Titled

Sometimes you need a fresh, new perspective to perceive the true nature of a thing - whether a different vantage point for a physical place, a new experience for one's emotional relationship to some entity, or a new understanding to perceive the deeper nature of a concept.

To Be Titled

Education is the technology for conscious social evolution. (World University Consortium)

To Be Titled

From out of the regression of religion and its dogma, rituals, superstitions, and control comes the progression and freedom of individualistic, personal experience of the Spirit.

The universe has Spirit or Soul, as do we humans. Even objects have an Essence. Therefore our relationship to those objects has consequences. Positive relationship to them will bring about their cooperation, while negative will attract their malfunction or other forms of non-responsiveness or non-utility. So never blame or complain about any object or any person or anything in the world; instead take responsibility when there is a problem, and always try to feel goodwill and gratitude toward anything and anyone around you. That way you will continually attract positive conditions from all that you encounter in life.

To Be Titled

What the West has achieved in the last 500 years using the power of Mind, Indians can achieve in a very short time if they know how to express the Spiritual Power in daily life. (from Spiritual Opulence by Sri Karmayogi)

To Be Titled

There is no greater power for great, sustained success than Oneness of being – whether in a mutual relationship, an organization, or any collective of life.

To Be Titled

At the point there is insufficient physical, vital, or mental energy, the body and its health will tend to break down. Best to restore the energies before resuming work or other aspects of life; otherwise the breakdown can worsen.

To Be Titled

The subconscious holds many negative feelings and attitudes that we are not conscious of, such as a deep-seated ill-feeling towards someone, or a racial prejudice we are not aware of, or an aversion to having a child, etc. etc. Through personal growth we become increasingly conscious of our subconscious, including its wanting qualities. When we become aware of one or several, a feat in of itself, and then consciously reverse it, life responds out of all proportion.

To Be Titled

If you learn the lessons failure has provided, life will lift you to the heights. Failure to learn from past failures will keep you in the same place, or worse.

To Be Titled

If one feels intense contrition for a serious mistake, a solution that resolves it tends to well-up from life.

To Be Titled

Gratitude and appreciation are spiritual attitudes of the heart that have a special power to attract instantaneous positive response. E.g. a man greatly appreciated how well his car now ran after his friend brought it into the shop, had it worked on, and paid for it. Immediately after expressing his gratitude to her, he learned that the bill was considerably less than he expected. That is a small example of the enormous life response power of gratitude.

To Be Titled

May I be open and tolerant and humble and patient to see the validity in every person's point of view -- whatever the level of merit. That act alone tends to quickly attract good fortune for involved parties.

To Be Titled

When you take care of something that you were hesitant to take up, important content for the undertaking suddenly, synchronously appears out of the blue.

To Be Titled

Gratitude will tend to attract more of what you feel gratitude for.

To Be Titled

Present information to another not just when you want to give it, but when they are ready to receive it.

Roundabout, Yet More Substantial Response from Consecration

Ordinarily we perceive that consecration -- offering of circumstance to the spiritual Force -- will evoke positive outcomes in relation to the immediate aspect, matter, et al we consecrating. Often the correlation is obvious and we see the direct answer to our inner evocation. However, sometimes the positive response from life comes to us indirectly, more roundabout, yet can be more integrally effective.

A man consecrated for physical comfort, and received a limited response by calling to the Divine. The next day however he received instructions on the psychological nature of his underlying problem. Only a while later did he realize that the knowledge coming in was a life response to his consecration, substituting for the direct relief he sought. Instead he received a more powerful insight about the way forward; i.e. filled with integral truth and knowledge that if he were to act on it would greatly benefit his life, far beyond his immediate concern with resolution of his physical discomfort. The final irony was that his affirmation of the insight brought the physical relief, at least for the interim. The even greater longer-term issues were now plainly in sight and ready to be resolved.

The moral is to observe closely the events that occur in the wake of consecrated effort. It can come in subtle forms, or ways you did not anticipate. As a result, you are now able to take the power of consecration to a broader, deeper level.

To Be Titled

People who complain about others will increasingly attract people and situations whom they will feel compelled to complain about.

To Be Titled

While one can offer a benefit to another with a particular conscious intent, there is often a subconscious intent that is also being broadcast, that can produce a detrimental effect.

To Be Titled

Money coming to you or not coming to you is a reflection of who you are.

To Be Titled

All progress - whether technical, social or others - is the result of being not content with 'what is'. (Garry Jacobs)

Additional Comment: Yes, it is continuously wishing to move things forward to what we perceive it should be, as well as continuously going beyond our Comfort Zone.

Mountain of Debt & Spirit

Human experience knows what is once lost is lost forever. An error committed once cannot be rectified later. He who foolishly walked into the trap of debt cannot now hope to come out of it by regretting. One has to suffer the consequences of it. The Spirit tells him, "If you regret in your emotions the folly of an earlier act, or reverse your past attitudes now in your understanding and feelings, your debts will fully dissolve, liberating you forever."

- In life, acts of folly are irreversible
- In Spirit, acts of earlier folly can now be reversed in emotions deeply felt
- Spirit corrects physical FACTS by the reversal of TRUE feelings deeply realised
- A mountain of Debt can dissolve into thin air if there is a mountain of felt emotions regretting it. (Sri Karmayogi)

To Be Titled

"Hold Infinity in the palm of your hand
And Eternity in an hour." (William Blake)

This is what occurs through instantaneous miraculousness; aka Life Response phenomenon.
Infinity in terms of space; eternity in terms of time; both overcome.

To Be Titled

Vedanta is the essence of Hinduism, as experienced by the Rishis who saw into the nature of Reality, including its spiritual Source. Sri Aurobindo took it much further into the modern age. He explained in great detail the involutionary process from spirit to matter culminating in the universe, as well as the evolution from matter to spirit that can culminate in a divine life on earth. Between these two processes, Supermind created space-time, subject-object, the spiritual values of creation, etc. and it now serves as the (the Mother's) Force we can evoke to bring about sudden good fortune in our lives and the spiritual transformation of life on earth.

To Be Titled

Your greater future always lies at the point you decide to change some limiting aspect of your being.

To Be Titled

Mathematics can be viewed as the formulations of reality at the conjunction of space and time; extending to infinity and eternity.

Mathematical Formula of Life (& Life Response)

Mathematics is the Queen of Sciences.

There is no object in life that cannot be described mathematically.

The path of a stone thrown into the sky -- projectile -- follows a formula of mathematics.

Astrology has reduced all events of Life into formulas that can be defined in mathematics.

Computer follows the rules of grammar because they are represented mathematically.

Zero is a wonderful conception of mathematics when it captures the secrets of creation.

Einstein discovered the mathematical equation of Energy that is matter, which enabled science to predict the movement of objects.

Sri Aurobindo speaks of a mathematical formula of creation -- one in terms of yoga -- and says it is intelligible only to Him.

By applying Sri Aurobindo to all other sciences as well as life, that field can be reduced to a formula.

Life Response represents that idea about the movements of life.

Sri Aurobindo mentions the route of life from the finite to the Infinite in various ways of which mathematical architecture is one.

Life events lend themselves to prediction because they are movements according to measurable rules.

In a planned work in a factory or administration one can predict what will occur at a given future date or time.

Production is a controlled activity confined in Time and Space. Life is in widening Space and in limitless Time.

Mathematical knowledge brings the limitless into limit.

Invoking the Spirit raises one's power to act.

Knowledge has a clarity which power does not have.

Moving from will to knowledge, one lands in mathematics.

That mathematics in the field of life is Life Response.

We know all the rules of Life Response.

Would they all abridge themselves into a Formula? (Sri Karmayogi)

Reader: roy sir, here is one formula for becoming infinite , it was the heard in my first speech attended in mss p&p session , some 5 yrs back

$1 \div 0 = \text{infinite}$, i could not find infinite symbol in my tab meaning:

man with ego =1

when we approach others without ego , that is zero

we both becomes infinite

this formula is embedded in my mind very deeply .

To Be Titled

Rather than instantaneous sometimes a response to your consecration effort will come days and even weeks after. In that case you may enjoy the reward but have forgotten the source consecration that brought it about. It takes a little mental effort to associate the result to the source self-offering moment that occurred earlier, but is well worth it, as you now know what aspects of yourself can trigger the wondrous life response results in future.

To Be Titled

The other man's point of view expands the finite into the Infinite. (Sri Karmayogi)

To Be Titled

Integral Yoga puts up with things that normal human life cannot; that humans find intolerable. Yoga deals with it through high consciousness instead of running from it, and thereby transforms it. Note that He (Sri Aurobindo) says ALL life is yoga, including all that humans find troubling; that can thereby be overcome and transformed through the yogi's higher consciousness.

To Be Titled

The tiniest circumstance can be the one and only opening to the next stage of success, so do not take anything for granted, and don't believe that only the very obvious is the doorway to a new or heightened future.

To Be Titled

Moving to Silence from thought in waking invites the Force to act. (Sri Karmayogi)

To Be Titled

For instantaneous results, catch the thought as it enters and consecrate it. (Sri Karmayogi)

Additional comment: It would be a growth for me to practice this. To catch the urge to think and offer it is a tremendous feat. We can try it, and look out for the instantaneous results.

Shedding Our Biases for the Integral Truth of Things

Examine our political parties, the newspapers, the government, the companies, etc., and you will see that each are biased in certain directions; have predilections for a certain social philosophy or at least social, political, and economic beliefs. As a result, each is stationed far from the integral truth of things, while fervently asserting its own limited point of view.

It turns out that as individuals we do the very same thing, as each of us are prejudiced in our opinions, attitudes, and beliefs that in turn keep us at a distance from the true truth of things. As a result, we take to questionable behavior and actions, and therefore experience many difficult, painful, surprising, and most unexpected circumstances in our lives that reflect these limitations. And yet if we were to develop a deeper center of awareness, we would be open to the multi-sided truth of things; shedding our ego-dominated moment-to-moment world view, and as a result avoid error and therefore much of the distress that life presents us in response.

Sri Karmayogi says we can begin this transition from ignorance to integral knowledge by taking the other person's point of view, by shifting from our opinions to the other person's conviction. We can also transition to a consciousness of truth by developing a deeper center of awareness, where we are more amenable to the multi-sided, integral truth of things; not just our mind's partial, exclusive, and therefore ignorant view. We can develop that deeper center by constantly self-offering events in our lives through consecrated effort. As a result, over time we develop a deeper center from which we can more accurately gauge the world.

In tandem with seeing things from the other person's viewpoint and continually stilling the mind of its rambling opinions and biases, we can develop a new center of awareness in our lives that sees existence, Reality for what it really is, instead of what we believe it to be.

To Be Titled

Each time an individual takes a step beyond his current level of consciousness -- whether shedding a negative attitude, having a deeper aspiration, implementing a higher value, raising his skill, making a new important decision, taking a firm action, etc. etc.-- the world also benefits, not just himself. If significant and intense enough, it will have vibrational power, reverberating through corresponding events in the world.

Our conscious mind might fully endorse a reality or truth, while still not gaining the endorsement of the vital being (our emotions, will of action, etc.). In that way it is only half-embraced and therefore may lead to outcomes not intended.

Intense disagreement and anger between people can evoke natural calamities, like a fire that destroys a good part of one's town. It can also vibrate forward in time and repeat under different circumstances in future.

To Be Titled

When we are too quick to react, having not taken the necessary time to contemplate the situation, we can set loose confusion and complications, including ill-will. Best to take the extra time to more fully grasp what is at hand before responding.

To Be Titled

Wait for the world to seek you. (Sri Karmayogi)

Additional comment: When the thing comes to you it almost always succeeds when taken up. On the other hand, when you go after life, success occurs far less often.

Reader: That explains a lot - and I'm not saying that in jest. Just this morning, I had a feeling of exhaustion for "thinking" so hard about what I'm trying to accomplish, and although I have made strides, I'm also feeling myself slide backwards a bit lately. So, I just decided to stop thinking so much about what I want. Interesting.

Response: Yes, it is the power of giving it up. Let the mind go silent, no strain, offer up the issue, forget about it, and see what happens. I.e. be patient and wait for the world to seek you. In a silent Mind the Force can move rapidly.

To Be Titled

"Moving to Silence from thought in waking invites the Force to act." (Sri Karmayogi)

To Be Titled

Coming from the body, thought is the essence of experience that finds words. Coming from above, it is Real-Idea expressing in the mind as knowledge. (Sri Karmayogi)

To Be Titled

Opinion, good or bad, will constrict the field of action for the Force. Opinion expressed will destroy the field. (Sri Karmayogi)

Reader: Is this why Zen masters usually not say much or anything? They remain Silent.

Response: You could say that; that the goal of some schools is cessation of thought in any form

Opinions are egoistic expressions of one's belief. They block chances of good things coming in through the spiritual Force when they are formulated in the mind; and when actually expressed they attract negative outcomes.

To Be Titled

If someone has abused you, you can be certain that there was a certain negative quality in your being that enabled it to happen.

To Be Titled

Seeking after result is to exclude realisation with a vengeance. (Sri Karmayogi)

Additional comment: A variation of the same idea: "Attention to positive results makes it negative." (Sri Karmayogi)

In other words don't focus on the results that will come at the end, which will negate them through negative life response. Instead focus on the process, the work at hand, and perfect that. Then great results will come.

To Be Titled

Self-giving matures when one enjoys the receiver's joy. (Sri Karmayogi)

Additional comment: Normally the individual does not like it when another succeeds. It's a perverse, primal reaction. Sri Karmayogi's comment describes the reverse; a spiritual-like quality.

To Be Titled

Absence of reaction renders the opposition lifeless. (Sri Karmayogi)

Additional comment: Absence of reaction is Appa's great spiritual method of "Non-reaction." When you do not react to others' action, including that of an opposition, their power over you fades away; i.e. life creates conditions where their influence is rendered lifeless. Eg a man tried to destroy a member and his cohorts of an organization through his bureaucratic action. The member remained silent and did not react to this harmful tactic. Within a short period of time, the man lost his power in the organization, while the member soon rose to the very top.

Reader: Thank you Sir.

When we react, we miss the opportunity of seeing other man's point of view. Hence, both principles work in tandem.

In P&P, Darcy went one step further. When Elizabeth abused him, he didn't react and finally he wished her for her health and happiness.

Even if he would not have written the letter later to justify his action to her, the moment of wishing might surely create a spark in her heart and make her to reflect on her mistake, just an analogy.

Response: Yes, the goodwill in spite of his rejection and pain was an indication of his higher nature which she would later discover when she visited Pemberley. It was a form of non-reaction on his part to maintain that civility. He even accepted her viewpoint later on; perhaps even starting with her reaction to her proposal and the letter that followed. As you indicate a number of these qualities and potential higher methods intersect and are at play here.

To Be Titled

Be open to everything that comes your way. Then the things that are unnecessary will naturally, spontaneously fall by the wayside.

To Be Titled

If you want to change the world, change yourself, and the world will quickly follow. E.g. say you want to decrease the amount of garbage in society or in your neighborhood. If you clean up your own space to a higher level, you are likely to see corresponding positive developments in the outer world. This is especially true when you also consecrate the issue; i.e. self-offer the situation to the Divine, the Mother.

To Be Titled

Nothing attracts positive response from life as quickly and dramatically as taking to higher levels of cleanliness and orderliness.

Additional comment: Very often we have seen that by cleaning in filthy areas not attended to, straightening out a desk or closet space or tools area, reordering paperwork and folders, scrubbing an area never attended to (such as an oven), removing stuffs and cleaning a grimy refrigerator to a shine, etc. evoke instantaneous response from life bringing benefit in terms of work, money, and similar.

Even if your things are very clean and orderly in these areas, increasing by another 10-20% can also evoke that response.

Also along that line it is best to practice giving objects (appliances, computers, machinery, etc.) the necessary attention they deserve (repair, cleaning, updating, etc.), as well as practicing non-wastage of resources (materials, money, time, effort). Each time you do, life tends to respond.

The physical plane (including cleanliness, orderliness, giving attention, non-wastage, etc.) is best to start a life response approach, as it is the most fundamental. From there you can go to the vital plane (mainly negative attitudes), mental (lower to knowledge), and spirit (e.g. consecration and silence).

To Be Titled

A current small negative situation can offer an important lesson for a current important positive one.

Example: You have had a difficult experience with an employee of a former client who has royally abused you. Her behavior is intolerable. And yet you also realize that had you taken a little more time to analyze her situation when she first contacted you, you would not have received that emotionalized abuse. Now when you are in communication with an important current client, you are much more careful in ascertaining their needs, enabling you to react in a very positive way that has the effect of building more success with that party.

To Be Titled

From your lower consciousness you perceive difficulties and problems as conflictive, frustrating, painful, and sorrowful. When you are in your higher consciousness, you tend to learn from them, see into their deeper truth, which you can then apply in future to great benefit. You can even see them as opportunities that can take you to a whole new level of success in life.

To Be Titled

Most of our negative attitudes are subconscious to us, making it difficult to connect the negative conditions outside ourselves to our inner qualities that precipitated it. Only a sincere commitment to a minimum degree of personal growth and conscious evolution (yoga) will reveal and make conscious what is now subconscious.

Subtle Inner Power Over the Outer Physical

The subtle - which includes the realm of our emotions, thoughts, and spirit - have progressively more power over physical reality than our mere physical actions.

E.g. an individual tried and tried and could not get the software on her computer to work; frustrating her to no end. She then realized the error of her ways (i.e. negative attitude) and trying to force things, in which case she decided to completely give up and forget about it. Out of the blue and less than ten seconds later she discovered the way to make the software work. She tried it out and it did!

It is the subtle inner power we possess over the outer physical life.

To Be Titled

Consciousness is the original self-awareness of the Infinite Supreme whose energy became the source of the material universe. Consciousness is also that which we are rediscovering through our experiences, and our personal growth and evolution.

Attracting Grace through Cleanliness

The Supramental Force needs cleanliness to descend on objects. It is the external form of cleanliness. Inner cleanliness is purity. Sincerity to the Divine is that purity.

Our [Indian] tradition has two extremes. At the higher end, it says through proverbs 'Cleanliness will feed one with food'; 'Even if you wear rags, wash them daily'. At the other end people believe that if you clean too much, you will lose what you have. A devotee married into an affectionate family. It was very dirty. She started cleaning. Everyone who was fond of the new arrival of a daughter-in-law suddenly frowned and abused her. They successfully prevented her from cleaning. One cannot take cleaning to great heights without orderliness. To put your things in order and that too in perfect order especially when you have an abundance of objects will leave no time for anything else. Cleanliness attracts grace. Grace comes to one in every conceivable form, as accomplishment, appreciation, cheerfulness, rain, money, good will, etc. etc. Often Grace comes only in one form.

For various reasons, cleanliness, especially perfect cleanliness, attracts a greater measure of grace. It comes in floods in one field or in some measure from several fields. It depends on the readiness of the soul and its ripeness. If cleanliness attracts grace, its opposite also is true. Any amount of grace can shower on one in spite of dirt. That is true of one who lives in the cave or one who has attained realisation and awaits for the final departure. For us mortals, we can say cleanliness attracts prosperity, one expression of grace, in direct proportion. In the experience of innumerable devotees, cleanliness is more money, a smaller expression of grace. (Sri Karmayogi)

To Be Titled

Concentrate on perfecting the work, not seeking praise.

Additional comment: Seeking praise spoils the work.

It is cart and horse in wrong sequence and relation.

To Be Titled

Mother said in Agenda that it would require the full yogic efforts of ~10 individuals to make the necessary transformation ushering in a new, supra-mental age. Surrounding this core would be hundreds, thousands, and more devotees who are taken in by Sri Aurobindo's vision of a divine life, even if they do not take to an integral yogic effort of transformation. They would live a normal, educated, cultured life, but remain in awe of His Vision. (Sri Karmayogi has offered devotees and others a wide variety of methods to make that a successful and harmonic one, while maintaining the connection to the Supramental power Sri Aurobindo discovered, which we engage through Mother.)

To Be Titled

As soon as you gleefully narrate or boast about a special benefit you have been given, life tends to quickly take it away.

To Be Titled

A man slightly egotistically told his friend how lucky he was to have fast security processing at the airport when he flies. The next time he prepared to go through security for his flight, he discovered that he had lost those special privileges.

To Be Titled

Gratitude becomes sincere and full-bodied when that thought is emotionalized. It is then a Higher Emotion, which is a spiritual quality, felt inside as richness and peace, with a tendency to attract.

To Be Titled

I continue to experience Mother miracles in a continuous stream. Eg just made a fb post while in airport concerning our capacity to follow His Vision, Her, and Karmayogi, when I turn to the left and serenely sitting next to me is a young Indian woman, the only Indian out of hundreds of people I have seen today at this California airport. A confirmation, symbol of Mother. So startling, so wonderful.

Double Synchronicity at the Apple Store

It is my ongoing and quite constant experience that whatever my mind intently focuses on, quickly and startlingly returns to me in new forms. I'll give you the most recent example:

While at a busy, state-of-the-art outdoor shopping area in Emeryville, California, I walked into an Apple store and had a lively conversation with a young rep, discussing all sorts of technical issues. At the end of the discussion, I recalled that I used to have a friend working at the store, though after all this time I doubted she still was there. And so I asked the rep if he knew of her, and he told me he did. Moreover, he mentioned that she still worked there, which really surprised me. I then went to the back of the store to see if she was there, but I did not find her.

I then left the Apple store in this modern indoor/ outdoor complex, walked to a book store and spent some time there, and then began to return to the parking lot at the other side of the complex. Suddenly the friend that I longed to see appeared right before my eyes! And amidst a busy shopping area, the only person coming in my direction! I happily greeted her and we had a brief discussion.

On the way back to the parking area, I wanted to capture the startling synchronicity that just took place. As I was about to type in the story about the rep and the friend, I suddenly saw the Apple store rep all alone across the street at a stop light coming from the opposite direction! I was flabbergasted that he was there, and the way he was coming from the other way around. It was as if Life at choreographed the whole scene for my amazement!

At this point I knew I had experienced a double simultaneity or synchronicity, demonstrating the startling life response power of focusing your attention on something or someone. When you do, you get more of it, often in the most unusual ways. And not only can it bring new forms of it to you, but it can also vibrate out in another direction and happen again and again.

Motel Room Miracle

The principle is "that which is reported as horrible, miraculously turns out quite fine after being consecrated." Here is a recent experience of mine that demonstrates this law.

The reviews for a motel I was to stay at were about as poor as a lodging can receive. And that same horribleness was reported by a number of online sources. It seemed a daunting situation, but I was determined to see it through. In addition I remembered to consecrate the problem, offering it up to the Divine Mother and Her supramental Force.

Well it turns out that when I arrived at my room, I was startled to see how nice it looked! Fortune had it that the room had recently been completely revamped and everything I needed was there, fresh and new! I was astonished by this remarkable turn of events. It was surely another miraculous instance of Her Force at work.

To Be Titled

He who seeks to convert others would benefit from his own conversion.

To Be Titled

Pain among devotees is the result of deflection of the Force. Deflection of the Force is due to lack of receptivity at some level.

To Be Titled

Consecration changes reality; rapidly reorienting it to a much higher status.

To Be Titled

You cannot expect others to behave or act perfectly. But when you consecrate - self offering the conditions to Mother - they do.

Reader: Normally we expect perfection from our kids.

Response: Yes. We should aim to be more perfect parents instead. If we do that then our children will become more of what their own Being longs to be.

To Be Titled

The Hippy movement and vibration of 1960s, including social and psychological values, evolved and became the pc, internet, and smartphone generations. The Force pushing from above spurred it on. Its full representative at each stage was/is Apple.

To Be Titled

The continued evolution of the earth can be seen as the sum of all evolutions of consciousness of each individual from some psychological incapacity to that capacity fulfilled.

To Be Titled

Through detached consecration a co-worker irritated with you will soon turn pacific and cooperative.

To Be Titled

A hum-drum job position becomes thrilling when one perceives and experiences the laws of life response unfolding. As a result, both grow inwardly and outwardly by leaps and bounds.

Solve an Acute Problem by Reversing the Wrong Trait That Precipitated It

There are nothing like insoluble problems for Mother. But, in the scheme of things, in the life of the devotee many problems are left unsolved which he comes to describe as insoluble problems. If problems of that description are taken up, there are two approaches that lead to solutions. One way is to change the human trait that generated the problem. That is a radical, substantial solution that would not only offer a solution to the problem on hand, but would usher the willing individual into a greater measure of prosperity.

For this solution, it is necessary for a man to know why a certain problem arose. If he knows it and he is willing to change in himself that trait which created the problem, then it is good. Once he makes that inner change, a prayer will readily remove the problem, however knotty it appears to be. In case he is unable to locate in himself any characteristic or attitude or activity that led to the problem, he should come forward to assume that one exists inside him and be willing to give it up, whether he knows it or not. Before taking up a prayer to solve the problem, he must pray to Mother to remove what in him has caused it. (Sri Karmayogi)

To Be Titled

According to Sri Aurobindo the Infinite consciousness through the involutionary process (from spirit to matter) allows for all variations and possibilities in creation,-- including Ignorance, Falsehood, and Evil; the large and small; positive and negative; all variations of human personalities; etc. -- to allow for infinite variations of Discovery of higher consciousness by each form for the purpose of infinite variation of experience of Delight.

To Be Titled

Patience is spiritual as it is a step towards timelessness.

To Be Titled

The Great Recession has shocked many Americans into new social and economic values.

To Be Titled

Sri Karmayogi - the great multi-dimensional, integral, Original Thinker and Spiritual Personality in the world.

To Be Titled

"Change yourself and the circumstance will change." (The Mother)

Change as necessary in terms of motives, behaviors, attitudes, habits, values, beliefs, skills, capacities, knowledge, actions, etc. Doing so will evoke new positive circumstance.

To Be Titled

The highest Goal one can have is to be transformed into a New Person. It is the end result of Integral Yoga (conscious evolution).

To Be Titled

Constant Self-givingness without expectation of reward is a sign of an evolved personality.

To Be Titled

The individual on whom you shower Goodwill will likely come into wonderful new opportunities or other great improvements in their lives.

To Be Titled

Ignorance, Falsehood and Evil often help evolve the world when there is a deficit of consciousness among the remainder. WWII and its aftermath is a prime example. It also occurs in our own individual lives through physical or psychological suffering and pain.

To Be Titled

When the devotee's affairs are caught in a tangle and are spoiled and news comes to him after the loss is incurred, if he can bring himself to pray to Mother to save the situation that was already lost, Mother will act in a unique way. She does save the situation. The faith of the devotee to pray to her after the work has been spoiled, is no ordinary faith. It is extraordinary. (Sri Karmayogi)

An example: Once Sri Karmayogi had a visitor who told him that something bad had occurred in the town. This fact had been passed around and many recognized it as so. However, Sri Karmayogi did not believe it to be true. Perhaps he consecrated the circumstance at that point. I do not know. Soon after, it was discovered that the bad thing had actually not taken place, just as Appa had believed!

(This is but a fragment of my knowledge of the story. Perhaps someone knows the more precise details of the incident.)

Reader: Once I received a phone call that my close relative got an accident and injured severely and the doctor advised to take a few months rest and should not go to work. I at once called Mother and consecrated to Her. Soon after a few minutes, I once again received a phone call from the same person that the injury is not so severe because a friend suggested to consult another doctor, who said a few days rest is enough to cure the injury. So Mother gives us what we believe in our life.

Response: Very fine application of the principle.

To Be Titled

When the Mother's Force is called upon, not only will it uplift our own work and that of our colleagues, but it can spread and raise up the entire industry one is a part of.

To Be Titled

When we feel gratitude for each of our past misfortunes, then we will have the psychological clarity that will enable the Force to take us dramatically forward.

Additional comment: We feel gratitude after recognizing that each of our misfortunes were/are circumstance that were necessary in our journey to greater personal growth and success. E.g. a poor Indian child who was forced to flee his beloved village, a very painful reality, was grateful in hindsight as he saw it as the key element that enabled him to later become a great success. That realization when fully emotionalized can actually attract great fortune in one's life.

To Be Titled

In Mothers view, the greater the difficulty, the greater the opportunity.

Additional comment: This does not mean we should seek out problems, but instead recognize the pent up energy for opportunity that difficult problems and circumstance present. If we understand that a negative is actually an intense form of a positive, then we will recognize its value.

Fascinating Relationship Between Good And Evil

After indicating that both Good and Evil serve positive purposes in the progress and evolution in the world, Sri Aurobindo in The Life Divine tells us that Good and Evil aren't simply polar opposites without relation between them, but are deeply related. In fact, he makes the remarkable assertion that Good can come out of Evil, even as Evil can come out of Good. Let's explore these two concepts.

Good Out of Evil -- Sri Aurobindo in various places indicates how the negative is often the greatest power for accelerating the evolution and contributing to the Good. Evil is the same; playing an unseen constructive role in Nature, in the evolutionary unfolding of life. E.g. though horrific, WWII brought about true liberal democracies as well as the European Union, developments that might have taken centuries to occur, if at all.

Evil Out of Good -- To explain how Evil comes out of Good, Sri Aurobindo resorts to a powerful analogy. He says that just a shadow depends on light for its existence, so Evil depends on (an unseen) Good. E.g., the good intentions of the Europeans to placate the Germans strengthened and emboldened the latter at the outset of WWII. Likewise, Gandhi's attempts at non-violence, an apparent Good, delayed Indian independence and led to the partition with Pakistan, who till this day remain acute enemies, with nuclear arsenals pointed at one another. Likewise, in attempting to release the power of the atom for scientific inquiry, an apparent Good, the atomic bomb was created, the greatest Evil ever known to Man.

Additional comment: We can see this same basic dynamic in our own lives. That many good things happened because of the bad; and many bad things came out of the good.

(Good out of the Bad) Eg as a result of falling to the depths of poverty, we make the great effort to emerge from it, which sends us to the top. Or because of the ill-will of another party we are dropped to the bottom of the organization, but then others rally around us, and we are taken to heights we would never have dreamed of. Because of a breakup in a relationship our spirit is released to achieve our greatest life's work. Etc.

(Bad out of the Good) We have a very solid success, but then enjoy it so much that we become complacent and fall down sharply like chutes and ladders. Or in our munificence we are self-giving to the wrong, bad people, which comes back to haunt us. Etc.

Reader: Thank you Sir.

The Falsehood and darkness exist because of ignorance and ego. At the same time, Good can come out of Evil because there is a moment of Truth in it, how contrary and difficult the experience we perceive that might be.

In P&P, Wickham continued to appear at all the critical moments of Darcy's life, finally the scandal he made became the path of transformation for Darcy. There Darcy transformed from ego to self-giving.

In the count of Monte Cristo, Dantes was put in prison because of evil acts of others because he was ignorant. At the end, the prison became the learning ground for him through Abbe Faria and he learnt the valuable knowledge which he would have never get from outside. There he transformed from ignorance to knowledge.

Similarly, the good acts bring bad results when we take ego or ignorant initiatives. In P&P, Collins good intention of marrying one of Mrs. Bennett daughters brought humiliating result to him

Yet, Life evolves through all those various combinations. The acknowledgement of every life experience comes to us for a purpose and aspiration to learn from that will help us to progress.

(perceived from Garry Sir speech/writings)

Response: Excellent post S with fine examples. It is true to Sri Aurobindo's insights in Life Divine. I.e. that the positive and negative both serve a purpose in the unfolding. That there is truth in both.

It is because they are simply variations of the one Reality. The vision of Brahman, the Reality is to see the utility of all things, and see everything in its right place, good or bad, positive or negative, large or small, etc. etc. So in our daily lives we can see the utility of all things, not just what we prefer or like or know about.

In Supermind we see the utility of each thing within the All, and we also perceive the integral nature of all things that make up the Reality. That is why it is called the "Truth Consciousness." It sees the truth in everything. And the more we consecrate the more we move to the state of observing and embracing all things, this All that is the integral Reality. We recognize the contractions of life, and also see beyond them to their resolutions, and the role they serve in the further progress of life

To Be Titled

From one perspective, illnesses we experience are the result of Ego. Actually, each illness is the result of a particular type of Ego movement in our being. Thus, healing the illness occurs very rapidly when we discover and overcome that corresponding psychological form of Ego. E.g. the way out of diabetes is shifting out of insecurity and fear of future. The way out of cancer is overcoming selfishness, greed, and vital depression. And so forth for the dozen or so major illnesses we have identified.

Synchronicity at the Airport Terminal

One principle of life response that we have seen quite often is that when you intensely focus on a matter you can attract further iterations of it. That also applies to recollecting significant events of your past. Here's a recent example:

I was in the terminal of the Oakland, California airport terminal that many Silicon Valley people use. When I passed the first gate, I thought I recognized a man around my age who was a well-known technology pundit and reporter. I did not greet him, and instead continued to walk through the busy terminal.

For some reason I imagined having a conversation with him. In the vision I told him about several very interesting things that happened to me during the decades in the tech field, including life response type situations. The high point was my narrative to him about how I came within two feet of handing Karmayogi's booklet 'Consciousness Approach to Business Management' to Steve Jobs of Apple. I briefly explained this experience to the tech reporter in my mind.

However realizing that I was in a busy terminal with people coming rapidly from the other direction, I cut off the fantasy. Well it turned out that the very instant I did so, I looked up and saw a man who looked practically identical to Steve Jobs!

I was startled and amazed, though I have had such experiences many times before. Still this experience was a wonder to behold, and as I walked on I felt like I was practically walking on air.

To Be Titled

When you fail to appreciate another's great achievement, you can be sure Ego has gotten in the way.

To Be Titled

Complaining about a challenging situation tends to attract greater difficulties, while addressing it with a positive attitude attracts dynamic or simpler solutions, or reduces the scope of the problem to begin with.

To Be Titled

When you overcome your reluctance and do what another person asks you to do, the whole world opens up.

To Be Titled

Energy is never lost. It just seeks other avenues for expression when the form utilizing it decays. E.g. when a bulb goes out, it does not reduce the energy that provided the light, but that power is now able to flow and be utilized elsewhere, through other forms. Thus, if an organization loses the high business and social values that made it a great success, its energies tend to move out and discover another entity to manifest them, with similar successes.

To Be Titled

When you come around and make a firm Decision for something particular to come about, life will soon support that effort by bringing forth circumstance to move you forward in that direction.

Additional comment: Making a decision has great life response power.

A Whale of A Story (Predicting Life Response)

Yesterday I had a rare opportunity to predict a life response before it happened. I was with my friend in the hills above the ocean in Palos Verdes, California in the Los Angeles area. It has a spectacular view from the top, and this time of years many are gathered to engage in whale watching.

My friend asked me to look out for whales, which I did, though I enjoyed hiking about the area even more. At one point a family from another country asked me to take a photo of them, which I did, and then they called out that just behind them they saw a whale emerge spouting water. I barely saw it. So over the next five or ten minutes I intently looked for a whale to emerge. Then I saw the sea glisten in a rectangular area, a spout of water emerge, and saw the dark area that was the whale, with it then descending into the water with its magnificent tail showing.

When I went back and greeted my friend she was deeply disappointed that she had not seen any whales. I then briefly thought about the issue, and said to her, "if you change your attitude away from disappointment to a positive feeling, you will instantly see a whale."

My friend then took my advice and calmed herself. About one minute later there was a magnificent glistening of the sea, a perpetual spray of water emerging from the surface, and the whale then emerging with dramatic flair. The spouting continued unabated for quite a while providing us with a magnificent show. We were so excited that even the whale watchers stationed there with their super lenses on their cameras heard us and pointed their devices in that direction to see the whale we had sighted. Needless to say my friend was ecstatic to no end.

I too was so happy to predict a response from life, and watch it occur in all its glory. It was another reminder that when you shift your attitude from the negative to the positive, the magnificence of the world instantly unfolds before you.

Additional comment: This was such an enjoyable moment! A shift from subconscious to conscious self-willed life response. Karmayogi once explained to me that once we truly know its laws we can learn to predict life response. The one caveat is that don't let the Ego get in the way. This incident was then a wonderful little application. With the ability to predict a life response you feel somewhat like a magician, who explains his trick before it occurs. Except in this case it is real!

Harmony of Purpose Power

Baseball Hall of Famer Ernie Banks was a great player of the 1960s and 70s, famous for his unbridled optimism. Though his team was often near the bottom, he would always maintain that positive outlook. Once he remarked that it was such a beautiful day that they should play two games that day instead of one!

A question that naturally arises is if he was so optimistic, and a positive attitude is a condition that tends to elicit great response from life, how come his team, the Chicago Cubs, is so well known for its utter futility over the years? Shouldn't life respond to his unbridled optimism with division titles and World Series victories?

One answer is that it takes a team to create success; in particular great team work married to that same optimism that Ernie banks embodied. A perfect example of this has been the three world championships recently achieved by the San Francisco Giants baseball team. Though perhaps not quite as talented as some of the other best teams, they have achieved near greatness through an exceptional sense of Esprit de Corps, of unity of purpose, as well as a belief that no matter how difficult the situation they find themselves in during a game, they will somehow prevail. This form of collective optimism releases a titanic energy that elicits response that have consistently taken them to the top; and often in the most extraordinary ways.

Other teams may have great players. Other teams may have enthusiastic and very positive individuals. But it is only when a team, -- or an organization, or any collective -- aspires for and experiences deep harmony of purpose that it will rise beyond all limited expectation, and reach the very pinnacles of success.

Startling Consecrated Visit to the Doctor's Office

Consecration attracts the very best conditions in terms of space and time, including the unexpected arrival of joyful, helpful people to a challenging situation.

Today I went to visit the doctor for some routine lab work. Well before that I consecrated the event, offering it to Mother and Her Force in the hope all would work out for the best. When I arrived a bit early for the appointment I was a bit surprised that the office waiting room was all filled up, plus the people there seemed a bit amiss. I sat down knowing they were all ahead of me, and that the wait could be a half hour or more. A small part of my mind might have thought that a consecrated effort wouldn't have created such a condition. Still I remained still and content.

Not a minute or two a minute later a smiling medical assistant burst out from behind the door and informed me that I was up next! I was a bit startled, yet obviously quite willing. I then went in, leaving the other patients behind. It seemed no less than a miracle.

But there was more. When I arrived in the lab room the technician was beaming and full of enthusiasm. Her vibe was completely positive, joyful, filled with good will. For a second, I thought she might have been putting on a show for worried patients, but that wasn't the case at all. Her demeanor was actually another manifestation of the consecration effect.

Half hour waits turning into one minute. Joy-filled workers in a normally gloomy environment. It was as if I were on a magic carpet ride sweeping me forward. That was further proven by the fact that the lab test themselves took only two or three minutes, and I was quickly zoomed out of the office and onto the street before I knew it!. I was stunned by all of these rapid-fire events, so that left me in a state of quiet ecstasy. After all, so many positive responses in such a short period for one simple consecrated event! It was a joy to behold.

To Be Titled

An ego movement against another will attract a corresponding negative upon one's self. E.g. an individual who bitterly scolds another for alleged wrong attitude may soon be informed that he has deeply upset others because of his incompetent actions or similar.

To Be Titled

The rule of the lower life is each develops in turn while the rule of the higher is all develop simultaneously. (Sri Karmayogi)

Motel Room Miracle

A paraphrase of one principle I have learned over the years is "that which is reported as horrible, miraculously turns out quite fine after being consecrated." Here is a recent experience of mine that demonstrates this idea.

The reviews for a motel I was to stay at were about as poor as a lodging can receive. And that same horribleness was reported by a number of online sources. It seemed a daunting situation, but since the reservation was already made, I was determined to see it through. In addition, considering the situation, I remembered to consecrate the problem, offering it up to the Divine Mother and Her Force.

Well, after exhaustingly carrying up my luggage to the top floor, I opened the door to the room, looked around, and was startled to see how wonderful it looked! Fortune had it that the room had recently been completely revamped, and everything I needed was there, fresh and new! I was astonished by this remarkable turn of events. It was surely another miraculous instance of how Her Force can take the worst of situations and turn it into its opposite.

Reader: When I travel by share autos people say that share autos are not safe, due to many reasons. But it turns out that if I look for town bus, I have to wait longer. So I took to share autos after consecrating to Mother. Many negative incidents about share autos stopped. So Mother not only protect our lives but also the transport vehicles in which we travel !

Response: MS, thank you for sharing that story.

Mother's power is not just individual, but universal as well. Also devotees are not just individual beings, but universal ones who are instruments for the world around them, including the society. Thus when we consecrate for our own individual situations, benefits not only comes to us, but spread to the collective.

Reluctance to Willingness Attracts

A man was reluctant to purchase a tool because he didn't care for the neighborhood the store was located in. However, after reconsidering, he overcame his hesitation and went ahead to secure the item.

On the way out, he passed his car. Suddenly he thought of the remote possibility that the tool he wanted was in the emergency kit of the car, though he seriously doubted the fact. Still he persisted. When he began digging through the bag, he suddenly noticed a small utensil near the top. He looked closer and saw that it was the obscure tool he was looking for! It was practically calling "take me, take me!"

As he made the return trip of only a few yards to his home, he quickly realized that when he shifted from unwillingness to willingness, from reluctance to acceptance life moved into alignment with his wishes, and gave him what he wanted without having his having to go to the required destination. In fact, he hardly went more than 15 yards!

Shifting from reluctance to acceptance nearly always attracts sudden good fortune. It is a movement away from the physical consciousness of the body that does not want to change; that is content to remain fixed in its routine. Then he thought to himself: 'How many times have I experienced this phenomenon in my life! It is a lesson I seem to be learning again and again!'

Reader: you say he didn't like the neighborhood the shop was located in--i wonder if that is not just the mind trying to find a 'reason' for something it intuitively already knows is not going to work/happen...myself i notice this often to be the case...i sense a blockage, and then mind tries to find a reason to justify it...which often turns out to be wrong...not that it is very important, nor am i trying to be 'right', just interested in the mechanisms of mind--and wondering how to reconcile it with your approach--i guess that sensing the blockage itself would/should be reason enough to closely look at what is going on and if not a better solution is available...then, the INTENTION of sincerely wanting a solution would guide me to the idea there may be a tool in the carkit...the intention being the equivalent of your man taking action despite his reluctance

Response: You are on the right track.

-Such situations work on a number of levels simultaneously. In this case, shift from reluctance to willingness, overcoming a limited attitude, onset of intuition and subconscious influence, willingness to take another person's point of view (another individual suggested it), power of intention, etc etc.

-In most life response events there are four general determinates at work: Attitude, Intention, Decision, and Action in various combinations, weights, and orders...

To Be Titled

Mother's power is not just individual, but universal as well. Also devotees are not just individual beings, but universal ones who are instruments for the world around them, including the society. Thus when we consecrate for our own individual situations, benefits not only come to us, but spread to the collective.

To Be Titled

Sri Krishna knew all things that needed to be known at any given moment. Thus he knew exactly what to do and what to avoid. This is Universal Consciousness, also called Overmind by Sri Aurobindo. It is a vast state of cognition far beyond Man's normal mental capacity. Stages before it are Intuition, Illumination, and Revelation; beyond it is Supramental perception and power.

Sri Aurobindo attained the universal consciousness, as Sri Krishna's being entered him. Then He discovered, embraced and brought down Supermind; the truth and unity consciousness containing the Power of Creation.

For us we connect to Supermind through Mother, who is its instrument and conduit. It is not just a current or wave of ultimate, integral Knowledge, but a Creative Power that in each instance sets the world anew.

Some of Mother's Experiences with Krishna

"Only a few days ago, on the morning of the 29th, I had one of those experiences that mark one's life. It happened upstairs in my room. I was doing my japa, walking up and down with my eyes wide open, when suddenly Krishna came – a gold Krishna, all golden, in a golden light that filled the whole room. I was walking, but I could not even see the windows or the rug any longer, for this golden light was everywhere with Krishna at its center. And it must have lasted at least fifteen minutes. He was dressed in those same clothes in which he is normally portrayed when he dances. He was all light, all dancing: 'You see, I will be there this evening during the Darshan.' And suddenly, the chair I use for darshan came into the room! Krishna climbed up onto it, and his eyes twinkled mischievously, as if to say, 'I will be there, you see, and there'll be no room for you.' " (March 3, 1960)

"In 1926, I had begun a sort of overmental creation, that is, I had brought the Overmind down into matter, here on earth (miracles and all kinds of things were beginning to happen). I asked all these gods to incarnate, to identify themselves with a body (some of them absolutely refused). Well, with my very own eyes I saw Krishna, who had always been in rapport with Sri Aurobindo, consent to come down into his body. It was on November 24th, and it was the beginning of 'Mother.'

... It was this: Krishna consented to descend into Sri Aurobindo's body – to be FIXED there ... After a while, I too began having meditations with people. I had begun a sort of 'overmental creation,' to make each god descend into a being – there was an extraordinary upward curve! Well, I was in contact with these beings and I told Krishna (because I was always seeing him around Sri Aurobindo), 'This is all very fine, but what I want now is a creation on earth – you must incarnate.' He said 'Yes.' Then I saw him – I saw him with my own eyes (inner eyes, of course), join himself to Sri Aurobindo." (August 2, 1961)

Krishna ... sometimes I walked with him for hours in conversation. At night, when I was very tired from my work, he would come and sit on the edge of my bed, I would put my head on his shoulder and fall asleep. And it lasted for years and years and years, you know – not just once by chance. (January 4, 1964)

To Be Titled

In the Gita we see how Krishna as the Preserver (incarnation of Vishnu) comes to save the world by allowing the playing out of the great war so the world could be preserved. He even told the great Bhishma not to interfere in the dice game that sent the Pandavas into exile. Yet after 13 years the Pandavas returned to defeat their enemy, as Krishna implored Arjuna to fight his own relatives to win the war and preserve the earth. That was the Truth of existence that Krishna foresaw and enabled to come into being. He had the universal consciousness to perceive such things; seeing each and all things in their right place. Sri Aurobindo and Mother called this the Overmental capacity.

Reader: Thanks Roy

A question. Why didn't Krishna prevent the war? He could've prevented all that violence.

I realize that I'm asking this question using what little I know. I'd love to see more.

Response: He actually tried to prevent it in small ways, but saw that it did little good. He saw that it had to occur in order to purify the world by letting the darkness rise and then overcoming it. If He had supramental power He might have had the power to prevent it, but his was one powerless. E.g. Mother prevented WWII between the US and the Russians. And in WWII Sri Aurobindo stopped the Germans at Dunkirk by evoking the fog, and Mother caused them to split their forces into two fronts, both events directly leading to the eventual Germans defeat. Indeed Mother and Sri Aurobindo had supramental power at their disposal, though I believe Sri Krishna did not.

Reader: Thank you Sir.

Just an analogy, I might be wrong. Sri Krishna had done many things which were against the moralistic view perceived by the human mind; He was above from all that view, since He was from the Overmental plane. At the same time, He could have done many things to bring back Dharma instead of war. For an example, he could have simply influenced the play of Dice game (though He was not there physically, when it was played the second time) to favor

Pandavas and send Kauravas to exile. However, all the characters except Sri Krishna belong to the plane of Life. Hence, both Kauravas and Pandavas were subjected to the rules of Life Response (both positive and negative) which had played in their life and brought them the results accordingly. During the war, He had stood on the side of Pandavas as Grace to them and the ruse He had played brought defeat to Kauravas. But all such ruse could be explained by life response from the individual character point of view like negative attitudes, actions and so forth. At the end, as the war was over, as His mission was established, He subjected himself to the law of life and embraced the curse of Gandhari without any resistance.

Response: Yes, we see life response from the individual human's feelings, behaviors, and actions. Yet that can exist simultaneous to the view of Truth that Krishna embodied by practicing detachment and non-interference of the dice throwing events. Even detachment that is non-reaction is a means of evoking life response.

We can speculate that had the dice game not occurred, there would have been other means of starting the war as the hate of the Kauravas was so great, and their falsehood and evil was building up. However, when the dice game came about, it was a Life Initiative that Krishna recognized, and then realized was the means to restore the society through war. Even Sri Aurobindo and Mother did not stop the onset of WWII and the Cold War, though they helped end it.

Universal Consciousness (Overmind) as embodied by the Gods including Krishna did not have the instantaneous miraculousness power of Creation, to recalibrate and create a new life conditions as in Supermind. It is why Sri Aurobindo and Mother rejected Overmind as the ultimate goal of their yoga and instead made the Supramentalization of themselves and the world as a means of ushering in a Divine life on earth, their great spiritual Mission.

To Be Titled

There are hidden Jewels in the world. If our Being is open and awake, we will continually find them.

Additional comment: creatively, artistically, truth-wise, success-wise, enjoyment-wise, etc.

To Be Titled

Cynicism is lack of positive mental and vital energy.

To Be Titled

When you remove the worry, the difficulty tends to rapidly withdraw.

To Be Titled

We constantly jump to wrong conclusions before having the facts. It is the eagerness and impatience of the limited, surface mind.

To Be Titled

Increased energy and large sums of money will often arrive together.

An individual was owed a good sum of money, which he did not expect to arrive for a week or two. On this particular morning, he felt a tremendous surge of energy, something he had not experienced for a long time. A few hours later that large sum of money arrived -- far earlier than expected. As we see, the energy reflected the money, and vice versa.

To Be Titled

Embracing a change of routine, rather than being troubled by it, speeds up benefits due.

Example: A man was due a large sum of money for services rendered. However suddenly the process by which the invoice was to be processed had changed. He could have easily been bothered by the development, but instead held steady. The following week he was quite surprised when the money due arrived far earlier than expected.

To Be Titled

Obliviousness deflects opportunities and potential benefits.

Being Attached and Unattached To a Problem

There are times we are overly attached to a problem, and need to detach from it. There are other times we are uncaring about a problem and need to care. We can see a scale for improvement in addressing either scenario.

We can identify three levels of over-attachment to a problem:

1. Completely being overwhelmed by it (physical)
2. Being overly emotionally attached to it (vital)
3. Being overly mentally focused or interested in it.

We can move from 3 to 2 to 1 in the attachment dissolving process. The difficulty will then increasing recede, as life responds.

On the other hand, if a person is oblivious or otherwise does not care when a problem presents itself, he should move toward greater concern. He can move from level 1 (mental) to 2 (vital/emotional) to 3 (physical) in being increasingly more concerned and attached to the problem. That will also attract the corresponding positive.

It is an inner skill to know when to detach or when to attach. And then there are various points in between.

When rain would not come through deep prayer mixed with intense desire for it, Karmayogi suggested forgetting about rain to bring it about. I have seen that work.

In Southern California they are now too caught up in the superficial and are oblivious to rain during current severe drought conditions. If they get serious through the mind's interest (1), and then start feeling it in their emotions (2), rain will come. If they are spontaneously interested in rain and water levels in future (3), rain will come non-stop for years on end. If they take no interest, Life/Nature will force them to grips with it through harsh measures.

To Be Titled

Though we may not wish it so, life never stands still. It keeps moving forward and changing. Our ability to keep up, embrace and navigate that change is key to our level of success, including our ability to attract new opportunities from out of nowhere.

To Be Titled

Normal human knowledge cannot explain why intensely positive or negative circumstance suddenly happen, but Life Response knowledge can. In other words, Black Swans can always be understood.

To Be Titled

Even the seemingly most innocent bystander and victim had some opening in their being that attracted the darkness.

To Be Titled

Speaking conveys the thought; but so does Silence.

To Be Titled

The Divine does not seek or desire Ignorance, Falsehood, and Evil, but accepts it in the greater scheme of things; as part of Life's forward movement. It does however seek and desire the manifestation of their opposite in the world; i.e. Integral Knowledge, Truth, and Goodness.

To Be Titled

That which is disorganized in our lives needs to be organized into a habit. That which has become a dry, fixed habit needs to be obliterated in order to open up the future.

To Be Titled

The world is ready for global governance -- such as a World Parliament -- to understand the multifaceted issues, set policies, and implement strategies to rectify the earth's problems that no individual nation has the capacity to self-correct. At the heart of this endeavor are human centered values that can be the basis of every agreed upon action. This overall approach could be a next decisive step on the way toward Human Unity.

To Be Titled

Threat of terrorism offers the nations of the world the perfect opportunity to ban together and solve the world's problems - economic, social, environmental, political, etc.

To Be Titled

In Sri Aurobindo's book 'The Ideal of Human Unity' he reveals the process by which humanity has evolved politically from tiny fragmented communities into kingdoms and nation-states, the prospects of its further evolution into a single global community, and the difficulty in fashioning international institutions that can effectively foster that goal. (MSS)

To Be Titled

The Infinite Source Consciousness of the Involution is buried as potential in the forms of the Evolution. And it is through our personal progress, evolution, and transformation, we bring that involved, buried consciousness to the surface of life.

Additional comment: This is the metaphysical basis of Sri Aurobindo's Integral Yoga.

To Be Titled

Each of us have different interests, perspectives, backgrounds, heritages, capacities, etc., and we should genuinely respect that in one another.

To Be Titled

Never think of a difficulty - you give it strength. (The Mother)

Additional comment: Think of Mother instead, or nothing at all, or both. The problem will then subside on its own.

To Be Titled

To be young is to be always ready to give up what we are in order to become what we must be. (The Mother)

Additional comment: Profoundly true, and applies to our motives, attitude, habits, behaviors, values, beliefs, understanding, skills, etc.

To Be Titled

Offering an inspirational post has most power when you have recently experienced the truth of it and it is alive in your nerves. That will convey its power to others consciously and subconsciously.

To Be Titled

When in your life you meet with a hardship, take it as a Grace from the Lord and, indeed, it will become so. (The Mother)

Our Increasing Mentality

As we evolve as a race, we increasingly value and express compassion, goodwill, and other forms of self-givingness. And yet interestingly we haven't acknowledged the fact that we are increasingly becoming Mental beings with an accelerating capacity to understand existence; including the true nature of ourselves and of life.

The fact that the Internet came about reflects our increasingly developed mentality, as we value facts, information, and knowledge easily at our disposal. Our mentality is in fact accelerating in recent decades, becoming perhaps the means by which human are rapidly evolving.

And yet simultaneously we have reached a point that we can no longer fathom and resolve the problems of life through our mental functioning, and that something else is needed. It is Spirit, or rather, the capacity to know directly without thought that which needs to be known through spiritual means of intuition, light, and revelation -- providing one with deeper, more subtle solutions to life's problems, as well as all the salient facts in a given moment.

We are thus in the very early stages of moving from Man the Mental being to Man whose center of mentality is in Spiritualized Mind.

We are rapidly moving beyond mere physical effort of the body to increasingly use our mind to engage in services and other forms of work that enrich the world. When Mind then moves from its current rationality to true and deeper knowledge through intuition and other spiritual means we will have moved to an even higher state in our evolution.

To Be Titled

By changing yourself first, you will have the greatest power to change the world.

To Be Titled

Mother can help us become a better person in every conceivable way.

To Be Titled

Judge another not by how they flatter you or give you pleasure, but by what they feel about and how they treat others.

Reader: or not judge at all?

Response: By judging here I really mean discriminating between people; between the right type of people to associate with and those that aren't. No one wants to be associated with people who do great harm but we don't perceive it because they charm you on the surface or they are simply nice to you. The context of this remark is our Ignorance and the ways we express it.

To Be Titled

Goodness is doing what is true in each circumstance.

To Be Titled

Good and Evil are constantly shifting entities that depend on what the individual or the society believes in. Truth lies far beyond.

To Be Titled

Goodness is to have good will toward everybody, not just those we favor.

To Be Titled

Truth is not a mental rule, but a Spiritual one. It has an extraordinary flexibility based on conditions.

Additional comment: Mind says this is true and this is false, but someone else sees it the opposite. A third person sees it in-between. A fixed mental rule cannot be applied as it is a shifting target. However, a spiritual rule has a broader, more inclusive Truth that embraces the needs of each situation. When we move to Spirit we are in identity with that Truth and its correlative principles, giving us that discriminating consciousness.

To Be Titled

Truth, including Good and Evil, can only be known from our deepest consciousness, culminating in the Psychic being. Whereas when we are on the surface, we are left baffled at what is true; gazing out on shifting sands.

Additional comment: In the Psychic, the true self and evolving soul we are open to the universal influences; the superconscient that brings us all of the necessary knowledge and reveals life's deepest principles. One of those is Truth, including its movements and laws. From the Psychic being we also know peace, silence, harmony, knowledge, wisdom, goodness, beauty, love, joy, infinity, and timelessness. Constant consecration will take us there.

Ego cannot discriminate between true good and bad or evil, as it constantly takes one for the other.

To Be Titled

One's actions or inactions based on our Ignorance can lead to unintended consequences of falsehood and evil.

Additional comment: Eg a woman is smitten by a handsome man, who turns out to be a bad person who almost ruins her family. We believe X is the solution when it is X, Y, and Z, causing the machines to seriously malfunction. We believe a certain person is proud and haughty, when he proves to be a good man, and we've lost a vast financial opportunity to be connected with him. There are infinite ways we express such Ignorance in our lives. We are even Ignorant of our Ignorance!

To Be Titled

Unless we conquer our Ignorance, Falsehood and Evil will persist.

Additional comment: Our Ignorance opens the door to falsehood and evil; whether Ignorance of the facts, Ignorance of the Truth, Ignorance of the current conditions, Ignorance of where things are headed, Ignorance of others' nature, Ignorance of our own nature, Ignorance of our deeper consciousness and the spirit, etc. Acting from out of those Ignorances attracts negative circumstance that we can measure as Falsehood and Evil.

Reader: Thank you Sir.

Ultimately, the resulting ordeals out of ignorance serve as knowledge to find the greater truth. At the same time, we had learnt lessons from many problems and also forgot many of them since often we are in physical and vital consciousness. Only when we rise to mental consciousness, we learn the knowledge at the first occurrence of the mistake. When we live in spiritual consciousness, we learn the knowledge by themselves. We do not have to make the mistake to realize that knowledge.

Hence, it is important not only to come out from ignorance to knowledge, but also to remember the knowledge and apply in future circumstances.

(perceived from Garry Sir Speech)

- Understanding this knowledge itself is just a first step. Try to implement them in the midst of physical habits, vital attachments, social conditions there exist infinite number of steps for me to cross. Thank you Sir.

Response: Yes, from an even higher plane, of the Reality, Ignorance is perceived as a great spur to Knowledge. In fact, He says that Ignorance is a greater spur to Integral Knowledge than Knowledge itself. And from that perspective looking back we can see our own Ignorances, our failings, our pains as really Graces.

Naturally, as you point out, we want to be able to learn from our negative experiences; our mistakes; our Ignorances, and thereby avoid them in future.

And yet it would be preferable to move toward the Truth through positive means instead of negative: through higher and deeper consciousness (Purusha), rather than the slow, difficult, painful way of Nature (Prakriti).

So we can see that these issues can be understood from a number of perspectives. The real power is when we have particular experiences and corresponding understandings that bring out each of these shadings at once. That everything in our lives, positive and negative becomes a means of our growth.

The Miraculous As Commonplace

Miracles are actually the norm in life. E.g. when the conditions around us suddenly turn positive due to a shift in our attitudes, a miracle has taken place. Space and time have instantaneously been overcome when the result appears before us. What is more miraculous than that?

Moreover, such miracles occur hundreds of thousands if not many tens of millions of times a day in the world. It also occurs negatively, which is also miraculous.

The problem is that our ability to perceive these events is infinitely limited by our level of consciousness. Living on the surface, we do not see the subtle yet stunning causality at work. In other words, we miss the Wonder of Existence.

And because we miss the daily miracles of life response, there is no inner compulsion to CONSCIOUSLY evoke it; to make it happen at our beck and call. Instead we wait on fate, hoping that the fruits of our efforts will lead to some level of happiness and success in life.

And so the miracle-generating apparatus within us lays dormant, unused, waiting for the conscious among us to pull the levers that evoke instantaneous miraculousness in life.

Then who will make the decision to consciously evoke these miracles on a regular basis? Is it you? Is it something you see the value in? Are you sincerely ready to take it up in full, or is it a mere passing fancy. The difference between these two dynamics is a life of the ordinary vs. the Life of the Extraordinary. The choice is yours.

To Be Titled

If you keep trying new things, new vistas will continually open up before you.

Becoming Infinitely Unique

If we honestly evaluate ourselves, we will see that each of us are basically 99% the same as everyone else in our human functioning. We are driven by Nature, with little that truly distinguishes ourselves from others.

At the lowest level in a scale of human Personality we observe people who simply ape others; where a sense of individuality is not at play. At the next highest level, we observe people who have a slight sense of self, but behave and act mostly unconsciously. Higher still, there are those of us have formed characters, distinguishable and identifiable to others, but still quite limited in the greater scheme of things; in their level of self-awareness and purpose in life.

True individuality, a leap forward in our scale, where one demonstrates a truly unique nature with an equally distinct, high purpose and mission in life is exceedingly rare. Here a person is truly unique, individualistic, and self-aware of the fact.

And finally there is Spiritual Individuality where that person takes their cues directly from their Soul within and Spirit above. It is the pinnacle of human Personality, and is virtually unheard of.

To Be Titled

The overwhelming majority of us experience life very much the same as everyone else, despite our apparent surface differences. We think we are special in many ways, even unique, but that is a misperception relative to the whole of possibility of what we can become.

How then to become a member of that rarified 1% is the Great Question that the Force of Life, of the Evolution waits upon. For It knows that such infinitely unique individuals will shape the course of human existence, enabling the Will of the Infinite Consciousness to be realized on earth.

Who then will take up the challenge of the Evolution? Who among us are driven to become infinitely unique individuals, with some great mission and purpose in life, using the power of Soul within and the spiritual Force around us to lead the world forward?

Obama – Solyndra – Solar City Synchronicity

If we look deep enough we will find synchronicities, also called “parallelisms” everywhere in life, which are linked phenomenon that on the surface don’t seem to have anything in common, yet are really deeply connected. With a little effort, we can see this phenomenon at work every day. E.g. here is one I noticed today.

Five years ago US President Obama took up an initiative to support the growth of alternate energy in America. Part of that initiative was to fund several up and coming wind and solar companies with big cash infusions. One of them was a company named “Solyndra.” Unfortunately after a great start and mass infusion of funds by the US government, the company failed. It closed its doors in Silicon Valley, and the giant facility has remained empty since then. Detractors lambasted the president for this effort, as they were always ready to debunk his efforts. Even support from his own party was withdrawn after the apparent Solyndra fiasco.

Yet in the years that followed something very opposite occurred as a boom in alternative energy occurred amongst the emerging startups in the Valley, far surpassing all expectations. In fact, Obama’s initiative seems to have turned on an entire new segment in Silicon Valley, with expanding innovation and jobs. Still gratitude for his efforts was shortcoming.

Five years later – i.e. today – President Obama appeared in Silicon Valley (San Francisco Bay Area in California) to discuss the important issue of cyber-security. He had made the concerted effort to come out to SV to inform business of the common threat they share with government in overcoming cyber-crime, from within the county and without.

Well as it turned out that not an hour or two after completing his remarks, it was announced from that the empty former Solyndra facility has now been taken over by another company Solar City, a very successful solar energy company in the Valley. It was in essence the final vindication of the Obama initiative, cancelling the last traces of failure in the president’s efforts. To me this revelation was a startling “coincidence” coming just after Obama made his intense plea for companies in the Valley to cooperate with him on this thorny security issue. These two events, seemingly separate and apart, with little to do with one another on the surface were at a deeper level aligned in space and time, as they both together served multiple purposes in Life.

If we focus our attention and closely examine events around us, we will begin to observe all manner of synchronicities and parallelism occurring. We only have to identify the subtle correlation between these seemingly unrelated events. Once you perceive one such correlation, more will appear before your eyes. Eg you think of a singer and instantly his voice appears on the PA, though you haven’t heard his voice in that location in two decades. Or you discuss with someone a person you had met decades ago, and within ten seconds someone walks by who looks exactly like that individual. And so on and so forth for any and all circumstance you come in contact with.

It is another indication that all things in the universe have a subtle internal connection and relation that is unseen on the surface. That when one thing occurs in life, other subtly related things also come into play. To be able to see such seemingly disconnected circumstance as deeply related requires a capacity for subtle observation of life conditions.

It is also to understand that there is an essential Oneness in life, instead of the division and separateness we see through our surface view. It is to increasingly comprehend that no matter how separate, apart, disconnected events and circumstances appear on the surface, they are secretly, integrally related in the depths. Synchronicities, parallelisms, and similar phenomenon are subtle reminders of the Oneness of life, including the spiritual Source behind all existence.

To Be Titled

We like what we already like, not what we could like.

To Be Titled

We can make incredibly foolish remarks when we are ignorant of the truth.

To Be Titled

Goodness comes out of Knowledge and Truth. Evil comes out of Ignorance and Falsehood.

Thoughts on Competition

--Competition is fine if it spurs you on to improvement, and your lower ego isn't aroused by the competitor. If however it is merely an Ego movement, then it is false and best to avoid.

--We can contrast that with an Inner directed person who is self-motivated to improve; who does not concern himself with the competition -- whether to compete with or spur him on. In fact, the most successful people and organizations have this Inner-directedness tendency; an indicator of True Individuality.

--From a wider perspective we can say that competition is Nature's way of compelling forms to move forward. It is not however the way of Spirit and Soul, which compels progress from within.

To Be Titled

If you cannot say something positive about another person, it is best to avoid speaking about them. (You may get a negative life response reaction if you do.)

To Be Titled

The journey from Ignorance to Integral Knowledge and Truth is the dominating subject of the second half of sage and seer Sri Aurobindo's metaphysical opus 'The Life Divine.' It is also the essential dynamic of His Integral Yoga.

Positive Response to Understanding a Negative One

If you recognize a quality that led to a negative life response, you tend to quickly evoke a corresponding positive one.

E.g. an individual watched a silly comedy version of a quiz show in which contestants were perpetually in the negative in their earnings. He took pleasure in the foolishness of it all. As it turned out, five minutes after he watched the show, he opened an envelope with a payment against one of his invoices. It turned out that the amount was lower than he expected.

Fortunately, he realized the correlation between his enjoyment of the ridiculous show where money went negative and receiving the paid invoice with the lower-payment amount. The silliness lowered the consciousness, which aligned with another, related negative condition.

When he then went online to observe his bank balance, he noticed that it had suddenly gone up by a significant amount as a result of an unexpected payment from one of his income sources. He was elated by this serendipitous development.

As we see, when you realize the truth of what attracted a negative to you, life tends to respond by bringing forth a new positive. In this case it involved money, but it can happen in any area or field of life.

To Be Titled

--When you forget a disappointment involving money, you may very well be rewarded later with that very same amount.

--When you believe you have been short-changed in monies due, but then release that emotional angst, new moneys often arrive from out of nowhere that surpass the original concerned-about amount.

Additional comment: In both cases a movement out of the lower vital attitudes opens the portals of possibility.

To Be Titled

When you receive financial gifts, or borrow, or otherwise receive money from others, it carries a vibration with it - positive, negative, or in-between - which can produce unintended consequences.

To Be Titled

Not reacting to a person's anguished expression will tend to soften their difficulty, or even attract its disappearance.

To Be Titled

As a devotee of Mother, life will continually bring forth a procession of events that all you will need do is follow.

Reader: Sir an example please

Response: Everything coming to you as a devotee will be things you should embrace -- whether work, relationships, duties, etc. etc. - as not only Life is behind it, but so is Mother, who is behind Life.

Even in the course of a single day you can recognize a flow of events to embrace (as well as messages of what to avoid) when you are in the right consciousness. That also extends over longer time-frames.

Events, circumstance, situations, etc. are constantly arising with possibilities and opportunities to guide you forward; that She and Life fully are fully behind and embrace, knowing they are necessary and helpful for your personal growth and progress.

To Be Titled

Every reversal out of Ego attracts a commensurate positive from life. The deeper or more intense the change, the greater and longer-lasting the response.

Sarcasm is an Ego movement that shelters corresponding Ignorance.

Additional comment: Example: A man had been to a facility a number of times and he had to go there again. His spouse asked him if he knew where the facility was. He answered sarcastically that he had been there many times already so it makes no sense to ask him such a question. A few minutes before leaving, he told her which street the facility was on. But it turned out to be wrong one and she had to correct him! "Of course, that's it" he exclaimed, and at that moment he felt royally foolish of with his Ignorance now exposed.

To Be Titled

New stores of energy that are unharnessed, left unbridled can quickly lead to Ego movements on our part.

Additional comment: We see this in many types of situations. Eg someone is sick. Then that person feels much better, but wastes the energy - engaging in unnecessary conversation, where they needlessly recollect and narrate unimportant, even trivial moments of his past, with a certain type of self-congratulation. With the surge of energy, the Ego has taken over, and as a result the energy normally gets depleted in the process.

We see this often in young people, when they feel a surge of energy, but then waste it engaging in questionable activities that satisfy the lower Ego. They often haven't even a modicum of self-awareness of their energy status, let alone control it. If they had, the energy would have sustained, even built up further, with added power to attract enormous opportunities.

Thus remembering to stay balanced and humble will also keep new stores of energy flowing and expanding.

The problem is that we are normally too unconscious to see these aspects of our being -- whether in relation to energy or to ego or to humility.

To Be Titled

If you have a real insight or idea, but then refrain from broadcasting your view, holding it deep inside, - silently, quietly, without expectation, - it will likely be realized in due time.

Additional comment: Holding it within builds up energy and power to attract its manifestation.

To Be Titled

On this occasion of Mother's birthday, let us adore Her; feel gratitude for all She has done for us and the world; and open and surrender to Her Divine Presence.

To Be Titled

It's helpful to spend less time criticizing others and more time Understanding the underlying conditions, which will bring one much closer to effective solutions.

To Be Titled

Western philosophy is mainly concerned with the workings of Life. Eastern philosophy is mainly focused on the Spirit, apart from Life. Integral philosophy, as devised by Sri Aurobindo instead focuses on the nature of Spirit and its subtle functioning in the details of Life.

To Be Titled

Profound Insights that have inspired and energized us are normally absorbed and forgotten by the routines of life. However, continually thinking about and experiencing such Insights will cause them to lodge in the subconscious where they spontaneously activate depending on the conditions.

To Be Titled

The consciousness is content to go on repeating the same habits ad infinitum. Mother wants you to come out of habit, open to Her and Her Force, and observe life that's now been created anew.

Garnering Energy from Mother through the Vital

Some 15 years ago I went to Europe to contact some computer software companies. I was traveling all over Europe on a tight schedule. On the last day of my tour I was in Paris to meet with a very large, important software company. When I went to their corporate office and entered the lobby, I realized that I had no energy at all. I had been traveling for two weeks and I was exhausted. Then I thought this is the most important meeting of my entire trip and without energy surely I cannot accomplish anything. So I started calling Mother intensely from the vital (emotional being) and asking Her for energy. Within ten minutes I felt like somebody had pumped me up. I felt buoyant and charged with energy. I met the Vice President of the company for one hour, and he was very excited by our proposal.

(Garry Jacobs from 'Lectures On Sri Aurobindo's The Life Divine')

The Reality, The All That We Can Realize

In the aftermath of the battle of Kurukshetra in the Gita section of the Mahabharata, the blind Gandhari, wife of Dhritarashtra who is head of the evil Kaurava, anguishedly blames Krishna for the death of her sons, as he did not prevent the war, even encouraged it.

Remarkably, Vyasa responds that only Krishna himself has actually suffered in the war! He explains that Krishna is the Reality, which is All things in creation and beyond it. And therefore the sons and all soldiers who died in the battle is actually the destruction of parts of Krishna Himself.

In Vedanta, the Divine is not simply something beyond creation, but includes all things, all forces and forms IN creation. Thus all things in life are necessary, important, play a vital role in the unfolding: even the undivine, the negative, and the insignificant. It is this Reality, this Brahman, this All that is that what Krishna embodied.

Sri Aurobindo says that to have this ultimate view of existence - this All, where each thing, force, form, plane are simply infinite variations and shadings of the one Divine; each playing a vital part - is to have the Vision of the Reality. He tells us that this integral view of existence can only be experienced, realized in full through Supramental perception, which is Unity consciousness that can perceive the necessity and purpose of all things. The ordinary human mind is not able to have this experience.

How can one begin to see the see the necessity and interrelation among all things in and beyond creation? Karmayogi says that through constant consecration and constantly taking another's view, our mind vastly expands and we increasingly experience the utility and interconnection of all things, which gives us ultimate power of knowing, decision making, and action, which in turn evokes the infinite from the finite in no time at all.

To Be Titled

When we do small things, we don't ordinarily see how it leads to big things, such as a new opportunity or an opening unimagined. That's why small things are precious, as they are doorways to the infinite. So let us perform every act with our highest consciousness so that it results in perfection that draws out the infinite from the finite.

To Be Titled

We know and act through human mental logic; i.e. of the finite. It is linear, constricted, inflexible. Mother knows and acts through Supramental logic; i.e. of the Infinite. It goes in all necessary directions that serve the emerging truth. To move from one to the other gives us great understanding and power in life, accelerating success, while enhancing our personal and spiritual growth.

To Be Titled

To practice Sri Aurobindo's Integral Yoga, -- which is essentially giving up normal human life, even devotee life -- one Surrenders one's very purpose and existence to the Divine Mother and Her supramental Force.

However, to qualify for Surrender, the Ego and its negative movements will need to have been overcome for the most part, replaced by the Psychic being within, including its expressions of harmony and oneness.

To Be Titled

Reader: Sir, if we give up ego, people like to control us thinking that we obey everyone. How to handle this problem in life?

Response: One can give up ego and still maintain inner strength. I would need to know the details to comment further.

Reader: When i accept my surroundings and situations, however critical it may be, and don't fight for my wants or needs, people take it for granted. I had to struggle very hard to gain my faith towards Mother and follow Her in daily life. Should I ask Mother to give more psychological strength?

Response: Yes, and clear out any negative feelings you have about your environment; others. Life will then tend to respond in your favor.

Reader: Ok Sir. I will do it. Thanks for your advice.

To Be Titled

Each time we control an Ego movement, we move closer to the Psychic being, and its attributes of Harmony and Peace.

To Be Titled

An individual perceives one aspect of a situation; a second person perceives another, and so forth for others involved. "Truth" however lies beyond these; is all possible perceptions combined, integrated, with misinformation burned away; and with the Essence shining through.

To Be Titled

When the Ego is engaged when communicating thoughts to others, it readily leads to misinformation, exaggeration, distortion, and other forms of mental error.

To Be Titled

A Devotee is one who seeks to obtain whatever he wishes through Mother. A Sadhak is one who attains whatever Mother wishes for and through him.

Reader: does Sadhak = monk-type person? or could a householder be a Sadhak?

Response: A householder can be a devotee. A sadhak is a yogi, practicing (e.g.) integral yoga. (I.e. total surrender to Mother.)

To Be Titled

With greater education, Internet exposure to all manner of knowledge, Financial Crisis shock, emerging higher values, self-awareness consciousness spreading, etc. Americans are gradually growing out of their superficiality, their surface/material view of existence into a more complex relationship with the world. Amidst the younger and mid-range generations, you can subtly perceive this coming about.

To Be Titled

The more you are bothered or anguished about something that is true, the more it will be.

Additional comment: We forge a stronger relationship with that which we are bothered, irritated, angered by.

To Be Titled

A devotee from the outside, without any material interaction, using Mother's force, and knowing when to implement silence and withdrawal power, can guide any organization -- such as a sports team or a competing company -- to the very pinnacles of success in an extraordinarily short period of time. The experience unfolds like a miracle of the highest order.

To Be Titled

We can change our entire life in a single minute by committing to doing something we know should be done.

To Be Titled

Truth is the objective status of Reality. It defies comprehension by ordinary mind, but not by spiritual Mind of (progressively) intuition, revelation, and supermind (truth consciousness).

Additional comment: Truth and Spirit are the two aspects of Reality. Both emerged from the Absolute, the Infinite Divine. The Supreme.

Truth is the objective facts of existence in the Reality (visible or invisible). It is the integral nature of things that we can perceive as an integral knowledge.

Spirit is the divine reality in its pure state that we experience. It is subjective, as it cannot be readily experienced or expressed as facts.

Perhaps we can say that Truth and Spirit are two sides of the same coin: two expressions of the One Reality.

In Supermind we experience both Truth (as an integral knowledge) as well as Spirit.

For the Mind to open to its spiritual dimension of Supermind. For that to happen, our center of consciousness needs to move toward our true self. Anything that moves us away from Ego and toward Harmony will bring us there, such as taking the other person's point of view, humility, silence, self-givingness, and consecration. From that poise we experience the true nature of the Reality (Truth) as well as experience the Spirit behind things. The objective and subjective aspects of the Reality.

To Be Titled

Ego is absorption in self, with separateness its hallmark. Non-ego is expansion of Self, with connectedness and harmony its hallmarks.

To Be Titled

One can embark on a great journey from Ego to Non-ego, experiencing and overcoming its myriad of expressions, thereby landing in a state of harmony and oneness, centered in the True Self.

To Be Titled

According to Karmayogi true meditation occurs only when the mind has gone silent - i.e. where there are no thoughts.

To Be Titled

We ask the Mother for boons such as prosperity, success for our children and in our careers, etc., but infrequently do we ask Her to remove the deficiencies in our nature - including negative attitudes, habits, beliefs, et al. - that prevent these and other aspects of our lives from being fully realized.

To Be Titled

Chances are that the intense complaint you have about another corresponds to something in yourself that is worthy of being complained about.

Additional comment: A tv show host and pundit was outraged that a company was selling low cost computers with software in it that culled personal information from the user for advertising purposes, even though he was eagerly, somewhat greedily waiting to receive a free smartphone from that very same company!

To Be Titled

Often what seems difficult, daunting becomes much easier once you begin making the effort.
Additional comment: This is a very common experience of mine.

To Be Titled

Being strong and sensitive CAN go together, leading to great things.

To Be Titled

Often the opening to the Large can only happen by going through the Small Additional comment: Often life will require you to undertake something seemingly trivial, yet it is only by making the effort to go through that (rather than avoid it) will life reward you with a big opening, opportunity, and such. The Small thus becomes the doorway to your future. It's also worth noting that the greater the resistance overcome, the wider the opening.

To Be Titled

The tone in which you deliver your message can be as important as what you have to say.

A Happy Man

(Non-ego attracts reduction in work effort)

When you shift from selfishness to self-givingness, substituting another's precious time for your own, life cooperates, facilitating the conditions of your own life.

I was working on a project of organizing complex material into a more readable whole. It was a work that was taking somewhat longer than I anticipated, and in fact seemed to have no end. At one point I left the office to take a drive, but a friend of mine also needed to use the car. However, because I felt the need to air myself out, I stuck to my guns. As I began the drive, I realized that I was acting egotistically and selfishly, and so cut it short from several hours to a half hour, and also brought back a treat for my friend.

When I then resumed work on the knowledge organization project, I suddenly realized that the important phase I was now engaged in was going MUCH FASTER than I had anticipated. In essence, I reversed from being overwhelmed by the never-ending quality of the work to a situation where time was cut by 90%!

When you shift from your own ego needs to that of the needs of others, life returns the favor, and creates positive conditions, including the facilitation of time. Because I reduced my re-energizing time in order to accommodate my friend, life radically reduced the time for my own precious project to be complete.

To Be Titled

Separation is the basis of the ego's sense of identity. (Eckhart Tolle)

To Be Titled

Individuality and the separateness of Ego are not the same thing. The former is fully positive; the latter fully negative.

To Be Titled

The Source Consciousness seeks infinite variation of Itself through the development and expression of higher consciousness of each individual.

The Consciousness of the Supreme was there before humans came to be and evolved their consciousness. Thus we could say that as we become more conscious, we are simply tapping into the Consciousness that is already there. That our purpose is to give it more varied expression through the details of our lives.

To Be Titled

Science has mistakenly believed that consciousness began in earnest with the human race; i.e. through the development of brain function. But Consciousness was there before creation; was there, is, and always will be. Now scientific breakthroughs in understanding -- like quantum entanglement and non-locality - aka Life Response; that all things are instantly linked across space-time -- are shattering the old reductionist view and scientific order.

To Be Titled

For years we hold to certain beliefs about certain things only to find that when we go to such easily-accessible online sources as Wikipedia that we were mostly wrong. Such widely available knowledge is Nature's way of putting the truth of things before us, something we as increasingly mental beings subconsciously yearn for. It is one reason the Internet and such have come into existence; i.e. a response to that subconscious aspiration.

To Be Titled

We can break the tyranny of Nature that wishes to repeat the same things over and over - including certain negative aspects of our lives - by rising in consciousness at that inflection point.

Negotiating the Transitions of Life

Life has a rhythm which we are challenged to embrace. E.g., you are actively engaged in circumstance for days, weeks, months on end; and then there are quiet periods or quiet time where little of significance occurs. And then just when you are settled in, life bursts forward with activity; often overwhelmingly so. For many, such transitions are difficult and trying.

However, if we develop an Inner Life we can more easily negotiate such undulating change. With that subtle consciousness, life becomes smooth for us; no matter how sharp or intense the transitions or the flow.

To Be Titled

Most illnesses are due to psychological resistance of various sorts. Eg diabetes is due to insecurity and fear of future. Cancer is due to vital depression, selfishness, greed. Chest pain like angina is due to a tight unyielding and inflexible personality. Etc. Overcoming the psychological deficiency will eliminate the illness.

Elevating Your Romantic Relationships

Among the factors that make for a happy relationship are:

- true and abiding affection
- being self-giving
- not expecting, demanding from partner
- not complaining; criticizing
- taking responsibility, instead of blaming
- elimination of ego
- not asserting one's point of view
- taking the other person's point of view
- not trying to change the other person
- tolerance and patience
- not squabbling

What are some of the others?

Which ones are you deficient in?

Reader: feeling and showing unconditional love for them. accepting them as they are feeling and showing unconditional love for ourselves. accepting ourselves as we are feeling and showing unconditional positive regard (psychological term) letting them be. not possessing being open. engaging in what they like and in what we like being honest no matter how easy or difficult the topic is being compassionate forgiving

resolving conflict smoothly, quickly successfully if conflict arises being independent and self-sufficient finding and sharing positive humor, joy and ecstasy in everything spiritually evolving consistently feeling a oneness
losing track of time
Reader: Accepting them as they are.

To Be Titled

You can accomplish 5-10x more in a given day by opening to Mother and Her Force, which quickly sets right life's conditions, while opening up great opportunities on your behalf.

Additional comment: This will ordinarily resonate with us once we see it happen several times in our lives. Then if we are likely to be energized to pursue it regularly throughout the course of our lives. If we do, we will enter a most unbelievable success-generating realm of existence.

To Be Titled

At least 50% of our everyday speech is unnecessary, dramatically reducing our life response attracting power. And to the degree we speak less, that "emptiness" will be filled by unexpected good fortune.

Reader: Sometimes or in case Many times 'emptiness' space quite NOT EMPTY.

Response: Yes.

We can think of Emptiness as Silence. There are various levels of it: Silence of thoughts (of the mind), silence of the emotions related to the thought or otherwise (of the vital), silence of the speech; of speaking out the thought (physical), and the silence of the urge to act based on a thought or otherwise. True Emptiness or Silence occurs when all of these are occurring simultaneously.

Eg one can control one's speaking (as referred to in the original note above). That is easy if one can control the urge. But then the thought is likely to still be active in the mind. So we can learn to control the thought. But then it may still reside in our emotions; including desire to speak or think about it And there too we can control the feelings. Yogic effort is able to control all these on an on-going basis. Most people simply speak, think, feel the thought, and act, without giving any of it attention. We are mechanical, driven by nature's urge built into who we are. The yogi on the other hand controls all of these, knowing when to engage any of them, and when to hold back.

In that sense most humans are closer to animals - like a chimp - than the yogi, who is really a super-human, especially if he transforms all parts of his nature.

Focusing On The Now

I am absolutely convinced that confusion is to teach us to live from day to day, that is to say, without being preoccupied with what may happen or what will happen, just concerning ourselves from day to day with what we have to do. All thinking and foreseeing and devising and all that furthers disorder a lot.

To live almost from minute to minute, to be like this (gesture turned upward), attentive only to the "thing" one has to do every moment-and to let the All-Consciousness decide.

(The Mother, from Agenda, August 16, 1969)

To Be Titled

Look at one's own faults first, before complaining about others' faults, and to mend one's ways before demanding others should mend theirs.

To Be Titled

The goal of creation is for every force, idea, particle, formation, person, collective, etc. to possess the Consciousness of the Infinite, the Eternal, the All Powerful. (inspired by the Mother)

Additional comment: We can help make that happen through continuous Consecration.

Acceding To the Truth Attracts Overwhelming Good Fortune in Downton Abbey

One powerful principle of life response is that when you accept, embrace, and communicate the truth instead of holding onto it out of fear or other negative emotion, life will suddenly open up and present you with overwhelming good fortune. Here's an example from film:

Downton Abbey is a British TV series set in the fictional Yorkshire country estate depicting the lives of the aristocratic Crawley family and their servants in the post-Edwardian era. As we pass through the 5th season, there are two daughters of Lord and Lady Grantham Crawley - Mary and Edith. Edith has had a romantic relationship with a distinguished newspaper editor which produced a child Marigold, though the editor never got to see his daughter as he disappeared and was then reportedly killed in Germany. Though the child was put up for adoption in order to avoid scandal for the Crawley family, Edith eventually gained custody of the child, brought her to Downton Abbey to live, though several members of the Crawley family did not know the child was Edith's.

It turns out that Lord Grantham eventually discovered that the little girl was Edith's, though he did not mention that fact to her. It also turns out that about the same time Lord Grantham was having health problems and therefore checked with a doctor to investigate about the issue. Several days later Lord Grantham confessed to his concerned wife with that he likely had Angina, and therefore was at risk of having a heart attack.

Now fearful for the end of his life, Lord Grantham decided to talk to his daughter Edith about her daughter Marigold. And so that evening Lord Grantham came into his daughter's room and confessed to her that he knew that Marigold was her daughter, and, more importantly, that he fully accepted the little girl into the Crawley family. As a result of his gesture, Edith was ecstatically happy.

Most interestingly, a day or so later, Lord Grantham reported to his family that he had gone to the doctor again for further tests, and discovered that he did not have Angina at all, but merely had an ulcer. Now all he had to do was eat modestly and he would be fine. It was a tremendous relief for himself and his wife.

Can we not say that as a result of being fully truthful with his daughter about his knowledge of the situation while fully accepting his granddaughter into the family, life responded and altered the conditions of his health?

When we give up our fears, and face the truth, admitting it as necessary, not only will we feel an inner relief, but life response with good or great fortune in the same or an entirely different area. When Lord Grantham gave up his fears and confided with his daughter about his true feelings, life responded and literally gave him a new lease on life. We can do the same in our lives by not holding on to our fears and admit to ourselves and to others that which is truly true.

Reader: Very nice story to clearly understand the message Sir. In my life, for the past 3 years, I was forced not to read Mother's books. This was due to some of my close relatives. But I did not lose hope in Mother's Grace. Suddenly from where I thought I will not receive support, from those relatives, I received great support. You also advised not to blame anyone but to think positively only. Suddenly I regained myself and said I can't take it anymore like this and said I will continue to follow Mother's path whatever comes. I prayed to Mother to give me strength. Mother blessed me and my family somehow accepted me and the very next day, that is yesterday, Mother's Grace showered as rain.

Response: You have seen and garnered inner strength; inner power. Congratulations!

To Be Titled

Some people believe that Silicon Valley is rich because it is greedy, when in fact their great success is due to decades of humility, and quiet, visionary, individualistic work.

To Be Titled

If there is the slightest bit of irritation or anger on our part, then we are likely partially or fully in the wrong, though we may have to dig deep to discover why.

Reader: You mean face it with inner calm and be cool?

Response: Yes, if you can.

It is also helpful to know why you are really angry or irritated, which requires one to dig deeper, and there you will find the negative aspect. Eg a man was very angry that his wife spoiled all that he had worked on, but never considered that what he had desired to occur was extremely harmful to others, and undertaken with the lowest values.

In another case a man was always irritated that his spouse would not listen to him, though he did not have the full capacity to speak to her when she was ready to listen, not just when he wanted to speak.

This irritation and anger have immediate cause, but also have deeper causes in one's wanting attitude, beliefs, and behaviors.

In Pride and Prejudice, Eliza Bennet was unhappy and irritated when Wickham, a man she was infatuated with, did not show up at a party. What she did not realize was that this man was duplicitous and a scoundrel.

To Be Titled

Each wrong attitude in our being - whether towards others, life, work, or self - attracts corresponding negative circumstance.

To Be Titled

We can understand the aphorism "one good turn deserves another" in a new light in terms of the miraculous phenomenon of Life Response.

The Future Ahead

There are often small signs up ahead of things coming but which we miss until they come upon us and suddenly become huge. When we develop a deeper consciousness, we perceive the current tiny and small as potentially vast, and are thus able to capitalize on it by giving it special attention, enabling us to stay ahead of the game.

Today's tiny is tomorrow's gigantic is another expression of the idea that the infinite is buried in the finite. It is our right perceptions of the unfoldings of life that brings that infinite possibility to the surface; to the attention and concerns of the Now.

To Be Titled

The more you are irritated by or get angry with a situation, the more the issue will sustain itself, or even get worse. On the other hand, the more you hold back and do not react - especially in your emotions, - the quicker outer condition will improve.

To Be Titled

In the current way of life success is mirrored by failure, pleasure with pain, good with evil, knowledge with ignorance, and life with death. These divisions and dualities almost seem inevitable, never-ending. However, in the Divine life that is to come on earth as envisioned by Sri Aurobindo there will predominantly be the positive, without the dark complement, both in our experiences and in our way forward.

Integral Knowledge is the Knowledge of the Integral Reality.

Additional comment: The Integral Reality is the totality of all things visible and invisible, - forms, thoughts, emotions, forces, planes of being, circumstance, etc. -- and their subtle inter-relationship.

Integral Knowledge is to know this from moment to moment as necessary. Ordinary human knowledge is hardly any of this; not even a billionth of it. Thus it is Ignorance. The goal then is to move from Ignorance to and Integral Knowledge of the Integral Reality - the All.

We can begin that process by Opening to Mother by taking the other person's viewpoint, etc. which deepens the consciousness, culminating in the True Self, which in turn widens our mind beyond ordinary human thought and knowledge to intuitive, revelatory, and supramental perceptions, where we more readily perceive the true nature of existence -- the Integral Reality.

To Be Titled

Even bad people can attract enormously positive conditions when they do the right thing.

Additional comment: Eg Nixon – Mother called him a brute - goes to and helps open up China in the 1970s. Another: a corrupt politician changes course and allows for proper funding of disaster relief, and the hurricane about to hit suddenly and most unexpectedly veers away from land and heads out to sea.

To Be Titled

What we believe in reflects the essence of who we are. Otherwise, we are not very much of anything.

To Be Titled

Negatives have hastened the evolution in the physical and vital ages humanity has passed through. Now somewhat in the emerging mental age, accelerating in the coming spiritual age, advancement for the individual and society will take place through the Positive. It will be a decidedly different orientation to human existence.

To Be Titled

There is what you want, and then there is what the Divine via your Inner Self would like of you. It's the difference between normal and a spirit-oriented existence.

To Be Titled

True devotion is not so much to ask boons of the Divine, of Mother, but to surrender to Her Will and Purpose whenever possible. When we do, we will regularly attract the miraculous.

To Be Titled

Q: Can we consecrate past mistakes and failures?

A: The answer is yes. If we do, their negative impact on the present will be dissolved, or we will simply evoke new very positive conditions as a result of our contrition on that aspect we consecrate. We call this "Past Consecration."

Each of us is born into this life to further the evolution of the soul that inhabits us. It is through our growth and experience that the True Self, the psychic being grows in consciousness in its journey through time via multiple births.

This is also true for the poor, the destitute, the deformed, and the like. So though we can feel compassion for their situation, we should avoid pity, for they too have the opportunity to grow in consciousness, at their level, for their own growth and that of their soul.

To Be Titled

At any given moment you can do something to elevate the consciousness of the situation. The results will be marvelous.

Book Review Surprise

If we observe ourselves closely, we will see that our Ego constantly takes control of us during the course of our day. Our obligation then is to catch it each time it presents itself and then suppress it, which will enable us to maintain harmonic relationships with others and life, as well as avoid negative life response consequences. The other benefit of suppressing our ego movements is that it can instantaneously attract positive conditions. Here's a recent example:

A man was thinking about his communications with a fellow business associate. In particular, he dwelt on the response he received to an email he sent to that colleague. Thinking about the content, the man got a little irritated, believing that the associate was restating the obvious. He then began to rationalize his viewpoint to such a degree that his higher self came to the fore, enabling him to recognize that his Ego was getting the best of him. Now clearly perceiving that fact, the man stopped his egoistic thoughts in its tracks, and as a result, his mind resumed its normal quieter state.

When he then opened his email to begin his work day, he saw a message from a journalist that the book he had written about a famous spiritual sage had been favorably reviewed; the first such response since he had published the work.

In other words, by catching an Ego movement and halting it in its tracks, the man instantaneously attracted a ray of good fortune from out of nowhere.

Energized Instructor

When you take on your current work with great enthusiasm, interest, and perfection, another project you have been working on, including a great one, may suddenly be elevated to unimagined heights.

Example: though it was in one sense a small, insignificant class, an instructor decided to put his all into it. He then expended an enormous amount of energy, making sure the students received all necessary information, and with great clarity. The next morning on examining his email he discovered that one of the books he had written suddenly and most unexpectedly received a very favorable review at an international news site; the first major critique of that work since its publication.

To Be Titled

It is only in tranquility and peace that one can know what is the best thing to do. (The Mother)

To Be Titled

Whenever possible lead by example rather than by command, and others are bound to follow.

To Be Titled

The visible is far less powerful than the Invisible to affect the visible.

Additional comment: Life response results of consecration, overcoming a negative attitude, non-reaction to another's hostility, and being silent inside etc. are proof.

To Be Titled

While the Source is infinite, material existence is finite. And yet the goal of creation is to make the material and all other planes infinite-like through the invocation and action of the Source.

To Be Titled

Negative circumstance will be understood as a positive at a later time.

To Be Titled

When we are able to recognize and catch ego movements when they arise, it indicates that our relationship with our soul is alive.

To Be Titled

When a bad person transforms themselves, they tend to reach a higher level than a good person.

Additional comment: It is because a negative is really a more intense form of the positive. It has more energy in it for transformation.

Reader: Yes it is often seen in our Bollywood movies that when a man who is into drugs, alcohol, women decides to improve himself, he does it better than anyone else

Response: Nice observation.

To Be Titled

What we are in apparent contradiction or conflict with, we are from a higher perspective actually complements to, as each side is secretly helping the other grow. Life/Nature/Prakriti has put them together in dual pairs, so we each can learn from the other; so each can progress beyond their current limited consciousness and status.

Additional comment: We see this quite clearly in the Middle East in the conflict between the Israelis and the Palestinians. The question there is whether they will be compelled to make the necessary change.

Naturally, we can see this dynamic in every conflict we have with others and with life. That conflict is what Nature set up for you so that you can learn from the other party or through the experience so you can grow. The key is to give up ego and accept the lesson that life is trying to offer you.

To Be Titled

Without the interaction of the good with the bad, the positive and the negative, or any other forms of contradiction or conflict, there is ordinarily no progress in life.

Additional comment: Eg in Pride and Prejudice Mr. Darcy would not have been able to grow in consciousness without the misdeeds of the negative Mr. Wickham, and his association with him. Likewise, he would not have been compelled to grow without the rejection of his marriage proposal by Eliza Bennett who thought he was prideful.

To Be Titled

Every negative that comes to us is a means to help us grow.

To Be Titled

We are all divine, even the negative amongst us, as each of us are a seed that can change and reach the highest heights.

To Be Titled

Mother comes to us most powerfully through the people who give us the most trouble. (MSS)

Additional comment: It is the Ego view that sees them as giving trouble. The higher view is that they are actually bringing Grace. The ego view sharply divides good from bad. It wants good, but not the bad. But the Integral View sees them both as necessary; including necessary for our growth and progress.

It is the essence of Sri Aurobindo's insight about attaining the Integral Knowledge. Dividing good and bad sharply is the view of the Ignorance, which is the normal human view. It is the opposite of the view of one who has attained the Integral Knowledge.

From a deeper consciousness we have the undivided view; the Integral View that everything serves a purpose, That the negative helps us grow to a higher nature, just as the positive can. Constant consecration will bring us to those depths to have this soul-based supramental view.

In the end it just depends how committed we are to seeing the world this way. To moving deeper within so we can embrace the negative as Grace; which will help us reach our highest nature and experience ultimate delight.

And when we overcome the trouble, we rise to the highest heights. Far higher than if there were no trouble. I know of many examples of this amongst friends and colleagues. Eg one mid-level member of an organization was threatened to be ejected by a hostile colleague, but instead he rallied and soon rose to the very top. It's because he perceived the negative as an opportunity and then made the right decisions

The negative people, situations et al that come to us represent negatives inside ourselves. Therefore know what that correspondence is, and make the necessary change within. When we do, the negative will disappear, and we will grow immensely through the experience.

To Be Titled

When a negative comes your way, ask yourself, "What can I learn from this situation? What does it represent in me? How can I grow through this circumstance?"

To Be Titled

We believe we are separate from others, but that is the view of the Ego. We are actually One with others and life in every conceivable way.

The ego-sense blocks us off from others' experiences, knowledge, insights, even who they physically are, and yet we need them as much as we need ourselves, and in every conceivable way.

From the perspective of the Integral Reality all things reside in perfect Oneness. At that true level of being we are one with all things; not just with what we like, as the Ego view dictates. And yet to shift from ego to that Oneness we need to discover a deeper center within us that feels deep connection and harmony with others and the world around us.

How can we make that transition? Through consecration, taking the other person's point of view, and non-reaction we can build that deeper center within where we experience that Oneness with others and life. There we transcend the separateness of the ego, replacing it with the harmonic, unitarian view; the same perspective the Integral Reality has of Itself.

To Be Titled

People who continuously express their unsolicited opinions are highly susceptible to the Truth of things.

To Be Titled

Ill-will, resentment, jealousy, and dishonesty -- toward friends, colleagues, family members, renowned individuals, etc. -- are several of the common banes of our daily lives. No wonder why we continually attract the negative.

To Be Titled

One minute of feeling Mother inside as deep richness or golden light or similar can change the course of our lives.

The Process of Accomplishment:

Know what you want, consider the details and the right strategies, including time-bound actions. Commit to it in full. Make an exhaustive effort, executing it with energy, fully positive attitudes and skill. Follow the flow of things for next step indicators. At no point should you feel impatient or disappointed. Consecrate the entire matter to the Higher Power.

As a result, Life will cooperate with you in full, bringing about what you want, and so much more. You will be amazed how at each step life cooperates with your intent. It is a wonder to behold. The process of accomplishment mirrors the same process by which the universe emerged from a Divine Source.

Signs You Have Followed the Process In Full:

The work, project, task, etc. works out much better than you thought, in far less time, with less effort, while energizing you to no end. The ultimate product is not just the fulfillment of your intention, but a power of Knowledge of the Process for the future, as well as ecstatic Joy.

To Be Titled

We inherit negative propensities through genes from the parents or grandparents. It settles in our subconscious being, which means we are hardly aware of it. However as we become more conscious, we begin to perceive that when we think or act falsely, we are aping some aspect of one or more parents. Which means we can become conscious and stop those negative aspects in their tracks.

To Be Titled

When you accept what another person wants (instead of what you want), they often end up embracing what you (secretly) wanted to begin with.

Additional comment: It is a form of Silent Will.

To Be Titled

When you focus on the money being earned in a work instead of the benefit the work provides others, that or other funds will recede from your account.

To Be Titled

To see the beauty behind the ugliness, the truth behind the falsehood, the light behind the ignorance is a sign of a rising consciousness that is in tune with, one with the Integral Reality.

Additional comment: Eg to see the wisdom of life in the individual who abuses us, such as the nasty boss. We can learn he is there to teach us psychological strength, or to develop non-reaction power, etc., which can carry over into the future. It is to see the truth behind the falsehood.

In the play and film 'The Elephant Man' based on a true story, a horribly disfigured Englishman turns out to have a great intelligence, be eloquent beyond compare, and creates objects of art (such as a model of a cathedral) of exquisite beauty. He serves to inspire the entire society.

To Be Titled

There is a time to focus on a problem, and there is a time to withdraw all attention to it. Each done on the appropriate occasion will quickly evoke the resolution.

To Be Titled

To be aware of the omnipresent Reality inside is spiritual awakening. (Karmayogi)

Additional comment: It is to perceive the utility of all things in the Unfolding, which is the perception of spiritualized mind.

To Be Titled

Internet is very good. INNER-NET is Infinite.

Additional comment: What is Inner-Net?

- it achieves vastly by opening to the Divine, Mother (i.e. inner achieves in the outer through consecration.)
- we can take to inner silence that brings the exact necessary knowledge from out of nowhere.
- it is deep inner connection with others across the earth, marked by our capacity to broadcast deep goodwill towards others from within that spreads and brings good or great fortune to others and ourselves quickly from out of nowhere.
- it is shedding negative attitudes inside, that quickly attracts vast success outside.
- it is recognition that the entire universe is held inside us, and from there (the inner, the Inner-net) we can take to inner means to affect the outer in infinite ways, overcoming limits of space and time, of causality and reality.
- it is as Mother indicated a vast invisible web with trillions of strands, and when we pluck a the right ones, it vibrates to other corresponding ones, influencing them, having a power over them, bringing good or great fortune to others, the world, including ourselves.
- the Inner-Net is many other things we can define, indicating its infinite nature and capacity.

To Be Titled

All progress originates inside, not outside.

Additional comment: Inner is aspiration, values, silence, and spirit (consecration). These have ultimate power to evoke outer results.

On Social Interaction

Much of the social interaction we have with others is vital, placating the emotional needs of our lower nature. It stimulates us and keeps the conversation going and the interaction lively.

On the other hand, when a spiritual person connects with others in a social situation, he aims to share experiences, help others with their problems, seeks to improve their life condition, and in general seeks their happiness and fulfillment.

The inner-directed person of the spirit substitutes deeper purpose and connection for emotional titillation, silliness, and other forms of amusement that stimulate the vital being.

Naturally, unbridled social interaction and the stimulation that is felt is quite difficult to control, let alone think about. It wastes energies instead of conserving them, allowing for short-term emotional gain at the expense of on-going happiness and joy. Only when we develop a deeper center do we transition from social amusement to harmonic interaction.

Sri Aurobindo says it is the Hour of the Unexpected.

Additional comment: "Nor let worldly prudence whisper too closely in thy ear; for it is the hour of the unexpected, the incalculable, the immeasurable." (from The Hour of God)

Eg who would have expected the sudden, unexpected end to the Cold War just as tensions were overwhelmingly high and could break out into WWIII? Mother and Her Force enveloped Gorbachev who brought it about.

And who would have imagined a personal computer, or the vast power and influence of the Internet, or the smartphone.

Who would have imagined the ancient Upanishadic idea of Oneness and the power of attraction (life response power) breaking out amongst the masses.

And who would have imagined in 1950 and beyond the stunning rise of Asia, of China, and now of India when they seemed destined for decades, perhaps centuries of dire poverty.

And now we are on the cusp of a New Paradigm in so many areas of life and society - such as a human-centered economics and the possibility of world governance and much greater collaborations amongst nations.

And who would have imagined the breakout of the entrepreneurial spirit that empowers every individual in the world to fulfill his potential.

And this is only the beginning of what is possible in this Hour of the Unexpected. Especially so if we were to make use of the Supramental power which has fully enveloped the earth and its power to bring about instantaneous miraculousness whenever invoked.

To Be Titled

What is Truth? It is the objective status of Reality. Of what truly is, whether visible or invisible; whether material, subtle, or causal. It is all things in all planes from spirit to matter. It is the nature of the omnipresent, integral Reality.

Reader: Thank you. That was Mr. Albert Einstein tried to establish thru 'Relativity Theory'

Response: Yes. And Quantum theory has extended that much further.

But still Truth is not understood in science as they are obsessed with the material only. How can you understand anything about Truth unless you understand that Consciousness is the ground of all being, is the source of the universe.

Quantum theory is beginning to show that, especially in the math. Even there the scientists say there must be a material basis for the universe and no other cause. They are still mired in the Ignorance about the nature of the integral Reality. They only know matter. Hence they go round and round in circles when trying to discover a Theory of Everything. For them understanding of Truth is very far away.

Reader: The same with Religions. Each one claims they represent the Truth and one has to follow them. But obviously they manipulate the Truth about 'God' and its intrinsic Universal Laws of Creation to gain power over humanity. The TAO claims it is the root of all Religions. Hmmm

What about exhibiting integrated positive values and passion and enthusiasm to unfold ones live according to one's unique Potential to serve humanity without being attached to a Religion? Is there not instant peace and harmony on our planet prevailing? As a consequence we would also care for mother nature instead of to exploit her for profit maximization. There would be no 'designed' terrorism that creates worldwide calculated conflicts and lead to more and more power of the 'Elite' and suppresses the birthright of each human being to be happy and fulfilled in Life. etc. etc

Response: Yes, it is very true what you have said about religion, Wolfgang. I would like to add the following.

There are great teachings that are the roots of certain religions that are filled with great wisdom, though they are not the religions themselves that came after - including tao te ching, the vedas, the upanishads, vedanta, etc.; in addition to the wisdom of the avatars, rishis, saints, spiritual philosophers and others. In my view there are also teachings that now incorporate and exceed these, including the teachings of Sri Aurobindo, the Mother, Sri Karmayogi, and many others to a lesser or greater degree.

The era of religions themselves is clearly coming to an end as they are stultified and twisted, or in some cases even adopting higher spiritual values, making them almost unrecognizable from their earlier form. Though religion has served a great purpose in the past, providing a glimpse to many of the higher spiritual reality, as well as a moral sense, we are moving into the realm of personal experience of spirit and truth without the need of organized religion, yet holding on to certain deep wisdom at the source of some of them. The Spiritual Individual and the capacity to be such is now clearly on the horizon.

To Be Titled

In the course of your day try not to see others as adversaries or even separate beings, but as true extensions of your own self.

Comment: Actually, that is the true status of our relations with others: Soul extended to, interrelated and intertwined with other Souls. It is the separative Ego that blocks out that harmonic awareness and feeling.

To Be Titled

Over expectation and over anticipation of an outcome is foolish and cancels success. It is like stirring the coffee before putting in the crème and sugar.

To Be Titled

In one sense our greatest guru and teacher is our spouse; especially in our conflictive moments with them. In those situations they "teach us" about our limited consciousness, -- whether our closed-mindedness, our complaining nature, our negative attitudes, and above all our Selfishness -- so long as we are willing to embrace the truth that life is presenting us.

To Be Titled

Searching for love and struggling to find it is the human way. The more conscious way is to paint a picture, develop a profile in one's mind of what we would like from a potential partner, especially in terms of one's highest psychological relationship, and then silently aspire for it, until the day it comes.

To Be Titled

In the past, technologies supported and strengthened existing industries. Now tech companies seem to be enveloping them and in some cases swallowing them whole, integrating them into their ecosystem. Is this the evolving power of mind in action; of higher intelligence brought bear? A new form of economic organization? Reflective of a new orientation and organization of existence?

To Be Titled

It is often best not to interfere in and try to change another individual's false behavior, as it can short-circuit important life lessons that can be learned when corresponding negative outcomes present themselves.

Additional comment: On the other hand, if they take the initiative and seek your counsel, you can evaluate whether you have something helpful to offer them, and if so, proceed with caution.

To Be Titled

There is a very highest plane of consciousness where one perceives that all things in creation serve a purpose in the evolution, including the positive as well as the negative (such as ignorance, falsehood, evil, suffering, pain, illness, disease, and death). This is from the perspective of the integral and omnipresent Reality.

From a slightly lower plane of awareness one realizes that all such negatives should be eradicated and be replaced with their positive spiritual equivalents in the universe (including peace, silence, harmony, wisdom, knowledge, truth, goodness, beauty, love, joy, timelessness, and infinity). It is the plane of the soul's aspiration.

Far below this is the normal human plane of consciousness where one is subject to and fully immersed in the dualities of life - including pleasure and pain, ignorance and knowledge, happiness and unhappiness, etc. It is the plane of division, duality, and conflict, where one is at the mercy of Nature's slow and difficult ways.

To Be Titled

The life that is there in this Force is not there in the very best of the past. (Karmayogi)

Additional comment: When via Sri Aurobindo and Mother Supermind descended into the earth's atmosphere in 1956, everything changed as there was there no a power never available on earth before to enable instantaneous miraculousness. I.e. instantaneous knowledge along with instantaneous change in the life conditions when evoked. We evoke the Force, this Power through consecration, i.e. self-offering of life circumstance to Mother.

To Be Titled

Every movement takes you closer to Mother, or it further organises your ego.

Ego competes with Mother at every Moment. (paraphrase of Karmayogi)

To Be Titled

Hope comes from faith in the Infinite; hopelessness in faith of the finite. (paraphrase of Karmayogi)

Additional comment: When we arrive at very difficult moments, where we seem to have no power or control, the human way is to be overwhelmed by circumstance which leads to feelings of hopelessness. It is in those key moments when we can draw on our faith; faith in the Infinite power of Mother, which will give us hope ... plus it will normally lead to enormous life response results, which will further enhance our faith in the Infinite.

To Be Titled

The Indian subtle knowledge can accomplish a month's work of the American in one day, especially because of his excellent organisation. (Karmayogi)

Additional comment: In this way India can outrun the previous historical norms and methods of accomplishing. What a different world that would be, with India out front as success leader!

To bring this about they can be more conscious of and utilize their subtle knowledge about the nature of reality, how life flows, and utilization of spirit and other inner psychological methods to quickly attract the very best outer conditions; abridging space and time; eg accomplishing in one day what it takes others 30.

To Be Titled

It is not Indian spirituality, Russian mysticism, German discipline, French ingenuity, or British character that will lead the world. It is the American who is devoid of all these who will lead the world by his Quest – evolutionary quest. (Karmayogi)

Additional comment: As an American, this makes me smile. We are devoid of the essential qualities of a cultured person, yet we will be making the evolutionary change first. What a paradox; and yet it also makes complete sense, knowing the "Questiness" of Americans, like when they came to and overcame the obstacles of the virgin land four hundred years ago, or when they made their way across the Big Country, or made the Gold Rush, or Edison's inventions, or the Internet, or all forms of the entrepreneurial spirit, etc. etc. We have been surface, material explorers, who are mostly unconscious pioneers for later-to-come world of deeper depths.

Reader: Yes. Quest or to Question is the Root of all evolution to the MANKIND.

To Be Titled

Be vigilant in the course of your day and try to turn any negative feeling you experience into a smile. Make it a habit. If you take this approach, your inner being will start automatically reminding you to do so. Good fortune is bound to follow each time you take that advice percolating up from within.

To Be Titled

Often the person doing the complaining is more in the wrong than the person allegedly deserving complaint.

Eg a woman vehemently honked her car horn at the person in front of her for allegedly going to slow. The driver of the car in front was trying to figure out which way to turn, and so cautiously moved ahead. The woman in the second was impatient and filled with anger at the slowness of the first vehicle. It only added to the already agitated environment, causing it to spread.

Here we see how negative complaining can be, especially when combined with impatience, anger, ill-will, and ignorance. We can see the same dynamic in our own lives every day in the way we complain or blame, etc.

Additional comment: Even seemingly justified expressions of complaining like "righteous indignation," for say a wrong done by another party, can itself become false when tied to vehement negative attitudes and feelings like ill-will and hate. Such intensities can make the situation much worse.

A deeper center of awareness of the drive behind would allow for greater calm that would not be so reactive. It can be achieved by practicing non-reaction and consecration (in this event or otherwise).

To Be Titled

Every problem in society is an opportunity for a new, unique form of harmony to emerge that would not have been there had the situation not been uniquely negative to begin with.

Additional comment: That is why Sri Aurobindo says that the world was created in infinite shadings of the positive and negative so to enable infinite variations of discovery of the truth of things beyond the problem, elevating our consciousness, and therefore causing us each to experience a unique form of delight. Through infinite variations of both the positive and the negative the most comprehensive integral evolution can take place.

Like every opportunity, every problem offers us a quick road to success when it is seen and engaged in as an opportunity as well.

To Be Titled

Westerners tend to question everything and thereby often miss the Essence, as their minds do not trust in the insights of others. They have a too active and aggressive mentality that deflects deeper truth. Indian on the other hand tend to be deferential to others' knowledge, and are therefore less inclined to originate ideas, or at least express them.

To Be Titled

Man initiates, organises and executes. The yogi refuses to initiate, lets the work organise itself in him and be executed. (Karmayogi)

Additional comment: Devotees can take a middle course [between Man and the yogi] and be open to opportunities that come in and take them up as they have Mother's sanction. They will succeed almost always. Self-initiating succeeds far less often than the initiative first coming from life to one's self.

The aim of Service is to make an essential difference in the life of another. The yogi makes such a universal difference inside him. (Karmayogi)

To Be Titled

Mother and Her Force can solve ANY intractable problem, and does so in the most dynamic, creative, and unexpected ways.

To Be Titled

When the individual intent is in sync with the cosmic intent, life response results burst forth. When the individual intent only serves itself, conditions remain in stasis or fall back.

To Be Titled

From the perspective of the Highest Consciousness and Reality, all of life and beyond fit together perfectly like a Cosmic Puzzle; including the positive, negative and in-between. They are all necessary for the unfolding and evolution. From the view of human consciousness, the pieces do not fit correctly, as the positive and negative are perpetually at odds.

To Be Titled

Good health is the exterior expression of an inner harmony. (The Mother)

Additional comment: Eg, as Appa has said, Steve Jobs was unable to maintain the inner harmony and so he became ill and left us. In his case his work was not in harmony with a more developed spiritual life which he was ready for but did not take to. Life was out of balance and he fell ill. He could have taken to business management oriented life response, but shunned it when I offered it to him.

Inner harmony is the right balance of energies inside us and in relation with the world. Where there is illness it indicates a particular psychological deficiency which is the basis of disharmony. Eg selfishness and possessiveness can cause cancer, which Jobs succumbed to. Insecurity and fear of future leads to diabetes. Fixed nature to heart and stroke problems; Etc.

When we develop the right balance of energies, including having the right attitudes and habits -- overcoming any negative ones -- good health will be our natural state

To Be Titled

In the period after you have consecrated a challenging situation, focus less on the ongoing results, which can go this way or that, and more on maintaining the inner relationship and your Faith in Her. That way the energy released through consecration keeps building, generating ever-increasing positive results.

Additional comment: This is an important new understanding for myself; practicing it, seeing it in action.

Utter stillness and silence is a hallmark of Mother's action.

To Be Titled

He who is centred behind the heart and acts from there will never lose the Remembrance for a moment. (Karmayogi)

Additional comment: Behind the heart = psychic being

To Be Titled

Strength that craves for no expression is Spiritual Strength. (Karmayogi)

To Be Titled

Inner awakening is the world's awakening in us. (Karmayogi)

Additional comment: Magnificent.

To Be Titled

As devotees we are increasingly learning to follow the Logic of the Infinite, not the finite. It is Mother's very special and extraordinary ways of unfolding, replacing our ordinary mental view of things.

To Be Titled

Shift your consciousness from "whatever is best for me" to "whatever is best for everyone." Doing so will move you to a more universal status that can attract results at the next highest plane in your life.

To Be Titled

Stay as positive and calm as you can in difficult situations. Life will then smooth out.

To Be Titled

In life the negative serves to bring about a more integral positive outcome. Without Wickham's duplicity in Pride and Prejudice, Darcy would never had a chance to prove himself, change his nature, and thereby win over Eliza. The negative thus serves a critical role in the unfolding of Reality.

To Be Titled

Life is constantly presenting you with those things that require your attention, including what needs to be done (or not done). However the mind and the emotions interfere, causing one to stray here and there, causing us to miss the direct path to on-going, ever-increasing success. If they are silent however, one will be precisely in tune with the unfolding and flow of life, making each moment an expression of the miraculous.

To Be Titled

Often life's future direction will not reveal itself to us until we take care of what is demanded of us in the present. It is as if there was an opaque wall before us blocking our knowledge of what is to come. However, once we have taken care of business and done what is required in the present, the wall quickly dissolves, and the near or longer term future reveals itself. This is my constant experience.

To Be Titled

Difficulties test our balance and faith. But if we see them as opportunities, as intense positives that widen the scope of possibilities, then we are no longer at the mercy of life, but are engaged in a great learning experience; an adventure of consciousness and joy.

To Be Titled

Lessons always arrive when you are ready, and if you can read the signs, you will learn everything you need to know in order to take the next step. (Paulo Coelho)

To Be Titled

Difficulties such as we encounter in work ordinarily test our nerves, our patience, our faith and balance. But when we perceive a higher purpose behind the problems, while remaining calm and open to Mother, the journey becomes quite tolerable, even enjoyable. It blossoms into a true learning experience; a journey of discovery; an Adventure of Consciousness.

To Be Titled

Proper handling, attention, and right attitude to an intense, small problem one is challenged by may be discovered in hindsight to have prevented a wider, multi-faceted catastrophe. It is an example of collaborating with the Grace that is at work.

To Be Titled

We can imagine deeply from within what we want to achieve and have it be so without any initial outer action. We can develop the intense aspiration for the goal(s) to be achieved, the right motives, eliminating wrong attitudes, and deeply feeling the values we believe in. We can project it out into the earth, and if the universe is in agreement, it will return as an opportunity that we can embrace and fully realize.

To Be Titled

Taking the Other Person's Point of View (instead of insisting on your own) is a key to spiritual progress. It is startling what happens when you take this harmonic tact. E.g. you suddenly learn something of importance you never knew before. Or the other person actually comes around and embraces your own viewpoint. Or a state of harmony and peace suddenly presents itself. Etc.

Taking the other person's point of view also deepens your center of being, enabling a variety of positive spiritual capacities to develop inside – including silence and peace, deep feelings of harmony, newborn affection toward others, sudden descents of insight and knowledge; and a deep, abiding joy in being alive.

Reader: Sir. will it be a start to read other's mind also ?

Response: If you could know another's mind that way, then it is worth taking that point of view, especially if there is a tendency on their part to want to express that information to you and influence you, as taking the other person's point of view is a method when one's own position may be opposition to another's viewpoint, and you should take theirs, or the other person wants to otherwise convey or help you with their advice, which according to the principle you should listen to.

By taking to another's point of view I am referring to when they express their view to you verbally or in writing, etc., and that it relates to your situation or condition, not psychically; though that too is a possibility if it meets the criteria I have just mentioned.

Realization of Divine Values In the World

The Infinite Divine has intention for its own spiritual aspects to be recognized and realized in the cosmos and amongst the people of the earth. It includes Peace, Silence, Harmony, Truth, Goodness, Beauty, Love, Joy, Infinity and Eternity.

We could say that all of life exists -- its unfoldings, history, events, circumstance, issues, conflicts, progress, etc. -- as a means of bringing about these "Real Ideas" as Sri Aurobindo calls them throughout the universe.

When we take to Higher Consciousness, instead of waiting on Nature's slow and difficult way of progress, we help facilitate this unfolding in the world. Or to put it another way, when we take to high human values, we help facilitate the spiritual values that the world is destined to realize.

To Be Titled

So far in the evolution everything that IS always becomes a WAS, but in the future everything that IS will remain an IS for as long as one chooses.

Reader: This is little confusing.... can you pls explain in detail

Response: In ordinary life, things die off. In future life, one can be immortal; being, living as long as one wishes.

To Be Titled

If you cast out what you don't want with intense negative emotion, it will keep returning in some form to test your sensibilities until you have overcome it.

To Be Titled

Sri Aurobindo says it normally takes multiple births to shed our essential Ignorance born of creation and attain Integral Knowledge; i.e. become a realized, divine-like being; a ripe soul. However, by discovering the psychic being, the true self behind the heart, and opening to and evoking the supramental power around us via Mother, it can happen in one birth, this one.

Unconventional Forms of Gratitude

People can feel gratitude for their home, their family, their friends, their careers, their success, their money, their luck, etc. We have seen that deeply and sincerely feeling gratitude for any of them can quickly attract positive conditions in our lives. Here are a few other, less conventional forms of gratitude to consider offering as well:

-Gratitude to the society that we are born into; that provides so many things that people of the past accomplished or fought for.

-Gratitude to the Spirit for enriching us, enabling to see beyond the normal, and on many occasions saving us from the worst circumstances.

-Gratitude to the deep knowledge that others have revealed to us that we have used to make life far more special than we might have ever imagined.

-Gratitude to the wise ones -- living and of the past -- who have showed us the way.

-Gratitude to the difficulties we have had in life that often served to secretly open up many new opportunities.

To Be Titled

When you do all of the right things during a certain period of time, applying your best attitudes and deepest values, instead of falling back into old bad habits, life will unexpectedly reward you with a great opportunity that can take you to the stars

The Source of Ignorance and Separation

There is no fundamental separation between our core existence and the existence of others or anything else in creation. That is the basic reality of unified existence. Our individual spark of consciousness has choice or free will in how it perceives itself with respect to the world at large. When it is fully awake to its true nature, it sees that unity with everything else as its dominant reality and the diversity of experience is understood in the context of that wholeness. When individuality is not awake to its essential truth, then it sees itself as separate and isolated from the world around it. Seeing the world as "other," awareness identifies itself with the object of perception. This lack of self-awareness is the ignorance of its true self, and that misunderstanding gives rise to the perception of separation, not real separation. (Deepak Chopra)

To Be Titled

The Divine always responds when you do for others, not yourself, first.

To Be Titled

If we do a simple/small work with the same attitude of doing a big one, it becomes perfect, life responds, and we take a step toward fulfilling the Integral Yoga.

Reader: An Income Tax Opinion provided to a Co-operative society for a fee of Rs 1000 with due genuine consideration to benefit the members of the society, brought a life response of 300 such opinions and revenue flow of say Rs 6 lacs. The opinion got circulated throughout the state to 3000 such societies.

Response: Wonderful example.

To Be Titled

When evoked, Mother and her supramental Force tends to eliminate the source of any conflict.

Additional comment: Not only smooths things over, but resolves it at the root level, often through unexpected, unprecedented, and infinitely creative means. That's the nature of the Supramental Action.

To Be Titled

By allowing others to have their way short-term, you are more likely to have your way longer-term.

Additional comment: as life will tend to respond that way in your favor.

Reader: I think I HV understood this but can u give an example so that I can fix this in my mind in a better way

Response: It can happen in the most trivial circumstance or the most important.

-Say there is a conflict between two parties. Neither gives an inch. However, one makes a small concession, and as a result surprisingly the other party makes a much larger one a short while after.

-Or you are the boss and you restrain yourself from complaining about a staffer, and later in the day you discover he has made a great sale.

-Or two people are vying for a place on line, and I defer to the other person allowing him to go ahead of me. A short time later a new checkout station opens and I am invited first to be checked out.

-Etc.

The opportunity is there often in the course of your day. And Life responds wonderfully each time you take this small deferential or compliant approach.

Reader: Yes true! But the practical problem that I face is that when I do such a gesture I am considered weak by the people around and they think that the other party has won But I still believe in doing this Response: How life responds is all that matters. If you get the results they will admire you.

Not asserting and deferring - especially when done consciously - is an indicator of great inner strength, as it has a vast power over life.

A true individual does not worry about what others think, instead taps his inner resources that enable him to make decisions that evoke powerful results. His orientation is inward that makes life outwardly move.

To Be Titled

A true devotee is constantly consecrating all major activities engaged in, and experiencing the startling results.

To Be Titled

Very often our first visual perception of a matter is a mis-perception. It is because the mind is not engaged in rational thought, deferring to sense mind of the visual and auditory streaming into our surface consciousness. It leads to many errors in judgement on a daily basis, which ironically we are almost completely oblivious to!

Fortunately, there is a solution: From a deeper center of awareness this problem is dramatically reduced, as rational thought overrides the impulse of sense domination and surface thought. Regular consecration, non-reaction, and taking the other person's point of view deepens our center of being, replacing our surface mis-perceptions of reality.

To Be Titled

Where Do You Stand Along these Attitudinal Scales of Being?

(remember: overcoming negative and taking to positive attitudes quickly attract good fortune, while maintaining negative ones attract ill-fortune.)

- Unwillingness to Willingness
- Arrogance to Humility
- Self-Importance to Respect for Others
- Impatience to Patience
- Suspicious to Accepting/Trusting
- Doubt to Faith
- Unreliable to Reliable
- Pessimistic to Optimism
- Defensive to Expansive
- Insecure to Self-Confident
- Closed Minded to Open-Minded
- Self-Satisfied to Aspiring
- Resentful to Goodwill
- Sarcasm to Sincerity

(from 'Life Response in Work' by Roy Posner)

Additional comment: (from this list)

Where are your strengths, and how can you build on them?

And where are your weaknesses, and how can you practically eliminate them?

To Be Titled

Mother's Life and married life do not ordinarily fit together. We also know that romance often decreases, if not ends with marriage. Yet for those already married, one can live Her life and follow Her ways as householder, and experience a happy, spiritual existence. One can even increase romance in marriage by rising up that scale. Other devotees may continue their marriage, but only as a formality. Others still will abandon it. The decision of which path to take wells up from our true self and soul within.

To Be Titled

Adventure of Romance can be a great spiritual path, as soul and soul can increasingly connect.

To Be Titled

The quality of our sleep depends on the plane of consciousness we descend into. Mother offers the method of being still and laying ourselves out like a dishrag, without thought, silently drifting off to sleep. When consecrated one descends into the plane of Satchitananda, and when one awakes we are completely refreshed.

Additional comment: Mother says in Agenda that one minute in Satchitananda in sleep can fully replenish one's energies for the next day.

Mother who worked for years to improve Her sleep got to the point where She needed less than an hour of sleep per night. She had accumulated vast energy by opening to Satchitananda at night and to the Supramental Force during her days enabling this to occur.

When an individual is willing to change, very good things happen. When members of two interrelated groups each change concurrently in their own unique way, then magnificent things descend on that collective from a variety of angles.

This is demonstrated in the recent, very inspiring French-Indian film 'The Hundred-Foot Journey.' There two sets of individuals overcome their prejudices and fears, interlink in the most harmonious ways, evoking startling positive outcomes for all parties.

To Be Titled

I continually dream the night before what I or the world experiences the very next day.

To Be Titled

Sri Aurobindo's great dictum is that "Contradictions are Complements." I.e. all whom we are in conflict with are secretly our complements who are helping us grow.

Therefore, discover the lesson life is trying to present to you through the contradiction you are having with the other party, and then change accordingly. In that way, you will come to perceive them as your teacher, even as a blessing in disguise.

No Title

The greater the negative, the greater the opportunity that follows

No Title

Tolerance expanding is a sign of the psychic being, the True Self moving to the fore.

Reader: Very true!! So if a person can tolerate others with all their faults and weaknesses and that too without showing his greatness or having anger within but pretending to be calm outside then I guess his psych is in dominating his personality

Response: Yes, the psychic being (evolving soul) opening is indicated by increasing affection for and harmony with others. Tolerating others despite their flaws is one step and indicator.

Seeing beyond their weakness in a state of undisturbed equality of being is a step higher still. Seeing one's own faults manifesting through others that needs to be changed in one's self is beyond that; a great yogic view. Pure oneness with others in a soul to soul relationship is the supramental ultimate Unity view. With each succeeding stage the psychic being, the true self and soul, has opened further.

No Title

Problems are opportunities in disguise.

No Title

The negative is just as useful in the evolution as the positive; maybe more so, as it speeds up human progress through our attempt to overcome it.

Comment: This has been Nature's slow and difficult way till now, and will serve us well until we rise in consciousness by which we are able to progress from positive to greater progress. For most of the world that time is not at hand; only to a limited degree for a small number that is gradually expanding. Connecting to Mother and Her supramental Force is a concentration of that new movement which we are all invited to partake it.

No Title

Nothing preoccupies the psyche of man more than the yearning for Love.

No Title

90% of people are centered predominantly in their Vital being - of emotions, feelings, social associations, life energies, etc. Perhaps 10% are centered in the Mind - of logical and rational thought, mental focus, idea creation etc. Only a handful on earth are centered in the Spirit - of soul feeling and connection, higher emotions of the heart, of vision and intuition, of transcendence, etc.

No Title

Above all, the one quality that stands out for each of us is our utter Selfishness. We do not see ourselves that way, thinking only others are like that, but the truth is we are preoccupied with ourselves above all other matters, including other people.

In fact, when individuals come to the Spirit, one of the first things they realize about themselves is their utter Selfishness, which is followed by their intense aspiration to change that condition.

Beyond Mind's Single Tract Thinking

The mind is exclusive, restricting itself to only one line of thinking on any matter, when there are many perspectives and truths about what is unfolding. In that way mind is like a peephole into the truth, when there is a hemisphere of multi-faceted knowledge related to any moment and occasion.

It is why intuition is so powerful, as it gives just the right lines of truth about the thing we engage from moment to moment, whereas ordinary mind misses most of it, lost in its single-tract blindness.

Constant consecration deepens the consciousness, increasingly revealing the ever-changing, multi-faceted hemisphere of light and truth available about any given moment in time.

No Title

The body often does not want to move, and so one needs to "kick it" like a mule.

Comment: I recall Mother mentioning something similar several times in Agenda, and from time to time, in my own experience; I am reminded of this fact!

No Title

The depth, sincerity, and degree of implementation of personal and business Values determine the level of energy, and sales and profit capacity of one's products and services.

No Title

Mother engaged in the most difficult of all forms of transformation - that of the body. For Her the mind was fully conscious, and so she could easily change a wanting thought to its opposite. The same for the vital: though filled with fears and wrong attitudes, she could easily make that change. (No ordinary human has this capacity.) But the physical BODY and its pain, illness, and mortality was the most difficult to change; and hence her central Mission in life: to bring about transformation of its cells, to make them responsive to the Force, eliminating all forms of pain and disease, transforming the current basis of physical functioning (replacement of physical organs and processes) with centers of consciousness, on the way to a divine-based, on demand, willed Immortality.

No Title

Often the best way to solve a problem or conflict is to forget about it; or consecrate it and then forget. The issue then tends to dissolve on its own, often through surprising circumstance.

No Title

Human beings are the world's next (and future) "killer app."

No Title

Whenever something substantial comes to you on its own, Cosmic Intention is bound to be at work. The question then is will you then embrace it, fulfilling Its Intent?

No Title

Mind is somewhat responsive to an emerging possibility, so long as it understands, which is often not the case. The vital/emotional being only gives its sanction if it feels in the mood, which is unpredictable. The body does not want to change or move at all, and is unresponsive. Only the Spirit is fully responsive and in identity with that emerging possibility, and spontaneously puts out its all to make it happen.

No Title

When you communicate your dislike of something, you tend to attract more of it.

Comment: Eg, a man communicated his dislike of a particular film character to a friend. She then surprised him by informing him that she had ordered a film with that very same character!

RK: From the theme of opposites attracts – contradictions are complimentary, we can also say

Disliking is actually stronger liking – because its quotients are recognized by comparisons , giving energy for both.

Appa Says, resentment is even more dangerous – as it is well organized dislike, which is sure to attract the same.

Response: Thank you Ramesh for your comments.

Proof that disliking is stronger liking is that -- at least for a mental person -- when discovering the truth that the person is very kind they will reverse and suddenly very much like them, even deeply admire and perhaps love them! Eliza had just that experience for Darcy at Pemberley.

Your point on resentment is very powerful, for it goes deeper into the vital than disliking. Even a clear mental understanding of the truth may not rectify and reverse their attitude. Resentment is almost physical, unforgiving, and often takes a shock to shake them out of their intensity.

Or if they are lucky they attract something positive from life that is so wonderful that it takes them away from their resentment. It can only come when that person has changed some other negative aspect that has equal power to resentment. It can also come through intense negative situation drawn. I say this para in theory only, as I have no examples I can think of that verify.

No Title

Moving to Silence from thought in waking invites the Force to act. (Sri Karmayogi)

Comment: This is currently a key in my life.

No Title

Just by making the extra mental effort to understand the source of a problem can cause it to suddenly disappear.

Comment: This dynamic can occur for the most mundane acts all the way up to the greatest problems in one's life.

Eg a man was trying to fill a dispenser with more sugar. However, he could not get the cover to come off. He tried and tried with ever-increasing force, but to no avail. He then took the dispenser and looked at it in the light near a window. He noticed that it might have been closed the wrong way. He saw that the cover was attached in an uneven fashion. He thought he might now have to make a mighty effort to open it. But then when he gave it a very mild twist, it suddenly came open! He was baffled as he hardly exerted any force, even though he did not unscrew it any differently than before.

His mental effort to further understand the cause put him in alignment with the easiest angle to open the jar. This dynamic is true at any level of life, from the tiniest act to the greatest difficulty in one's life.

No Title

When you make the decision not to think, replacing it with mental silence, life responds through others who you quickly discover have done considerable thinking or thought-related work on your behalf.

No Title

Every Soul comes to experience something particular in Life. Meanwhile, the Divine is guiding our lives so that ultimately we find the path for the Soul's quest. In fact, most of the time we hardly notice the subtle hints, the guidance etc., since we are preoccupied with surface life happenings.

And yet sometimes, during intense periods, Life hits us with problems, failures, and disappointments, including adversarial situations. From a deeper perspective, it is the best thing for our Soul's growth; especially when we take those challenging experienced in a positive spirit, rather than dwell on the problems and failures. Indeed, the failures and adversarial conditions perceived on the surface are understood as pure Grace in the Truth Consciousness - i.e. Supermind. (paraphrase of S)

No Title

People with whom you have spent considerable time explaining higher principles will gladly learn them, even practice several, but then several months later will go back to their old ways, the same limited tired beliefs, even broadcasting them gleefully as if nothing had transpired in between.

Comment: It is the reassertion of the Physical consciousness that does not want to change. Sometimes it is merely part of a cycle, and they will resume the higher movement they earlier learned. But for many they are locked down in the old ways, rhythms, world views, shedding the essence of most of the profound wisdom they have required. It is a subconscious process.

No Title

Opinion disseminated wastes the energy and thereby destroys an intended goal. Opinion withheld (and even forgotten) attracts and manifests the intention, and then some.

No Title

Obnoxiousness wastes one's energies, attracting forgetfulness and other negative consequences.

No Title

Atheists often believe in the power of Love, which is a spiritual quality; a vibration of the Divine.

No Title

Merely asking the Divine (or Mother) for boons is not really spiritual life, but more like ego extended to the Infinite. Faith in, guidance from, and surrendering to the Intent of the Divine (or Mother) is the truer life of the Spirit.

No Title

Sweetness of expression is a sign that Mother has entered the vital center of our being.

RK: Sweetness is because of - Beauty, Love and Joy - the three expressions of Ananda that is spiritual.

Sweetness is the result of - Truth expressing through love.

Sweetness is - noble expression of character of spiritual individual - on not being disturbed inwardly by any outer circumstances.

No Title

In the modern world, poverty and religion tend to go together; as do wealth and empowerment. The latter leads to individuality and, in a number of cases, to spiritual pursuit and realization.

When there is disagreement and conflict between nations at the political level, focus on the next highest level - the Economic - which will tend to foster agreement at the lower.

Comment: Likewise when there is economic conflict, go one level higher to the cultural; and when there is cultural conflict go higher to the Social; and from social to spiritual.

The ascending scale is:

Political > Economic > Cultural > Social > Spiritual

Eg there is periodically acute political division between India and Pakistan, yet economic development and cooperation between the two over time can soften the political divisions. Similarly there are on occasion economic frictions between US and China, which can be smoothed over by deepening cultural ties.

In the Middle East and Arab world acute religious differences that create conflict can be smoothed out by more economic success. When people have gainful, employment, and have money to spend and going to malls, they are less likely to take to fanatical views and take to violent, war-like behaviors. It is a movement from religious-political to the economic. By developing and taking to new strategies of economic development this process can be enhanced.

No Title

We take everything for granted. Where is the Gratitude?

No Title

When terrible things happen in a conscious society, it is ordinarily followed by great improvements.

No Title

Inner strength that leads to practical action for the sake of the people and the land garners the cooperation of Life, including Mother Nature.

Recognition from the Universe

Over the years I have had some fascinating experiences in evoking powerful life response for the collective. Eg one involved altering the course of the weather in the state of California when it was in dire need of a change because of grave fire danger. My effort proved a success when the next day the weather inexplicably changed, saving the state from an accelerating catastrophe.

Recently I've had some interesting similar experiences in trying to overcome the severe drought currently being experienced in California by evoking rains when there were none in sight.

But now I'd like to tell you about an extraordinary experience that happened recently. A few days ago I visited a local McDonald's restaurant in Long Beach, California where I live and noticed when I walked through the front entrance that they were pulling out plants in what seemed like an attempt to re-landscape the area around the building.

This is at a time when I was taking deep interest in the severe drought that had overtaken the state. I have been thinking deeply about this issue, had some recent success in evoking rain as in the past, and just a few days later was happy when it was announced by the governor that there would be huge cutbacks in water use and wastage around the state in an attempt at conservation.

The day after the announcement and my visit to McDonald's I watched the national TV news about the governor's plan to radically reduce water outflows in the state. At one point in the video the announcer showed a McDonald's that was altering their landscaping from grass to succulents and such in order to save water. A few seconds later the announcer said "here is an example of what McDonald's is doing in Long Beach, California in trying to adapt to the governor's new order mandate."

When I looked closer at the video I noticed that that they were showing the very same McDonald's that I had had been in and walked across a few hours earlier! In fact, they were showing the very same workers altering the shrubbery that I saw only a few hours earlier!

To appreciate the enormity of this cosmic response, one needs to know that this was a live national news broadcast and that there are also nearly 10,000 McDonald's in the world of which 7000 are in the USA, and yet they managed to show the very one that I had just frequented!

It shows when you make an effort to help the collective - in this case taking deep interest in and trying to evoke rain during severe drought conditions - the collective responds and recognizes your inner contribution in the most astonishing way! You and your locale are broadcast to the world!

No Title

A growth in consciousness that overcame a limitation -- of attitude habit, et al -- in the past may now be a bar to one's further growth. Eg a man learned not to be dependent and instead stand on his own, taking responsibility and determining his own life. However, then he became a person of the spirit and realized that self-initiative can be a bar as it often leads to failure; whereas following Life and the Divine initiative of the Mother behind it has a greater power of affectivity, and ordinarily leads to success. Now his attitudes and values need to be focused in the direction of this new understanding. In that way, it is a never-ending journey of progress through ever-higher attitudes, values, and beliefs.

(thanks to RK for inspiring this)

No Title

Backwards journalists, broadcasters, and such serve Nature's ends, as they say foolish, ignorant things that energizes the population to think and feel in the opposite direction.

No Title

There are so many truths and methods of higher consciousness and the spirit described by Sri Aurobindo, Karmayogi, Mother, and many others. How then does one access them on demand and thereby determine which one to use in a given situation?

Most of us will simply let the points pass after learning and being inspired by the idea, which means forgetting it very quickly, while hoping we retain something of their content when needed.

But a more reliable approach is to organize the knowledge in a way that fits our temperament so that the ideas, principles, and powerful methods are easily available as situations dictate. Otherwise individuals new to a consciousness approach to living their lives will simply lose out.

What then are the best ways to organize the spiritual principles that come into our field of awareness so that we have easy access to their inner power?

Reader: I do the following.

- reflect on them
- remember them
- practice them every day whenever the opportunity arises
- look up Roy Posner's profile updates
- check out romance eternal

Response: Very good. By practicing them every day you can keep those particular thought alive in your consciousness. (Eventually it can settle in the deeper in your being, making them more spontaneously available as needed over time.)

RK: Though only individual can design the plan to evolve in consciousness based on their level of aspiration – It can be of some of basic – “Must” – steps.

- Try doing any act (Token Act) fully with the divine principles you know.
- When it is success (based on your parameters) don't think that Mother has done this – as this may lead to devotion – particularly for Indians will lead to methods, rituals of different forms.
- Instead think Mother is Supramental force helping all that we do to evolve in consciousness.
- Try to understand the process of its working or the force taking anything as its instrument or channel – to convey that to you.
- Every moment, every happening, every person we come into contact , every thought that arises, every feeling, desires and wanting, every movement of the body however trifling should be is used for this work, to see the corresponding planes and points, connection between the events, our acts, attitudes and motives.
- Accurate perception of the events on what higher knowledge is trying to give.
- Divine Clarity on that as “Whole knowledge”- not seeing in parts or not leaving any parts.
- It is a gathering up by concentration of the movements dispersed and loosely combined in the involution.
- Getting the psychological perfection, based on all above in personality.

No Title

These stages of efforts are ways of self-awareness that we are the divine and we are capable of divine perfection and therefore of right completion in the individual.

Response: I believe two keys are Aspiration and Sincerity - both in their spiritual sense. When they are both there in good measure for the devotee, all necessary knowledge will be there as needed, which will build itself spontaneously in the right form.

No Title

A mental person will find a proper means of organizing the wisdom. Perhaps he'll build up a written or mental framework. A more vital person will consider his more intense experiences, and revisit them in his emotions when necessary.

However, without aspiring for higher consciousness and making the sincere effort to attain it, retaining the wisdom may become a moot point.

(re: RK's comment) It is a great approach for gathering, retaining, and reutilizing the higher Knowledge through keen observation at every point. It is an extreme, spiritual version of the Western dictum "Know Thyself." Here is to know thyself in every conceivable way, gather that knowledge, and use it, repeating its use again and again! Transformation and never-ending Joy (i.e. constant living of Mother's Life) would be the result.

BTW: You (via Appa) are the first I know of to mention the idea that Indian devotees tend to turn things into devotion, which though very sweet (say compared with Westerners) can be a bit limiting, as they sidestep the multi-faceted processes involved; even the nature of the (Supramental) Force, always returning in a devotional fashion to "Mother did this, Mother did that, etc."

Perhaps we can say that devotion alone can block out the truths known through the Mind. After all Sri Krishna speaks of the four yogas as one; knowledge, devotion (heart), works, and action. Sri Aurobindo has merged these and also added supramental and psychic and evolution. It's an infinity of consciousness that can be experienced from the physical to the vital to the mental and up, and from the surface to the depths. Traditional spiritual devotion alone is not enough in Bhagavan's worldview. It can even border on a kind of childishness.

No Title

In a house where tension is a permanent feature, we find that during the visit of an uncle or aunt for a week the tension disappears. The whole household becomes cheerful during the uncle's visit. Members of the family find it difficult to be quarrelsome in his presence and wish he stays for a longer while. He exudes the vibration of joy or cheerfulness or harmony. When a person is inwardly harmonious, he emanates vibrations of harmony. While he is around, others who are habitually quarrelsome cease to be so. The vibration of disharmony recedes and harmony appears on the surface. (Karmayogi)

"Tech" Incident

Today upon waking I thought of the fact that my father went to a technical high school in the 1940s. In fact, it was called "Brooklyn Tech," a startling name to me considering it is from the 1940s and how the term "tech" is so widely used today. I had not thought of this fact ever in my life.

I then started thinking about the importance of technical schools, especially in higher education. When I then got out of bed, started up my computer, and opened the New York Times online, there was at the top of the first and main page a huge picture of students entering their school with the following caption:

"Dante de Blasio towered over his schoolmates on the first day of his senior year at Brooklyn Technical High School, in Fort Greene." (The article then goes on to explain the importance of higher technical education.)

The coincidence of "Brooklyn Tech" suddenly showing up on the cover of the NY Times was astonishing. And yet at the same time I was reminded for perhaps the thousandth time that when you think of something - a matter, concept, person, organization, etc. - with great interest and enthusiasm, the universe sends you more of it very quickly.

Even on the cover of the New York Times!

No Title

Nature and society compel us to marry, procreate, raise children, engage in family life, have property, and so forth. Spirit makes no such demands.

No Title

To put it in simple terms, we can see two sides to the Path forward; one negative, one positive. On the negative side it is becoming aware of and changing our wanting attitudes, habits, and beliefs. This purifies our being and makes us fully receptive to the Spirit. On the positive side it is opening to The Mother's supramental power, which transforms our lives in every conceivable way.

No Title

In a surrounding positive atmosphere our own negativity tends to be absorbed, even transformed.

Comment: Eg in Pride and Prejudice despite Mrs. Bennet's petulant, boorish behavior, she gets everything she wants (marriage of her daughters) because the atmosphere is relatively harmonic between the upper and middle class. There also Darcy is given the opportunity to be transformed into a new man because of the love of Eliza. The positive atmosphere makes this and other such things possible. Even a silly fool like Collins and a dangerous, duplicitous individual like Wickham are rendered harmless.

No Title

Americans tend to seek individual fulfillment at the expense of the group, whereas Indians are often happy to be lost in the group at the expense of individual freedom.

No Title

Smartphones, tablets, and the like are small portals to the everything and the everywhere.

No Title

How do you conjure up work, or anything for that matter? You have to be seriously be interested in it, and really want it, which will give you inner power to attract it.

Reader: Sir can you please explain the word Conjuring/conjure. The related movies here under the ' Title' are like 'sundae cream' to Kids! THANK you.

Response: Conjure has various meanings. In can mean to bring about, to summon up, to call up, invoke; or to charm or mesmerize; or in magic or the occult to bring about from seemingly out of nowhere. In my quote above I actually probably mean all of these simultaneously (!); particularly how to evoke a development on the outside -- here the sudden rising of work -- simply from within one's self and consciousness. I.e. evoke a response from life.

Background To Writing My Book On 'The Life Divine' (And A Wonderful Response)

Though I had read the book several times before, in 1999 Garry Jacobs held a small weekend seminar I attended at his home in Napa, California on the subject of 'The Life Divine' by Sri Aurobindo. I began then and there to understand the contents of the great spiritual tome in new, unimagined ways. And so around seven years ago I plunged into the book in earnest, carefully gathering the most salient point of each chapter.

A few years after that I embarked on writing my own chapter-by-chapter analysis of Life Divine, working on it in my spare time, mostly during the Christmas and New Year's season when there was some quiet time.

Along the way I read Garry's wonderful book 'Lectures on Life Divine,' which was a more advanced version of the fine presentations he gave in the late 90s. Then in the years that followed I regularly reviewed Karmayogi's online notes on Life Divine and Pride and Prejudice, and occasionally dropped in on Garry's nightly online discussions of that content with a small group of devotees. In recent years I listened to Garry's monthly lectures on each chapter that he continues to present till this day, and regularly perused Karmayogi's accompanying vast, detailed notes. I also went through and gathered important statements related to Life Divine from Garry's great novel The Book for more clues into Sri Aurobindo's vast, cosmic work.

And so after all these years I finally finished a first solid draft of the book 'An Analysis of Sri Aurobindo's The Life Divine.' It happened yesterday.

My book is now approaching 500 pages, though I know it could easily be double that if I were to delve into many of the other principles Appa has revealed from His book, or even if I were to flesh out the ones I have already addressed. It is an on-going project and work that I hope to enhance over time.

Secretly, the book was actually written for myself, so I could understand the concepts more clearly, and hopefully at some point apply them in my life. If others read the book, so much the better, but I didn't have any great expectations in that regard.

It turns out that I also had a wonderful little life response related to this subject. Yesterday, on the very day I felt the first draft was complete, I received a call from a friend who I had not spoken to in a while, but who surprised me at the outset of the conversation with his remark that he has been utterly thrilled by his first reading of The Life Divine. Rather than talk about his family, his new business, etc. he was just bursting with enthusiasm about his experiences reading the book.

It was naturally a startling response for me having just finished my first full draft after all those years just a few hours earlier. It was doubly remarkable because this individual hadn't shown any inclination to read any of Mother's or Bhagavan's works. And yet on that same day of completing the book, someone called to narrate their thrilling first encounter with Sri Aurobindo's master work. It was gratifying to say the least.

The Old House

Here is a life response experience a devotee recently referred to me.

"I would like to share my life response experience. My father in law who is in India wished us to receive from him a property for investment purposes. But my husband and I didn't like that previously-built, old house. For one, we realized that the home's worth was not going to be much of an investment. And yet we were both being pressured to buy it.

Though the house didn't seem like much of an investment, my father is in his 80s, and so I told my husband that money is not everything in the world. If buying the house would make him happier in his old age, then that was fine for us. At least we would get the chance to make him happy. That was my exact statement.

We thought of calling them to India the next morning. But after 30 minutes we received a call from India and the message was that they had dropped the plan. They decided to go with our own wishes, and therefore told us not to bother ourselves any more about it anymore. As you can imagine I was shocked by this development.

Though response is always playing a very big role in life, this was the very first time I noticed a life response; mainly because of your writings and postings. At the time my husband hesitated to take the house, I made that decision whole heartedly without having a trace of frustration. And life responded for us!

It was truly amazing. I couldn't believe how the results turned out to be favorable for us. Thanks much for your guidance."

My Comment: The response was due to your act of Goodness, taken on the elder man's behalf, which built inner positive energies that attracted these fortunate conditions back to you. Also because you took other person's point of view, instead of holding onto your own despite the validity of your argument (valuelessness of the old house), you attracted that which you wanted in the first place (not having to take the house).

Challenges and Opportunities

The theme is challenges and opportunities. Stated differently, when we miss an opportunity it expresses as a challenge. Or when opportunities come for us to rise in consciousness and we remain where we are, the opportunity appears as a challenge.

When we blindly persist in the past or insist on our incapacity to progress, opportunities for progress appear as challenging problems. The solution is to accept the pressure of the problem as a lever or momentum to change. (Garry Jacobs)

Levels of Harmony We Can Attain

Sri Aurobindo says in his book "The Life Divine", without any qualification, all problems of life are problems of harmony. We understand harmony to be smooth relations within our family or at our work place. But the disharmonies of life go deeper than that.

--There are disharmonies between what we know we should do and what we want to do. Our mind wants one thing, but our vital wants another. The disharmony is within ourselves.

--There are disharmonies also between our mind and spirit. Our ego wants one thing and our soul may want us to go in another direction.

--There is disharmony between the desires of our ego and the egos of those around us with whom we constantly compete to prove who is more important, more knowledgeable, more skilled, or more cultured.

Our lives are filled with disharmonies. If we want to overcome the oppositions coming to us from outside, to bring things into harmony, we must become HUMBLE and PLEASANT in all circumstances.

This can be done if you attune your mind to be in harmony with the higher consciousness. (from Lectures on Sri Aurobindo's The Life Divine by Garry Jacobs)

Strategies to Evoke Positive Life Response through Our Attitudes

Here are several attitude-related strategies to help you evoke sudden good fortune in your life:

--Examine one or more lists of personal attitudes, focus on several you are weakest in, and make the commitment to improve on them.

--At any given moment become aware of your thoughts and feelings, determine if anything is negative, and reverse it.

--Take any negative condition that has occurred, is occurring, and relate it back to one or more corresponding negative attitudes you have, and then reverse it.

--See the difficulties you are having in life as opportunities to grow. Try to understand what higher attitude life is wanting you to adopt, whether related to others, work, or yourself/life.

--At any moment when a decision needs to be made, take the path that is of a higher consciousness, rather than a lower one.

--Try to feel as positive as you can in any given situation. Make the effort to feel optimistic and cheerful.

--Ask the Universe to help you identify and rid you of any particular negative attitudes.

--If life conditions are positive to you, think about what inner attitudes made that possible. Now go to the well and feel that positive quality again and again.

--Examine the higher attitudes that others have that you do not and try to emulate them in your daily life.

--Each time a positive life response occurs due to a change in or higher attitude, write it down, and review it often to remind yourself how to feel in future.

--Identify and feel genuine contrition for past wrong attitudes that have led you to your current difficulties.

No Title

A spontaneous thought that rises in my mind from within on awakening almost always leads to abundant success when acted upon.

No Title

In Mother's Life everything you think about with intensity will quickly come back to you in new forms, even though you have communicated with nothing and no one about it.

No Title

Once you have devised a System and put it in place, your ability to function in the world becomes so much easier. It is a power of Mind that establishes this orderly foundation so life can Thrive. Supermind is an even greater Spiritual System that created the universe AND can instantaneously organize the details of life each time we open to Its Force.

No Title

A first suggested step to take when there is a problem is to be as still, silent, and calm inside as possible. If you are also able to maintain cheerfulness and optimism, it will be a great added support that will enable the problem to soon self-correct.

No Title

People are inspired by a profound idea, only to quickly forget; and yet are dazed when they actually experience it.

Comment: It shows that most people are not fundamentally mental, but vital (emotional, experiential). On the other hand, mento-spiritual individuals are dazzled by the idea in the first place and keep it in their active consciousness and memory. Thus they grow much faster as individuals.

No Title

We live in our small, individual worlds, but when we come to the Mother, we move to the wider Universal plane, and can even have a power and influence over it.

No Title

Do not be deceived by the apparent objective "facts." Instead make the conscious effort to discover the deeper Truths behind.

No Title

One true measure of the level of your consciousness is not just your ability to remain stably happy in the course of your day, but your capacity to not go off the rails when something goes wrong.

Reader: Excellent message sir, the energy require for identify the wrong and stop us not to go in that wrong way is more than feeling happy for the right

Response: Yes, very true.

It also has to do where your center of consciousness lies: on the surface where it is easy to be reactive, or deeper down where you are more likely to be "silent witness."

No Title

When you claim a theory, be prepared to be quickly challenged by life to prove it.

Comment: Eg today I wrote the idea about not going off the rails when something goes wrong, and then something went very wrong a short while later, but I did not react to what that person told me, kept my composure, and so had a positive response when the same person just moments after gave me unexpected news that was quite encouraging. ☺

RK: This can be seen as conviction of vital is more powerful. We guarantee a theory, when we are satisfied in all known angles to us, particularly if the conviction is based on higher values or higher ethics, with no known admixture of falsehood at any level before coming to that theoretical conclusion.

In those cases, Appa says, life will take initiative to show the holistic truth. He asks us to see this in property matters and job matters. Whatever we feel right or wrong, justice or injustice - life will bring the circumstances so that - The truth in them will stir in favour of the truthful man or in which side the truth is.

Response: In other words, assertion of an idea is an occasion for Life to act and present us with gaps in our knowledge and consciousness.

No Title

When a person has gaps in his understanding, it shows up as corresponding untoward events in his experiences.

No Title

We are mostly ignorant of what is really happening in our lives; of what is truly trying to be established in our being over time. Ordinarily we only come to understand it in hindsight; but even that is not guaranteed. However, if we consciously contemplate the arc of our existence, we can come to realize its truth now, which will help us see much more clearly as we take each step into the future.

No Title

Every time you experience a negative thought or feeling, quickly push it away to avoid further life complications.

Concentration, Consecration Symphony

In one sense spiritual concentration and spiritual consecration are movements in opposite directions.

Imagine a funnel. At the wide end is our normal consciousness. Through an all-inclusive concentration we can shift from the wider end of our limited surface consciousness to the narrow, deeper one which is our inner being, culminating in the psychic entity.

Consecration on the other hand is like starting from the narrow end of a funnel where our limited consciousness lies and opening to the wider end which is the vastness of Mother, the Supramental power.

And yet constant consecration can eliminate the need to concentrate on the inner being. Through constant consecration, we not only evoke the best life conditions, but we deepen our center of awareness. It thus works to concentrate us. Now from that deeper center we are more focused in the inner spirit which creates an inner aspiration to consecrate more deeply and more often, even creating the possibility of surrendering our entire life and being to Her.

A circular rhythm is thus established of consecration, concentration, consecration. A cosmic symphony plays itself out among our True Self/Psychic Being, the Divine Mother, and Life. Non-stop, ecstatic Joy and Delight is the result.

Nature's Way & Beyond

We see how Nature works on many fronts simultaneously in relation to common circumstance. It is its profound, but difficult method of progress.

Eg a big conference is scheduled and one of the participants is struggling to get there as it is very far away and his visa has not yet arrived. He did not know what was required as it was his first visit there. Another party responsible for receiving this man and others was not aware of the man's lack of knowledge about the travel needs. A third party was supposed to interact with the man at the conference itself, but had assumed all his travel arrangements were fine, and did not check with him till the last moment.

In the end, each of these (and other) parties were amiss in their understanding and knowledge, revealing a gap; each gap being different for each individual; reflecting very different parts of their character. Thus through this single event, three people have been compelled to change in three different ways. It is Nature's way of progress through multiple fronts simultaneously, which is profound, but slow and difficult.

The way of Soul/Spirit (Purusha) which can come through Mother and all other means of higher consciousness can substitute for Nature's Way (Prakriti) as we rise in our personal growth and sadhana. In this way all problems are avoided in the first place. However, the fullness of this divine-like approach lies in the future when our consciousnesses are far more evolved.

To Be Titled

For a devotee to see every collapse, failure, illness, impoverishment, etc. in his life as Grace - to the point of expressing Gratitude for each difficulty - will take him to a level of success he has never attained before

Ways of Releasing 4 Powers in Work

Karmayogi asks us to minimally concentrate on values of the Spirit every moment in work so that every action of ours submits itself to the divine Power of Truth.

- At the PHYSICAL level the concentration should be on - orderliness, cleanness, productivity, maximum utilization of all available resources etc bringing out the required power at the physical level.

- Concentration on VITAL/EMOTIONAL level should be on - temperament and a wide variety of attitudes required for that work. Communication, coordination, team work, planning, systematic functioning, perseverance etc. bringing out the vital power needed for that work.

- Concentration on MENTAL level is having clarity in the work, its requirements; plus accuracy, attention to details, perfection, self-reliance, skills, capacity, knowledge etc. releasing the mental power.

- Concentration on SPIRITUAL level is - Harmony, truthfulness, trustworthiness, integrity, faith in divine, gratitude to all concerned etc. releasing the spiritual power.

(Ramesh Kumar)

No Title

Every idea you focus on is simultaneously being echoed, expressed by someone or something else around you, though we are normally completely unaware of it. However, if we observe and listen with subtle eyes and ears, we will be astonished how life is constantly, instantaneously reverberating back to us every idea we focus our minds on. It's an absolute miracle of life playing out every minute of the day.

Comment: I have seen this phenomenon many hundreds if not thousands of times over the years, -- at least several times a day -- and each time it startles and amazes. Most people have perceived it at least on occasion, but generally pay it no heed. Devotees perceive it at least fairly frequently and are generally conscious of it when it happens. For others till it is in fact a very part of their modus operandi, their way of life.

Some call this phenomenon "synchronicity" or "parallelism." Some, an aspect of life response. I have described a number of instances of it at this Facebook site over the years.

No Title

By yelling at your children, or for that matter anyone, you may win the battle, but you will likely lose the war.

(By "war" I mean a loving, trusting, harmonic relationship that endures.)

Matching People to Great Jobs in the World

There is an imbalance of economic prosperity in the world. What would help is gainful employment in areas that is satisfying to each and every person on earth. There are jobs available, with new types emerging every day, yet there is a disconnect with them because of the lack of skills of workers to meet the requirements of these jobs. Skills of course depend on knowledge which comes from education that provides it.

LinkedIn as a social network for the professional is trying to link all of these factors together in a system to enable right jobs to be in the hands of the right people who have the necessary skills and knowledge through cost-effective education to fulfill them. This would enable abundance to spread around the world. LinkedIn's 'Economic Graph Challenge' seeks to coordinate this for all of us.

Interestingly about seven years ago out of my involvement with the World Academy of Art and Science I was interested in creating a massive database-like system to do this very thing of coordinating companies with jobs with people with skills with education outlets; and now I see a great business organization moving ahead with a very ambitious plan to make this real. It is very satisfying to learn of this development.

No Title

We contemplate what the future will bring by what is now before us, and then project that forward. However, the future invariably will be something unexpected, unintended

Comment: Recall that Sri Aurobindo said "nor let worldly prudence whisper too closely in thy ear; for it is the hour of the unexpected, the incalculable, the immeasurable."

Power of the Subjective

Unless you consider the subjective aspect of things beyond the objective, you can never understand the integral Truth of any matter.

Eg when the Great Depression took place in the US in the 1930s, President Roosevelt did not focus merely on the statistics of failure, but also on people's Fears. He asked them to overcome that fear and deposit their money back into their banks; a focus on the subjective state of the people. He said memorably "The only thing to fear is fear itself." It worked wonders and the country was saved from further decline.

Thus in each situation, consider not just the hardcore, material objective facts but the subjective qualities as well; i.e. the feelings, attitudes, perceptions, temperament, motives, values, subtle/spiritual aspects, etc. of that which is under consideration. That knowledge will help work wonders in terms of fostering energy, aspiration, success, harmony, and delight.

No Title

We often ask Mother for help when there is a big problem, but less so when there is a great Opportunity. We should not forget Her Supramental power to elevate the opportunities that come our way into enormous multi-faceted successes.

No Title

We often feel gratitude for what others have done for us outwardly, but little for what they have given to us inwardly.

No Title

Americans are unprecedentedly dynamic on the surface; mostly unconscious in the depths. Indians are often sleepy on the surface, yet there is light in their deeper parts.

No Title

When you embrace difficulty and responsibility in the right spirit, life quickly responds, causing a heavy workload or other burdens to unexpectedly ease.

No Title

Faith attracts positively, turning worry and tension into stillness and ease.

No Title

What we call rational thought is not so, as just below the veneer of rationality lurk our prejudices that taint the logic process.

Comment: True rationality therefore lies beyond our own predilections. It is logical, truth-filled thought unencumbered by our prejudices.

No Title

When you consciously avoid a resource-wasting activity, that thing desired quickly returns to you in a new form.

No Title

The unconventional becomes the exceptional when given a chance to express itself.

Comment: corollary: The unconventional individual when accepted by others at face value releases his exceptional capacities, greatly benefitting them and the world.

No Title

A single gesture of heartfelt goodness can attract the revelation of a solution to that which seemed unsolvable.

Comment: A man was in an awkward social situation given his withdrawn demeanor. However, a good friend recognizing the circumstance made an effort to assuage conditions. They had both been part of an important security team. It turns out that less than a minute after the heartfelt gesture towards his awkward, but genius friend, they were informed of a method that instantly solved a problem that had eluded them for two years. As a result, a great benefit came to them and to the entire world.

Reader: To get good friends is a Big Grace in our life. True friends never let us down, whatever difficult our situations may be.

Response: Yes it is a blessing to have such good friends. Even better is to be a true friend to another, helping them, never letting them down, evoking positive response and benefit all around.

No Title

Each time you needlessly assert your thoughts, opinions, feelings, etc., catch it and hold it back from further expression. Life will then move to smooth flow and greater cooperation.

No Title

When life response incidents come to you in gusts of multiple events, then you know you are well on the Path of the Mother.

No Title

Often when we get angry or are irritated about something, we are actually already bothered by another matter that creates the negative energy just waiting for the new situation to arise in which we get upset.

No Title

If you withdraw agitation about something you would have liked revealed to the public but has not been, you will soon discover that everything you hoped for will have been communicated to that collective on its own. It is the life response power of letting go of a bother.

No Title

Withdrawing all negative emotion from a problem moves it towards its resolution. Increasing that emotion attracts the intensification of it.

No Title

It would be wonderful if there were serious training on how to read the signs of life and the knowledge of how to proceed; how to perceive the outer conditions of life as reflective of our consciousness within and how to make the necessary change; to know the many principles by which Life is guided and unfolds, enabling vast accomplishment and success; etc. It would truly be a New Education that can move society rapidly forward toward a new evolutionary stage.

No Title

Women are oppressed by social pressure to get married, which they subconsciously embrace with little question.

No Title

Romance is the yearning for and discovering of deep connection between two. It is never truly fulfilled as there is always a higher level to be attained. And yet that does not deter us from trying. Romance is thus an unpredictable, unstable journey; an Adventure of the Heart connecting soul to soul.

Marriage is a social convention, not something intrinsic to life. Romance is more fundamental, inherently real, expressing ever-deepening values that can touch on the spiritual.

No Title

You can consecrate the mistakes of your past that are influencing your present so you can have a glorious future.

From Conflict to Higher Harmony in Relationships

Partners often demonstrate mirror image conflictive pairs in their relationship that Nature seeks to harmonize through their higher consciousness.

Eg a man gets irritated when his spouse does not pay attention when he expresses a thought or shares some content. Meanwhile she complains that he talks too much or too loud, interrupting her activity. It is two side of the same coin, and the clear means by which each person can evolve. He has to learn mental and verbal silence, and she must learn to be more responsive.

This can in turn lead to further progress: eg he can also appreciate her thoughts and feelings instead of focusing on his own, while she can learn to be less insecure. And so forth.

Through the conflictive elements between them, Nature offers them an opportunity to develop in consciousness on many fronts simultaneously.

Reader: Mother's Grace Thank you Sir. What a coincidence! Yesterday we were discussing about this in our monthly meeting.

RK: Interestingly I mailed the same question to Appa today. When the disharmony is because of ethics and principles vs. social norms and popular methods (particularly with business partners) how long you can compromise by saying were same, other man point of view, inner outer correspondence etc., with more and more of false hood coming in. Where is the line for perseverance and assertion? I am bit confused.

Response: One approach is you can do a test and observe. Eg for taking the other's point of view. If it is genuine inside on your part, at least devoid of any emotional block, and that approach attracts the other person suddenly agreeing with you on that point or some other positive development, then you can take a further step forward. (Not unlike the children's game "May I?") Then we go further. If things get much worse as a result of the effort, then we can withdraw from the game.

Perhaps an original dividing line is ill-will. If that is there on the other person's part, then we don't even play the game. Even there we can discover if the ill-will is a result of our abusing him in the past, and can take appropriate action. If the ill-will is too hardened, then we can withdraw all effort.

For the game to produce the knowledge of what we should do (or not do) next, we need to be very steady, calm, no emotional stirrings inside, without any ill-will on our part. It's kind of like a token project, but in reverse; i.e. to discover any negative elements.

One other point is that we know that partnerships in business can be problematic. Perhaps Appa has guidelines in this area.

No Title

Traditionally women seek physical security in men, while men seek psychological dependence in women.

Comment: It is one reason why when their husbands die in old age before them, women feel a degree of liberation.

No Title

If there is great pressure from life to do a certain thing, and you unhesitatingly take it up, it is likely to unfold a lot quicker than you imagined.

Comment: (Life responds quickly and positively to pent up energy directed toward us that we fully embrace.)

No Title

There is a Higher Intention flowing through our lives that we ordinarily do not perceive.

No Title

Minor offenses by life and others that sting and trouble us are the Mother's caressing embrace, as they offer us an opportunity to see our faults so we can overcome them and grow. When we offer a smiling welcome to such destabilizing touches, wisdom dawns on us, indicating the presence of the Divine's embrace. (paraphrase of Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

By engaging in any of your routines in a fresh, new way, you can attract fresh, new circumstance and opportunities into your life.

What We Can Consecrate to Mother

Among the aspects of our lives we can offer to Mother (i.e. consecrate) on a daily basis and receive powerful response are-

- the major activities we engage in
- important events, occasions in our lives
- problems we are having with work, relationships, money, etc.
- opportunities that have come to us
- negative qualities in our being we recognize and want to rid
- false attitudes, behaviors, beliefs of the past affecting us in the present
- minor daily activities and routines
- entire projects we are working on
- unsolvable issues

-crossroad decisions; making a decision

-others?

Reader: life itself.

Our purpose and meaning that we seek in life

Response: Yes, we can ask her for direction, purpose, and meaning. I wonder if someone has had that result after calling to her for that purpose.

No Title

Human consciousness is to watch film, media, theater, presentation, etc. for vital pleasure, titillation, stimulation; in other words, for the entertainment value. Higher consciousness is to see its purpose and meaning, to learn from it, so it can become a means of one's progress.

Comment: (one can still experience great joy when learning from something; even be entertained by the scenes that deliver these helpful insights.)

No Title

People drink, take drugs and such to cope with the pressures of life, instead of creating the inner space that would create the same or far greater benefit, and without the negative consequences.

No Title

Ten seconds of consecrating (opening to The Mother and Her Force) before a medical exam can have a hundred times greater effect compared to normal life of constantly visiting doctors requiring one to take a stupefying variety of pills or engaging in other physical treatments over decades to cope with and overcome various illnesses.

Response: Eg one women who had several ailments consecrated her first visit in several months, and as a result all her tests unexpectedly proved excellent, a complete reversal from the earlier period. A few seconds of consecration potentially negated problems and therefore years of perpetual medical visits and treatments.

Offensive Use of the Force vs. Defensive Methods of Overcoming Illness

One of the very first results of the supramental manifestation was to give the body a freedom and an autonomy it has never before known. And when I say freedom, I don't mean some psychological perception or an inner state of consciousness, but something else and far better – it is a new phenomenon in the body, in the cells of the body. For the first time, the cells themselves have felt that they are free, that they have the power to decide. When the new vibrations came and combined with the old ones, I felt it at once and it showed me that a new world was really taking birth.

In its normal state, the body always feels that it is not its own master: illnesses invade it without its really being able to resist them – a thousand factors impose themselves or exert pressure upon it. Its sole power is the power to defend itself, to react. Once the illness has got in, it can fight and overcome it – even modern medicine has acknowledged that the body is cured only when it decides to get cured; it is not the drugs per se that heal, for if the ailment is temporarily suppressed by a drug without the body's will, it grows up again elsewhere in some other form until the body itself has decided to be cured. But this implies only a defensive power, the power to react against an invading enemy – it is not true freedom.

But with the supramental manifestation, something new has taken place in the body: it feels it is its own master, autonomous, with its two feet solidly on the ground, as it were. (The Mother, from Agenda, October 17, 1957)

No Title

Mother used to take medicines even though she did not believe in them! She felt they had no effect, or if they worked, another ailment would crop up in its place. Still She took medicine to keep the cells of her body from panicking and saying "we will fall apart without them." So She took the drugs just to keep them quiet, and meanwhile cured herself of a wide variety of illnesses by using the Supramental Power.

No Title

Hourly consecration, on the dot at the very top of the hour, has a great power to overcome illness.

Reader: wow. I have had a reminder on my phone to help me with hourly consecration for about 2 years. Thanks Roy. Why does hourly consecration have a great power to overcome illness specifically?

Response: It's a very good question. Some possibilities include-

- it's the power of a very organized discipline (in terms of regularity of time) utilizing the Force
- it's very challenging to do and thus tests and brings out the concentration of your higher nature
- the fact that many are doing it at the very same moment
- it builds up a great concentration (in terms of focus, sharpness, and summation) of the Force
- the possibility that the cells feel comforted by the regularity of the Force entering
- that it keeps Mother in your mind and indicates a building faith
- that the Force intersects with work activities, giving a new orientation to those energies
- etc.

Perhaps others have additional perspectives on this subject.

No Title

The Mother actually communed with, spoke with, and coaxed a number of the Gods to embrace Her integral approach, and succeeded with several.

(Her astonishing conversations with them are given in detail in Her 7000 page, 14-volume dialogue with her main disciple Satprem known as 'Agenda'.)

No Title

It's so easy to get caught up in the Tide -- of daily routines, others, emotions, media, et. etc. -- causing you to lose connection to the higher consciousness you have built up over the years. And yet with one, solitary minute of silence, it can all return!

Science says only matter is real. Shankara and others say only spirit is real. Sri Aurobindo indicates everything is real: i.e. all things are just different shadings of the same One Reality.

No Title

There is no greater victory than that of controlling oneself. (The Mother)

Comment: This -- along with opening to the spiritual Force -- is our moment to moment, evolutionary challenge.

No Title

Spiritual faith is trust in the Divine that no matter what the current condition - positive, negative or in between - all will work out for the very best.

No Title

The hippies (who became the baby boomers) abandoned marriage, property, money, religion, conformity, etc. for love, communality, free exchange, spirituality, individuality, etc. They burned brightly, with a quarter of the youth of the Western world, and then just as quickly disappeared. Mother said in Agenda that they were embodied the Supramental force, but then dissolved with the changing times. Their drug interest also heralded their demise. Mother also said indicated they were a kind of harbinger of the New World, the supramental life.

Interestingly, several of their other legacies is their introduction of the personal computer, which in turn fostered the internet, tablets, smartphones. etc. (Eg Apple, founded by Steve Jobs, is a hippy legacy company.) Thus the non-materialists created greatest material reality known to man.

Now we can take their vision and accomplishments further, embrace many of their profound values, rather than the ordinary social values, and thereby become the harbinger of the next human species.

Comment: --The fact that the Hippies arose so fast among a huge quantity of the world's youth indicates how quickly society can change. Sri Aurobindo said that we should be vigilant to the potentiality of change, as it is to quote Him, the "Hour of the Unexpected."

--Mother said that the Hippies could not hold the Force correctly, which led to their excesses, and thus their inability to sustain themselves. From a strong economic and stable basis without the excesses of youth, we can collaborate and rapidly bring the world forward.

No Title

The more you worry now, the more you will worry in the future.

No Title

When you take the other person's point of view - no matter what that is, - they are likely to soon take a view that actually or closely corroborates your own.

Comment: It's a startling life response phenomenon that is supramental (truth consciousness evoking) in nature.

Endless Progress (For a Devotee's New Business)

To have constant endless progress as a goal enlivens a business organisation.

When a sugar mill was founded, the owner sought Mother's blessings. She wrote "For endless progress". He registered 1,500 acres of cane for the first year crushing. The average per acre yield in the adjacent factory area was 28 tons. This factory fixed a high average of 45 tons an acre, since initial cultivation gives higher return. Mother's endless progress reached the fields too. The fields yielded 85 tons an acre, which even touched 110 tons in exceptional cases. The factory kept on crushing the first year's cane for two full years.

Mother herself blesses her devotees with endless progress. If endless progress is accepted as a conscious goal, the company does progress endlessly.

If a devotee starts a company, endeavours along these lines seriously and meets with a fair level of success, his company will have several characteristics that can be observed.

- There will be an atmosphere of hope and joy in the work.
- Public image will be one of admiration and approval.
- Individuals in the company will be sought after by everyone from everywhere.
- Expansion, not mere growth, will be endless.
- No difficulty will ever arise (Sri Karmayogi, MSS)

Layers of Success & Perfection In Work

We can imagine success and perfection in one's individual work as a kind of globe, with the outer, Physical visible layer of excellent skills and full persevering effort; influenced by a deeper layer of the Vital's enthusiasm, will, and right attitudes; itself determined by a deeper layer still of Mind (of understanding, organization, planning including envisioning new possibilities, and personal values), affected by and radiating a deepest, core level of Spirit (peace, silence, patience, equality, faith, Force, goodwill, self-givingness, etc.), all leading to perfection and therefore infinite-like response and success.

Comment: Based on Sri Karmayogi's insights, Ramesh Kumar explains it from a somewhat different perspective, including how each plane/layer in the work builds up in the first place:

Making Higher plane working on lower plane:

- Pure physical work, gives skill.
- Vital work, emotional involvement, builds capacity and gives agreeable attitudes towards that work.
- Mental comprehension of physical skill and emotional experience results in good understanding of all that is related to work its persons and environment.
- After raising oneself to the Spiritual values and consciously introducing these values in physical, vital, mental plane - makes us to understand the intent of the Divine.

Practically this can be done as:

- When we do any work-as we know-is doing in physical/matter.
- When we bring bit of emotion/vital -like doing it with interest, an artistic or any other lateral view of the work is exposed, and way to perfection is found.
- Then if we think that "is there any way to improve this" by using knowledge/mind - this bring out the innovation, creativity etc. To give a new perspective to the work we are doing.
- If all the above are subjected to spiritual values we know, we come to know the purpose of the work being entrusted to us and Divine intent behind that.
- So this can be construed as- higher plane acting on a lower plane of work.

No Title

Everything in the universe is Becoming. Becoming what? Becoming increasingly more evolved by embracing the higher consciousness, the spirit, the Being in all forms. Thus the purpose of existence in the universe is to progressively bring the Being into the Becomings of our lives, so they are eventually fused and One.

Comment: (The Divine is One, and now the goal of creation is to reestablish that Oneness, as the Being and Becoming become fused.)

No Title

It would be very helpful to maintain a high consciousness Barrier between our negative thoughts and feelings, and the world around us. Thus each time we sense a negative thought, feeling, behavior, action emerging inside us, it is blocked from taking shape or driven out if already under way. It is to practice the yogic power of Self-control; a key to personal growth and the development of our higher nature.

Overcoming Negative Repetition Attracts Overwhelmingly

Some of us may be familiar with the principle that life's acts tend to repeat over and over. Eg we will make the same foolish mistake periodically, or have the same disdainful boss repeatedly no matter where we work, or see the same disaster for a nation re-occurring over time, or we repeat the same dead habit of our own, or we move in the same foolish direction ad infinitum, etc.

It is the "physical consciousness;" the regressive, inertia-inducing part of our being that does not want to change, that assures the repetition of negative acts. However, introspection and self-analysis that identifies our repeating negative acts and then makes a sincere concerted effort to overcome them, will not only break this long-term dynamic, but opens the doors to enormous positive, even life-changing response from the world around us.

One man met an associate every few years at a restaurant. One thing that never failed was that his friend was always late. It happened at least half a dozen times over the years. However this time he said to himself that he did not want it to happen again. And so while sitting in his car in the restaurant's parking lot, he called to the Spirit and asked that his friend not be late this time. When the man walked into the building, he did not expect much of anything; yet when he looked into the distance of the large room, he saw his friend sitting there. It runs out that this time the man was late, not his friend! When he then sat down in amazement, the friend told him that he decided not to be late anymore. He also narrated some startling new developments in his life, each of which was miraculous-like.

Because the man sincerely wanted to stop the repetitions, and opened to the Force to make it happen, life completely turned around. The world had changed right before his eyes!

No Title

In the spiritual life we exchange ambition for aspiration.

Comment: (Ambition being the naked desire for money, power, prestige, and the like as end goal, which is in essence an ego movement. Aspiration on the other hand is the desire to improve one's lot in life for the purpose of raising up one's life and personal growth. In its highest forms, it is the yearning for the higher consciousness and the spirit -- including its various expressions -- to enter one's life.)

No Title

Instead of asking the Divine, Mother for more money, possessions, etc., ask her for more Capacity - such as more knowledge and skills; right attitudes, motives, and beliefs; etc. That will give you a much more solid foundation for even greater future successes.

No Title

One of the first great spiritual realizations is that we are selfish, greedy, and egotistic. This is an excellent starting point for those embarking on the spiritual quest.

No Title

We each have several specific negative attitudes that are blocking our way to the next level of success and fulfillment in life. Thus, identifying what that is and reversing or consecrating it may be the most important act of our lives.

Reader: awareness, alignment, achieve

Response: Yes exactly. And the achievement in such cases often occur through life response phenomenon (i.e. instantaneous miraculousness).

No Title

Each major illness is directly attributable to a specific wrong attitude in one's being. Discover that attitude, change it, and the illness will quickly vanish.

No Title

Perpetual silliness or triviality indicates lacking spiritual energy.

No Title

In a large group, only a handful are on a quest to improve themselves. The rest are mostly asleep.

Reader: In evolution, if even a single man change, whole world changes. so even if a handful people change, rest also will change.

Response: Yes, it's very true. Eg Steve Jobs changed the course of societal history in our times with introduction of Mac, iPod, iPhone, iPad, etc. Through extreme individuality and aspiration one person can have that impact on the world. And, as you suggest, there can be a number of such world-influencing people, such as Appa and the institutions under his care.

Individuals can also use Her power to bring this about through the shortcut of higher consciousness and Her Force, meaning we have the power to be not just true Individual beings, but Universal ones as well.

In The Life Divine Sri Aurobindo says that the ultimate, gnostic, supramentalized individual will live amongst and harmonize with regular people. Yet these regular people also will be more sophisticated, educated, aware, etc. than today's people. So he has invited the whole world to uplift themselves. This means that those asleep need to wake up to collaborate in the New World.

'Twilight Time'

Thoughts circulate. We think they are our own when we have them, but that's often not the case. The thoughts are simply being passed around through the ether. It's actually a very common experience that all of us have, yet invariably miss.

Eg I quietly started singing the song "Twilight Time" to myself in the morning. A friend simultaneously came by, overheard me, and said that throughout the night she heard that very same song in her own head. And yet it was when she appeared before me that I started actually singing that song. In other words, my thoughts of singing the song were actually my friend's earlier thoughts circulating through the atmosphere that I then caught onto and expressed.

That's how thoughts, including such things as songs and music, often come to mind. It's a startling phenomenon that can at once make us humble, while also astonishing.

No Title

The more we assert our position, the more life will rush towards us with the opposite point of view.

No Title

A true listener continues the conversation on the other person's terms, not his own.

No Title

Whereas many of the religions of the world indicate that the process of creation of the universe from a Divine Source cannot be known, Sri Aurobindo has explained it in great detail in 'The Life Divine.' His revolutionary insights are a leap beyond the religions of the past, as well as the most modern discoveries and theories of science.

No Title

How can you truly evaluate something when you already have a predisposition against it?

Comment: Truth lies beyond our prejudices.

No Title

Gandhi's greatness led to the liberation of India. Yet, Gandhi's errors of ahimsa (non-violence) led to delay and therefore partition of India with two nuclear countries pointing at one another.

Comment: Now the re-Federation of these two nations, India and Pakistan, as well as surrounding countries formerly part of India can begin to take shape.

Further economic alliance among them all will surely help.

Reader: Yes the only safe and reliable country in this region is India and these small countries have no existence of their own for eg anything that Pakistan does it always compares it with India it has no individuality

Response: Yes, it is true, but India must have a positive attitude, not a hostile one; even if Pakistan seems hostile. That will attract positive conditions. India must focus on being more prosperous, overcome all of her negative tendencies (bribery, corruption, laziness, lethargy, filth, Hindu fundamentalism, ritualism, dowry, ill-treatment of women, arranged marriage, rape, gold and jewelry hoarding, dependence, victimhood, etc.). Mostly she needs to get out of her poverty consciousness. That will attract better circumstances from the counties around her. The outer conditions are negative to her because India itself has so many negatives. That is what must change to attract the outer to be more positive. She can advance that cause even more by taking to her ancient spiritual wisdom, including the revolutionary new ways set out by Sri Aurobindo, Mother, and Karmayogi, discarding her religious ritualistic attitudes.

No Title

When a businessperson stubbornly resists the insightful suggestions of others, the organization tends to stagnate, leading to royal disappointment. However, when that person relents and heartily embraces those truths, the organization tends to quickly take off and boom.

No Title

Often the individuals who are most empirical - i.e. not believing in any existence other than the material - are those who evoke some of the most startling responses from life. When you then explain the experience to them, they gaze at you with blank expression, not comprehending a word you are saying.

No Title

When you restrain yourself from vehemently countering another's argument, and instead are gracious, easing into your point of view, life will respond and provide you with the time and mindspace for your point of view to be clearly explained and understood.

No Title

We enjoy what we enjoy, but not others' enjoyment.

Comment: (Another expression of separative consciousness, i.e. ego, plain and simple.)

Reader: Roy, many times, i enjoy other's enjoyment. What does that mean when i enjoy others' enjoyment?

Response: -When another person succeeds we are often jealous.

-A child is enjoying a game. When another child wishes to take the helm of the game, the first child stubbornly refuses, as she is enjoying it so much.

-We are so happy to express our successes to another; less happy to discuss other person's success.

-We thoroughly enjoy our emotional highs, but only mentally acknowledge another's with perhaps a bit of emotion.

-A Muslim experiences joy in his God. A Christian disdains it, but loves his God.

-Etc.

On Prestige

"Whether it is a high placed person or low placed person, [man's] whole functioning will be guided from the salient point of guarding his hard won prestige. Everyone jealously guards his prestige." (Sri Karmayogi)

Karmayogi also indicates that we value prestige even more than money or power. We long to be honored, recognized, respected, acclaimed, renowned, influential, helpful, having succeeded, accomplished, etc. etc. They are various shadings of prestige. When prestige lessons or it is somehow lost or taken away from us, we sink down into a morass. Life is hardly worth living. "I get no respect" is one modern version of it. We feel humiliation, and may fall into depression.

On the other hand, when we are in touch with our own true self, our real identity, our soul within, we no longer depend on social prestige for our peace of mind. We have an inner relationship with ourselves, making us a true Individual. If further still we take our cues from the Divine, whether from within or without, then we become a true Spiritual Individual. Prestige then turns into humility before the infinite power and joy of the Supreme.

No Title

Intense jealousy can attract the very worst of circumstances.

A man was jealous and distraught that his boss's son was picked over him to run a significant part of the operations of a large retail concern. He manipulated circumstance to try to put the boss's son in serious trouble. As it turned out, not only did his scheme fail, but the next day he found out that his wife was tragically run over and killed by a delivery truck.

No Title

Retaining a positive attitude when negative conditions present themselves will always attract better circumstance. Adding consecration to the mix will reverse it completely.

No Title

Asserting your side, quickly attracts the other side's position. On the other hand, embracing the other side's view, causes the other side to soon embrace yours.

No Title

When certain people appear on the scene, things seems to go wrong. When others with a higher consciousness appear, life seems to move into smooth flow, evoking the most positive conditions.

Eg, when the former appear, bad news arises, there is a certain tension in the air, anything helpful and progressive gets squelched, people fall ill, etc. The opposite for higher consciousness individuals.

No Title

That which you obsess about, you energize.

Embracing Change

Human beings don't take well to Change. Our physical consciousness, inheriting the bedrock of unchanging material existence, reacts to change as if it were an affront to our very being. But change is the order of things, though it might appear good or bad to us.

To the Higher Consciousness that sees beyond the material, change is welcomed with open arms. It is not burdened by attachment to the security of previous conditions. That consciousness is also in touch with the future, intuitivizing positive outcomes as a result of the current change-demands. It smiles at these possibilities, and thus embraces change with an open heart.

No Title

For most people thoughts and ideas alone rarely make lasting impressions. It is only our real life experiences that have that effect.

Comment: (Only a few are able to learn directly from the Idea, thus avoiding the long-term journey of experience.)

Who We Are

We are not just our physical bodies, our sensations, our emotions, our thoughts, our behaviors and actions, but there is also a life around us of other people and our relation with them, as well as the influence of the wider society surrounding us.

And then there is our purpose, the context of our lives, why we are here, and what we are challenged to do. There are also the secret movements of Nature in which we are partaking, for ourselves and for a wider purpose beyond our own.

And then there is our essence and soul being, and its purpose relative to our normal surface existence.

And moving outward there is the universal and transcendent reality that we are part of, whose intentions seeks expression in the world through our collaboration.

And finally there is the divine Force moving in the world that we can collaborate with to create an ever-more conscious and responsive world; to help build a divine life on earth.

To bring these together into a dynamic, integral whole is to become one with life; to experience the wonder and joy of the integral Reality.

No Title

If instead of making a verbal request for additional resources, you make use of the very last remaining ones, the provider will bring forth unprompted that which you inwardly desired. It is one expression of the life response method of Silent Will.

No Title

The ability to quickly shift in any given moment from what you want to what life requires is a spiritual-like skill.

Comment: (It is spiritual because you shift to a wider field of existence, which is a spiritual quality.)

Consecration Power to Overcome a Problem

Recently I had a very difficult, complex, and seemingly intractable problem trying to sync my technology devices. I tried everything I knew to resolve it. Finally, today after trying one more time I gave up and asked the Mother for Her help. Five minutes later a screen suddenly popped up with information that helped me realize that I had faulty data in the system. It was as if She brought it up just for me to see. Now realizing what the problem could be I changed a bit of information (overriding an outdated email address in the log in) and the entire system suddenly began to work! Not only that, but another related intractable problem I had a week ago got resolved! Once again I had witnessed the astonishing power of Mother and Her Force to quickly overcome the impossible.

Foreshadowing Phenomenon

There is always a sign indicated before a negative (or positive) occurs.

For example, one man was about to place an order at a restaurant when he noticed that at the order counter the overhead signage for the food he wanted to purchase was not visible. He pointed it out, and the order taker then made it available for viewing. When the man then ordered his food from that particular signage, it turned out to be overcooked and unsatisfying.

As we see, the unavailable signage was a sign of things to come.

Comment: Interestingly, if you consecrate at the point you notice the sign, the negative will not occur.

No Title

Ignoring and consecrating word that a certain individual is difficult to deal with causes them to adore your work and be fully grateful for services rendered.

Fully devoting yourself to a work with self-giving emotion causes another problem - such as a spouse's worry about a medical condition or a child's fear of not doing well in an exam - to completely disappear. The positive energies you produce move out into the field of life, releasing others of their burden.

Comment: As Karmayogi has pointed out, nature works on many fronts simultaneously. But Nature is a slow and difficult method of progress. However, a Higher Consciousness movement will not only bring good fortune to you, but also to others whose circumstances are seemingly unrelated, indicating that this Higher Power movement - like being fully self-giving in work or consecration - has the same capacity as Natures to work on many fronts simultaneously, but do so through Quickness, and without any of the difficulty, struggle, pain, etc.; rather the opposite.

No Title

Like Nature, a Higher Consciousness movement works on many fronts simultaneously, has effects in multiple dimensions, but without the negative aspects of slowness, struggle, and pain.

No Title

The Civil War divided the US, and then reunited her in an unprecedented manner, releasing stupendous energy that made her the the most powerful, dynamic, prosperous nation in the world.

Comment: (It is another reminder that negatives are secretly great spurs to further progress.)

No Title

All the great problems of today will be the spur to the powerful solutions of tomorrow.

No Title

The ever-increasing, ever-more complex problems facing the world indicate vast opportunities for society to move ahead.

No Title

Life response overcomes the eternity of time by instantaneously bringing before us just the right thing from the infinite expanse of space.

Purification of the Planes of Our Being through the Force

In Sri Aurobindo's yoga we open to the supramental force which enters our being at the mental or higher spiritual mental level and then gradually moves to the emotional vital center and then further down to the physical.

In His integral yoga, the least conscious elements of the lower vital and the physical are not addressed first, which would be too conflictive and radical a change. Rather first we make a connection with the Force through the higher, spiritualized mind, which opens and purifies the surface mentality and the intelligence centers; which is followed by the purification of the vital being and its limiting attitudes and lower emotions, as well as opening of the heart center; which is then followed downward by the purification of the sensations and the very physical substance, as well as the negative subconscious plane which is its support.

There is also a gradual awakening of our true selves, the spirit within us, the psychic being, which enables us to further surrender to the Force, the Mother, and its transforming action.

Comment: Actually, to the descent of the Force, there is a corresponding ascent upward. For example, when the Force purifies the mind, there is a corresponding upward movement from mind to higher forms of mentality including intuition, light, and supramental perception. Likewise when there is the descent of the supramental Force into the vital, the negative aspects are purified, but there is also an ascent to the higher vital called the "heart center" where one expresses self givingness toward others, engages in acts of goodness, feels gratitude, and so forth.

Receiving Stations

Thoughts that we think are our own are actually constantly streaming into our minds from elsewhere. The same with our feelings, desires, willfulness, joys, and so forth. Thus we are less an originator of these mental and vital formations of consciousness as we are a receiving station of them.

Necessity of Global Environmental Change

What if what we call global warming is simply the natural order of things; the inevitable change the earth is going through? While we must do everything in our power to overcome its abuse so far and prevent further deterioration of the environment in future, we can ask ourselves if the changes occurring to the earth - whether all or in part - are natural, and even inevitable.

The Mother once remarked that one day it would snow in Auroville, the very warm, once desert-like international spiritual community in Southern India. If this change is inevitable, then various sections of the world could see radical shifts in the weather, in the jet stream, in the ice flow, etc. etc.

Perhaps we can say that Mother Nature, which is in touch with its parent Nature (Prakriti), has its own agenda that defies our current understanding.

Moreover, the apparent crisis of the environment can also be understood as a vast opportunity for human resourcefulness; to develop new technologies, or have new insights into the nature of reality.

Perhaps that is what Nature and her material daughter Mother Nature have in mind for us. As this child of Nature changes, so shall we, in new ways that bring us deeper into our journey toward ever-increasing consciousness, ushering in a new spirit-based life on earth.

Life, Nature, and Soul

Life is the offspring of the Infinite consciousness. The children of Life are Nature (Prakriti) and Soul (Purusha). They are divisions of Life. A material child of Nature is Mother Nature. We humans are children of both Nature and Soul, showing far more of the attributes of the former, on the way (through our higher consciousness) to the latter. When we fully emulate our parent Purusha in the details of life, then we will fulfill the intent of our great ancestor, the Infinite consciousness, who is around us, always has been, and always will be.

The End of Time

Once I was driving across the endless expanse of farmlands of the Central Valley of California and suddenly experienced something extremely unusual. I looked into the white-bleached, sun-drenched sky and had the experience in that moment of a future where time no longer existed in the world; not just for me, but for everyone; in fact, for the entire universe. It was the end of Time in the world. And yet life however would still go on.

After several minutes I came out of this startling experience.

I mentioned this very powerful event to Karmayogi and he legitimized my experience. He also acknowledged that it was good that I had made the distinction that in this future existence there would no longer be TIME, and yet SPACE would still exist. Till this day I wonder if this startling reality will be the true course of things in some distant future.

Being in Identity with Life

In the new consciousness one begins to feel others as part of oneself... All things in fact begin to change their nature and appearance; one's whole experience of the world is radically different ... One begins to know things by a different kind of experience, more direct, not depending on the external mind and the senses... there is a new, vast and deep way of experiencing, seeing, knowing, contacting things. (Sri Aurobindo)

What Emerges Was Concealed as Potential

Nothing can be taught to the mind which is not already concealed as potential knowledge in the unfolding soul of the creature. So also all perfection of which the outer man is capable, is only a realizing of the eternal perfection of the Spirit within him. We know the Divine and become the Divine, because we are That already in our secret nature. (Sri Aurobindo)

Comment: This is key to Sri Aurobindo's central view of Involution and Evolution. In the involution the higher consciousness is buried, hidden, involved in all forms at the dawn of creation. When we evolve, or there is a new knowledge, it was already there in potential, as a seed of consciousness waiting to come out. When it actually does emerge in the evolution as new consciousness through our inner and outer actions, it was already there before creation, but secretly hidden in every form waiting to come out. Thus we say that the conscious-force (chit) - the secret divine energy - involved in forms in the involution reemerges in the evolution.

No Title

Embrace, do not be discouraged by the accelerating problems in the world. It is a sign of unprecedented leaps in human consciousness that are on their way.

Getting at Deeper Causes

When a bothersome situation occurs in the course of our day, such as an object not doing what we want it to, we try to quickly remedy the situation. However we rarely are able to take a step back, examine the situation, and get at the deeper cause so we can have the right knowledge to easily prevent such situations from occurring in the future.

It is because the physical consciousness of our being, that which control habit and the movement of our bodies, is unwilling to learn in a given moment; is only willing to do what is facile, simple, surface in order to remedy the situation. When the physical habit and the vital's emotions rule us from moment to moment, the mind with its rational capacity to ascertain, to probe, to consider more deeply is not allowed to gain entry. It is only when we bring to bear a deeper consciousness that we have the wherewithal to hold at bay the physical and vital's thought-squashing power, and see into the truth of things. It is in that "silent witness" state that we have the patience, the power of observation to gain entry into deeper causes beneath the surface view of life's conditions.

It is also my observation that when we gain this control in a given moment, and make the effort of deeper discovery, life responds and gives us new insights we would never have imagined before. It is a life response power that has gained entry into the mind.

No Title

Reflecting deeply on the tiniest act can reveal the secrets of Creation.

Comment: We can take any act we engage in and see the process involved and whether or not it meets the requirements that brings success. Eg do I really understand what I want to do; do I really want to do it; do I know the best methods to carry it out; do I have the will for its execution; and did I really execute it with right skills, serious effort, and right attitudes. This is what Appa calls "The Complete Act" and when followed perfectly it leads to perfection and life response results. It also turns out to be the very same process that the Divine itself follows/is following in the on-going creation process.

"The Complete Act" that we can engage in is equivalent to the Ishwara's (Creator's) ultimate act creating this universe of forces and forms. In The Complete Act we perceive what we want to accomplish, we figure out ways to do it, are energized to carry it out, and do so with the necessary effort, skills and right attitude. The act being complete leads to perfection results, which further evokes enormous positive conditions.

Likewise, the Ishwara, the Creator aspect of Satchitananda perceives the purpose for creating a universe of forms from out of the Conscious-Force of Infinite consciousness. It has realized the goals and the real Ideas it wants to see manifest in creation (such as peace, wisdom, goodness, love, beauty, joy, etc.). It then uses the power of Supermind to render a universe of forces and forms to accomplish these Real Idea goals. It takes the energy of the Conscious-Force and renders the forces and forms that are the basis of the created universe.

Like the individual who has engaged in The Complete Act the Ishwara too has moved through the process of Direction, Organization, Willfulness, Execution, Results. It is the Complete Act of the Infinite Divine to extend itself as forms in the universe. Whether a tiny act in our lives or the mission of the Ishwara, they both follow the same process of creation. This is what Sri Aurobindo has explained to us in great detail.

No Title

In yoga you deconstruct yourself and then rebuild yourself anew.

No Title

Mother said that if Sri Aurobindo's teachings became a religion She would be the first one to leave.

Comment: (It is not more religions that we need - we actually need less - but direct experience of the higher consciousness in all its facets, in order to evolve our lives and life on earth.)

Trace Backward

One of the most powerful life response techniques worth practicing is something I call "Trace Backward." It is actually quite simple. Every time you come across an instance of good fortune, -- such as a client calling after years of being out of touch, or the sudden, unexpected arrival of money, or an opportunity arising out of nowhere -- trace it back to a recent shift in your behavior, such as a change in attitude, or a decision made, or an action taken. That way you will consistently connect the life response outcome with the change in consciousness that precipitated it. (You can also do the same when you watch a film or read a novel or review news events in the media.)

Taking this approach will enable you to see life response more often and more clearly. As a result, you will tend to take to these corresponding right behaviors more often, which means you will experience life response more frequently, leading to greater success and fulfillment in life.

By the way, the same approach can be used with negative life response. If a negative event occurs in your life and you trace it back to a wanting inner or outer behavior -- such as a lack of inner strength -- you will be more motivated to avoid it in the future (and thus avoid additional negative response).

(from the book 'The Miraculous Phenomenon of Life Response' by Roy Posner)

No Title

To achieve something you've never achieved before, you must become someone you've never been before. (Brian Tracy)

Comment: Examples:

-In order to find Love, something he never expected, and seemed beyond him, Mr. Darcy in Pride and Prejudice changes his nature, becomes an entirely new person, and thereby attracts the woman (Eliza) of his dreams.

-In order to break out to a vast new level of success, Apple changed its way enabling connection of its iPod music players to run on PCs, not just Macs, propelling the company to the stars.

Our Journey from the Part to the Whole

Any partial truth ultimately hits a wall where you can't go further with it. So whenever we come upon a problem that we can't solve, we should know that the truth we are living by is only partial. We therefore have to broaden the truth and come closer to the totality of the reality of the situation. Then we can more readily understand the full nature of the issue and more easily solve. (paraphrase of Garry Jacobs)

Comment: Example: For Darcy and Pride in Prejudice his whole life is bound up in his prestige, his pride of his class. That's his very partial perception of the world. But then he meets Elizabeth and discovers Love, and as a result an entire new side to his life reveals itself that he had never known.

We are all like this. We only see our life in a very partial, limited context, until we are exposed by life to much more. We feel our current existence is the way life is, and then if we are lucky we discover many other sides to existence we were blind to. It is the journey from the ignorance of the part to the knowledge of the whole. From partial truth to the totality of Truth that is the Integral Reality of existence. This is the great insight Sri Aurobindo and Mother and Appa have given us.

Life slowing down or speeding up is affording you the opportunity to be in the Right Flow of existence beyond your limited, fixed rhythms.

No Title

Regularly scan yourself, identify, and remove any negative thought, feeling, behavior, action from your being, and life will continually respond in your favor. Your existence will become a never-ending procession of wonder.

No Title

When seekers truly seek, they truly find.

No Title

On those rare occasions where we are in Right Flow, everything dovetails perfectly. When we live the supramental life that is ALWAYS the case.

All the underappreciated, unembraced Grace of the past is still accumulated and can be released now in the present by focusing on doing what is necessary in the current situation.

No Title

When you communicate a helpful insight about another's situation, it tends to be synchronous with others who find themselves in that very same circumstance. They then marvel at the coincidence and are overjoyed to learn of your solution.

No Title

When you offer an opinion, a comment, a response to others' remarks, etc., consider your level of consciousness. If your feelings are devoid of ego, it is ripe for dissemination or discussion. However, if there is ego involved, i.e. separative consciousness in the form of pride, sense of superiority, irritation, anger, reflexive reaction, insult, vindictiveness, sarcasm, cynicism, etc., it is best to hold back. Words contain a great life power, and when we express them negatively, we tend to quickly attract negative conditions from the world around us.

No Title

One great cosmic insight is that we are on a path of spiritual realization that progressively occurs in this life and continues in lives to come.

Comment: It is the evolving spirit, the psychic being within us that is on a Journey of discovery of higher consciousness through the experiences in our own being and current life, which continues in future births. It is a transformative Journey from Ignorance to Integral Knowledge.

No Title

The Divine has rendered this material universe so that the Infinite consciousness can manifest all its spiritual attributes in our lives.

No Title

The Infinite Divine's intention is fulfilled when we, its creation, evolve to become divine in every aspect of our lives.

No Title

Often we need to first recognize and cast out a negative aspect in ourself - whether a wanting attitude, habit or belief - in order to set a new direction in our lives.

Comment: Eg an individual has failed to find his calling. He drifts aimlessly. Then as things get acute, he realizes that he has the wrong attitude about work. I.e. he is not serious about it. Now he remembers an opportunity offered to him by a family friend. He firmly decides to take it up. He has direction. When he takes up the opportunity, an astonishing positive response occurs and his life is changed forever. By shedding his unwillingness about working, it paved the way to set his direction which led to the greatest response of his life.

Attitude, Aspiration, Decision, Action: Four Determinates That Evoke Great Response from Life

One quality I have noticed about evoking a great or life changing life response is that one or more of four General Determinates are usually at work; often involving all of them working in tandem. They are a shift away from a negative Attitude, an Aspiration/Intention to go in a new direction, the Decision/Commitment to make it so, and the physical Action to execute it, to make it real. As a result, of embracing these aspects, life responds overwhelmingly.

In the one incident when I returned from wandering around the world and came to accept work that was offered me, attracting the biggest response of my life, I realized the fallacy of my Attitude, set a new direction (Aspiration/Intention) as a result, made the firm Decision to take up the opportunity and work, and executed it as Action by returning to California and working in a lumber yard that I was invited to. As a result, shortly after I met the people who would shape the course of my life.

In another experience (which is described in my Life Response book) I was asked by my boss to work weekends in my sales position but I refused. However, then I examined my Attitude and changed it, focused my Aspiration/Intention on coming in that weekend, made a firm Decision and Commitment to do so, and then took the physical Action to actually come into the store that weekend to make it real. When I did, I attracted the biggest sale of my life by far, ushering me into a 30 year computer-related career. Once again it involved the determinates of Attitude, Aspiration/Intention, Decision, and Action.

I have seen this dynamic repeatedly over the years for evoking startling life response. We can even see it in literature. In Jane Austin's 'Pride and Prejudice' it is precisely what Darcy does, following the path of those four determinates, and as a result attracts the woman of his dreams, Elizabeth Bennet. It begins with the realization that he can't have her unless he changes his attitude of pride. He does that and then follows the other determinates, which leads to Elizabeth's unexpected confession of love for him.

The four general determinates unfolding this way can be seen as the movement from out of Ignorance to Knowledge. We start with the wrong or limiting understanding, feeling, attitude, habit, etc. -- which we can put under the general category of Attitude. Then we realize how that attitude is wrong and change it. As a result, we see the world in a new light, which focuses our Aspiration/Intention of what we need to do. But that doesn't guarantee we'll do it. We do it by making a firm Decision and Commitment to make it happen. But that is ordinarily still not enough as an Action is required in the field of physical life, which now has the capacity to evoke the startling response.

It often begins with the Attitude change because our feelings and beliefs are so interconnected with life events and life energies. As soon as that Attitude changes, those energies move out into the field of life looking for corresponding elements that return to us in the form of vast response. The Aspiration/Intention, Decision, and Action then follow and fulfill this dynamic.

We have even seen that by merely making a Decision one can evoke the startling response; i.e. without even taking any physical action! In rarer cases still, the life turnaround occurs simply by changing the Attitude alone. In other words, whatever the intensity required of moving from Ignorance to Knowledge for that particular person for that condition and incident will evoke the powerful positive response.

There is also of course the ability to have the goal in mind from the outset and then follow its process to fruition. That is powerful too, ultimately so, but most people do not have that inner capacity to follow that process. In essence, they haven't that knowledge, though it can be learned. If they do, such as following a 30 day process of focused goal to strategies to execution to realization, it will ordinarily lead to a powerful response, especially if consecrated at all steps along the way. On the other hand, often it will not work because the life energies are not right and something more is needed: usually a change or adjustment in attitude, or an intensity of desire for the result, or greater clarity or focus one is not able to muster. Sometimes taking an initiative in the wrong situation or context will also leave one frustrated.)

There are obviously infinite variations for evoking the response. We each can choose our entry point: through the Four Determinates or subsets, through a formal process of goals setting and realization, etc.

Perhaps the most powerful way to evoke success is to consider a possibility, intensely want it, offer it to Mother, do everything one can to make it real, even a token effort, and see it suddenly move forward to fruition. This is the spiritual method of accomplishment. It can also begin as contrition for a wrong attitude or behavior in the past that is affecting our present that is offered to the Divine, the Mother, and then She simply opens the Path for us to move forward for its realization and our ultimate success. There is no faster way to evoke the infinite potentials of life from the current finite!

No Title

- There is only one Reality. The Divine, God is one form of it. We are another.
- God, the Divine didn't so much create the universe, as He became the universe.
- We are God too, only in a different form.
- The totality of God and the universe is the Reality.
- The All is the Reality.
- The Individual, the Universal, and the Transcendent is the Integral Reality.
- If God has extended itself to us, and we are evolving, then God is evolving.
- God is evolving through our soul's multi-birth journey of never-ending progress.

No Title

Catch each ego movement as it arises, and cast it aside. You'll avoid perpetuating, attracting the negative.

No Title

One consistent theme of very successful people is when confronted by serious difficulty somewhere downstream, rather than give up, they manage to push through it, and as a result their careers take off. It is Nature's critical test of one's inner strength in life. Those who pass it fulfill their soul's purpose while realizing their fondest dreams.

People will fiercely defend the position they have staked out, even in the face of evidence to the contrary. It is the Ego out in full force.

No Title

Harmony of emotions of thought between two persons can release energy to conquer the world. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

When the One became the Many, it never ceased being the One.

Comment: We - a form of the Many - do not see the Oneness; only division, duality, conflict, and separation. Yet from the Divine's perspective all in the Many is One. I.e. all negatives are seen as positives in disguise; while contradictions are perceived as complements.

No Title

That which we are in contradiction with is secretly the means of our greatest progress
Comment: Whether contradiction with other people, organizations, with life circumstance, between parts or planes of our being, between different ideas or thought or beliefs, etc., etc.

No Title

Evil arises not just from acting on false, harmful intentions, but through collaboration with dark unforeseen forces.

No Title

Ignorance, Falsehood, and Evil are three progressions of negativity in the world. Ignorance is missing or wrong knowledge; Falsehood is emotionalizing that Ignorance; and Evil is acting on it with hostile intent.

No Title

From one perspective even Evil advances society, as it builds up unprecedented, harmonic counter-resistance in the surroundings.

No Title

Trying to help another person who is experiencing difficulty can be very helpful. It can also be completely at odds with their intention.

Reader: Can u help me understand this with an example please

Response: In a restaurant, a woman was making her way to a seat with her tray in hand. Another woman seeing her heading toward the exit to dine outside, called out to the first woman, and told her of an available seat nearby inside the restaurant, as she thought the place was so busy that the woman with the tray could not find a place to eat. However, after the second woman called out to her, the first woman with the tray in hand turned around and said to her that it was ok; that she wanted to go outside and have her meal in the fresh air. In other words, the second woman misread the first woman's motive.

With greater thought or insight, the second woman might have considered the possibility of the first woman dining outside, and therefore might have been more patient to see where the first woman was going.

Better still, a developed intuitive sense would have instantaneously known what or what not to say or do, as the knowledge of the truth simply appears in one's mind.

No Title

To the Spirit good manners has no particular value. In life, however, it can be very helpful.

Reader: True! Good manners is a mask that everyone wears and we don't know what's really going through their mind

Response: Yes, we cannot know their underlying motive. We can be fooled by their manners. That is why higher consciousness does not perceive it as a fundamental Truth. And yet we have seen that when we ourselves practice good manners it can be very useful for creating a level of civility that enables positive energies to enter that interaction.

Karmayogi advocates good manners, not because of its inherent Truth, but because for a devotee it tends to more readily usher in positive circumstance in its wake. On the other hand, being ill-mannered can release negative vital energies that can quickly attract negative conditions.

So let us see beyond others' manners into the truth of things, but let us practice it our own daily lives to help establish the best life conditions, knowing very well that our deepest values and beliefs mean so much more.

No Title

Over-excitement about an unfolding positive outcome tends to quickly dilute it. However, in the silence of the mind and the calm, equal poise of the heart, it accelerates and intensifies.

No Title

Each time you restrain yourself from broadcasting an accomplishment, it gather power and expands.

No Title

Over-celebration of an accomplishment such as for a hard-won success or victory causes unforeseen negatives to suddenly arise.

Comment: Calm, silent, grateful recognition of the success causes it to breed new opportunities and successes.

No Title

The fact that we can consecrate and evoke response for the Collective -- whether family, community, nation, world, etc. -- shows that we are not just Individual beings, but Universal ones as well.

No Title

What if Life were simply an endless series of learning experiences for one's Soul?

No Title

Each of us are apertures in the universe looking out on Itself.

No Title

Though we normally think it's the opposite, Silence always energizes accomplishment.

No Title

Many successful people want others to succeed. Many unsuccessful people want others to fail.

No Title

Though very true, it is not often easy to perceive that negatives are actually positives or opportunities in disguise. One relatively easy way to demonstrate this is in sports. For example, a star player gets hurt, which is perceived as a devastating negative to the team. But then what actually happens is that other players on the squad are given an opportunity to shine. Now as the season progresses, with the return of the star player integrated with the success of the players given a chance, the team is now much stronger than before, leading to considerably more success.

The once perceived negative is now viewed as a golden opportunity that came to the organization. A few of the players and managers may even regard it as Grace.

The Choice That Aligns Us with the Luck of Our Lives

"-Looking back on their flourishing career, anyone can locate an event, a choice, an idea that had set them on this course of luck.

-Often we see impossible circumstances converge to confer a great favour on us. At that moment, our choice decides.

-In such cases if one tries to know all the attending circumstances, it will be amazing how the entire Life has conspired to deliver Luck to us. We may have accepted it or not, but the fact remains that life was at pains to do it." (Sri Karmayogi)

Examples:

-In 1974 I decided not to continue travelling through Europe and on to Egypt, and instead made the decision to return to America and focus on earning through a paying job of which I was given an opportunity. As a result of taking that division and action, I met the people who would change the course of my life, and continue to do so.

-In 2003 Steve Jobs decided to allow the iPod to run on iTunes for Windows, a far faster market, and something said he would never do (the "Hell Freezes Over" episode). As a result, the iPod sales suddenly boomed, which led directly to the iPhone, ushering Apple into vast, unprecedented success, changing the course of Technology and even world history.

-In the 1980s Premier Michael Gorbachev decided to change the direction of the Soviet system via Glasnost and Perestroika to improve the faltering nation, and instead the entire system came crashing down, bringing about the end of the world threatening Cold War.

-In Pride and Prejudice, Mr. Darcy decided to take personal responsibility to catch the duplicitous Mr. Wickham in the elopement episode. and quickly attracted his marriage to the love of his life, Eliza Bennett, a fulfillment of everything he had dreamed of.

Governor's Strength Attracts Response from Mother Nature

One recent discovery is that when human intention shifts from weakness to strength in relationship to the physical environment, it can attract the sudden cooperation of Mother Nature.

Here's a recent true-life example:

California has been suffering through its greatest drought in hundreds of years. It was now past the rainy season, and well into the six-month dry period. The Governor had recently ordered cutbacks in water distribution for all regions, but in the months that followed many did not cooperate, as reservoirs dried up and there was virtually no snow-pack in the high mountains.

He then got tough and ordered very specific cuts for every town in the state. This not only got the attention of all municipalities, but suddenly during this onset of the dry season rain started coming down profusely! Even the mountains were unprecedentedly covered with snow in this dry, warm, very sunny part of the year; an almost unheard of phenomenon. People were startled by Mother Nature's sudden change in course.

And yet very few if anyone perceived the deeper causality that was at work instigated by the Governor's strong, bold actions.

Asking for what we want often evokes resistance and opposition. Silently aspiring for what we want prompts life to offer it. It is the power of Silent Will. (Garry Jacobs)

No Title

Our nature urges us to action. Our ego demands it. And yet our capacity NOT to act has tremendous power to evoke action from life. (Garry Jacobs)

No Title

Our capacity to receive is directly proportionate to our capacity to give to others. (Garry Jacobs)

No Title

Rather than try to control your life, to control the universe, give up control and have trust in what life brings you, following its path and direction.

thanks to alan watts and martyn

No Title

"The events of our lives appear to lack coherence due to a limitation in our understanding. Those who perceive the true character of life realize that it has a complete connected significance."

(from the Book inside the novel 'The Book' by Garry Jacobs)

Comment: This is echoed here:

"Our outward happenings have their seed within,
And even this random Fate that imitates Chance,
This mass of unintelligible results,
Are the dumb graph of truths that work unseen:
The laws of the Unknown create the known."

(from 'Savitri' by Sri Aurobindo)

No Title

People readily value self-givingness in individuals. Less valued is the power of inner, psychological strength. And yet the combination of the two, which is indeed rare, enables extraordinary accomplishment, and the great admiration of others.

Western religions see God and the world as two separate entities. But the Indian view may be nearer the mark when it says that It is God who has become the world. (N. Asokan, MSS)

Reader: When you get free from certain fixed concepts of the way the world is, you find it is far more subtle, and far more miraculous, than you thought it was. - Alan Watts

Response: Yes, exactly. Sri Aurobindo says that as mind is free from the domination of the senses and surface living, as well as the pull of the lower vital nature which distorts and prejudices our thinking, it widens and expands, and is able to increasingly perceive the true nature of the Reality in all its facets. It is thus a journey from Ignorance to True Knowledge of the nature of existence.

No Title

It would be helpful one day to be able to know the relationship between the Psychic Being, the Divine, the Supramental plane and power, Involution, Evolution, our own Destiny, Rebirth, Ignorance, etc. And all of these in terms of the Reality.

We are mostly stuck at the alleged division between God and Man, and are unable to see much further. But there is a way forward, which Sri Aurobindo has discovered and revealed to the world.

From Novel to Film

Each generation creates its own film versions of a great novel. In each we see a different shading, but also the influence of the times, including the values, the language, interests; even the technologies of those days. Sometimes we have magnificent, enriching versions such as the British presentation of Pride and Prejudice of the 1990s. Because it was a serial and therefore extended, it could bring out the nuances of the character, plot, and values.

And yet even a lengthy serial version does not guarantee success as it did here. Someone has to have seen deep into the novel, bringing out its purposed shadings, and then reveal through a great script and the most appropriate actors the very best of what the novel offers.

No Title

How can we know the true nature of the Reality if the lens of our consciousness is clouded over and distorted.

Reader: By looking and listening within, all the answers are waiting to be awakened.

No Title

Life Response phenomenon proves that the inner me and the outer world are One. That there is only Oneness in the universe and beyond.

Reader: The Law of One. We are all connected.

Response: Yes, which indicates we are all constantly evoking response from one another, though it is mostly subconscious to us.

No Title

The Mind can't "see around corners." But Intuition can.

Comment: It knows the truth of things without the need for sense input, or even thought itself, as the knowledge just appears in one's mind.

No Title

When we listen to another, we tend to quickly jump to conclusions, even though we have not given the other party the chance to complete their thoughts and rationale. More patience on our part, a degree of mental silence, and respect for others' points of view -- all spiritual qualities -- will rectify that problem. Now the interaction will become elevating and deeply rewarding.

Detachment Power

Recently I have been developing presentation materials for the topic 'Life Response in Work.' One of the modules is how to evoke it through Spiritual means. But spirit is a vast topic, and one may not know where to begin.

Spirituality in one sense begins not in action or even Force, but through stillness and silence. And they can be viewed as the expression of non-involvement or non-attachment at various levels. In other words "Detachment."

All forms of Detachment issue from "Silent Witness" consciousness where we stand apart from and gaze upon the world. We can detach ourselves from a thought, an opinion, a sensation, a desire, an obstacle, etc. In all of these we can withdraw and become Silent Witness to circumstance.

If we think about it we may notice that our very existence from birth onward is one of Attachment, - to our mother's sustenance and care, to achievement in school, to move ahead in our careers, to set and make real our goals, to actively support our family, to try to improve our lives, even to change the world.

And yet the Spirit begins with Detachment, which is the very opposite: the negation of any action at any plane - physical, vital, or mental. Through physical dependence, emotional dependence, even mental dependence our days are filled with attachment. Moreover, habit fixes these in our consciousness and we repeat them over and over. And yet at each point we learn to detach, we will have discovered a higher means of accomplishing the same or greater result, but with far less effort in a much shorter period of time. Detachment thus enables us to overcome the limits of space and time. By being still in the face of life's exigencies, our energies concentrate and attract, align with marvelous circumstance.

As human beings we have been trained to be attached in every conceivable way. Now as spiritual beings we can reverse again to be detached Silent Witness to the circumstance of our lives. Not uninvolved, not not caring. But keeping still inside so we have the wherewithal to perceive the true truths unfolding around us.

It is to mimic the Divine Itself, who Silently looks out upon the universe that has unfolded from His being. Similarly we can live from a poise of silent observer, releasing the energies that enable life to blossom in a thousand ways.

Reader: Roy this has happened to me today! I received an email from our marketing department explaining why they hadn't started a very important campaign for me (short staffed illness etc.) and that it would probably be July at the earliest to start the campaign now. I accepted this without judgement, frustration, anger etc. and sent them a nice email back explaining that I understood. Within 1 hour I received an email from my business development manager asking If I could do a financial surgery for a group of NHS workers (these usually result in home visits and financial planning) this is a full day event! I of course said yes! This is life response in action.

Response: Yes Martyn, non-reaction and equality of being in the face of difficulty - two forms of detachment - are very powerful, and can evoke powerful positive response in their wake. Congratulations!

No Title

There is a great difference between consecrating and worrying about a problem or issue, and consecrating and letting go and having complete faith in the Mother without further thought. The quality of the results will be indicative.

No Title

All other factors aside, those who are without work will attract work by really wanting to work.

Comment: I have often seen that when a person with a deficiency of work makes the intense Decision and Commitment to want to work, new work suddenly presents itself from out of nowhere.

(Often only a small token effort in a particular direction will evoke the response.)

No Title

When there is a serious challenge before us and we demonstrate the strength and courage to see it through, we tend to quickly attract unexpected positive developments.

E.g. an individual's business had recently not been doing very well. On top of that he had an appointment with the doctor that he was not exactly looking forward to. It seemed like life was piling on too much at once. However he gathered himself and developed the inner strength and faith to see it through. A few minutes after seeing the doctor and the results, a client suddenly and most unexpectedly appeared out of nowhere after several years with a new, lucrative business opportunity.

No Title

Sri Karmayogi has been likened by several of his closest followers to Abbé Faria the priest in Count of Monte Cristo who reveals the infinite potentials of life to the at first unbelieving, fellow prisoner Edmond Dantes.

The latter learns these life laws, escapes from the prison, and then discovers, as Faria promised, the greatest wealth on earth, enabling him to become the world renowned Count. Dantes has thus undergone a complete metamorphosis, becoming a very different person. Sri Karmayogi offers the same to his followers. Will we rise to his transformational challenge?

Reader: Yes he awoke from the imprisonment of being spiritually asleep and once spiritually awake recognised the beauty of all of the treasures of life that had always been there.

Response: Beautifully said.

No Title

It is said that "he hesitates waits." But spiritually he who waits -- who does not initiate but waits on life's initiative in order to act -- truly accomplishes.

Comment: A man initiated and asked for and received a job at a printing center. It went well for a while, but then after six months everything fell apart due to internal disharmony. Yet one day while there two women appeared and asked the man if he was willing to participate in their software training company. He agreed, and it launched a 25 year training career.

His initiative succeeded for a while, then failed, while life's initiative through the two ladies succeeded 100%.

No Title

Complaining about something attracts more disappointment from it.

A man was complaining to a friend about the problems that occurred in the local post office with people arguing with workers about money, bad service, and other issues. When he then went to the post office that day to get stamps, he was further disappointment when he discovered the office was closed!

No Title

It is a universal truth of life that with rare exceptions people who help others are hurt by the people they help. The ego of those who receive help feel the humiliation of being dependent on others for their support. That ego seeks to overcome the sense of humiliation by pulling down the person who condescended to help them. (MSS)

Reader: yes this is true! but what is the solution to this

Response: Those who would normally receive should try to do everything in their power to move forward without asking for the help of others. They can learn to be self-determining and self-sufficient. If one has already garnered help from others, they should watch for ego reactions such as disdain and resentfulness due to feelings of humiliation and such and stop it, or better yet change it to deep gratitude for the received help.

From the helper's side he should only help those who seem genuinely appreciative and are deserved in consciousness of receiving help. Also helpers should never help out of an ego sense, such as pride or prestige, but rather out of a sense it can do genuine good for the recipient.

Being aware of and keeping in mind the rule above in the original post will always be helpful each step of the way.

Reader: This is almost like a rule except for few conscious people with right knowledge and wisdom.

Response: Yes

Reader: I have helped lots of people during my lifetime and never been hurt.

Response: Yes, that is often the case in a business relationship, as the goals and agreements are relatively clear. (It is also especially a sign of the organization having high values which is reflective of harmony with the recipient.)

Even of course in business we witness gross ingratitude by the recipient people/customers, as eg when a hateful article is passed around about an Apple or Google or Microsoft on a trifle, whereas those companies have brought so much benefit to them.

However, in social relationships outside of the contractual and the like (as in business and other organizations), where people extend themselves out of the ordinary, MSS's principle at the outset of this post can readily be demonstrated, as in-

-helping the poor, when they are not trying or able to help themselves as well. (eg In Africa they are very resentful.)

-offering a loan to a friend or relative

-offering to help another in a dangerous situation

-etc.

Sometimes the Benefactor being hurt by the Beneficiary is just the natural way of things in our current life. Eg Gorbachev ended the Cold War and the misery of the Soviet people and is to this day reviled with almost universal contempt by the Russian public.

By "natural way" I mean in the current makeup of society that lives in the Ignorance. There are many examples throughout society.

We know that Ingratitude is a universal negative attitude throughout society.

Reader: As they say, "No good deed goes unpunished." You are right Mr. Roy, that many people who receive help succumb to pride, humiliation, guilt or just feel the burden of having to repay a debt quid pro quo. And lord knows, it is very dangerous to try to help two opposing people or groups! More often as not, they will both turn on you for butting in. Bad habits and vendettas are often so deeply entrenched that they define a person's reason for living, provide justifications for feeling victimized and in the most extreme situations where problems expand to the level of crises provide a "rush". People love the familiar and hate to face the void of unknown possibilities. Sometimes "help" can be construed as being "made wrong". It also ties back in with the (deluded) comfort of feeling the victim; no responsibility is therefore required. So, "Thanks a lot for your help, you bastard!" Words are powerful thought missiles. Assisting someone has far less of a charge than "helping". Bueno

Response: Fine psychological insights on the subject Ken. Blame, complain, raging against "Other" - whether the benefactor or anyone or anything else - indicates little development of their true self and being, as they are lost in the vital/emotional/ego center that is the foundation of Ignorance and Falsehood. It continues on until (if they are lucky) they break through into a new perspective of life. Personal and spiritual growth is the result. True knowledge of life follows.

No Title

What is outrageous to one generation, is natural to the next.

Reader: Ok. Whether right or wrong?

Response: Yes. Most of the time, not always, the new generation knows better than the old, but there can certainly be excesses or certain regressions among the better new.

No Title

Current conditions are always indicating future outcomes, but we don't have the wherewithal and subtle sense to perceive it. Therefore, if a negative presents itself in the present, it's best to consecrate it to avoid negative permutations in the future. If a clear positive shows itself now, one can offer that too to the Mother so that it's redoubled again and again in the course of time.

No Title

The more you are bothered about something, the more there will be to be bothered about.

Comment: Or to put it another way, to be bothered by something energizes it, which causes it to spread.

Best to be calm about the matter, offer it to the Mother, and then forget it. Positive developments related to it will ordinarily soon follow.

No Title

Detachment is a spiritual movement that can occur at the physical, vital, and mental planes. In the mental plane detachment is the deconditioning of mind by neutralizing our likes and dislikes; by detaching from our prejudice, formed opinions, preferences, and expectations. This enables right perspective that leads to life-supporting positive action and results. (based on comments of Ramesh Kumar)

No Title

Detachment is Shifting Faith:

From what we see

From what we know

From what we learned and experienced

From what we have achieved

From what we think we can achieve

From our endowments, skills and capacities

From our family, friends, organization, community, nation

From every form of finite.

And attaching ourselves to universality to see the truth and purpose behind all above.
(Ramesh Kumar)

No Title

Let's not be burdened by unnecessary thoughts, feelings, and influences of the past, except those that can be of value in the present to create a more dynamic future.

No Title

Looking at the same thing from new perspectives reveals untold possibilities and opportunities.

Comment: It can be as mundane as physically looking at a table from an angle at floor level, revealing dirt that has not been attended to in months and should now be cleaned, to mentally considering a software service from the view of the needs of the society beyond the individual that leads to new code that addresses that need. In either case, it opens up new possibilities and their means of manifestation, whether through action, inspiration, analysis, or even spirit.

How then can we look on what we do in our work or otherwise with new eyes? What will give the new perspective? And once we perceive such new angles, what will we do to accomplish it; to manifest it as real in the world.

No Title

The brain is somewhat analogous to a radio that tunes into various planes of Mind, its array of stations, and their infinite content of Knowledge.

No Title

Involution is the process by which Spirit became the Universe. Evolution is the process by which the Universe becomes Spiritualized. The Supramental plane and force plays a central role in each.

Sri Aurobindo has revealed this ultimate Knowledge to the world. Now science, philosophy, psychology, etc. can catch up.

No Title

One's own daily lives can be a living laboratory of the principles of higher consciousness Sri Karmayogi has given to the world. We can observe ourselves at each point and keep a journal of our progress. It will be a great learning experience, like no other.

No Title

The predominant negative trait we express in the course of our day is Ego. It is persistent and frequent, and expresses in a myriad of ways. Learning to look within and catch Ego at each point in the course of our day is a critical aspect of personal and spiritual growth.

Life Repeats Negatively

Life repeats negatively again and again until we get it right.

Examples:

-A man leaves the country to escape the mistakes of the past, but then life presents it in a new form, and then later once again, until he gets it right.

-A woman feels abused by her boss, does not know how to handle it, and goes to work somewhere else. But then it crops up again. It repeats until she develops the inner strength to overcome it

-A man repeatedly gets involved with the same type of woman with the same types of problems, until he chooses something higher.

-A man is constantly late when he meets with a friend at a restaurant periodically over the years until one day he decides to make a change, and as a result he suddenly attracts astonishing developments at that on-time meeting.

(Or to put it another way, when you break the chain of the negative repeating, life issues forth astonishing results in response to that higher consciousness movement.)

Each of us have our own unique repetition patterns. To recognize what they are and then overcome them enables growth in one's consciousness, accelerated success, and fulfillment in life.

Applying Custom Inner Strategies to Overcome Each Problem

You can solve any outer problem by the right combination of inner oriented strategies.

Eg if a neighbor has a very messy yard, you could confront them directly, but that is a conflictive solution liable to do more harm than good. Instead you can take an inner approach and-

1. Clean up your own environment
2. Not be bothered by the neighbor's mess; i.e. practice non-reaction and detachment
3. Consecrate to the spiritual Force and then forget the entire matter.

As a result of implementing these strategies together, a completely unexpected solution may soon present itself, such as another neighbor suddenly coming forward to express complaint with higher ups about the messy first neighbor bringing about a substantial tangible outcome.

No Title

One of the Mother's specialties is that when you offer a problem to Her, She doesn't just solve that issue, but reveals others and solves them as well.

No Title

The mind is incapable of seeing the truth and it judges according to its own limited capacity – not only limited but unconscious of the truth. (The Mother)

On the Utility and Limits of Mind

-[Mind's] role in the creation has been, as a matter of fact, to make things precise, to explain them, and at the same time to limit them.

-It's quite certain that when the Supramental manifests, it will replace the ... restricting mental precision [of the Mind] – a precision which limits, and therefore partly warps things – by a clarity of vision, another kind of precision that will not restrict. (the Mother, from Agenda, September 25, 28, 1968)

Higher Consciousness Perceives Multifaceted Nature of the Reality

"We don't see things as they are, we see things as we are." (Anais Nin)

It's very true. The challenge is to see things as the Reality really is. Sri Aurobindo's The Life Divine explores this very topic -- i.e. the nature of Reality, and what it is, and how we can come to perceive its true nature in 1000+ pages of metaphysics of cosmic insight. His views on the subject are unprecedented in spiritual history and if we can even have the smallest glimmer of his Knowledge, we will begin to see Reality beyond our small portal view. It requires the complete transformation of our being, including the experience of our psychic/soul nature within, so we have the supramental view of the integral Truth of things that perceives the Reality for what it truly is.

Relative Experience of Time

It is well known concept that space is absolute, but time is relative. Eg when we are busy time appears to move rapidly, whereas when we are bored or otherwise unoccupied it seems to move at a snail's pace. When we move to the spirit there are even more dramatic experiences of time. Eg when we consecrate (offer to the spiritual Force) an activity, life presents us very quickly with results that might have taken days, weeks, months, if at all, to occur. We call it "instantaneous miraculousness."

It is also said that when you connect with your psychic being, the evolving soul within you, then past, present, and future are not three separate divisions of time, but are one continuous arc of being. From that deepest poise within you can affect the past in the present, and similarly know the future in the Eternal Now.

In Her 14 volume Agenda diary we are privy to Mother's startling array of time-oriented experience; where e.g. She suddenly stopped all motion, was still for 20 minutes, and confessed to Satprem her disciple that one second had passed in her consciousness. Likewise, in a few seconds she experienced hours and days of time. It shows that through higher consciousness of the spirit we can have the relative experience of time in the extreme, something that science has only begun to recognize.

Accepting the Limitations of Others

I was reading in Mother's Agenda where She said that there is no point condemning the ignorance of other individuals, as they are in one sense doing the best they can, which is a reflection of who and what they are. If we look out on life and accept the world and others this way, it will be very helpful for one's self in our view of life, and can also have an influencing effect on others to do better.

This approach is the recognition of the Reality for what it is, which includes all planes from spirit to matter, of all forms, of positive and negative, large and small, etc. etc. When we perceive the Reality, including the necessity of all the flaws of existence within it, we have the True View of life, which in turn serves a great purpose in the world, particularly in our relationship with others, as well as the development of our own consciousness.

No Title

Positive developments often come in bunches at exactly the same time, and from completely different, unrelated sources.

It is Synchronicity and the Interconnectedness of life.

In addition, though on the surface each appear to be unrelated to one another, from a deeper perspective one discovers profound connection, correlation among them; as well as deep indicators and prophecies of great good in future.

No Title

For devotees the swiftness of their personal growth and evolution is dependent on how frequently and intensely they open to the supramental power via the divine Mother.

No Title

Truly conscious individuals are constantly perceiving Synchronicities occurring around them; perhaps a dozen or more times a day.

No Title

Inspirational Slogans we share with others are most powerful when they come directly out of our own recent or otherwise memorable personal experience. Otherwise, they tend to be brittle, evanescent, easily lost by others in passing.

Reader: Evanescent?

Response: fleeting, temporary, momentary, transitory, not solid, easily lost. In other words, the shared item has no lasting effect on the reader because it is just a fleeting mental idea rather than a deeply lived experience.

No Title

I believe that the view of "the Reality" (as explained in Vedanta, Sri Aurobindo, et al) is the most profound conception of existence afforded to Man. And it is this that is the center of a true "Theory of Everything," that currently eludes science. If they were to truly perceive the Reality, which is the interrelated, integral All, they will have the right basis for understanding everything in their purview.

No Title

The more we are bothered by the service we are getting, the worse the service we will get. Detachment and non-reaction has the opposite effect.

No Title

The REALITY can be viewed as any one of these sums:

- The universe and the source of the universe
- The Being (source) and the Becoming (creation)
- The One (Divine) and the Many (forms and forces)
- All planes from matter to life to mind to spirit
- All forms and forces in and beyond creation
- The Absolute and the Relative
- The Involution and the Evolution
- The Creator and Creation
- The positive, negative, and in between
- Good and evil
- The large and the small
- The macro and the micro
- Every variation of personality
- All circumstance, events, unfoldings
- Space and time; Spacelessness and timelessness
- The objective and subjective
- The false and the true
- The ignorance and the knowledge
- Prakriti (Nature) and Purusha (Conscious Being)

In other words, the Reality = the ALL, the EVERYTHING, including their integral Connection and Oneness. All things are just different expressions of the Reality, the All.

This conception of existence can be the foundation of a so far elusive Theory of Everything. Sri Aurobindo provides that theory of everything, which is his theory of Creation - mainly the Involution from spirit to energy to matter and of Evolution from matter to life to mind to spirit.. Science is slowly and awkwardly moving forward toward what Sri Aurobindo has already posited.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo has given the Theory of Everything that has so far eluded science. It begins with an understanding of the nature of "the Reality."

No Title

"The events of our lives appear to lack coherence due to a limitation in our understanding. Those who perceive the true character of life realize that it has a complete connected significance."

(from the Book inside the novel 'The Book' by Garry Jacobs)

Our Illusory View of Reality

For our entire lives we have been looking in the mirror, thinking that is what we look like. But that is actually a reverse view, what is called a "mirror-image." That is an example of a physical distortion of reality. Then there is the psychological distortion, where we think we are a certain way, but others see us quite differently; in terms of our nature and character.

Then of course there is our entire conception of reality itself, which we think is one way, but is far different and more comprehensive than we think. We can only garner that view by developing a much deeper and higher consciousness. Our view of existence is therefore in many if not most ways illusory, while the true nature of the Reality in all its infinite facets is really real.

Eg Mr. Darcy in Pride and Prejudice has at the start a view of life that is of privilege, class, and sense of superiority. He is immersed in this life and existence. Then he meets Eliza, and discovers that love is a side of reality he never perceived before. It is a new dimension of existence.

Likewise the people around us have different views of reality that we do not have, and we are surprised when we learn a new aspect from one of them or from life. There are actually hundreds, thousands, infinite sides to existence, but we only perceive one, our own. It is as if we believe bread is the only food that exists, and continue to eat it, not knowing that there are infinite types of foods and tastes.

When we rise in consciousness, we experience more "tastes," progressively adopting additional perceptions of existence from among the infinite variations. When we reach the peak, it is called Universal Consciousness, as we perceive and embrace all aspects of being. Supermind is beyond that still. It sees the multiple even infinite sides and aspects of existence in integral unity. It is the very opposite of our extremely narrow, separative view of life, of our single side, therefore mostly illusory perception of existence.

Perceiving the True Nature of Reality

The human mind that we are born with has an extremely limited capacity to perceive the true nature of reality. Only when we move to intuition of knowledge without thought, to illuminations and lights of truth, to revelation and supramental perception -- spiritual formations of mentality -- do we develop the capacity to perceive the multi-faceted view of existence, the true nature of the Reality.

Through constant consecration, taking the other person's point of view, non-reaction, self-givingness, et al, we begin to develop an inner life, plus an opening into these higher spiritualized planes of mind, where we increasingly perceive newer facets of existence, including their integral relations.

Fulfilling the Human Aspiration

Sri Aurobindo in the first chapter of The Life Divine says that we are unable to fulfill the Human Aspiration for Light, Love, Joy, and Immortality because our nature is divided, which expresses through an inability to perceive the true nature of Reality. We don't know who we truly are, and what existence truly is. It is our Ignorance born of creation. If however, we develop a higher consciousness, we overcome that division, see existence for what it really is, in all its variety and integration and oneness, and are therefore able to fulfill our Human Aspiration for Light, Love, Joy, and Immortality.

No Title

When you are strong and do the right thing, taking the necessary action for that condition, completely different benefits will come to you that are perfectly in sync -- down to the minute -- with further positive developments on the original matter.

Example: A man had taken strong action behind the scenes in conversation with the owner to discuss the perpetual inaction of the hired property manager to deal with issues in the home complex. Several days later the owner of the property called to further discuss the issue, in which he agreed to take action as the man earlier suggested, and at that exact moment a significant check arrived in the mail that enabled the man to pay on a number of his pressing bills.

The man's strength of action in one area, not only helped solve the situation involving the property, but was synchronous with benefit in another area in the form of the payment. It was perfect synchronicity of life response down to the minute.

Embracing What Life Brings that Attracts the Miraculous

People like what they like, not necessarily what life presents them - positive, negative, and in-between. Conscious individuals see the necessity of all these things coming, and learn from it. They especially see how each negative is a reflection of something wanting inside, and therefore discover what that is and overcome it. Good or great fortune then follows. Also they seek to know what inside them attracted the positive, and they then make the effort to accentuate that quality, causing more positive to arrive, often miraculous-like from out of nowhere. Thus, everything that life brings becomes a learning experience for that individual and the basis of a higher existence. A life of wonder and joy follows.

No Title

From our viewpoint, only the Divine is divine. But from the Divine's perspective, everything is divine.

Perceiving That Opportunities Can Emerge from the Negative Causes It to Happen In Software Incident

If you have a very difficult problem and take the right attitude about it, not only will that problem get solved, but other legacy problems that have been there for a while will also miraculous-like self-correct.

The other day I needed to upgrade my Microsoft Office software application from the 2010 to the 2013 version. In the middle of the installation the system froze. I tried to reinstall, but to no avail. Though I was not pleased with the situation, I remained steady. I even suspected some additional good could come out of this problematic situation. I then contacted Microsoft technical support, and spoke with someone who was very pleasant and supportive, but after two hours of trying also could not resolve the problem. The case was then forwarded to a higher-level expert there.

On a second call the next day, the tech took over my machine remotely and continued to try to resolve the problem. At one point they asked if I had the computer tuned recently as I had a number of issues with it. I said I hadn't, though I had noted to myself that the system ran slow on occasion, and occasionally froze.

At one point I consecrated the problem and also did my best to forget the issue, putting the entire matter fully in the technician's and the Divine's hands. A little while later I saw that the system was beginning to install properly. When it completed, I thanked the technician and began to use the upgraded software. It turns out that not only was the upgrade now running very well, but I also noticed that the entire computer was also running faster! When I explored further I saw that many software add-ins acquired along the way had been removed, one of several reasons why the systems now ran so much better!

I was startled by this turn of events but somehow not surprised as I knew of the wonders of the spiritual Force, as well as the power of not reacting to a negative situation. Actually there was more in this case, as I had consciously thought about the fact that additional positive outcomes can come out of a negative situation beyond resolving the immediate problem, which is precisely what happened when in essence I practically acquired a brand new computer!

No Title

"The rival outwitting you announces that you need a better strategy, rather a positive one."
(Sri Karmayogi)

E.g. let's say a person who is negative in our relationship with them rises to the top, leaving you behind. That negative can serve as a positive spur to respond, not just with a better strategy, but with a more positive one. A more positive one is one enriched by an appropriate higher value, or a deeper spiritual method, -- such as harmony of being, re-commitment to the ideals of the organization, patience, cheerfulness, non-reaction, consecration, etc. -- which evoke a response that will take you beyond the other difficult person's status, depositing you at the highest levels of success.

No Title

On the surface the spiritual aspirant appears to be on the way to great achievement, but in the depth he is actually on the way to profound transformation

Reader: Mind is surface?

Response: The mind can be on the surface or in the depths. On the surface it has a superficial understanding of conditions; not penetrating into the truth of things. In the depths, the mind is aware of a deeper causality, purpose, meaning behind things. Through a rising consciousness, the deeper understanding comes.

No Title

Ordinarily, it's best to avoid direct confrontation when there are problematic issues. Better to work with back channels, and more measured, thoughtful approaches. Best if one can change the outer situation through inner means, -- such as greater psychological strength, non-anger, non-reaction, seeing negative correspondence to one's self etc.; whatever life is requiring of you -- if you are capable of doing so. The outer, life response results will prove which is the best strategy in your situation.

No Title

The mind can be on the surface or in the depths. On the surface it has a superficial understanding of conditions; not penetrating into the truth of things. In the depths, the mind is aware of a deeper causality, purpose, meaning behind things. Through a rising consciousness, the deeper understanding comes.

No Title

Capacity for expectation will cease if the capacity for initiative ceases. (Karmayogi)

There are those who constantly have expectation about the outcome of the matter they are engaged in - whether a work, romance, venture, project, meeting, act, etc. They cannot control their urge, as they get ahead of themselves; and worse still, their expectation delays or cancels the potential outcome.

We can overcome this urge through self-control, but that is not so easy when one has lived like this all one's life. Here Appa offers a way out by asking us to practice non-initiative. I.e. wait on life to come to you, instead of initiating on your own. If you are able to do that, then expectation and its various symptoms (including impatience, verbalizing the outcome too soon, asserting that it will happen, etc.), as well as the negative life response that normally follows will naturally fall by the wayside.

Reader: Question: If we are involved in sales, how does waiting for life come to us work? In terms of outreach, etc. Or is this the genius of inbound marketing?

Response: In a practical sense waiting on life's initiative is not normally for sales because that is the job itself - to be self-starting and get customers. Likewise, garbage collectors don't wait for a request to collect; it is their job to collect, just like sales to sell.

However, even in sales we can learn to attract the market from within. We can eg intensely focus our goal, offer it to the higher power, forget it and see if that attracts a life response result.

In many companies over the years we have advocated that they increase their level of cleanliness and orderliness internally to attract the market, i.e. evoke customers. It works almost unfailingly!

There are other means as well. It is a shift from outer initiative to its inner form. Any organization is fully capable of doing things internally that can bring the market to them, without spending a dime, on say advertising.

In sales for the entrepreneur she can discover all those things inwardly that have the power to bring her top, breakthrough clients and customers. Eg a single change in a negative attitude - toward others, work, or life - can have that effect. Developing inner strength, inner commitment to high values, focus, faith, etc. can do the same.

Thus inner strategies can to be devised for each entrepreneur or each company that can evoke a response, which returns to us as Life's initiative and opportunity that we can respond to.

Additional:

We often advocate that the company seriously examine the changes in society and try to catch that wave by targeting new services to meet it. If we took a deep Interest in discovering that and focusing it as a goal and consecrating it, we can attract perfectly appropriate customers in that area. It is a profound concentration on the Idea that can bring the world to us.

Man's Inner Effort Enables New Regulations to Spread to the Collective

We know that when there is a big problem and we give it due diligence while consecrating the matter, Mother will act and help us resolve it. In many cases, not only will that happen, but the result can spread to the collective, having that same effect on a number of people around us; even to the entire community.

A tenant noticed that his living complex had become filthy and overgrown due to the inattention of the manager of the property. However, rather than confront him, he narrated the information to the owner, and even picked up a bit of the litter as a token gesture. Several days later, it was clear the manager got the word, and people were brought in to help clean up the mess. The tenant was pleased with this outcome ... but there was more.

The very next day he opened the major newspaper for the region and saw a headline that indicated that the city the man lived in (Long Beach, California) had finally decided to consider instituting regulations for upkeep of all rental apartments by their owners, -- including electrical, plumbing, heat, trash, general upkeep, etc., -- something this city alone had been lax to do and wholly negligent in. Now suddenly there was a public outcry and movement in the community to institute these fundamental regulations; something hardly ever mentioned before.

Because the tenant had consecrated the problem, did not react negatively to the difficult situation, made use of the right channels, and even made a token gesture to clean up the mess, the solution spread from his own small living enclave to the city of half a million!

Conscious-Force

At each point we become more conscious, we are simultaneously unleashing a bit of the absorbed, involved, hidden Conscious-Force within us. The Conscious-Force (chit) is the cosmic energy that has its origins in Supreme, and has become buried in life through the Involutionary (creation) process. At each point that seed unfolds, there is growth in consciousness; even evolution; for ourselves and the world.

Comment: The compulsion for the seed to come out is two-fold: through our higher consciousness, as well as from the influence of the supramental Force above. In essence, we re-embody in life the Conscious-Force of the Supreme, the Divine that is the origin of existence. The universe filled up with Conscious-Force is therefore the purpose of existence.

No Title The universe filled up with Conscious-Force is the ultimate purpose of existence.

Comment: Sri Aurobindo says it is in fact our, the universe's Destiny.

Reader: Our universe could also be a sub conscious to somewhere existence in a billions of galaxies!! (time 8.30 pm) thank you for a propelling thought.

Response: I believe knowledge of All aspects of the Reality, not just the material, are subconscious to us.

No Title

Contrary to many people's view of things, the Ideal can be looked upon as the ultimate Practical.

After all, what has had more practical effect than such Ideals as freedom, liberty, democracy, true individuality, entrepreneurial spirit, women's right, and dozens of others?

And what of the ideals today that seem to be only wishes and values that can become tomorrow's ultimate forms of the practical; such as Human Unity or Spiritual Realization and Transformation? Imagine their practical effect on the world.

No Title

Consciously restraining ourselves from taking a particular action can have an effect on others to come forward and take on that very same effort. And it can surprise you just how well they do it.

Comment: An individual had participated in a public forum on spirituality in life for a number of years. He often read what the leader posted and then occasionally would provide his own detailed comments on that subject matter.

One day the chief contributor posted a new essay, but this time the man consciously decided to hold back and not give his comments. A couple of days later he went back to the site revisiting that particular post and discovered that another very informed individual had given his own extensive comments on the same subject. In fact the way he arranged his comments were very similar to the way the man ordinarily did, plus his words were exceedingly insightful.

The man understood that by withholding his response, it attracted someone else to step forward and provide rich, penetrating insights that were equal to if not superior to his own.

No Title

Karmayogi asks us to have Patience as if we had all Eternity to bring about our aspiration, yet practice those inner behaviors that attract such results to us very rapidly. It is a wonderful challenge to develop this right relationship to Time and Accomplishment.

No Title

True measure of successful work in one's day is the degree to which we evoke positive response from life. No evocation is pretty much a wasted one.

No Title We humans are for the most part adept at getting at the physical/material root cause of problems; less so of the psychological and spiritual sources. This indicates the scope in front of us for creating a better world, including our growth in consciousness as a species.

No Title

Behind the physical/material cause is the psychological, and behind that is the evolutionary, with the Spirit (self within and transcendent beyond) being life's ultimate determinate.

Right Crossroad Decisions Attract

There are dozens of tiny crossroad decisions one negotiates in the course of the day. If in any given instance you take the positive path, as opposed to the negative, life will quickly respond in your favor.

For example, you are walking down an aisle in the store. There is a clerk loading goods who is in your path. You can decide to be irritated by that person or not. Better than that you can say "excuse me" with positive intent when you walk by. When you do so, you immediately discover that what you had hoped to be available is. In fact, it far exceeds your original expectation.

A day filled with right crossroad decisions will convince you of the power we have within us to make life respond on a continuous basis.

Restraint from Meeting with Friend Attracts Conference's Enormous Success

An associate of mine was about to participate in an important conference in a nearby city. Normally he travels throughout the world to give his presentation, but this time he happened to be participating in a gathering nearby.

I had not met with him in over a year and could have easily been overeager to see him. Though he emailed me and left his hotel information, I held back and practiced restraint, since there really was no other compelling reason for our getting together. In light of additional time constraints and other factors I thought this was the best approach. Plus I felt this could lead to positive consequences.

A week or so later my colleague informed me that the conference had gone exceedingly well; far beyond his expectations. He energetically told me that he had met a number of very interesting and influential people who were deeply sympathetic to his own aspirations in his field. He went on to tell me about other marvelous and most unexpected developments at the conference.

In retrospect I felt that my restraint helped evoke these wonderful results, reminding me once again of its extraordinary life response power.

No Title

You rise to the heights of your self-giving.

Self-giving raises one to its maximum. (Karmayogi)

Reader: Sir an example please

Response: The more you give to others, the more you get back; ie the more life returns the favor with good fortune.

Eg instead of merely servicing your customers, you think about what they really could benefit from. You then develop a strategy to make that happen, and then execute it. That evening after the first day of implementing your plan you unexpectedly receive a call from a new client that has the eventual effect of doubling your income.

Reader: Thank you Sir. But there is a saying don't help others unless they ask for it.

Response: That is also true in many instances. But only taking that approach with say our clients, can be ruinous; as others can swoop in with better, more active service. Going the extra mile is an example of this.

Self-givingness is a movement of the heart and soul, where one thinks of others before one's self; of benefit to others rather than benefit to one's self, though ironically it attracts great benefit to ourselves as well as well, as Karmayogi indicates, and which is my common experience.

Mostly we live in selfishness and ego; concerned about ourselves and our own issues alone. Just becoming aware of such negative propensities and overcoming them will increasingly move us toward self-giving behavior. In the meantime we have a lot of work to do; both on the negative and positive side!

No Title

In a conflictive situation with another if you withdraw your position or assertion or action, and accept the other person's point of view and then forget the matter without any emotional attachment, at some point soon thereafter the other person is bound come around to your point of view, even acting as you would have in the first place. It is the life response power of non-assertion, taking another's viewpoint, withdrawing attention, and silent will all wrapped up in one.

No Title

Education is rapidly making us more mental and psychological in nature, instead of merely physical and vital (which is where most people are centered). Education that offers deeper insights into the Character of Life and the nature of Reality can also make us spiritual in nature. That New Education and knowledge is just starting to arrive on society's shores.

No Title

The great tragedy of the modern era is that with the end of the Cold War the world has not taken advantage of that vast opening for positive change.

The Web of Life and Life Response

The Mother here describes the essential makeup of reality and the interconnectedness among things that enables the phenomenon of Life Response to take place:

""I have a curious impression of a kind of web -- a web with ... like very loose threads, I mean not tightly meshed, connecting all events, and if you have power over one of these webs, there's a whole field of circumstances that apparently have nothing to do with each other but which are linked together there in such a way that one necessarily implies the existence of the other ... And I have the impression it's something that envelops the earth.

And it's not mental. They are circumstances that depend on one another, in a completely invisible way outwardly, without any mental logic, and yet as though connected to one another.

If you are conscious, really conscious of that, that's how you can change circumstances."

No Title

We rarely consider that the past has determined our present, even as our present is determining our future. We are too caught up in our current moments to consider it.

No Title

Through consecration we can reverse the negative influences of the past on our present, as well as assure positive outcomes in our future.

No Title

Society's problems are rapidly accelerating, and yet there is no one in control. A degree of global governance - such as a World Parliament - can begin to solve the problems of society collectively.

Comment: -Individual nations cannot solve their problems because they are increasingly global in scope.

-A degree of World Governance is a critical stage that Sri Aurobindo advocated on the way to World Unity and a Divine Life on Earth.

-Global governance would have teeth to pass legislation for the world that is binding, like one would see in an individual country.

-it could tackle issues like mass poverty, disease, unemployment, stagnant wages, radical income disparity and distribution, nuclear proliferation, weapons proliferation and profiting, financial speculation, ecological disaster, global security, terrorism and fundamentalism, etc.

-Such Global governance would not mean the end of the identity of each nation. In fact, the first law of global governance would be the sovereignty, integrity, and true individuality of each nation.

-In toto that is expressed by the deep spiritual value "Unity in Diversity", extending India's motto to the world.

-That body can have as its fundamental value a Human-centered economics, not money-centered as it is now

-Money should serve humanity; not the other way around as it is now
-A Human-centered economics and world would be the New Paradigm of existence
-It is a progressive stage on the road to Human Unity, which itself can usher in an infinitely creative and dynamic spirit-based life on earth.
Reader: It may also be a nice step to bring success to the Truthful people, and to the people who want to lead a prosperity life, through spirituality, like Mother wanted in this world.

No Title

Money should serve humanity; not the other way around as it is now. The financial crisis that almost brought down the world economy is proof of concept. Moreover, it can repeat in future, though in different forms. When we develop a Human-centered economics instead of the current money-oriented one, such convulsions can be avoided. This is the New Paradigm of economic and social existence now offered to the world.

Reader: And heart centred!

Response: Yes. Heart centered is Human centered in its higher forms.

Human centered serves human needs - like right to a good job, health care, real opportunity in the society, environment of individuality, security from harm and a stable economic life, etc. etc. It is the human being at the center of life, which should come first, rather than money, power, materialism, etc.

Heart centered is a higher emotion, a spiritual quality that can foster human centered life, bring it to its full flowering. Heart centered is ultimately spiritual in nature as there is deep identity with others, feelings of compassion, self-givingness at all levels without expectation of anything in return; as well as humility and reduced ego, which are all spiritual values.

Human centered may very well begin as a shared mental value, an expression of a powerful idealism that can mature into its ultimate form through a heart-centered, self-giving, spirit-based environment.

No Title

The problems of the world are too great to be solved by any individual nation. Since they are global in scope, they need a global, collective response.

No Title

Inner stillness is the solid basis for attracting great success when engaging in outer action.

No Title

We live on the surface of life; not in our soul, our immortal being. Therefore we are unable to perceive the true nature of Reality.

No Title

All of our past is with us now, including all that has been learned from our past lives, which we take with us now for our further growth in the future.

Comment: When we connect with the depths, our true self and being, we come in touch with all the accumulated knowledge that our psychic entity has acquired through multiple births.

No Title

It is the aspiration of our Soul that is creating the circumstances of our lives.

Comment: The evolving soul (psychic being) has entered ourselves in this life/birth so it can continue its Journey to evolve; learning something uniquely new through our experiences. Thus this True Self within us is urging, compelling us to move in certain directions, meaning that it is a great determinate of our existence.

And yet that entire process is normally subconscious to us. However, when we discover our Deeper Center we more clearly perceive this cosmic dynamic. Now we have truly awoken to life.

No Title

Living on the surface we think we are determining our lives, but the real action is occurring in the depth of our being, in our evolving soul, which is truly influencing, even determining our existence.

Reader: If we carefully observe then we can also generalize the thought patterns, behaviour patterns of people and categorise them however people at individual level think that they are unique which is not true for most people.

I guess we are a part of a bigger movement just like small particles floating on tidal waves

Wow I am thrilled just after writing this I saw your post "we think we are a stream.....". Is thus what u mean by synchronicity??

Response: When we are in Ocean consciousness - as opposed to stream - we perceive an infinitely deeper and wider existence, which enables us to perceive subtle unfoldings including a continuous flow of life responses, synchronicities, parallelisms, etc. Our wider existence thus moves into identity with the infinite existence that is the Reality, which is Ocean consciousness.

No Title

Every person's ignorance, wrong attitudes, bad habits, misguided beliefs, etc. serve a purpose in the evolution; as it's a starting point and basis for us to go forward.

That way we can be more tolerant of others. Not so much to admire their ignorance and other negative qualities, but to realize it serves a purpose, is a condition and basis for their further growth.

No Title

We think we are the stream, but we are really the ocean.

No Title

When we are in Ocean consciousness - as opposed to stream - we perceive an infinitely deeper and wider existence, which enables us to perceive subtle unfoldings including a continuous flow of life responses, synchronicities, parallelisms, etc. Our wider existence thus moves into identity with the infinite existence that is the Reality - which is Ocean consciousness.

Reader: reading Life divine - consciousness,

No Title

Very often pending work instantaneously becomes booked work when previously booked work is undertaken; not a second before.

No Title

Irritation towards another's alleged misbehavior leaves one prone to absent-mindedness and therefore physical mistake.

No Title

Increasing awareness of negativity in one's thinking and feeling is a sign of a rising consciousness.

No Title

(a poem of mine from 2008)

Carrying Forth

We all live on the skin of the earth.
We all dream in the sky of mind.
Down the dark corridors, and up the white path,
We journey on roads to unknown places.
On the chapel hill, beside the broken urn,
In the hourglass of eternity, we slip through forests of dreams.
Incalculable unknowns, incandescent notions,
We carry forth the ideal of the past,
Discarding it at the foot of the Golden Hill.

Beyond Eye for an Eye to Global Collaboration

Is the world still in eye for an eye mode?

I believe that most of the democracies are not, which is over 90% of the nations. That tit for tat mode more or less ended after World War II.

The problem is that Middle Eastern and parts of North Africa have not evolve over the last 500 years, personified by their backwards ways and lack of democracy.

That multifaceted conflictive condition there can easily be resolved if the countries of the world work together to overcome it. The truth is that the powers that be have not taken advantage of the end of the Cold War which opened up a great window of opportunity. Instead nations drew inward and then became oblivious. The problem lies there amongst the great powers, as much as with backwardness in the Middle East and environs.

The world is rapidly moving towards higher harmony, but it is not readily seen on the surface. In part that is due to the fact that media only presents conflict, avoiding the facts. We now know that Violence is down 90% since World War II, 50% in the last 10 to 20 years, and continues to radically decelerate. Media only accentuates the negative, even as the negative is actually decreasing over time.

Other problems like unemployment, poverty, financial speculation, environmental degradation, nuclear and other weapons proliferation, etc. are still outstanding, pressing issues. And yet all can be successfully addressed through collaborative effort of the nations.

The Internet is sign of an evolving consciousness, which is accelerating behind-the-scenes, as we are becoming more mental beings. As we continue to educate ourselves and work collaboratively to solve global problems, progress will follow. The problem just now is that the problems are increasing, yet no one is in charge. A form of active world governance with teeth would help legislate change in the world. It's time to truly become a global society, one that deeply respects the individuality of each nation. Unity in Diversity can thereby become the global motto.

Comment: "What is the fate of these non-evolved religious nations?"

Prosperity that moves them away from fanaticism and towards rationality. Education is the topper. The nations of the world working collaboratively, devising plans for improvement can help create that prosperity.

No Title

People often think with their emotions, which invariably leads to faulty logic.

No Title

Each time you accept what you were reluctant to do, life will respond in your favor. And each time you "go to the well" and utilize that new thing again, it will continue to respond positively. In addition, if you harvest more of that thing - whether it be new types of people, resources, actions, etc., - it too will evoke that same powerful positive effect. It can be summed up as the life response power of embracing needed change, instead of thwarting or ignoring it.

No Title

Argumentativeness energizes opposition. Silence energizes agreement

No Title

Sri Aurobindo indicated that human unity and further on a divine life on earth are a fact and certainty that are bound to occur. It is the plan, purpose, and eventuality of evolution. It is then only a matter of time; of how quickly we embrace that outcome.

Even there the supramental Force can act ON ITS OWN and create those positive conditions without human collaboration. New developments can suddenly burst forward, as the hippies suddenly did in their time or the Renaissance in theirs. Internet is an example in ours. Another unexpected development power of Attraction interest; aka Life Response phenomenon awareness and experience. New, untold possibilities and realities will constantly reveal themselves, as we stand back in wonder.

Sri Aurobindo tells us not to listen too closely to the naysayers, the soothsayers, the doom and gloomers, even the blind optimists for "It is the Hour of the Unexpected."

No Title

"Offer the opportunity, patiently wait until it is asked for" seems to be the formula. (Sri Karmayogi)

Yes, when the opportunity comes offer it up to the Force, the Mother. Then patiently wait, rather than pursue, allowing the opportunity to materialize into something real that is requested of you. You will be informed of that reality, work, etc. at the appropriate time. This overall approach creates maximum results. Life response dynamic (sudden good fortune) will constantly be there.

No Title

That which bothers you now will bother you more in future as a result of your current bother.

No Title

Restraint from action that is also without expectation evokes supramental-like results.

Karmayogi's Comments on Affecting The Collective

In response to my efforts of consecration that evoked a response that helped end the energy crisis of over a decade ago in California (2001), Sri Karmayogi added these powerful insights at the time:

1) Mother's Consciousness is universal. Any act done in it spreads. That can be our understanding. Even to confirm that understanding one has to look at his life earlier.

-- As a thought, it becomes public opinion.

-- As an emotion, it stirs up the population.

-- As an action, Govts. act accordingly.

2) It is worth listing all such correspondences on the discussion forum as one man's action is really collective action avoiding personal reference.

3) In a country of general abundance, shortages quickly correct themselves. Good health fights diseases better. The whole pulls up the part as water level disturbed by depression at one point quickly restores itself

4) Bush is voted for. He represents wealth, not only that side of wealth that is abundance, but that which measures its own greatness by the distance between the poor and rich.

5) Fighting -- confrontation -- for rights raises the spirit of the cause

6) This is really not a shortage. It is a symptom of prosperity. Shortage arises from the confrontation between administration of several states, a problem of growth, not scarcity.

7) The dramatic response is:

- California's response to Mother.
- USA's response to social evolution.
- A response to the website of Roy evoked from life.
- a direct consequence of Roy's consecration.

8) It is an occasion to study the process of life responding:

- it responds to existing structures.
- it responds by modifying the existing structure
- it responds ONCE through an inconceivable circumstance created by Mother for this occasion (Supermind does not repeat).

9) In time, this Forum [Growth Online] can become a SITE available to all and serve as a centre to evoke the response of humanity to Sri Aurobindo and The Mother.

--brings the benefit, with hardly any effort on our part. (I.e. life cooperates fully.)

No Title

Unwillingness to make the required effort keeps the benefit away. Giving up the unwillingness and acting, quickly

Utility of Conflict For Progress

Conflict secretly serves to enable greater unity and levels of success that had never existed before. That transition can occur slowly through Nature's difficult path or more rapidly through growth of consciousness of one or more of the parties amidst that challenging situation.

Examples:

- Problem with Greece can secretly serve to strengthen and deepen the European Union.
- WWII served to accelerate new forms of unity among nations, democracy spreading around the world, and the end of colonialism.
- California Energy Crisis of 2001 led to greater awareness of and dramatic rise in alternate energy supplies.
- Darcy and Eliza's deep conflict in Pride and Prejudice enables their deepest fulfillment through love of one another.
- Financial crisis in America and world (Great Recession) can serve to usher in a new human-centered economics.
- In Garry Jacobs' novel 'The Book,' the trials and tribulations of the main characters leads them to enormous, unprecedented success.
- A man's conflict with his boss enables a middling sales rep to become the top performer amongst a large group of his peer sales professionals
- All of our own personal difficulties and conflicts can be seen in retrospect as key stepping stones to our greater successes and fulfillment.
- Etc.

Note: The conflicts, contradiction turn to unity, complementarity when there is a rise in consciousness of one sort or another among the parties brought to bear.

No Title

Negatives tend to vibrate forward in time producing new iterations of itself. And yet a higher consciousness can be brought to bear that cancels such repetitions, eliciting the light.

No Title

As life organises and spreads its mastery, it will do so in many concentric circles, particularly two – the inner one where there will be no flaw and the outer one where flaws exist but in diminishing fashion. (Sri Karmayogi)

Yes, the inner is the psychic being, the soul and spirit in Man, which is flawless. The outer is the material, the life we perceive and experience around us, which is filled with the positive and negative together; but through higher consciousness we bring to bear becomes increasingly more conscious over time.

New Global Values that Can Save the World

The fact that American society is polarized into two political camps and are fixed there indicates it has not yet found the higher harmony of the way forward. This is true of many other nations as well.

Each side has a part knowledge and a part ignorance that can be resolved with new ideas, new values that transcend both.

It also indicates that individual nations are not capable of solving their problems as they are really global in nature and therefore require global-oriented solutions. That would suggest global society needs to develop higher values that can serve as a basis for progress of the world.

It can begin building that New Paradigm of existence by entertaining the idea of a Human-centered economics and society instead of a money and power oriented one. It would be the beginning of the development of a marvelous new world; for each individual nation and society as a whole.

No Title

As the center of our consciousness shifts from the surface to the depths, the hidden Conscious-Force (Chit) of the Divine within us emerges on the surface.

No Title

Let's not be too eager to condemn others because from one perspective they are simply what they are, steeped in their own particular brand of ignorance (just as we are), which is in one sense their own current best.

No Title

Compassion is in one sense the capacity to accept the ignorance of others.

No Title

The intersection of the macro and micro is our own individual Soul. It is the cosmic Spirit embedded in us; a ray of the Divine at our center; the Psychic Being and evolving entity within.

From that profound inner consciousness, Life is experienced as a never-ending wonder. From that nexus of being we experience a myriad of spiritual qualities - including peace, truth, goodness, knowledge, joy, love, timelessness, and infinity.

No Title

We humans exist in infinite variation so that we can each have our own unique experiences of Spirit's infinite variety of expressions.

No Title

Human potential is infinite because we are in essence Divine, which Itself is infinite.

No Title

The goal of life is a progressive unfolding and an ever-increasing experience of Delight of existence

No Title

We experience the intermingling of Spirit's infinite variety of expressions as Human Values.

Contradictions Are Complements

The Life Divine is replete with principles. One of the central principles is that 'contradictions are complements.'

Our life is filled with contradictions, things opposing us, people disagreeing with us, our emotions coming into conflict with those around us. We want to go to a fine university, but our marks are too low. We want to marry our daughter well, but our social status prevents it. Constantly we are faced with contradictions. He says all of those contradictions in life can be seen from a higher point of view as complements to what we are, as opportunities to make us more than what we are today, as the exact conditions needed to help us discover and bring forth hidden potentials within ourselves.

In 1989 when I met Professor Amartya Sen, the Nobel laureate in economics, he was not a very famous man.

Today he is a world figure. Can we not become famous like that?

When Sri Aurobindo says that contradictions can become complements, he means that contradictions are really a SANCTION for accomplishment. Nobody has attempted more impossible things than the Divine. What, then, is impossible for us?

(from 'Lectures on Sri Aurobindo's 'The Life Divine' by Garry Jacobs)

Human Choice

It is said that the Divine has a cosmic purpose which governs the unfolding of universal acts through which He is experiencing the Delight of Evolving from the Involved.

The Divine Soul in us, the Psychic Being, also has a purpose. It has come in order to acquire certain experiences in the life of a particular birth, including our own.

When the above two align, both complement each other and evolve together and to a greater degree, bringing valuable benefit for both the individual and the universe.

Yet, the Divine has also given us the freedom to CHOOSE our own path, as every one of us is a part of Him. We may evolve several levels by aligning with the cosmic purpose, or may evolve at our own pace, or we may even deny the evolution on the surface, though it will still happen subconsciously. Human choice is the key to determine which path we will take. Wisdom and a rise in our consciousness will help us determine which path to take.

We see several examples of this in Jane Austin's 'Pride and Prejudice. We witness how Darcy aligned with the cosmic purpose by his inner change, utilizing the opportunity that presented itself during Lydia's elopement. It brought greater good for himself, as well as for the people he interacted with, while also achieving the cosmic purpose. His choice was in alignment with the cosmic purpose because his actions helped the upper and middle class come together in harmony instead of through violent revolution that was currently taking place in nearby France.

Second eldest sister Jane was neutral on the surface, but subconsciously aligned with the cosmic movement by practicing patience and calm during the period of Bingley's absence. In the end she received the benefit of the cosmic movement attracting Bingley to love and marriage without any initiative on her side.

Mrs. Bennet also aligned with the cosmic movement on the surface by having the intense aspiration for the marriage of her daughters. However, her every initiative spoiled and delayed the action of cosmic movement. As a result, she went a year of anxiety, remorse, and turmoil before she finally benefited by the cosmic movement through the marriage of her daughters.

Till the very end Lady Catherine resisted the cosmic movement and tried her best to prevent it from happening. As a result, it brought her defeat; and her evolution was thereby delayed or halted on the surface. However, her soul would grasp that experience as a valuable learning experience, and might use that in successive births for its evolution.

It is interesting to note that the Divine made use of those who resisted the cosmic movement, who would serve as instruments for the final outcome of the story, including of the marriage of the sisters and the rise of the Bennett family. E.g. towards the end of Pride and Prejudice, Darcy came to know that his love for Eliza had still a chance of succeeding only through the reactionary and arrogant Lady Catherine. (by S)

No Title

All morality, all social rules, the whole material organization of the world is based on division. And it seems more and more evident that that will be the FIRST thing – the first – which the higher being (which Sri Aurobindo called the “supramental being”), the first thing that being will want to abolish. (The Mother, Agenda volume 11)

No Title

It is much better to Become than to worship - whether deities, divine beings, even Mother. It's out of laziness to change that people worship others. (The Mother, paraphrase)

No Title

The body knows the positive or negative outcome of upcoming circumstance before the mind does, which has to wait. It indicates what is to come through well-being or ill health.

The more complicated a problem, the greater the urge and capacity of a technology to move forward.

No Title

We admire great physical feats we observe, but we ignore great mental feats and ideas that have ten times the effect on the world. It's because we are predominantly physical in nature, -- i.e. surface and sense-dominated, - plus vital; not truly mental and ideative.

Reader: That is why a sports person gets more footage on television than anybody else

Response: Yes, physical possessions, as well as a physical outlook on life.

Reader: We need to focus on the inner and the outer will change in line with our focus.

Response: Yes

No Title

Catch and consecrate any feelings of impatience or failure or despondency or others' alleged indifference. Life will quickly turn around in your favor.

No Title

If you follow the subtle signs life is presenting, you will always be taken to the right place.

Comment: i.e. with the best outcomes.

No Title

A negative situation seriously probed reveals additional negative conditions, which means greater opportunities for improvement. Thus, negatives are truly great positives in disguise when addressed in the right consciousness.

Complete Knowledge Now

In ordinary life to know something in full you can draw on your own limited knowledge, or ask others about it, or discover the information from other sources, etc. etc. With all that effort you might still only know a fraction of the truth of that issue or matter. In Supermind you know all of that matter, all you need to know in a flash without thought as it simply appears in your mind intact. It is A New Way of Living that Sri Aurobindo says awaits us; a leap beyond our current capacities to cognize the truth. Consecration of the matter or issue -

- opening to the divine Mother and Force -- makes that possible for us now in the interim.

No Title

Life does not ordinarily come to a person with a vast opportunity, which one takes up, after which we are quickly propelled to the heights. Rather it often comes in a modest way; through a relatively small opening that we may or may not appreciate; that we are secretly implored by life to respond to; and if we do, it can suddenly blossom into something enormous. The universe is thus testing our consciousness at the front door to see if we are a candidate to be taken to the stars.

Life is always, above all seeking to bring about our further growth of consciousness. To the degree we make the necessary change in our nature, we fulfill life's intent, and in that process move up to the next level.

No Title

US president Franklin Roosevelt was simultaneously idealistic, optimistic, practical, and strong, making for great character and leadership power that enabled the country to overcome the Great Depression and win the Second World War. How many of us can say we have all four of these qualities, let alone one?

No Title

To live in the moment yet still be conscious of the eternity of time is one expression of divine existence.

No Title

Supramental consciousness is to perceive any particular thing, idea, or activity in relationship to its wider existence; to its Source. It is analogous to perceiving the stream, not just in of itself, but in relationship to the infinite ocean of which it is a part.

No Title

It is ironic that Patience, which allows for the widest unfolding of time, elicits the shortest path to our goal.

Comment: I.e. life always responds quickly and positively to patience.

Reader: I can certainly testify to that!

Response: Impatience can be due to one's obsession with achieving one's goals. "Obsession" should be for positive consciousness we bring to bear each moment along the way. Or to put it another way, to live fully and positively in the present moment without negative interference is the True Goal. Hence the famous expression "the Journey is the reward." Everything then takes care of itself, including the original goal, which is royally fulfilled, or leads to something much greater.

Consciousness Responsibility

Taking responsibility for a problem we are directly related to instead of complaining about or blaming another person is always a helpful tact to take. And yet there is an even wider, more universal form of this approach. We call it "consciousness responsibility."

In this form we take full responsibility for conditions beyond our own selves to those of the group and wider collective -- such as the family, community or organization. When we take such responsibility, taking the appropriate inner or outer action to rectify the problem -
- such as intense aspiration for improvement or consecration, -- life quickly moves on behalf of all.

One example is a high level executive in a company who takes consciousness responsibility for a serious problem that crops up in the organization; including those outside of his level of authority. When he makes the right inner or outer effort - such as an aspiration to improve the situation or actively takes a physical action -- the problem is solved for all.

Consciousness responsibility can even go back in time, to problems from the distant past. When we take responsibility for solving a collective problem from long ago, we too will attract positive conditions, including the cancellation of the negative influences of the past on the present lives of the group.

Thus, consciousness responsibility enables us to become more universal in nature. We shift from our limited selves to a wider sphere of existence. As a result, we gain access to enormous inner power over the collective life.

No Title

Impatience can be due to one's obsession with achieving one's goals. "Obsession" should be for positive consciousness we bring to bear each moment along the way. Or to put it another way, to live fully and positively in the present moment without negative interference is the True Goal. Hence the famous expression "the Journey is the reward." Everything then takes care of itself, including the original goal, which is royally fulfilled, or leads to something even better.

No Title

Mother knows our past, present and future, and their integral relationship. Thus, She perceives exactly what is right for us and what we should do at any moment of time. On the other hand, we barely know our present, which means we have little insight on what to do next.

However, through consecration (opening to Her supramental Force) and the development of a deeper consciousness, culminating in our soul and psychic being, we can begin to develop our own mother consciousness, which will reveal the secrets of our past, present, and future, giving us an extreme capacity to do the right thing.

Technology is a means, not an end. We often get more excited about developments in that area than the Deep Values that drive life and have real sustaining power over human existence. To reach that point of understanding and realization requires us to make the evolutionary journey from the material to the Real and Ideal.

No Title

Not always, but very often true Love comes not when you're looking for it, but when you aren't.

Unintended Consequences of Ignorance and Hypocrisy

One principle of Life Response is that if you undertake an action with good intentions to solve a problem or improve a situation, but make things worse, it is an indication that you have that same or similar issue within yourself.

A good example of this has been US attempts to improve things in the Middle East and elsewhere, that too often ends in confusion, failure, and unintended negative consequences. The reason? The US has over 200 million guns in the people's possession. How can a country eradicate violence elsewhere, when at its very foundations is rooted in the instruments of violence?

Ignorance and Hypocrisy only attract the opposite of one's intent. It is a cruel lesson that every people must come to understand, as well as every individual.

Comment: We see instances where life responds negatively even when we have a positive intent. It is because, as the above post points out, our own consciousness is at odds with our intention.

(From another perspective, Nature compels us to act in error so we can become self-aware.)

No Title

The recent murders of the blacks in the church in South Carolina (which precipitated the post) is another reminder of how guns lurk behind the consciousness of America. Each time such tragedies happen, it reminds us of the vast problem USA has with guns, not to mention weapons proliferation.

No Title

One remark Garry Sir or one of his aids have said of late is how US can lead the world in nuclear weapons reduction, when it maintains a vast cache of gun supply in the country. Other nations subconsciously take note of the fact and therefore wish to have those horrific weapons as well, as they feel no moral compulsion from USA.

Thus we see how life response happens – positively or as in this case negatively – in response to our negative proclivities; and how it acts counter to our intention.

All of history can be explained this way, as also can be seen in literature and film, in companies, in families, in any collectives, as well as in our own individual lives.

No Title

When we have a number of pending activities to do, and we make a firm decision to do at least one, Universal force will provide us with the energy, power, positive atmosphere, wherewithal, etc. to do the other activities as well. Life starts moving on our behalf if we start doing at least one. (paraphrase of KL)

No Title

The world, society demands of us that we move faster and faster. How can we keep up? If we practice spiritual methods like consecration and overcoming negative attitudes, the future will move into the present, and we will accomplish a month's worth of work in a single day. That way we keep up with society's demand for quicker movement; even far exceed it!

No Title

Man wants to be successful somehow.

Instead, he can try to be HAPPY at all costs. (Karmayogi)

Comment: Happiness, Delight is the reason for the universe. It is the reason for Life, for our being here; to experience Ananda, Joy, Delight of being in all aspects of our lives.

We think happiness will come about by being successful. But success, though certainly a good thing, guarantees no happiness at all, or even fulfillment. It offers no guarantee of fulfilling Life's and the Divine's purpose, which is the experience of Joy, Delight of being.

And yet to achieve such ongoing happiness and Joy requires elevation of consciousness on our part. It requires us to change our wanting ways, which will shift us out of the Ignorance and into the light of Knowledge and Truth. That will enable us to perceive the world from the highest perspective, to see the Reality for what it is, which energizes us and gladdens our heart.

For devotees, opening to Mother on a regular basis creates constant Joy, especially when it leads to the development of an ever-deepening center of our being. Calling Her from there brings continuous experiences of Ananda, even Ecstasy, which no work, even a very successful one can match in intensity.

No Title

Problems ignored will compound.

Comment: Example: US never collectively addressed the problems of poverty, unemployment, stagnant wages, et all for the Lower Class. As a result, not only has it festered, but via the financial crisis (Great Recession), the problem has revealed itself to have spread to the Middle Class as well. Their wages have also stagnated over the course of the last 20 years with NO increase when taking inflation into consideration; an astonishing fact. Now the US Middle Class does not so much worry about rising to the Upper Classes in terms of wealth, but not falling into the bottom; a great reversal in attitude.

That is what happens when a problem is ignored. It festers and spreads. It is a negative life response to inaction; to lack of collaborative effort of the society to solve an egregious, festering problem.

Reader: in our regular life also, problem ignored will come back with more force

Response: Yes, it's true. There are so many examples. E.g.-

-In Pride and Prejudice Mr. Bennet over time ignores the rearing of his daughters and thereby invites the elopement scandal of his youngest daughter.

-In schools we allow bullying by students, which over time causes the bullied child to lash out and go on a violent rampage.

-We don't address the debts that pile up in our lives, until one day when income becomes scarce, our entire financial position collapses.

-We ignore the lies of our spouse, until one day it overflows when we discover that he has betrayed us.

-We allow our children to engage in the most egregious behavior, until one day a serious incident occurs at school that is embarrassing to all parties.

-We do not address our poor eating habits, lack of healthful exercise, which causes our physical condition to deteriorate over time until it becomes something serious.

These ignored, compounded problems are due to the inertia of the physical consciousness; or to fear, procrastination and other dark qualities in the vital; or to the foolish or stupid ignorance of the mind.

No Title

How the US and the West in part responsible for WWII and the Cold War:

-Financiers in America speculated wildly, which led to stock market crash, the onset of the Great Depression, the destabilization of the world economy including the democratic German Weimer Republic, which caused Hitler to come to power. In other words, US financiers' greed evoked the evil.

-The West interfered, meddled in the Russian Revolution, causing the authoritarian wing of the Soviet to take over, reinforced by the rise of Stalin, and the great economic, social, and nuclear divide of the Cold War.

It demonstrates a cardinal rule of Sri Aurobindo: that good comes out of evil; and that evil can come out of good as we see in these two historical cases.

No Title

Man wants boons, blessings from his God or deity, but does not want to change his own nature. It can this be thought of as selfish Spirituality.

Comment: Even when opening to Mother, Her Force comes to us to the degree we are receptive. Receptivity is enhanced through growth of consciousness. Thus, boons, benefits coming to us from Her are inextricably tied to our level of inner development.

The seemingly intractable problems of the world are not that of scarcity, but of right association and distribution, which can come about through the value of Harmony. E.g. there are an estimated $250 trillion in liquid financial assets in the world; yet they are in the hands of a relative few. Let us recall that Sri Aurobindo said that all problem in life are problems of harmony. Reaching beyond the bounds of our own self-interest to that of Other engenders Harmony, and hence can be the basis for solving any social problem on earth.

No Title

Every day you will see several indications of inner-outer correspondence dynamic in your life, whether positive or negative, if you just take a moment to examine the circumstances. If you perceive and learn from those experiences, -- i.e. identify what is negative inside you that precipitated its outer manifestation and change it; and discover what in you is positive that attracted its outer realization, and enhance it -- you are all but guaranteed a successful and happy life.

No Title

Putin and his somewhat authoritarian, even brutish regime is a product of the West's callous humiliation of Russia after the end of the Cold War. In its wake, the Russian people have looked to him to restore the nation's self-confidence and psychological strength. It may seem foolish and very troubling to outsiders, but there is logic to his ascent.

Comment: Russia and US can come together to help solve the problems of the world. This was the point of the end of the Cold War, not just the West's "victory."

No Title

For those with a developed consciousness, Mental initiatives can block Life, the Force from acting and presenting new opportunities.

Reader: Example?

Response: A man was well developed in mental knowledge about Life, Spirit, etc. though his paying workload was slow. He was told by his spiritual teacher that Life will begin to move for him when he stops taking mental initiatives -- like reorganizing his essays into a book that is just for other's knowledge without compensation; developing a vast, multi-level presentation for a 5-day seminar though no one had asked for it, nor did he have any contract for it., and others.

He noticed that during the time he absorbed himself in these unsolicited mental projects that had no guarantee of pay, his paying work dwindled. Now with his income so low and no major work in site, he decided to take up his teacher's advice and ceased all major non-paying mental projects, whether ongoing or any new ones that came his way. He wanted to earn through work, which was needed.

Within one day of taking this tact, he received an unsolicited call from out of nowhere for a substantial paying project. Feeling a bit secure now, he started up with his non-paying mental work again. However, after quickly getting headaches, he saw the light and said "no more" to himself. This time he seriously recommitted to paying work; now and forever.

The next day another substantial unsolicited paying project came in, again coming from out of nowhere. Both were the type of higher paying projects he hadn't had in a year or two, but that he so much needed. Now he knew the process to attract the paying work that he so much desired.

Further comment: Generally speaking life responds with work and money to willfulness, intention, decision, urge; as opposed to ideas. Ideas can be behind the intention, but it is that inner want, willfulness, decision and commitment that attracts.

Another way of putting it is that the response is equal to the plane from which it was originated. So mental thought attracts more knowledge or thought, which is at the mental plane; whereas intention, desire, want, urge, decision, commitment are of the vital plane of our being, which attracts corresponding results at the vital plane, which are life movements like work engagement, money exchange, interchange in relationships with others, etc. Giving up mental initiatives opens the door to such vital Life movements.

Generally speaking, for most people, an Idea given by another does not truly become real until one has had the experience of it.

Comment: (Through experience the Idea shifts in the descent from the mental to the vital plane; i.e. from thought to emotionalized concept. It becomes fully real, when it descends further and penetrates the physical consciousness where that idea is spontaneously experienced; i.e. it becomes second nature.)

No Title

To fully accept each person for what they are is one definition of compassion.

No Title

Interference in a matter often leads to error of fact or similar. Best to restrain one's self as much, as long as possible, if not completely.

No Title

Add expression of a negative attitude to an already low energy condition, and the response from life will expand negatively in many directions.

No Title

What is scarce is not water, money or protection from pollution, but awareness and attention, in short, consciousness. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

What the mind sees is true, even if it is partial. When it begins to insist on that as the only truth and goes on denying what others have seen, it becomes false. (Sri Karmayogi)

Comment: Yes, the limited perception of the truth is Ignorance of the Mind. When there is insistence on that partial truth, it further degrades into the Falsehood of the Vital. When one forces others to believe in that falsehood it becomes Evil of the Physical.

Ignorance (Mental) > Falsehood (Vital) > Evil (Physical)

No Title

Needlessly reminiscing about a past negative - whether failure, foolish action, etc. - can quickly re-evoke it or something similar. Therefore, avoid such discussion unless absolutely necessary.

No Title

The full truth revealed humbles one who only perceived a part.

No Title

An aspiration held and felt deeply within can attract success ten times faster and to a greater degree than mere outer action. This is especially true if that aspirational intensity is also consecrated; i.e. offered to the spiritual Force. In that condition, the Life Response power is enormous.

No Title

Our surface or emotionalized mind tends to reject things that are New, as the reactive part of our nature is normally in ascendance. And yet when given time to settle in, when there is wherewithal to reason, contemplate, and learn other aspects of that matter, the more rational part of our mind takes over and is more likely to now embrace that New.

On the other hand, a spiritualized mind - i.e. one steeped in silence and intuitively open; which reflects a deeper consciousness - normally accepts the New without hesitation or reservation. As a result, it gains tremendous advantage for right functioning and for being highly successful in the world.

No Title

The spiritual approach to time and success is to have endless patience, as if one had all eternity for things to arrive, while inwardly evoking response that rapidly brings the future into the present.

No Title

Each time you detect you are being impatient, it's best to stop it in its tracks, and then consecrate it so it won't occur in future.

No Title

South India rarely has temperatures below 60° F, day or night, yet Mother said in Agenda that one day it would snow in Auroville; i.e. there would be temperatures under 32° F. In other words the perpetual heat there would be brought under control. Could this be Her interpretation of what we now call "global warming?" Or is it simply the fact that in the future She will exercise or perhaps delegate to us a Power over Mother Nature?

Physical, Vital, Mental, Spiritual Planes of Our Lives

There are various planes of being. They range and ascend from the physical plane to the vital to the mental to the spiritual. Among these there are further subdivisions in an ascending scale, as well as from the outer to the inner.

- The athlete functions and is centered at the physical plane.
- The Politician evokes interest and the sympathy of his followers at the vinyl/emotional plane.
- The thinker organizes and clarifies ideas at the metal plane.
- The sadhak and seer evokes peace, harmony, truth, wisdom, goodness, joy, love, timelessness, and infinity at the spiritual plane.

We exist at all of these to a greater or lesser degree. Evolution is to move upward and inward among these planes.

Society, even Life itself exists all of these planes, and is also progressing, evolving slowly among them over time.

Humanity is now especially evolving at the mental plane, which is in fact accelerating in recent decades.

No Title

In addition to the challenges of work, spousal relationship offers the widest scope for personal growth. Every complaint, blame, reaction, ego movement, inflexibility, insensitivity, et al can be turned into its opposite, enabling vast growth in consciousness.

No Title

What we seek is Karma while GRACE is after us with an evolutionary vengeance. (Sri Karmayogi)

Comment: We are here to grow in consciousness beyond our current limitations. That is the opportunity we are afforded for our evolution.

Knowing the status and aspiration of our souls to grow further, Grace comes intensely to us through It's initiatives. Therefore we should be vigilant and open to those initiatives when they arrive.

It is the direct means of our deepest progress; as opposed to a mere drive to accomplish, to be successful, which alone only builds up new karmas.

No Title

In an atmosphere of humility and eager interest in others, unexpected positive conditions, solutions, and opportunities present themselves.

No Title One quality of a rational and hence successful organization is the capacity to quickly reverse course when it has made a mistake. Holding onto, maintaining that error normally brings stagnation and can lead to disaster.

Comment: One championship professional sports club was continually reluctant to make a change when things were going bad. But invariably as things got worse, they learned the lesson, saw the light, identified the mistaken area, and made the necessary change. Each time, that very thing would be the method that propelled them to three world championships. We see the opposite for teams, organizations, even individuals (!) who hold onto their mistake, whether out of ignorance of it or simply reluctance to change.

No Title

It's never too late to reverse a mistake, especially when it is shifted in consciousness. Even when the period has passed and the damage has been done, a movement of contrite recognition of the past error can elicit unexpected positive conditions in the present.

No Title

Outer expressions of psychological strength is not inherently egoistic if it's required by the conditions of life.

Reader: Can you please explain more Roy Sir?

Response: There are times when you may have to stand up to other people or conditions and assert yourself when they are causing you or others harm. (It may have even been created through your own weakness.) This is not really an egotistic movement, but something that is necessary for your sake in your life. On the other hand, Egoism is where e.g. you have disdain for another's opinion, action, station in life, etc. and only care about your own interests. One is a movement of psychological strength; the other is the separative consciousness of ego.

(It is also true that we can instead effect such outer change through inner movements of right, higher consciousness.).

Reader: Thank you Roy Sir. This is an interesting way to perceive things. I have always thought that this type of assertion is also a form of ego

Response: If you are required by life to assert your position, it can still be done with humility. Eg if a woman is constantly humiliated by her boss, she can shed her weakness and take it up with higher ups. Just the decision can attract positive results, such as an unknown person suddenly acting on your behalf, causing higher management to discipline the manager. Inner intention that shifts from weakness to strength can attract such a life response effect. If humility, patience, no ill-will, etc. is added to the dynamic, it will have even greater life response effect.

(Of course if one knows why one attracts an abusive boss, spouse, etc. and changes the corresponding limiting quality inside, it can also have a great Life response effect. Consecrating the problem will also help immensely.

As we see there can be various approaches to resolve such problems.)

Reader: Thank you for the further explanation Roy Sir.

No Title

Running away from a problem only brings it back in new forms.

Comment: ... sometimes more fiercely in each iteration.

No Title

A persistent, general connecting to Mother for no particular benefit, with the gentle self-offering to Her of "Thy Will be Done" is the essence of spiritual Surrender. For devotees there is perhaps no greater inner experience.

No Title

Though problems are accelerating in the world, so are solutions, as we are increasingly able to tap into the infinite, spiritual dimension of our minds - including light, intuition, revelation, and supramentalization.

No Title

The knowledge of what we could have done in the past is powerful enough to overcome Time. One who has that knowledge today, if he can do now what he had missed earlier will see all the results he had missed coming to him cumulatively. It is the infinity of Simultaneous Time. (Sri Karmayogi)

Comment: Simultaneous time is the experience of the past, present, and future as one seamless and undivided arc of time in the ever-present, the Now. (Mind on the other hand has a divided view of time.) That is why a heightened consciousness today can have the effect of undoing the negative influences of the past on the present. Life responds to our influences in the simultaneousness of time.

Sri Aurobindo says that when we are centered in the psychic being (soul) we continually have the consciousness of simultaneous time, with all that implies.

No Title

We can perceive illness as Grace when we recognize its latent power to compel us to raise our consciousness and move our lives forward.

No Title

Sincerely take an interest in another and their interests, and they will openly respond to you.

The Humiliation of Henry Ford

The great, enormously successful car builder Henry Ford was in the latter part of his career brought to trial by a Chicago newspaper who claimed that he was an ignorant individual, an anarchist, a fraud, and therefore completely undeserving of the universal adulation heaped upon him.

When he was asked while on the stand a series of questions about history, world events, and other matters, he failed miserably in his responses, thereby becoming the butt of jokes around the world. Eg he actually thought the American Revolution took place in 1814 instead of 1776. Many other commonly known facts he was also unable to account for. Now rather than being considered a genius of the age of mass production in America, he was looked upon by many as an ignorant farmer who reached the pinnacles of success through luck and manipulation of the public.

How could this great man ever have been put in this situation? The answer is quite simple when you consider what he had done before that ordeal. It turns out that he had often had fits of pride and ego, to the detriment of many around him, especially his son Edsel. His ego had become legend among those near him and because of that life responded negatively in kind through a famous trial in which he was utterly humiliated. It was Nature's way of restoring the balance of forces that had moved out of equilibrium through his frequent egotistical attitude born of his vast success.

Reader: Thnx sirsuch example really help us correct ourselves!!

Response: Yes, it's true. Henry Ford had the chance to correct his ego, but each time confronted by the challenges of life that asked him to change, he became even more petulant and egotistic. Until he almost ruined his company. Luckily his progeny guided it back to success.

Likewise, we can see what Life is asking of us, and in what ways we resist. Also we can see where any negative that comes to us is a product of our foolish attitudes of the past and present. We can correct it by acknowledging, feeling contrite for our mis-deeds, wrong attitudes, etc., and offer it to the spiritual Force, the Mother which will create positive new conditions in that or related inner and outer areas of our lives.

No Title

There are times when you just have to let go, and let Life take you where it wants. You'll then find yourself just where you should be!

Reader: Excellent and Timing message for us...Thank you very much.

No Title

The ultimate source of most illnesses are psychological – mainly attitudinal – not physical.

No Title

The more you broadcast, the more you dilute. The more you withhold, the more you concentrate. The former affects others superficially; the latter more deeply.

No Title

Smugness attracts the reverse of one's belief.

No Title

A product of impatience is looking foolish to others in hindsight.

No Title

Taking the other person's point of view leads one from the part to the Whole

Reader: Depends sometimes though.

Response: Mary, please let me try to explain this concept.

We have seen that a willingness to take another person's point of view – whether they are right or wrong or somewhere in between – not only has a great power to open and broaden the mind, but also bring about good fortune.

Mind is almost always exclusive, focusing on what it knows, limited to one trend if thought, and can therefore be considered a "part." When the mind is open to another's viewpoint, no matter what the level of truth contained therein, it stretches to embrace a wider reality, greater possibilities. Through this dynamic we move from away from the part and move to the "whole;" i.e. the integral, multi-faceted truth of things. We move from the limited stream of our own understanding to the wider ocean of integral truth and possibility.

In addition, over the years we have seen an astonishing phenomena related to this principle. It is that when you embraces another's viewpoint beyond one's own, no matter what it is, sudden good fortune comes to us. It often takes shape where suddenly and astonishingly the other person comes around to our own original view on the matter! We have seen many cases of this dynamic over the years.

It's a little hard to explain, but a number of our friends and associates have experienced this "life response" dynamic. I've written about it various occasions here in this forum, as well as other places, which are often accompanied by true life examples that illustrate the phenomenon.

To experience it once is to be astonished at how life secretly works; confounding our normal views of cause and effect, and space and time.

It turns out that taking the other persons point of view is but one of several powerful methods of attracting sudden good fortune, while elevating one's consciousness in the process.

Reader: I understand! All good!

Thomas Edison and Steve Jobs

While watching the recent PBS documentary on the life of Thomas Edison I was struck by how many qualities he and Steve Jobs had in common.

They were similar in –

- gathering disparate technologies into new ones
- being in touch with the needs of society
- being fiercely independent
- being a self-starter in the extreme
- being curious to no end
- always pushing the envelope of innovation
- never being fazed by failure
- being very competitive
- not being in it for the money
- being a tremendous self-promoter for the organization
- creating whole new industries
- revolutionizing their worlds

Jobs struck me as being a bit more worldly; in touch with his generation and the issues and values that were circulating (hippy, boomer, et al). More of a Renaissance man in that way. Edison was more of an engineer, a tinkerer working at his craft, at the edge of hard science.

No Title

We quickly judge something to be the case, only to soon discover that it is completely the opposite!

Reader: Happens often

Response: Yes it does happen VERY often. Such false snap judgements often issue from living in the surface consciousness, especially the visual sense. It is avoided when we develop a deeper center of being, where we more likely to think things through, rather than simply react to inputs.

No Title

Limits are secretly potentials in waiting.

Reader: Sir, do you mean that we are only putting limits. But still, potentials are waiting to come out of our limits?

Response: Yes, exactly.

No Title

We in the West perceive the coiled snake as a symbol of Evil. However, Sri Aurobindo indicated it is a symbol of our Evolutionary potential.

No Title

The deeper you go, the wider the possibilities.

When in a crossroads situation you sincerely convey that you are interested in engaging in the other person's needs over your own, soon after yours will be fulfilled.

No Title

Excitedly anticipating and communicating (especially verbalizing) to others the possibility of a good thing coming quickly dissipates it.

No Title

It's difficult for us to hold onto the energy that comes with a newfound success. The first thing we tend to do is squander it by over celebrating or speaking too much about the matter, etc.;

in effect preventing the buildup of the necessary energy for a next, even greater round of success.

No Title

In the left vs. right, liberal vs. conservative philosophies, the best of each will be carried forward in human development, and the worst of each left behind. Thus a more integral view will emerge over time that transcends both.

No Title

It's best not to be overly concerned about the future, instead focusing on the now. By perfecting what is happening in the present, your successful future is all but guaranteed.

No Title

Each time it occurs make the effort to truly appreciate the small thing that someone has done for you.

No Title

How can America lead the way towards non-proliferation when it harbors 200 million guns among the populace? There is a lack of moral center for such outer efforts to take hold. Life cannot respond positively to inner hypocrisy. Arms reduction can however come from a collective of nations with that common purpose.

No Title

The reason why the universe is eternal is that it does not live for itself; it gives life to others as it transforms. (Lao Tzu)

No Title

Truth alone can give to the world the power of receiving and manifesting the Divine's Love. (The Mother, from Agenda)

Comment: Mother often used to say "Truth first, then Love." Without a foundation of right knowledge, understanding, spiritual wisdom, high consciousness, we would be crushed if Divine Love were to descend into our being. But if we are receptive in the right way, not dominated by our vital nature as people normally are, pure, still, embracing the truths of existence, the descending Divine Love would be experienced in all its glory.

Stages of the Bull

Years ago as a young man while loosely practicing Zen and similar, I recall reading a version of "The Ten Bulls" story. Remembering it now, I offer here my own personal, abbreviated version:

In the first stage of the bull you see the animal in the far distance. This represents the first distant glimpse of the Spirit. Yet your life remains pretty much the same.

In the second stage of the bull you approach it gingerly. This represents your emerging interest in trying to connect with Spirit.

In the third stage of the bull you grasp it and then mount it. This represents your decision and commitment to utilizing Spirit in your life.

In the fourth stage of the bull you have tamed it and are possessed by it. Now you have manifested the Spirit in all aspects of your life and it is your one and only beloved Guide.

No Title

Mother in Agenda says her center of consciousness was not only inside her, but extended outside too, beyond her bounds, perhaps even everywhere. There was thus no longer the sense of I or me, as her center of being was whichever way she turned, focused herself. She had an essence realized a kind of Universal consciousness, with Supramental the next vista to realize.

The Mother and Sri Aurobindo

"If Sri Aurobindo is an ocean of peace, Mother is an eternal spring of sweetness. But She loves to call Herself a Force in action endeavoring to evolve the next species.

Sri Aurobindo succeeded in bringing the Supramental golden light into his very physical body in 1950. All his life he was working for this Force to come down on earth to abolish suffering and death and evolve the first member of the next species.

Mother offers to all those who sincerely aspire a touch of this Force if they come forward to give an opening to the Divine Touch.

She assures us of the Presence of the Force that descended in 1956 and invites us to take a leap forward in the evolutionary march.

To know the Mother is to know the Divine; to let Her Force work in you is to evolve. Her sweetness, which is the sweetness of the psychic, invades our nerves when we call Her into our being."

(from the Spirituality in Life page of Mother's Service Society website)

No Title

It is the experience of sadhaks and devotees that whatever they do consciously or unconsciously, it spreads all over the world after a fashion, maybe after the fashion of their own personality. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

A devotee working for his organisation to make it prosperous by ways of Truth will be a channel for the Force to descend on his country as Prosperity. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

Anger and resentment often issue from disappointment. It is a point where the ego has been pierced.

On Possessiveness

An important condition for living a spirit-oriented life is not being possessive, whether-

- of spouse
- of children
- of property
- of possessions
- of money
- of power

- of authority
- of affiliation
- etc

Possessiveness is not the same as being involved and diligently taking care of things. The former is an expression of ego, while the latter is an application of human values.

No Title

Things are changing rapidly, on many fronts, and it is important not to cling to our old pre-conceptions of how things are, nor what they will become.

Opposition to a New Power in Society

When a power is born in the society, the previously established powers fully appropriate [usurp] it. Money, education, trade, communication, banking, transport are such social powers which are appropriated by the society for its own purposes of survival and growth. Anything new has to meet the entire opposition of those powers. (Karmayogi)

Comment: Eg when Steve Jobs presented an easy to use, user friendly, graphic interface-based computer, the powers that be at Apple tried to destroy his efforts in the name of preserving the status quo at the company (the non-user friendly older Apple II, which was generating the bulk of the company's money).

Ironically they would oust Jobs from the company, after which the Mac became the overwhelming main source of their income!

There are endless such instances of such opposition to a new power of society in history, not to mention current events, and in the lives of those around us.

Behavior toward the Opposing Individual

Everyone will have a [traitorous, deceiving, harmful, hateful individual in some form, whether] in a partner, a brother, a wife, a friend, etc. There lies the key to man's existence in consciousness. A man can be precisely evaluated for his accomplishment in his behaviour towards that person. (Karmayogi)

Comment: If we recognize the opposition (who it is, what is the source) and have the calm inner strength to do the right things in consciousness, then we will be unaffected by the opposition; even gain from it, projecting one's self or group upward as a result. Examining one's corresponding attitude, practicing non-reaction, and consecrating the entire matter can be very useful in such situations. Also having the integral knowledge, and seeing the entire puzzle will give one the knowledge for right action in light of others' opposition. On the other hand, all negative reactions will deepen the opposition, forcing the solution to be more complex.

Three Banes of Human Nature

Love of a gravedigger [someone who is your undoing] is the outstanding virtue of falsehood. A far greater misfortune is the human capacity to avoid the source of luck, as its appearance is unacceptable or unintelligible. Love of a gravedigger and the conscious avoidance of a bringer of luck remains the bane of human nature.

Worse than that is the capacity to happily repeat previous errors. The architect of Ignorance prides in his loyalty to the past inherited ways. It is physical mind enjoying its ideals of tradition. (Karmayogi)

No Title

In the absence of the rule of Truth, STRENGTH rules. (Karmayogi)

Comment: That is why negative people can prevail in life situations. It is because there is no truth, no rightness, no higher consciousness and vibrations in the community, and therefore the robber, the thief, the deceitful, the bullying, and the powerful can prevail.

We can see this in an Indian village where there is no real truth settled among the people; there is lack of organization, ignorance of the facts, etc. and therefore thugs and other mafioso-like powers can rule the streets. People think the problem is the outer negative, these harmful individuals, when it is actually the limited organization of the consciousness of the villagers that creates the condition. The strength of the brutes prevail in the absence of surrounding Truth amongst the people.

On the other hand, when there is high consciousness among the people, then Truth prevails. The best values rise to the top and spread their influence in the community. Strength that is good then will serve that truth, while negative strength falls by the wayside.

Truth First, then Love

The wisest of the wise say that we must first grow in consciousness, and then compassion and love will follow. If you start with the latter two, they tend to soon peter out or be only of the surface. There is lacking inner consciousness to sustain them. Also the love can go out for the wrong purpose, to the wrong people, etc.

That's why Sri Aurobindo said Truth first (ie higher consciousness, awareness, inner power, mastery over life, feelings of harmony, etc.), then Love. Then the latter when expressed will be deep. In other words, work on yourself before concerning yourself about the ultimately profound vibration of Love. In the interim we can shift from our normal state of ego and selfishness to concern for others, to expressions goodness and self-givingness. Love will then naturally flow. Love in fact is their natural product.

Comment: PS In the unfolding of the spiritual values, what Sri Aurobindo calls "real Ideas," Goodness emerges from out of Truth. And Love from out of Goodness (and those divine Aspects before it).

The basic order is Peace, Harmony, Truth, Goodness, Love, Beauty, Delight, Timelessness, and Infinity.

So we can first move to inner Peace quietude so we become silent witness to the world; come to know the deepest Truths of life as light entering the mind; express Goodness as expression of the right, truthful thing to do; feel the Love that emanates in the exchange with others and life; perceive the Beauty in everything; and Delight in the expression. The result will be instantaneous miraculousness (Infinite-like results coming in no time, instantly).

Nature Works on Many Levels Simultaneously (as in Greek Crisis)

Along the way we have come to learn of Sri Aurobindo's profound principle that Nature works on many fronts simultaneously. I.e. around one grouping of events, various nations, entities, collectives, individuals, etc. in their interrelatedness run into serious situations and are compelled to change at the same time; each for a very different reason. It is Nature's great multi-pronged Efficiency in space and time to bring about further progress in the world.

We can see the phenomenon in virtually any aspect of life. Take the current Greek economic crisis. We see blame with the Greeks e.g. for not collecting their taxes, of having a lax work ethic, etc. We can also blame the European Union for their insensitivity and fixed view of the problem, concerned with economics and finance alone. We can even blame the financiers on Wall Street whose financial speculation created the crisis beginning in 2008 that sent Greece reeling with debt and unemployment. Even the fate of the European Union itself comes into question through these events. (Or should we say that it can be a means of her even greater economic and social integration.)

All of these factors and many more converge over a single core issue so each party involved can purify themselves by rising in consciousness based on their current limited perceptions and beliefs. In this way Nature works on many fronts simultaneously, raising a whole host of problems at once, and also creating the possibility of all of them getting resolved at once through movements of higher consciousness among the various parties and situations. It is thus Her great Efficiency in space and time. It is her indomitable method of simultaneous, multi-pronged progress.

No Title

The ultimate purpose in creation is the experience of Joy/Delight of being. And though there are others, Love is the ultimate power to make that happen.

No Title

The happiest people in the world are those who are constantly self-giving to others. The unhappiest, those who heedlessly, shamelessly take.

No Title

Above all things Man seeks to get ahead, whatever the means. He hopes for Luck in his life, not knowing he can create Luck from within, through Her supramental power.

No Title

The Mother indicates that when the supramental action occurs one feels an absolute stillness in one's being, and a perfect knowledge of the situation at hand.

Scope for Greater Faith Incident

When you consecrate a situation and the results are not to your liking, it can indicate scope for greater Faith.

Example: A man had consecrated for a safe and successful journey of a friend to collect important valuables from a location 500 miles away. She had taken the same inner, spiritual approach. When she returned (much sooner than expected), she had brought back far more stuff than he ever imagined, which proceeded to clutter up their living space in the extreme. He became bitter at the result. Fortunately, a half hour or so later he began to cool off a bit in his reaction.

Then something marvelous took place. The next day, looking among the piles of new boxes, the friend joyfully discovered some personal artwork she had created things that she thought she had lost.

Now the friend understood that his reaction was not just premature, but filled with vital selfishness. Had he had true Faith, he would have accepted the piles of stuff that she had returned with, even if an apparent excess, as an expression of the will of the Mother to their common consecration efforts. It showed the limits in his faith in Her response, no matter what form it took, whether or not it was to his liking.

Reader: Perhaps it also indicates the presence of expectation that's diluting our consecration Response: Yes it can be. What you have said is kind of what I meant.

No Title

People will happily jump to conclusions, even though they haven't a handle on all the facts. They then look completely foolish in retrospect.

No Title

Grace invites faith in our capacities, as when someone solicits our help. In Supergrace we give up all reliance on our capacities, and simply surrender to its Action. The result is of an even more astonishing order.

No Title

If you regret something you discarded for good reason, it will suddenly begin to come back!

"Silent Will" Mini Example

I was moving a series of objects around to create more space in our living quarters. I had moved several items, and was ready to move the next, which was a stereo device. However, not sure if I should move it without the cooperation of my friend and not to disturb the atmosphere, I held back from acting, waiting to see what life had in store. Two minutes later my friend who was preoccupied in another area and was not involved in the moving just then suddenly looked at the pile of objects yet to be moved, and then for some reason focused on the specific item I intended to move next, and then unexpectedly proceeded to move it on her own, and to the very spot I wished it moved to!

When you hold back from expressing your intention, the energy of that will moves into the atmosphere and is caught by another person nearby. They then either verbalize your intent or simply carry it out as if it were their own idea.

We call this phenomenon "Silent Will," of which the episode above is a tiny, mini instance. Silent Will can be practiced to create very important outcomes, enabling vast success -- whether for an individual, an organization, or any other collective. It is an indicator of the enormous power we have within ourselves to forge our vision of accomplishment into a living reality without having to take any outer action of our own.

My Mystical Experience in Greece

In 1975 after climbing up the Acropolis in Athens Greece, I came down to the streets to wild celebration. I wondered what it was. I later found out that for the first time in nearly 2000 years Greece had a democracy, overthrowing the monarchy.

In the years that followed I often wondered what I was doing there at that very moment; on that very auspicious occasion. When I ascended the Acropolis earlier that day, and looked out on the Aegean sea and the islands in the distance, I felt I had been here before.

And now I was there again at the very moment Greek society was changing to modern democratic governance.

And so today, as the Greek economic crisis unfolds, I hark back to that memory.

Reader: Sir which means the crisis is on the surface and a bright sunlight economy is behind this turmoil is that the reason that your past memories still giving you nostalgic pleasure,

Comment: Yes, that is a good way to put it. As you may know I believe all these events are harbingers of even greater European Unity, on the way to Sri Aurobindo's dream and vision of World Unity. After all Greece is the cradle of Western civilization, and even a great influencer of world civilization, including recently the East (as per individuality, the power of mind, rationality, democracy etc) which practically the entire globe is now sharing in.

Reader: Thank you Sir

Acts

Repeat:

In Garry Sir's "The Book", A mystical Book appeared at various significant revolutionary events in the world which brought greater good for the humanity. As the story progressed, The Book reached Dan when he visited the Moe's Book store. It was the Life Response for his Inner Aspiration and Equality of Being on the outer when he had encountered a difficult situation (Project rejection letter from NASA).

He happened to be visiting at the same location several years later, (chapter 102) with the same kind of experience at the inner and outer. On the outer, it appeared to be loss of The Book, yet he maintained his calmness and Equality of Being. His Inner Aspiration convinced him that The Book will not leave him until it finishes the work.

As a Life Response, The Book had reached him at both situations miraculously.

No Title

The purpose of our lives is twofold: to discover our own true nature, and to discover the true nature of the integral reality. And through that process of discovery experience the Delight of being.

No Title

If we are lucky we may have several epiphanies in our lives; moments of deep fulfillment and bliss. Sri Aurobindo says we are capable of having such experiences constantly, in every instance of our waking life.

Reader: How can we do that?

Response: By engaging in the effort to transform one's nature into a higher consciousness. By ridding ourselves of bad habits; by giving up wrong attitudes; by shedding false beliefs replacing them with true ones, including higher values; by shifting from taking to giving, from ego to selflessness and harmony; by developing a deeper center of being within us; by constant self-offering of all our activities to the spiritual Force (consecration), etc. etc.

In other words by seriously engaging in an effort of conscious evolution, then not only will we become a more developed person, but we will feel a fullness of life, a richness inside, a sense of oneness with others and the world. As a result such epiphanies will quite often.

No Title

As consecration needs a lot of energy, when we are tired we wait patiently for energy to revive. Until then we relax. It rarely occurs to us that we can consecrate the tiredness. Such a thought will release the energy to do it. (Sri Karmayogi)

Comment : One interpretation: When we are tired, we can think about the idea that we have the capacity to consecrate one's tiredness in order to overcome it. That will release and give us the energy to actually make that effort. Now if we actually consecrate the tiredness, the Force will soon replace it with abundant energy.

Reader: sir similarly can we consecrate our ego and visualize that Divine Force is superimposing on it.

Response: Sure you can do that, but it might be better to consecrate the instances and particulars of the ego expression - such as an antagonistic attitude, or selfish action, etc. That way you identify it more clearly, which can focus the consecration effort, producing a more powerful positive result inside and without.

No Title

Transformation of one's being is one product of growing out of a severe problem.

Discovery of Cherished Quilts Via a Changed Attitude

When we shift from being uncomfortable with a new development involving another individual, to being neutral, to being fully supportive, then startling good fortune will suddenly come to that person.

A woman travelled far to retrieve years' worth of her quilt-based art work. When she returned, she came with a host of boxes that crowded out their living environment. The man was distraught to no end. The he thought about the matter beyond his first impression. The anguish began to dissolve. Later he accepted the piled up boxes for what it was; even beginning to feel it was actually a positive development.

A moment later the woman found among the boxes her key and perhaps best artistic creations which she had created over several decades, that only a few moments before she thought she had left behind and lost forever.

No Title

If you genuinely appreciate someone's fine effort of the past, while others out of Ignorance deprecate that individual, then at the right time he will step forward again and shine, quieting, even humbling all the naysayers.

No Title

The greatest power we are given is not to express our own will, but to surrender to Her Will, the Divine, which will bring about the transformation of our nature, as well as the world around us.

No Title

Merely recognizing a fault in our being does not indicate we have evolved our nature at that point. It requires us to actually CHANGE from that wanting quality to its opposite – in our thoughts, in our feelings, in our actions; in all aspects of our lives. Now with a complete reversal of those energies, our nature shifts to a higher plane, and powerful response from life follows.

Power of Aspiration

The mind and vital parts of our being want, need, expect things to happen. They anticipate, including over-anticipating. They thus have negative aspects. On the other hand, Aspiration comes from a deeper place. It longs to improve one's self, better one's life; and to evolve as a person through that process. It is really the Soul speaking through our awareness indicating what our True Self longs for; what we should aim for; what our deepest values are that we hope to realize. Aspiration is thus in these respects fully positive.

No Title

When you understand how negative conditions foretell positive potentials, then it becomes somewhat easy to anticipate - even predict - future outcomes.

Synching with Synchronicities

There are constant miraculous-like synchronistic connections occurring between what we are doing and exact parallel situations, discussions, communications, etc. outside ourselves. However, our limited mind is too preoccupied and not expansive enough to perceive them.

I would say I have around a dozen synchronicities a day. In fact, a synchronicity I just had precipitated this post. I was scanning many articles on a wide variety of subjects in the world. Suddenly someone next to me mentioned Microsoft and instantaneously I saw an article on the company on my smartphone. (None of the many articles I perused had anything to do with Microsoft.) In fact this was a special synchronicity as I sensed I was about to see something on Microsoft!

I believe that in the Supramental life that is emerging, synchronicities will be as common as breathing in and out. (Remember dozens if not more are happening every minute, but we do not normally have the wherewithal to perceive them. And yet if we develop a more conscious inner life we will.)

No Title

People receive emotional satisfaction when meeting with others, whatever the reason for gathering. It is the enjoyment of vital interchange; the exchange of social energies.

Comment: For the average person there is this need. For the developed person such meetings are scheduled or otherwise occur when there is a practical utility and need for the gathering. The spiritual person has no need for it whatsoever as the vital interchanges are unnecessary, even detrimental. He only communicates with other persons in order to lift them up.

No Title

Mother's solutions are often radically different than what one might have expected. They are usually creative in the extreme.

We feel that time unfolds backwards in a receding line to the distant past. But what if all past time really exists as a single "moment" that is available to us in the present; whether it occurred an hour ago or a thousand years ago or more. The past then becomes a "wall of events" that is readily available to us in toto in the now; the Ever-Present.

Comment: (the same with the future)

Reader: Past to present/ NOW IS Future.

Response: Now is past, present, and future together; no separation. We simultaneously have power over all 3 in the Now. It is possible through consecration as well as by connecting to one's soul, both of which are connected to All-time in the eternal Now. Eg if a negative is affecting us now, we can consecrate which causes life to cease having that negative influence on us. Likewise we can consecrate an upcoming activity, which can cause what it would take six months to unfold to happen instantly. In this way in the Now we alter the effect of the past on the present, and bring the future into that same present.

No Title

Calling Mother or reaching the psychic (evolving soul) can have this effect. I believe that once we reach it, the psychic can also call Mother enabling a super version of this dynamic.

No Title

In terms of what is happening to us now, including specifics that have come our way, Mother is many steps ahead of us, as She knows what these mean relative to what is going to occur in future, while we have only the vaguest sense of what that will be.

Comment: I mean She knows the positive outcomes, while we suffer in doubt and anxiety in the present. However, if we connect with that higher consciousness we will sense the utility and good of the present conditions; that it is contributing to our further growth.

The First Step: Become a True Individual

The first step to take in order to rise in consciousness is to go beyond the way of the collective we are part of, the herd view, what other people believe, say and do, and instead think for ourselves. It is to look around, consider the possibilities, and do what is right. Thereby we begin to become a True Individual.

We can even go a step further by listening to our Soul within, to the Inner Guide that offers unique insights into our lives, indicates our purpose in bring here, and therefore what to do and which way to turn in the greater scheme of things. Now we become not just individualistic, but a True SPIRITUAL Individual.

No Title

A True Individual is not just a person who thinks for himself relative to the views of others, but unlike others has a passionate desire to change all his limitations into virtues.

No Title

The greatest achievers in life are those who think for themselves: who are not constrained by what others believe or say or do. They are their own person; immune from the oppression of the collective.

Going Beyond Our Wants

Ordinarily people want things from other people and from life. Sri Karmayogi indicates that instead we can practice Silent Will and not ask for what we want outwardly, but do so silently from within, which can cause the other person or life to pick up the vibration and embrace it or manifest it for us.

He then says better still we shouldn't ask anything of anybody - inwardly or outwardly! Instead we should be silent and let our soul and psychic being take over our lives and evoke whatever is necessary for our progress.

Alternately, we can offer the details of our lives, including our preferences, desires, opinions, and all to the spiritual Force, to Mother, saying "Thy will be done, not my will." It is a movement out of ego, and a step into the spirit within is. Life invariably responds in our favor, enabling our progress -- i.e. what is best for us -- and the Joy that comes with it.

No Title

Insistence is separative consciousness; ego and division; and as a result the spirit cannot work on our behalf.

No Title

If you spend and thereby circulate funds for necessary improvements in your environment rather than hoarding or fearfully restraining due to low savings and the like, new unexpected funds will quickly arrive that more than offset the outflow.

No Title

Disparate things arriving together may seem to have no obvious connection, but probing a shade deeper will reveal a profound association; often in multiple directions. It is known as synchronicity, parallelism, or similar.

No Title

We seek security. Yet Consciousness seeks the adventure and benefits of insecurity.

No Title

God, the Divine working in tandem with our souls has great things in store for us.

No Title

Life is continually responding to our subconscious wants, needs, desires, beliefs as much as our conscious ones.

No Title

The greatest expression of Individuality is the creation of something truly unique that emanates from the deepest part of our being that has the effect of lifting up humanity.

No Title

Instead of criticizing or condemning others, we can try to improve ourselves. It can have a great, lasting effect.

No Title

Every Great Soul has a mission for the times he lives in. That is one definition of an Avatar. E.g.-

- Jesus brought Love to the world and thereby humanized Europe.
- Buddha was the first to seriously question suffering on earth and then offered a way out.
- Krishna showed the way to the Transcendent and Imminent Divine.
- The Mother and Sri Aurobindo revealed the evolutionary way forward to a Divine Life on Earth.

Example of how a Negative is a Positive in disguise:

An insect infestation hits one's home. And yet it reminds us of the level of filth in our residence. As a result of cleaning, life often responds and good fortune follows, such as more money or sales or projects coming in. In addition, that experience is absorbed in consciousness, as greater knowledge for the future. Henceforth we now appreciate the importance of having a clean and orderly environment, which of itself is conducive to success.

Comment: (As Sri Aurobindo points out in 'The Life Divine,' we very slowly move toward Integral Knowledge (truth consciousness) by going through the facets of our Ignorance. We rarely arrive there through knowledge. In fact, he says that the greatest power that brings about Truth is the experience and transition out of the negativity of Ignorance. Or to put it another way, Ignorance is the greatest power of Knowledge.)

WAYS OF CONNECTING TO THE EVOLVING SOUL

Sri Aurobindo says that the Soul, about the size of the human thumb, resides invisibly behind the heart. It is not just a static soul however, but an EVOLVING entity, which has entered a series of individuals in its cosmic Journey through time, and now lodges in our own being, hoping to learn new lessons through our experiences in this life.

How then can we get in touch with this soul, this "psychic being"? There are a number of specific ways, but the simplest general approach is that whatever deepens our consciousness brings us closer to the psychic. That includes such spiritual-like approaches as moving into harmony with others and with life, being selfless and self-giving, sensing the deepest truth of things, and creating beauty in the world.

Karmayogi indicates that regular Consecration, opening to the spiritual Force, the Mother before activities or events is the most powerful way to connect with the evolving soul. Consecration efforts not only evoke powerful positive conditions from the world around us, but deepens our being, taking us from the surface of life to a deeper poise within. Gradually we plunge deeper still to the inner being (the subliminal), culminating in the psychic, the evolving soul in the deepest depths of our being.

Another method of connecting with our True Self is by continually taking the other person's point of view, which is to accept at face value what others say and believe, no matter what its truth content. It opens the mind from its partial view to a many-sided truth of things, which also in effect deepens our consciousness, taking us to our True Self. Taking another's viewpoint melts away the mental ego and deepens our center of being. In fact, any movement that dissolves the Ego, whether a self-giving gesture or widening the mind to its spiritual capacities such as intuition and revelation will help create the psychic opening.

Then what is it like to experience the Evolving Soul? It is to experience all of the spiritual attributes of creation -- including Peace, Harmony, Truth, Goodness, Beauty, Love, Delight, Infinity, and Timelessness. The experience of the Psychic Being is one of stillness; it is to feel oneness with others and life; it is to perceive the deepest and widest truth of life; it is to spontaneously do things to please others; it is to perceive the majesty of creation; it is to find deepest meaning and purpose; it is to feel deep affection and compassion for others; it is the capacity to evoke plenitude out of current limitations; it is the ability to bring the future into the present in an instance by connecting to the supramental power from this deepest place within us.

The realization of the evolving soul indicates the birth of the Spiritual Individual, who will be the basis of a new type Being on earth, a Supramental Person, which itself is a harbinger of and will usher in a new Spirit-based Life on earth.

Equilibrium of Energies and Life Response

Karmayogi has explained the phenomenon of Life Response in terms of "Equilibrium of energies." I.e. I take an action or exhibit a positive behavior, like a change in attitude towards someone from the negative to the positive. As a result there is a change in the current equilibrium of energies. It has shifted to a state of disequilibrium. Now life responds to that change as it seeks to return to that state of equilibrium. It does so with a fresh act. That act comes in the form of a response from life; from somewhere across the universe in the form of say a new opportunity arising for that person or fresh supplies of money coming in. It is the life response. As a result, now the equilibrium is restored, albeit at a higher level of consciousness.

An analogy to this dynamic is explained here by Karmayogi at the surface material level. He wrote this to me (in 2006) when I was trying to understand his equilibrium energy dynamic when writing my book on Life Response:

"When a man stands up and reaches for a fruit and eats we understand his act as such. It is a movement of energy, the actions caused by the altered equilibrium. Here is a man whose stomach feels hungry (or his mind is desirous of eating a fruit – the variations are endless). It is a depression of energy. At a distance he sees a fruit. It carries energy in excess. The excess energy moves towards the point of the stomach of lower energy. It is a movement of energy caused by the disequilibrium. The legs that stand, the eye that sees, the hand that reaches the fruit are the intermediary instruments whose actions can also be similarly explained."

Cosmic Causality vs. Synchronous Alignment in Life Response

Quantum "entanglement" is the scientific explanation of the phenomenon of life response; i.e. sudden good fortune precipitated by one's shift in consciousness.

I had assumed according to the science if say an electron on one side of the universe changes its directional spin, another one on the other side of the universe in which there is an "inner relationship" will do the same. It is a cosmic cause and effect across space and time; infinitely faster than the speed of light, as it is instantaneous.

However, recent discoveries or at least theories in quantum entanglement indicate that the two electrons change their spin at the exact same moment, suggesting not so much a cosmic causality at work, but a simultaneous synchronicity. In layman terms, a perfect ALIGNMENT of the two. They do their cosmic synchronous dance at once and together.

So when in Pride and Prejudice Darcy and Eliza startlingly meet at the pond of his estate at Pemberley, it is not because she changed her ways and she thereby attracted his arrival, but rather because she changed her ways she became synchronous with him in space and time. In other words they moved in perfect Alignment.

This explanation is more in line with recent scientific understanding of entanglement, though science has a ways to go before it realizes the subtle causality perceived through a spiritual perspective.

There is yet another issue: how this Alignment theory squares with the Equilibrium of energies dynamic of explaining the life response phenomenon, which appears to lean toward cosmic causality (i.e. cause and effect, as between those two electrons or Darcy and Eliza) rather than simultaneity of Alignment!

On the other hand, maybe everything squares after all, but we don't yet know how to express it in mental terms. There is obviously still a lot to learn.

Source of, Breaking the Reigns of Conformity and Other Negatives

Issue: What is the cause of, the origins of our nature -- Swabhava in Sanskrit -- such as a tendency to conform, or for that matter any other positive or negative attribute in our being. Eg is it simply social conditioning; i.e. are we just a product of our environment?

Comment: Sri Aurobindo indicates our nature is actually shaped before birth; much of it inherited through the genes. These human tendencies are inherited from parents or grandparents. Even the tendency to conform. Eg in a conforming home, the child with the genetic tendency for individuality will break out and be his own person. It had to have been there at birth.

It is even deeper than that. It is in the soul, the psychic being influencing, based on what it seeks from the person in this birth.

The social scientists and psychologists who blame conformity and other negative traits of the child on the conditioning of society alone are seeing a truth; but only the truth at the tip of the iceberg.

Perhaps what we are really talking about is the ability to break the grip of "karmic conformity," or any other negative attribute, which exists collectively and cumulatively in our being at the social, the inherited, and the soul (i.e. previous birth) level.

And yet regardless of the cause, through a deeper knowledge of who we are and what we can become, we have the power within us to break the reigns of conformity, or for that matter any limitation in our being.

Solution To The Greek Financial Crisis

(by Garry Jacobs, CEO World Academy)

The key to the Greek crisis lies in economy not finance, for any financial solution that results in further contraction of the economy will only aggravate budget deficits and debt servicing problems. Economy can restore financial stability, not vice versa. The solution lies not in successive rounds of external funding at concessional interest rates, no matter how crucial that may be in the short term, but in unleashing the productive forces of the Greek economy which has contracted by more than 10% in the last two years, 15.5% in December 2011 compared to December 2010. The most essential requirement for a quick turnaround and lasting solution is to drastically reduce the unemployment rate which has tripled since 2008 from 7.2% to 20.9%. Youth unemployment is nearing a totally untenable 50%.

The tremendously wasteful underutilization of precious human resources and productive capacity is Greece's most serious problem and also its greatest opportunity. This is not merely a Greek crisis. What happens today in Greece has relevance to all of Europe as well as other mature economies. Money that energized economy for two centuries has reversed its role and is acting to strangle the economic vitality of prosperous, productive nations. The immediate need is to reverse the shrinking economy, release energy and revive economic dynamism. Addressing the swelling unemployment problem is a key.

Research by Fellows of the World Academy of Art & Science points to a strategy which could reverse the downward spiral in a short time, while avoiding ever increasing amounts of foreign assistance, national bankruptcy, or an increasingly likely withdrawal from the Eurozone. The debt problem is starving the Greek economy of essential liquidity needed to reverse the deflationary contraction. The capacity for a rapid and dramatic turnaround was demonstrated in Yugoslavia in the mid-1990s, where introduction of a freely-convertible parallel currency stopped hyperinflation and reversed economic decline in a matter of weeks, while safeguarding social welfare payments so essential for social stability. There are also countless instances in which communities and some local governments around the world which have introduced complementary currencies to successfully spur the local economy.

The introduction of a dual currency regime – a fully convertible national currency (drachma) in parallel with the Euro – will stimulate domestic production, employment and demand, while simultaneously enhancing the government's capacity to service its foreign Euro-denominated debt. Full convertibility of drachmas to euros at a floating exchange rate will ensure ready acceptance of the drachma domestically, while enabling Greece to remain in the Eurozone for all external transactions and improve the competitiveness of its exports, a critical requirement for a turnaround. Under present conditions of vastly underutilized capacity, the Greek Government could loan or spend drachmas to make idle national assets fully productive without generating inflation – restoring public services, stimulating public works, spurring entrepreneurship, implementing a jobs program to generate full employment, and investing in education and training to enhance human capital.

A growing Greek economy can support and service its debt obligations, a shrinking one can only become more dependent and insolvent. The dual currency will allow a natural and essential adjustment of prices between Greece and the other countries of the Eurozone without compelling the government to undertake the politically disastrous task of cutting salaries or jobs. Raising domestic production will reduce social welfare expenses and increase government revenues. Drachma bonds can be issued to mop up domestic savings for productive purposes. Public investment will promote growth. A small differential tax on drachma-euro exchange and savings accounts can incentivize savings in local currency. A tax on speculative investments can redirect resources to the real economy. The acceptance of the drachma for some forms of services and taxes would ensure immediate demand for the new currency, facilitating the transition. Government might also combine a mixture of euro and drachma currencies in equal or unequal proportions in its welfare and salary payments, thereby immediately reducing its euro expenditures and eliminating its euro deficit. Most important of all, this strategy would shift initiative from the international community to the government and people of Greece and restore in a matter of days their lost sense of independence, which is so essential for responsible action and human development.

Greek thought still leads the world today. Here is a thought that can lead to action. Greece's successful recovery can lead to European recovery and the world's. Let Greek thought become a leader of action too.

Genetic Code and the Mother's Quest for Immortality

Q: Has Karmayogi written about the Light of Mother having an effect on the genetic code when invoked?

A: Certainly Mother spoke of this sort of thing often in Her 14-volume diary The Agenda, as physical transformation of the body, including willed Immortality was her great life's work. She constantly spoke of bringing the Force into the cells of her body, which would imply the transformation of the genetic code of her being. Karmayogi has referred to Her efforts on this path in various places. They have naturally spoken of our own ability to do the same. Consecration is the primary means. It can affect the cells at the genetic level, the cellular level, and the atomic level. Even the subtle level.

I think Mother did not so much concern herself about the material formations (like organs, even genes), but directed the Force into the Consciousness of the cells, of the body, aspiring to have an effect there. If the consciousness of the cells changed (away from their fear, their belief in the necessity of decay, and opening to the truth that they are truly immortal in essence), the rest would take care of itself, including the material formations of organs, genetic and cellular and atomic makeup, etc.

No Title

Many of our short term illnesses - e.g. lasting a few hours to a month - are the result of a subconscious reaction to a troubled, faulty, or otherwise negative relationship or connection to another party.

Comment: (in this way the body is instructive.)

Reader: Sir an example please. . does that mean we have to stay away from those people?

Response: It can. Or it can mean that you have to adjust your relationship with them, including your faulty attitude. Etc.

Reader: I guess illness is body's language to communicate to us a problem deep within us.

Response: Yes, deep within us, or originating in someone else outside ourselves, or both simultaneously. Eg we make a connection with another after many years, and suddenly we fall ill. It could be caused by ill-will of other party toward us, or our own inner need to get benefit from another which is wrongheaded, both together, etc. These sort of subconscious reactions will occur many times in the course of our lifetime, though we rarely if ever make the connection, perceive these deeper correlations.

As we rise in consciousness, we become more tuned in to our deeper, subconscious needs, faults, expectations, etc. Then as we experience these outer traumas or otherwise intense conditions we can connect it back to what is subconscious in us that is precipitating these events.

Eg a man received a donation from another, which instantly caused his illness, as the donor had certain psychological needs behind the gift. When the money was returned to the donor, he quickly recovered.

There are hundreds of these subconscious incidents we have been privy to over the years, which are themselves yet another dimension to our research on the subtle laws governing the Character of Life.

No Title

Good will all around turns an opportunity that has met with limited success into a realization of great accomplishment.

Comment: Eg a copper mine had failed so far to produce any results. There had been long-term conflict among certain parties related to the mine - both business and personal. A Christmas gathering was held in which several of the parties got together, one of whom was a woman from a lower class that some might not approve of. However, because of her poise, humility, and beauty she was accepted by the gathered individuals, which then lead to other people's negative viewpoints about one another to suddenly melt away. At the end of the gathering there was a remarkable feeling of goodwill among the parties whereas till that time there had been deep resentment. Now that had all cleared.

The next day there was a great stirring among the workers at the copper mine. Some arriving at the scene worried it was an explosion or fire. However it turned out to be an outpouring of grateful emotion as the miners had finally struck copper, insuring work and prosperity for themselves and the deep satisfaction of the owner who had utterly failed to produce results till that point.

In essence, the goodwill created the night before had evoked the sudden good fortune of great success at the copper mine. That is Goodwill's enormous power to evoke the very best of life in its wake.

No Title

In the integral yoga your mind, heart, and body become a laboratory, a testing grounds that will bring great benefit to others.

Comment: Eg you go through a physical pain or a difficult situation, each of which is resolved through a movement to a higher consciousness - whether a deeper knowledge, a right attitude, a changed habit, a movement of stillness within, a consecrated effort, etc. You accumulate such experiences and knowledges over time and communicate it to others who benefit.

In yoga you are seriously and sincerely committed to working on these micro and macro problems that appear in one's life by applying right inner movements. This is the core of your life, and the result creates benefit for others when communicated, while bringing about personal transformation of one's own being.

No Title

Taking strong action when in a weak position - instead of delaying, procrastinating, or otherwise shrinking from the situation, - attracts fast positive response from life.

Reader: Eg a man waits for a long while to find out the status of his scheduled classes; whether they will run on the established dates. Meanwhile he hesitates contacting his other potential clients about other potential work, as time gets increasingly critical. Finally, he takes the bull by the horns and acts, contacting the potential clients. Suddenly thereafter the scheduled classes with their dates are confirmed. When he gave up his hesitation and took to decisive action in one area, life rewarded him in another.

No Title

Most people call to the Divine only when times are tough; otherwise He is allowed to sleep.

No Title

What strikes the mind as questionable and doubtful, strikes the Spirit as infinite in potential.

No Title

Man working hard expresses his skill to produce a human result. Man seeking Mother in work makes it possible for Her to express in his work so that SHE will fulfil Herself in life.

Incidentally SHE saturates him with HER consciousness through his work. He gets Mother's fulfilment, which means his being is filled with Mother and his life is filled with material results. Also, the material results are elevated from human products to divine creation. (Sri Karmayogi)

Comment: We are not just individual beings, but universal ones as well. Using Mother's Force gives us that opportunity: to help fulfill the universal purpose, as well as our own (materially and spiritually).

No Title

Giving of one's self and earning money without money taint is service. Avoiding money taint by not earning is Ego. (paraphrase of Karmayogi)

Coordinated Effort to Solve Computer Problem

Making a serious effort to solve a problem rather than let it slide can quickly evoke an unexpected opportunity for its resolution. It is especially the case when people agree to move ahead and resolve it together.

A woman was having problems with her computer. There were apparent software issues that had been plaguing the machine for several days. She wanted to improve things and asked her friend for help. Though he was preoccupied for several moments, he then absorbed himself in her problem. He thought about the situation and the issues involved from several angles.

After a short while she mentioned that the computer was trying to shut down, which troubled and perplexed him. When he went over to look at the screen, he saw that it was actually the operating software installing fresh new system software on its own. Now the problems would self-correct, a solution coming from the software itself! It was a pleasant and most unexpected surprise!

When several people get serious about trying to solve a problem, rather than let it drift or complain about it, life can quickly cooperate with that harmonic effort.

Comment: The deeper you go inside, the more you aspire to connect with Mother. And the more you aspire and connect with Mother, the deeper you go inside.

No Title

Solving the Greek economic crisis is a prelude to resolving the global economic crisis - including high unemployment, low wage growth, skewed income distribution, debt, poverty, vulnerability to financial speculation, etc. If we do one, - including development of fresh, new strategies and plans of action, - we can begin to do the other.

No Title

If you needlessly discuss an inner power you have over life, you may be quickly tested to use it in a difficult situation. Unless necessary, best to keep such things to yourself.

No Title

Money has been a great, positive power in the world, leading to two hundred years of ever-rising prosperity in the West and now the same globally. However, money - especially speculative financial transactions and other unbalanced approaches and instruments - is now threatening to destroy all that the world has accomplished.

Symbol Indicators in Life

People, objects, circumstance we experience around us are not just things in of themselves, but are symbol indicators of other, often larger things occurring or about to come.

A woman received a hand-delivered notice that the owners of her property had not paid their recent gas and water bill. The large prominent notice was placed on her door. It really felt like an intrusion. The next day it was reported that her city experienced a huge gas explosion that caused all the electricity to go off in much of the area.

Thus, we see that the earlier intrusion was an indicator of the much bigger event to come. If only we shifted more of our attention to the subtle unfoldings of life we would see this dynamic occurring all the time. It is truly one of the wonders of life!

No Title

There are times when all attempts to solve a problem fail, and only by doing something dramatically different or taking a strong action brings about the solution. It can be startling to witness how effective that almost desperate approach and action can be.

Super-fast Computer Surprise

Just when things have virtually stopped functioning or are on the verge of collapse, and you consecrate and pray deeply for their return to how they were, things don't just revert back to their previous working state, but reach a new, extraordinary new level of functioning it had never attained before. It's a miracle of miracles.

Example: For the first time in the life of his four year old computer a man had serious technical issues, to the point where the system was hardly working at all. It seems like it could be the end of the line for the machine.

However, he and his friend consecrated deeply on the issue. He then had an inspiration and decided to unplug the router connected to the Internet. It was a dramatic step with unknown consequences. Several hours later he realized that not only was this computer running as well as before, but was actually running a double the speed it had ever functioned previously. He was overjoyed by the development. That things could shift from one extreme to the other. Not merely the resolution of a problem, but the attainment of a new level of performance that could not have been expected.

No Title

Consecration, opening to the supramental/spiritual Force, feeds you with extremely creative ideas to solve a problem you might not have thought of on your own. When you then act on one or more of them, there is a startling turn-around in conditions.

No Title

Quickly resolving enormous problems through unexpected, unprecedented solutions is a specialty of the Mother's Force.

No Title

Extreme problems solved by unprecedented solutions at the very last moment without anything to hold onto but Faith in the spiritual Force, the Mother is one hallmark of Sri Aurobindo's Integral Yoga.

No Title

When you accept a demotion with good cheer, you may soon find yourself in a situation where you become the hero of the organization.

No Title

The difference between success and great success depends on our ability to identify, and our willingness and effort to overcome the limitations of our being. Life will respond overwhelmingly to such a conscious approach.

No Title

Integral yoga and the transformation that follows is a hard-earned, unprecedented spiritual journey from a bit of faith to Total Faith.

No Title

Sometimes the best thing to do when a situation is moving toward a finale whose outcome has not yet been determined, is not to "sit on it" and wait impatiently for the result, but to focus your mind elsewhere. Then when you return, you discover that things worked out just as you had hoped. By releasing the attachment, you move in sync with the energies for the positive result. Over the years we have seen that many great things are accomplished through this inner, "detached" approach.

No Title

The Mother and Sri Aurobindo intensely worked on themselves and became living laboratories for the emergence of a New Consciousness on earth.

No Title

We are very wary of having to deal with a major hurdle in an important project we are working on. After all, who wants to go through the anguish and anxiety of something that could destroy our plan? However, in retrospect we will see that overcoming that hurdle not only enabled our project to succeed, but the knowledge derived from it was the single key that allowed several future projects to succeed as well. Now what we once called an "obstacle" was really a blessing in disguise. That's why all obstacles and hurdles should be looked upon as an opportunity, with a still heart and a silent smile.

No Title

When a good thing is occurring try to keep still and avoid speaking about it so it can continue to blossom and then some.

Tesla, Energy, and Sri Aurobindo's Extension of Vedanta

Sri Aurobindo, extending Vedanta, indicated that Energy was the final operation of an original Conscious-Force (chit). However that Energy would continue to divide itself, losing its consciousness in the involutionary descent, which is the reason for ultimate breakdown, division into atomic existence, which is what we know as matter.

Thus the Involutionary process enables Matter to emerge from an essential Energy. In this sense we can see how Tesla perceived we could create matter and especially electricity from the universe. (Understanding of the big bang and Einstein are further confirmations that energy and matter are related and can be converted from one to the other.)

And yet in Sri Aurobindo's view Matter that comes from Energy is the result of an Involutionary process instigated by a Divine source. Then can we humans initiate the same process, as Tesla believed?

And you have to wonder if the scientist and the mystic are actually speaking of the same thing, when they each speak of Energy. Or are they really speaking of different degrees of subtlety in their views of Energy.

Interestingly, recent revelations about Dark Matter and more so Dark Energy in the universe seems to close the gap a bit further between the scientific and spiritual views.

And yet when one moves into, elevates one's self in Consciousness one can truly perceive the even-deeper shadings and meanings and source of and purpose of Energy, as Sri Aurobindo surely experienced himself.

Science clearly has a long way to go in understanding these deeper truths, even though we must commend Tesla for seeking out Vivekananda and others on the subject.

No Title

There is no coincidence in the cosmos. All is subtly interconnected and therefore synchronous.

Comment: [in reference to the phenomenon of Synchronicity:]

"In the fourth century B.C., the Greek philosopher Heraclitus viewed all things as being inter-related, nothing is isolated and that all things are linked. Similarly Hippocrates said: "There is ONE common flow, a common breathing. Everything is in sympathy.'" (Robert Torres)

No Title

People enjoy holding onto their extreme views. It gives comfort and satisfaction in their ignorance. They will hold onto it tight until an extreme trauma - physical or emotional - wakes them up. It is one of Nature's ways of progress.

No Title

When times change, certain segments will hold onto outdated, reactionary beliefs. They will pull in the wrong direction relative to the evolutionary movement of society. Ironically, the progressive forces are often energized by the ignorance of these regressive forces, propelling the evolution forward that much faster.

No Title

Karmayogi is fond of saying that "education is the yoga of the collective."

On Atheism:

-Atheism is a necessary protest against the wickedness of the Churches and the narrowness of creeds. (Sri Aurobindo)

-So long as religions exist, atheism will be indispensable to counter-balance them. Both must disappear to make way for a sincere and disinterested search for Truth and a total consecration to the object of this search. (The Mother)

Faith in The Mother and Extra Effort are "Key" to Success

With the Mother one has the deep feeling that no matter how hopeless the situation that somehow She will prevail.

I had to search for a key in order to retrieve a computer from a locked drawer. I was asked as a favor to do my best and try to find the object. I then searched everywhere in the room, digging into the mass of objects and the many nooks and crannies, but had no success. Still I was determined to find it.

At one point, I consecrated the situation to the Divine Mother. Still I found nothing. As I was about to give up, I also had the thought that Mother could do anything, no matter what the situation. And so I tried once again, but again met with the same result. It now looked like a hopeless situation.

Then I checked my email message and was startled to see an entry from the person who was looking for the computer in the first place, who had now provided detailed information on where to find it. I followed his advice, and a few minutes later found the key! I then unlocked the drawer, and voila! there was the computer!

I understood that the feeling I had inside that Mother could do anything, no matter how hopeless the situation, attracted the email that enabled me to resolve the issue. In tandem with making the extra effort to find the key, life cooperated and I was able to prevail in the end.

No Title

Supramental Life depends less on the thinking mind and more on the Knowing mind.

No Title

Thinking is a transitional process on the way to direct Knowing of the truth of anything.

Comment: Intuition, light, revelation, and supramental perception are progressively higher and more powerful means of direct knowing of the mind. It is mentality of the Spirit.

No Title

In one sense we are truly Immortal, as our soul and psychic being, our true self existed before us in others, exists in us now, and will continue to exist after us successively in the lives of new individuals to come.

Reader: A different character in a continuous story

Response: Yes. Exactly.

On Immortality

Physical immortality is something different from immortality of our true self, our evolving soul, our psychic being, which is the unending existence of our being through multiple births. Physical immortality is where we are able to live as long as we choose in the physical body. This will be possible when the cellular essence of our being is responsive to the descending or evoked Spiritual Force, and therefore the body's programming will change so that there will no longer be illness, decay, and death.

The Mother worked on this transformational issue for much of Her life, enabling the cells of Her body to be responsive to the incoming supramental power, forging a path for us to follow. She indicated that Sri Aurobindo or perhaps someone else would return with a New Body that is supramentalized with the capacity of willed physical immortality. That New Person would have centers of consciousness instead of the current organs, digestive systems, fluid and breath circulation, et al. She described this being as tall, svelte, sexless, emanating light, which would be an evolutionary change into a new-type of human species.

Mother had many visions and personal experiences in this area. For example, once She saw Her own body become the supramental being at the subtle plane. She actually, physically saw it. Dozens of these sorts of experiences of Hers are described in great detail by Her in Her 4000 page diary called Agenda.

No Title

We often think, "I should love to have a smooth life." Instead, it is better we develop a sense and a knowledge that is able to look on what happens WITH A CALM EYE AND SMOOTH NERVES. (Sri Karmayogi)

Comment: Or to put it another way, developing smooth nerves - eg through non-reaction, equality of being, respect for others, a silent mind, consecration, and deep faith - creates, attracts a smooth life.

Spirit and Success

Most of us don't ordinarily associate Spirit with accomplishment. The Divine appears to exist in one realm, and accomplishment and success in another.

And yet there is nothing that creates, attracts, aligns with accomplishment more than opening to the spirit, to the Divine, to the Mother's supramental power. This is especially true when also practicing spiritual methods like not reacting to others' intensities, taking the other persons point of view, and being selfless and self-giving.

These attract overwhelming good fortune - often instantaneously - indicating that Spirit and Success can be inexorably related.

No Title

The Divine has become the universe for the sake of Delight.

Comment: It was to move from the static Delight - one ultimate form only - of the Infinite Consciousness to an infinite variety of experiences of Delight that can be experienced among a vast array of human individuals. Hence the universe emerged for that purpose. As a result of this development there is then a confluence: the Delight of the One and the Delight of the Many inexorably entwined.

No Title

To relate to another so that Delight issues in both is the yogic aim in life. (Sri Karmayogi)

Comment: Comment: By bringing to bear our highest consciousness at every moment when interacting with others - through consecration, self-givingness, and other methods - enables this Delight to come about for each, fulfilling the Divine purpose for creation.

No Title

Nothing speeds up the pursuit of Truth more than bold expressions of human ignorance.

Comment: It's a "recoil" effect.

No Title

If you cannot express your point of view with calm and non-upsetness, it is best to wait until things settle down. Then at the right time later on your thoughts will be much clearer, and what your express will be far more helpful to others.

No Title

Opportunity knocks at all the doors and windows too, all the time, once Life Responds. (Sri Karmayogi)

Comment: When we take to any of the inner methods that raise our consciousness, life quickly responds in the form of opportunities suddenly flying in our direction.

No Title

She is the Force, the inevitable Word,
The magnet of our difficult ascent...
(Sri Aurobindo, from Savitri)

No Title

Normal life is to ask, and then hope for the best. Spiritual life is NOT to ask, but to silently and patiently wait, attracting what is necessary from within.

No Title

Anxiety turning into serenity is a product of inner, yogic effort.

No Title

#1 rule for devotees is to remember Mother before doing anything of significance. The miraculous is bound to follow.

No Title

Education is the most sophisticated instrument yet fashioned by society for its own conscious social evolution. (Garry Jacobs)

No Title

When circumstance fully cooperates with your intentions, behaviors, and actions, then you know you are moving in the right direction.

No Title

Being in sync with others' successes is a spiritual achievement.

No Title

There is little question that creativity can come out of conflict, facilitating success. However it cannot compare to the powerful life response results that are attracted through movements of Higher Harmony. One is the result of Nature (prakriti) and its conflicting method of progress. The other is of the Spirit (purusha), which is of the Infinite consciousness, and therefore infinitely creative.

No Title

When we think, we know; and yet it is only in part. However, when we stop thinking, we begin to Know in integral fullness.

No Title

If we examine things closely, we can observe that the negative qualities our children express mirror the same or related qualities in ourselves. Therefore, rather than argue and fight with them, and constantly making demands, discover and change the corresponding negative elements in yourself. As a result, the children will respond positively, raising the level of domestic harmony in your life.

No Title

A great spiritual change occurs when we shift from the activity of the mind to the still Presence within.

No Title

When Ego enters a discussion, Truth takes a back seat.

Approaching Quiet Geniuses in India (By Sri Karmayogi)

President Dr. Abdul Kalam has suggested that instead of waiting for a Hardy to discover an Indian genius, we should set about seriously searching for one. It is a laudable suggestion from an eminent personality. It is not a question of creating a genius but of searching for one who may be lost in the oblivion of obscurity.

India has witnessed a procession of spiritually realised souls, not in hundreds but maybe in thousands over the millennia. Genius is the penultimate stage where, deviating from his own avowed goal of moksha, the Rishi diverts himself in a subject such as astronomy, mathematics, medicine, music, etc. The spiritual realisation in one generation, it is said, is never lost after that. It will be mostly in their descendants or those kindred souls that have picked up the vibration of Spirit. That blessed soul may not be aware of its presence in him. But it will never be totally suppressed and buried. It will show itself to the discerning eye, expressing itself in another unexpected field.

All those who possess out of the ordinary talents in their own respective fields, whether it is tractor driving, building or public speaking are potential candidates to be approached. The team that is on the lookout for the ONE must be given the training to look for extraordinary talents in a graded scale. On the surface it will be talent par excellence. Behind, it will lurk as essence of talent, a conceptual comprehension of the field hitherto unknown. Such people would be ridiculed in their own work spot. The potential candidates will be, more often than not, QUIET and will be lost inside themselves.

To frame all the criteria for such a search and reduce it to workable administrative procedures that are most likely to land on the target is possible. Should the parents suspect such a latent possibility in their child, the very best method to help it emerge is to teach the child utter truthfulness.

No Title

When a problem comes your way, look around the corner and you will see an opportunity following.

No Title

People normally feel gratitude and appreciation for what comes unexpectedly, but rarely feel the same way about the routine. And yet the latter can overcome dullness and generate real freshness in our lives, making it gratitude's true frontier.

Each Thing is Indicated Beforehand

One of the profound principles that Karmayogi has revealed to us is that each thing that occurs in life is indicated beforehand. And there are no exceptions. A powerful positive or negative outcome in the future is always indicated by a small or large event earlier on. Thus, if we are conscious of the predecessor (whether or not we perceive it as such), any great negative can be avoided later on. I.e. We can simply consecrate the small negative condition that comes to our attention, and the larger problem will not arise in future.

Also when our consciousness is centered more deeply within, we will perceive such small indicators as pregnant with potentiality, whereas living on the surface misses these subtle warnings.

And yet even if we fail to recognize and consecrate such predecessors when they arise and were then effected negatively affected, we can still practice "past consecrate" to overcome its continued influence in the present.

In the Trollope novel 'Lady Anna' a young woman on a date with her cousin seriously injures her leg while walking across pods of stones on a pond. It would turn out to be a predecessor and harbinger of this man's later complicity in trying to murder her and her beloved.

This dynamic also occurs and is discussed several times by the team in Garry Jacobs' novel 'The Book.'

There is no greater fool than someone who does not respond when Life compels him to take action.

No Title

Dynamic, creative sage individuals breaking down the Truth of existence into a myriad of synthetic Knowledges taught through revolutionary new education systems and approaches are the way forward for the growth, development, and evolution of society.

No Title

The Divine holds our hand through all and if he seems to let us fall, it is only to raise us higher. (Sri Aurobindo)

Life, the Physical Body, and Immortality

Life is immortal, but our physical body that contains it is unconscious and therefore is subject to death. And yet when we open to the supramental power the cells can become conscious so life can be immortal in the body.

Another way to put it: Life is immortal, eternal. If the universe were to disappear, there would still be Life, as it is Energy; the final operation of the Conscious-Force. Chit of Satchitananda. This is Life in creation, and the Life in us as living beings. And yet it is the limits of the body that prevent the life in us from being immortal in a material existence.

However, overcoming the programming of the cells through the Mother's supramental power makes this possible. That immortality of Life in the physical body is the basis of a Divine Life on earth.

The essence, consciousness, and energy of an object, thing does not desist, only the form breaks down, and so those life aspects enters another form. Think of a light bulb. When it burns out, the electricity is not lost. It simply goes into another receptacle. It is also true for we human beings. E.g. the essence of what we have created outlives us in new forms or formations. Even our soul and being continues on into new beings in new births. It can however sustain itself in one life, in our current form when we learn to become physically immortal, something Mother worked on realizing in the latter decades of her life.

Growth Online Comes To An End

After nearly two decades the Growth Online web site I founded has been taken off the air. It may re-emerge in future as a knowledge base of content for something greater. Growth Online has been a site that has organized and interpreted the teachings of Sri Aurobindo, the Mother, Sri Karmayogi, Garry Jacobs, and Roy Posner in the form of hundreds of articles and thousands of inspirational thoughts.

Growth Online peaked at 6000 viewers and 10,000 article reads per day in 2011. I want to personally thank those of you who have fervently supported and believed in the site. I also want to congratulate those of you who have greatly benefited from it. With very best wishes to all. -Roy Posner, Growth Online founder

Reader: Wishing you well Roy in all you do. Thank you for all of your timely advice.

Reader: OMG! Growth Online is my "go-to" for explanations and encouragement. I can scarcely believe it... Of course, I'm excited for you in whatever your endeavors are going forward, Roy... I will sorely miss your vast treasure trove of wisdom.

Response: Thanks Martyn. And yes Kathy it is a big OMG!

However,

Now that Growth Online has been taken off line, it should be noted that a good deal of that material is still available in the form of several of the books I have written. For example, the 20 or so main articles at Growth Online are what make up my book 'Essentials.' Likewise the 300+ shorter articles, called Essays, in Growth Online are what make up my 'A New Way of Living' book. Also a good deal of the knowledge base content of Growth Online, especially since 2010 is captured in my book 'Inspirations.' You can download any of these books at no charge at my personal website here: <http://royposner.weebly.com/>

Reader: You just keep giving and giving, Roy. I have your book on The Phenomenon of Life Response in my living room for me to pick up anytime I sit to relax. I'll be sure to visit your new site! Would you like me to change my link in my website to lead to the Weebly site? I'll be sure to do that if you like!

Response: Yes Kathy, that would be nice.

Reader: This is very sad to hear about Roy Sir. Whenever I want to understand the reason behind the various happenings in life or whenever I would like to learn on how to change my behaviours I always refer to your website. Will be missing the site for sure frown emoticon

Response: Gayathiri, yes I understand your feelings. I share them. But now you have the option of essentially doing those same things but directly with me: smile emoticon <http://royposner.weebly.com/for-the-individual.html>

Reader: Yes agreed Roy Sir and am very very happy about it:-)

Response: Also Growth Online content appears in my books, AND is likely to appear in new forms in future-- eg as part of an Artificial Intelligence system of sorts in new tools/software.

No Title

Make a special effort to help someone else, and quickly thereafter you may receive an unexpected positive response from someone who has just helped you. (It's the life response version of "one good turn deserves another.")

A man overcame his reluctance and made an effort to explore the possibilities for creating a new web site for a friend. Immediately after making that extra effort for her, he received an email from an associate who had now reported that he had completed the voluntary work he had done for the man, but much sooner than the man expected!

It was a startling confluence of the man's self-giving effort with his friend and the self-giving associate's sooner-than-expected completion of the voluntary work. It was Life Response phenomenon in action.

Our Experience of Existence, Conscious Force, Delight (Sat-Chit-Ananda)

According to sage and seer Sri Aurobindo the reason for life on earth is for all sentient beings to express infinitely -varied and intense expression of Joy and Delight of Being. (Ananda in Sanskrit) What then makes this possible?

Sat-Chit-Ananda is the Divine Reality's makeup on the way from its unknowable, ineffable, immutable state to its manifest state in the universe. Sat is the first step out of the ineffable that the Divine takes on its way to creation of a universe of forms. Sat means that the Divine now Exists as Self-Aware infinite spiritual being.

Chit is that that His self-awareness as Infinite consciousness and being generates a Force -- a Conscious-Force -- that will become the basis of the energy and forms of the universe.

Together that Self-Awareness and Conscious Force of the Divine generates a Joy beyond all Joys, a Delight beyond all Delights in Himself. (This is Ananda).

We too are capable of experiencing these same three aspects of Divinity in our own lives, in infinite variation and possibility. In fact, discovery and increasingly experiencing our Higher Nature -- including our True Self and Existence, our Consciousness and Power, and the Delight that follows -- is our very purpose in the cosmos.

(Peace, Harmony, Truth, Wisdom, Knowledge, Goodness, Beauty, Love, Delight, Infinity, and Timelessness are among the spiritual values that we can increasingly experience in this process. They emanate from Sat-Chit-Ananda.)

No Title

When you are struggling to find answers, or your mind is simply overloaded, best to stop thinking about the matter, or not think at all. Not too long after you may be startled by the insights a rested mind conjures up.

No Title

-Everything you see around you is a formation of Spirit. So are your and everyone else's thoughts and feelings and spiritual experiences.

-The universe and all its aspects are variations, different shadings of the One Reality, as is the Divine itself.

No Title

If you eliminate something once great that has now stagnated, life will quickly move forward and present you with Opportunities of a Lifetime.

No Title

Instead of feeling overwhelmed that you have been given too much work, or too many things have taken over your life, be still and feel gratitude for it. See it as an opportunity to grow in new directions through these emerging fresh energies. Life WILL respond to such a thankful attitude: as peace, as ease, as fulfillment of your heart's desire

No Title

The conscious individual is continually shifting from "Attitude" to Gratitude.

No Title

If you are on a line at a restaurant or such and an inexperienced server makes several mistakes that include messing up your order, rather than being upset with that person and condemning their incompetence, consider what karma brought you to that situation in the first place. Whatever the cause, realize that the universe has brought you there to once again learn and truly appreciate the spiritual values of tolerance and patience.

No Title

Things break down in order for new things to build up.

No Title

Each person goes through a unique set of circumstance and challenges in Life in order to accelerate their growth, progress, and evolution.

Making Change at Four Levels of Our Being

It is very difficult for one to overcome the body's illness and decay, as the physical consciousness is virtually fixed. It is somewhat easier to alter one's emotions and feelings from negative to positive in the Vital being, as there is more fluidity there. It is much easier but still not simple to switch one's attachment from one idea to another in the Mind. In the Spirit all is possible, easily shifted and changed, as its dynamic is infinitely fluid and creative.

On India's enormous response to the passing of Dr. Kalam:

It's a great outpouring of affection for what he did, and moreso for the values he stood for. Along with the movement out of corruption, women standing for their rights, and the country taking to technology, India is gradually awakening. Her Spiritual reawakening is another step beyond. Then she can begin to fulfill her destiny as Guru of the World.

No Title

Each movement from unwillingness to willingness attracts a new benefit.

No Title

Today I was sitting near the beach and had the following experience:

"On a very pleasant day, a very few rain drops fell from the sky. Several fell on the screen of my iPhone. One burst into eight mini drops, each about the size of an ant's head. Each glistened in the sun creating a magnificent rainbow effect! Also each had its own color combinations that were constantly shifting and glistening. And equally astonishing the 8 were in the form of a lovely smile! It was a magnificent mini necklace of ever-changing beauty."

No Title

The greater the problem, the greater the opportunity.

No Title

While Self-reliance at first glance seems to separate yourself from others, it actually has the effect of attracting the world to you; especially when it is the True Self you are relying on.

No Title

Disappointment is a product of expectation, which arises out of impatience and/or desire.

No Title

In strained situations shifting from our capacities to Mother's Capacities reduces tensions substantially, while attracting marvelous conditions.

No Title

Americans are very fast and free to express their opinions, sometimes startling people from other lands. And yet Americans are also often ready and willing to pull back and change their points of view when they learn the facts. Wouldn't it be better for them to be silent in the first place and wait till they have all the details, and then offer their opinions; or better still not express them at all? Then other peoples would rush to and be absorbed in their profound wisdom!

No Title

Restraint from expressing one's opinions in a social situation requires self-control and humility. It is essential for conscious living.

No Title

The need to be constantly humorous often masks underlying pain.

The Missing Piece of the Puzzle

You can do everything right in your life, in your organization and company, and yet just one quality can trip you up; can block success; even be the cause of failure.

And yet from a cosmic perspective it is one reason you have been born into this life: to discover what that missing piece is, - whether a wrong attitude overcome, an ill-suited habit or belief now understood - completing the puzzle of your existence. Life then responds to that higher movement and blossoms in every way possible.

It is also why you're Soul, the Psychic being within has taken birth in your body; to uncover a higher knowledge that has been missing in its existence, but now discovered through your advance in consciousness. By discovering the chink in your armor that you have now overcome, your True Self has attained a new level of Satisfaction in its cosmic Journey through Life and beyond.

So what is the missing piece of the puzzle in your life? And once you discover what that is, are you willing to make the full effort to overcome it? It is after all the main reason why you are here.

At each point we embrace change, success turns into more or greater success. However, at each point we are unwilling to change, or are self-satisfied, we tend to fall back into the pack, or worse. Interestingly, this dynamic and requirement appears to be accelerating in the world.

The Domination of Our Physical/Material Being

We know that matter does not change of its own volition. The stone doesn't change because it wishes to do so. And that physical nature, which expresses as in the form of our own physical body inherits that fixed nature of matter, limiting are various capacities of being.

In fact each of the planes of our being are held back by the bedrock of our physical/material makeup.

Our life force and VITAL being cannot continue on indefinitely because the physical substance in which it dwells is unable to maintain itself, decays and eventually dies. Thus the life plane is subject to the limitations of the material substance of our body.

The MENTAL consciousness cannot fully know The truth of things and lives in ignorance because the mind lives on the surface of life, seeing the world through the material senses of the physical body; the eyes that see, the ears that hear, dominating our thought processes, keeping us from rational thought and knowing the true truth of things.

Even the SPIRITUAL nature is held back by the physical/material layer of our being because when one rises through elevation of consciousness, thereafter the physical being and its fixed, unchanging nature pulls one back down to our old ways, our limited, fixed habits, to the predictability of routine. As a result the spiritual experience some fades, we are forced to try once more.

Only through intense development of our consciousness, including coming in touch with our Deepest Being and by opening to the Spiritual Force can we overcome the regressive physical/material domination over us; over the its stranglehold over the planes of our nature; releasing us into an entire new world of infinite consciousness and infinite possibilities. This is one aspect of the integral yoga that Sri Aurobindo asks of us in order to make the transformational change.

No Title

The constant contradictions, conflicts, divisions of life is the difficult method of Nature's progress. At first glance it can seem without purpose, or if purposeful, then painful.

Yet the resolution of contradictions enable greater subtlety, complexity and puissance to emerge in the world, which means greater organization, which is higher consciousness; furthering, accelerating human evolution.

No Title

Efforts of Transformation of our being as Sri Aurobindo and Karmayogi have devised it is no easy undertaking; is not for the meek of heart. And yet it is infinitely rewarding; beyond anything else we can possibly experience in life.

No Title

One false attitude about money is to only care about what you receive, not thinking about the other person and what THEY deserve.

No Title

Nature evolves by turning contradiction and conflict between dual pairs into resolution through higher harmony. Thus, secretly they are not really contradictions at all, but are actually complementaries that need one another for their individual growth.

No Title

If Life wants to move, there is almost nothing you can do to stop it.

No Title

In this age of nonconformity and individuality, nearly everyone conforms.

(I.e. compared to the Conscious life we can live, we are content with an ordinary existence that for the most part is in lock step with others.)

No Title

If you don't give objects the attention and respect they deserve, they may cease cooperating and operating properly when being used. They may even lash out at your indifference and disrespect.

No Title

Depend not on your skills, your energies, your wherewithal, brilliance, expertise, etc., but on Her. You'll get to where you are going much faster, with greater ease; in stillness and silence; with richness and deep inner pleasure.

No Title

Holding back expression of insightful solutions inwardly compels others to come around and make the changes you silently withheld. It is a version of what Karmayogi calls "Silent Will."

No Title

Lost in, absorbed in, and acting from Mother is the ultimate form of Individuality.

Reader: All our outside becoming inside!

No Title

Let go of fear of future events and circumstance. Depend on Her instead, and all will work out magnificently.

No Title

If we rise to a challenging situation with calm and unshakable faith in the spiritual Force, the Mother, the results are bound to astonish.

A trainer had a very difficult situation in front of him. It involved a very critical client for whom he would provide materials for a series of training sessions. At first he panicked, working feverishly with all his skill to develop the content. However, he was still overwhelmed by the situation; as he had limited information and resources at his disposal. It was as if he had one hand tied behind his back.

Perceiving the enormity of the situation and the great pressure he was under, the instructor suddenly switched direction and decided to give up depending on his capacities and skills, and instead relied fully on the spirit; in his case the Divine Mother.

From that point on everything worked out perfectly! Not only the development of the all-important materials, but the magnificent unfolding of the class itself. He had travelled a road from confusion and pain to one of clarity and bliss.

Comment: A trainer had a very difficult situation in front of him. It involved a very critical client in a series of training sessions. At first he panicked and worked hard with all the skill to develop the materials. However, he was still overwhelmed by the situation; as he had limited resources and therefore one hand tied behind his back. Perceiving the normative the situation and the pressure he was under, he suddenly which directions and decided to give up depending on his own skill and wherewithal, and instead rely fully on Mother. From that point on everything worked out perfectly; not only the development of the all-important materials but the beautiful unfolding of the class itself.

No Title

Modern life is moving at ever-increasing speed, and it is difficult for us to keep up using normal human methods. However, by opening to the supramental Force, to Mother we are not only able to keep up, but we often move AHEAD of life, which is a wonder to behold.

No Title

Whenever possible, do not insist on your suggestion. Instead state your case, be patient, and let it go. If the other party comes around to your position, Life will respond and things will tend to work out for the best.

Example: A man suggested to his colleague that she upgrade to a new version of the computer's operating system software. She reacted with some degree of irritation. Recognizing the situation, the man withdrew his emotions and forgot the matter entirely. A couple of days later, the colleague came around and was now eager to install that very same software. When she did, it all worked out splendidly!

No Title

As we move forward, what are we to do? We have to continually be vigilant and alert, and make the right decisions based on the conditions. We will know those things, look into what is necessary, when our Consciousness has risen; when we are in a deeper place that spontaneously looks out onto the world as Silent Witness. Then we will know how to proceed, and thereby journey forth and help bring about the Wonders of the world.

Entryway to Love

People want Love from another or others. But Love is not something you take, but something you GIVE. Because of our inherited animal nature - desire, need, want, etc. - we are not wired to think that way. However, we can change.

Giving love and affection to others in the many details of our daily lives is a way to build up Love. A simpler way still is to stop being Selfish. When we realize how often we are selfish, acting out of Ego in the course of our day, unconcerned about the needs and feelings of others, then we will begin to understand the nature of Love. Ridding ourselves of that selfishness and ego each time it arises is the entryway into Love. Love is to give Love, not to take it.

No Title

From one perspective love of children and parents and family is for the most part a form of Ego. It is self-love extended to our extended body. On the other hand, True Love is for anyone you normally interact with. Being genuinely affectionate toward each person we encounter in the course of our day is a powerful way to express our Love in life.

No Title

Property is ego. What we call love is mostly ego. Our ambitions is ego. Our negative attitudes, habits, and opinions are ego. Many of our values and beliefs are filled with ego. In one sense we are an ego being, Ego Man.

Reader: Property is a key to ego and to empires..... And to poverty and starvation. Realising that is the beginning of equality in my opinion.

Response: "Ego is duality and predominantly in control, until awareness of truth floods in light." very nicely put.

Yes, property goes back to animals vying for territory. In general, defensively it was somewhat less an ego movement of preservation, unless there was selfishness. The aggressive pursuit of property is more likely to be ego-oriented.

No Title

We humans do nearly anything now to collect things and strengthen our property that we are so attached to. In the spiritual age beginning to emerge the attachment to possession of property begins to wane. We value it far less. Ironically we may reach that state by first having the property attachment instinct.

That's how Nature progresses; from Ignorance to Knowledge, with Ignorance necessary as a spur to attaining greater Knowledge/Truth.

No Title

Rather than condemn a person's questionable opinion, if you politely and sincerely accept it for what it is - at face value without judgment, - often, on their own, without any prompting from you, the other party will soon come around and embrace your deeper perspective of things. It is yet another form of Silent Will in action.

Sri Aurobindo's Birthday - today, August 15th

Sri Aurobindo worked for Indian Freedom in the field of politics between 1906 and 1910. His inner voice told Him that Indian Freedom was achieved and HE was meant for other work. Indian Freedom arrived on His birthday. When Mountbatten was asked why he chose August 15th, he answered that was the day on which Japan surrendered. Sri Aurobindo fought the World War in the subtle plane and that victory too came on His birthday. He prophesied that India would become the Guru of the World. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

Blaming indicates powerlessness. Taking inner responsibility instead, moving life, improving that condition from within is true Power.

No Title

On Sri Aurobindo's birthday, August 15th, the following occurred through the years:

-Date of Sri Aurobindo's Birth (1872)

- Date of India's Independence (1947)
- Date of Pakistan Independence (1947)
- Date of end of WWII in Asia, which ended entire war (1945)
- Date of the birth of Napoleon (Sri Aurobindo in previous birth, Mother wondered?) (1769)
- The Beatles come to America, changing youth culture and beginning of hippies and baby boomers, many of whom advocated New Age teachings (1965)
- Date of Woodstock Music Festival; Global hippie movement central event (1968)
- Date of Feast of Assumption ("Mother" Mary taken to heaven. The Divine Mother was adopted by Catholic church (30 AD).
- Panama Canal opens, as opening to global trade and internationalism (1914)
- Apple launches iMac and the rebirth of the company with Steve Jobs returning. Apple is vanguard of tech revolution. (1998)

(all are openings in the world, with Sri Aurobindo leading the way from within; ushering in a New World.)

No Title

In Sri Aurobindo's view, Nature progresses from Ignorance to Knowledge, with Ignorance as a necessary stage and spur to attaining greater Knowledge and Truth.

No Title

For those of a more mental bent it is worth noting that if you read something that is clearly not true and is not to your liking it is best to withdraw all attempts to respond, such as typing in a comment at a web site, instead holding inside your thoughts and feelings. As a result, a short time later, e.g. a week's time or so there may be news reports that completely validate your point of view. The more you hold it within and detach yourself emotionally from the issue, the greater and faster the response of life validating your own truer understanding.

Reader: I read that one prominent Lama has stated that the burning sensation we feel when we try to contain anger, burns up negative sanskaras. It probably applies to any area we are trying to transform.

Response: Yes, withholding of one's point of view often also involves the holding back of irritation or even anger. It is interesting that, as the llama says, controlling them can also overcome other accumulated negative baggage.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo's Silence and Peace can be tangibly felt on his birthday August 15th.

Opening of Mind at the Outset of Sri Aurobindo's Path

In Sri Aurobindo's path, often the first opening is not of the Heart, or in the substance of the physical Body, or even the radiance of the Spirit, but rather in the higher experiences of the Mind; i.e. in the expansion of Mind to garner Knowledge and Truth through light, intuition, and other spiritual powers of Mind. That begins the process of lifting one out of one's essential Ignorance born of creation towards a many-sided and deep integral Knowledge of ourselves and the nature of Life.

Now that the Way forward is charted and understood, the follower of His path can open to the supramental (Mother's) Force above and to the psychic entity within, which along with personal inner effort slowly perfects and transforms the parts of the being - including the lower emotions, negative attitudes, and outworn habits of the Vital plane; the opening and blossoming of the Heart and it centers, including the active experience of higher emotions of self-givingness and gratitude; and culminates in the transmutation of the very material essence of the physical body to create the beginnings of unending physical life on earth.

Comment: This was similar to my own experience. At first I had intuitions of the higher, divine life on earth Sri Aurobindo and Mother laid out for us, and only later was I able to regularly open to Mother's Force and bring about powerful life response results. There continued the inner effort of the recognition and overcoming of the negative attitudes and such, as well as a deepening of the consciousness within, and further expansions of the Mind to more revelatory heights (including subtle perceptions, perceiving subtle life laws, perceiving signs and portents, etc). Along the way life has been sprinkled with powerful meditations, deep feelings of peace and experiences of silence, feelings of divine Presence within, perception of the Transcendent Reality, powerful inspirations and revelations, and so forth. Perhaps most significantly, the miraculous has increasingly become the commonplace.

Making a Cross-Road Decision

Often we are compelled to make a cross-road decision, such as whether or not to do a particular thing. As we all can attest to, sometimes it is not easy to decide. And yet we can make the best decision if we follow a process, which goes something like this:

In two columns think about and write down the positive and negatives involved in the situation. Think of the positive and negative both as it relates to your own consciousness within, the Internals, as well as the External conditions, atmosphere. Whichever one dominates, - positive or negative -- choose in that direction.

Eg a man wasn't sure if he should go on a trip. He wrote down the positive as it relates to his own consciousness and the positive externals. He did the same for the negative side. He saw that the positives outweighed the negatives, and decided to go on the trip. The trip went splendidly. Life responded all around in the positive.

(What I am narrating is essentially the 4-Quadrant approach of Karmayogi. That approach also indicates whether a potential decision taken would have short or long term success or failure.)

Love and Hate

Hate is the inversion, perversion of Love. You normally cannot have hate without an origin of Love. E.g. in the legend of King Arthur, Mordred hated his father because he wasn't acknowledged by the king as his son. He therefore spent the rest of his life in hate trying to destroy his father. We see similar things in the Middle East between the Israelis and Palestinians (who have common roots and origin of homeland), between Sunnis and Shiites, between Indian Hindus and Muslims in Pakistan, in every imaginable form of relationship between individuals, etc. etc.

Reader: That's because we have been conditioned to believe in polarity when in reality there is only oneness. We've just forgot!

Response: Yes, it's true. Ego and our deep attachment to the belief behind it dominates. However, later generations tend to evolve out of the past influences as their interests are different - e.g. emerging into prosperity - and as a result the past conflicts begin to loosen and then dissolve. This is one path of Nature.

Other paths are War, and in the case of an evolutionary movement, a recognition of one's foolishness and falsehood. But even in the latter case it often comes after the Physical (animal-like) Consciousness is shaken to its core through a great trauma, thereby opening one to change. Very rarely will it come through sudden shifts to Higher Harmony (such as the Egypt - Israeli agreement years back; or the sudden end to the Cold War.)

And yet with the Supramental Power this is very possible. One man can practice it, and sudden good fortune will follow for wider collectives. Hate then dissolves, and harmony and common interest, and even love can take their place through the action of the Spiritual Force, the Mother. This is of course for an enlightened world, which we have barely begun to realize. In the meantime, we can do our very best in our individual lives to bring about more harmonic conditions. Sri Aurobindo says that one man can [from within] change the world. We can prove him right!

From Immortality to the New Body and Species

In Her 14-volume Agenda Mother explains in vast detail the physical change She was undergoing by opening to the supramental Force for the purpose of transmuting the programming of Her cells. Near the end She said Sri Aurobindo could return in a new birth with the New Body; i.e. with the organs replaced by Centers of Consciousness. Still She wasn't entirely sure He would be the one.

She describes this new person as very tall, svelte, sexless, devoid of the major biological systems (digestion, breathing, etc.) with a great illumined head. In Agenda She narrates how She became this New Being in the subtle physical in one of her many extraordinary supra-physical experiences.

Then how does a material organ of substance turn into a center of consciousness? She said it begins when the cells are convinced of their immortality. And being non-decaying, immortal, unending would then serve as a foundation for a change of the material substance into centers of Consciousness, replacing organs and such. In other words, the cells becoming more conscious would evolve new, more subtle structures, formations culminating in non-material centers of consciousness and being. In that way a new human species, the Supramental Being, would be born.

No Title

Sometimes the best addition comes through subtraction.

Reader: Sir can you please elaborate on this

Response: Example: A sports team was doing terribly. The coach couldn't figure out what the problem was. He tried everything including bringing in new players, but nothing worked. Then he came to realize that one particular member of the squad was causing dissension on the team and in the organization. At first the coach and management did not take action against him. Problems persisted. Then one day they took action and rid themselves of this one player. Suddenly everything started going well. During the next several weeks they went from the worst team to the very best in their division, an incredible turnaround, all due to "addition," i.e. improvement through subtraction by ridding themselves of a troublemaking individual.

Other examples:

- Accumulating too many possessions
- Eating less when obese
- Remaining silent instead of hogging the conversation
- Taking up too many projects at once, or reducing scope when bloated
- Shedding a hostile friend
- Reduced, slimmed down content in an article
- Slimming down the organization when it is too bureaucratic
- Reducing the number of tasks on a bloated agenda
- Less thinking
- Applying Values like simplicity and ease of use

Mother on Food and Nutrition

Some of the things I recall Mother saying or implying about food from a spiritual perspective are:

- Essentially eating is for nutrition, upkeep of the body; not for pleasure.
- The more subtle the forms of food, the better that serves this purpose.
- She commented how vitamins are examples of one efficient way to ingest nutrition; is but one example of more subtle foods that can be developed in future.
- She was not anti-meat eating, as it was a source of protein, energy, etc.

-Part of Mother's mission and focus was on the transformation of the body where there would be no need for the gross, material digestive system in the first place.

-"Food" too would evolve new subtle forms.

-That one could even learn to absorb Energy directly through the ether was another of Her hypothesis that she experimented on.

-She essentially believed that if people spent 1/10th the time elevating their consciousness compared to time spent obsessing and focusing on food, it would be a real progress.

Reader: I saw a documentary on this guy who promotes sun gazing as a form of nutrition and self-development; he got the initial inspiration from the Mother.

Comment: Very interesting.

In Agenda Mother narrates how as an experiment She tried to gain Energy by absorbing it from the atmosphere, but then She kept losing weight! So She stopped.

No Title

Best to avoid acting superior to any person, for that individual may hold the key to your future happiness and success.

No Title

To clearly perceive the situation at hand and know precisely what to do at every moment is an indicator of an evolved consciousness.

No Title

Truth of facts silences opinions.

No Title

Detachment is non-reaction to the intensities of life around us, which has the effect of resolving the issue at hand or eliciting another positive outcome.

An Unexpected Financial Delight

A management consultant friend of mine got involved in a new burgeoning enterprise. At various points he switched from being a consultant to one of the investors and partners, and then to consultant once again.

At one point he got very upset with the other partners who at that point were unwilling to invest their funds and move the project forward. As a result in the days that followed there was much tension and anxiety; especially for him.

One day he came to realize that he was pushing so hard on the money issue because he wanted to buy a special boat that had become available. After receiving condemnation from one of his trusted friends, he realized his false behavior, and as a result consciously decided to detach himself from the whole money issue.

A couple of weeks later he was astonished to discover that the other partners had decided to lend him the money so that he could now be one of the investors in the company, thereby promising him big potential returns in future.

As we see, when we shift from desire for and attachment to money and what it can bring, we can suddenly attract money from out of nowhere; often from the most unlikely sources; and often in the dearest and most precious ways. It is yet another instance of the life response power of coming to grips with and overcoming one's unconscious, false behavior.

No Title

Management of an organization cannot just advocate high corporate Values for the company without implementing it at every level, from the very top to the smallest details of the lowest paying jobs. It is key to Values implementation in the organization and the vast success that issues from it.

No Title

Karmayogi indicates we need to capitalize on the inner resource -- whether detachment, goodwill, shedding a wanting attitude, consecration, etc. -- that brought about a magnificent positive response from life by continually reusing it as well as expanding it in new directions.

No Title

I am enamored and in awe of how easily Krishna shifted back and forth between his human poise and his true being as divine Lord of All. What makes the transition smooth is his utter humility, self-givingness, service, and love in his human status.

No Title

Unnecessary speech – in terms of words spoken, volume, etc. – distances you from success. Verbal silence has the opposite effect.

Sincerity and the Secret of Creation

Knowledge gains power when it moves from thought to action. When the Idea turns into a strategy that we act on, then knowledge is empowered. Another way of putting it is that we can move from superficial interest in the idea to true Sincerity of application through strategies and action. As a result, we generate an irresistible force that attracts the successful accomplishment of the idea. It comes as an unexpected, unprecedented, powerful Response from life. This is the Secret of Creation; of manifestation and accomplishment in the world.

No Title

We are not just "consumers" as the economists say; rather we are human beings with human needs. Let us measure the success of our economy based on such values alone.

No Title

If a problem seems to be developing up ahead, don't assume it will continue that way. Holding back that negative expectation will quickly free up conditions to your benefit.

Example: you're driving your car on a busy highway and suddenly the traffic up ahead is coming to a standstill. You assume that you are at the beginning of a long traffic jam, and therefore a long wait. Instead you catch yourself and assume no such thing. As a result only a few minutes later traffic starts moving, flowing, and the backup completely clears out! It's a complete reversal from your earlier perception. That is the power of not giving in to a negative expectation. Life takes over and you are once again aligned with the very best conditions.

No Title

Our apparent separative individuality is only a surface movement and behind it our real individuality stretches out to unity with all things and upward to oneness with the transcendent Divine Infinity. (Sri Aurobindo, The Life Divine)

Reader: The mirror has a lot to answer for!

No Title

Sincerely owning up to and apologizing for a wrong behavior can evoke an instantaneous, startling response from life.

Piano Synchronicity and the Power of Intention

A long-time friend of mine who was staying with his elderly parents decided that he wanted to take up the piano after many years of guitar and other music playing. He would start from scratch. His strategy was to pick out 10 songs he was familiar with and then try to figure it out on the piano.

At the residence there was a recreation area where others could come in and play the instrument, though the piano itself was hardly ever used, especially during this particular season of the year.

Just as the man dedicated himself to learning the first song on the instrument, giving up all hesitation and taking an action, a couple walked into the condo music room and b-lined it straight for the piano where he was sitting. No one hardly ever came to this area, yet right at the moment he decided to practice the composition the couple arrived. When the man asked the woman (who was approximately the same age) why she marched over to the piano, she said with smiling enthusiasm that she'd just finished her 5th piano lesson and was excited about learning to play more of the piano when she retires from work shortly!

The man was startled at these turn of events; that just as he was making this new beginning to learn the piano someone else had come over who also had decided to take up the piano and had now progressed to her 5th lesson.

When you truly focus your interest and attention on doing something, life has a funny way of cooperating with that intent and bringing forces and forms that substantiate your intention. The man's intention, including his decision and action to get started, was mirrored by woman suddenly arriving with virtually the same intent; and doing so synchronously to a place at a piano that was nearly always abandoned. That is the power of giving up all hesitation, fixing your intention, and acting on it. Life cooperates with corresponding positive conditions. An abandoned piano suddenly attracts more users in a joyous occasion of synchronicity among the parties.

No Title

Magnificent irony: the greatest form of individuality is when that person's Self uplifts the collective.

Comment: Eg Steve Jobs, Leonardo de Vinci, Krishna, etc.

No Title

Every outer problem can be resolved inwardly.

Comment: This a concept foreign to humanity, as it believes the way to solve the problem is to attack it head on- i.e. outwardly, materially; as opposed to movements in consciousness, where no outer connection is initiated between parties. I.e. where we raise our consciousness - through inner methods of silence, non-reaction, consecration, overcoming wrong attitude, habit, motive, belief, - and then Life instantly responds positively on its own, SELF-RESOLVING the problem. And yet this will increasingly be the way for humanity to resolve its problems in future.

No Title

When we ask for something through prayer, the response is limited to our level of intensity, sincerity, receptivity, etc. Consecration however as we know it in its purity of "Thy Will be Done," and even more so as yogic movement of Surrender in life, has no limits. It is the Force acting unencumbered, doing precisely what It (the Mother) wants.

Changing Genes through Higher Consciousness

While an international debate focuses on whether we should modify the human genome to create more perfect children who are less susceptible to disease and of a higher intelligence, many know that can be accomplished through various methods of elevation of consciousness; and done so without potential negative side effects.

Just taking to a more silent mind; and shedding negative attitudes and habits; and opening to the spiritual Force can readily bring about those hoped for positive effects. (Eg the woman known as the Mother spent decades calling in the Supramental Power to alter the programming of the cells of Her body.) Moreover, those powerful results can also be passed down through the genes to future generations, who can take further steps still.

While society focuses on the ethical issues surrounding gene-manipulation to create enhanced humans, they miss the deeper potential to make real what the material-oriented scientists hope to achieve, but not through their one-dimensional physical approach.

No Title

The greatest technology we have to move life lies within.

No Title

Everyone blames everyone else when things are not to their liking, but only a very few take inner responsibility instead. It's too bad, because that is where all the inner power lies to attract outer positive conditions (that one has unsuccessfully been trying to resolve through outer means of blame)....

No Title

The best way to converse with another is to connect with their Soul and Essence in a conversation. It engenders goodwill, harmony, and sparkling interaction.

Soul of the Family

Each family is uniquely constructed so that through their interaction and contradiction each member has the opportunity to grow to a higher level; individually and collectively. We can perhaps call it "Soul of the Family" that has been born into this life through its members, just as there have been past births and there will be future ones. Families are therefore constructed by the Divine and manifest in life for an evolutionary purpose: to grow its members out of its Ignorance toward an ever-increasing higher consciousness.

Comment: Between births the soul retreats into a nether realm and figures how to reenter the universe; through which person it will profit from inhabiting. This psychic entity collaborates with Nature and the unfoldings in the universe it will reenter - determining where one is born, which is the appropriate family to enter to enable Its growth and the growth of the person who hosts the soul.

No Title

By studying human nature as it unfolds around you, you can truly begin to understand the Psychological conditions of life. By perceiving the subtle unfoldings of life, including the flow of activities and events around you, you will learn the deepest laws and principles of Nature, of Existence. Together the Psychological and Universal knowledge and power will flow and grow within you.

No Title

An open soul will readily respond to suggestions for improvement in their nature. Souls tinged with ego will battle and battle against the truth of things until they eventually relent and the barrier breaks down. Often it takes a psychological or other form of trauma for their physical consciousness to loosen its grip, freeing them of ego, and thereby creating an opening to others' suggestions for improvement in their nature.

Big Life Lessons from a Big Tree Branch

One life principle that periodically presents itself is that one should avoid reminiscing about past mini-disasters; otherwise, new ones will suddenly descend on you.

Recent Example: A man reminisced with his friend about small negative experiences each had in their childhood. Both exchanged several stories about troubled events.

A little while later the man went for a drive. When he parked his car, another car - a craftsman's truck, - drove into an empty space just in front of his car and nearly banged into it. When the worker got out of his car, he grimaced as his wrist suddenly hurt.

The first man then walked around the block for some exercise. When he returned near his parking space on the street, he saw that a gigantic tree overhead had collapsed and fallen on the three cars behind his! He was very lucky that the huge eucalyptus tree branch didn't destroy his own vehicle.

There are two points to note here. One is that a small event will indicate a much larger one to come. When the worker man nearly knocked into the first man's car and then indicated pain in his wrist, it was an indication of the big tree collapse to come.

Second, as mentioned at the outset, blithely discussing earlier disasters invariably attacks more of them soon after.

One other point: Had the first man recognized the situation from an inner perspective and consecrated the near collision of the worker's car into his, the tree falling incident never would have happened.

No Title

According to Sri Aurobindo to overcome the Practical Ignorance of not knowing what is truly going on in our lives, what we should do next, and where we stand in the scheme of things, we would need to overcome all the other Ignorances. I.e. we would need to consciously experience all of the parts of our being, commune with the Divine, and be one with, in identity with the omnipresent Reality itself to truly know how to carry out our moment to moment lives in the Light. That is the evolutionary challenge before us.

No Title

The more you hold back from boasting about an accomplishment, or letting others know of your fine result, etc. the more life builds upon and expands it. On the other hand, impulsively, impatiently, or gleefully expressing the result can quickly diminish what has already been attained.

No Title

Think about the companies you're familiar with, and the deepest values that underlie their success. Then think of the individuals around you, and the deepest personal values that are the basis of their accomplishments. Now consider all these values in total, and you will begin to understand the essence and power behind the heartbeat of life.

Nature of Money and Our Capacity to Attract It (updated)

Money is a Social power; ultimately a Divine power. It exists primarily through human Trust; and in ever more subtle forms:

- barter of goods
- gold for good
- coin for goods
- bills for goods
- checks
- credit cards

-transfer through pulses of electricity

The greater the Trust the newer and more subtle the forms of money.

Eventually through highest trust and social progress money starts self-multiplying. Money is then available in vast quantities, approaching infinite.

There is vast amount of money in the world; much of it unused and uncirculated. Pressures of society and higher consciousness can rectify this.

The more money circulates, the more of it is produced. Eg bank deposits are loaned out by banks, causing 6 to 1 boost.

The more society evolves, the higher the consciousness, the more money SELF-replicates. Apple has $200B it doesn't know what to do with, an indicator of self-replicating money emerging in society.

Money enables development in society, even as development produces more money. They feed off one another.

However, Man is a slave to money. At its worst it becomes Black Money that can destroy, individuals, parties, and the entire society.

He who works for service of others, with money a distant thought can attract the most (as in Silicon Valley).

Highest consciousness brings out the social utility and divinity of money.

As Man evolves in consciousness money is increasingly available in right quantity, time, and place. It self-distributes exactly as necessary, needed.

The more Trust in the world, the more new forms of money and distribution models are created in society.

There are many laws we can practice to attract money via life response phenomenon, including-

- higher levels of cleanliness and orderliness
- shedding negative attitudes, habits, and beliefs
- collecting all monies owed to you
- paying off every debt you have
- circulating rather than hoarding it
- service and self-givingness as goal, not money
- soft speech and fewer words
- intention, decision, action to achieve a goal

The devotee thinks of the spiritual Force, the Divine in all money transactions. As a result money functions and flows in just the right way.

The sadhak of integral yoga has no interest in seeking and accumulating money, and it thus can fly to him when it is needed.

At one level Money is a neutral force, dependent on the consciousness of the holder.

Ultimately however Money is a vast social power available for the benefit of society, reflecting its ultimate and true nature as a Divine force and power, carrying out the Intent of the Infinite Consciousness through its infinite circulation in the world.

No Title

Each of us are here to go through a particular and unique set of challenging situations in order to further our own personal growth and progress.

No Title

Shifting from dependence on your skill, capacity and wherewithal to Mother in a challenging situation not only elicits great positive results, but causes one to be engulfed by a profound spiritual peace.

Faith that Brings Courage

Courage is not just a physical attribute, but a psychological one as well, like when we dig deep and summon the inner strength to face a life challenge. Fortunately we have Mother to rely on, to have faith in, providing us with the inner strength and fortitude to face any situation. When we then act in that context, we discover to our surprise that everything actually moves quite smoothly; far more easily than we might have imagined. Then we come to realize that such strength-demanding life challenges are actually adventures of consciousness and joy when supported by the power of the Spirit.

No Title

All problems have come to teach us life lessons, so we can grow.

No Title

The Divine is constantly presenting us with situations that we can learn from. However we tend to cherry-pick what is convenient instead of eagerly harvesting that vast abundance of Truth and Knowledge.

No Title

From a Higher consciousness we perceive all events around us as perfectly flowing and unfolding in a symphony of interrelatedness.

From a highest consciousness perspective, the only one who can disturb your current psychological status and well-being is your own self.

No Title

Cleverness is a gift; kindness is a choice. (Jeff Bezos)

Comment: It's a beautiful remark.

To be kind requires a kind of conscious awareness of a situation, a momentary movement within, and then a reaching across the chasm that divides us in order to help or be of service to another. It is a conscious choice; which is really a divine-like choice. It puts aside our focus on our own needs, concerns, and agenda, - encapsulated as Ego - and enjoins Other in a sweet gesture of momentary soul embrace.

The Role of Mind and Self-Reflection on Sri Aurobindo's Path

In Sri Aurobindo's integral yoga, even in the general approach, Mind or mental understanding leads the way. The context of all methods is a mental awareness of the truth of things, including one's level of knowledge and consciousness even if very limited at the outset. He is not looking for devotees who merely have great enthusiasm and devotion, but do not know what the purpose and context they are practicing it in. He wants reflective individuals who are self-aware of their strengths and limitations even as they are on a journey of progress.

And yet ironically at a further stage of His path rational mind will be increasingly shed in deference to mental silence, intuition without thought, and even higher formations of understanding of spiritual mind and the guiding influence from our deepest depths. It peaks at revelation and then supramental perception where there is complete multi-sided knowledge in that context along with a power for that Truth manifesting as something real in the world.

As defined in Life Divine book ours is a journey from Ignorance to Integral Knowledge of the true nature of ourselves and the universe, spirit, the Reality. The Mind and its understanding plays a vital role in perceiving our Ignorance and the road we have to travel to reach the Integral Knowledge and Truth of existence. Knowing who we are and what life is the mind, mental yoga that needs to complement the yoga of the heart, devotion, and that of works.

They are together seamless in his evolutionary path, though mind and efforts of being self-aware of our strengths and limits leads the way.

No Title

Sticking with the tried-and-true can prove to be a very good strategy provided that subconsciously it is not blocking the emergence of the Dynamic and New.

No Title

Capacity to restrain ourselves from speaking ill of any person in public garners a great power to attract success. Goodness and humility are the spiritual values behind such positive behavior.

No Title

At each moment consider the situation, and then try do the right thing in consciousness. Each time you do, life will respond in your favor.

No Title

The essence of 'The Secret' is that negative thoughts and emotions attract negative circumstance, while positive thoughts and feelings attract positives ones. It is a simple yet profound truism; indicating that the inner and the outer are One, without separation; a single continuous stream of existence.

Psychic Being is Spirit in the Ascent

Sri Aurobindo says in The Life Divine that we know God in the descent, but we do not know God in the ascent. God in the descent is the Parameshwara who has willed the creation. But what is God in the ascent? It is the godhead concealed in Matter that is evolving from Matter and progressively manifesting itself. That is the psychic.

It is not outside of the evolution. It is the seed of spiritual consciousness that is awakening through our conscious experience in Prakriti (Nature).

When we talk about the soul that goes through the experience of life after life and evolves and gains knowledge, we really mean the psychic. (Garry Jacobs, Lectures on Sri Aurobindo's The Life Divine)

No Title

"Romance is the ultimate adventure and the greatest mystery."

It is an adventure because it's an adventure of consciousness; that is, through your interrelationship you are afforded the opportunity to grow as an individual, and together. It is a mystery because you have taken to the unknowns of Love, whose majesty is constantly being revealed, even as it can never be fully realized.

No Title

It is said that the more intense our romantic relationship is on the surface, the more brittle and likely it will fail. On the other hand, the more affectionate, self-giving, and deep the connection, the more likely it will last: even last forever. It is because such a bond engenders so much joy that neither party would ever want to extricate themselves from it.

Then where do you stand (or wish to stand) in the scale of romance? Here's a range that RomanceEternal has developed to help you come up with an answer:

<http://romanceeternal.org/article/ten-levels-romance>

No Title

The trend of Evolution is increasingly to accomplish the outer from within.

No Title

Within discretion it is best for the devotee to be very responsive to what others ask of him, as it ordinarily has the sanction of the Higher Power.

No Title

As soon as you give up your reluctance, the world opens up.

Example: A man was reluctant to address what he thought was a minor request from his business friend, as he felt the other person was not seeing the bigger picture. After seeing that his own perspective was not penetrating the mind of his business friend, he gave up his reluctance, took the other person's point of view, and accepted in full the associate's request. As a result of working on that task, the man now clearly saw a way forward for their future collaboration on a great major project in the life of both.

No Title

Allowing yourself to be pushed one step beyond your physical or psychological breaking point shatters limits and opens up a world of new possibilities.

Reader: moving out of the comfort zone

Response: Yes

No Title

Not to feel the challenge is one trait of equality [of being]. (Sri Karmayogi)

Comment: Suppose there is a request for you to perform a class within a week, and you have no materials, nor any obvious way to attain such. Normally this hits one as a challenge as the mind and vital react. On the other hand, Equality of Being is to be absolutely undisturbed by the challenge, to be utterly still, and in that context know how to proceed. If one has deep faith, then one also knows it has come for a purpose, which helps build and sustain that equal state.

No Title

Detaching fully from money while being truly self-giving to others in the work attracts more opportunity, thus more money.

No Title

We are not here to do good in order to go to heaven, but rather we are here to bring down heaven and it's Divine values and attributes to help establish a more evolved humanity and thereby a divine life on earth.

No Title

Indian sages discovered the Infinite Brahman and devised various yogic disciplines to reach him. The main condition is to give up life. In a world where rationality is not yet the ruling force, Sri Aurobindo saw that Man can evolve into the next species, the Supramental Being, if 12 yogis attain the Supramental consciousness. In their absence, HE decided to achieve that goal by working in the subtle plane, left the body in 1950 and achieved it in 1956. The Divine Mother continued His work and reached further spiritual heights.

Sri Aurobindo added a new dimension to yoga: the Infinite Force above can descend into our finite life and flower as Spiritual Prosperity, which includes material abundance. Yoga is not for all, but the yogic force is available to all for progress in life. One who invokes this Force can witness his life endlessly expanding. What the West has achieved in the last 500 years using the power of Mind, Indians can achieve in a very short time if they know how to express the Spiritual Power in daily life.

(from the preface of booklet 'Spiritual Opulence' by Sri Karmayogi)

Life Response Book and the Check

I had a number of bills coming up and was dependent on a large check coming in the mail to cover the expenses. I gently asked the client if they could rush the payment a bit, which they were more than happy to do.

However for five days, far beyond the time I hoped to receive the check, I still did not have it in hand. And I didn't know if the client had even sent it.

Meanwhile I have been working on a major project of gathering together four hundred plus life response incidences that have taken place over the last 15 years. The compendium book is called 'A Life Response Reader.' I have been working on the document for several months straight. On this day however I realized I was coming to the end of that work and mentioned that fact to a friend.

A few minutes later, it was all done. Finally I had a completed the first draft!

However just as I lifted my head in a moment of exultation and relaxation, I saw the mailman walk to my letterbox.

I then went to the front door, leaned out to the box and found a lone envelope. It was the check that I longed for; something I did not expect to receive for a while!

I understood that there was great power in the project I had been absorbed in. The gathering and categorizing of life response content creates enormous psychic energy. And the proof was that within one minute - actually one SECOND - of completing that months-long work I received the payment that I had dearly longed for.

It was a wonder that the check arrived synchronous with the completion of the project, but it was really astonishing that it happened within a second of completing the work.

A book of Life Response incidents had itself evoked a magnificent response from life. Like the contents of the book, it was another chronicle of "Instantaneous Miraculousness."

No Title

Why is everything interconnected (as we see in life response, attraction, synchronistic phenomena)? It is because the Source is One, and therefore the Many that is the body of the Source is secretly One as well.

No Title

Mother's Service Society leader Garry Jacobs has written a magnificent novel that encompasses many of his experience as global thinker and speaker on social development, as business management consultant, and as student of Life Response phenomenon. It's called 'The Book.' Find out more at this Facebook group site I am leading.

<https://www.facebook.com/groups/140220262753364/>

On Trust

-What makes human life sweet is implicit trust. Trust grows in a soil where suspicion has no roots.

-Intelligent unselfish trust between two people makes that moment divine.

-Frank trusting relationship makes the emotions rich and life expand.

-Capacity of man to trust his arch enemy – the boss, the priest, the wife, the parents, the rival, etc. – is endless. (Karmayogi)

Willingness to Make Small Correction Opens Up the World

A swallowing of ego and willingness to correct the slightest mistake suggested by another can open up an entire new world of possibility.

A partner suggested that a small error was there in the training materials of a workshop the other partner had developed. The second partner took umbrage that the first partner was focusing on a minutia as opposed to the overall presentation. Still he pushed the troubled feeling aside, did not give it voice, and went ahead and made the small change anyway. Suddenly a moment later for the first time the two were considering working together to market the entire 7-day workshop!

Thus we see that the small, even an apparent negative small, taken in the right light can open to the door to the very large. In other words, the micro is an opening to the macro when embraced in the right way. Why is this so? The tiny is great because it is one with everything else. From the perspective of the highest consciousness there is no distinction between the small and the large, the micro and the macro. Pull the string on the tiny, such as embracing it rather than being hostile towards it - and the universe will quickly open up!

Our Subtle Connection to Corresponding Elements in the World

Each of us are subtly related to a unique set of circumstance, conditions, people, places, and things throughout the world. And when we shift our consciousness to a higher level, we can instantly have an influence over any of them without even knowing they exist.

For example, if we shift away from a negative attitude, such as from ill-will to goodwill; or we make a change from uncleanness and disorderliness to their opposite; or make a breakthrough of some kind in our understanding and awareness, we may quickly learn of a positive development somewhere in the world among those elements we are secretly related to.

Eg we may read the news and read a just-breaking headline, and in amazement say to ourselves "oh I see: I gave up a negative attitude, and now suddenly there's a breakthrough in Paris concerning peace among these two nations, who on further analysis had each backed down and given up their ego a bit in the negotiation." Or we otherwise take notice of some other occurrence in the world that seems inexorably related to our own new-born inner change.

In this way we begin to see that everything in the world, in the universe is interconnected; or as described in science is "entangled." And that each of us seem to be entangled to certain specific things in the cosmos. And when we make a certain change in consciousness, we align with corresponding emerging conditions elsewhere in the world. In this way, we have an enormous power to alter the conditions of life.

The Mother explains this astonishing phenomenon this way:

I have a curious impression of a kind of web -- a web with ... like very loose threads, I mean not tightly meshed, connecting all events, and if you have power over one of these webs, there's a whole field of circumstances that apparently have nothing to do with each other but which are linked together there in such a way that one necessarily implies the existence of the other ... And I have the impression it's something that envelops the earth.

And it's not mental. They are circumstances that depend on one another, in a completely invisible way outwardly, without any mental logic, and yet as though connected to one another.

If you are conscious, really conscious of that, that's how you can change circumstances."

No Title

Very few of our thoughts are original, come from within ourselves. Rather they originate from others, circulate invisibly in the atmosphere and we catch onto it, or come from universal Mind or planes of consciousness further beyond.

No Title

Uninvited criticism of another will not help change them nearly as much as restraining from criticism and consecrating, which has the power to draw them out and ask for your help on this or another matter, or they may simply change on their own.

No Title

Our destiny is to become the Divine, not just worship the Divine.

No Title

Ego dominates our lives, from every angle, in so many ways, even as we believe only others in their negativity express it.

Comment: (I am tempted to say that there are 25 to 100 individual expression of Ego each day by the average person. And we are normally completely unaware of the fact, rarely take note of them, let alone attempt to halt them in their tracks as they arise. It is part of what Sri Aurobindo calls our essential Ignorance born of creation.)

Reader: Can you please give examples of such expressions Roy Sir as that would help us to become aware of them and take note of them?

Reader: It's in every sense of separation (or the separate self-negative or positive).

Response: As Nora indicates all expressions of separative consciousness is Ego. Separation and division from others, life, work, even self. There are dozens if not hundreds of types of expressions.

Among them are –

Feeling proud and superior to another

Feeling jealousy about another's accomplishment

Wanting to get the raise before one's competition

Feeling anger, irritation, hate, etc.

Wanting to assert one's opinion above another's

Wanting a romantic partner and being disappointed when he fails to appear

Feeling sorry for one's self

Concern for your own children at the expense of others

Being overly fond of one child over another

Overly admiring one's beauty

Proud of one's new possession

Impatience, over-anticipation, and over-expectation

Pride of one's association with a higher up

Unwilling to change a bad habit

Not listening and asserting one's own view

Concern about your side of the issue; not the other person's

Unwillingness to be involved in the rearing of one's children

Constantly blaming others

Unwillingness to take responsibility

Hostile feelings towards another

Disappointment one has not won a prize

Frustration in one's current situation

Boorish and related behavior that is offensive to others

Not being concerned that you are disturbing others

Taking advantage of another person.

Feeling of insecurity and incapacity
Lying for expedience sake
Unwillingness to share with others
Unwillingness to change
Unwilling to listen to advice, suggestions of others
Any bad habit that affects others negatively
Selfishness of any kind
Etc.

PS If you catch yourself and consecrate that egoistic inner or outer thought, emotion, or act, you are likely to elicit a powerful positive response from life.

Reader: Thank you Roy Sir smile emoticon the ego is a false centre within ourselves to which we shouldn't fall prey to Response: Yes, we should constantly be vigilant for any expression of ego. Every hour it will express at least several times. Let's start today. Even right now. Life will respond each time we observe it, catch it, stop it.

Money Problems And Ego

- Money issues can dog the best of people, as they have never become conscious of its underlying laws.
- Lack of money is often tied up with detrimental attitudes we have in relation with others, ourselves, life, and work.
- While we correctly acknowledge that ego can dominate the lives of the rich, we don't see how negative attitudes, including Ego-sense interferes in the lives of the poor, as well as others who have financial problems.
- The small little things that we miss over time build up and create our financial woes.
- Usually we are glossing over small details that facilitate an issue by serving our ego-sense, instead of adhering to truth.
- All of this can be reversed by identifying our wanting history in relation to money, and consecrating it.

Life WILL respond to such efforts.

Mistake of the "Practical Ignorance"

It is said we should not assume anything to be the case until we know the truth of things, i.e. the facts. Otherwise we will seem foolish for having rushed to judgement. It is one expression of our "practical ignorance."

A man saw his friend interact with a group of people ten meters away. Based on recent serious events he assumed she was discussing these circumstance with certain members of that party. However, when she returned, she presented a completely different narrative. It was not the serious problem she had been discussing, but rather she had a pleasant interaction with a new individual who would become our neighbor.

Our mind is not calm and patient enough to wait on the truth of things. Instead we defer to the faulty and superficial input of the senses including the visual and auditory; or too heavily lean on the logic of the past that our mind projects into the future. Mind being brittle in this way, one tends to be error-prone and mistaken in one's conclusions. A higher consciousness and deeper poise needs to take its place to eliminate such common mental errors.

In his metaphysical tome The Life Divine, Sri Aurobindo tells us that this sort of condition is the result of our inherent "Practical Ignorance" born of creation. It is but the first of 7 great forms of Ignorance that Man is ensconced in. And yet He tells us that through an evolution in consciousness we can shed all forms of Ignorance, come to an Integral Knowledge of the true Truths of life, enabling our highest consciousness and divinity to emerge.

No Title

Mother puts everything in the exact right order of unfolding. It is because it is the supramental Truth Consciousness at work.

No Title

Consecration is to give up our will, replacing it with Her Will.

Major Themes Of 'The Book'

(The following are some of the broad themes and undercurrents of Garry Jacobs' epic novel of human consciousness 'The Book')

AI's Need to Discover the Laws of Life

Artificial Intelligence has succeeded to the degree it is able to understand the physical laws of existence. However it does not know the underlying Laws of LIFE that the MAI team discover from The Book, and incorporate into their AI system making it so powerful and profound for all the world.

Change One's Self to Change the World

The MAI team are seeking to change the world, but over time realize that to do so they must first change themselves. Thus progress and evolution in the world comes not just by individuals trying to improve the collective, but by raising their own consciousness and become more self-aware. Such wisdom incorporated not only gives power to the AI system itself but provides the knowledge for the team to function optimally and attract positive conditions from life.

Relationship Between the Team and Professor Stearne

Professor knowing the ways of The Book that he first discovered in Budapest in 1958 (after the descent of the Golden Light of the Mother) is the wisdom behind the MAI company. Yet it only the team that can fulfill his vision. He and his knowledge depends on them and the execution of the principles, just as they depend on him for their self-knowledge. Dan stands in between as the group interface to the wisdom, and in the other direction, the executor of the vision by leading the team.

Individual, Universal, and the Transcendent

There is a confluence of the individual, the collective, and the higher consciousness or transcendence in life. The Individual serves the role of fulfilling the intent of the collective, of society, i.e. the universal. And the universal; i.e. the movements of life serve to fulfill the intent of the Divine or transcendent. The true individual is thus the person who connects with the flow of life to produce benefit for himself, the collective (including the society the group, the team) bringing about change, development, evolution in the world.

Conscious Life Response

At each point that the team gain a higher knowledge and apply it, life responds. It is actually continually responding both positively and negatively, though as they become more conscious they can direct events and evoke response at will. This is true for themselves and for the AI system that advocates solutions to the problems in the world.

No Title

Supramental life is to accept and embrace every shift in the flow of events.

Reader: Even the painful event?

Response: Yes. To see the painful event in relation to other circumstance; to the totality of conditions. Supermind perceives the integral relationship of all things, including the good with the bad.

By "embrace" I don't mean desire the negative, but to accept its purpose and role in the greater scheme of things. In that way the negative can be a great teacher. We can view every negative around us as a reflection of a corresponding negative quality - often a poor attitude or limited belief - inside ourselves.

This is from the spiritual perspective. From the ordinary human perspective the negative is simply division, conflict, and pain.

No Title

At the instant you even make the Decision to go the extra mile for others, life does the same for you.

Embracing Change in Training Class Attracts

Over the years we have seen that fully cooperating with the Unexpected can evoke startling positive conditions. Here is a recent personal experience of mine that demonstrates this truth of life.

I was conducting a training session in a conference room for 14 participants at a Logistics company in the port city of Long Beach, California. Things were moving along quite smoothly. But then towards the end of the session out of the blue a higher up suddenly arrived on the scene and suggested altering the direction of the instruction. Though initially put off by the radical change in the agenda, I soon went along with and embraced this very different direction of things.

Despite my earlier fears and misgivings, suddenly everything started moving to a higher level. There was more energy and enthusiasm among the students; more involvement and participation; and more practical accomplishment at each step of the way. By the end of the session, nearly everyone was practically dancing on air!

The class had risen to a much higher level because I had given up my trepidations about the unknown, cooperated fully with the change in the flow of events, and as a result life responded, as we were carried on a wave of great success!

Lack of Organization in Life

Lack of organization - whether personal or societal - creates so much needless suffering in the world. Here are but a few examples:

- Safety suffers when improper things are held in the wrong place or are otherwise disorganized

- People have accidents or take to illness because things are not properly organized in the home

- Wastage of resources, like water, electricity, etc because systems are improperly distributed, organized.

- People lose jobs, money is lost, etc because companies have any number of deficiencies related to the organization of activities, systems, manpower, projects, operations.

- Because our schedules are disorganized we create needless suffering for ourselves and others

- Breakdown of public systems occur because of improper maintenance, attention due to lack of organization such as poor planning, bad scheduling, etc.

Organization and Consciousness

Sri Aurobindo indicates that Organization is Consciousness. The greater the organization, the greater the consciousness. The greater the consciousness, the greater the organization. This applies to the individual or the collective.

Eg. as we as individuals become more conscious, we in essence organize our Consciousness at a higher level. That includes such things as-

- the right organization between our thoughts, feelings, and action
- the right organization between our health, well-being, food, diet, exercise etc
- the right organization (balance of life) between our personal life and work
- the right organization between what is required of us in the world and our coordination with that intent
- even the right coordination between our soul's aspiration and our own individual goals in life

As we become more self-aware, we consciously organize the various aspects of our being, our life to a higher level, which translates as higher consciousness.

Incidentally, efforts of greater organization -- such as taking to higher levels of cleanliness, orderliness, systemization, etc. -- tend to quickly evoke positive conditions from life. It is because such movements are expressions of higher consciousness.

No Title

We are each RIGID, FIXED in our own unique way. Identifying such qualities as they arise in our nature, letting go and allowing for change, while offering it to the Higher Power puts us squarely on the road of personal progress. Also, by giving up that rigidity, fixidity, the world opens up in its wake.

Comment: Ways we can be rigid:

- We don't want to be bothered and taken away from what we are doing. (the routine)
- We don't appreciate the involvement of others. We'd rather do it ourselves.
- We don't want change from the way we planned things.
- We hold to our point of view and opinion no matter the contrary evidence.
- We insist on our point of view alone. We ignore or disdain others' opinions
- We repeat the same viewpoint over and over insisting on our position.
- We believe in our own tradition, religion, etc. alone, and are closed to an infinite variety of other positions, aspects.
- We insist our children should do things a certain way.
- Since this was helpful to us in past, we insist it has to be helpful to others.
- We are unwilling to take to higher levels of organization - eg cleanliness, orderliness, non-wastage, etc. as the old habit persists.
- We do not want to budge an inch in negotiation.
- We demand to raise our children as we were raised, physically and psychologically.
- We don't appreciate it when others make suggestions for improvement.
- We think our generation is the best, and the new ones are a degradation.
- We insist on our cultural ways, social, artistic, musical, etc. - deploring new changes in the world.
- We insist that because things went a certain way in the past, they will continue to do so in the future.
- We are intolerant of new ways of thinking.
- We do not appreciate when someone suggests a different way to accomplish a task or resolve a problem.
- We insist that things must be done "according to the rules" and no other way.
- We expect others' allegiance to authority without exception.

-We are bothered by any change in the plans, whether it is caused by life circumstance or someone's suggestions.

-We want to follow the agenda without deviation.

-Others?

No Title

Complaining about someone is in one sense not truly loving them. And yet withholding complaint - down to the level of one's feelings - can stir the seeds of Love.

No Title

The Divine Intent is for the Creator power of the Infinite consciousness to be in the hands of each individual. Each person becoming the Ishwara (Creator) in their own unique way is the intent of the Divine, enabling an infinite-like human existence.

The Key to 'The Book'

The key and "hook" to the story presented in Garry Jacobs' epic novel 'The Book' is that the MAI team has created an artificial intelligence system that is capable of making recommendations to solve any known problem in the world. As a result of its astonishing success in doing precisely what it claims, the world embraces it in full.

And it is able to solve any difficulty on earth because its logic and source wisdom is based on a long-lost BOOK that contains the most profound knowledge of existence ever devised by man. That book is actually 'The Life Divine' by Sri Aurobindo and the endless extensions of it by Sri Karmayogi and others, though it is not identified as such in the novel.

No Title

Restraint from pursuing the object of desire tends to attract it in one form or another

No Title

Sri Karmayogi has revealed hundreds of profound principles of life, including countless ways to evoke the miraculous. We, or rather the entire world are indebted to Appa for his extraordinary insights into the nature of existence and his tireless efforts to express the infinite ways we can evoke sudden good fortune. It is a knowledge that when implemented has the capacity to change the course of human life on earth.

No Title

Meddling in other's affairs, even with the best of intentions negatively compels one to meddle some more, resulting in alternations of emotional highs and lows that invariably lead to disappointment.

No Title

The Divine's purpose and goal is to manifest or realize some aspect of its Infinite power and glory in each individual, to give birth to the Divine in man. (MSS)

No Title

We each possess the creative power of the Infinite to manifest Infinity in our own lives. (MSS)

No Title

One deep, sincere, heartfelt apology can set a series of positive developments in motion.

Reader: wow, just now , i said apology to my house owner. Let be briefly explain, I stayed in a room which was vry comfortable. he askd me to move to a small room so that he can fetch more income from the big room. initially i said it is not ok for me, then I remembered the quote "Accept the given life puts before u". after shifting, now i went & told my apology for saying no to him initially.

After the meeting with him, opening my fb , msge related to that act

Response: Nice Kosalai.

Apology unburdens us from the previous recognized false or limited attitude or action, and has a power to respond in reverberations. Eg your synchronicity to my message is yet another reverberation of several from the same apology I made several weeks ago.

No Title

As soon as you think positively with affection, i.e. appreciatively about anything, such as something wonderful in your past or present, instantaneously more if it may appear before you, even though you've seen or heard nothing of it for weeks or months on end.

No Title

Restraint from correcting another on a minor point is a sign of culture, i.e. cultured behavior.

Reader: Roy sir, thanks for sharing the message. i used to always correct others minor mistake . Will correct myself

No Title

We gain the Creator's (Ishwara's) infinite-like power to create by connecting to our True Self (psychic being) within and from there calling in the Supramental Consciousness and Force

No Title

In one sense, life and its outcomes is about the shattering of one's Ego and the Purification of one's being.

No Title

People ferociously hold onto their political and social views, with little scope for change. In that way Truth becomes a victim.

No Title

Before explaining something to someone, make sure you have their attention. Otherwise your effort may prove to be in vain.

No Title

One interesting phenomenon is that when you think about a particular attitude or value or virtue, suddenly out of nowhere the one person out of dozens of friends and colleagues who most expresses or is associated with that quality suddenly appear in your life!

No Title

The more you get aggravated about a matter, the more likely it will re-present itself in future.

No Title

We believe Consciousness occurs exclusively through the evolution of human beings. And yet consciousness was there before the universe existed. We are not only late to the cosmic party, but think we are the party, when in fact it has been going on Forever.

No Title

The Divine has surely blessed America. If only she can rise to the occasion.

Creating an Endless Stream of Interest-Induced Response

If you take a serious interest in something, you tend to quickly attract more information about it from out of nowhere. If you then take an interest in the miraculous-like iteration result, you will tend to suddenly attract yet another response directly related to it! And so on ad infinitum.

In this way, on any subject or matter, you can attract an endless stream of knowledge or other useful result related to it, without having to take any outer action.

Example: A man associated with an individual who had a very unusual quality. It was a fascinating and interesting experience for him. When he then left that individual and turned on the radio of his car he immediately heard discussion about a person who had this exact same unusual quality. The chance of that happening seemed one in a million.

But there was more. The next day he told a friend about this startling response. When he then pulled out of his driveway in his car, the first person he saw once again had this same very unusual quality!

He thought that the chances of this triple happening were a hundred million to one. Instead it was one to one to one!

He understood that through continued interest in a matter and its responses one can continue to evoke response on that issue ad infinitum.

No Title

The Truth of the Absolute, including Its attributes and values is constantly translating itself into the Relative at every moment, in every event, in everything that happens. (paraphrase of MSS)

No Title

Everything is part of the movement of Evolution. Nothing is outside it.

No Title

The aspects, values of the Spirit, the One - i.e. Peace, Silence, Truth, Knowledge, Goodness, Beauty, Love, Joy Timelessness, Infinity - are progressively emerging in the unfolding of the Many. This is what we mean by the Evolution. And it is through our higher Consciousness that we collaborate in this process and help bring about the evolution.

No Title

While Silent Will is a great inner power to evoke response from life, Karmayogi asks us to give up our will entirely, which is of Ego, and substitute the will of the Divine, Mother, the supramental Force. I.e. take to Consecration. (paraphrase of MSS)

No Title

Knowledge is involved, absorbed in ignorance; consciousness in unconsciousness; life in matter; mind in life; and spirit in mind, life, and matter. Through our elevation of consciousness we help awaken the involved higher in the lower, enabling it to emerge on the surface. In that way we participate in the evolutionary process.

No Title

Ego expression now means pain - psychological or physical - up ahead.

Startling Simultaneity on a Working Contract

A consultant friend of mine had been working for a contractor providing management advice for the client, including the development of a plan for its future expansion. However, the consultant had not asked for any payment in return for his efforts. One day he decided that this was no longer feasible and prepared a contract where he would receive a monthly stipend of $500 for his efforts.

At the very instant he completed the contract and was prepared to tell the contractor of his new financial arrangement, the consultant received a call. It was the contractor, who proceeded to explain that he was writing checks for his vendors and employees and thought that it is only right to start paying the consultant for his business. He decided that $500 a month was a proper figure. So on the phone call the contractor informed the consultant that he would like to implement this new arrangement.

The consultant was dumbfounded! The contractor had decided to take an initiative that exactly matched his own, even though the contractor had no idea the consultant was doing the same, or even interested in wanting to work on a payment basis! In other words, they were exactly in alignment on their intention though neither knew the other had any intention in moving in that direction whatsoever. Plus the amount was exactly the same! Not to mention that the incoming call from the contractor came at precisely the moment the consultant finished writing up the contract.

How could this amazing confluence of events have happened? When two people are deeply on the same wavelength in their normal interactions, such astonishing synchronistic events are made possible. From another perspective we know that many of our thoughts originate elsewhere, and that we are often expressing the thoughts of others, even though we think it is our own. In that way each side was picking up the thought waves of the other. As a result of these inner cause, two parties aligned in a way that seems utterly impossible, but actually did happen. A perfect confluence of objectives in space and time had taken place, all emanating from within.

One other point. From the side of the consultant, it was the very best thing for him to ask for payment. He was at a point in his life where he could not afford to work gratis. And so when he made an effort of psychological strength to ask for payment, he attracted that very thing instantaneously from the contractor.

And what of the contractor? We can only imagine that the contractor was expressing a higher value to compensate someone deserved of it, rather than continue to accept the consultant working on his business for free. His concern for the consultant attracted the fact that the consultant had actually wanted the same arrangement, though now the consultant hardly needed to the compensation as it was already a done deal!

No Title

People want to be blessed by Gods and receive their boons. Too bad they don't have the same aspiration to rise in Consciousness, which is what the Gods really want of us.

No Title

The advent of open-minded Pope Francis is yet another movement away from the strictures of religion and toward the individual's multi-faceted experience and realization of the Spirit in life.

Comment: In the 60s and 70s Mother worked inwardly to try and change the Catholic Church; away from its narrow-minded dogma. She felt this reversal would provide a more solid base for enabling a New Consciousness to emerge in the world. (Perhaps Francis's emergence is a sign of Her efforts.)

No Title

Forgetting, even if it is out of unconsciousness, helps the Force to act. (Sri Karmayogi)

Comment: When we are too attached to a difficult situation, we energize the problem. By detaching from it psychologically we allow the Force to move into play and resolve conditions. Consciously forgetting is a further step still; where there is no mental or emotional interference to the Force. Even memory of it is gone. Also, even when we unconsciously forget the issue, the Force will act, as it too is a form of non-interference.

No Title

My aspiration is to have no resistance to what Life, the Divine wants of me.

Reader: path of least resistance

Response: Yes exactly!

Physical Objects are Conscious

Mother's Service Society teacher Garry Jacobs recently had a very interesting experience that he narrated to his monthly audience. He told the group that he regularly used two computers; one for normal work and another for travel. He then said that recently one of the computers started malfunctioning. As a result he had to give it attention in order to fix it. However, soon after, his other computer suddenly stopped working properly as well!

Needless to say, he started wondering what was going on. However, being a very conscious individual he sensed that the situation was no mere coincidence.

When he then brought up the issue to his teacher Karmayogi, Appa told him that the reason the second computer stopped functioning properly as well was because it was jealous of the attention Garry was giving to the first one!

We are here reminded of the fact that seemingly inanimate objects really do have an Essence and Being, and if we're in touch with It, we can bring out the best in that object. We can even learn to become sensitive to the subtle relationships they have among themselves!

Activities for Remembering Mother

A standard operating procedure for a devotee is to try to remember Mother before any activity, such as-

- before a meeting
- before engaging the client
- before conducting the class
- before preparing the meal
- before the show begins
- before the social reception
- before the match or game
- before the swim or other athletic activity
- before reading the sacred book
- before using the computer
- before explaining the idea
- before asking a question
- before closing the sale
- before going to sleep
- before rising up to meet the day

The result will be constant positive outcomes, and a new orientation and way of living. A lilting, enchanting, deeply enriching, never-ending life of Joy.

Reader: Also before speaking in general...this gives an opening in the vital.

Response: Yes

Subliminal Openings that Shape Our Lives

The Subliminal being is the inner consciousness that guides you in life, often opening up doors to the unexpected, fulfilling conscious or subconscious intentions.

Eg one day you feel compelled to go to a spiritual center. When you arrive there you simply want to enjoy the experience. Instead someone greets you and tells you about an opportunity that will change the course of your life. Your subliminal was open to the universal. the superconscious that knew of your deepest aspirations and how to fulfill them subtly urging you to take the action to go to the center.

No Title

If you don't have an inner life, a spiritual life, but only a psychological and emotional and mental existence, you are missing a great piece of the puzzle for attaining true happiness and fulfillment. In fact, we ordinarily place spiritual life last, but it should come first, enabling ultimate fulfillment at each of the other planes of our being - mental, vital, and physical.

No Title

Shift your consciousness from wanting to personally succeed to wanting success for your company or organization. By moving to a wider plane of existence, both you and the collective will tend to experience powerful positive response from life.

No Title

A photo I took today of a Blue Dawn flower, very similar to Morning Glory.

The Mother had given the spiritual significance of many flowers. The meaning She has given for this flower:

"Artistic Taste

Is pleased with beautiful things and is itself beautiful."

... and a paraphrase of a poem/song that has been in my mind for many years that relates to the Dawn:

"Who among you who has not laid his head upon some Holy Awning would have dreamed that such a tortured evening would bring such a Glory Morning."

Comment: Mother used to say in Agenda that tending to and interacting with flowers was the one thing that gave Her "pleasure" in life.

No Title

When you consciously hold back from doing something you would like to accomplish, others tend to step forward and do it for you.

Supramental Creation Power in Our Hands

Sri Aurobindo discovered that the supramental Truth Consciousness enabled the universe to emerge from a Divine source. From the ethereal realms, He then concentrated that Force, and then the Mother called it down fully into the earthly realm in 1956.

Now that power is available to each of us, so that we too can evoke the infinite, on-demand, as instantaneous miraculousness.

It is in fact the destiny of Creation for each of us to become infinite Creators just like the Infinite Divine Source.

No Title

Continually opening to Mother - to the supramental Truth Consciousness and Force - is the only method one needs to follow to live an ecstatic and abundant life. Other approaches may get you there, but you will likely have to go down a long and winding and often painful road. Mother's is the Sunlit Path of instantaneous miraculousness.

No Title

If you consecrate someone else's upcoming important event, you will help evoke positive conditions for them as well.

Walt Disney's Great Effort and the Response from Life

Often when we make a monumental effort in one area and do not produce any tangible result along that line, we create a wholly unexpected positive outcome in another area.

I was watching a detailed biography of famed cartoonist and mass entertainer Walt Disney. At one point early on in his career he came to New York City to try to obtain funding for a new innovative cartoon series he had produced. He met with utter failure in raising capital, though he did manage to secure a theater where he could present the series to the public. It seemed only a slight salve to his disappointment.

However, the series (the same one he failed to get funding for) received glowing reviews from several critics who attended. As a result his career suddenly blossomed and he was suddenly launched into the mega-successes that changed the course of entertainment history.

It just shows that making an all-out willful effort to achieve something will always attract results, though it may not be in the way or from the direction we expected. In addition, the result that comes by making that exhaustive effort often comes through a small opening, rather than the obvious, showing that the tiny, the finite can be an opening to the infinite potentials of life.

Recent Historical Context of Life Response

Historically I found it interesting that just as I was completing my book 'The Miraculous Phenomenon of Life Response' and Garry Jacobs was completing his novel 'The Book,' which covers Life Response and much more, the film/book 'The Secret' was released, which is essentially life response as well. This all happened circa 2007.

I was very surprised when The Secret arrived on the scene, even taken aback for a few days; but then clearly felt that this new global spiritual phenomenon came in one sense as a response to Garry and my efforts, which itself a product of Karmayogi's untiring devotion and revelation of life response philosophy and practical application over the last 50 years. (which itself a product of Sri Aurobindo's revolutionary spiritual realizations now beginning to take root in the world.)

There is yet another point I find interesting. It is that the Global Financial Crisis came almost precisely in the footsteps of our three literary releases. We know of the principle that as soon as something of a higher order or consciousness arises in the world, a countervailing force immediately takes root to oppose it. With a great opening to life response/power of attraction revelation for society, a near catastrophic financial development, based on human ego and greed came for the purpose of negating the chance of this New Power to take root in the world.

And yet we also can philosophize that this great negative development came about for the purpose of forcing society to take to higher values related to finance, economics, social stability, human unity, etc.

With that in mind, let us see what further developments await us through our dramatic experiences of life response phenomenon, even as people's awareness of it continues to slowly (or quickly?) spread throughout society.

We can especially experiment by utilizing the Supramental Power, Mother's Force to bring about ever-new unfoldings of instantaneous miraculousness in the worlds. It can be an exciting, a spiritually thrilling time all around.

No Title

As soon as you lower your resistance to a suggestion, life opens up with new possibilities. Until then one is locked in at the current plane of belief.

No Title

Debates between two parties are often simply about not understanding one another as much as disagreement on a particular points of view. When we are immersed in Ego and are not listening or caring about what the other person is saying, we tend to fortify miscommunication. Truth and Knowledge then take a back seat to the negative waves of our emotions.

Return Trip & Miraculous Power Of The Force

We have continually witnessed the power of the supramental Force, i.e. Mother's Force, to quickly set right the conditions of life. In a recent episode, I experienced this phenomenon at work multiple times in succession, defying all human logic and possibility. Here is my story:

I was scheduled to do a training class at a major corporation in Sunnyvale, California in the heart of Silicon Valley. I had to fly up from Southern California to the San Francisco Bay Area late one evening, rent a car at the San Francisco Airport, drive to the motel in Sunnyvale 38 miles away, get up the next morning and do the class, and then in the latter afternoon begin my return journey to Long Beach in reverse order. Considering the fact that the highway system is now completely jammed in Silicon Valley these days because of the boom there, it was a daunting prospect. A 30 mile drive could take over 2 hours or more during rush hour.

As it turns out, my trip from Long Beach to the Bay Area, though somewhat intense, went smoothly for the most part, more or less as I expected. However, the trip back was a different story. It was filled with adventure, the unbelievable, and the miraculous. Here is what happened

I knew the return journey would be difficult, as I was going to be driving in the midst of the rush hour from Sunnyvale to the San Francisco Airport. However, I caught my anxiety, detached from focusing on any particular outcome, and consecrated that upcoming trip.

My driving strategy from Sunnyvale to SFO was to avoid the two main highways going south to north because they would likely be jammed. Instead I decided to take the El Camino Real, a 50 mile long street that runs all the way from Silicon Valley through San Francisco. Often in the past when I lived in the Bay Area I used it as a shortcut to get back home. I called it "a slow boat to China," but at least it moved. And yet I knew in the back of my mind that these days in this latest Silicon Valley boom even this 3rd or 4th choice of passage, the non-highway El Camino, could be log-jammed. Still I remained positive. I also had my map app on my smartphone to inform me where the log jams were appearing on the El Camino in real time.

And so I left the client's facilities in Sunnyvale ~4:20 pm and headed over to the El Camino, with its endless shopping centers, motels, residence, etc. So far so good as I steadily navigated through the towns of the "South Bay." However, after a short while I realized that I was moving forward in fits and starts, which was verified by my Smartphone Maps app red-dotted street indicators. I also discovered that there was the possibility of a big rain storm hitting, which I actually took as positive as it could put out the fires raging north of San Francisco.

In any case, I remained calm. And yet an hour into the ride I realized I was only half way to my destination, and there was a legitimate chance that I wouldn't make the 7pm flight. Also there was the possibility that the storm would cancel the flight anyway. Though I was ready to inform my roommate down in Long Beach of these possibilities, I held on and kept silent. I continued to consecrate in the back of my mind.

Now here is where the story gets interesting. Time for the flight is ticking down. After two hours on the El Camino I got off the street and drove over an overpass that took me to the extremely busy Hwy 101 heading directly for the airport. Was the highway also going to be jammed? Fortunately, it turned out not to me. Another good sign. I then drove a few miles and came to my first stop; the car rental area where I had to return my rented vehicle. When I arrived on the 3rd floor, there was a big backup, and I was all the way on the back. However

I remained calm and did not emotionally react. Then suddenly out of nowhere a check-out attendant greeted me and quickly processed the checkout of the car. That was a startling change, I thought! Actually, I was amazed, yet subtly tuned into the fact that the Force was behind these outcomes.

But now I had to get to the airport via the AirTram, the overhead driverless rapid transit system that went two miles or so deep into the airport terminal system. At this point I recalled the vast effort I had to make the day before upon arriving at SFO; the exhausting situation; the fact that I had to stop every few minutes because of the strain; and now once again my bags were getting very heavy. With these thoughts in mind, I felt even more exhausted and barely had enough energy to walk to the escalator still 100 yards ahead. And so I stopped in my tracks, and then took a deep breath.

But then I quickly noticed that there was an elevator that could take me more easily to the AirTram above me. I pressed the button and hopped in. When in the elevator I immediately encountered a young, friendly, well-dressed young man leaning on his luggage cart containing his own baggage. I asked him where one could rent one of these and he informed me that it was actually free, provided by the airport. "I could really use one of those right now" I thought, and I could see he had the same idea in mind for me. We then got off the elevator and began to wait for the AirTram. However, within a few seconds the young man pointed to a single, lone unused luggage cart on the platform that was almost directly in front of me. Needless to say I immediately grabbed onto it. Wow that was incredible, I thought! No more schlepping my luggage to the far end of the huge airport. Not only had the baggage been heavy, but the weight was slowing me down, as time was ticking away and the departure of my flight was imminent!

A moment later I hopped onto the futuristic-like AirTram that circled the airport, and two minutes later I was getting ready to exit at the International terminal. As I was getting off I looked to my left and there was the young man who pointed out the cart now winking at me as if to say "I am happy to have found the cart for you and good luck the rest of your way!" As I wheeled the cart through the terminal I thought about him as a kind of guardian angel: the wink and smile he gave me being the confirmation. It was yet another opening of light on this dizzying path toward my goal; even as time still seemed hopelessly stacked against me.

But now before I could get to the end of the terminal which was still a long distance, I had to get through security! Again I wondered how in the world I would get to the flight in time. I imagined that it must be lining up for departure now, etc. However, I still kept my faith; and so far, in the past half hour or so, life had cooperated fully.

In the past when I went through airline terminals I had special privileges to move through TSA security rather fast. Recently I had apparently lost those privileges. And so as I approached security, I prepared myself for a long wait at the back of the line. However, when the guard looked at my ticket, he waved me through for fast processing, enabling me to avoid any long line. Not only that but I was the only one at the checkout, plus the security requirements were next to nothing! This all seemed just too unbelievable; yet I knew the Force was working for me in every conceivable way

After less than two minutes of security check - by far the fastest I had ever experienced - I was on my way to the end of the international terminal; past British Air, Japan Air and dozens of major airlines. Yet my airline, JetBlue, was a domestic carrier, the only one in the international area. Plus it was stuck at the very back of the International departure gates! Life was surely testing me to the limit. However, now with the baggage cart I could move more rapidly, and in conjunction with the people-mover I was now gliding toward my destination. Still I wondered if the plane had fully boarded and I would be left out.

When I arrived at the very far end of the international terminal, I was able to make out the voice of the announcer at my gate, and he seemed to be indicating that boarding had begun for my flight. I had apparently made it; and just barely in time! Life had in the last half hour or forty five minutes magically cleared a path for me. It could only be the result of the spiritual Force to create these wonder of wonders when life seemed so stacked against me. Consider that---I was stuck on the El Camino with less than an hour to my flight, and suddenly things opened up when I veered off and got on the highway leading to the airport

--When I arrived to the car rental it looked like a twenty minute wait with many people ahead of me, though it turned out to be just two minutes

--When I was exhausted and thought I had to drag my heavy bags to the escalator far away, there was suddenly an elevator before me to help me more easily get to the AirTram.

--When I thought I would have to carry my heavy bags to the far end of the international terminal, a man appeared on the elevator with a cart and then pointed out an available one that helped make my day

--When I got to security check out which normally takes 15-20 minutes, it happened in just two.

--I sailed through the very long terminal with the aid of the cart and a fast-moving sidewalk trajecting me rapidly forward, enabling me to arrive in the gist of time.

Life had cleared the way at every point. It had cooperated with my faith that was the guiding light at my side. It became an occasion for one miraculous-like event to dovetail into the next in a symphony of the Unimagined.

As I shook my head on line for departure of my flight, I took breath and recognized the magic carpet ride I had just been on. "Wouldn't this make for a fine life response story?" I thought to myself as I handed the pass to the attendant to step into the plane that would now take me home.

Comment: (from a reader)

The beauty of that is, all that various circumstances you have faced like traffic, car rental and so forth needed to synchronize in order to achieve the outcome.

On one side it is a constant reminder of keeping up the consciousness, not to react to the resistance or attached to it in one's vital emotions, and most importantly consecrating and keeping Faith in the Mother which enabled that incident to progress forward.

From another side, life administers a mini-test, and we may continue to progress by keeping up the consciousness, or we may 'hold' at any point.

Also, we may consciously decide to experience miraculous unfolding of events and experience the delight of unfolding. It's human choice.

I think, your conscious decision made the people you interacted with align subconsciously to achieve the final outcome. And the most beautiful thing about that part is that you narrated this in such detail with patience; I believe that will help all of us understand the process!

Comment: "A great day and a great lesson!" (Garry Jacobs)

No Title

People may be bothered, irritated by a small kind gesture towards another that e.g. causes a slight delay. However, if they have the patience to look around, they would see the positive benefit that soon comes as a response for all parties, including themselves.

On the other hand, the conscious individual who appreciated the original caring gesture of another will have the pleasure of partaking and enjoying the positive response that comes about. Through that process he has now also developed more inner awareness and power to pass such goodness along.

No Title

Movies, serial videos, and the like are increasingly becoming the Literature of today. Global contributions are only accelerating this development.

No Title

Long term initiatives that seem too far in the future to care about often turn out one day to be your saving grace. That is why we should care about and feel gratitude for every planned development that will affect our lives.

Life Response and Coincidence

Q: How do we know that what we are calling "Life Response" isn't just simply Coincidence?

A: One reason is that in life response you can consciously be evoking the response. E.g. if you know that changing a bad attitude can overcome a problem or otherwise bring good fortune, and you consciously make the decision to change with the idea that something good will happen, and then a minute alter something does, it is surely not Coincidence. It is more like science, with cause and effect very clear.

Also we have systematically examined these life response incidents, and the laws that govern them, and the principles seem virtually infallible when followed.

When we truly perceive the interconnectedness of life, including at the subtle level, then we see what others call coincidence occurs through a perfect, infallible causality; not the randomness of coincidence.

No Title

We keep relying on our own capacity, which is minuscule, limited, finite, instead of depending on the Divine Capacity, which is Infinite.

No Title

For the Divine Consciousness, the negative is just as important as the positive for the movement forward; maybe moreso.

No Title

Often Life requires you to spend certain funds before fresh, new ones can arrive.

Widening Perception of One's Limitation

It is one thing to change one's behavior because the boss wishes of you in the working context. It's another to take what your superior says and see how it pertains to related aspects of one's life, and then change from there. That brings a result far beyond anything the manager or yourself might have imagined. Infinity-like results can now break out - for you, your personal life, and the organization you are working for.

Romantic Adventure as the Marvel

All life is a romantic adventure. Every person, circumstance and event life presents to us is a complement that comes to us for our growth. When we meet life with this attitude, it reveals its ultimate secret as the marvel. (MSS)

Perceiving the Utility of All is the Marvel

The Marvel as revealed in Sri Aurobindo's The Life Divine is the capacity to perceive the Reality, the All. It is to perceive the necessity of all things in the unfolding. In this way we can look out on life and see that everything that is happening to us - positive and negative, big and small, pleasurable and painful - is necessary for our progress. To engage life this way is to perceive the Marvel and to participate in the Adventure. It is the romantic view of life; Romance itself.

No Title

If someone makes a claim whose content is counter to your interests, it is best to remain still and not react. The opposite to that report is likely to soon present itself.

Beyond Faith in the Material

We place much of our faith in material solutions to a problem - e.g. a doctor's pills, a mechanics tool, etc. But the Force picks out exactly the right material, as well as subtle, non-material solutions that solve it. It is because the lower, physical consciousness dominates us, compelling us to have faith in material solutions alone that the surface mind perceives as worthy. In that way, we are more like the instinctive animal than the evolved, supremely rational person, let alone the spirit-oriented individual.

Shift From .. To

Shift from resentment to acceptance; blame to taking responsibility; fear to faith; assertion to restraint; unwillingness to willingness; obliviousness to perfection.

Initiative, Consecration, Surrender

Consecration is to refer the initiative we have taken to Mother. Surrender gives up the urge to take initiative. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

Instead of complaining about another's lack of cleanliness and orderliness, increase your own 10%. Now watch if the other person sometime soon accedes to your original, hidden wish.

Is It the Truth?

When you make a claim, you might ask yourself: "Is it backed up by facts? Or is it just an opinion?" It's always worth investigating the truth of one's belief. When you do, you may be in for a big surprise!

No Title

True, undisturbed tolerance of others' incessant Ignorance is a sign of one's emerging Knowledge.

No Title

Traditionally the instinct of the woman has been to seek physical security in the man. The instinct of the man has been to find psychological security in the woman. Seeing beyond this is romantic adventure and progress. It is to replace instinct with Love.

No Title

Shift from trying to impress others with your skill to wanting to learn from others and their knowledge. Life will surprise you with unexpected information, results, etc.

Supramental is Unity, Truth, and Creation Consciousness

When we are in touch with the supramental consciousness we experience Unity with every aspect of life. It is from that status we perceive the Marvel; which is the perception of the one Reality, the All, from spirit to mind. As a result one realizes that every conceivable thing in existence serves a purpose.

As a result one experiences Unity with all, as nothing is outside one's self, that Reality.

Moreover, one knows the Truth of things at every moment. Hence the Supramental is also called Truth Consciousness.

Finally, It has a power to make real whatever is aspired for. This is what happens when we offer, consecrate the activities of our lives, open to the Mother and Her Force. It is the supramental Creation, life response power in action.

Potential for Indians to Rapidly Move Out of Poverty

Hundreds of millions of Indians have emerged from poverty in the last two decades. Was it due to the action of the government? Only in part; particularly aspirationally; i.e. a keen desire of the leaders to see improvement in the conditions of the people. Still I believe the essential energy and power came from the people themselves; including their intention to rise up. Life responded to that powerful aspiration, will, and energy.

The remainder of the poor can do the same; quietly, intensely, with a hunger and desire and plan. They will need also need to learn to shed their various ignorance's -- their dishonesty, cast-focus, laziness, lack of organization, etc. Leaders can inspire them in that direction; can help develop plans for mass improvement in jobs, education, infrastructure, and the like. E.g. Mother's Service Society decades ago offered a plan to the heads of the Indian government to increase jobs by 200 million, and life somehow made that real. If the government along with the private sector and the people work together, the next 200M can easily be achieved.

If Indians also tap into their spiritual power which is latent in their culture, 500 million more can quickly emerge from poverty. Then She can take her place as a global leader, eventually fulfilling her destiny as Guru of the world.

No Title

Be thankful for all the constraints in your life that prevented you from making a fool of yourself.

Planes of Mind and Spiritual Mind (lowest to highest)

Surface mind (visual sense input, preoccupation; "animal-like perception") > Thinking mind (coordinating thoughts, influenced by lower physical and vital propensities) > Rational mind (pure logical analysis, synthesis of thought; thoughts into ideas) > Silent mind (insightful thought arising from silence) > Illuminate mind (flash of understanding) > Intuitive mind (understanding just appears inside mind without thought) > Universal mind (knowing everything in relation to a matter w/o thought) > Supermind (knowledge of all in their integral truth and unity that also tends to manifest as real)

Comment: Most people are oriented at the Surface Mind and Thinking Mind with an occasional movement to Rational Mind. As we evolve as a species the focus increasingly moves toward Rational mind, and as we develop in Spirit there is a further movement spiritual planes of mind above them. Eg we silence the Mind and are able to think so much better as a result, leading to truer understanding (Silent Mind). In these ascending spiritual planes of Mind is where real Knowing and Truth apprehension takes place. It is the direction we are heading in the Evolution.

Similar scales can be made for the Vital and Physical and Subconscious planes; as well as the pure Spiritual.

Beyond Mind, Future is Revealed

In a higher consciousness one is more easily able to perceive the undercurrents of the present, as well as have a much clearer sense of where the future is headed.

On the other hand, the ordinary consciousness of mind has only the vaguest sense of the future. Mind is like a wall that cannot be easily penetrated, seen through, in terms of future space and time.

And yet consecration, opening to the spiritual Force reveals the future to us; even brings it to our very doorstep as response from life.

Longer term, consecration breaks down the walls of ordinary mind, so the past, present, and future are constantly revealing themselves. Then as we tread upon the earth, life clearly reveals itself at every step, in every possible way.

No Title

Being still and calling Mother's Peace in the midst of turmoil will quickly calm things down.

No Title

Anger attracts more of what you are angry about.

No Title

This glorious moment will soon be a forgotten moment. What should we make of this?

Reader: Roy sir, Not understood yr point. Can u elaborate?

Response: How do we retain the glorious moments we experience? Why is it easily forgotten? What is it about the passage of time and the limits of memory that prevent the retention?

No Title

I was having a glorious moment, or succession of such moments, and was wondering why does it disappear; is it not retained.

No Title

Coming to conclusions with only a small sampling of data leads nowhere, and is a human weakness. Sherlock Holmes understood this. He was infinitely patient, and therefore was constantly being led to the truth.

No Title

The more you focus on, dwell on a matter or thing, the more of it comes; and often from the most unlikely and unexpected sources.

No Title

Absorbed, hypnotized by the visual and auditory data streaming in through the senses causes the rational thinking process of mind to be held at bay, deflecting one's capacity to seek the wider truth of a matter. This over-absorption in what we see and hear rather than engaging the rational thinking process happens to us many times a day, leading to wrong conclusions and frequent error in judgement.

New Strategy and the Plunger

If you develop a strategy to improve a situation, you may be soon asked by life to utilize it.

A man devised a calming, non-reaction strategy to deal with certain neighbors who were quite ignorant and often uncouth. Suddenly a few minutes later one such person knocked on his door, and in a very humble and contrite way asked to borrow a bathroom plunger from the man, which the latter readily agreed to. A person like this had never come to the man's door before in all the years he could remember, and now it suddenly happens. Plus it occurred in a such a sweet manner.

As we see, a strategy agreed to in one's thoughts at the mental plane is quickly tested at the vital plane of Life.

PS: Right after these events the individual who borrowed the item from the man, returned it. He then volunteered to and proceeded to fix a window screen for the man that had been left damaged for months. It was a further response to the man's higher strategy of non-reaction, which has a tendency to repeat in new forms into the future.

Often when you tackle the apparently insurmountable, you discover that it is much more easily accomplished than you imagined. It is life responding to your shift out of unwillingness, or fear of the burden, or the lack of skill, or any other alleged incapacity.

Retaining the Oneness with Others

When you complain or blame another, you have moved into divided consciousness, where you perceive the other party as separate from you. It is an illusion of the ego in the mind and vital and physical that prevents us from perceiving that there is actually no separation and division between you and the other, but one single, continuous stream of existence. That others are in fact a part of you, and vice versa.

In this deeper consciousness we increasingly refrain from reacting, and thereby blaming and complaining about others. In fact, we are increasingly likely to take responsibility for conditions. As a result, separation and division dissolve. Harmony and unity take its place.

Also, in this elevated atmosphere, life continually responds in the positive, rewarding you for your harmonic state of being. New-found Success and Joy are now added to your experiences of Oneness with others and life.

No Title

Constantly monitor the degree of separation between you and another, and make the inner and outer effort to bridge the gap.

No Title

When a work is impossible, we give up.

It rarely strikes us to refer it to MOTHER. (Sri Karmayogi)

Comment: Then the Force makes it so much easier for us!

No Title

With each significant growth in consciousness, there arises a Great Opportunity in life.

Disney's Discovery Beyond the Routine

A small effort to change a habit or routine can propel one into the next stage of one's life and career. Here's an example:

In the 1950s Walt Disney had reached the pinnacles of success as the most famous Hollywood animation producer in the world. His Snow White, Mickey Mouse, Fantasia and dozens of other animated films had made him legend in his own time. However, when the studio began development of its next project, the animation of Cinderella, Walt unexpectedly dropped out of the production. Instead he stayed at home and rode a model train that went around his vast estate. Every day he would sit on the engine and hour after hour went round and round on the scaled down mini train. People now thought that the pressures of his position had finally gotten to him. Some even thought he had gone mad.

And yet what was actually happening was that Walt had gradually come to see that he could develop some sort of park in which a small train could circle the environs. Not long after, the vision matured and he envisioned an amusement park where his cartoons and animation could come to life. It became Disneyland, built in California which then spread around the world with additional parks, taking Disney and his corporation to even greater heights.

And it all happened because Walt Disney wanted something FRESH in his life. He was willing to give up the routine, in this case the Cinderella film, and try something different, and as a result, he came upon an idea that changed the course of entertainment history.

With that in mind, think about what has become mere dull habit and routine in your life, and consider how you can make it fresh. Not by eliminating or abandoning the job, but by seeing a new wrinkle, a new possibility of doing the work, instead of the same old way.

One man we know of simply took a different path one day on his daily walk and suddenly came upon a small store that contained a book that changed the course of his writing career, enabling the publication of his breakthrough book. That is the power of changing the habit and routine into something fresh and new. The world suddenly opens up before your eyes!

How the Psychic Being Partakes in the Spiritual Evolution of the Universe through Multiple Births

The Divine has become the universe. However it has yet to perfectly become so. Therefore from a cosmic perspective there needs to occur further evolution of the spirit in life; i.e. for each of the physical, vital, and mental planes of being to be infused with the attributes of the Divine Source and thereby realize its ultimate possibility. This is what Sri Aurobindo calls the Spiritual Evolution.

Most interestingly the individual through his inner being partakes in that universal process. It occurs through the movement of the evolving soul, the psychic being in us. It seeks to elevate the physical, vital, and mental planes of the person and the life around them, thereby collaborating with the general movement of the Spiritual Evolution in the universe.

However, it cannot be accomplished in an individual in one single birth, as only a certain amount of progress can be realized in one incarnation. The psychic thus leaves after death, rests in the ethereal spheres, and then enters another individual to further the growth and consciousness at the physical, vital, and mental levels through that person. In this way, through multiple births, each psychic being, also known as a Soul of Personality, collaborates with the universal and transcendent intent of furthering the Spiritual Evolution in the cosmos. Through this process the Divine attributes are able to permeate and saturate the physical, vital, and planes of existence, releasing their ultimate consciousness, fulfilling the intent of the transcendent Divine.

Our Perceptible and Imperceptible Faults

It's relatively easy to perceive the limitations of our being against the contrasting white of moral righteousness, and then overcome it. It's much more difficult to see our limitations against the blackness of our limiting subconscious nature, with all its variety. That however is the great psychological and spiritual challenge before us.

Reaction to Vulgar Expressions Enables Repetitions

A physical place retains its negative vibe through new iterations of parties inhabiting it if observers of the situation have negatively reacted to it. Non-reaction could have broken the chain.

Example: a mother and her children were living in a next-door residence. The mother constantly expressed herself through profanity, which was very bothersome to the neighbors. She was then compelled by them to change her ways.

However, several months later, another party moved into that same residence and after a while they too persistently spoke with similar profanities. Had the observer neighbors practiced non-reaction to the original vulgar expressions, not only would there not have been a new, repeating iteration of the same conditions, but the original individual likely would have taken to gentle expression, or simply disappeared from the scene, or something related.

Addenda: It is also true that a physical place can hold a negative vibration, enabling the same negative things to happen to completely different parties at that spot over time. This principle also works in the positive.

No Title

They alone see truly who see the Lord the same in every creature, who see the deathless in the hearts of all that die. Seeing the same Lord everywhere, they do not harm themselves or others. Thus they attain the supreme goal. (Krishna avatar)

thanks to S

Energy and Relationship Among People

"Life is a field of energy. When human beings relate to one another they exchange energy. When they relate positively and expansively, the energy level increases. When they relate negatively or critically, it shrinks. If life is a field of force and human attitudes and emotions are expressions of force, then what occurs to us and around us reflects the play of those energies." (from The Book by Garry Jacobs)

Example: I spoke with my business partner the other day. He was completely exhausted due to the fact that he had just put in a significant effort with a new client and now he was faced with a group discussion in another venture he was involved in. In our conversation I brought up a number of issues related to our common work in the consciousness space, and the tremendous opportunities before us. Plus it was peppered with life response and related insights. At the end of the conversation he was filled with energy and was looking forward to utilizing some of the new knowledge in his upcoming conference call.

As we see, fatigue can instantly disappear and energy reappear when a higher consciousness is introduced.

No Title

Each of us have unique contribution to make in the evolution of the universe.

No Title

The Divine can only progressively manifest its spiritual qualities in the universe through we humans. We are thus the key to the Spiritual Evolution of the cosmos.

No Title

Progress for the Soul is not just taking responsibility for what we do, but for what other people do, including those things we would ordinarily complain about and blame others for.

Purpose of Rebirth

The purpose of Rebirth is for the psychic being (evolving soul) to progressively grow in consciousness through each host it inhabits. This process serves the individual being as well as the spiritual progress of the cosmos; ie the Spiritual Evolution.

No Title

We fundamentally believe in Life and its ways; not the Mother and Her's. And there's the rub.

Mother Joins Sri Aurobindo's Quest

As a result of Sri Aurobindo's intense aspiration for the spiritual transformation of life on earth, the Mother came and joined him in His evolutionary quest. She could now be the vehicle and transmitter to others of the supramental Force and Power He worked so hard to realize.

The Method & The Mother in a Work

"Faith in the Mother and faith in the method stand separately. When the former is greater, then it flows through the latter." (Sri Karmayogi)

Let's say you have a process to fix certain machines. You can have faith in that process, or you can have sincere, deep faith in the Mother to function through the process. That is the ultimate synthetic solution that attracts exactly what is necessary for its accomplishment -- ie. as life response.

Spirit-Oriented Problem Solving

When you have distant yourself from the issue, and when your mind is quiet, address and think through the problem before you. While getting close to the core issues, consider the wider possibilities of solution. Probe deeply and see how solutions are hiding there in the problem itself. Also, be sure to consecrate the effort so the widest opening of possibility can take place, and its attraction power evokes intuitions of understanding that simply appear in your mind without thought. It is a spiritual-oriented approach to problem solving; one that overcomes limits of space and time; causality and possibility.

No Title

One way to take responsibility and not blame or complain to others is to consecrate the issue. Now you've gained inner power to overcome the outer problem.

No Title

If you withhold verbalizing what you wish of another and then consecrate it, the thought will circulate in the atmosphere, causing the other person to soon pick it up, who will then feel compelled to carry it out. It is the life response power of Silent Will in action.

No Title

When you have no power to solve a problem; see no way out; consecrate the situation. Positive conditions will soon emerge.

Reader: Am finding that besides solving and dissolving the problems, consecration brings its own satisfaction. I read somewhere Sri Appa says that consecration is the only work.

Response: "consecration brings its own satisfaction" Very true.

"consecration is the only work" Yes. Perhaps we can say that when you reach the point of the Sadhak (aspiring yogi) all one needs to do is practice Consecration as complete Surrender of all parts of one's being; of one's very purpose of being on earth. That is all there is to do. For a devotee being aware of the negative propensities is also key. In Sri Aurobindo's booklet 'The Mother' he focuses on the two together; the ridding of the negative, and the surrender to the Force (consecration), the Mother.

We can see the truth in the remark if we say that we can also consecrate the negative qualities in us. Plus anything else. So there are not two aspects as I mentioned earlier, overcoming the negative, plus consecrating to Mother, but one -consecration- that straddles both.

Reader: Another thing that I noticed was that with initial 15 minute interval consecrations, time seemed to move faster and then later the spaces feel much longer.

Response: Yes, I sense what you mean.

No Title

Each significant negative happening around you contains the seed of something important for you to learn.

No Title

The most unsolvable problem that boggles the mind becomes easily solved by Mother when sincerely consecrated to Her.

Two Sides of Abundance

It is interesting that both lack abundance and over-abundance can cause consternation. "Oh if only we could get some more orders things would be so much better." VS "Oh my goodness, there are too many orders coming in. Please stop!"

Having the psychological strength of nerves and the right strategies to negotiate both is a great organizational skill.

Seeing Beyond the Dualities of Life to Endless Means of Progress

"To live in the truth one should rise above affirmation and negation." (The Mother)

Comment: We say this is good, and that is bad; that this is positive, and that is negative. But it is often through the bad and the negative that life offers us our greatest opportunities.

Besides, from the perspective of the Reality, the All, such dualistic viewpoints of affirmation and negation melt into one another and disappear, as everything serves a purpose in creation. Oneness is the result. Dualistic views of good and bad, big and small, infinite and finite, etc, have no place from this harmonic perspective.

Most importantly, we can learn to experience that same capacity to see beyond the positive and negative, the dualities in our own lives, meaning that every moment life is presenting opportunities for our growth and progress.

Reader: Mother's Grace. Thank you Sir. After reading Appa's books and your explanation now only I realise the following lines of Savitri. ' As if she knew not facts are husks of truth, The husks she keeps, the kernel throws aside,'

No Title

There is one way we are greater than the Gods: we can evolve, while they essentially cannot, and do not want to.

No Title

Evolution can only take place when we are in the body; not in the Before or the Hereafter.

Our Immortal Destiny

-When something has a beginning, it must have an end. If something has no beginning, then it has no end. It is Eternal.

-Our true Self has no beginning nor an end. It is Eternal. Thus we are essentially eternal Beings.

-However, the spiritual goal of our physical existence is to be immortal. I.e. we can become eternal in our physical body. It is our evolutionary challenge.

-The Mother in Her life took up that spiritual quest by calling in the supramental Force to change the "programming" of Her cells.

-In our immortal existence we can live as long as we wish, and continue to evolve our nature to further the Evolution.

Death, Rebirth, and Human Progress

As Sri Aurobindo explains, death is not the opposite of life. Death is a process of life. Because if you leave it to the person he will do the same thing over and over, learning but one lesson in this life. At the end, the Soul, the Psychic Being will say that the only lesson this person has learned he keeps repeating. Thus the Soul says "I need a new birth; new lessons to learn in new individuals."

Thus, death is there to free us from our Habits. Death only means we have exhausted our capacity of the surface personality for progress for this body, for this birth; for this life, and we can continue to grow in consciousness in future births.

Yet we also have the capacity to progress further in THIS life, at every moment, in every situation, enabling our consciousness to widen, at every plane, allowing our lives to carry on indefinitely.

Ultimately in this way, life can be extended, even to the point of realizing our immortality in our body and being. This in fact is the aspiration and intent of the Infinite Divine. (paraphrase of Garry Jacobs)

If you restrain yourself from publicly commenting on the insidious deeds of an organization, life will compel other negatives to be publicly revealed about that entity, further damaging their reputation and status.

No Title

Evolution of consciousness is to replace the logic of the finite with the logic of the Infinite.

Individuality and the Collective

We think of individuality and following the collective, the societal view as polar opposites. Yet the greatest accomplishment of individuality is to create in such a way that it brings the greatest benefit to the collective, to society. Gandhi, Churchill, da Vinci, Einstein, Marie Curie, Elizabeth I, Edison, Tesla, and Steve Jobs are examples. The contradiction between individuality and the collective is thus royally resolved.

The Spiritual Individual

Spiritual individuality is beyond normal individuality in that the person takes his cues from messages emanating from his psychic being, his True Self, which are connected with the universal stream of life. When he commits and acts on these inner influences, he attracts great, individualistic results for himself as well as for the collectives around him.

No Title

Work comes to a stop when we refuse to do what is possible NOW. Doing that, WORK moves non-stop. (Sri Karmayogi)

Comment: I have seen this subtle life principle at work many times!

No Title

Fear, worry, and pessimistic outlook, rooted in the physical consciousness, can cloud and rule over the mind and its perceptions. Best to cast it off and consecrate it, enabling clear, empty, optimistic mental space to take its place.

No Title

Example of shifting from the logic of the finite to the Logic of the Infinite: shift from what you want to what others want, and as a result you will gain what you desired and more.

Reader: Roy Sir, if i do that, i m taking for granted. I'm doing all the work and my immediate superior is taking all the credit. I feel like i m serving a selfish person

Response: My recommendation is to consecrate his selfishness, plus you're being bothered by it. Also any idea of being taken for granted. They are all forms of ego.

Also I would suggest inwardly and outwardly serve the organization with high values, while being neutral about the boss. No hard feelings.

No Title

A parent who is constantly complaining, scolding, or shouting at the child is not doing their job properly; is not spending enough meaningful quiet time listening to, supporting, and guiding their offspring.

No Title

Problems that are created in immaturity can be solved when both are mature, but it can be better done in silence than by exchange of ideas. This is true because the inner attitude is more ready to iron out issues than the capacity for conversation and communication is developed. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

Resolution of conflict can be seen in ascending planes from the Physical (eliminating war, violence, et al) to the Vital (eliminating hate, prejudice, et al) to Mind (eliminating disagreement, fixed theory, et al) to SPIRIT (which overcomes all of the others through harmony of purpose).

No Title

Atheism serves a purpose in presenting an alternate "philosophy" to the limited religious dogma we see in the world, including those originating in the Semitic regions, among others. In fact, a number of great spiritual figures began as atheists who could not tolerate the fixed dogma and superstition, the shallowness, or the authoritarian, intolerant-like commanding God of their faith.

Comment: Mother said She was an absolute material-oriented atheist in her 20s, adopting her parents views, and said it was the best starting point imaginable, as she was free of religious dogma. She was then able broke through into the Spirit; in ways none had ever experienced before.

No Title

Life Response occurrence can make a believer out of anyone, from an agnostic to an unrepentant atheist, because it is so experiential and perceivable by mind. Once our being is opened this way, then anything (including a vision of a deity) can take place thereafter.

No Title

Atheism is mind freed of others' questionable religious convictions. Agnosticism is that same mind, but open to possibilities of divinity.

No Title

There is nothing that I can recommend more highly than to consecrate, i.e. offer to Mother each important activity you engage in during the course of your day. It dramatically improves the outcome, and gradually becomes the basis of a New Way of Living.

No Title

When someone does something egregiously wrong, it's often best to avoid taking direct action and complaining to them. Instead consider putting it out of mind, which will enable situations to arise in which the wrong-doer will be confronted by others for their shameful behavior.

No Title

Life puts each person in their proper place in relationship to others so that the individual can be in situations that give him the opportunity to overcome his limitations in consciousness.

No Title

It's important to listen carefully to another person's opinions and take them seriously. A cultured, mature person will always respond calmly and insightfully to another's thoughts because he genuinely respects other people, no matter what their status.

No Title

The journey to the true Me occurs by first embracing the true You.

No Title

Behavior we don't like in another, we often express ourselves, in the same or in a somewhat different way. We see this very often between family members (such as parent and child), though it can occur in any type of human relationship.

If you are observant, you can perceive patterns of repeating events in life that are indicators of future outcomes. In this way, you can anticipate and even predict what is to come.

No Title

Try to deeply relate to the highest values of the organization you work for, not merely the issues pertaining to your own success. Such an attitude can (ironically) take you to the top of the firm, enabling great achievement.

No Title

Every day we have the opportunity to be born into a new life. The Sunrise is a symbol of that, as well as that reality.

No Title

Each sarcasm, even if harmlessly intended draws a negative response from life.

No Title

Tragedy drives progress, as do visionary individuals. Both have their place in the scheme of things in the Evolution.

No Title

According to Sri Aurobindo, the journey from Ignorance to Integral Knowledge, which is our deepest purpose, occurs through many births. We can condense it in one birth through a deeply sincere effort to raise our consciousness. That way our Soul (psychic being) learns multiple lessons in one life, precluding the need for many incarnations.

The average person however will go through many births, learning but one lesson in his lifetime, since he is not sincerely committed to elevation of consciousness, or is simply ignorant of the possibility.

No Title

There is no greater courage than that of recognizing one's own mistakes. (The Mother)

Comment: I recently sincerely apologized for a small mistake I made, and I observed it have rippling, successive positive repercussions. A wonder to behold.

No Title

Though a person may learn a new lesson about a limiting quality of their being, after a while the physical consciousness, not willing to relent, takes over and pulls one back to the old way. Normally only a firm decision to shift to the new or a serious blow from life prevents the repetition.

Reader: Thank you Sir.

Being aware of the limited quality of our being is the first step. In proportion to the Opportunity or the Grace waiting for us, life demands not only the understanding but a change in vital consciousness and physical effort is often needed so that the essence of knowledge learnt through the process of transformation would be grasped by the Soul for its evolution.

Yet, those opportunities may pose as problems or challenges with respect to one's consciousness. The challenges may be even greater if one is destined to bring collective results for the Society. It is wisdom to look beyond those contradictions as complements. Faith in the Mother will help to uncover quickly, the Opportunities and the Grace awaiting for us.

In P&P, Darcy's awareness of his nature at his proposal was the first step. After that he had to go through a series of reversals in vital and physical before his fulfillment of Love. During the process of transformation, he aligned with the Divine's plan which brought greater results for Mr. Bennett's family and also to the society. (perceived from Garry Sir Speech)

Response: Excellent, wonderful point.

It shows the process of "ascent and integration" in human progress. That is, when you rise up say at the mental level through a new understanding, you have to apply it at the lower, vital and physical levels for it to be completely realized in one's nature.

Darcy had the aspiration of his limited nature at the mental level, but then life compelled him to apply it at the vital life and physical levels.

However, we can shortcut this process by doing it consciously, without waiting for life to force us to complete the integration from the ascent. We can make the decision to apply the new understanding in a practical way (through its full acceptance in our emotions and feelings at the vital level, plus any physical action required on our part to make it fully real). If we add the Spirit, such as consecrating the entire issue, then we bring about a vast change in our nature, which then evokes a corresponding vast response and benefit from life. Just as Darcy evoked it by attracting Eliza in marriage, so we too would attract enormous benefit as a result of integrating the mental realization at all levels of our being.

No Title

There are a wide variety of malevolent subtle forces and entities whose objective is to lead us astray. They can have a direct impact on our consciousness, causing us to take to wrong movements or be adversely affected, or it can come to us through other individuals and circumstance. To the degree we maintain our balance and higher nature, they will have less effect on our lives.

Comment: Sri Aurobindo and Mother referred to them as the "Hostiles." They range from Asuras, great Forces of Darkness that have sway on events and circumstances in the universe, (and which the Mother had great confrontations with), to small entities that enjoy their mischievousness to disrupt things and bother people. They exist in the subtle planes, but have influence in the material/life planes we are familiar with.

No Title

Often by shifting to an entirely different matter we attract a solution to the current problem.

Comment: I have often seen this phenomenon at work, whether involving the smallest detail or the largest issue.

No Title

People are visual and reactive first (like animals) and mental second, though in recent decades there is rapid movement toward developed mentality (i.e. thinking first). True Rationality -- i.e. the ability to weigh various sides of a matter, unimpinged by personal preference, like Sherlock Holmes -- is a step beyond, and is demonstrated by relatively few. Spiritual mentality -- such as persistent intuition, i.e. knowledge that comes into the mind without having to think -- is for less still, perhaps a few thousand on earth. Supramental perception -- the ability to know the entire truth from every angle and have it instantaneously and miraculously manifest as real in the world -- is beyond that and experienced by a handful.

No Title

To be active in the mind or engaging in unsolicited mental initiatives can block the Force from acting in you to fulfill your deepest aspirations in life.

No Title

Each ill-will or hostile feeling you have - towards others, life, self, work, etc. - quickly elicits a negative response from life.

No Title

The ability to trace back negative outcome in one's life to previous lower consciousness attitudes, behaviors, or actions is one indicator of true Self-Awareness.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo indicates that before a person can be spiritual in the mind (e.g. ongoing experiences of intuition), he first has to be Rational. According to His definition of Rationality, 99% of individuals are not truly rational, as our own desires, prejudices, beliefs, and other lower influences prevent the true exercise of logical, rational thinking that apprehends the truth of a matter.

No Title

Detaching from a problem shifts it to the positive.

No Title

The more we worry about a problem, the worse it gets.

Reader: Let's consecrate it and leave it to Mother, huh Roy

Response: Yes, being conscious of and catching the worry as it arises, pushing it aside, and then consecrating the matter, i.e. leaving it to Mother, is an excellent approach.

Reader: Fantastic and practical quote sir...but making it live is bit difficult

Response: If we are sincere in following Salona's approach, it is not so hard, as we have inner tools to deal with the worry. If we are regularly dedicated to raising our consciousness, then it is much easier. If we don't care about maintaining a higher center of awareness, and just care about our success, our family, money, status, having fun, et al, without caring about our personal growth, it WILL be difficult. Certainly weaker people will be overcome by the worry. Even the strong can be overwhelmed when they have not developed a deeper center of being.

Likewise, if we have true Faith in Mother it is much easier to deal with the cause of any worry. In fact, She will dissolve it. But it takes genuine Faith in Her, which can build u over time.

It all comes down to our SINCERITY -- sincerity to develop our Consciousness and to be open to the Higher Power. It is also known as "Spiritual Aspiration."

No Title

People we look up to and think are wise -- like scientists, doctors, professors, and all -- live fully in the Ignorance of the true workings of Life. A brilliant mind and some poor soul are both equally devoid of Knowledge of the true nature of Existence.

No Title

Karmayogi in his vast commentaries has given 10,000 principles of the true nature of reality and how life works, It is doubtful that any of the "great minds" of our time (scientists, doctors, professors, pundits, thinkers) have knowledge of even a few.

This is the "Ignorance" that Sri Aurobindo says humanity is burdened with, and is therefore the central topic He addresses and then resolves in the second half of his epic metaphysical work 'The Life Divine.'

No Title

"A fuller appreciation of the ABSOLUTE by the mind is capable of relieving the vital of its most oppressive fears." (Sri Karmayogi)

According to Sri Aurobindo, the Absolute is the All. It is the Divine and the Universe. The One and the Many. The Being and the Becoming. The small and the large. The good and the bad. The positive and negative. The pleasurable and the painful. Every thought and feeling and circumstance. Every plane of being. And they are all integrally connected in the greater scheme of things; and all are part of the Movement forward.

Perceiving the Absolute then is to realize that everything in your life serves a purpose. That all is helping you progress. Thus there is nothing to fear.

No Title

Progress happens through darkness and light. Often faster through darkness; though more painful. Supramental action, i.e. Mother enables very rapid progress (often instantaneous) without suffering; in fact blissfully.

No Title

I have often found that not reacting to the sudden onset of what appears to be seriously backed-up traffic on the highway very soon opens up the roadway for an easier drive. It's another instance of the extraordinary life response power of "non-reaction."

The Main Mistake ...

- The main mistake neuro-scientists make is that the brain and Mind are the same.
- The main mistake scientists make is that only reality that can be measured exists.
- The main mistake doctors make is that the only cure is material, not psychological.
- The main mistake thinkers make are that they are rational; that they are immune from their mental and emotional prejudices.
- The main mistake humans make is to believe only what their senses tell them is real.
- The main mistake religions make is to wander astray from the founder's or its source teachings.
- The main mistake politicians make is to be completely trapped by their ideology.
- The main mistake education makes is to teach knowledge instead of Knowledge.
- The main mistake achievers make is to be content with their current level of success.
- The main mistake failures make is to denigrate the success of achievers.
- The main mistake parents make is to be possessive of their children.
- The main mistake athletes make is not to learn from their failures. (applies to others too!)
- The main mistake ... (your entries)

Reader: I think it's not so much that thinkers feel that they are immune from prejudices and emotions, but rather they hold their own prejudices and emotions to be rational and reasonable while others are mistaken and savage. This is true for the mass of humanity perhaps.

Response: Yes, that's kind of what I meant.

No Title

Because of his deep values, the success the founder has brought to the organization tends to continue even after he has left. However, that success tends to eventually fade or worse unless the old values are reinvigorated or new ones are brought to bear.

No Title

By "Ignorance" Sri Aurobindo does not mean our lack of knowledge such as one would acquire in school or through family or society, but the infinite ways we have lost connection with the Divine, with the Truth of existence. Thus the Journey from Ignorance to Integral Knowledge occurs through a vast transformation in our nature in which we are fundamentally remade according to the principles of the Infinite consciousness.

Three Levels of Initiatives and Their Potentials for Success

We can observe three levels of initiating a movement toward success in life, from least likely to most likely to succeed. They are Self-Initiative, Life's Initiative, and Mother's Initiative.

1. Initiatives that you initiate have as much chance of failing as succeeding. Eg one man in a time of slow work initiated by forming a new company. But after some initial success, it quickly faded. One reason was that the surrounding influence was not very positive. There was doubt, including the questioning of the viability of the product.

Still it is worth having deep inner aspiration to achieve something in life, which itself can evoke either of the other two initiative types as opportunities coming; especially if the inner and outer conditions are conducive to evoking them.

2. Initiatives from Life such as opportunities coming in unsolicited have a much greater chance of succeeding when taken up. E.g. two women greeted a trainer who was working in a computer store, and asked him to work for them. He did, and it kicked off a 25 year training career. He was also ready for that path (internals), and the externals of the people involved were fully positive and committed.

However, even with Life Initiatives there are times where a great opportunity comes, is embraced, but then somehow fails to materialize as hoped. E.g. a man aspired for and almost miraculous-like attracted the opportunity to train for months around the world, but then at the last minute the agent said the client had reconsidered. Perhaps the trainer was not up to the challenge. Ie the inner conditions might not have been fully positive. Or maybe the outer condition, as portrayed by the agent, was not quite fully on the level.

Still Life's initiatives in general are more likely to end in success than one's own. Positive inner and outer conditions together nearly guarantee it.

3. Mother's initiatives (i.e. of the Divine Force) almost always succeed as well as last when taken up, for they are fully formed, without any opening for failure. Eg a man was hoping to improve his life condition, as well as future direction. One day he met a woman who suggested there may be an opening for work with several devotees who were in the import/export business. He met with them, and it led to a profound lifetime association, including a multitude of works. Subconsciously his inner being and Soul longed for it, and it met with outer conditions of great intensity and spiritual power.

By the way, one of the hallmarks of Mother's initiatives is that there seems to be a supreme harmony of unfolding, plus it carries a rich, peaceful atmosphere.

Sometimes Life's Initiatives and Mother's are virtually indistinguishable. What comes from Mother is often in response to one's deepest aspiration for meaning and purpose in life. Mother's initiatives can therefore be thought of as interchangeable with the term "Destiny."

Comment; For further analysis of potential successful or unsuccessful outcomes to these levels of initiatives, it would be helpful to run it by Mother's Service Society's 4-quadrant Decision Making tool, which measures the capacity and determines the outcome for short and long-term success of any initiative or undertaking based on the status of the inner and outer conditions. It is presented here:

<http://www.motherservice.org/node/156>

No Title

The key for an athlete is not just to win, but to learn from every experience so that he can become better and therefore increasingly succeed in the future. It's also true for the rest of us in the works of our own lives.

No Title

The emergence of India economically (and as a competitor) can compel China to become more democratic in order to keep up. This can bring a great benefit for the world.

Reader: deng xiaoping had realised that sometime ago and begun the reforms. The chinese communist party has also took steps to revive buddhism, taoism, and confucianism when they recognised the value of Values for economic growth and stability.

Response: Yes, this was (and will be) the internal pressures for reform. Deng led the way and ensuing generations have felt compelled to follow. They have been mostly free of outer economic pressures, but India could increasingly play that role. Eg Google is welcome in India, where it is anathema by the Chinese gov't for censorship purposes. It will be hard to sustain such actions. Also India can compete on price, is more welcome in Silicon Valley, etc etc. American alliance with India is key. I am however optimistic that China will continue to change its ways, if begrudgingly. After all, it has many hundreds of millions to employ.

Greece's Evolutionary Purpose

The emergence of the Greek crisis has forced the members to reconsider the deepest values they originally advocated when they formed the European Union. Eg are they truly committed to those values or just to financial considerations or to their own nation's self-interest?

It is ironic that Greece, the cradle of Western civilization, and long dormant, has reemerged to compel the EU members to reevaluate their deepest beliefs. This is Life's compulsion to further the Evolution in this domain.

No Title

India and Pakistan can begin the process of reuniting or at least joining in a federation through increasing economic cooperation.

No Title

To solve a problems that exists at the current level, we can move to the next higher level. Eg India and Pakistan are at odds politically. However they can resolve that problem by moving to greater economic cooperation, which is at the next higher level. In this way we can list out any problem and then consider the higher consciousness approach to move things forward.

On Conformity and Individuality

- Most people just copy what others do. Even those who rebel are mimicking other rebels. True individuals are thus very hard to find.
- Conformity is the norm amongst 99% of the population, including so called non-conformists.
- People end up being very much like everyone else, even when they try not to be.
- What people consider being different is just another form of being the same.
- True individuality is a radical and profound shift from the norm. It is where there is no one around to emulate, so one takes one's cues from the deepest parts of one's being.
- Only true individuals bring the world forward. The rest keep it in stasis.
- True individuality is an instrument for and expresses the Divine Will in the world. Together they guide it forward.

Reversing Grudge that Brought Negative Business Conditions

"When I opened an office in south part of Tamil Nadu all my good work in sales promotions, the name and the incentives went only to the Area Sales Manager of that company and even he got promoted as RSM with very good pay scale. Repeat orders were not passed on to me and they went to other distributors. Then I started to search for correspondence in me but could not find exactly the same or anything that can justify his act. Eventually I had to close that branch due to losses. For about one year - always boiling whenever his thought comes or whenever I hear about him. One day it dawned that having negativity or grudge about someone is itself a link to get offended though I am not doing anything that is negative - I tried consecrate it whenever that thought comes as "all is for good". This happened in 2012. After few weeks I got calls from south part of Tamilnadu like Tuticorin, Thirunelveli Rajapalayam -wherein he developed the market but as and when some of them needed the services they found that he is incompetent and found that I was the brain behind him . Since then, till now, whenever the Chennai market is down only the south market is giving the profitable business with no overheads like branch office, staffs, travels etc., etc., Now other companies also came to know about my technical competence through which I got distributorship of leading products without any deposits, bank guarantees, minimum sales targets etc.," (RK)

Non-Judgmental Business Partner Attracts

Often there are qualities in another person that irritate us, that we are not comfortable with, that we judge not be in our and other's best interest. However, if we catch and reverse our bother, restrain ourselves from judging others, life can bring forth the truly unexpected.

A business friend of mine is one of the principles in a new business venture. Well it turns out that one of the five partners running the new firm was not to my friend's liking. He was especially bothered by his business attitudes.

One day after reading his daily inspirations on higher consciousness, my friend decided to withdraw bother and judging this other partner. In fact, he went so far as to agree that this person should be appointed the CEO of the entire organization moving forward, a risky suggestion.

It turns out that in the days and weeks that followed, my friend watched as the CEO partner ascended to his duties with great aplomb and skill, winning the admiration of the other partners in the fledgling business. It was a perfect development since the company was now about to launch.

Because my friend withdrew reaction to the partner's ways, eliminating all judgement about his behavior, attitudes, and values, life responded in the form of the now-appointed CEO partner taking actions and demonstrating behaviors that exceeded everyone's expectations, pushing the enterprise forwards on the road to success.

Metro Miracle

It is said that calm and Non-Reaction in an intense situation matched with self-offering of events to the spiritual Force, the Divine Mother can attract overwhelmingly positive conditions from life. Here is some further proof:

When riding on an underground metro train in San Francisco several years ago, I was suddenly greeted by a transit police officer who asked me to show my ticket receipt. It turns out that many locals had avoided paying for their rides and officers were now being placed on trains to randomly check people's transit receipts. It turns out that I did not have my receipt; not because I cheated, but because I had forgotten to take mine in the rush through the high tech ticket gate machine. I was therefore now being issued a summons to appear in court for my alleged impropriety.

At the hearing several months later, I logically pleaded my case before the judge, but though appreciative of my suggestions for improvement of the system, she proceeded to levy a heavy fine against me. I breathed a deep sigh of inevitability as I listened to her pronounce judgement.

However, just at that moment she was writing up and explaining my fine, out of nowhere the transit officer who accosted me and issued the summons several months earlier suddenly stepped forward and informed the judge that I had acted very gentlemanly, without incident at the time he handed me the summons. The judge listening to this new piece of evidence then took this fact of good behavior into consideration and switched her ruling, cancelling the entire fine!

As I stood there in shock at these dramatic turn events, I felt that a miracle of sorts had just taken place. However later on, in retrospect, I recalled that I had originally practiced Non-Reaction and Consecration when the transit officer first accosted me about my missing receipt and handed me the summons. And now as a result, at the hearing, I had elicited from out of nowhere the Goodwill of the very same transit officer, enabling the outcome to be completely reversed!

As I walked in a daze out of the court and into the bright sunshine, I knew that I had experienced one of the most extraordinary life response episodes of my life. As I walked along I simultaneously smiled and lightly trembled as I recollected the events I had just been through.

No Title

As you get older, it gets harder to address two things or more at once. Mother at 90 could do 10 or more, as the truth poured into her wide consciousness and Mind from a variety of directions. We can gain that same power if we steadily maintain our inner relationship with Her. Seniors can reverse the degradation of the Mind.

No Title

When you are associated with Mother and develop a breakthrough idea, it tends to vibrate far and wide into people's hearts and minds around the world.

No Title

The world has not learned how to anticipate problems and thereby avoid them, only how to react to them after they have occurred.

No Title

Individuality is to dream what the collective has not thought of so far. (Senthil Murugan)

Comment: Great remark! In this way the true individual enables society to move forward.

THE BEST INSTRUCTORS

The best instructors-

- go the extra mile for their students...
- are always learning from their students
- come up with new ways to present the materials
- discover the needs of the students at the outset
- are organized to the hilt
- are willing to stray from curricula to meet students' needs
- are able to keep pace on the agenda
- are exceptionally talented in at least one area
- consecrate every class and every problem
- experience life response phenomenon often
- are willing to work hard
- are energized not fatigued at the end of the day
- have the capacity to improvise and solve problems
- feels gratitude to their employer, agent, etc.
- stay youthful with the times
- are willing to listen first and instruct second
- have respect for others' inputs, thoughts, and opinions
- are able to network with others
- see subtle signs of opportunity coming in and seize them
- are always seeking new sources of knowledge
- do not panic when there is a problem or change of course
- are always improving their presentation skills
- really care that the students are learning, gain benefit
- have an exceptional ability to explain the concept
- teaches at the level of the students' knowledge and capacity
- has the necessary energy to conduct the class
- is friendly, gracious, and hospitable
- does not waste time and energy on too much chit-chat
- keep his ego at bay, avoiding self-aggrandizement
- listen to others' advice, suggestions
- others?

Reader: Roy u have covered everything . How about the below 2 point s

Who is extremely happy for the student's success

Who empower the student

Response: Very good, and very true!

Before most classes - over 1000 so far - I consecrate that the students receive maximum benefit; that I fulfill their needs.

No Title

There are certain Life Movements, - like the sudden, most unexpected collapse of Communism, and the onset of a never-thought-of Internet, - that indicate the Force is alive and active in the world, constantly bringing new revelations and modes of being to a dumbfounded society.

No Title

Mother let me be free of all forms of ego so that I might arrive at Truth in every situation.

Expanding Animal Intelligence?

One reader thought that animals may be getting smarter, and that perhaps the Force is at work in that process. I responded something like this:

Animals have certainly gotten smarter when there are around humans. Also humans having developed a more humane attitude toward animals, including wild ones, can have a positive, expansive effect on the consciousness of animals. In addition, animals, like us, can evolve, and we may be seeing results along this line as well.

Whether the Force is having an impact on animals I cannot say, but the increasing perception of the interrelatedness of life by humans can have a vibratory effect that advances animals' wherewithal.

In addition, animals who are now in closer proximity to one another or to new species introduced for whatever reason may develop new forms of reaction, which can result in some development of consciousness.

Finally through video we are seeing new sides of animals we may not have seen before; and it also seems to be the case that we are very much interested in animals as a way to examine and further understand our own nature.

There are many possibilities for the development of animal intelligence, of which these are but a few.

No Title

When you listen to and act on the subtle influence of the Inner Guide, (the subliminal being within which is in touch with the universal), you discover you have done the right thing at the right time down to the very second.

No Title

When you become aware of a moment where society has risen to embrace something they ignorantly condemned before, the atmosphere turns so rich that it brings both joy and tears. It is an evolutionary moment of the Spirit.

No Title

True understanding of a thing or matter, penetrating to the Essence, energizes and inspires that individual to no end.

No Title

To the Spirit, and therefore to the flow and outcomes of life, ridding itself of Untouchability may one day be a greater achievement for India than Independence.

Reembracing Vedanta

Vedanta is at the very heart of Indian spiritual thought and is likely the most profound spiritual teaching ever devised. It is at the root of Sri Aurobindo's wisdom, though he has taken it to new, evolutionary heights - introducing the Psychic Being (evolving soul) and supramental consciousness that can perceive the true nature of the Reality, the All that the Vedic Rishis revealed to the world.

Here the author asks Indian thinkers to revisit this profoundest of all wisdom, that so many great spiritual personalities have been touched by in the past, so the nation can be propelled into a glorious future.

Reader: It may be possible to classify Sri Aravindam as a vedanta or even the ultimate vedanta since it takes the vedic knowledge to its ultimate conclusion including Supermind as creator (Prajna) and Psychic Being Chaitya Purusha...so it is literally the end of the Vedas i.e. Ved-anta. Perhaps "Integral Vedanta"

Response: Yes, Supermind as creator gives the evolutionary push and power. In that way we have direct method of manifesting the Spirits intent - peace, goodness, love, joy, infinity, etc. for manifestation - in creation. And from Psychic Being our nature is fully open to surrender to that supramental power, furthering the evolution. We thereby have an integral process to engage in within the Integral Reality.

Reader: Sri Aravindam has also given the view that finally reconciles Vaidik and Tantrik philosophies.

Response: Yes, Supermind expresses for us through Divine Mother/Shakti, etc., enabling the spiritual attributes of the Divine to be infused in us and the world, bringing about a Divine Life on earth; fulfilling our, the Cosmos' evolutionary purpose.

(from Wikipedia) Tantrism is an ancient Hindu tradition of beliefs and meditation and ritual practices that seeks to channel the divine energy of the macrocosm or godhead into the human microcosm.

GIIMS

I am happy to be on the Advisory board of GIIMS (Global Institute of Integral Management Studies) in Cochin, Kerala state.

GIIMS offers complete education in Logistics and Supply Chain Management with the intention of creating high class professionals for meeting the global industrial needs. In association with CII Institute of Logistics, GIIMS offers MBA, PG Diploma, Diploma, Certificate and B.Com courses with specialization in Logistics and SCM.

Our Vision: "Serving the society through education"

Our Mission: "Developing a new generation of highly qualified professionals for creating a peaceful and prosperous world "

Our Goal: "Building a group of educational institutions by blending the educational systems and organization of the West with Indian Values and Wisdom"

Our Motto: "Transforming education through collaborations and bringing the best in the arena together."

<http://www.giims.in/>

PRIMROSE SCHOOL ("Every Child a Genius")

In 1999 Mother's Service Society established Primrose School in an urban area of Pondicherry to demonstrate the efficacy of the results among children of more socially and economically advantaged families.

Primrose School has been widely recognized as the most advanced institution for early childhood education in Pondicherry. In 2006 Primrose Educational Trust, a Chennai-based organization, drew up a plan to establish a chain of Primrose schools in other parts of South India and opened its first school in June 2006.

In 2007, Primrose was affiliated to Council for the Indian School Certificate Examinations (CISCE). In 2012, the educational programme at Primrose School is being extended to include all levels of high school, from pre-kg up to the 12th grade.

No Title

Love is an eternal virtue; marriage merely a social convention.

No Title

The busy mind does not appreciate interference in its routine in order to remember Mother and Her Force, whereas the Silent Mind is more amenable.

No Title

When you make a request of another but do not insist, forgetting the matter completely, there is a very good chance the other person will soon do what you asked.

Intuition and Genius

Man thinks. The muni is silent. The Rishi sees visions, the yogi has Intuitions. Beyond, the gods live. A genius is born when the Intuition of the yogi expresses itself in the human mind for whatever reasons. (Sri Karmayogi)

Self Learning and Spirit

Formal education as we know is dead and lifeless. The process of learning is live. The process of Self-learning rises in a flame to move the Spirit inside. (Sri Karmayogi)

Spiritual vs Mental Intuition

Spiritual Intuition is wide enough to include all life and all creation, whereas mental intuition of the genius is only one component of it. (Sri Karmayogi)

Comment: One interpretation: With Spiritual intuition we connect with the Reality and its spiritual facets; including transcendent. It just comes into our field of awareness as direct experience. It also rises within from the psychic entity, the evolving soul, the true self. Sri Aurobindo, Krishna, Ramana Maharishi, Eckhart Tolle, and others have dwelled there.

On the other hand, mental intuition, a subset, is to apprehend knowledge; that appears in the mind without the thought. It is where Einstein ($E=mc^2$ experience) mathematician Ramanujan, and others have on occasion resided.

No Title

All blame is a waste of time.

No matter how much fault you find with another, and regardless of how much you blame him, it will not change you. The only thing blame does is to keep the focus off you when you are looking for external reasons to explain your unhappiness or frustration. You may succeed in making another feel guilty about something by blaming him, but you won't succeed in changing whatever it is about you that is making you unhappy. (Dr. Wayne Dyer)

Comment: Also, each time you withhold blame, positive circumstance soon develop. Moreover, if you also take responsibility for the conditions instead of blaming others for them, then the response can be overwhelming.

No Title

Indians vs Americans in Terms of Spirit, Activity, Work, Accomplishment. Bridging Work Activity and Silence

The Mother says the bodies of Indians contain light. We know India is poor, ranking 134th out of 197 nations. Where does that Spirit dwell? Can we not have some glimpse of it?

The Americans cannot sit quiet for an hour, not even for fifteen minutes. We know they are dynamic. Indians will sit motionless for hours. We know it is inertia, laziness.

Yogically the human physical, the physical being, is restless. Ages of tapas have brought down Spiritual Peace into the very atmosphere of the nation. It has permeated the being of man down to his physical.

America can produce scientists. After four hundred years the nation has not produced one Saint. It is not in their soil. India has not produced an original scientist of renown for the past several centuries.

Let us narrow our enquiry. There are many people of really dynamic nature in India, both men and women. Perhaps women outnumber men in this respect. Often they are organised. They are not merely active, but their energy issues out of a dynamic nature. When they commission themselves in a work, there will be a great speed untouched by hurry. When the work is over, they will sit quietly, which the American cannot do.

In many people the Spiritual Peace has degenerated into laziness. In those who are dynamic, that Peace silently energises their work. Spiritual Peace in them has reconciled dynamism and rest. To be active when necessary and to be QUIET when not working is a spiritual ability. The American would go mad if he had to be QUIET. His is the physical energy which needs physical expression. (Karmayogi)

No Title

Dear friends, I will likely be reducing the number of posts I make here at this personal Facebook page, as well as at Life Response and The Book Facebook groups, as I shift my focus toward work-related activities. Meanwhile, if you wish you can visit my new personal web site to find out about the work I am engaged in, the services I offer, and most importantly to keep up our deep connection. Here is the link to the site: Warm regards, Roy

"Conscious-Force" In the Involution and Evolution

From the Infinite Being emerged the Conscious Force. The Being was conscious of itself, and released a Force; a Conscious-Force.

Through an Involutionary process, the Conscious Force, the shakti and creation power of the universe, the Mother, consciously "devolved" into unconscious Energy, which divided further into atom-based Matter in the universe from which life then unfolded and blossomed in the Evolution.

Conscious Force's intent is for the spiritual attributes of the Infinite Divine - Peace, Truth, Goodness, Beauty, Love, Delight, Timelessness, etc. -- to manifest into infinite variable forms in infinite variety, including us. For that purpose the Divine became the universe.

Our cosmic goal is to partake in this Process by raising our own consciousness and overcoming our ignorance, incapacity, separateness, ego, et al, -- a product of inheriting through our physical body of the inertia and unconsciousness of matter. As we rise in our mental, vital, and physical nature, we release the Conscious-Force in us, and the spiritual attributes take root in our being.

We most powerfully raise our consciousness by connecting with our deepest Self, the Psychic Being, and the supramental Force above -- Mother's power of Truth Consciousness -- which elevates our being at all planes, enabling us to experience each of the spiritual Attributes to a higher degree, in fullness, fulfilling the Divine Intent.

As a wide variety of individuals rise in consciousness, the society evolves along with them, bringing the Conscious Force into the collective. The individual, universal, and transcendent thus share in, participate in a common process and purpose.

This culminates in the transformation of humans into a new species of supramentalized (truth consciousness, Conscious-Force oriented) Beings, and the onset of a Divine Life on Earth.

No Title

India's emerging prosperity joined with her spiritual values will create the vibration that releases Supramental power on earth.

Strategies to Attract the Solution to Unsolvable Problems

Here are several inner strategies one can take to solve any Unsolvable Problem. Each can evoke a powerful positive response from life in the form of the solution or some other great results.

1. The fault is with me. I am willing to change.
2. I am willing to take an effort that is of a higher intensity than before.
3. To solve this problem I am willing to give up a fault of mine which I have not done so far.
4. Now I will try to achieve perfection in what I am doing.
5. I have a confidence that nothing is impossible if one tries. I will keep up the effort until the problem is solved.
6. If others can solve a problem like this, I can solve it.
7. There is a secret solution to every problem which I will try to discover.
8. I accept that every principle has an opposite which is also true.
9. It is better to make an effort, rather than resign oneself to defeat.

(strategies by Karmayogi)

The Mental Age

Sri Aurobindo identified four overlapping levels or phases in the development of society -- physical, vital, mental, and spiritual. Physical was about survival. Vital was about expansiveness and interaction. Mental is about garnering knowledge and the organization of society. Spiritual is focused on realization of Truth and other spiritual qualities like Goodness, Harmony, Beauty, Love, and Delight.

We are now squarely in the Mental Age with the rise of education everywhere, the application of Values in work and other aspects of society, and now the infinite-like onset of the Internet, amongst others. In the mental age Man can determine his future, and work harmoniously and intelligently to do so. He has the mental capacity to solve any problem, as long as his mind remains open. When the Mind takes to Spirit -- expressing through intuition, not thinking, and supramental perception of integral understanding -- it opens to all such possibilities, and thereby fulfills the needs of the Mental Age. The Spiritual age, rooted in the higher capacities of mind and the various expressions of higher consciousness at all levels, then follows.

No Title

There are times one must pull back and widen to perceive the Big Picture in order to understand current conditions in their right context.

No Title

Life doesn't always go where you want it to go. Honor that direction; follow it's flow.

No Title

Each problem in society or in our own lives is solvable by moving to a higher level of Harmony, instead of merely asserting our own position.

Comment: At each point where you give up an Ego movement, you overcome separative consciousness, which creates more Harmony with others, life. There are dozens of forms of Ego we express in the course of our day. One is asserting one's position. Catching it and giving that up creates more harmony, while also attracting unexpected positive conditions; ie "life response."

It also attracts the negation of problems, differences, conflicts.

No Title

When we see the positive response to the inner, spiritual method of Non-Reaction, we are overwhelmed by the miracle, our lives are subtly changed, and we build up inner power to negotiate any future situation. We even see the utility and purpose behind all such problems in the greater scheme of things.

No Title

Silence energizes.

No Title

Mother's Grace in response to consecrating an event often brings the unexpected.

No Title

Taking to Self-Reliance rather than dependence in a difficult situation generates new-found positive energy within.

Our Life Response Education Vision

We have abundant Life Response-related principles, methods, and case studies at our disposal to provide comprehensive education to the public in various markets using a wide variety of means, approaches, and media. This will in turn help students Consciously evoke Life Response phenomenon, enabling their great achievement, their serious advancements in personal and spiritual growth, which will in turn enable society to evolve, ushering in the first stages of a Divine life on earth.

Divine Perspective of Devastating Floods in Chennai

A logical questions asked in these circumstances is why does God allow for such devastation if He is truly Divine?

From our perspective the devastation appears completely negative; the worst of all possibilities. However, from the perspective of the Infinite consciousness such devastation allows for infinite variation of circumstance that opens the door to a wide variety of new progress in the world.

In this particular case, the devastating floods are there to remind people that they have been unconscious in their use of water, especially in terms of waste; unconscious in their they're planning of flood control systems; unconscious in their conflicts of religion and cast to work together as a society to improve conditions; unconscious in nearly every conceivable societal way.

The flood thus serves to raise these issues so that they can be transformed into their higher consciousness equivalents, fulfilling the Divine's perspective of necessity of multifaceted progress whether through positive or negative means.

Through this pain and suffering inflicted by this extreme difficulty, long-standing Ignorance can be transformed into Knowledge in a wide variety of ways. Also Disharmony can be transmuted into Harmony, as peoples work together to overcome the immediate problem, as well as collaborate to overcome entrenched issues plaguing society.

From the Divine perspective then, the negative is a great positive in disguise. It perceives Reality through a dynamic 'Logic of the Infinite', as opportunity for simultaneous, multitudinous change and progress, whereas we see things through the logic of the limited finite as suffering and pain.

New Attitude Toward Devastating Flood Attracts (updated)

Rain is more than life endowing resource. It is also Divine Grace. Then why are there floods and other forms of devastation? It is due to lack of receptivity in consciousness on the part of people causing rains to come irregularly and with hardship.

How does the lack of receptivity express? There are a variety of ways. One is wastage of water when there is little. Another is the wrong attitude of complaining about rain when it comes profusely, not recognizing it as Grace. At the societal level it is due to lack of infrastructure to harness waters such as the cities in the West, including poor planning when communities expand. All of these cause rain to come irregularly, and sometimes with superabundance and its corresponding devastation.

This then suggests that we can have a vast power over rain, which means higher receptivity to its Grace. One woman came to realize and finally gave up her anger towards the superabundance of rain causing havoc in Chennai India, and suddenly it all returned to normal, with power now quickly restored after a very long time.

No Title

When the Divine gives rain in abundance Man receives it as misery. This shows that Man as he is constituted now is unfit to receive abundance. (paraphrase of N. Asokan, MSS)

No Title

To perceive how everything happening in one's daily life is interconnected and fully necessary is to experience the Marvel of existence.

No Title

When Goodwill breaks out among people, the atmosphere sparkles.

No Title

We live in the present only; moving from moment to moment; having no knowledge of the future, with only memory of the past. However by opening to the supramental consciousness, to the Divine Mother we are able to alter the conditions of the future, while negating the negatives of the past. Thus in the true Now of Supramental existence we have power over past, present and future simultaneously.

No Title

According to Sri Aurobindo, just as the Ishwara, the Creator aspect of the Divine, enables this infinite, unbound creation, so too each of us can become an Ishwara - opening to and surrendering to the Mother, the supramental power, - thereby creating infinitely, while bringing the divine attributes into the details of Life, in effect furthering the Evolution. This is our method and cosmic purpose on earth.

No Title

We think that life is all about outer effort, but it is really about Inner Attitude. That is what makes life respond suddenly and overwhelmingly in our favor.

No Title

When we change our Consciousness, the world around us automatically changes. It is the cosmic principle of Inner-Outer correspondence in action.

Non-Reaction and Big Paycheck Life Response

When we remain undisturbed by an outcome that is not to our liking, such as a limited amount of a resource, and do the best we can with what is available, much more of that resource suddenly descends on us unexpectedly.

A man received an amount in his paycheck from his training company that was far less than he expected. It also left him in dire straits in terms of paying his bills. He decided however not to react any further and would make the best of what he had.

He therefore ventured out and made several purchases that were necessary with his limited funds. When he returned from that outing, he opened his email and now discovered that his training company would be sending ALL monies invoiced, which included a substantial amount not due for several months!

He had reversed the situation from unexpected paucity to unexpected abundance. That is the power of NOT REACTING to a negative situation and uncomplainingly making the best effort with what is available. In these cases, resources unexpectedly shift from scarcity to vast abundance.

No Title

WAAS (with Club of Rome et al) today issued a statement on the recent Paris environmental accord. Especially magnificent is the last para which says:

"The significance of this accord extends beyond its immediate impact on climate. It reflects the emergence of an unprecedented level of consensus and commitment for collective action by the nations of the world. It offers promise that humanity can act collectively in a spirit of cooperation to address the other extremely complex and difficult challenges confronting us in our endeavour to promote peace, security and prosperity for all human beings."

It is my belief that this is an important step towards Sri Aurobindo's dream of Human Unity, which among other ways can come about through collective global action.

The entire statement of WAAS is at:

https://www.facebook.com/worldacademyofartandscience/...

No Title

Attracting the right conditions at exactly the right moment in precisely the right context is Supramental Life.

No Title

I am increasingly living in a world where each individual detail reveals the Whole, and awareness of the Whole reveals all salient details.

No Title

Like vast rains, Mother's Grace is now pouring down in super-abundance, bringing with it unprecedented opportunities. That's why we should put aside all things that interfere and block our receptivity to it, including those long-term habits and routines that bring small satisfactions and even uphold our identity.

Levels of Relating to a Fine Thing

We can perceive several levels of consciousness in developing a fine product, service, tool, feature, entity, etc., ranging from expressions of ego to non-ego; and corresponding from incapacity to full capacity to evoke sudden good fortune from life.

-"I MYSELF" created this fine thing."

-"The thing I created is fine."

-"It is (in of itself) a fine thing."

-(Humility of Silence; Non-Broadcast); others simply come forward on their own to ask about, appreciate, and add to the fine thing.

Finite and Infinite

From a deeper perspective one perceives that every small detail in our lives should be honored and respected. That through our higher consciousness the Infinite can suddenly emerge from any finite. And that's because deep inside every finite -- whether a small form, circumstance, or event -- lies the Infinite ready to burst out. The Infinite emerging from the finite is what we call a "Life Response."

Exactness Consciousness

At any given moment there is always an Exactness of how to use your time, where to spend your money and how much, where to go and be, what consciousness to be in, etc. etc. This dovetailing exactness of being of all planes in a given moment in space-time is Supramental existence. It is beyond the ordinary, human, mental way of living.

No Title

Remember Mother before any meeting. It will tend to turn out magnificently!

No Title

There is a subtle difference between Intention (which is good) and Expectation (which is not). And that can make all the difference in the outcome. Sri Aurobindo says we need to have patience as if we had all Eternity before us, yet practice the inner methods that evoke what He calls "Instantaneous Miraculousness." That's how we can resolve the contradiction between Intention and Expectation.

In one sense the True Spirit of Christmas is not so much being grateful for gifts and other rewards you have received, but being joyously happy for the good fortune others have been blessed with.

No Title

For the spiritual individual, correcting wanting elements inside has the life response effect of correcting corresponding problems in the world around us. This dynamic enables us to fulfill our nature as both a true Individual, as well as a Universal being.

No Title

Those most ignorant of the facts and how to live properly tend to attract the worst conditions. Their wrong attitudes evoke their ruin.

Couple's Business Surprise Issuing from Harmony

You must always have harmonious relationship with men, machines and materials. The moment you begin a quarrel with someone or mishandle an instrument, you are declaring war against your own prosperity.

Surendar used to quarrel with his wife over all petty things. He would criticize every word and movement of his wife. She would criticize his character and his parents. They never thought that their restaurant business was slowly going down because of disharmony between them.

One day, they watch the movie Titanic together. The love between Jack and Rose suddenly changed their hearts and each began to apologize to the other. That was the moment they understood how much they loved each other and the quarrels were just an expression of their deep love. They resolved not to quarrel again over anything. Their decision was genuine and sincere.

The next day the young couple received an offer from an apartment builder to acquire the old restaurant building and they made a profit of a few million rupees. It would have taken them more than 16 years to earn that money through the restaurant business.

by Ken Gold/Chandrasekaran (from 'Honey, Let's Make Money')

The Receptionist's Silent Will

In any discussion, we are tempted to express our thoughts. Thoughts have a peculiar characteristic. If you refuse to express it, the thought will try to seek expression someone near to you. The person who expresses thinks that it is his idea. So, he will happily approve the idea.

Selvi was a receptionist in a hotel. She always spoke politely in a soft voice. She earned Rs. 2500 a month. The hotel owner was a strict and tough businessman.

One day, her colleague did not listen to a customer properly and as a result he was billed wrongly. She told the owner it was Selvi's mistake. The owner began to scold Selvi. Though Selvi wanted to explain what happened, she decided to use silent will.

The commotion drew the attention of the unhappy customer. He was surprised to see that the wrong person was in trouble. He interfered to tell the owner that Selvi had always been polite and soft-spoken and the person who created the problem was her colleague. The hotel owner was highly irritated and immediately dismissed the colleague. Then he told Selvi, "I'm sorry about the incident. Why didn't you tell me what happened?"

Selvi said, "You want to make all our customers happy. I thought we must find a way to solve the problem and make the customer happy instead of trying to find whose mistake it was." The hotel owner was happy and told Selvi, "You are responsible and thoughtful. You should not be a receptionist anymore. From this moment, you are the customer service manager!"

by Ken Gold/Chandrasekaran (from 'Honey, Let's Make Money')

Mother's New Year Message:

"This wonderful world of delight waiting at our gates for our call to come down upon earth."

Unsuccessful Candidate Turns Problem into Golden Opportunity

If you see every problem as an opportunity, life will respond and transform problems into opportunities. You must really feel the problem is an opportunity and be happy about it. If you take this attitude, life will arrange circumstances to change the problem into opportunity. Life knows that solutions are always built into the problem. When there is a problem, someone has to solve it through a product or service. Can you provide that solution?

Karthick was a young doctor from New Delhi. He wanted to work in the United Kingdom and obtain an FRCS certificate. His father was a retired civil servant.

If you are an overseas qualified doctor and want to work in the UK, you must pass a registration exam called the PLAB test. Karthick appeared for that examination in London. Though he was bright, he could not pass the exam. He was given a permit to reappear after ten months. Without income and support from his family, he had to live in London for ten months, a mission impossible. He did not like to go back to India as he would never be able to go back to London.

He decided not to accept defeat, find out ways to survive in London and prepare for his next attempt. He went to the library, read many inspiring books and came to the conclusion that nothing was impossible. Without any solid reason, he began to believe that his problem was an opportunity.

He developed a friendship with an Indian working as a postman in London. The postman's cousin was an eCommerce consultant in New Zealand. After a long discussion over the telephone, and an exchange of emails, the consultant told Karthick that it was actually an excellent income opportunity and not a problem.

Anyone appearing for any exam would love to prepare for it by solving as many previous test and practice papers as possible. In the past two years, Karthick had collected 8000 questions from various offline and online sources. He has good knowledge in the field. Would he not be able to create a saleable product from the collection and his knowledge?

Within a week, Karthick hired a web developer in India through his father. He sent copies of all questions and answers to the developer and built a password protected website. Any candidate who paid $10 a month would be given a password to access the questions.

Karthick knew where to find candidates. After all he was a candidate. Each candidate spent more than $4000 for the exam, so $10 a month for this treasure was a grace to all the candidates. He had to bear the harsh realities of life for the first three months. By the end of the third month, he earned $900. He needed just $600 to maintain himself.

By the time he passed the PLAB and got a job, he was earning $2500 a month from his website. His basic pay as a Junior House Officer in a London hospital was around $1800.

by Ken Gold/Chandrasekaran (from 'Honey, Let's Make Money')

No Title

Everything that comes to us does so for our personal and spiritual growth. So when negatives come, ask what is life trying to teach us, including what negative qualities should we shed, or what positive aspects do we need to develop in our nature. And when positives come, ask what good qualities in ourselves warranted this result, so we can be more conscious of it, and then repeat it, and expand it -- for ourselves and others.

No Title

If you can, try not to pry and ask another about the status of a certain matter. As a result, it is likely the other party - on their own, without prompting - will respond and give a favorable answer about the issue. It is the Life Response power of "Silent Will" in action.

No Title

Serendipity is all around us, constantly occurring, depending only on our interest and ability to consciously observe it.

Reader: Serendipity are the hints of Life to show us that our thoughts and consciousness on the inner is synchronous with the outer happening, it may be a very glimpse of what we are thinking, planning an action etc., at that moment. Hence it may be a sanction from the life for us to proceed accordingly what we are thinking at that moment. Also there could be several subtle variation of it, like the synchronous moments may carry messages, warning, or synonymous thoughts to smile and so forth. Since various factors at play at any time, one must be conscious and through knowledge on Life Response to come to conclusion precisely.

No Title

From a higher perspective one sees that all of the people who caused you the most problems, all the situations that were most difficult, and all the negative traits you harbored within have all served to help you grow as a person and further succeed in life. Nothing - outside Mother - raises the consciousness and one's achievement more than such opposition.

No Title

You are who you are because you have developed in consciousness over a span of multiple births. Now you are here in this life to make a further growth; and in particular areas. Therefore all of the circumstance you encounter, good bad or in-between serve to give new knowledge to your soul, psychic being, your true self, that It is seeking. Thus, if you can identify what those needs are, make the necessary adjustments in consciousness, while offering them to the Divine, the Mother, you will accelerate the fulfillment of your deepest purpose here on earth.

A "Token Project" to Test What Works Inwardly to Attract More Outwardly

We can also keep track of our own life response experiences on any particular project we are involved in, which will help us in our future efforts. Karmayogi calls this creating a "Token Project," which we analyze from various facets of consciousness, including how life is moving from a life response perspective, which can then serve as a kind of standard for all other facets of work and life.

In other words, it's a test project for what works inwardly, so we can easily duplicate those particular inner movements that are working for us now in future, evoking even more dramatic positive results.

No Title

In Mother's Consciousness when you sincerely wish to overcome a particular deficiency in yourself, the wider society will quickly show a propensity to do the same.

Silent Will

If you can, try not to pry and ask another about the status of a certain matter. As a result, it is likely the other party - on their own, without prompting - will respond with a favorable answer about the issue. It is the Life Response power of "Silent Will."

Gratitude for Something In the Future Attracts

Ben had suggested that Jessica try to be grateful for things. The dialogue then ensued:

"What should I be grateful for? Jessica asked Ben. "For becoming a successful auctioneer," Ben told her. "But I have not yet had my first customer!" Jessica said while laughing. However, Ben could understand from her voice that she was really interested in the idea.

"When you offer gratitude for FUTURE customers, the law of gratitude will make life respond by sending customers to you now," Ben told her.

"Really?" Jessica could not yet believe Ben. "Try it now. When you offer gratitude for the past, problems you currently have will dissolve. Likewise, if you offer gratitude for the present, your future will be prosperous! Offer gratitude for the future, the present will be full of opportunities!" Ben explained.

"You are nuts," Jessica assured me. "Yet I want to help you" Ben told her. She smiled, closed her eyes and offered her gratitude to the evolutionary force silently for sending her customers. Kiwis, like Westerners have a wonderful trait. You cannot make them do what they don't want to. However, if they decided to do something, they will do it sincerely even if it is silly and insignificant.

The next day, Ben received an email from Jessica that all her goods had been sold out! However, she still finds it difficult to reconcile the material result with the invisible process!

by Ken Gold/Chandrasekaran (from 'Honey, Let's Make Money')

Consecration Method

(Here is a recent message from a friend I have been guiding)

"Happy New Year Mr. Posner! I have been using the consecration method daily when communicating with the Spiritual Force. The answers I need come to me in the most amazing ways. My faith in this force grows stronger as well.

Changes in my life have been taking place easily and effortlessly by learning to stay out of the way.

Thank you for your constant encouragement and please let me know if you will have new materials coming out. "

Namaste.

D

No Title

In Silence we meet and experience who we really are; our True Self and being. And from there we are able to perceive the world as it truly is.

No Title

Even things that seem hopeless and undoable are reenergized and reborn through Consecration method.

Mother Comments on Her Transformation:

"I have noticed that in this body's life, I've never had the same experience twice – I may have the same type of experience to a higher degree or to a much vaster degree, but never identically the same. And I don't retain the experience: I am constantly, constantly (gesture forward), constantly forging ahead; you know, the work of transformation of the consciousness is so rapid, it must be done so fast that you don't have time to enjoy or dwell upon an experience or draw long-lasting satisfaction from it, it's impossible. It comes powerfully, very powerfully, it changes everything, then something else comes.

It's the same thing with the transformation of the cells [Her physical body]: all kinds of little disorders come, but to the consciousness they are clearly disorders related to the transformation, so you see to that particular point, you want order to be restored; at the same time, something knows full well that the disorder came to make the transition from the ordinary automatic functioning to the conscious functioning under the direct Direction and the direct Influence of the Supreme. And the body itself knows this (still, it's no fun to have a pain here or a pain there, or this or that being disorganized, but it KNOWS).

And when that point has reached a certain stage of transformation, you move on to another point, then on to another, and on to another again. So nothing is done, no work is definitively done until... everything is ready. So you have to do the same work again, but on a higher or a vaster level, or with more intensity or in greater detail (it depends on the case), until EVERYTHING has been brought to a homogeneous point and is ready in the same way.

According to what I see, it's going as fast as it can go. But it takes a great deal of time. And everything is a question of changing the habit. The whole automatic habit of millennia must be changed into a conscious action, directly guided by the supreme Consciousness."

(from Her 5000 page dialogue - 'Mother's Agenda' - January 22, 1966)

No Title

Our Aspiration is not just our intention to reach our highest possibility, our highest nature, to connect to the Spirit in life, but it is actually the Divine Consciousness in us aspiring to come out.

No Title

The Divine Will in man, i.e. his deepest Aspiration is the secret of the Evolution.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo indicates that the human is an imperfect species. We are therefore transitional beings, which means we are not the final goal of the Evolution. It has to go further.

No Title

We are not here merely to become knowledgeable, successful, fulfilled mental beings, but to become divine beings: to foster the Supramental Evolution here on earth.

No Title

Shift from asking Mother for the things we desire and want, which is essentially Ego strengthening, to asking Her to give us what She wants of us. i.e. "Thy Will, not my will."

No Title

The Evolution is brought about by a "reversal of consciousness," which occurs when we shift from the separative Ego state to the Psychic Being within.

Comment: When we are in touch with our psychic being, we feel harmony with others and the world, we feel deep silence and richness, we experience continuous intuitions of knowledge, we feel love and joy on a continuing basis. This furthers our development, as well as the world around us: hence furthers the Evolution.

By practicing Consecration (opening to the Mother and Her Force), Non-Reaction to the intensities around us, Taking the Other Person's Point of view instead of fixating on our own, practicing Self-Givingness instead of selfishness and ego, we move to the Psychic, the Evolving Soul, with all of its divine attributes, and thereby further the Evolution.

Work-Family Balance Evokes Startling Response for Chef

When our lives are in BALANCE, we can experience not only peak levels of success, but a deep, rich inner life of fulfillment. When it is not, life for us becomes fragmented and we can enter a period of slow or rapid decline. And yet if we shift from this state of disharmony, disequilibrium to its opposite, not only will we experience its wonderful benefits, such as better relations with others but we can evoke a powerful response from life. For example, if you shift away from obsession with your work life, at the expense of your family life, to a balance between the two, life will tend to quickly present you unexpected good fortune.

In the recent well-received film 'Chef,' the brilliantly skilled chef of a leading Los Angeles restaurant is at odds with the owner. The owner wants him to present the meals that have been successful for a big gathering at the restaurant where the leading food critic in the city is on hand, but the chef wants to offer something daring, as he knows the critic will appreciate it much more. However, the owner has his way, the food critic gives a disastrous review of the chef, and the chef quits in a major huff. And to make things much worse a video of the intense squabble goes viral across the internet.

In the meantime, obsessed with his brilliant work, the chef has ignored his young son, not to mention the fact that he is divorced from the woman who cares for him and his career.

Now that he has quit the restaurant, he decides to "downscale" and run a food truck of Cuban food - a huge comedown from his previous position. Feeling sorry about his son, they join together on a whirlwind tour of the southern part of America with the food truck, serving meals that meet the desires of local crowds in Miami, New Orleans, Austin, and elsewhere. He is now happy in what he is doing, even though he is not expressing himself as creatively as he would as a chef in a high-end, prestigious restaurant.

After the summer tour with his son and helper, the father chef has to tell the little boy that the fun time they had together was over, and they had to part ways, meaning that the chef would resume his work somewhere, and the boy would return to his normal life, including school. The boy reacts very sorrowfully to this development and sends his father an email with an attachment of photos of their amazing journey through the American South.

When the chef views these wonderful moments sent by his son, he is thunderstruck and realizes that he cannot separate and leave his child behind, and therefore they agree to let the boy work with him as an assistant in whatever food endeavor he participates in locally.

We know that when you make a dramatic shift in attitude, life will respond to that effort. And that is exactly what happens in 'Chef.' Just after the chef makes the decision involving his adoring son, the critic who lambasted his mediocre offering at the fancy restaurant, suddenly, out of nowhere walks up to the food truck and tells the chef that his modest food offerings have been marvelous. He then proceeds to inform the chef that he is willing to bankroll a new prestigious restaurant where the chef can cook anything he pleases! The chef is startled, and then overjoyed by this stunning development in his life, as he now has the opportunity to participate in the work position of his dreams!

Because the chef embraced the needs of his young child, he moved his life into a greater balance and harmony. As a result, life responded with the opportunity of a lifetime; fulfilling his career and family dreams all at once. Even his former wife appeared eager to rekindle their relationship.

When you bring your life into balance, whether between work and family, or any set of conflicting aspects, you release energies that align with the greatest possibilities that are able to fulfill your wildest dreams.

No Title

The best way to get rid of a negative trait is to forget it, work on its opposite. Working on the negative trait will energise it, drawing energy from our attention. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

To perceive instances of Life Response everywhere, in all situations is Supramental perception.

No Title

Sri Karmayogi is fond of saying that "Education is the Yoga of the Collective."

Reader: Yes. He wrote that Education is the Yoga of the Society.

Comment: Yes, thank you. I believe he said both.

No Title

Perpetual "Thy Will be Done" is spiritual Surrender.

Famous Boy's Life Saved Twice

Then there was the case of an impoverished Scottish farmer whose name was Fleming. He spent his days trying to scratch out a living for his family by working the fields. One day as he toiled, he heard a desperate cry for help emanating from a nearby bog. He then dropped his tools and ran over to that area to see what was the problem. He then discovered a boy up to his waist in black muck, and was still sinking. With the boy screaming and struggling, Fleming was able to free him from the treacherous hole he was in, saving him from what would have been a certain slow death.

The day after this harrowing incident, a carriage pulled up to Fleming's humble home. An elegantly dressed nobleman stepped down and introduced himself as the father of the boy that Fleming had saved. The nobleman then said that he wanted to repay the small farmer for his noble deed of saving his son's life. Fleming however responded that he could not accept payment for what he did, waving off the offer from the nobleman.

At that moment, the farmer's own son came to the door of the family hovel. The nobleman then asked Fleming if the boy was his own son. The farmer proudly told him that indeed he was.

Taking this into consideration, the nobleman made Fleming an interesting offer. He offered to take the boy in and give him a good education. The nobleman told the farmer that if the boy was anything like his father, he would grow up to be a fine man that the father would be proud of. After consideration, Fleming agreed.

As it turned out, farmer Fleming's son would go on to graduate from medical school in London. He would then go on from there to become known throughout the world as Sir Alexander Fleming, the discoverer of Penicillin.

Years later, the nobleman's own son was stricken with pneumonia. Fortunately, that boy would recover, and would do so through the drug Penicillin.

But who was the nobleman, and who was the nobleman's son that avoided pneumonia? The nobleman turned out to be Randolph Churchill. The nobleman's own son turned out to be none other than Winston Churchill.

Winston Churchill thus had been saved by the penicillin that was developed by Fleming's own son, who had been educated by Winston's father in return for having saved Winston's life one time before.

Again, while this is an extraordinary story, we must still ask ourselves why this outcome took place? (Karmayogi)

Reader: Good share Roy!

Comment: Thanks! The episode offers a dramatic example of the Life Response power of sincere, heartfelt GRATITUDE.

Apology as Fountain of Life Response

I have found it almost universally true that when you apologize for your earlier angry, rude, or otherwise untoward behavior toward another, the person who was abused will respond with startling positive information. In other words, a powerful positive Life Response will follow.

Moreover, if you savor the entire episode, recalling the moment of your apology, the unexpected positive response that originally came to you from that exchange will continue to blossom taking on new forms. Eg the person you apologized to and received the positive response from will unexpectedly become your ally in other circumstance; or a new social bond will be created between you that benefits both sides; and so forth.

Thus, that one original moment of contrition -- which is a reversal from negative to a more positive consciousness -- holds within itself a vast power to repeatedly generate positive outcomes. It is a fountain of the miraculous to behold!

No Title

Current aggravation (with computer, family members, work, etc.) is being out of step with the earlier requirements of Life.

Reader: Sir can u explain further

Response: At each moment life demands, requires certain actions or inactions. But we do not heed them, for whatever reason. Now that they were neglected we now find ourselves in the wrong mental and emotional condition. We react with aggravation, frustration, and the like to corresponding situations. Had we responded, acted, or not acted in the right way in terms of the needs of in that earlier period of time, we would now be in the right flow. But we didn't, and as a result we are at odds with the current conditions, which we react to.

Eg a woman had opportunities to fix her faulty computer, but instead ignores it. Now the game on her computer isn't working correctly and she is in anguish. Had she done the right thing earlier, she would have been in the right flow of life. But she didn't, was out of step with the demands and requirements of Life in that moment, and now she is in anguish when she faces new consequences in the form of the once-more faulty operation of her computer.

Other examples:

-Likewise, if a mother had earlier given the child the right attention over recent period of time, she would not be bothered by the child's current aggressive negative behavior.

-A student gives an instructor a poor rating but it could have been avoided if the teacher had completed some of the advanced lessons in the training materials, and thereby presented his knowledge with greater clarity.

-The nations has low rates of income, frustrating the people. But had they heeded to the advice of garnering higher skills in the New Economy that could have avoided the current anguish and frustration.

In sum we could say that current Aggravation is a product of our past Ignorance; not having the necessary knowledge and right attitude to act in the right way in an earlier place and time. It can be in small and great matters of concern.

Taking Responsibility in Our Romantic (or any other type) Relationships

Many people believe that their relationship would be vastly improved if only their partner would listen to reason, do what they say, eliminate the behaviors they find objectionable and be as sincere to the relationship as they are.

The first rule for progress in human relationships may be the hardest for many to accept, but it is the single most important principle for rising in the scale of romance. It states that we have the power to improve our relationship only when we realize that we and we alone are responsible for making it better.

This rule seems to contradict that obvious truth that in any relationship both parties contribute to the problems that arise between partners and to the solution to those problems.

This principle is based on a profound truth of life. We acquire power of mastery in our lives only when we realize that we are the determinant of our own lives and not any circumstance or other person.

Taking responsibility means to stop blaming your partner, family, friends, fate or misfortune for the difficulties you encounter in the relationship. (from romanceEternal.org)

No Title

Marriage is a social institution only. No one is obliged to it. We can do whatever we want in these matters, no matter the influences, demands of others, society. Only Love is truly real, though there can be real Love in marriage.

No Title

Forgiving others for what they have done to us can be helpful, but is a limited truth. It puts the onus on the other party. On the other hand, taking Responsibility for what others did to us, seeing our hand in it, and learning from our limitation of consciousness that helped precipitate it is a higher view. It is a growth one can royally benefit from.

Reader: whoa.... for some reason this whacks me upside the head like a stick! This is extremely profound, Roy, and ... well... I think this is a meditation in itself for me to ponder and think on for a while. It's a wonderful, wonderful insight. I suspect that if I should be able to fully absorb this truth, I shall feel a true release!

No Title

Overmind expresses as individual rays of spiritual Truth, but each ray is not in harmony with the others (just like the Gods). In Supermind, the plane above it, each Truth of existence expresses as an individual ray, yet each one is in unity with all others rays. Hence Supermind is Unity consciousness. And we access that integral truth Knowledge and Power through Mother, through individual acts of Consecration.

Example: In 'Pride and Prejudice' Eliza Bennett sees the world from her view. She has various knowledge and understanding; particularly expressed through her sense of individuality and self. It is her ray of truth. Likewise, Jane, her sister, sees the world from her view, and has her comprehension, including her desire to always do the right thing, be good, etc. That is her ray of truth. And yet they do not see the world clearly from the other person's perspective.

However, Jane Austen the author, perceives ALL views, as she is the creator of the story; including how each view integrates with all others in a kind of unity and oneness.

Thus the sisters can be said to be Overmental within their perspective; while Jane Austen is Supramental.

No Title

One of the best indicators you are growing in consciousness is that you are continuously casting aside Ego movements when they arise.

Exponential Power of Consecration

When you fully consecrate an upcoming meeting of a new opportunity, the scale of possibility tends to increase exponentially.

For example, when you first meet with a restaurant owner to sell them your services, you discover that the outlet is but one of a hundred in a chain. That is the life response power of opening to Mother and Her Force. She vastly broadens the scope.

Risking All in Life for Sake of Discovery

Those who are dedicated to changing the world at all costs will travel the world to make it happen; will risk any risk; and in the end uncover realities that change the course of their times and beyond.

We see this beautifully portrayed in the recent film 'The Physician,' about a young Englishman who in the 11th century travels to the other side of the world to Persia to discover the greatest physician on earth, when in reality it is he the young man who makes the greatest discovery about the makeup and functioning of the physical organs of the human body. Interestingly, it will be his mystical power that drives him to seek and discover that infinitely practical reality, and in the process overcome the superstitions of the world.

Turning Around Our Limitation of Consciousness

We each have several central negative qualities in our nature. If we can identify one or more, and consciously turn it around, our lives can quickly move to the next level of success and fulfillment.

On the other hand, persisting in these negative qualities -- which mostly reside in our Attitudes -- will cause us to repeatedly fall down, suffer, and fail.

No Title

We are at one of those Hours of God, when the old bases get shaken, and there is a great confusion; but it is a wonderful opportunity for those who want to leap forward, the possibility of progress is exceptional. (The Mother, from Agenda, April 1, 1971)

Sudden Memory as Predecessor of Car's Return

There are astonishing moments when we suddenly think of something for no particular reason, and then several moments later something very dramatic and unexpected occurs that precisely mirrors our original thought. It is another variation of what we call a "predecessor indicator" of what is to come.

A man and woman were having a conversation about the correct use of grammar in articles, film, etc. The man suddenly had a memory of something that occurred nearly a decade ago. He recalled being in his car in a parking lot about to meet with the police department of a suburban client for which he hoped to do some project management training. As he recalled sitting in that car, he remembered that on the radio was a discussion of what constitutes a well written article. He had listened intently to the discussion.

His mind then returned to the here and now. He turned to his friend and told her that he could not understand why in the world he suddenly thought of this obscure moment many years ago, aside from the grammar connection. He never remembered that moment from the day till that moment, yet suddenly thought of it in a flash. It was like recalling a long-forgotten dream from many years ago.

The man then got up and looked through his window and noticed that there was an car parked in the common area that he did not recognize. But then when he looked closer he thought it was the car that had been stolen from his neighbor. Suddenly the neighbor knocked on the door to inform me that the police had indeed found the stolen car and here it was! He was thrilled to no end; and I was happy for him too!

The recollection of the past event and the current situation were directly related, although our normal view is to see no correlation. In this case, the flash of a memory from the past regarding sitting in a car in front of the police offices was synchronous with the stolen car's imminent return by the police. In other words, the spontaneous memory was a predecessor to the coming car incident.

No Title

Sri Karmayogi tells is that every event and circumstance in our lives is preceded by such an indicator. AND there are absolutely no exceptions to this rule!

Comment: Here's another recent example: Over the course of months I had been training officials who run the large jail system for the 3 million person county nearby. All of these sessions revealed a palpable tension between the attendees of the courses and upper management who were not there. In essence, though the attendees were happy to be at the training and learn new features for their program, they were troubled by the fact that upper management set up the system in the wrong way, making it difficult for them to move things further.

Well now it turns out that there has been a jailbreak of three very dangerous criminals from that very large jail, which has riveted the entire USA as they try to apprehend them.

Once again we see the predecessor-successor dynamic, in that the internal tension expressed in the class was an indicator of the later escape.

(It is also true when there is internal disharmony it can lead to such results, though the direct correlation here is not certain. What is true is that the internal discord was a Predecessor Indicator of the future problem.

And let us keep in mind that we too can see this dynamic in every important circumstance in our lives if we choose to consciously explore it. It is truly a wonder to behold!)

No Title

If we sincerely try to perfect our own work – through greater effort, deeper values, higher attitudes, new insights derived, comprehensive organization, striving for perfection in all details, etc., then life will quickly respond with good fortune in this area or others we hold dear.

No Title

Negatives occur in our lives because we haven't learned to improve things through the positive.

'Non-Reaction' Method in Car Incident Attracts

Not reacting to the intensive expressions of another almost always attract an immediate positive response.

For example, a man wanted to clean the stain on the backseat of his car and his friend immediately stopped him because he was using something she thought was abrasive. She expressed herself with a kind of anguish. However, the man did not react to her intensity, remaining still. A minute later, she volunteered to clean the stain all by herself through another technique.

His stillness and non-reaction to her intense response very soon attracted her volunteering to do the work herself, relieving him of the effort.

Conscious Eating

To eat with higher consciousness-

- consecrate the activity beforehand (offering to Divine)
- avoid viewing your phone, tv, and other distractions
- focus on and savor the food; enjoy each mouthful
- be in the moment of eating; not in past or future concerns
- be as silent as possible in speech, emotion, and thought

Your meal is then likely to become a fresh, peaceful, even exhilarating experience.

No Title

Technology is on the physical surface, whereas Wisdom is in the depths. We are normally more enamored with the former than the latter, especially in the West. Yet, this is the reversal of consciousness the Evolution seeks.

No Title

For the true practitioner of Sri Aurobindo's Integral Yoga - admittedly there are very few – only constant Consecration is required. (i.e. opening to the Mother and Her Supramental Force.) There is really nothing else to do. As a result, the universe comes to that individual as necessary, and all her Aspirations for the world and those she is involved with tend to come true.

No Title

If sincere, focused Consecration doesn't bring the immediately desired result, then a more important longer-term lesson is being revealed.

Power of Past Consecration

Many believe that if you have made a grave error from the past that is still having a dire influence on you now, you will not have a chance to overcome it. That the past is now sealed; that fate cannot be altered; that even God does not have that power to change it.

However, if you have made a grave error or done something negative that is having long-term affect, i.e. still affecting you now, you can practice "Past Consecration" which will have the power to overcome the negative influences on your present condition from the past.

Eg suppose you made wrong financial arrangements that caused you to go into great debt. It is dearly affecting your present life. Now you recognize your mistaken attitudes of incessant borrowing from the past, feel genuine contrition for it, and offer it to the Mother, you are likely to see a powerful positive response, such as an offer for a new work that pays four times what you are now earning, enabling you to pay back much of the debt in a timely manner. Or you will suddenly come upon a government sponsored debt repayment plan that is a compromise from all parties. Etc. etc.

Past Consecration thus overcomes the negative influences of the past on your present condition. Over the years, we have seen a number of examples of this dynamic in our Life Response research. How then can you apply it in your own life?

Dissolving Problems through Mother

Ordinarily to solve a nagging problem through the Spirit one opens to the Mother (consecration), but one also identifies the corresponding limiting quality in our being (attitude, habit belief, behavior, etc.) that precipitated the difficulty in the first place and then reverse it. In tandem, life will respond immediately, giving relief.

In addition, to gain the full measure of the response, one also needs to periodically revisit the limiting quality to see that it has not arisen again in our nature, blocking the further action of the Force. Thus, Consecration + overcoming the Corresponding Limitation on an Ongoing Basis melts away the problem, now and forever.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo had realized the Mind of God, Supermind, and was explaining, intuitivizing, and inwardly acting through that integral Truth Knowledge. From that poise He was able to convey all aspects of the omnipresent Reality

No Title

By itself I have but a wavering faith in Life; for Nature is relentlessly shifting directions, up and down, positive and negative. However, through Mother I have a fuller Faith in Life, as the result is almost universally positive, and where the scope for that spiritual Trust is unlimited.

No Title

Ordinarily Man tries to solve his problems through his capacities, not Mother. He comes to the Divine or Mother only when the problems are intense. And yet we can learn to have full reliance on Her in all aspects of our lives in an ongoing basis, which means fewer problems will arise in the first place, and the movement forward toward success will accelerate.

Evaluating Mother's Response (and Non-Response)

Mother answers most of our calls to Her, but sometimes we do not see the response. Why not? Here are several reasons:

- She wants us to identify and overcome a limiting attitude, habit, belief; and only then she moves into action
 - She responds in a different area than we expected, whether as material result or as an idea presented for improvement
 - She is waiting for the right time, and the call is fulfilled later on
 - What we ask for is not helpful for our consciousness and growth and She withholds response
 - The call is too shallow, without intensity and depth. Our Faith is too flimsy or brittle
- Other?

We can learn to be observant of the results (or non-results) that come from our prayer, call, consecrated act, etc. to Her. Then life becomes a matter of putting the puzzle of Her together in our lives, to enable ultimate possibility.

From Capitalism to What(?) On Road to New Society

Fifty years ago Mother said communism and capitalism were coming to an end. A few years after she made the remark to Satprem in Agenda it occurred in Russia. Now Capitalism is showing serious signs of cracking and its time may be up as well, replaced by a socialistic capitalism or a human-centered economics or what? With wealth concentrated in the hands of a few and economic insecurity everywhere, the old foundations are cracking, making way for a new order, in whatever form that comes. The extremism of the recent American presidential campaigns indicate the change has come to the heart of Capitalism. The financial crisis (Great Recession) revealed all of the weaknesses in the system.

And yet we should remember that this change is all for the good; to enable further evolution of the society on the way to greater harmony in the world and an increasing likelihoods of a Spirit-based life on earth.

No Title

With Nuclear Weapons still out there in abundance, Evil lurks all around us, ready to be deployed.

No Title

In ordinary life, making a request of another is necessary to get things done. In spiritual life NOT making the request, withholding communication of it gets the thing done, and more so. The latter approach builds up powerful subtle energies within that attract what is necessary on the outside. Consecration can then add enormous power and certainty to this dynamic.

Equanimity Power

As soon as you accept a difficult situation with good cheer, it immediately gets reversed. Example: A man was asked to begin a class very early in the morning. It seemed to be asking too much. Yet he reacted positively in all respects. A moment later, the class was scheduled by the client with a much more moderate starting time. It was the life response result of practicing calm and equality of being in a difficult situation. It is what we normally mean by the term "Equanimity," but with a positive "Life Response" twist!

Overcoming Scarce Money Resource Through Consecration

To solve a problem, the divine Mother makes use of every last bit of an existing resource, including those items you had long forgotten.

Example: A man did not know how he was going to pay for a big rent payment. He clearly did not have enough funds. He then Consecrated the issue deeply and intensely, as did a friend. Soon he came to realize that over the last number of months he had consistently overpaid on his rent. As a result, he now only had to pay a lesser amount, since he had overpaid before. Through his realization, Mother had reminded him of this fact, when in his mind it was long forgotten. There was still plenty of the resource (money), except it resided in the past, which could now be used when he had been short in the present. She helped him make use of it, enabling him to pass through the ordeal.

No Title

A true socialism is where the government employs all the people; which is probably not what we want. However, emerging socialistic and human values tied to an evolving democratic and just economic system would indeed be a progress, and seems to be where we are headed.

Attracting the Negation of the Negative You Attracted

If an outer problem suddenly appears, think of any immediate lower consciousness attitude or action on your part that might have precipitated it. If you identify it, while simultaneously feeling a degree of contrition, the problem will instantaneously go away.

For example, a man started acting silly in the presence of his friend. Immediately thereafter his Internet connections stopped working. Perceiving the relationship between the two, and feeling contrition for being the cause, the connection suddenly came back on.

No Title

Rely on nothing but Mother, and you will quickly zoom to the top in your field and career.

Goodwill Attracts New Female CEO

Goodwill towards someone or some party will always evoke good or great fortune; sooner or later; but almost always without fail.

A woman with a very prestigious background in corporate America was now part of a small startup with great ambitions. An outside consultant played an important role in bringing her to the group several months earlier.

While meeting with the principles, the consultant was once again impressed with the woman's considerable management insight, culled from years of heading one of the most influential CEO support organizations in the world, among her other great achievements.

The consultant later told another member of the startup group that she was a treasure and could provide deep insight into the company, helping lead it to great success.

At the time the woman was just one of the five investment partners. However, a few days later that same partner friend mentioned earlier informed the consultant that the woman had now been made CEO of the new startup! The consultant was truly astonished by this new development, although it completely made sense given her God-given talents. Still, he did not expect this turn of events.

However, when the consultant thought about the matter some more, he realized that her ascendancy was due in part to his Goodwill toward the woman; being impressed with her insights, demeanor, and overall capacity to lead, and how she would be of great benefit to this fledgling startup. As a result, life responded with her ascendancy to the top of the organization.

The consultant had long known that Goodwill sooner or later attracts good or great positive results for the recipient; which is exactly what took place on this occasion.

Maximum Use of Space-Time in the Process of Creation

Through a Still mind which generates Intuitions of knowledge without thought, you develop great wherewithal to make right decisions that make the most efficient use of Space and Time.

Eg let's say you are preparing your breakfast. There are many tasks involved for the different aspects. There is a Time element as well as a Space element. The order in which it is executed is key, as it creates the greatest efficiency in getting it all done. Therefore, if the mind is calm, still, not preoccupied, filled with the thought, it is now far more open to rays of knowledge coming in, where at each point one is being "told" what to do; in the right order that best makes maximum use of space and time.

In supramental consciousness this goes further, as one perceives the entire undertaking as well as the individual steps involved in a kind of revelation without thought. Moreover, when you execute it in Supermind, - the plane of pure Truth consciousness; where the Mother and Her Force reside - life RESPONDS as well. Now one not only overcomes limits of space and time, but new, unthought of possibilities and insights present themselves, emerging from out of Nowhere.

Furthermore, if you now observe this unfolding carefully, you can perceive the process of accomplishment at work in in your task, emulating the Process of Creation in which a universe of infinite forms emerged from a Divine Source. through the plane of Supermind. Now in the smallest act you have learned to overcome limits of space and time as you collaborate with the Mind of God.

No Title

Relying on yourself, which is Individuality, is greater than relying on others, especially their sameness of opinion and herd view. However, relying on Mother is far greater than relying on our self, on our capacities, as it includes the Individual, Universal, and Transcendent "capacities" combined and integrated in one. It enables, creates ultimate possibility, effectivity, and results in life.

No Title

Karmayogi says that Sri Aurobindo's 'The Life Divine' is the horoscope for the universe; for all of humanity; for all that is to come.

Tomorrow's Influences in the World

The Tech culture I have been part of the last three decades has been the next step and direct descendants of the counter culture of the hippy 60s and 70s, along with environmentalism and scattered new age movement. I believe India will be key to driving the next stages, at practical and spiritual levels. Science will also play its role, as will entertainment, new forms of education, new economics, as well as deeper thinking and understandings of life from a variety of sources and disciplines.

No Title

While it is true that the society will tend to be unresponsive or even crush those who are without, it is also true that many who are without are ignorant of the inner and outer means to move out of their oppressive situation.

No Title

Unconscious people tend to blame everybody else for their problems except themselves. They just don't see their hand in things, which is their essential ignorance.

No Title

Now that the first Black individual has been in office in the US White House, then next perhaps it is time for the first Jew; or first Latino. Or is it time for the first woman? Or something else. Who can see into the eyes of Fate, of Nature's desire, progression, and evolution in the world, currently led by USA.

No Title

By virulently condemning a man, you reinforce his tendencies to say and do the wrong things. On the other hand, through your strength of being, through your goodness, and right action, tolerance, and openness, through your silence in words and expression, the man in the wrong will come to see the errors of his ways, and one-day make the necessary reversal of consciousness.

Example: In Les Miserables by Victor Hugo, a priest has a deep impact on the young Jean Valjean, even though at the outset Valjean is a mere husk of a man; a physical person without great self-control. However, the priest does not condemn him; even sees the good in him. Valjean then goes on to become a great man, always remembering the priest as a shining example of goodness and right behavior.

No Title

Are we deferring to, opening to Mother in each activity we engage in order to attract ultimate results, or are we satisfied with mediocre outcomes through non-consecrated action?

Reader: An in-between is...are we allowing our consecration to be hijacked by self-interest and expectation and thus getting mixed results?

Response: Very good point. Pure consecration requires an extra level of self-control and vigilance - removing personal expectation, demand, ego, etc. It is a shift, focus, reliance, faith in "Thy (Her) Will" instead of my will. On the other hand, I know of very few people who consecrate on a regular basis - pure or mixed - to begin with!

No Title

Sri Aurobindo indicated that as long as you belong to the religious tradition you cannot tread the path of the Integral Yoga.

No Title

The purpose of hourly consecration is not merely to remember something on the hour; but to consecrate and remember the Divine. To connect with Mother, and give ourselves to Her. That will produce the greatest result.

No Title

The principle and functioning behind the phenomenon of Life Response is Inner-Outer Correspondence.

No Title

All that comes to you on its own is necessary for you to know.

No Title

When you don't consecrate an upcoming activity, like a meeting, the chance of one's Ego rising before and during the interaction is greatly increased

No Title

Consecrating one's home to the divine Mother brings greatness to the people who live and visit there.

No Title

There are times where you will be required by Life to summon the courage to take the first step on a new path, which can open the door to the next phase of your existence.

No Title

When you bravely, intentionally, intelligently take a step into a new, unexplored area, the whole world can suddenly open up.

Reader: This happened to me last November and is still happening

Response: Martyn, I am very glad you have had this sort of experience. It's a joy and wonder to behold! We have seen that even the smallest effort to step into a new domain, -- especially where one is reluctant, afraid, intimidated, et al -- can suddenly open up vast new opportunities. I just had that very experience, which precipitated these comments.

No Title

Top of the hour Hourly Consecration reminder lets you know if you have maintained or lost touch with the Big Picture.

No Title

Mind providing the right insight is a fine thing, even as Mind emptying itself of thought becoming Silence is a sign of Spiritual Growth.

No Title

Pain is a preparation for new-found discovery of Joy in life.

No Title

Life is constantly asking us to do the right thing. If we are sensitive enough to know what that is and take the corresponding right action, life will not only provide the obvious benefit that comes from that effort, but will also bring us unexpected positive conditions that fulfill one or more of our secret aspirations.

No Title

If your day is going poorly and you consecrate the situation -- having faith in Her and the outcome -- everything will soon turn around.

No Title

In most cases, charity for the underprivileged perpetuates their condition.

Reader: Interesting Roy. How can we attempt to help them as an alternative?

Response: First of all I should mention that in addition to not really helping the receiver and keeping them in their lowly place, charity also tends to make the recipient resentful toward the benefactor, that they have borrowed and owe; that they are somehow beholding to them. Charity also tends to puff up the benefactor, as he often gives charity in order to make himself feel good, out of an ego sense, instead of a true munificence and care.

What then is an alternative? We can help through collaboration, instead of charity. E.g. government, private sector and the general public can work together to get at the root and solve issues of poverty, unemployment, low wages, skewed income, lack of education, etc. A sincere desire to do so is key, as a willingness to work together harmoniously to make that happen. This instead of wrong ideologies of giving charity by one party, and not caring about doing anything tangible for the disadvantaged on the other. We have to give up our limited ideological and part view for something collaborative, where we sincerely and intensely work together to resolve problems, freed from ideology, open to all perspectives.

From an even higher, spiritual view we can find the corresponding limitation in our being to the outer social problem, overcome it, which will reflect in changes and improvements in society. E.g. if we see too much poverty in the world, and we are poor, then we must discover the ways for us to become more prosperous, which will thereafter evoke a response from the society which can have a similar positive development. This is a proven Life Response phenomenon.

Moreover, just like the society pulls in all direction, instead of sincerely and harmoniously to resolve problems, we can integrate the parts of our being that are not in harmony -- e.g. an intention to achieve a thing in one direction, but a wrong attitude in another -- and change ourselves, which will not only evoke positive response in our own lives, but can also ripple out in the world with corresponding positive change in society. In other words, to change the world, change ourselves. It really does work!

No Title

Mother, when evoked, always brings the fresh and new and the Unexpected.

No Title

Knowledge without thinking is a spiritual goal.

No Title

Doing what you need to do causes the universe to do what it needs to do for you. This is Life Response.

Supermind Knows at the Outset the Right Path Among All Paths

In our daily routines there are a wide variety of paths to take at any moment in time. Each starting point is a path that leads to other connections, which then branch out and connect to other connections still. Our days and its moments proceed along this line.

In Supermind - accessed through consecration to the Mother - we know exactly the RIGHT original path to take that leads to perfect outcomes. It knows at the outset the best path that leads to optimal branching of people and circumstance.

It comprehends this unfolding before it actually happens, as it has power to know past, present, and future it holds in Its consciousness. Thus, through Mother we are, from the beginning, set on the right path from among a grid of endless possibilities; in an ever-shifting environment, going out in all directions, projecting us on the right road of the miraculous.

Example: A driver we know of was picking up passengers, taking them to destinations for a fee. When he consecrated the activity at the outset, he immediately got a call to pick up a certain passenger, which turned out to be a fine fare. When he then dropped that person off, he received another request for someone in that vicinity who needed a ride to a location that produced better income still. It continued this way for several iterations of rides that followed.

Because the driver consecrated, the Force knew the future optimal path among the possibilities that would produce the best results. The Force saw all paths and possibilities in the future, and chose just the right starting point for the ecstatic driver.

Parallelism: Simultaneous Unfolding of the Same Subject from Unrelated Sources

One startling phenomenon of life is that a new interesting perception or interest we have will be simultaneously mirrored throughout the world in different ways, even if there were no or little interest in the matter for days, week, months, and years on end; where there was no communication among the parties, nor any common source of knowledge to draw from.

Eg you start watching a documentary on the history of Math and on the same day you are invited to a seminar on the subject of Mind where the speaker is a mathematician. You had not thought of the subject of math in months, but here were two instances of it spontaneously coming at exactly the same time. Moreover, if we were to examine the newspapers and other media sources, we would see a confluence on sudden interest in that matter on that same day.

It is a spontaneous confluence of the same thing, also known as "parallelism." It is but one fascinating indication of the subtle ways life is organized, that is just beyond our normal perceptions of reality.

No Title

A silly, unnecessary reference to a vulgar matter can quickly attract negative conditions.

No Title

Hold onto the very best of your heritage, but shed the worst. It is your unbiased intuition which will know the difference.

No Title

When a moment of pure pleasure arises, such as a feeling of serenity inside or seeing the sunlight sparkling diamond-like on the sea, think of Mother. Now observe and bathe in the ecstasy of the moment.

In honor of Mother's birthday - February 21

"If Sri Aurobindo is an ocean of peace, Mother is an eternal spring of sweetness. But She loves to call Herself a Force in action endeavouring to evolve the next species.

Sri Aurobindo succeeded in bringing the Supramental golden light into his very physical body in 1950. All his life he was working for this Force to come down on earth to abolish suffering and death and evolve the first member of the next species.

Mother offers to all those who sincerely aspire a touch of this Force if they come forward to give an opening to the Divine Touch.

She assures us of the Presence of the Force that descended in 1956 and invites us to take a leap forward in the evolutionary march."

(from Forward to the book 'The Life and Teachings of Sri Aurobindo and the Mother' by Karmayogi)

No Title

It's not how much time you put in a work, but the speed in which results come; by which it is fully accomplished. "Life Response" results arrive speedily, even instantaneously, couched in perfect execution. On the other hand, ordinary life creates ordinary results, and is thus burdened by time.

Comment: Consecration, aspiration, intention, right attitudes, high values, perfect skills, deep knowledge, multi-faceted organization, full effort, patience, etc. enables Speed of perfect execution expressing through extraordinary Life Response results.

Reader: It can't be rushed at a pace that sacrifices quality either.

Response: Yes. Patience brings speed of result. By speed here I don't mean speed of execution, but speed of results. Right execution (through consecration and all) brings results very rapidly. smile emoticon

Taking Responsibility for Your Life

You are responsible for your life. If you're sitting around waiting on somebody to save you, to fix you, to even help you, you are wasting your time. Only you have the power to move your life forward. (Oprah Winfrey)

Synchronized Events

"Events that synchronize are revealing." (Sri Karmayogi)

Comment: They are revealing because they indicate such things as-

- the subtle relationship between the events
- the deeper association of the parties (that the surface view misses)
- the alignment in consciousness between things
- the profound ways life is organized
- the positive or negative circumstance at work
- what to do or not to do in future
- one's areas of focus and interest that helped bring it about
- one's development in consciousness that precipitated it
- other?

No Title

Try to avoid making demands of others. Instead, wherever you can, serve as a model of that quality. In other words, lead by example. It can have a far greater long-term, positive impact.

No Title

There is a Conscious Intention behind what looks like Chance. It is Divine in origin and nature.

RK: Mostly it is show the Origin and think of the Origin.

No Title

History reveals that two men saved the world - Churchill and then Gorbachev. Sri Aurobindo and Mother were actively behind both in consciousness, supporting and providing enormous subtle power to their vast achievements.

No Title

Often when a great boon, opportunity, et al comes to a person who rejects it, is oblivious to it, etc, it tends to quickly go to someone else; often to someone nearby, or even back to the giver.

No Title

It is a basic law of life that seeking help from a person with ill will always backfires on the one who seeks that help. (MSS)

Comment: Eg money given by parents to a son in order to support his business, but who are soon upset the child is not remaining in the parents' town, will quickly see those funds consumed by unfavorable circumstance.

What Determines Outcomes for Interacting Individuals

It is not just the conscious intention of the people involved in a situation that matters, but much more the sum of the forces of Life that are subconsciously active. And these forces are not entirely separate from the individuals involved's conscious intentions, but rather also include their subconscious urges.

Thus the result at each moment depends on the accumulated force of intention in ALL the participants. I.e. how things turn out, how Life unfolds, -- whether in one's interest or the opposite, whether positive or negative, -- depend on these cumulative energies at any moment in time, not just one's own consciousness and force. (paraphrase of MSS)

No Title

Ultimately it is the strength and purity of one's aspiration that determines the end result. (MSS)

RK: Yes, practically I am seeing Aspiration without courage and strength is useless and remains as fantasy.

No Title

One subtle principles of Life is that all events which occur at the same time or at same place are related to one another in consciousness, even if they appear to have no obvious association. Often the relationship is in the form of a correspondence between the events, a mirror image, a similarity, or even a reverse expression of the same type of situation.

E.g. several individuals are discussing the idea of business values because one individual has come to visit and learn about such things, and in the midst of it, completely from out of the blue, an associate calls, who on further thought is recalled to be one of the pioneers in educating the public about such values. (paraphrase of MSS)

No Title

Since Mother knows your future, She is able to adjust the present when you Consecrate circumstance.

No Title

People react to those who are outraged, believing that their current cause or purpose is flawed or misguided. And they are often from one perspective right. However, it is the deeper underlying issues that the public has long forgotten that is the real source of the outraged's affliction, and that is fully justified.

Comment: A good example are terrorists. Their cause is crude and misguided. However, their underlying sense of past abuse by the West, which even they are not fully aware of, is fully justified. Our past hypocritical diplomacy for a hundred years is the foundation of their deep resentment. They just express it in the crudest of methods, bordering on evil. We therefore need to admit our abuse in order to help assuage their hate.

Other examples: the fierceness and fanaticism of Russian and French Revolution revolutionaries, rise of Nazism in light of WWI overly abusive sanctions put on them, Blacks taking to rioting in 60s and beyond burning stores, etc.

The Supramental Manifestation

Today is the anniversary of perhaps the most important moment in the history of the world, when the supramental Force descended on earth on February 29, 1956. On this day Mother envisioned a golden hammer breaking through a golden door allowing the supramental light, power, force to descend on earth. It is perhaps the reason why every time we consecrate, open to Mother, the Force moves to create perfect outcomes in our lives.

'Lord, Thou hast willed and I execute:

A new light breaks upon the earth,

A new world is born.

The things that were promised are fulfilled'. (the Mother)

Comment: Why was the Force ready to descend in 1956? It was because Sri Aurobindo worked on that possibility from the ethereal realms after He left in 1950. That was why He left.

No Title

The descended Supramental Force is the power we now have in our midst to evolve ourselves into the New Supramental Species beyond our current human makeup, ushering in a new Supramental-based Divine Life on Earth.

Consecration vs. Prayer

Sincerity, opening, receptivity, and consecration are the methods Sri Aurobindo advocates. When we pray, we ask for a specific thing. Having applied for a job, I naturally seek selection. Consecration differs from prayer in that we come forward to accept whatever the Divine grants. The Divine may grant something else or more or less. The capacity to accept what the Divine offers leads to spiritual progress. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

A working theory: Because the peoples and nations of the world do not show the urge to cooperate and collaborate to solve pressing issues facing society, negative forces like Trump and others arise to force the world in that direction. They are Life's negative compulsions to push the world forward when there is a great Evolutionary Positive Power secretly seeking to express Itself.

Westerner vs Indian

Sri Karmayogi says the Westerner is quite developed in Character and Personality, while the Indian is very dull there. On the other hand, he indicates that Light is there in the body of the Indian, while there is darkness in the body of the Westerner.

Notes:

By Character he means an identifiable, definitive, formed human nature. A kind of distinctness of being. By Personality he means a more developed character, with a truer sense of Individuality.

The spiritual experiences of the ancient Rishis and such is inherited by Indians through their bodies. Thus there is Light there. Westerners have no such spiritual inheritance; only surface, material, scientific, technological, mental qualities. Thus an acute absence of Light; a Darkness.

The Light of Indians coming to the surface through a developed Character and individuality (Personality) will be an enormous growth of being, enabling them to lead the world forward.

Through their ascent out of poverty to prosperity Indians can come out of their dullness, rising in character and individuality, blending these characteristics, and thereby become a Shining Light, leading the world forward.

No Title

Stop arguing and fighting with one another, and good things will quickly start coming your way.

No Title

When you do those things that you were hesitant to do but are necessary, Life generally follows with a stream of positive developments.

Comment: Eg you are hesitant bring in your car and have a major repair done that is necessary though expensive, even though you have the funds. Now you give in and do what is needed. As a result, not only does the repair go exceedingly well and fast, but when you arrive back at your home a series of unexpected positive developments are taking or have taken place.

By releasing your energies, and giving up hesitancy, fear, and the like attracts corresponding positive developments from the field of life. You have moved into alignment with positive new developments because of your courage and willingness to accept what was necessary to be done.

Adversaries Become Friends

When practicing Non-Reaction, as well as persistently and deeply Consecrating the situation over time, bitter adversaries, such as hostile neighbors miraculously become friends; and do so in the most creative and unexpected ways!

Consequences of Disparaging Others

Avoid saying anything negative about another party, such as your competitor; otherwise you may suffer the Life Response consequences.

A man disparaged a competitor in front of a client. A little while later, the man discovered that he had lost several clients. A little later still, he realized that he had lost them to that very same competitor he disparaged, something he never experienced before! Life responded negatively to his negative attitude.

No Title

Often when extreme disillusionment takes hold in society, intensely negative, reactionary forces are first to gain control. Progressive forces are required to wait their turn.

No Title

Whether you are conscious or unconscious of the fact, Life is continuously responding to your deepest Motive - positively, negatively, or in between.

No Title

For an individual of high consciousness, acts of silliness and goofiness tend to quickly attract negative conditions.

Reader: Sir can you help us with an example

Response: Eg you are walking down the street with friends, and pick up a small branch and put it under your nose as if it were a moustache. Or you are having a conversation and make a nonsensical rhyme. Or you start parodying a person by wild exaggeration behind their back. Or you walk around and make silly noises, or go off on a tangent of wild puns; or otherwise act clownish.

Its might be fine in some instances for the average person -- although even there, discretion is advised -- but for a person of elevated consciousness, it is not wholesome, and will often immediately lead to a negative response from life, -- such as the sudden unexpected arrival of a bill. or the cancellation of an opportunity, or someone else in the area suddenly starting to act obnoxiously or otherwise wildly, disturbing the peace, etc. etc.

No Title

Then there are the situations where the opposite is true. Associates of mine were once training some Scandinavian managers on business management techniques. They were however very stiff, dour, and dull. However, a quick dose of some silliness on their part loosened them up, and the proceedings went swimmingly thereafter!

No Title

When you shift from blaming others or circumstance to understanding your role in creating that negative condition, you have taken a great step toward its higher resolution. Life will rapidly react favorably to that higher consciousness movement.

No Title

The great changes in the world are percolating up from below through new ideas, higher values, and transformative experiences of individuals and groups. The age of great leaders at the top bringing us forward, at least for now, seems to have come to an end.

No Title

The human Individual is increasingly embodying not just the Microcosm, but the Macrocosm as well. I.e. he has a rising power to influence not only his micro surroundings, but the macro circumstance and events in the world. His evolutionary development - including an increasing access to the universal (e.g. Internet) and spiritual dimensions (i.e. the Force) - makes that possible.

No Title

In America the belief in "Individualism;" that government is suffocating and bad, originating in the questionable beliefs of the Pilgrims, is poisoning society. This is in contrast to "Individuality" in which we cherish the capacity of each person to fulfill his potential in his own God-given way. The latter embraces all sectors in society's movement forward.

No Title

The intensity of the aspiration of the people (or lack thereof) that ultimately determines the success (or failure) of each society.

Comment: Leadership is also critical, as it can reflect the quality and intensity of the Aspiration of the people; though politics and its divisive, ideological nature often gets in the way. Visionary leaders, which are very rare, bring out or kindle the Aspiration in the first place. Most of the time the energy and will percolates up from the people, including lower level thinkers, and the main leader, head of government reflects it. Occasionally it occurs the other way around (e.g. Churchill and Gorbachev). When all is in sync in all directions, then there is great social progress.

No Title

When the most depressing situations are turned over to Mother, they become situations of the richest emotions ever enjoyed. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

We can see how the Ego has expressed in society down through the ages. At first those most physically strong held sway. Then those of the uncompromising aristocracy and their power were dominant in ego expression. Now it is the super-rich who lord over life through manipulation of lightly regulated computerized financial instruments and other means with little regard for others' conditions in society.

Preventing Major Catastrophes and Problems to Come

When a major man-made catastrophe or any major problem occurs we are likely to identify the cause and thereby lay blame on the right party. That is a natural ability we humans possess. In this instance we are able in the present to place blame based on what has occurred in the past.

But what about other serious problems that have not yet occurred; that could happen in the future. Can we prevent these negative outcomes from taking place?

Well we can use our minds to investigate all known information in regard to a matter, discover the weak points, and thereby make necessary changes that can avoid such problems. This is prevention; also known as being pro-active

However, it is also the case that even if the mind had access to all the knowledge in the world, it cannot know everything that is to come. There are catastrophes and other serious negative outcomes that will happen despite our best efforts to prevent them. It is this apparent unpredictability of existence that is beyond our capacity to control all life's unfoldings.

And yet if we open to higher, spiritual dimensions of mind, -- including Intuition and especially Supramental perception, -- the potential problems of the future will tend to reveal themselves in the present, and we can therefore make the necessary preparation to prevent them. This is the greatest of all mental capacities to control the fate of the future. It is an extraordinary supra-physical and supra-mental ability that humanity is only beginning to realize.

No Title

Evolution is a process by which the infinite separate parts - objects, people, etc. - come to realize that we are all actually related to one another, integrated with one another, unified with one another, yet still somehow maintain our individuality. Evolution is thus a process of overcoming our surface separative identity and instead perceiving and realizing our inherent integral Oneness, while fully expressing our individual uniqueness. (paraphrase of MSS)

No Title

Profound knowledge and wisdom takes on real life when it is experienced practically and dramatically in our lives. That is also a secret to it spreading.

No Title

The contradictions we encounter in life are Nature's way of forcing us out of our fixed mental viewpoints.

Conscious vs Unconscious Life Response

The degree to which we evoke Life Response comes down to our level of ASPIRATION in life. Aspiration being our intention to rise in consciousness. One expression of our Aspiration is our focused awareness and continuous COMMITMENT to evoking these miraculous-like outcomes.

Even if our aspiration stems from merely trying to raise our salary, or to be more of a success, or to improve our family condition, it is justifiable to use the methods of Life Response to raise ourselves up. On the other hand, if our Life Response approach is for the purpose of raising our Consciousness -- to engage in personal and spiritual growth -- that is even better. If we constantly maintain that aspiration to raise our consciousness and use the Life Response methods to make it so, then one will live a life of endless wonder!

The truth however is that most people, including many devotees aren't even at level 1. They go on with their lives, and only AFTER a response comes do they recognize it and appreciate the wonder of the miraculous-like event. They are stimulated for a short while, and then fall back into their ordinary routine. This is Unconscious Life Response; the opposite of Conscious, continuously-evoking Life Response. Here the aspiration is weak or dull; or if it perks up once in a while because of an experienced LR miracle, it then falls back, dominated by the surface consciousness, the Physical influence with its dulling effect, by the commitments and obligations of daily life.

So it all comes down to what we want in life. Do we at least have some Aspiration for personal growth. Moreover, is it sincere; or just a passing thought? If we pass these conditions, are we then ready to take to Life Response in earnest to raise our consciousness - inwardly and outwardly through methods -- like Consecration, greater cleanliness and orderliness, identifying and overcoming a negative attitude, focusing our intention, silent will, non-reaction, taking the other person's viewpoint and all.

Let us then remind ourselves every day that we have a Choice; whether we wish to live conscious lives, and raise our Aspiration to do so, or simply go on just as before.

No Title

Reading about Life Response without experiencing it is like gazing at a menu without tasting the selections. Not very satisfying!

Adversaries Become Friends

When practicing Non-Reaction, as well as persistently and deeply Consecrating the situation over time, bitter adversaries, such as hostile neighbors miraculously become friends; and do so in the most creative and unexpected ways!

Negative Life Response to Silliness

For an individual of high consciousness, acts of silliness and goofiness tend to quickly attract negative conditions.

Further Thoughts:

-For the average person such actions might not have any great consequence, but for a person of high consciousness it's a come down to engage in such actions. Also the higher you rise in consciousness, the more Life compels you to go higher still, including taking to increasingly more dignified behavior. Silliness, goofiness, and the like are not part of that path, unless done to convey a higher purpose. Life will then respond according to the quality of the energies released.

-Silliness Examples: Eg you are walking down the street with friends, and pick up a small branch and put it under your nose as if it were a moustache. Or you are having a conversation and make a nonsensical rhyme. Or you start parodying a person by wild exaggeration behind their back. Or you walk around and make silly noises, or go off on a tangent of wild puns; or otherwise act clownish.

It might be fine in some instances for the average person -- although even there, discretion is advised -- but for a person of elevated consciousness, it is not wholesome, and will often immediately lead to a negative response from life, -- such as the sudden unexpected arrival of a bill. or the cancellation of an opportunity, or someone else in the area suddenly starting to act obnoxiously or otherwise wildly disturbing the peace, etc. etc.

-Then there are the situations where the opposite is true. Associates of mine were once training some Scandinavian managers on business management techniques. They were however very stiff, dour, and dull. However, a quick dose of some silliness on their part loosened them up, and the proceedings went swimmingly thereafter!

Reader: Thanks Sri Roy, Your message is very pithy and the timing could not be more appropriate for me to hear. The clownish behavior will attract most serious events to bring gravity to the stakes at play. Ken

Response: Very nicely put.

Consequences of Disparaging Others

Avoid saying anything negative about another party, such as your competitor; otherwise you may suffer the Life Response consequences.

A man disparaged a competitor in front of a client. A little while later, the man discovered that he had lost several clients. A little later still, he realized that he had lost them to that very same competitor he disparaged, something he never experienced before! Life responded negatively to his negative attitude.

Fascinating Confluence of Attitudes Episode

Life is constantly revealing subtle yet profound messages, if only we look below the surface. Let me give you a most unusual true-life example:

A man was complaining that the jobs he secured never seemed to last too long; that the effort just wasn't worth it considering the financial benefits.

It turns out that he revealed this fact this to another individual who was at that very moment having the exact opposite experience! That the jobs he was getting were long-lasting and therefore the effort was well worth it. In fact the first man was actually a client of the second man, a very good and lasting one as it turns out, proving his point!

The confluence of the two men in the same place in space and time was Life's way of putting them in proximity so they could learn from the situation. It offered the subtle hint that if the wrong attitude of complaint of the first individual were reversed, he would quickly attract the positive experiences of the second man.

In that way we can learn from every circumstance; as Life is always revealing profound messages.

No Title

When you expand a necessary effort, Life suddenly expands along with it.

Comment: Example: A man had been making a required effort, working a certain number of hours a day. Then he decided to expand that effort by increasing the daily hours. When he did, life immediately responded with dramatic positive developments in his work commensurate with that expansion.

No Title

There are pivotal moments in our life where great change has taken place, and our lives are turned in another direction. It is for these experiences that the psychic being, the evolving soul within has taken birth in us in its quest for complete, integral Realization.

No Title

The Psychic Being - the evolving soul within ourselves - exists for a purpose: to awaken the truth of the Divine in us, and to serve the Divine.

No Title

Shakespeare's perception that progress often emerges through tragedy is no longer the necessary means of change today. It can now happen through Conscious Positive Action. It is likely that this will increasingly be the modus operandi in the emerging New Age. We call it

"Self-Existent" progress – i.e. positive movement forward, without negative bi-products. (Supramental Action and Power that issues from Consecration has this nature.)

No Title

When individuals are intensely thinking of one another, they tend to unintentionally, "coincidentally" meet at common points in space and time.

Comment: Darcy and Eliza unintentionally meeting at the pond at his Pemberley estate in Pride and Prejudice is a dramatic example. You can observe it's common occurrence in life, literature, and film.

No Title

When an individual shifts from reluctance to acceptance of what needs to be spent, unexpected funds often arrive out of nowhere, replenishing the coffers. In fact, the amount that comes is often exactly equal to what was spent!

When you shift from an unwilling attitude and instead spend on what is necessary, you are likely to discover one or more unexpected benefits - such as a lower cost than anticipated, a product of higher quality than previously available, and so forth.

No Title

Shifting from Fear, Worry, Uncertainty, and the like to Mother is a central dynamic regularly practiced by devotees.

No Title

Each time you shift from impatience to patience, life quickly responds in your favor.

No Title

Only the supramental consciousness has the integrality of knowledge to overcome the partisan ideology and limits of politics.

Comment: (Supramental knowledge and power - via consecration and long-term connection to Mother -- gives perfect knowledge, answers, remedies to any and all problems in society, while simultaneously manifesting them as real. Politics is almost the opposite: progress through contradiction and division and dispute that is slow and painful; whose results are at best partial, exclusive, and incomplete: not integral and fresh thinking.)

Reader: Yes, Very true. It work beyond good and bad, laws of government, even law of Nature. It contains everything in it. It can see both sides of the coin.

Response: Yes, very true!

No Title

It is ironic that at a time when so many are clamoring for good jobs in the world, revealing a great deficit in employment, more good jobs were created in the last 10 years in China and India and environs - perhaps as many as 1 billion - than any comparable period in the history of the world.

Comment: It is interesting that often the world fails to acknowledge its own progresses; only its deficits. E.g. I have found it ironic that environmentalists are often perpetually cynical and pessimistic, even though they have had many great successes!

Reader: I do agree. And I feel like everything is fragmented. Nothing is connected though they were connected in the system. They only see half of the side of the coin. Otherwise to say they lack Supramental Vision.

No Title

It is interesting that at a time when people are clamoring for jobs, employees are clamoring for workers, since few qualify, not having the skills to fill those jobs. This indicates that in one sense there is not so much a jobs deficit as a Skills Deficit.

Comment: I recall how in the 1990s Bill Clinton and others were practically begging people in the US to upskill so they were ready for the 21st century, but few heeded the call, outside of certain progressive, forward-thinking areas mainly on the coasts. Now people wonder why they are earning so little. It's due in large part because they never skilled up; which remains as one of the causes of their travails today.

Reader: Except the fact they already possess all the necessary skills to fill the gap. Unfortunately, they fail to see it. Still it's prevailing with this present generation even with the developed countries human capital.

No Title

We think we are here to gain more, to be more prosperous, to succeed optimally, et al; but we are really here to become stronger people inside; to shed our negative attitudes and wanting habits; to understand life and our lives in new ways; to develop greater trust and faith in life's unfoldings; to gain inner power over the outer life; to express our highest personal values in all facets of our existence; to give up self-absorption and ego and replace it with harmony and self-givingness; and to discover the spirit within and around us. These are among our true purposes in life - which can be summed up as our "personal and spiritual growth." That is why we are here.

No Title

To do the Integral yoga is to exchange our every-day human personality for a life of Surrender to Mother.

No Title

To open to and lose ourselves in the Transcendence makes for very special moments in our lives.

Reader: Yes Sir, I am seeing that reflection in every event in my day. I have opened myself 10 year before and it responded with beautiful moments which I unable to understand, respond or recognise during that time. Yes, finally time and my patience paid that dividend today and in my everyday events too. What I sowed long before , I am reaping it.

Response: Further thought: My comment above came just as I had looked up into the sky and felt the transcendent Divine there behind our existence. It had occurred several times in a day. What I experienced in these moments is similar to what arrives in an hour of meditation, but now suddenly, all at once. It is to be swept into the "whiteness of the Beyond," to a realm far beyond our own, of profound richness and expansiveness and depth - in pauses, while still actively engaged in the details of life.

Reader: Individual Experiences are limited only to the respective Individual's. Since I haven't become Supramental being now I unable feel it the way you feel it but I am on the way to that horizons. Though I able to understand and Visualize with the narration you have given above, that itself giving me immense pleasure and enjoyment. Each word tells thousand messages, experiences which we usually understood with the pictures conveys thousand words. The word "Whiteness of beyond" , richness, expansiveness means a lot to me and it is Indulging me in the happiness I ever encountered before. Thanks for Sharing your further experience with us sir.

No Title

Integral Consecration of a serious problem is to offer the issue to Mother every time you think of it; which attracts ultimate positive response from life. E.g. people come forward from out of the blue to completely solve your financial problem, eliminating that great burden.

No Title

The culture of our times blinds us to the Great Issues and Dimension of life, yet it is only through our times that those Qualities are realized.

Comment: As it takes billion years to reach this civilization. This Journey definitely will take another several billions year to realise. Supramental force alone can shrink the time and it's dimensions.

Unity in Diversity in the Evolutionary Process

The Involutionary process is the means by which the original Source Being's Oneness is turned into infinite variations of itself (as infinitely variable formations of matter down to the atomic level).

The Evolutionary process is the means by which the original Harmony and Oneness is restored (emerging from life to mind to spirit); or rather the evolutionary process progressively harmonizes and unifies the Involution's Infinite Variations, thereby creating a richer and more dynamic Oneness than the original Source Being's Oneness. (Indicating that a Divine Life on earth would be greater than the original Divine!)

This evolutionary process is magnificently expressed in the great motto of India - "Unity in Diversity," which is actually supramental - an expression of the Truth Consciousness - in nature.

Reader: I am blessed to read your posts. It carries world knowledge in it. Entire universe is working on two principles Involution and Evolution. Your post explained it very elegantly.

Flat Tire Turnaround

A man had just earned a bundle the previous day, but when he took off in his car the next morning, he felt something wrong. He then got out of his vehicle and noticed that his tire had gone flat. A moment later, he discovered a screw in the tire. Suddenly he shifted to dismay, as it would be yet another big expense for his car.

Fortunately, a friend reminded him that he had free roadside assistance as a result of being a paid member of AAA. He then called them up and the roadside assistance truck and driver quickly appeared.

However instead of fixing the flat and having the car towed to a tire dealer, the driver simply filled the tire with air and informed the man that he could now drive the car to a dealer safely for repair. He also told the man that he probably didn't need a new tire at all, and that he also knew of a retail outlet that would fix the flat for under $10. A moment later still, the roadside assistance driver thought of another outlet and said that they would in fact fix the flat for free! The man then took up the offer, brought it to the dealer, and everything worked out perfectly!

The man had thus gone from thoughts of having to buy one or more tires, to no tires needed, to an inexpensive fix, to a fix with zero cost!

When he then thought about it, the man knew that his friend had been Consecrating to Mother at each step of the ordeal. When he asked her, she verified that it was true! He also reminded himself that he had mostly practiced Equality of Being throughout the ordeal, remaining calm despite the problem. Finally, he also noticed how cheerful and kindly each person had been, and how soft and still the atmosphere had been at every stage.

He once again reminded himself that only Mother could create such a divine-like set of circumstance. He then chalked it up to another Supramental experience.

No Title

In the Integral Yoga there is nothing to do but Wait, - on Her, on Life - but do so without the burden of "waiting."

Intense anger is subconscious desire to harm or even destroy one's self.

No Title

In Supramental Life one experiences in rapid succession one astonishing, miraculous-like Surprise after another.

No Title

From the Psychic Being one cannot help but want to create harmony and oneness with everything and every person one encounters.

No Title

Grace coming in that is deflected due to lack of receptivity for whatever reason often expresses as physical pain.

No Title

On the dot Hourly consecration has great power to relieve physical ailments, stabilize dangerous situations, and otherwise create harmony and well-being.

No Title

To perceive the truth in each side of an issue and then integrate it into something higher still indicates the Spirit emerging in the Mind.

No Title

Since Supermind knows the final outcome, it takes you through all the necessary pathways that will bring you there. That is why one needs full faith in those unfoldings when opening to Mother.

Power of Right, Moral Choice to Evoke the Truth

When you make the right, moral, higher consciousness choice in a cross-road situation, life often respond by pulling away the curtain, revealing powerful, hidden truths.

A man was offered huge financial backing for his floundering furniture business. However, the benefactor demanded a romantic date with the woman the man had feelings toward. He felt the rich man was forcing him to do something that was not right. And so he not only refused to set up the date, but refused the rich man's funding for his business.

Immediately another party came forward and revealed the true background and identity of the woman he cared for, and why she had entered his life.

The truth of their relationship was now on the table, whereas before he was in the dark. His strength of will and right moral action attracted these critical developments and knowledge into his life. In essence, one form of truth evoked another.

Mother's View Of Yogic Life

For the serious follower of their Path (not the average person) - including His Integral Yoga - Mother frowned on:

1. Attachment to Property
2. Marriage
3. Procreation of Children
4. Religion; following Gods
5. Politics
6. Belief in Medicine and Doctors
7. Conformity
8. Material, Money Obsession
9. Blind Pursuit of Career Success

10. Pursuit of Pleasure, Ego

She does instead accept correspondingly - (1) Shared Property, (2) Romance as Path of Growth, (3) Higher Consciousness Child Education and Non-Possessive Adult Guidance, (4) Direct Spiritual Experience, (5) Consensus Governance of Ideas, (6) Power of Force and Inner Methods to Regenerate, Heal, (7) True Individuality, (8) Funds Used to Further Human Progress, (9) Pursuit of Deep Values in Work, Serving Humanity, (10) Pursuit of Meaning, Purpose, Harmony of Being.

No Title

Life Response experience is a key steppingstone to Divine Life living.

No Title

Intel founder Andy Grove taught the world what Karmayogi called "The Great Secret: The Power of Organization." Intel was the most efficiently run company I ever worked at, implementing organizational values to the highest degree. It was a great reason for their enormous success In computerizing the world. You could say he single-handedly organized Silicon Valley. And what a special character and human being he was. May we all continue to learn from him and his great pioneering works.

Comment: "Andy Grove helped set Silicon Valley on a treadmill of relentless self-improvement."

No Title

Sri Aurobindo says it is the "Hour of the Unexpected." Let us always be ready to embrace that unpredictable Change.

No Title

Many Indian films, literature, and the like are filled with what might be called "spiritual sweetness." It is a palpable sense of something Deeper and cherished behind events. On the other hand, Hollywood and related films of the West have practically none of that; as it is mostly foreign to the culture.

No Title

Her Spirit-based understanding of Life will be India's great contribution to the world.

No Title

Opening to Mother quickly and astonishingly turns chaos into order.

No Title

Fundamentally the root cause of terrorism is Poverty and the feelings of Hopelessness that arise from it.

No Title

The world has failed to deal with the root cause of terrorism - poverty and hopelessness.

No Title

The poor and hopeless are more than willing to take up fundamentalism and other forms of violence to overcome their internal misery.

No Title

A Human-centered (not money-oriented) Economics will go a long way toward overcoming current human misery.

No Title

The rapid, self-multiplication and spreading of Money in the world is a sign that the Force is increasingly at work on earth. The Financial Crisis and its extreme, rapid movement of funds in the name of greed was but one indicator of this phenomenon; a negative one. We can harness Self-multiplying Money through higher human values, which will bring about unprecedented wealth power benefit to the world.

No Title

Terrorism is a chink in the armor of society reflecting lack of organization (cooperation, coordination, integration, etc.) at many levels - militarily, politically, socially, and economically - to deal with and eradicate it.

No Title

Despite the specter of fundamentalist terrorism, violence in the world has been dramatically decreasing in recent decades.

No Title

The world could use a Global Rapid Reaction Force or World Army to deal with security issues on earth. It would be another step toward human unity.

No Title

World Army, Self-multiplication of Money, Human-centered Economics, New Paradigm of Existence, True Individuality, a New Education and others (including Character of Life, and Life Response phenomenon) are all concepts advocated or perceived by Mother's Service Society (MSS) for the benefit of the world.

No Title

As your consciousness deepens, you increasingly have insights and intuitions that prove to be prophetic.

No Title

From the Psychic Being one sees the value and truth of each and every person, and each and every thing.

No Title

The closer we get to the truth of our Being within, the greater the power we have. The more we live on the surface of life, the weaker, the more powerless we are.

No Title

Our adversaries are secretly our "gurus." They provide the opposing force through which we can change and thereby grow in consciousness.

No Title

Genius is making innovative connections between things few or none have made before.

No Title

True Individuality is to live one's truth despite the herd view, yet be open in heart and mind to all possibilities raised by others.

No Title

Our mind may know the right way to live our lives, but our vital being will persistently gain the upper hand and return us to our dull, petty, destructive habits.

No Title

When you confess your wrong attitude to someone else, the world can open up through that other person's words. It is the Life Response power of embracing the Truth.

No Title

Threat of environmental catastrophe may serve to help unify the world.

No Title

Contradictions, conflict, division with others and life indicate Ignorance on our part that needs to be overcome.

Comment: We think the problem is "them." But the conflict has arisen to help us see our own limitations and thereby grow as a person. It is one aspect of the journey from out of the Ignorance into the Integral Knowledge.

No Title

We take great pleasure in our small, repeating habits; in the predictable and comfortable and routine. Yet it is only when we break out of that mold that life becomes fresh and new, releasing newfound energies that quickly attract unexpected positive conditions. Then life becomes a Wonder and Joy to behold!

Reader: I always attempted this. But failed 100%. But result produced 100% too. I have failure inventories when I try to break that habit. Unconsciously it has taken its form, what I have set and made the ball rolling a long time back. Yes, it pays the dividend over the long term though we see failure in our every attempt.

Response: What you have addressed may be related to another issue. When YOU initiate on your own a new undertaking, Life fails as much as succeeds. However, when the opportunity COMES TO YOU on its own -- i.e. it is Life's, Mother's initiative -- and you take it up, it succeeds 90%.

In my original entry above I was focusing on daily habits, and how we can overcome them; to create ongoing freshness, not major changes in one's life, such as a new major project, a career change, etc. to create success. which has other factors involved.

No Title

Once you decide what you really want is to discover your Soul (psychic being), everything in your life - whether positively or negatively - conspires to try to make that happen. (paraphrase of MSS)

Comment: From this perspective I can see how key events in my early life took shape - and continue to do so.

No Title

Acknowledging the quiet, subtle, remarks of others, even when not initially understood, will soon attract more information about it and its further development and implementation. In that way, small things become great when consciously acknowledged.

No Title

If possible try to avoid energetically describing recent negative situations, as it tends to quickly attract additional troubling conditions.

No Title

Every situation you encounter that rubs you the wrong way has come to teach you something about yourself so you can grow as a person. Then what upsets or pressures or otherwise has been bothering you, and what is it trying to teach you about yourself, including how you can respond with higher consciousness?

No Title

People who are poor are unaware of the means by which they can achieve financial success. Or if they know it, they choose to ignore it.

No Title

Intense difficulties are a means of solidifying our realization of an inner, spiritual method.

No Title

Over-reacting to another individual's folly gives energy to their side. On the other hand, withdrawing reaction causes people to focus on the other person's foolish deeds.

No Title

Lest we not forget, Sri Aurobindo implores us to engage in an Adventure of Consciousness and Joy.

Comment: This gives ultimate meaning and direction in our lives.

No Title

The all-positive Sunlit Path is to consecrate every aspect of a challenging work or endeavor, leaving it to Her to fill in the eventualities. She will do all the heavy lifting, resulting in enormous Success in all facets of the work.

No Title

God, the Divine became the universe. We, as material form of Him have that same Infinite Capacity to become anything we choose.

Comment: ... and at any scale - up to infinity.

No Title

In many cases a leader or manager who withholds complaint, restraining from blaming others gains an inner power that has the effect of compelling subordinates to suddenly engage in positive activities. It is one of the great subtle methods of evoking response from others who we are responsible for.

No Title

At every moment there is doubt, switch to Faith.

No Title

Accept, accept, accept the unseemly behavior of others. Do not react. Life will soon offer blessings in response.

No Title

After It recently cancelled a serious problem, a friend of mine called out: "Consecration SO, SO works!"

No Title

Some form of good fortune may come your way and you may wonder why it is occurring just now. But if you think back and consider aspects of your being that you consciously elevated a while earlier, you may come to fully understand why all this benefit has suddenly descended on you.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo's Integral Yoga asks us (metaphorically) to be willing to hang onto the edge of a cliff by one's finger nails, yet still have Faith in Her. To evolve, transform in this yoga, we may be required to risk all - whether physically, vitally, mentally, spiritually. It is therefore not for the faint of heart; only for the courageous; for those having already achieved a certain level of conscious development and have the Aspiration to go further. It is that Surrender of one's life and being that enables the Force to act with great effectivity, bringing about our ultimate transformation, as well as a vast power over events around us and in the world.

RK: But it is intriguing why it is always losing power over life to test courage - leading till the point of losing courage.

Response: Yes, it can go that way too. Eg one is forced into dire poverty, or be nearly ruined by floods, or being thrown out of the organization one is intensely dedicated to, or be driven out by hateful, /negative adversaries, or experience intense ongoing physical pain, etc. But then we have to distinguish between ordinary human courage and Yogic Courage, which is ultimate detachment and faith. In that way through these ultimately disheartening situations we are catapulted to the reverse situation including being deposited at the very top.

Reader: With my understanding. You are not losing power nor it is testing your courage in your life. If it is time, you will be automatically upgraded whether you mind understand it or not. Actually, you are regaining power. Integral yoga has several stages. One can be accomplished by directing oneself with suggestion given above. If you don't understand it and apply it. Still you have the growth with respect to your present capacity. But in the process, you will feel like lost everything like we paint our house. During the process of painting, house looks ugly only. If you stop painting middle of it. It looks ugly in your entire life. But till the point of painting completed, you can feel the freshness in that room or place but you cannot enjoy the wholeness in your entire house. Tool is go Beyond your Mind to understand the Subtle Life Progress. Accept end knowledge and do research to understand mean of it. Resource are lying at your feet. You just have to take it.

Response: Thank you for those fine points:

I invite you to review my notes on Integral Yoga gathered primarily from Appa's statements at the bottom of this page. It can help clarify. Near the conclusion he discusses the great changes and difficulties of the integral yoga path.

<http://royposner.weebly.com/articles-etc.html>

No Title

"The Secret" tells us to ASK the universe what we want, and then let go and have trust in what can come. "Life Response" tells us NOT to ask, and wait on the compulsion of Life to bring what IT wants of us.

Comment: For devotees "Life" = the Divine, Mother

Reader: WOW! We can make a billion bucks with this concept. Awesome sir. I never have given thought about it, in this angle.[We - is you (Singularity). I just used WE for figure of Speech]

Response: It is a great concept, and is something MSS and I have addressed in our writings. Thus, in addition to making the inner commitment to achieve something and offering it to the universe, which is kind of the aspirational or "inner action" part of the process, there is also the detached or "inner inaction" part of the process, including waiting patiently and cheerfully, refusing to take outer initiative until conditions are ripe, refusing to be anxious or disturbed, irritated or annoyed (non-reaction), etc. which are all psychological attributes of immense power. The book and film The Secret know the first part, but not so much the second. Not to Ask at all is a further step, where one does not even request a want from the universe; but rather one waits on Life's initiatives, like an unexpected opportunity coming in. These tend to have a Divine sanction (we can call it Mother's) as it knows that it is best for your growth. Being Receptive to the incoming Grace here then is key. From the get-go there is nothing to Aspire for other than our growth or what the Divine wishes, and the universe will fulfill it with what it perceives is best for you. This is a step beyond The Secret, or perhaps we can call it the Secret inside The Secret.

No Title

Previous to the modern era, the greatest spiritual seekers and realizers of all time were the Rishis of India who communed with the Spirit directly, and came to Know the Reality. And yet it is astonishing that hardly anyone in the West is familiar with them, let alone have the experience of what they discovered.

Consecrated Job

When you consecrate an opportunity, small project or job you have been given, then what takes place thereafter is ordinarily extraordinary.

For example, today I decided to consecrate each small job I was assigned to as it came up. On the very first one I encountered (and consecrated), the client was much to my amazement from the exact same small town I was from, which was many hundreds of miles away, amidst 40 million people in California! We had a wonderful conversation, full of synchronistic circumstance. It was a very rich and enjoyable experience! And when I turned on the radio just after, I heard divine-like mystical choral music, which seemed like a verification of what had just taken place. Mother the Divine works in mysterious and astonishing ways!

No Title

It is not the power of personality that achieves in spiritual life, but rather the withdrawal of it, deferring to and allowing the Spirit to act on our behalf.

No Title

Deeply Aspire for your psychological and spiritual progress, and Mother will supply the vehicles for that to happen.

Greatness of Professions

What follows are some thoughts on random professions and the qualities that can lead them to greatness:

- Doctors are greatest when they focus on the psychological cause of illness.
- Attorneys are greatest when they get at the Truth, beyond anyone's particular version of the truth.
- Accountants are greatest when they understand the subtle laws of money.
- Athletes are greatest when they see themselves in the integral context of the team.
- Religious leaders are greatest when they harken to the original spiritual experience of the founder.
- Workers are greatest when they create works of perfection offered in service to a higher power.
- Politicians are greatest when they abandon their ideology and seek connection to the truth of the Whole.
- Writers are greatest when they express Life's Character in a way that is forceful and moving.

-Leaders are greatest when they lead by example, and motivate others to greatness.
-Scientists are greatest when they embrace the invisible, the subtle, the not measurable, in addition to the material.
Reader: This is a wonderful list sir. I would like to know the same for parents.
Response: Main one is that the greatest parents are those that do not possess the child, but guide them.

No Title

Constant consecration IS Surrender; as we arrive at a central milestone of Sri Aurobindo's integral yoga, and a significant stage of personal transformation.

Self-Multiplying Money's Infinite Potential for Society

A new, unrecognized, and therefore unappreciated development in society is the phenomenon that money is now beginning to self-multiply, creating a potential for wealth for all citizens of the world. However, with that development has come a dark shadow in which people are using that exponentially-expanding, vast abundance of capital for selfish gain.

The financial crisis was not only an indicator of greed, but a first great indicator of the newly-arrived self-multiplying money, now unfortunately being abused. Sheltering, tax avoidance, money laundering and other such abuses are spreading everywhere in the world; not only because of greed, but because vast sums of money are being generated as a result of enormous social development and progress. Self-multiplication of money and its infinite-like expansion is a great unrecognized product of these advances.

Thus an opportunity for equitable, fair utilization of this emerging vast array of funds is available to us if only we cooperate, and consciously and correctly make use of this new-born, infinite resource now at our disposal.

(Mother's Service Society background quotes and my paraphrases)

Cause of Self-Multiplication of Money

"The increasing speed of currency circulation raises its value and generates more money as it abridges Time.

As each transaction acts like the function of a bank, the greater transactions can lead to generation of higher amount of money as well as raise the currency value."

Society evolving (social development) speeds up and enriches circulation of money, stimulating its self-multiplying power.

Regional and World Currency, Self-Multiplication of Money, and End of Poverty

"The proposed Asian currency will shoot up in value if India and China are members by virtue of their population. If the theme is of value, it is an argument for world currency. That move alone is enough to abolish the poverty of the world at one stroke. As electricity made the world bright by its illumination, a world currency will make it prosperous by its inherent capacity for multiplication. Time, Space, speed, population, productivity, trust will increase the value of the currency and have the power to multiply its quantity. Such a process reaches the point of maturity where self-multiplication starts.

Spiritually, the theory says, any energy can be produced from any source if only the appropriate method is devised. Abundant money can wipe out universal poverty. Increasing levels of education can wipe out universal ignorance."

Those in touch with the movement and vibration of self-multiplying money will be it's great beneficiary.

No Title

Perceiving one's times in relation to the Big Picture leads to Social Wisdom.

Sri Aurobindo's Yoga

The essential steps of Sri Aurobindo's Integral Yoga can be summarized as follows:

1. Constant Consecration
2. Connecting with Psychic Being (experiences of harmony, love, bliss, silence, inner guidance, transcendence, etc.)
3. Spontaneous opening of mind to planes of spiritualized mind (intuition, revelation of light, movement toward integral knowledge)
4. Supramental Force descending into us, transforming our mental, vital, and physical being, into new formations of them
5. Supramentalization of world around us (and life fully under our control from within)
6. Divine Life on Earth

Subtle Signs

At any given moment life is presenting subtle signs - both literal and figurative - of what you should or shouldn't do.

Eg you are driving toward a destination, but do not know which way to go. But then you see an advertisement of a product that also happens to be the name of a street you are familiar with. When you navigate onto that street, you are amazed how it takes you directly to your destination with great ease and in record time.

Perceiving the subtle signs of life throughout your day enables you to navigate the shortest, quickest path between yourself and accomplishing your goal or task. It's mystical guidance from the Unknown that you can continuously capitalize on.

No Title

In surface, Ego consciousness, I perceive you are in my way in a tight squeeze situation. From the other person's perspective, I am in their way. From a universal consciousness view, we see how each of the parties are in the way of one another. In Supramental Consciousness, no one is any longer in the way of anyone else; as life bring forth sufficient room for all to flourish.

No Title

In ordinary life, there is celebration after a success. In spiritual life, there is Humility.

Comment: ...the humility builds up energy that attracts, further extending the success, or creating a new form of it.

No Title

People who complain intensely about a situation, such as a social condition, don't see how they or their type of thinking had a hand in creating it in the first place.

No Title

Intense surface reactions are indicators of deeper, festering problems.

No Title

Consecration makes life Smooth in the extreme.

No Title

If something repeats in our work, we can consecrate each iteration, evoking ultimate efficiency in the course of our day.

No Title

Impatience: destroyer of positive outcomes.

No Title

There is always a flow of life events unfolding. Try not to lose connection with it; otherwise you'll be led astray.

No Title

Up till now Nature has been evolving by itself. But through Man and his higher functioning of Mind - including true rationality, insight, vision, intuition, and above to supramental perception - he can redirect and lead the evolution forward toward its higher, and ultimately cosmic purpose.

Comment: (This also speeds up the Evolution, while enriching it infinitely.)

No Title

Spiritual culture is the life that discovers the Infinite in the finite. (Karmayogi)

Comment: Immersed in the Spirit, one senses, believes that from the smallest thing can come the greatest; so one respects any and all things. Also anything one does has the ability to open up infinite possibilities. Lodged in the Spirit, the Infinite can always break out from the current finite. A third aspect, is that the Infinite Consciousness is there lodged in any finite - whether person, place, or thing.

No Title

The evolving Inner Spirit sees the blemishes of others as his own psychic opening. (Karmayogi)

Comment: In spiritual life we perceive blemishes of others as our own, which indicates a further opening into the psychic self.

No Title

Maximum effort ensures endless progress. (Karmayogi)

Comment: Especially when that great effort is targeted in the direction life perceives as necessary for our own improvement - whether spiritual, material, or in between.

For example, if a poor man, not normally disposed to doing so, works extra hard to earn money, he will see life cooperating with that effort, not just at the level of funds, but of growth in his being; reflecting as progress in his life. The same dynamic holds for every other person and their making maximum effort, affecting their particular deficiencies, releasing their potentialities.

No Title

He who wants to rectify a universal deficiency first must realize it's force in his own self. (Karmayogi)

Comment: For example, if you want to get rid of corruption in society, find the same or related in yourself and overcome it.

We do not see that the forces in society have their counterpart within us. Actually we are an individualization of that collective within us. Or to put it another way, we are not just individual beings, but universal ones; with the whole of society reflected within us. Thus, if we change a corresponding personal quality, it goes out to the universal plane and changes the world around us, the society, as well; as they are not really two different things, but the same one thing.

No Title

The Rishis of India experienced liberation (moksha) by merging into the Spirit, apart from life, while in Integral yoga we are here to actively realize Spirit in the details of our lives.

No Title

As we rise in consciousness - from mind to the spirit in the mind; from the surface being to the depths, - the division and conflict we see between ourselves and life, ourselves and others, ourselves and spirit melt away, and we perceive that all in harmony, integrated, and united.

No Title

The Transcendent reality is not something separate from ourselves, but is actually our True Self.

Comment: As Sri Aurobindo tells us in Life Divine, we are simultaneously Individual, Universal, and Transcendent beings. The transcendent is the Spirit of and beyond the cosmos, while the psychic being, the True Self is the Spirit inside us. But actually at another level, the transcendent and the true self are the very same thing, and we are simply a small inlet of that same Cosmic Sea.

No Title

According to the laws of quantum physics, Time can work in the reverse; i.e. our choices of the present can effectively determine the past. This is reality known by those who have had access to the supramental power. E.g. one can consecrate a negative influence of the past on our present condition, creating new realities in that past that effectively cancel its negative influence on the present.

Generosity of Spirit Evokes Life Response

Bill is a gregarious, intelligent, and generous senior businessperson, which means he has a tendency to evoke good fortune from out of nowhere. An example of that happened recently. (And it wasn't the first time!)

As a principle founder of a new company, he was thinking about the money a friend could earn if he took up sales with his organization. He also thought about his own ability to sell and earn. However, being a founder of the organization, as well as an expression of his generous nature, he felt that he should instead focus on what the salesperson could make, not his own finances. In fact, he decided that he did not have to earn anything in sales in the new venture, and should focus more on the well-being of the staff, including this one particular potential salesman.

As it turned out, almost instantaneous to having this generous thought and emotion, he received word that a new client was interested in Bill's services: one that could potentially be his best private customer in over eight years as a management consultant.

Because Bill acted in a spirit of generosity and self-givingness with the salesperson, Life immediately responded with word that he had secured his best potential client in years; one that could in fact raise his income and lift him out of the financials doldrums he had found himself in.

Or to put it another way, his selfless interest in another's financial well-being, suddenly evoked a response that secured his own. It was yet another reminder of the subtle and profound principles and laws through which Life operates.

Mind vs Brain

Mind and brain are not the same. Mind is a plane of existence we partake in, including the knowledge contained therein. Brain is a biological processing unit that makes knowledge of Mind accessible to us. Even if there were no brain, there would be (infinite) knowledge in creation. Moreover, there are spiritual planes of mind that enable knowledge to more readily pour into our field of awareness. The more we rise to these higher, spiritual planes of mind, the more powerful, integral, and life changing is the knowledge.

Comment: Mind is like the program coming in (to the radio, computer, phone). Knowledge is like the content of the program. Together they are the "software."

Brain is like the physical receiver of the programs and knowledge. It is the "hardware."

Neuroscience's Limited Understanding

Neuroscience is trying to make the bridge between biology and consciousness, but is still stuck on the material side of the equation; hence it mistakenly uses the terms "mind" and "brain" interchangeably. It is an infant science, trying to become something more. Studying Sri Aurobindo's thought will explain many things they are grappling with. If they realize that Mind is previous to Life instead of that Mind only emerges from Life, they will begin to understand the truth of things.

Reader: What is the meaning of Mind being previous to Life?

Response: Out of the Divine came Consciousness. It then became Mind, and after that Energy that would be the source of creation (Life). This is what Sri Aurobindo calls "Involution." Once creation comes about, there are material entities, followed by living forms, then man, where mind is expressed for the first time in creation. Thus Mind that man realized in the evolution was actually already there previous to creation in the Involution.

Or to put it another way, Man progressively realizes Mind and Its knowledge in the Evolution that was enabled by the Divine in the Involution.

No Title

All the negative signs we see around us in the world are actually compulsions of Nature to change our ways. These difficulties will have the longer-term effect of creating greater harmony amongst the peoples, culminating in Human Unity.

Further thoughts:

-A great blooming of interconnectedness occurred after the horror of WWII and the Cold War (UN, EU, regional alliances and global trade associations of all sorts, etc.); and will continue to happen now in the wake of current circumstance (financial crisis, unemployment, skewed wealth, terrorism, economic instability, environmental crisis etc.).

-The negative, conflictive conditions that Nature brings exposes our limitations of consciousness, and create the compulsion to work together to solve problems, instead of each side pulling in its own direction.

-There are all necessary steps on the road to human unity and the elevation of consciousness of groups and individuals, out of which can arise a spirit-based, divine life on earth.

-Society's difficulties mirrors the difficulties we ourselves as individuals are having, which indicate the direction of the further development of our own consciousness and being.

No Title

The Internet enables all of the knowledge and news to be broadcast all around the world. Yet, it also reveals the utter ignorance we have about what is happening in other countries, as we are obsessed by our own.

No Title

When you are blocked from accomplishing something at the outset, it is often an indicator that this is not the right path to pursue. There is a subtle principle of life that expresses this dynamic: Initial outcome is an indicator of the final result.

No Title

Karmayogi indicates that Americans are obsessed with doing things, constantly having to act, as they can't sit still even for a minute. If they are asked to be quiet for a few moments, they become fidgety. It is because their vital and physical energies dominate their being. Quietude is foreign to their nature.

On the other hand, Indians enjoy being at rest, love to do nothing, as there is tamas, inertia in their nature.

Being still inside while being active on the outside would seem to resolve these contradictions.

Comment: Some people, such as the Jews have learned to master certain aspects of their vital and physical nature, which makes them so active and dynamic in the Mind. Then there are gurus, sages, seers, and yogis and such who have mastered the mind as well, and so are "active", actually still in the Spirit.

No Title

What we see is what we believe in. Yet the truth lies 99% elsewhere. But we persist in believing that the 1% we know is all of the Truth. This is the basis of human Ignorance.

Comment: How the do we reverse this dynamic?

The more you open to Mother and Her Supramental force, the more you refrain from reacting to others' intensities, and the more you take the other person's point of view, the deeper your center of consciousness becomes. As a result, knowledge and truth increasingly streams into your mind as insight, light, intuition, revelation, and Supramental perception; melting away the barriers to the other 99%. You have now engaged in the great yogic process of transformation out of the Ignorance into the Integral Truth and Knowledge. Moreover, you now have the mental and spiritual power to become the Master of Life.

No Title

Each nation pulls in its own direction, then gives justification for its separative, egotistic actions. Instead each nation should discover its Soul and Psychic Center, so it will consistently feel unity and oneness with other countries. Thus, the same consciousness-raising dynamic for the human individual applies to individual nations as well.

No Title

As mental beings we obsessively look at our smartphone all day. We are seeking stimulation in the mind. Constant hit and miss benefits are the result. However as Spiritual beings we would look at the phone at just the RIGHT time, attracting optimal life response results.

No Title

There are many things we like, and equally many we don't. These are our Preferences. On the other hand, the spiritual person is constantly shedding likes and dislikes; exchanging what he prefers for the truths life has put before him.

No Title

Preference is divided consciousness. Acceptance is stillness and harmony.

Bill Paying Response

When I recently gave up my hesitancy to pay several bills, instantly within a few seconds unexpected funds were added to my account. When we circulate money due, rather than horde it, it can have this powerful life response effect.

The Gardeners Return

If your possessions or environment is being neglected by others whose job it is to take care of it, don't complain, but simply do what you can within your power to improve the situation. Life will then respond in your favor!

For some time - almost two months! - our gardeners had not come to cut back our grass lawn, which was growing abundantly and wildly after recent rains. However, I managed to hold back complaint and bother.

Then one day, I looked around and decided to improve the condition of a lovely flowering bush in front of our property by cutting back the discolored and disfigured leaves and branches. I then watered the huge plant and returned inside my house.

The suddenly, within a half hour, and after a two-month hiatus, the gardeners showed up with their equipment and did a complete landscape of the entire property!

As we see, when you restrain yourself from reacting to a difficult situation, and instead do anything you can to improve it -- whether practical or symbolic, -- life will reward you with the most astonishing positive developments!

No Title

In our life experiences are hidden all of the subtle principles of existence. The only question is whether we are interested in discovering them, and whether we will apply that knowledge in order to bring out the infinite potentials of life.

Transdisciplinary Approach to Knowledge

We perceive the disciplines of life - sociology, psychology, science, medicine, governance, law, politics, economics, business, religion, etc. etc. - in isolation from one another. Yet the real power of knowledge comes through integration of truths from all of these on each of them. Then we release ultimate Truth and therefore ultimate power in society, furthering human progress and evolution on earth.

Comment: ... it is a moment from the part to the integral whole; i.e. from separateness of part knowledge to multi-faceted, integrative, holistic understanding.

No Title

We tend to focus on the problems others are causing us, not on the problems we are causing others.

No Title

Spiritual perception always sees Opportunity beyond the conflict.

No Title

In Mother, nearly anything is easily achieved; and it occurs in record time. In ordinary life, only a small percentage is achieved, and only through drudgery and the long duration of time.

No Title

When you consecrate each client (or customer, project, job, etc.), not only will the work go exceedingly well, but you will attract many more, and in tight succession, densifying your schedule and enhancing your income beyond what you are accustomed.

Supermind = Knowledge + Its Power of Material Realization

The Knowledge that the true spiritual individual possesses is not just a multi-faceted understanding of the situation or the ways of life and beyond, but a simultaneous POWER for its manifestation as real on earth. It is an understanding that knowledge's instantaneous accomplishment in the world.

This is Sri Aurobindo's startling view of our spiritual potential through our mentality and is fully realized in our being when we move beyond our surface mind, our logical mind, and even intuition, and land in Supramental perception.

When we call Mother, the integral Knowledge and understanding of a matter comes instantaneous to it actually being accomplished in Life. In this way, Mother, the channel of Supermind is beyond any conception of spiritual Truth and Being ever devised by Man.

No Title

For the spiritual individual it is not the negative conditions occurring on the outside that is the problem, but the part of him that needlessly reacts to it inside.

No Title

You cannot be an instrument of the New unless you are willing to give up certain attachments to the old.

No Title

Some of the most charming, convincing, endearing individuals turn out to be bold faced liars.

No Title

Evil is not the opposite of good, but it's dark shadow.

No Title

Without the good there is no evil in the world. Evil is the perversion or negative offshoot of the good. Eg nuclear weapons (negative, evil) is offshoot of nuclear fission discoveries and science (positive, good). The apparent good of the West created the Great Depression that destabilized Germany and led to Hitler and fifty million dead.

On the other hand, in a more conscious life, each good created casts no dark shadow. It is "Self-Existent" Good. There are currently very few examples. The Supramental, Mother's Force in action has that quality.

Reader: When the Light of Truth shines on evil, it disappears suddenly as its base is very fragile.

As what happened in Les Miserables, when Jean Valjean frees Javert despite he had a chance to revenge for his evil deeds...the act of goodness shatters foundation of Javert's living principle so far.

The same had happened to Jean Valjean earlier in his life when the Bishop touches his soul despite his act of stealing and transforms him.

The unconditional act of goodness may have such powers to transform as like Supramental Force.

Thank you Sir.

Comment: Yes, their Goodness created no dark shadow. In fact it (their light of truth) melted away the fragile darkness around them.

No Title

The more you notice synchronicities occurring in your life, the more they tend to take place.

Comment: ...also the more you will be compelled to seek out the Mysteries of life

Reader: Very Much True. I am seeing it and kind of more or less excited about it. But need to consecrate it. Those feelings are not my feeling anyway. It is expressing through me. And I am getting the benefit.

No Title

Flowers and Psychic (Soul) Opening

The best way to open oneself to the deep influence of flowers is to love them and to seek to discover the same qualities in oneself. Love of flowers can be a valuable help in finding and uniting with one's own true psychic being. This love means that one is drawn by the psychic vibration in the vegetal kingdom and consequently by the psychic presence in one's own self. The beauty of flowers is one of Nature's means of awakening in man the quest for his own soul. (Karmayogi)

No Title

Failure of prayer is failure to reach the maximum intensity possible. (Karmayogi)

Comment: Eg in Jane Austin's Sense & Sensibility the younger Miss Dashwood sister has been jilted by a lover and wanders out in the cold and rain, where she becomes very sick. With death at her doorstep, her elder sister prays with all her might, mustering all her emotions and feelings, crying out to God for her younger sibling's recovery. When she awakes at her sister's bedside the next morning, her sister is fully cured. That is the type of intensity that allows Prayer to be unailing; that Appa is referring to above. With that level of intensity of prayer to Mother, most any life problem can quickly be solved.

No Title

All my resistances = all my suffering

No Title

As aspects of the old civilization continue to crumble, new progressive ones are taking its place. We notice the former far more than the latter, as we don't have the eyes (right consciousness) to perceive the change.

No Title

In work and other aspects of life, we make 99% effort, yet use only 1% of higher consciousness available, when it could be 100% for both - which would attract results instantaneously, and exhibit perfect perfection. The problem is we don't know the laws of higher consciousness, of Life Response - including consecration, aspiration, non-reaction, self-givingness, and gratitude - that can generate these startling results, though it is humanity's destiny to use these Inner Tools in future.

No Title

Evolution is the process of progressively shifting out of each contradiction and conflict of life, replacing it with Harmony and Oneness.

No Title

-To exert oneself at his maximum is ideal.

-Life has no further Ideal beyond exhausting one's effort. (Karmayogi)

Comment: Life normally responds overwhelmingly to making an exhaustive, all-out effort. (Eg see the wonderful film 'Erin Brockovich' for a powerful true-life example.)

No Title

Non-stop energy is from non-stop aspiration. (Karmayogi)

Comment: Aspiration is the intense, ongoing intention and will to accomplish, or to grow, or to discover the spirit, which concentrates and releases vast quantities of corresponding energies.

No Title

Do everything that should be done, without exception, and you will always be guided along the right path.

No Title

Unknown to us, the entire world changed in 1956 when the Mother brought down the supramental power that Sri Aurobindo had prepared, providing us with the spiritual Force that can set right all life conditions in a flash, accelerating human development and the evolution of life on earth.

No Title

Centuries of persecution of Harijans (untouchables) by caste Hindus led to their alienation and consequent embrace of Islam so that they could be free. This in turn led to the birth of Pakistan as a separate nation. Conversely, a fair treatment of Harijans will lead to the undoing of Pakistan and its subsequent reintegration within the Indian union. (MSS)

Freedom and Equality Together

-Freedom is only effective to the degree its resources and benefits - money, technology, infrastructures, education, et al - are Equally available to all.

-Freedom is fulfilled through equal distribution of its benefits, while Equality is fulfilled in an environment of complete freedom.

-Freedom and equality melded together harmonically is the outcome of a Human-centered economics.

-Freedom and equality together in harmony is the solid basis of Spiritual Life.

Cosmic Compulsion to Evolve

We understand that through our rise in consciousness we progress, even evolve. What we do not see is how behind the scenes the Force is compelling us to advance in consciousness.

This is memorably presented in the 1960s sci-fi epic film '2001: A Space Odyssey.' Millions of years ago an ape sees shattered bones of a dead animal in front of him, picks up a large, heavy major bone, and realizes it can be used as a weapon to defend himself and his people against aggressive rival clans. Through his elevation of consciousness and awareness, he is able to progress.

However, what we miss is the fact that a Monolith, an entity from billions of years in the future, has come and visited this primitively culture, and emanates an evolutionary vibration that subconsciously compels the ape to make the leap in awareness.

Similarly, in our lives, we are not only consciously moving forward and progressing, but there is a Spirit and Force behind the scenes that is in tune with our destiny and urging our way forward. It is the compulsion of the Spirit in life.

No Title

There are two spiritual movements that together create a magnificent atmosphere. The first is Stillness; which occurs by emptying the mind of all thoughts. The second is Fullness which occurs by opening to the Mother and Her Supramental power, filling the stillness with a profound Richness within.

No Title

If you rely less on idle speculation and more on Mother, you will attract the very best outcomes.

No Title

If you observe closely, you will see that each minor problem is associated with several major ones, just as every small opportunity is connected to several great ones. This indicates that the small is not isolated and limited, but is merely an outlet to the infinite sea of possibilities.

No Title

"Necessity is the mother of invention" is a great insight realized by society. It suggests that there are solutions for every problem, which are in fact the means by which the infinite potentials of Life are realized.

No Title

Having the intense Aspiration for improvement, while exhibiting infinite Patience in that process is one of the great challenges before us. And yet they are not opposites, but complements that can bring out the best of both simultaneously.

No Title

Life Response outcomes are determined by subtle Algorithms of Existence.

No Title

In the evolution of society, there is likely to be a gradual moving away from the ownership of property, which is a form of physical ego. The "Shared Economy" dynamic now emerging - eg Uber, Lyft, Airbnb, - are some of the first indicators in this long-term movement. Hippy communal living of the 60s and 70s was an earlier marker.

No Title

Life always gives us exactly the teacher we need at every moment. This includes every mosquito, every misfortune, every red light, every traffic jam, every obnoxious supervisor (or employee), every illness, every loss, every moment of joy or depression, every addiction, every piece of garbage, every breath. Every moment is the guru. (Charlotte Joko Beck)

Chain of Relations in a Life Response Event

One interesting characteristic of Life Response is how a positive or negative outcome will reveal a chain of interrelated circumstance.

Eg by mistake a man left the backdoor window of his car open at night. That in turn drew a drifter who attempted to get into the car through the opening in window, causing the car alarm to go off. The drifter in turn had been wandering the streets at night because his mother had locked him out of the house. The woman was in turn mentally disturbed, which led to her erratic behavior. And so on and so forth in a never-ending chain.

Thus any negative circumstance reveals not only a chain of problematic corresponding events but also offers an opportunity for positive change when these limitations are identified and addressed through corrective means. Likewise, a chain of positive outcomes is an opportunity to improve those conditions further, even to the nth degree.

By the way, it turns out that when the man's car alarm originally went off, he was having negative thoughts about another person he worked with. The car alarm event was therefore a negative response to his inner criticism of his colleague. Thus, we could say that the chain of related circumstance not only moves out in a chain, but on careful examination can also reveal a correspondence going within.

Mother is constantly urging us to move forward and progress - each in our own particular way.

No Title

The real you is not a puppet which life pushes around; the real, deep down you is the whole universe. (Alan Watts)

No Title

We are slowly coming to realize that the entire universe lies within, and therefore we have a vast power over it.

No Title

From moment to moment what matters most is our level of consciousness: i.e. our capacity to maintain the highest state possible. All other matters are secondary.

Comment: Eg the higher the level of consciousness, the greater the chance of attracting considerable success, creating better relations with others, resolving problems, etc.

No Title

Often we have a very fixed way at looking at things, and therefore we tend to push away great opportunities when they come to us.

No Title

The self-multiplication of Money - a recent phenomenon recognized by sage Karmayogi - is causing vast amounts of currency to be created in the world, and is therefore a good thing. However, this new availability of vast sums -- due to money's ever-increasing super-circulation -- is being coopted and manipulated by financiers, thereby ruining the potential for this super-abundance to spread around the world where needed.

No Title

It is interesting that 1-10% of the population controls a vast majority of the wealth in the West, causing a good part of the middle class to fall into the lower class, while in Asia there has been a near opposite effect, with the middle class emerging in spectacular fashion. It indicates where the center of gravity in the world is changing.

And it - Asia's emergence into prosperity - also fulfills one of Sri Aurobindo's criteria for the emergence of Human Unity and a further Divine Life on Earth. Another step is the reunification of India so she gains her rightful place as Guru of the world.

No Title

And that goes on twenty-four hours a day, and, I can say, as many thousand seconds as there are in a day, spontaneously, sincerely, absolutely (gesture of offering): "Here, I give it to you." Oh, here comes a difficulty; oh, so-and-so has a difficulty; oh, these circumstances are bad, oh... "Here, here, here, I cannot sort it out with the knowledge I have - do what needs to be done; do what needs to be done, I give it to You." It's a gesture of every minute, every second. (Mother, from Agenda - March 28, 1964)

Comment: ... and She indicates that there is a positive RESPONSE to the Force every time.

Recalling Luck Attracts More of It Instantly

When you think about and identify with good luck that has come to you in the past, it instantly comes to you in the present.

Eg today at the very instant I thought that Friday the 13th - a day considered unlucky in popular culture - had always been lucky for myself in the past, a family walked by my seat in a restaurant holding a metal sign for the food deliverer to bring their order to their table. The card at the top of it said "13".

No Title

Physically Mother often suffered due to the fact She was doing the physical transformation, and took on the pain of the world, as well as others around her. However, psychologically emotionally, and mentally She was a fully realized being.

The physical change was the one area She was intensely working on, which would be key for Her to become the first supramental being, the beginning of the New Human Species. She indicated near the end that Sri Aurobindo would return with the new Supramental body.

No Title

Over-insistence attracts resistance. Best to let it slide or take to detachment, which will quietly attract conditions more to one's liking.

No Title

It's not what I want from Her that I should be concerned with, but what She requires of me.

No Title

The goal is to create the greatest material result with the least outer effort, which occurs by taking to right consciousness through powerful life response evoking methods.

No Title

The growth of extreme religious fundamentalism of all types in the world is an indicator that religion itself is on the wane, to be replaced by direct spiritual experience by any individual.

No Title

There is more than enough money in the world to solve poverty and ease the refugee crisis. There is more than sufficient technology about climate change to make headway against it. But nothing will happen to solve these deep problems until people stop identifying with one nation, tribe, religion, or ethnic group and start identifying with the human world as something each of us creates or destroys every day. (Deepak Chopra)

Reader: Well, Said sir.

I was also thinking on the same plane.

Above all, I don't think people deserve richness, in my research they don't want it but say it when the problem comes up.

Individual and family Aspiration is in Scarcity. Either Government should come forward to execute the above solution. Hope bureaucrats managing that, I am not sure whether that is possible in our lifetime.

Maybe revolution kind of thing should take place or as Sri Aurobindo said, we need superhuman to manage this governance. Or otherwise, Each Individual should Aspire to accomplish the prosperity.

Like Sri Aurobindo Said in his book "The Life Divine" either Collective Evolution or Individual Revolution in his first chapter " Human Aspiration".

Let's see which one is taking form. To my perspective as soon as any one of the aspiration heads up another side of it also will take the form. Whatever, let Prosperity raise up.

No Title

People want to do good so they can go to some eternal heaven beyond this life. However, our goal should be to rise to our highest consciousness here in the world in order to help make THIS LIFE a Heaven on Earth.

No Title

Accidents normally happen when two negatives intersect.

No Title

We want all good things to happen in our lives, without the bad; but then there would be no scope for personal growth -- at least based on how humanity is now constituted.

Reader: I hope, in my recent days I started anticipate only failures. Another side of the dualities which we usually don't pay attention. Looks like life is responding better now than before. Say in exponential terms.

No Title

By moving to a deeper consciousness, culminating in the psychic being, the more likely you are to catch yourself when you are feeling or acting Selfishly and Egotistically; and therefore when you halt that negative inner or outer behavior, life instantly responds in your favor. This has increasingly been my very rewarding experience!

No Title

The scientist says that consciousness is itself a form of physical stuff (ie brain output). Actually, physical stuff is itself a form of Consciousness (ie spirit).

Reader: As long as they accept "Consciousness" exist. I am ok with that. Because they cannot go beyond that to think, because they are thinking. lol.

Response: The scientists only acknowledge human consciousness, not spiritual consciousness, and as a result miss the foundation of everything.

Life Response Approach to History

We perceive history as unfolding in a logical manner; that certain events that take place are due to obvious previous ones. However, a "consciousness approach to history," where life response phenomenon is at play can reveal a very different perspective of things.

Take the US Civil War. In it we see an obvious difference of opinion between the North and the South over slavery and states' rights. We clearly see those factors as leading up to and burnishing the Civil War. And yet a Life Response view of history adds this all-important factor: that the Civil War was a negative response to the US slaughtering and diseasing of the Native Peoples of that nation during those times. As a result of America's hateful reign against these people who lived on the land for thousands of years, the "Black Problem" was set in motion, and lives on till this very day. Who would have seen this astonishing connection? Not historians. And yet we know that negative circumstance around us is almost always due to our negative attitudes and behaviors; and that includes those results that come from domains that appear to have little to do with us

In this way, we can look back on all of history, as well as current events, and see the unfoldings in terms of the Consciousness of the players. When we do, and when we perceive those circumstance in terms of the principles of Life Response, we gain an unprecedented insight into the workings of the world that till now has been fully hidden from sight.

Life Response Power of Deferring to Others

When you focus on the wants and needs of the other person over your own, what you get back far exceeds anything you would have gotten by first focusing on your intention first.

Example: A man was working on a project, the results of which he wanted to show to his partner. However, he learned that his partner also had things he wanted to show him. Rather than communicate that he wanted to present what he had been working on, the first man embraced his partner's needs. He even consciously thought about the life response power of deferring to the wants of the other person over one's own.

Well, within 5 minutes of having that thought, he saw an email from a third colleague that a large project he had been working on was now completed, plus he had sent the files to prove it. The first man was astonished, as he had almost forgotten about this important project and was surprised it was completed so soon.

He clearly perceived the life response power of deferring to others over one's own needs. It can attract startling results: whether from the other person unexpectedly focusing on your needs, or, as in this case, something else of great importance suddenly coming to you from out of nowhere with great news and material results.

No Title

The person practicing yoga (conscious evolution) develops an inner power of detachment (non-reaction) toward everything that is occurring, even when hell-like conditions are raging around him, and as a result turns horrific conditions into showers of honey.

Comment: Non-reaction plus consecration to Mother will do the trick.

No Title

Maturity of any faculty is in its Silence. (Karmayogi)

No Title

Surrendering the sense of triumph, the ego is blunted. Surrendering the sense of accomplishment, it is better accomplished. (Karmayogi)

No Title

Expectation of results interferes with consecration. (Karmayogi)

No Title

- The initiated work must be followed inside only.
- Tend the work inside, nourish it and accomplish it there.
- He who seeks accomplishment must remain inside. (Karmayogi)

Unexpected Sales Development

We (two salespeople working together) recently had a marvelous sales life response. It was due to the following qualities all mixed together:

- Making the extra effort
- Doing something we ordinarily do not do
- Persistence and will
- Perceiving synchronicity with other events
- Really appreciating the contacts stunning outlet
- Taking to Silence by one of the salespeople
- Consecration (opening to the spiritual Force) at each point

As a result, one of the two owners of the high-end, multi-location restaurants suddenly appeared from out of nowhere in front of us and was very interested in wanting to learn of our service. We hadn't even solicited this gentleman. We had been interested in merely talking to one of the outlet managers, when the higher up appeared from out of the blue!

No Title

Spirituality is not confined to pursuit of the otherworldly or unattainable. It is a living power for the transformation of human consciousness and the solution to the compelling challenges confronting humanity. (MSS)

Spiritual Values and Fulfillment in Sales

At the most primitive level Sales is mere exchange, money for goods and services. It is to gain benefit as money, as physical or subtle goods and services. This is our most surface view of sales exchange.

However, there are higher values that seek to manifest in life. Maybe we can call them "spiritual values." In the sales exchange Life seeks not just money and goods, but Joy and Happiness for the parties and the world (consumers). This is one spiritual value or Idea.

Likewise, life seeks benefit that can bring greater Harmony and Oneness in the world. It even seeks to bring harmony in the sales exchange between the two sides. Ego is the opposite of this, with each side pulling in its own direction, creating division and conflict. It is seeking benefit for its own side alone in the sales exchange.

Thus we can see these spiritual values manifesting at two levels; in the sales process and for the society.

There are other spiritual values, Real Ideas that seek to manifest in the world, including the sales exchange, moving out to society. A critical one is Knowledge. Having the facts and skills to perfectly perform the exchange is one expression. Products and service that go out to consumers, society can follow, giving knowledge to them. Computer, smartphone, Internet services are examples of knowledge going to the society.

The same with the Real Idea of Silence. Eg we can consummate the sale through quietude and stillness, instead of wordiness or loud aggressive speech. After all the Spirit seeks for Silence to enter life, move it, and elicit results. Silence also allows us to be Silent Witness so we really know what is going on in the sales exchange. Silence too can spread to the world, as well as enter our nature and being. Eg calmness in all conditions are what the Spirit seeks.

Thus any of these Real Ideas can manifest in the exchange and go out in society, but they also enable the salesperson to grow - psychologically and spiritually.

Other spiritual values, Real Ideas are Creativity (eg new ways of doing things), Goodness (eg self-givingness, generosity of spirit, gratitude), Love (eg genuine affection), Timelessness (overcoming constraints of time) and Infinity (infinite results in the world). Each of these can manifest in the exchange, go out to society, and be integrated in the Being of the sales professional.

We can imagine how each of these might take shape in the sales process, and beyond.

No Title

In one sense we could say that our deepest purpose comes down to this: the degree to which we apply the Spirit to Life.

No Title

Withdraw Insistence, and your viewpoint will soon come about.

No Title

Moving to a higher level before one has saturated the current plane can prevent the higher level from manifesting, and can even undo or destroy what has been accomplished at the current plane.

No Title

In the story 'Pride and Prejudice' the atmosphere was generally positive, and so despite so many obstacles many were able to rise in life. In Shakespeare's play 'Othello,' the atmosphere was very negative, and so the smallest item (a handkerchief) led to the destruction of the main characters. Thus how life responds is dependent not only on our own attitudes and behaviors, but on the quality of the surrounding atmosphere.

What then is the atmosphere surrounding your work and its effect on your ability to accomplish? What can you do about it -- both outwardly, and especially inwardly - to improve things if negative; or improve them further if positive?

No Title

Its best to obtain praise when you are not looking for it.

No Title

If you worry about getting sick from others, fear-laden, illness-related information may start appearing from several directions.

No Title

If you wish that your preferred constituency alone achieves all of the successes, you may attract an over-abundance of riches that seriously tax your systems.

No Title

Fear attracts the object of fear.

No Title

A true Yogi is never bothered by circumstance, no matter how problematic; yet knows precisely what to do or not to do based on the conditions.

No Title

Rely not on your personal talents, but on Her infinite capacities.

No Title

Evoking Mother attracts rapid, unprecedented results; so don't let your mind get in the way.

No Title

Ongoing optimal Organization enables the repetitions to be perfect.

No Title

There is nothing the mind can do that cannot be better done in the mind's immobility and thought-free stillness. (Sri Aurobindo)

Sri Aurobindo Explains the Universal Mind, and How He Attained It

All developed mental men, those who get beyond the average, have in one way or other, or at least at certain times and for certain purposes to separate the two parts of the mind, the active part, which is a factory of thoughts and the quiet masterful part which is at once a Witness and a Will, observing them, judging, rejecting, eliminating, accepting, ordering corrections and changes, the Master in the House of Mind, capable of self-empire, samrajya.

The Yogi goes still further, – he is not only a master there but even while in mind in a way, he gets out of it as it were, and stands above or quite back from it and free. For him the image of the factory of thoughts is no longer quite valid; for he sees that thoughts come from outside, from the universal Mind, or universal Nature, sometimes formed and distinct, sometimes unformed and then they are given shape somewhere in us. The principal business of our mind is either a response of acceptance or a refusal to these thought waves (as also vital waves, subtle physical energy waves) or this giving a personal-mental form to thought-stuff (or vital movements) from the envioning Nature-Force.

It was my great debt to Lele that he showed me this. "Sit in meditation," he said, "but do not think, look only at your mind; you will see thoughts coming into it; before they can enter throw these away from your mind till your mind is capable of entire silence." I had never heard before of thoughts coming visibly into the mind from outside, but I did not think either of questioning the truth of the possibility, I simply sat down and did it. In a moment my mind became silent as a windless air on a high mountain summit and then I was one thought and then another coming in a concrete way from outside; I flung them away before they could enter and take hold of the brain and in three days I was free.

From that moment, in principle, the mental being in me became a free Intelligence, a universal Mind, not limited to the narrow circle of personal thoughts as a labourer in a thought factory, but a receiver of knowledge from all the hundred realms of being and free to choose what it willed in this vast sight-empire and thought-empire. (Sri Aurobindo)

Consciousness of Material Nature

As we progress and awaken to the soul in us and things, we shall realize that there is a consciousness also in the plant, in the metal, in the atom, in electricity, in everything that belongs to physical nature; we shall find even that it is not really in all respects a lower or more limited mode than the mental; on the contrary, it is in many "inanimate" forms more intense, rapid, poignant, though less evolved towards the surface. (Sri Aurobindo)

No Title

As soon as the mind falls silent, Truth rushes in.

No Title

At the point you break through your reluctance, there instantly arises a vast opening for your success.

No Title

Fear is fear of the Unknown, which is one expression of our fundamental Ignorance as humans. Controlling fear, including getting at its source, is an essential human obligation. Consecrating it is a shortcut to overcoming it.

No Title

Mother says that so long as nuclear weapons are readily available, they are bound to be used. Comment: Pakistan, India, Russia, US, China, North Korea, and Israel among others are each dangerous in their own ways. Eg a rogue individual, nationalist or terrorist obtaining weapon from any of them somehow, is bound to happen in some way as long as there are over 5000 nukes at large. The world is asleep on this issue - courting disaster.

Aligning with the Cosmic Governance

"A world of endless possibilities and infinite outcomes. Countless choices define our fate: each choice, each moment, a moment in the ripple of time. Enough ripple, and you change the tide..... for the future is never truly set." (from film X-Men, Days of Future Past)

Thinking about this - i.e. free will, our role in destiny, our power to change the world, etc. - from the spiritual point of view, we can say that there is an overall Cosmic Governance and determinism. Also, there is an individual governance (through the Psychic being) which has itself planted itself in our essence in order to acquire certain types of experiences. Also, at any time, our acts vary anywhere from lower consciousness (swabhava) to higher consciousness. When they reach a certain intensity, right atmosphere, it's time for life to respond.

Sometimes we may align consciously or unconsciously (or subconsciously) with the Cosmic Governance, Life would then respond in greater magnitude. As a result, we would grow and evolve faster than what we are now, and maybe we even could become the instrument of the Divine to bring forth His cosmic intention. Yet, as indicated in the film, the choices are infinite. We could align now, in the future, in the next birth, and so forth.

On the opposite side, the lower consciousness acts also when we reach a certain intensity causing life to respond negatively, resulting in Karmic Effect. Yet, they do serve a purpose as well -- i.e. for the Psychic to learn through those experiences through which it is seeking to learn and grow in Life.

In 'Pride and Prejudice,' the Cosmic Governance was to unify the class difference among the people to avoid revolutionary movement. The opportunity to align with it came to Darcy in the very beginning. He chose not to align by calling Eliza "tolerable". The result was a ripple of experiences, which gave greater lessons for his Psychic being. He was fortunate to learn them quickly, undoing the past and aligning with the cosmic movement, even becoming an instrument of it.

No Title

Then what is our Psychic seeking? And what is the Global Governance? Understanding Life Response, Observing the Synchronicity etc.. are the tools to guide us along in the ocean of infinite choices... (SM)

No Title

Truth is always experienced as joy, pleasure, bliss (Ananda). Being out of phase with Truth causes pain. It is Ignorance on the way to Integral Knowledge. That is the aim of yoga, which is conscious evolution.

Startling Explanation of Consecration from Partner Friend

A partner friend who I have slowly moved toward Karmayogi's view of things is experiencing one truth after another of Appa's in rapid succession through a work to the point that yesterday he explained Consecration from a level of depth I had never heard before. I sat there in mild shock as he suddenly became my teacher.

He explained that Consecration has the instant power to clear out all resistances, so that he can achieve the business goal. He then went on to explain that process in detail in terms of his very specific real recent experiences in sales.

I sat there in the garden of his home in astonishment and wonder as he explained. It was a seminal moment in our business relationship, but even more so in his own personal and spiritual growth in life.

Limits of Moving to a Higher Plane and Response of Life

Moving to a higher level before one has saturated the current plane can prevent the higher level from manifesting, and can even undo or destroy what has been accomplished at the current plane.

Eg if you are ambitious to get a corporate account when you haven't yet saturated your effort and accumulated a necessary solid group and foundation of local accounts, not only is it likely that your effort upward will be thwarted, but your limited success at the local level could be put in jeopardy.

On the other hand, if you make the full effort or otherwise saturate the effort and result at the current level, life tends to take over and take you directly to the threshold of that higher potential.

In both instances it is quite like movements in the game of 'Chutes and Ladders'.

No Title

The Subtle universe is the cause of the physical universe, and the destiny of the physical universe is to increasingly become Subtle

No Title

In any life situation there Is an opportunity to consider what is the deeper issue involved there, and what aspect of one's higher consciousness needs to come out.

No Title

When your emotions get caught up in a negative situation, you add fuel to the fire; only making things worse. That is why Non-Reaction as a life response strategy is so powerful; so helpful all around.

No Title

Every bother can be consecrated, clearing the way for quick life response results, as well as one's higher consciousness in that area in future.

No Title

When responding to another's comments, it is always best to begin with their interests and concerns, rather than one's own inputs or solutions. It takes a great deal of restraint on our part to take this tact, but it always attracts a better result in the conversation. It is also a sign of a cultured individual; even a person of higher consciousness.

Reader: Looks like it suits me sir. In the process of becoming higher consciousness,

No Title

I am witnessing my imperfection in the perfection evolutionary process.

No Title

When I am traveling towards that path I am making some noise, same noise helping me to go deeper and making me go silent.

Life taught me how contradictions can be complimentary.

On the contrary, same life teaching me that sometimes complimentary can also become contradictions. Able to understand Supramental View little bit.

Observing and analysis this thought process, it has given me harmonious result which helped me to understand Silent better than writing.

Soon I will go silent I think so when I understood what is real Supramental is... ?

No Title

The world and its people are now quite disturbed, as it cannot solve its problems within its current framework. However, this can change on the outside through greater cooperation among all sectors, peoples, nations (i.e. higher harmony); and inside each of us through the development of greater awareness, higher values, and other forms of higher consciousness.

Reader: As Sri Aurobindo says - Either Collective Evolution or Individual Revolution (Inner Revolution). Refer The Life Divine - Human Aspiration p4 p2 s1 for the original version.

For all Problems of existence are essentially problems of harmony - Sri Aurobindo (The Life Divine) P4P3S1.

No Title

When you perceive one or several truths in another's point of view that you persistently condemned or disagreed with in the past, you are taking a small step toward Supramental perception - ie Unity & Truth consciousness.

Reader: is this past consecration

Response: Past consecration is where you recall a negative of the past (and its cause) that is still adversely affecting you today and offer it to the Mother so its influence in the present gets dissolved. So the above statement is perhaps a kind of past consecration.

No Title

In slow motion the old world is crumbling, and a New World is being born.

No Title

Do what has to be done; every reluctance overcome.

Beingness & Life Response

One of the poises of the Supreme Consciousness is Silent Witness to the world. I.e. just observing its Creation; just "Being." We too can take that perspective through various inner methods, -- like Non-Reaction, Non-Blaming, and Silence of thought and action, -- each of which can attract sudden good fortune; i.e. the most positive conditions of life.

Focusing on Something Attracts More of It

Whatever you focus your heart or mind on, life immediately brings more of it in the form of additional information. Here are a few recent examples:

-A man was fully absorbed by a spectacular mural just painted of a famous musician, and instantly when he went into a restaurant that artists music was playing. The odds seemed 1,000 to 1 of that happening.

-A woman was very pleased by the soup she had just made, and when she resumed her novel, the first character she learned of had the same unusual name of the type of soup she just focused on. The odds of this seemed 10,000 to one.

This is perhaps the most common type of subtle phenomenon known in the world. It happens to each of many times a day, though we ordinarily fail to perceive it even once. However, a conscious individual will ordinarily experience it at least a few times a day.

As you develop a deeper poise within, you become far more aware of this startling singularity in your life. On the other hand, living on the surface, we will perceive nothing at all.

No Title

If good things come to you without any physical or mental effort on your part, it is an indicator of a rising consciousness.

Cleaning Up the Mess

Not reacting + making a "token effort" of a small thing one can do in difficult circumstance can work wonders, attracting great, positive results.

A neighbor left the garbage, the barbecue pit, the chairs, and various used foodstuffs spread out over a common grassy area after a family gathering several evenings earlier. It raised the hackles of the neighbors. However, two individuals practiced not reaction in the face of this difficult situation. Despite the intensity of the moment and the oblivious attitude of the woman, they maintained an equal poise throughout.

In addition, one of the two cleaned up a small area near their own home as best they could, without interfering with the main body of debris. Moreover, he took this token action with a still heart.

Shortly thereafter someone from out of the blue quietly and unexpectedly came in and cleaned up the entire mess!

It showed the double Life Response power of Non-Reaction and making a calm, small "Token Effort" to improve the situation.

No Title

Causality, - i.e. cause and effect, - determines the nature of space-time. The problem is that we do not know the subtle laws of causality, though life response phenomena reveals

No Title

To Mother: Our lives are increasingly consumed by You and Your Supramental Force.

No Title

Increasingly upon waking you will be given answers, solutions as your consciousness deepens.

Going Beyond Surface Conditions Attracts Surprising Sales Outcome

In yet another Sales exchange, we shifted the situation from a seemingly doubtful outcome to one of quite likely by taking to these inner strategies:

- We remained patient, yet focused
- We adjusted to the proprietor's schedule
- We were not bothered by the buyer's apparently irritated demeanor
- We were very prepared in our presentation.

At the end, an over-burdened, seemingly disinterested proprietor of several locations suddenly showed keen interest in our services. By not being caught up in the surface reality, Life responded positively all around. The shift in the buyer's demeanor, and therefore his interest was quite striking.

No Title

The rival who repeatedly condemns its adversary will continually attract bad fortune in its own domain. When it gives up that hostility, success will blossom before its eyes.

Comment: eg we often see this in sports.

Reader: Attempt of rival itself a non-progressive action unless they apply on themselves. If it is practiced in the respective field, yes indeed there is a toughest time ahead in the evolutionary process. Because Individual Prosperity is the first steps towards collective evolution. Isn't it...

No Title

Past consecration is where you recall a negative of the past (and its cause) that is still adversely affecting you today and offer it to the Mother so its influence in the present gets dissolved.

Restraint, Silent Will, and the Software Application

Silently willing something from another, yet not speaking it out, or being over-eager to present it, or being overly attached for others' acceptance, soon attracts the original intention, and then some.

A man developed a sophisticated program for his work group. He mentioned it once before, and it received a mild positive reaction the first time it was distributed to the team. Now he remained silent about further developments in the program. He held back from verbalizing to others the improvements he made. He was even reluctant to send the program out to others, holding back as much as possible, as he knew the life response power of restraint.

When he did send the new version, he expected little in return, but instead received a tremendous positive reaction from his work partner. By restraining one's self and practicing Silent Will - i.e. holding back verbalization of one's intent,- parties that were lukewarm or indifferent now come rushing to you with appreciation.

Higher Meaning of "Organization" in Society

The goals for society is for it to consciously evolve, instead of merely "happen," which is unconsciousness development, which is slow and painful. When society individually and collectively consciously develop its aspirations, skills, capacities, systems, activities, etc. society evolves quickly, which is Development, which is "Organization" in the highest sense of the term. Organization is thus Development is Progress/Evolution.

Comment: (this is an interpretation of Sri Aurobindo's and Karmayogi's view of what Organization is and how Society progresses)

What Organization is for the Individual

When a person consciously develops his aspirations, intentions, motives, goals, to dos, character, nature, consciousness, etc. he is in essence "Organizing" himself to a higher level. "Organization" is thus the means of growth and development for the individual. Greater Organization is greater progress.

No Title

A great attitude becomes a great mood. A great mood becomes a great day. A great day becomes a great year. A great year becomes a great life. (unknown author)

No Title

The higher and deeper the consciousness, the more likely we are to attract positive conditions. The lower and more surface the consciousness, the more likely we are to attract the opposite.

Carpet Cleaning Life Response

Think about an area of your home, office, etc. that has remained filthy or otherwise unattended to for a long while. Now clean it. Life will almost certainly respond with unexpected positive conditions soon after.

A man ordered a new table for his office. It was due between June 3rd and 10th. He had forgotten the matter completely. Then he noticed an area of carpeting that had become filthy over the last several months. While sitting nearby and observing its condition, he decided to clean that dirty patch. And so he got down on hands and knees and scrubbed away.

After making the effort, he got up and looked outside his front window. Within TWO MINUTES a FedEx truck pulled up in front of his house. It was the table he ordered, almost a week early! And not a few moments after making that exhaustive cleaning effort to clean an ignored filthy area of his home!

That is the "Life Response" power of cleanliness and orderliness in life. Miraculous-like conditions suddenly take shape before your eyes!

Following the Divine Flow of Events

There is an absolute, perfect flow of events that are continually unfolding that can lead anyone to ultimate achievement in life. When we are centered in our deepest depths and highest heights (i.e. Truth Consciousness, Supermind), we can much more easily apprehend that flow and follow it, which will rapidly take us to the pinnacles of success.

In this Divine-determined and influenced existence, we are able to perceive every sign, every right turn to be taken along the way; whereas in normal life we move here and there haphazardly on a long, often pain-filled road to achieve our goals.

Let us then deepen our center of awareness so we are in tune with these subtle cosmic-influenced unfoldings, and thereby continually evoke powerful positive response that will quickly enable us to realize our ultimate potential in life.

Consecration Brings Vision & Intuition that Instantly Resolves Problems

We know that Consecration, i.e. opening to the Mother's Divine Force, quickly sets right any negative condition. We could say it has a direct, miraculous-like effect on the PHYSICAL world. And yet Consecration also has the power to evoke knowledge and information from the spheres into our MInds through vision, intuition, and other higher spiritual/like MENTAL powers.

The other day a friend of mine lost the key for her car. Naturally she was a bit upset. When I learned of the fact, I hurriedly looked in various places for the key, including the car itself. Though I searched and searched, I found nothing.

During the next several hours we both consecrated the problem. In addition, my friend simply forgot the issue as a tactic to evoke positive response. Still after several hours nothing was resolved.

A little while later, when I had a bit more time, I then refocused on the matter. I too consecrated the issue. But then something astonishing took place. Suddenly I had a glimpse of my friend reaching into an area between the two front seats of the car to look for a recharging device. We noticed at that time that the cover was slightly soiled. Now suddenly a memory and a vision of that area suddenly appeared in my mind. And so it then occurred to me that the key could possibly be in that location.

So I went out to the car to examine that holding area between the seats. I dug my hand deep into the container. And voilà, there among a number of other items was the missing car key! I then presented it to my friend who was naturally very happy by this development.

What happen was that after the consecration a visual thought was simply planted in my mind; one that seemed to come from out of nowhere. We call that a vision or an intuition. It turns out that such a mental experience is one of the outcomes, (like setting right life conditions), of consecration. That is, via the consecrated act one moves to a higher plane of mind, where information and knowledge simply appear in one's consciousness without any thought at all. It thereby comes and provides the solution to any difficult problem!

No Title

"The real you is not a puppet which life pushes around. The real deep down YOU is the Whole Universe. ... You are something that the Whole Universe is doing, in the same way that a wave is something that the Whole Ocean is doing..." (Alan Watts)

No Title

There is the reality we encounter, and then there is our reaction to that reality. That is the nexus Moment of Truth; i.e. whether or not our higher consciousness will hold sway.

Interrelatedness of Truth, Falsehood, and Life Response

The base for falsehood/lies also is Truth. That is why when a person who uses falsehood/ lies against others, it affects the other person only as long as the other individual is clinging to a parallel falsehood/lies within himself.

And yet the falsehood/lies will bounce back (boomerang) to the person who uses it against other persons when he cannot do anything to prevent its response. In that respect the falsehood/lies reflects its origin "truth". That is Life Response. (Nedumaran Ramakrishnan)

Synchronous Negative Events

If you experience a negative outcome around you at the same time you see someone else's strident or questionable comments or other expression, it is best to not act or react to their statements, as it would only generate problems in future. It reminds us again that synchronous, parallel events are related, no matter how little they seem to have in common on the surface. From the true depths of our being we perceive that they are inexorably connected.

Thinking vs. Creative Thinking

Thinking is the activity by which mind associates, organizes, coordinates and integrates information, thoughts and ideas. Creative thinking is the process by which mind extends the boundaries of existing thought and knowledge to connect, reconcile and unify previously unconnected or contradictory perspectives. (World Academy)

On Understanding the Nature of Mind

Mind is humanity's highest developed instrument for seeking knowledge. It is an instrument with remarkable capabilities and characteristic limitations. It is ironic that we invest so little time in education and scientific endeavor trying to understand the nature of mental knowledge and the character of the mental processes by which we arrive at it. (World Academy)

Life Response Power of Withholding an Opinion

If you have a strong opinion about something that should happen, that is not in tune with popular belief, hold back from expressing it, and soon it will occur.

Eg let's say you have a keen insight about whether a particular player should play or another player should not, and you hold back from expressing it at a sports forum, you will see that precisely what you desire, that is not readily accepted at first, is soon adopted on its own. It's the power of that energy held back, that increases in power and draws, attracts those very conditions one desires from life.

No Title

Blood boiling usually indicates ignorance of the facts behind the situation.

No Title

Non-reaction toward the precipitator of an uncomfortable situation causes that person to more quickly leave the scene.

No Title

Since all thoughts come from the outside, not inside, we can pick and choose which ones to think about, including universal ones which can give insights into vast issues and problems.

Reader: I wish to embrace Universal Nothingness. It needs application of energy to embrace it, I think. In recent days, I am picking only what is necessary for my transformation.

No Title

Money coming unexpectedly, without its conscious calling, is Grace, is Supramental.

No Title

When you do the things you feared or put off, they are accomplished far more easily and speedily than you might have imagined - often dramatically so. Life has in essence responded with positive conditions to your elevation of consciousness.

No Title

Values are Spiritual Skills, while Attitudes are Psychological Skills. Values determine our level of Growth. Listen to the 'Power of Values' by Janani Harish on 15 July 2016 at GIIMS Campus 2 at Marine Drive Cochin, Kerala, India at 10 .00 AM.

No Title

When there is Absolute Stillness permeating the air during a contract signing, or when a solution to a problem comes, or other circumstance, it is a sure indicator of Mother's Presence in life.

No Title

The illegality of Guns in America will eventually take hold, an indicator of a movement out of her physical consciousness.

No Title

Most of our problems in life are due to our reliance on what we believe to be true compared to what the actual truth is.

Barrier Breakers of the World

"I saw them cross the twilight of an age,
The sun-eyed children of the marvelous dawn,
The great creators with wide brows of calm,

The massive barrier-breakers of the world
And wrestlers with destiny in her lists of will,
The laborers in the quarries of the gods,
The messengers of the Incommunicable,
The architects of immortality.
Into the fallen human sphere they came,
Faces that wore the Immortal's glory still,
Voices that communed still with the thoughts of God,
Bodies made beautiful by the Spirit's light,
Carrying the magic word, the mystic fire,
Carrying the Dionysian cup of joy,
Approaching eyes of a diviner man,
Lips chanting an unknown anthem of the soul,
Feet echoing in the corridors of Time."

(from the canto 'The Vision and the Boon' from the 25,000 line epic mystical poem 'Savitri' by Sri Aurobindo)

No Title

Consciousness is previous to and the cause of Life, and reemerges in Life through our progress and Evolution.

No Title

Mother asks devotees to give up association with Gods, who are beings of the overmental plane, and instead surrender to Her, the divine shakti, expressing Truth consciousness of the greater Supramental plane.

No Title

"The internet has altered global culture almost beyond recognition."

No Title

As soon as you fret about money, negative experiences tend to occur that increase your expense. On the other hand, overcoming such feelings brings positive results, including conditions that reduce cost.

Angels in the Architecture

(synchronistic life response)

It was reported in the news that during the playing of his famous song 'The Boxer', Paul Simon interrupted the performance to give homage to the sudden passing of Muhammed Ali, the world famous boxer and global personality.

If indeed Simon found out about this development during or just before the playing of the song, it would be a startling synchronicity. It turns out that Simon continued on with the performance and sang the final verse of the song, which almost exactly describes Ali's life (And his death), even though the tune was written forty years ago!

"In the clearing stands a boxer, and a fighter by his trade
And he carries the reminders of ev'ry glove that laid him down
And cut him till he cried out In his anger and his shame,
"I am leaving, I am leaving." But the fighter still remains"

Well it also turns out that ever since I read about that "coincidence," Paul Simon synchronicities have been happening to me one after another.

Eg as I walked about with a business partner in downtown Long Beach, CA I noticed the design of the old historical buildings. As a result, I remembered and started chanting to myself the lines "He sees Angels in the Architecture, Spinning in Infinity," (from 'You Can Call Me All') by Simon. Then when we walked in the first restaurant where we were performing our sales duties a Paul Simon song suddenly came on the speaker. Then I went into another restaurant, and it happened again! There was Simon's voice on yet another tune.

And so at this point I knew from experience that this dynamic could keep repeating. Eg a long lost letter could now suddenly fall out of a drawer with Paul Simon lyrics, or a truck could go by saying "Simon Furniture" as soon as I walked out into the sunshine. Etc. etc. But now I said to myself something along the lines of "Oh God no more, no more iterations from the surroundings; I have to concentrate on my work!"

That's the power of concentrating on a particular subject matter: Life quickly sends you more information, more content on that very same matter. I have experienced it hundreds, if not thousands of times over the years. In fact, such synchronicities are perhaps the most common form of Life Response event one can experience.

In addition, if I'm the incident the Simon-Ali sync was really that auspicious, then descents from the realm of information would have become universal-like, and thus perpetual in nature. It would mean the potential for an endless stream of the miraculous from the same source event for many individuals throughout the world.

No Title

Life is divided, but we are engaged in the monumental yogic effort to make it Whole.

Comment: We engage in that evolutionary process by elevating our consciousness, and bringing Mother into all aspects of our lives.

Perfect Parking Space

(life response power of taking a fresh approach)

We are creatures of habit. However, when we break the habit and try something different, creative, new, life can suddenly open up with unexpected good fortune.

A salesperson was trying to introduce one of his accounts to another junior sales rep, so the latter could take over the account. However, each time they went to the facility, they had trouble making contact. One time the owner wasn't in. A second time, the facility was closed. A third time they did not have loose change for the parking meters. And so forth, for about half dozen iterations.

The senior rep was thinking about giving up on the idea of meeting with the account for now. However, the junior sales representative had the thought that they could try a different approach. Rather than park out front where the meters were, they could park around the block somewhere where metered change was not required.

So they drove over to the facility one more time, not expecting any particular result. When they arrived, they noticed that there was an unmetered space, right at the corner of the restaurant! A better space could not have been found! They then got out of the car, went inside, and met with the General Manager of the restaurant, to whom the junior rep was introduced.

Because they tried a different way, a different strategy, life responded and provided an unexpected space DIRECTLY IN FRONT of the facility. A better situation could not have been created! That is the power of giving up one's habit or routine, and doing things a different way. Life opens up in most unexpected and helpful ways!

With that in mind, consider what activities are you repeating that are not getting the desired results, or are keeping you in the same place, preventing you from moving forward. What other ways, approaches, ideas, etc. can be brought to bear to change the situation? If you try out a new way, you may be stunned by the way life quickly responds!

No Title

The most creative, innovative, breakthrough thinking occurs when our mind falls Silent.

No Title

Artificial intelligence can only be truly effective when the subtle laws of Life Response are known and programmed in.

Evoking Progress On Many Fronts Simultaneously

One of the great principles of Life as espoused by Sri Aurobindo and expanded on by Karmayogi is how Nature works on many fronts simultaneously in the evolutionary process.

Eg in the recent mass shooting in Orlando, Florida, we see issues that touch on 1. Mental illness in the country and how it expresses. 2. Spousal abuse. 3. Severe anger issues (what creates it) 4. The settlement of immigrants. 5. The taking to religious fanaticism (reasons for). 6. The readily availability of guns in the country. 7. The holes in the FBI's pursuit of potential terrorists. And so on and so forth.

Likewise, we can see that problematic issues in our own lives touch on many issues simultaneously, when we see it in relationship to issues involving various aspects of ourselves, to issues involving others connected in those circumstances, to the wider social context, etc. etc. In this way, Nature works on many fronts at once to further progress in its course towards increasing higher consciousness and human development.

(Another example: In Jane Austen's 'Pride and Prejudice' 10 interrelated people are simultaneously dealing with and overcoming their own individual as well as their associative collective problems. It is a slow, and in many ways, a torturous process)

And yet that (Nature's Way) is a slow and painful process, involving many parties at any nexus point. Fortunately, we have the power of Consecration and other higher consciousness means to not only rectify the situation but also resolve all related situations both instantaneously and simultaneously. This supramental power takes us to the frontier of consciousness giving us an enormous power to resolve all interconnected problems at once if only we so choose to use it.

This is key to furthering the evolution; to turning division and conflict in Life into harmony and progress: not through Nature's difficult ways but through the Divine Power of Creation that is available to us through our higher consciousness, including the Divine Mother and Her Supramental Force.

No Title

The fact is that others see situations and circumstance from perspectives that we completely miss, even though we hold on like a bulldog to the limited view we have.

No Title

If you do the right thing at every step, including those things you are reluctant to do, life will continually respond in your favor.

Reader: In Life, the very important and unanswered question of all time is, is there something called right or wrong? or it is for understanding purpose ?

Response: At a variety of moments in the course of one's day, of a project, etc. there are decisions to be made. These can be thought of as crossroad decision points.

That which enhances positive result, helpfulness, goodness, truth, equality of being, strength, right attitude, etc. etc. is the direction to take at each point, instead of the opposite. Life will respond positively as a result.

If you have the subtle sense you can always tell which way to go, which action to take. The deeper one's consciousness, the better the decision making. The more you are self-aware of your own nature, positive and negative qualities, the more you will be able to choose in the right direction in any given moment in time.

All of this can come under the heading of Truth. I.e. being aware of the Truth of your being, the Truth of the situation and the Truth of what is best. Higher consciousness all around in ones being puts one in touch with such unfolding Truth.

If you practice Karamyogi's key methods - from consecration to non-reaction to taking the other person's point of view to self-givingness, you will be more in touch with the Truth and will increasingly be able to make the right decision, which is in essence the difference between wrong and right.

No Title

When another person steps forward and admits his deficiency of consciousness and wishes now to change, there is a very good chance that it parallels and brings out a similar deficiency that you too are making efforts to overcome.

Unexpected Relations through Mother

-Mother (i.e. Consecration) turns individuals who were utterly at odds with one another into comrades and friends.

-Mother creates out of negative associations positive relations that are utterly unexpected, even startling.

-Mother moves life in directions that far exceed our expectations, leaving us both ecstatic and dumbfounded.

Reacting to Money Concerns and the Response of Life

As soon as you fret about money matters, additional negative circumstance tend to occur that increase your expense. On the other hand, overcoming such feelings and remaining cheerful brings positive results, including conditions that reduce cost.

A woman started fretting about her money situation, Within one minute she discovered a new expense that had not been there before. If she had remained calm in the face of money concern, good things would happen, such as a cost now suddenly discovered to have gone down, or a new or expanded source of income now coming in.

No Title

A hostile partnership against you will split apart if you consecrate and practice non-reaction.

Movie Time Distortions and Subtle Laws of Life

Even when there are artificial time distortions created by writers, authors, directors in film and literature -- as in science fiction, fantasy, and the like -- they still are able to present the underlying life principles that in essence resolve the contradiction of time they have created. It is because the subtle life laws are subconsciously (not consciously) understood and therefore presented by these creators to their audience. That is one reason why, despite its often artificiality, it can still hold our interest.

Choosing in the Right Direction to Make Life Respond

At a variety of moments in the course of one's day, of a project, etc. there are decisions to be made. These can be thought of as crossroad decision points.

That which enhances positive result, helpfulness, goodness, truth, equality of being, calm, strength, right attitude, effort, higher values, etc. etc. is the direction to take at each point, instead of the opposite. Life will respond positively as a result.

If you have the subtle sense you can always tell which way to go, which action to take. The deeper one's consciousness, the better the decision making. The more you are self-aware of your own nature, your positive and negative qualities, the more you will be able to choose in the right direction in any given moment in time.

All of this can come under the heading of "Truth." I.e. being aware of the Truth of your being, the Truth of the situation and the Truth of what is best. Higher consciousness all around in one's nature puts one in touch with such unfolding Truth.

If you practice Karamyogi's key methods - from consecration to non-reaction to taking the other person's point of view to self-givingness, you will be more in touch with the Truth and will increasingly be able to make the right decision, which is in essence the difference between wrong and right.

Life Response Power of "Forgetting"

When there are several simultaneous intense difficulties going on at once, it is often the best approach to disassociate yourself from ALL of them and do something else, which will allow all issues to work themselves out on their own, often for the best.

One man found himself right in the midst of a hurricane of two simultaneous difficult situations. Each one would normally occupy one's full attention and stir up the emotions. However, this individual decided to put everything aside, - lock the doors, turn away from his computer, - and have his lunch instead. He also offered the entire matter to the higher power and decided to forget about it completely. An hour so later, he found out that both problems had been resolved on their own much to his satisfaction.

Thus "forgetting" the situation and putting your focus elsewhere, while offering the entire situation to the Spirit, can often be the best remedy to intense situations that are trying to work themselves out.

No Title

Mother solves problems through Life that cannot be solved by Life itself.

No Title

Mother's solutions are infinitely creative.

No Title

Reader: A happy beginning

A good continuation

And no end

An endless progression

- MOTHER

No Title

Best not to imagine negatives; only positives or nothing at all.

Negatives as Life Response Opportunities

Each small negative reveals an opportunity that when understood and acted upon can attract positive conditions.

A man carelessly let a large cooking utensil fall from its location. It revealed that the location was filthy. Now he had the opportunity to clean that area. And we know when we take to higher levels of cleanliness, positive things happen - such as unexpected additional work or opportunity coming in; more money, etc.

In this way, every negative in your life can become a golden opportunity to attract success if perceived in the right light.

No Title

The movement of the UK out of the EU is a moment of Darkness in the world, one that can ironically eventually lead to a greater Truth and Light expressing as greater Unity, which is opposite of the current wave of the Exiters.

Solving the acute problems in the world can only come about by greater cooperation and coordination -- not nations pulling their separate ways -- which leads to greater harmony in society, setting the stage for human evolution and a divine life on earth.

No Title

Karmayogi via Garry Jacobs and the World Academy of Arts and Science (WAAS) have come up with the answers to the major social and economic problems in the world. A New Paradigm that is a Human-centered Economics is one starting point. A modicum of World Governance where nations can work together through a common legislative process to solve problems is another.

No Title

The economic problems facing the world - such as wage stagnation and radically skewed wealth in the world, revealed by the financial crisis brought on by speculative greed,-- are example of the weakness of the money-centered economics of capitalism. A new economics with the Human Being at the center of life must take its place.

Comment: The recent exist of the UK from the EU, indicates that reactionary forces are taking up the solutions to the economic limitations of the current system. They rightfully acknowledge the problems, but bring solutions that can only exacerbate it. In fact, theirs are the very forces that accelerated economic pain in the world in the last twenty years, through their advocacy of laissez-faire, unregulated capitalism, which almost completely collapsed the system in 2008.

No Title

Optimists turn challenges into opportunities.

No Title

A life consecrated to the Divine is the only life worth living. (The Mother)

No Title

You must rise high enough in your consciousness so as to be above contradictions. That is the solution. (The Mother)

Comment: There are so many contradictions, divisions, conflicts, etc. we have within ourselves, with others, with life. To raise our consciousness so that these contradictions are resolved and turned into harmonies is the moment-to-moment secret goal Life aspires for you.

No Title

You know, the creation is the result of division; but that creation has to become Unity in order to become divine again. (The Mother)

Comment: Creation was/is an increasing Dividing process from Oneness of Spirit to Mind to Energy divided all the way down to the atomic level of Matter. This is the Involutionary process of division for the sake of enabling Creation. It is the movement from the Divine to atomic existence.

However, Life on earth is a movement back up from infinitely divisible physical matter to animated Life to Mind to Spirit through forms, including us. It is the Evolutionary process from division to Oneness.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo had the deepest, most profound insights into the nature of Reality of any individual who has ever lived.

No Title

It is a key aspect of Sri Aurobindo's integral yoga (and the future of the race) that we develop a super intuition, a supra-mental capacity that continually sees into the Truth of things.

No Title

Surrendering to the shakti, the divine Mother and Her Force is not only the means of transforming our own lives, but is also the means of evolving the World around us. These are in fact the dual movements of our being required by Sri Aurobindo's Integral Yoga.

No Title

To truly understand current events and history, try to imagine the Higher development and Intent that is trying to work itself out, and how circumstance -- whether problematic or fortuitous -- are always secretly aligned to that cosmic Interest.

No Title

A free economic system becomes destructive when it only truly satisfies the needs of the few.

No Title

Equality is the perfect complement of freedom. Without the former, the latter becomes destructive.

No Title

Unbridled financial transactions are as potentially as dangerous as nuclear war in its material impact. The 2008 Financial crisis that almost brought down the world economy in 24 hours - - by greedy individuals through super-rapid speculative trading of financial instruments -- is but a processor of what could increasingly occur in the future.

On the other hand, the Human Individual placed at the center of economic life can become the new value and standard. A "Human-Centered economics" -- not the current money driven approach -- can become the New Paradigm of social existence.

Consecrating One's Life to the Divine and Speed of Its Realization

When someone has decided to consecrate his life to the seeking for the Divine, if he is sincere, that is to say, if the resolution is sincere and carried out sincerely, there is absolutely nothing to fear, because all that happens or will happen to him will lead him by the shortest way to this realisation.

That is the response of the Grace. People believe that the Grace means making everything smooth for all your life. It is not true.

The Grace works for the realisation of your aspiration and everything is arranged to gain the most prompt, the quickest realisation -- so there is nothing to fear.

Fear comes with insincerity. If you want a comfortable life, agreeable circumstances, etc., you are putting conditions and restrictions, and then you can fear.

But it has no business in the sadhana! (The Mother, from Mother's Agenda, May 26, 1967)

No Title

The destabilizing leaving of UK from EU is an indicator that the world need to come closer together, not further apart. This will serve to further human unity and help make way for the emergence of the Spiritual Individual and eventually a Divine Life on Earth.

No Title

From the perspective of the Supramental consciousness, all the clash and conflict that is taking place in our lives and in the world is a means by which a higher Harmony is trying to emerge.

No Title

The Supramental being always knows exactly what to do in every situation since he is in identity with the Truth of all things, including the truth of what is unfolding.

No Title

We each see things from the limitation of our individual viewpoint, not from the view of all perspectives, which is Supramental.

No Title

Where the average person perceives contradiction and conflict and duality, the gnostic (Supramental) being perceives complementarity on the way to a higher harmony.

No Title

In his consciousness, the gnostic (Supramental) individual regards all beings as beings of his own self. Thus, he has a spontaneous sympathy with all others he encounters in life. As a result, there would be no contradiction or strife between one's own good and the good of others. One would do and work for and dedicate one's self to the well-being of others as much as one's self.

Perceiving Conflict as Opportunity in 'You've Got Mail'

It is one profound observation that things happen in Life in order to make us evolve. Sometimes it comes to us as a bitter lesson, but behind this apparent difficulty there contains an Opportunity, which comes to us as Fortune or Grace. However, in order for these positive developments to come about we need to move in harmony with life and change our consciousness, especially our attitudes along the way. As a result, life will Respond and miraculous events will unfold.

In the movie 'You've Got Mail' Kathleen's "Shop Around the Corner" bookstore was threatened by the opening of a new much bigger store and chain, Fox Books. Though she had a very positive and cheerful disposition that nothing untoward would happen, eventually she had to shut down the store due to the competition after it had served the community for 42 years. It was devastating moment in Kathleen's life.

However, after a while she accepted what life had put forth before her. She even visited the competing and dominating Fox Books herself and discovered that it was indeed big, had cheaper prices, and realized that people did like it there. Yet she also perceived that what lacking was the personal touch including a lack of service.

Most interestingly, we see that as she moved on from being store proprietor, a new opportunity opened up for her to become a writer.

Meanwhile during that period, she was also in communication with an anonymous Internet friend. In a startling turn of events, it turned out to be Joe Fox himself, the owner of the competing book chain.

In an earlier scene, she accused him of spying her bookstore. But then she felt bad that she should not have said such things, even if that was true. It was at that point that her change in consciousness aligned with Joe Fox's consciousness who began to show genuine interest in her. Eventually they became friends, in contrast to their being bitter enemies in the beginning. In the end, she was so happy when she discovered that indeed Joe was the internet friend and as a result would now become her life partner.

As we see in this situation, the surface occurrences at the beginning appeared dark and threatening. But the Reality's bigger picture was to-

--elevate her from her current contentment of shop girl to new career of being a writer.

--simultaneously enable her romantic life flourish, enabling her growth and personal fulfillment

--elevate Fox Book Store to a higher level of customer service through her innovative strategies

In the end, what seemed stressful and conflictive was actually an unfolding of Opportunities through a Cosmic Plan that addressed the truths of all parties those aligned with It. (SM)

Key Human Behaviors That Attract Sudden Good Fortune (Life Response)

- Be positive, optimistic, and cheerful
- Give up a wanting attitude or belief
- Shun negative feelings toward others
- Stop negative attitudes towards life
- Turn negative emotions positive
- Try to make any situation better
- Choose what is positive and helpful
- Make a decision about something
- Take the necessary physical action
- Embrace what life has put before you
- Overcome any reluctance you have
- Feel deep enthusiasm in your work
- Make the full exhaustive effort
- Don't blame others
- Don't complain about others
- Don't react to others' intensities
- Take responsibility for a situation
- Increase cleanliness & orderliness
- Systematize an activity
- Organize facts into ideas
- Maximize the use of a resource
- Pay all your debts; collect money's due
- Circulate money, don't hoard it
- Give people/objects more attention
- Commune with the essence of objects
- Shift your focus to others
- Be selfless and self-giving
- Show gratitude to others, life
- Send others good will
- Forgive others when wronged
- Take to greater psychological strength
- Hold back a thought so others speak it
- Talk less; and in a low, soft voice
- Take the other person's point of view
- Eliminate thinking in intense situations
- Move from agitation to stillness
- Be calm and equal when problems arise
- See negatives as positives in disguise

- Hold back initiating; wait for life's signals
- Execute an activity perfectly
- Open to the spiritual Force
- Really aspire for something to happen
- Plan, implement, and execute a goal
- Focus on what should be accomplished
- Embrace the truth of things, not shun it
- Forget a problem, not dwell on it
- Change a long-standing negative habit
- Apply higher values in every work you do
- See difficulties as opportunities
- See the outer as reflection of your inner
- Choose the higher consciousness direction
- Shift out of lying, deception, dishonesty
- Stop any form of ill-will toward others
- Take every small detail seriously
- Believe infinite can break out of any finite
- Go the extra mile; make the extra effort
- Give up the trivial for what is important
- Withhold opinions
- Don't celebrate prematurely
- Don't over-anticipate a positive outcome
- Avoid sarcasm and cynicism
- Withhold ego movements of all kind
- Listen first, then talk]
- Review past negatives & offer it to the Spirit
- Embrace the many-sided truth of things
- Don't insist; move life from within

"Inner Selling" That Attracts Ultimate Sales Results

Ours entire Sales approach is predicated on a single principle: "the Inner moves the outer." This means the capacity to evoke great results through minimal outer effort, yet significant inner, higher consciousness means.

The methods to implement this powerful sales approach are varied, and include-

- Consecrating every sales act - whether making a presentation, sending a follow up letter, etc. This is the single great key.
- Observing the signs around us to know what to do and what not to do.
- Eliminating all negative attitudes - whether towards others, towards work, or towards life.
- Being fully organized at all levels. That includes cleanliness, orderliness, systemization, etc.
- Focusing our Intention in the extreme
- Willingness to go the extra mile
- Reduced speaking, and wherever possible, a silent mind
- Always being agreeable. Constantly taking the other persons point of view.

Each of these, whether perceived as practical or not, have a vast capacity to quickly attract dramatic sales results.

Generosity & Outflow of Funds Attracts

Over the years we have seen that shifting from tightness to generosity towards a deserved party instantly attracts a doubling or more of funds.

Eg over time a man came into substantial income due to his diligence and hard work. On receiving a portion of those funds, this often tight-fisted individual made a generous contribution to his partner.

As it turned out, within five minutes of that act, he was contacted by his agent that he now had new work that would earn triple the contribution he made to his friend.

It was also a lesson that when we allow money to circulate and outflow as it should, avoiding hoarding, it accelerates the inflow.

No Title

The one thing we are sure to do every week is express our EGO in a hundred different ways.

Reader: True words Sir... May be can say that every day. It is 100% true.

Response: Yes, and each Ego movement attracts a quick negative response from life.

Reader: How to detect if it is an ego movement or not?

Response: -There are dozens, even hundreds of ways we express our ego. It is just a matter of stopping to examine what we are thinking, feeling, and doing at any moment in time, identify it, and halt that ego-oriented behavior.

-What is Ego? Ego is where you position yourself at the center of life, and through your negative inner and outer behavior separate yourself from the concerns of others and the world.

-Eg in Jane Austin's novel 'Pride and Prejudice' we see many examples:

--Darcy feels proud and above the people who are in a class below him

--Wickham takes actions that are selfish and harmful to others, such as his elopements with Lydia and even Darcy's young sister

--Eliza's pride is hurt when Wickham does not show up at the ball because she is in love with him

--Mr. Collins boasts about his association with the rich and aristocratic Lady Catherine.

--Lady Catherine tries to interfere in the relationship between her nephew Darcy and Eliza Bennet, which are really none of her business.

-Lydia acts wildly without concern of the harmful effect on others.--Mr. Bennet continuously mocks his difficult wife, and boasts how he can remain in the library apart from his silly children

--Mrs. Bennet is perpetually petulant and self-absorbed, not caring what others think or feel.

--And so forth

In the course of our own day, we too take actions that are insensitive to others; that are foolish, ignorant, spiteful, vindictive, hostile, conflictive, reactive, argumentative, overly assertive, demanding, cynical, sarcastic, mocking, mistrustful, dismissive, insufferable, unwilling, unresponsive, uncaring, indifferent, petulant, irritable, reactive, cantankerous, prideful, prejudicial, bullying, dominating, interfering, destructive, disdainful, selfish, shameless, deceitful, dishonest, underhanded, interrupting, self-pitying, self-loathing, self-absorbed, and others. They are each expressions of Ego.

And yet at any moment in time we can catch ourselves and consider if we acting in any of these ways, and then halt it in its tracks. We can also Consecrate that negative ego-oriented behavior so it will occur less often or not at all in future.

The key is whether we are sincere about making such changes, or whether it is subject of mere passing fancy.

Note that people who practice yoga (conscious evolution) or similar are constantly watching out for, vigilant of such separative EGO-oriented inner and outer behaviors.

When you realize that a good deal of what we do in the course of our day are expressions of EGO, then you understand that there is a lot of work for us to do!

However, we can begin today, from where we are, and examine our thoughts and feelings at any moment, and cleanse ourselves of any EGO movement we are expressing. And when we do, Life will quickly respond in our favor!

Reader: Sir, thanks so much for taking out the time to write this response. It is very helpful.

No Title

People readily blame their governments, and often rightly so. Yet can anything compare to the ignorance and stupidity of the people themselves?

No Title

If you can't resolve the contradiction or conflict with someone or some thing outwardly, you can do it Inwardly, through even more subtle forms of higher consciousness.

No Title

By being fully aware of, yet Not Reacting to the negative behaviors of others, it releases positive energies that go out and create pressing conditions compelling that troubled person to change.

Startling Life Response Story of Indian Actress

(how seeking the Truth attracts; opening the doors to infinite-like results)

Truth is the real reality, as opposed to what we believe or wish things to be. And one interesting aspect of Truth is that when we take to it, instead of accepting the limited knowledge we have, extraordinary things can suddenly take place.

A woman was married to a ruthless Indian landlord. He not only abused his wife but he carried on an affair with a famous Indian musical actress. One day the wife asked her assistant to find out what this actress was like. The assistant went to see the actress's performance, and then reported back to the wife that she was rather ordinary looking, and could not act or sing very well. Though the wife listened attentively to her assistant's words, she was skeptical about the report. And so she herself went to the performance to see what the actress was really like. In her heart and mind, she needed to know the truth.

When she arrived on the scene, she was taken in by the bright lights and colors outside the theater. And then when the performance began she was less concerned about the beauty and talent of the actress her husband was having an affair with (and bankrolling the production), as she was by the magic of the musical theater. She was dazzled by this new reality - overwhelmed by the action, the dialogue, the color, sweep, music, etc.

The wife then moved out of her husband's place and was not heard from again. Meanwhile, the husband and the actress continued their relationship. More than the affair, it turns out that the actress really wanted the husband to bankroll a great new epic story she could star in. However, the part never came her way.

A few months later the actress was browsing the newspaper and learned that a dazzling new actress had performed in this new play, and she received rave reviews. Now the actress wanted to know who this woman was; and so she travelled to Calcutta to find out. When she arrived in the theater she was stunned to see that this new great actress was in fact the former wife of her boyfriend! She was started and overwhelmed to discover that this abused wife was now at the top of her field!

As we see, when the wife made the effort to discover the Truth of things, rather than stay with her limited view, she had an overwhelming experience at the theater, that compelled her to take it up as a career, and was then rapidly catapulted to the top of her field. That is the Life Response power of seeking Truth. The doors of Infinity are suddenly opened wide!

(by Roy Posner, based on TV series 'Stories by Rabindranath Tagore')

Life Response Power of Intuition

Intuition of information saves vast amounts of time as the answer, solution, direction, knowledge, etc. directly enters the mind without thought.

Being a spiritual capacity of Mind it has power to overcome the limits of space and time, while attracting infinite-like results. It is thus a powerful means of evoking "Life Response" results; i.e. onset of sudden good fortune.

Eg a man had the intuitive descent into his mind and therefore the compulsion to review a particular book, which gave him some of the most powerful examples for the research he was he was doing. Otherwise, he would have had to go through many other books to find the types of information and insights he was after.

PS. If you consecrate life activities to the spiritual Force, keep your mind as Silent as possible, and center the consciousness more deeply within, sudden descents of intuitions of knowledge directly into the mind without thought will occur more often.

No Title

In our discussions with others, let us aspire for the many-sided Truth to come out, while leaving our fixed opinions, supported by an intractable Ego behind.

No Title

One great spiritual question is "at what level of Depth do we wish to live our lives?"

No Title

We don't readily see that difficulties make us stronger, give us greater wherewithal and capacity, and more essential knowledge and wisdom for the future.

No Title

We've inherited the power to create infinitely in our own lives from the Infinite Creator.

Attracting Simultaneous Multi-Pronged Waves of Negativity

A wave of negativity (such as anger) or positivity (such as goodwill) can be directed toward you from several parties simultaneously though those individuals do not know one another nor have they ever been in contact. Something in you or some action you took awakened and attracted that general wave that then comes in specific form from each party.

Eg three individuals living far apart, with no connection to one another suddenly get angry at you for a variety of reasons after you have had a discussion with one of them on a controversial topic that causes him to become furious.

This indicates anger and similar intense emotions and sensations spread like a wave, and can be simultaneously picked up and recommunicated by multiple parties, though they each express it in terms of completely different issues.

Reader: The relation is possibly in the quantum level, like in the case of "ghost" relationships between quantum particles that have overt connection in time/space.

No Title

When intense anguish or anger is being expressed by a number of individuals, it is best to withdraw your direct involvement and interest, and remain calm. Otherwise you may simultaneously attract similar-type negative conditions and reactions from other sources that on the surface seem unrelated, but in the depths inexorably are.

No Title

From the highest Consciousness, there is nothing and no one to blame.

Comment: (i.e. all is as it needs to be)

No Title

From the perspective of the Reality, everything serves a purpose in creation. For the supramental individual, marriage, family, children, career, property, possessions, even romantic love fade into the background of necessity compared to experiencing oneness with others and life, inner and outer freedom, true individuality, deep knowledge and wisdom, joy and delight of being (bliss), soul to soul connection, communion with the spirit, and surrender to the will of the divine Force.

No Title

Each of your adversaries present another way for you to grow.

No Title

Best not to express an opposing opinion around an angry person, as he is likely to vehemently turn it against you. Plus other negative conditions are likely to suddenly present themselves out of nowhere. The best position then is to be calm and equal, to not react to one who is filled with anger.

No Title

There are many uncouth people in the world. Through their unconsciousness, Nature secretly seeks to make good people even better.

No Title

A person who lives outside of normal life can actually be the individual who truly lives Inside it.

No Title

In a tragic outcome, one can see how every side contributed.

No Title

The first thing to do when you are frustrated trying to solve a problem or accomplish a goal is to rid one's self of the frustration. That shift in attitude will help bring about the best of outcomes.

No Title

Stillness attracts action that has accomplished.

Source & Purpose of Evil in the World

To bring some clarity about the nature of Evil, including Evil's source, as well as its solution, I am quoting below from my summation of the chapter 'The Origin and Remedy of Falsehood, Error, Wrong and Evil' from Sri Aurobindo's metaphysical opus 'The Life Divine.'

"In this very interesting chapter, Sri Aurobindo begins by addressing the issue of good and evil. The first and surprising claim he makes is that good and evil serve a purpose in evolutionary Intention behind things. He then goes on to explain how good can come out of evil, and evil out of good. Moreover, we should keep in mind that our notion of what is good and what is evil keeps changing as we and society changes.

Sri Aurobindo then shifts and focuses on the roots of evil. He says it is not inherent in the Absolute, Brahman, or Satchitananda, rather it occurs at the occult planes that emerge below Supermind. That in the supraphysical realms there are personalities, powers, and forces that are titanic and daemonic. And that the intention of these powers of Darkness and Evil seek to prolong the Ignorance and Inconscience in creation.

Sri Aurobindo goes on to say that Man has become an instrument of these supraphysical good and evil energies and forces, incarnating them in the world.

Sri Aurobindo then focuses on how evil came to express in our own human nature. To do that he diverges and focuses on how mind came to be in the first place; in particular, how the surface consciousness and thinking intelligence came to be. And yet despite its positive effect, the human intelligence is also filled with human error, contributing to our essential Ignorance.

In perhaps the key to that chapter Sri Aurobindo indicates that falsehood and evil takes root in our vitalized mind of desire and sensation; in the most surface mental and vital consciousness. Thus, our beliefs and opinion take shape as a part knowledge that suits our lower nature and the inputs of our senses. It is in essence the Ego asserting itself at the level of Mind. This is where evil establishes itself in Man.

Sri Aurobindo then goes on to explain in detail how Ego appears in the three increasingly dark aspects of our being -- Ignorance, Falsehood, and Evil. Interestingly he goes on to explain the utility of ego in the wider scheme of things. That Ego is the first necessary means by which we distinguish ourselves from others and the mass. Otherwise, we would not have a unique identity, a sense of our own existence.

Sri Aurobindo then concludes that to overcome Ignorance, Falsehood and Evil, we must overcome the influence of Ego, which can occur by replacing the outer, life-personality with the inner or true vital being, which is the subliminal and psychic entity/the soul within."

No Title

If a negative situation is observed, don't go on restating it, especially with intensity, or even in jest. Otherwise, it will quickly start repeating itself in new, unexpected forms.

Pet Food Bowl

In making the journey from blaming others to non-blame, the helpful Truth suddenly reveals itself.

Eq a man wanted to blame his spouse for a missing pet food bowl. He caught his wrong attitude, and then carried on with other matters. A moment later, he discovered the missing bowl in the fridge, indicating that no blame was deserved, plus now the missing item had revealed itself!

The Essence of Love is Unconditional

"love ... is unconditioned: it doesn't depend on whether you are loved or not, whether you are intelligent or not, whether you are wicked or not...

But it goes without saying, love is unconditioned, otherwise it isn't love, it's what I call bargaining: "I give you my affection so you give me yours; I am nice to you so you are nice to me"! That's how people understand it, but it's stupid, it's meaningless.

That's something I understood when I was quite small, I used to say, "No! You may wish others to be nice to you if you are nice to them, but that has nothing to do with love, no, nothing, absolutely nothing." The very essence of love is unconditioned."

(The Mother, from Agenda, June 14, 1965)

Reader: True but it is very difficult to follow this, unless one is very very matured and has a highly developed consciousness to not expect the same level of Love and affection from the other person.

Response: Yes, you are right. However, we can get there by taking small steps in that direction. I.e. do we seriously, sincerely want to begin to attain that capacity of unconditional love. If so, one can ask ourselves, what small steps should I take?

No Title

We are expressions of the body of God trying to evolve in a material universe.

No Title

Life works its way forward through the positive as well as the negative.

Method to Attract a Great Positive Change in Your Life

Here are some of the essential steps to rapidly attract the realization of a great personal goal you aim to achieve

1. Give yourself 30 days to make the great change and evoke the great response.
2. Meet the following conditions before starting out:
 - Make sure that indeed you have a cherished goal in mind that you want to achieve.
 - Make sure you are crystal clear about what it is you want to achieve.
 - Make sure you intensely want to accomplish the goal.
 - Commit yourself to following the plan for the full 30-day period.
3. Once you are qualified, you can implement your plan by following the following general guidelines:
 - Develop your vision and its purpose

The first step is to write down in one or two sentences precisely what it is you want to achieve; i.e. the goal to be accomplished.

-Develop a Strategy

The second step is to come up with several strategies to make your vision/goal occur. They can be practical (outer), as well as psychological (inner).

Develop Action To Dos

The third step is to develop specific time-bound action to dos to carry out the strategy above.

Carry Out Your Plan

The fourth and final step is to carry out the action to dos in a timely manner.

4. SUCCESS FACTORS

To absolutely insure success, be sure to meet these requirements:

-Total Commitment

The first factor that will guarantee overwhelming success (through life response outcomes) is that your desire to accomplish the goal is total and complete.

-Be Positive; Overcome Limited Attitudes, Perceptions

The second factor that will guarantee rapid, overwhelming success is that your attitudes surrounding the plan are fully positive

-Open to the spiritual Force

The third factor that will guarantee rapid, overwhelming success is that your effort is fully consecrated. I.e. as you envision, develop, and execute your plan, you offer it to the spiritual Force.

-30-Day Deadline

Finally, to insure rapid, overwhelming success, you should focus your efforts on achieving the goal within the allotted 30-day period. This should be your uncompromised deadline date for generating results. By setting this limit, it will condense and amplify your energies, which will dramatically increase the likelihood of attracting your heart's desire.

PUTTING IT ALL TOGETHER

If you meet the preliminary conditions, follow the steps of the plan, and incorporate the success factors, the object of your desire will quickly become your living reality. In fact, results will come so fast, you will hardly believe what is happening.

For example, one young Indian woman I know of who studied computers and worked at a web design company, followed this approach. Her particular aspiration in life was simply to advance her career. As a result of intensely taking to her inner and outer plan, she attracted one remarkable result after another. First, she was able to leave her old job and start her own company. Then, her business quickly expanded to the point where she hired a dozen employees. That in turn enabled her personal income to rise an incredible 10-fold. By consciously directing the course of her life, she was able to achieve in a year what would have normally taken a decade, or a lifetime -- if ever at all.

Reader: What Roy Sir is giving is an excellent guidance. .I am sure it is a comprehensive approach which can bring 100% result. even results can exceed our expectation. One or the other way I am a beneficiary of this method. When I started my first business venture 14 months back., my total reliance was only on this method. And nothing else than this approach...I was quite sure of success although I had lot of tensions and pressure in between in the initial months. I followed the method silently with total dependence of the Spiritual Force and the above mentioned method. I am now more than successful. ..Thank you Roy Sir. THIS IS AN UNFAILING APPROACH.

No Title

As you increasingly embody Universal Consciousness, the compulsion to take responsibility for the quality of your inner behavior grows.

No Title

Advancing in the integral yoga, the body increasingly becomes - through expressions of well-being or the opposite, - a barometer, indicating the status of life around you.

No Title

Often when one insists on one side of a complex issue, the other side, truth suddenly and dramatically presents itself.

No Title

When you take full responsibility for a situation, shielding others from concern, one or more of those parties may suddenly present you with a most unexpected accomplished work. It is a positive response from life to your higher consciousness attitude.

No Title

When considering and consecrating a difficult problem or situation, think about its effect on other people, not just yourself. That can intensify and widen the positive impact of the response.

No Title

Each of the values promulgated by the current technology age - such as crowdsourcing, the shared economy, coworking space, mindfulness, yoga, neuroscience, and so forth have roots in the hippie generation in the 1960s and 70s, which Mother said at the time was a further descent of Supermind (truth consciousness) in the world.

Comment: Mother also indicated fifty years ago that property ownership would increasingly become obsolete. Her vision is slowly coming about through the above developments in this hippy influenced technology age.

No Title

Mother would experience physical pleasure (serenity) or pain depending on the psychological state of the people around her, both near and far. Her body was thus a continuous Barometer of Consciousness. By the way, a number of devotees have or currently are experiencing this same phenomenon as well.

Reader: I read somewhere that Her requirement in an attendant was absolute purity of thought.

Response: Yes, makes much sense.

No Title

Many Individuals are bored with bland material life, and so look for intensity elsewhere. They then often seek it out negatively, which only exasperates the situation.

No Title

We have to learn how to smile in the face of the misery around us and in the world, or at least be still (non-reactive) and observant. That will help create the best conditions for improvement. Life WILL respond.

No Title

Regarding all the evil-like beliefs, circumstance, and actions we see in the world: I believe it's part of the Multiplicity that needs to emerge, break out in creation, and then to shatter in order for there to be the full positive, multi-faceted, detailed unfolding of the higher consciousness.

No Title

Silence breeds accomplishment.

No Title

Ordinary mind merely sees the one thing, and then only in a very limited sense. In Supermind one sees how each thing - circumstance, event, unfolding - fits within the context of all others.

No Title

It is our deepest beliefs that are the starting point for accomplishing our life's purpose.

Example: One day many years ago, in a great cathedral I saw a magnificent presentation about what Auroville stood for and could become, that stirred something deep inside, which caused my subconscious to lead me to those individuals who would enable me to make my dream of serving Mother possible.

No Title

In a problematic situation, be calm, think deeply (and intuitively), and weigh various strategies. You are bound to come up with a helpful solution.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo says that "one man can change the world." That can happen when you have a vision of the goal to be achieved, offering it to the supramental power, and changing one or several related limiting attitudes or beliefs in one's nature. Now that Vision can spread throughout the world.

No Title

The Adventure of Consciousness is intensifying!

Reader: What does this mean sir?

Response: By taking to conscious evolution, i.e. integral yoga, one embarks on a great adventure in life. Sri Aurobindo calls this the "Adventure of Consciousness."

For myself, that process, which I have been following for years now, is accelerating and intensifying, through life experiences and the necessary inner work.

Inheriting Sri Aurobindo and Mother's Work to Bring About the Supramental Change

Sri Aurobindo worked to bring down the supramental power into all planes of His being, - mental, vital, and physical. However, at one point, Sri Aurobindo felt He had to leave in order to enable the Force's further descent into Life. He thus left in 1950. All of his consciousness then entered Mother and She continued His work on earth, focusing on the physical transformation.

Meanwhile in 1957 the Supramental force descended deep into the atmosphere of earth as a result of His actions in the subtle plane, culminating in Mother's vision in which She shattered the Golden Door with the Golden Hammer, enabling the Supramental power to flood into the earth.

Before Her passing, Mother indicated that Sri Aurobindo would return in the New Body, as a Supramental Being, or perhaps it would take shape in other ways.

Mother was in constant contact with Him for several decades after His passing, until She left in 1973.

She did not fully realize the physical transformation, - i.e. the cells transfigured with a new consciousness, and organs and systems transformed into centers of light as She saw in her visions, - but did make great strides in this area, opening the door for others to try, ushering in the possibility of the new being to one day appear on earth.

By regularly opening to that ever-intensifying and deepening Supramental Power, we can continue Their efforts in various facets of our own lives, becoming instruments for the decisive change; for the emergence of a new humanity, a new species, and a Divine Life on Earth.

No Title

The integral yoga consists of turning impossibilities into possibilities that become realities.

No Title

With deep sincerity, let me rid myself of all forms of selfishness.

No Title

If you take vital/emotional interest in current tragedies and such, you may soon discover negative events quickly moving in your direction as well.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo indicates that Money is mostly in the hands of asuric, daemonic or other negative forces. For the most part till recently the people who have accumulated great wealth were those who thought of money and little else. And yet Sri Aurobindo indicates that it is our obligation as devotees to secure money for higher purposes; to liberate it from dark forces and bring it into the Light.

No Title

Because Sri Aurobindo brought Supermind into the world, people's growth and development now accelerate very rapidly when focused on. The progress of the individual that ordinarily took years, now can happen in months or even less because of the higher consciousness vibration in the atmosphere due to the Supramental power He brought down on earth.

Nature of Parallel Work Events

If something is going wrong in one work, there is likely to simultaneously be a parallel negative circumstance in a different area. In other words, bad news often arrives in packs that are parallel to one another, (as does the good).

Example: a consultant found out that a major project he was working on had abruptly come to an end, when it was expected to go on indefinitely, meaning that a significant source of income had now dried up.

The next day when he arrived at a business center to conduct a 2-day training session, there was a malfunction in the pipes behind the ceiling tiles in the room, potentially disrupting the entire training.

The two situations had no connection on the surface, but shared a negative vibration in the depths. These are what we call "parallel events" that move together positively, neutrally, or negatively. They are but one formation demonstrating the subtle Character of Life.

No Title

It is a subtle observation of life that Expectation delays or cancels accomplishment and success.

No Title

Consciousness existed before space and time. Moreover, as we evolve as a species, as individuals, we increasingly come in touch with that consciousness that has existed forever.

No Title

(An important reminder from Appa, originally posted here 5 years ago today.)

For one who wants to move to the Spirit, it is important that any work is done by consecration [i.e. offering it to the spiritual Force] rather than merely accomplishing it. (Karmayogi)

No Title

Terrorism (whether nationalistic, communistic, religious, etc.) has its origins in Poverty and the grievances that issue from it. We can thus overcome its evil by cooperatively addressing and overcoming that root cause. This is one of the great global challenges.

No Title

If you can, avoid telling another person what is wrong with them and instead practice the methods of Non-reaction and Consecration in relation to their behavior and actions. Doing so will, sooner or later, create life conditions that will compel them to change. These approaches can also help you control your own disturbed emotions toward others, and thus be a powerful means for your own personal growth.

No Title

A vast array of unprecedented, unique spiritual experiences are being had by individuals throughout the world that precisely match up with Sri Aurobindo's own experiences during his lifetime. It is in large part due to the fact that through His Yogic efforts he opened up these portals of spiritual possibility for the world, making way for these dynamic, new, unprecedented, intuitive, synchronous, Supramental-like experiences.

Changing Status of Money Power in the World

Sri Aurobindo, in a change from the Indian spiritual tradition, said that the money power (shakti), which is in the hands of the Asuric forces, must be reclaimed for the Divine.

That money abuse - whether selfishly used for business, for speculation, et al - can be turned around through the bringing forth of higher values and consciousness toward money. That money attachment and egoistic slavery to money needs to be abandoned.

Likewise, the shunning of money, as advocated by certain religious traditions, also has had a negative effect.

Shedding attitudes of ego and mistrust, and learning the Laws of Money will increasingly put it in the hands of the right forces and powers; the right institutions and individuals.

By combatting the Asuras, dark forces, Sri Aurobindo freed up the money power (shakti) in the world so it can move in the right directions.

We could say that recently dark forces have regained an upper hand. Yet it can be seen as a sign that the earth subconsciously yearns for purification of itself in terms of the money power. Now Sri Aurobindo asks us to take up the challenge that He so powerfully initiated.

One interesting facet is that the more we think of the positive aspect and destiny of money power, including its potential to uplift society, the more money will flow in our direction. So indicates Sri Karmayogi.

It is thus our spiritual responsibility to become abundant and prosperous, and do so for the Evolution, the emergence of the Higher Consciousness, and a Divine Life on Earth.

No Title

There is an ebb and flow quality to Money power. It comes, and then it recedes, it comes once again, and departs, etc. etc. ad infinitude. And yet it is the people who develop a higher consciousness in general, and toward money in particular who can more easily abridge the ebb and flow vibration of money, attracting steady, ever-increasing large sums for themselves, society, and the Spirit.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo and Mother frowned upon many traditional Hindu religious practices, including Gods worship, temple attendance, rituals and dogma, priestly involvement, et al, seeking to replace them with direct spiritual life experience. Opening to the Supramental Shakti (Mother) and raising one's consciousness in all facets is the essence and core of their teachings. It is the way forward that can hasten the Evolution and thereby usher in a New Age, a New Humanity, and a Divine Life on Earth.

Four Levels of Spiritual Realization

Sri Aurobindo in Life Divine discusses four levels of spiritual realization, from lowest to highest.

The first, Religion is great in many ways, especially its source teachings and founders inner experience, but degrades into ritual and superstition. Thus, it is lowest on the scale.

Occultism, which does involve the experience of something beyond the material reality into the supraphysical, supernatural is next.

Beyond that and higher still is Spiritual Knowledge, such as understanding the teachings of the Vedas, Upanishads or any other deep spiritual truths.

The highest of all is Spiritual Experience, which is the direct experience of the spirit - whether mindfulness, mental silence, soul, transcendence, shakti, etc.

Thus, He and Mother asked Indians to give up religion and move higher up the scale, preferably directly to Spiritual Experience, as the Force and its workings are increasingly very active and powerful in its action.

No Title

From the moment you boast that success is guaranteed, everything begins to unravel.

No Title

In a dispute, each side knows the truth the other misses, yet also acts in Ignorance the other party perceives.

No Title

The less you advertise your achievement for status' sake, the more that success will grow.

No Title

Krishna said "abandon all yogas and surrender to Me." That became the basis for Sri Aurobindo's integral yoga, i.e. to surrender to the divine Shakthi, to Mother; to the supramental Power that is increasingly descending on earth, transforming existence, thereby furthering the Evolution.

No Title All difficulties in life are problems of consciousness, and nothing else. The rest are just symptoms.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo has pushed consciousness into unprecedented areas never before experienced in life.

Comment: Supermind as creator, Supramental Truth Consciousness and Force we can open to, and Psychic Being (the Evolving Soul) are but several examples. All Life is Yoga, i.e. every detail of our existence is a means of bringing higher consciousness is the foundation.

No Title

As soon as one individual makes a unique breakthrough in consciousness, it opens up that same possibility for everyone else.

No Title

Space and Time were brought about by Supermind so the Real Ideas, -- the Spiritual Values of peace, harmony, truth, wisdom, goodness, beauty, love, joy, timelessness, and infinity -- could spread from the Creator throughout Creation.

No Title

Mother and Sri Aurobindo proclaimed the end of religion, to be replaced with direct Spiritual Experience.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo's teachings are at odds with the Indian tradition of experiencing Spirit apart from Life. For Him, all Life, including the active parts, is an opportunity for Yoga-based change (i.e. conscious evolution).

No Title

All that Sri Aurobindo and Mother accomplished in consciousness is readily available for each of us to realize in our own lives.

Reader: Sir, are there any examples for this?

Response: Yes, very many. Among them:

- The ability to open to the supramental Force (Mother) and use it to raise the consciousness of our mental, vital, and physical being. Plus the capacity to use that power to bring instant good fortune into our lives and the life around us.

- Our capacity to connect with our psychic being (evolving soul) so we know what our ultimate purpose in life is, and can increasingly move in that direction.

- The capacity to know the integral truth of any situation in any moment in time, giving us ultimate decision making capability. This is intuitive and revelatory knowledge power beyond mere surface mental perceptions.

- The ability to alter the conditions in the world from within ourselves.

- Etc

No Title

Terrorism is a (negative) sign that Human Unity seeks to establish itself increasingly in the world.

Perceiving and Overcoming Our Negative Attitudes

We each embody our own unique set of negative attitudes -- whether toward others, towards work, towards life, even towards ourselves.

Eg one person is shrinking, fearful, disorganized, deceitful, dishonest, meddling, and scheming. Another is insensitive, uncaring, bullying, brash, and prideful. A third is foolish, silly, neglectful, impulsive, ignorant, and mindless. And so forth for hundreds of attitudes, of which we each have our own unique negative set.

There are thus infinite permutations of attitudes any individual can have, expressed through billions of people.

In one sense, Personal Growth is simply the methods of overcoming these wanting attitudes and turning them into their positive equivalent. Normally that happens through the pain of Life. However, conscious individuals consciously make the effort to make these reversals in Attitude.

One more thing: At each point you consciously shift away from a negative attitude, life responds; i.e. good fortune quickly rushes to your doorstep. In that sense, nothing attracts "Luck" faster than identifying and overcoming a negative attitude. We have seen this dynamic in hundreds, even thousands of cases.

No Title

In the cosmic scheme of things Terrorism not only serves to galvanize the population against it, but to reveal its underlying causes - like poverty, economic inequality, hopelessness, and other forms of misery in the world.

We think terrorism is just the product of lunatic and religious fanatics, but it is also Nature's exceedingly negative way of waking the world up from its inertia and unconsciousness, and addressing its problems.

No Title

Often dark forces come back to reign over us one last time, so their false ways will falter and fail in plain view; in order for its low consciousness to be seen for what it truly is and thus be finally eradicated from the world.

No Title

A normal parent adores her children and broadcasts their attributes wherever possible for others to hear or see. A spiritual oriented person sees this as an ego movement, and aspires to adore other children encountered as much as their own.

A normal person seeks marriage, children, home, family, car, possessions, and financial security. On the other hand, a spiritual-oriented person follows a unique path that is an Adventure of Consciousness. While he may have some of the attributes of the average person, he still sees them in terms of the higher purpose.

No Title

Negative conditions stimulate, promulgate positive, helpful thoughts and insights.

No Title

Marriage is merely a social custom, easily adhered to or broken; without essential foundation. Love on the other hand is Reality itself; offering us an adventure in Romance that has roots in the Spirit.

No Title

True Romance is never fully realized, as its fullness is always just out of reach, continuously urging us on to attain it. It is a never-ending Adventure of the Soul, always seeking its complement, indicating its spiritual source and nature.

No Title

In the course of our day we are ordinarily entirely focused on benefits that can come to us, not what can come to others. It is yet another example of our perpetual Selfishness that issues from Ego. (Even when we think about or actually help others, the underlying concern is still for our own status, advantage, utility, benefit, et al.) Pure self-givingness and concern is indeed very rare.

Entrepreneurs and Money

Ironically, chasing money is the surest way to not get it. Successful entrepreneurs don't worry about getting rich. They focus on sharing the value they create with others and riches follow naturally. (Sujan Patel)

No Title

To at any moment be able to perceive the true truth behind a situation, matter, or thing is a great spiritual attainment. It is an indicator of an intuitive, revelatory, even supramentalized Mind.

No Title

Any movement of coarseness, crudeness - whether in action, behavior, even language, - not only invites negative response, but also calls in dark forces that have the power to ruin life.

Opposition of Darkness to the Integral Effort

Great opposition will come to those who journey on Sri Aurobindo's integral path. These dark forces will perceive you as a threat to their false and evil control in the world.

Yet if we look at such opposition as actually being a challenge and an opportunity for us to rise that much more quickly and intensely in consciousness, then we will discover that ironically these apparent opposing dark forces are really Aids in our development.

This is something I have seen very much in the last several years.

It is because the integral action not only transforms the individual, but also the society around him, that the Asuras and other dark forces have gathered around him or are stationed nearby.

Then Non-reaction becomes a very powerful inner method to overcome their influence and hostile actions; especially so in tandem with Hourly Consecration. One is thereby able to stand up to the negative forces through the power of inner Silence, which steadily causes them to dissolve in impact, or they simply leave. I.e. both the Asuras and the individuals they inhabit are diminished.

Then you look back at the experience and see that these dark elements have had the effect of strengthening your consciousness, which means they have ironically become your AIDS.

No Title

No human being in the history of the world has broken down more barriers to the development of higher consciousness than Sri Aurobindo. He did it from within himself through titanic effort, which also expressed in his teachings. As a result, now others can more easily follow in his footsteps, exploring and experiencing new avenues of consciousness never known before.

No Title

When there are problems in the world and the forces of good do not take the opportunity to work together to resolve them, the asuras, i.e. dark forces settle in men and rush in to fill the gap.

No Title

Working to satisfy the material needs of one's family is good. But also working to meet the needs of others (fellow workers, the company, the customer, the community, etc.) is even better. An attitude of self-givingness toward both is very doable, and will be infinitely rewarding all around!

Life Response Result of Going the Extra Mile

Put in the extra work or go the extra mile for someone or some organization, and you will soon find that the work that was remaining to be done is suddenly lessened, taking the burden off yourself. It is life responding with ease to making that extra intense effort.

Example: an instructor went the extra mile to make the training room more orderly by gathering and grouping all of the manuals together. It was a big effort in a short period of time, because his class was soon to begin. Plus this effort was not even his responsibility. When the class then proceeded, the instructor was very surprised to learn attendees were eager to get out early, greatly lessening his obligation.

In other words, the effort in one sphere relieved the need for effort in the other - even though on the surface they did not seem to be connected. In the depths, however, they were.

No Title

When you fail to address a serious problem that exists at the current level, it spreads to the next highest level, even where there appears to be no obvious connection between them.

Reader: Sir, I would like an example for this.

Response: For 100 years, America has failed to collaboratively deal with the poverty in many of its inner cities, the South and elsewhere. Now that has spread to the middle class, who are the "new poor", as their income has not grown in 25 years, and 70% have $1,000 or less in savings. Only the very wealthy have benefited, as they have become even more rich, and now own 95% of the wealth.

If American had dealt with the poor and skilled up both the poor and the middle class, this could have been avoided. However, the prevailing mood was to "leave things alone" and not to solve problems through cooperation of all parties, of business and government, etc. And so the negativity unaddressed, i.e. the problem, moved to the next higher level -- the middle tier of American society.

We can discover other examples in life, whether the connection is obvious or subtle. Eg here are two examples that have an obvious connection between the lower and the next higher plane.

-500 years ago, the cause of the Black Plague was unaddressed (lack of hygiene, etc.) and then it spread throughout the continent, killing half the population (400 million).

-The same with the Bubonic plague in 17th century London, England before the Restoration. (lack of hygiene and sanitation of the lower classes.)

How Darcy Fully Engaged in the Adventure of Romance (and won over Eliza)

"Romance is for those who seek adventure, the challenge of unceasing effort, the thrill of never ending mystery and discovery." (The Book)

Examples involving Darcy (in Pride and Prejudice)

--One who risked his identity, status, position, image for the sake of love

--Went to his enemy to compromise and convince him

--Turned a disgraceful elopement into an honorable marriage

--Brought Bingley back to Jane's life

--Embraced all in Mr. Bennet's family

--Yet, decided not to express his love again till the last moment Elizabeth expressed out of Gratitude (SM)

Thoughts on Complementarity

That which completes another's function partially or fully is its complement. (Karmayogi)

Eg: night and day, man and woman, infinite and finite, earth and sky, teacher and student, right and wrong, time and timelessness, space and time, superior and subordinate, good and evil, seller and buyer, war and peace, lover and beloved, pen and paper, software and hardware, speaker and listener, washer and dryer, knower and knowledge, enjoyer and what's enjoyed, hater and what's hated, hammer and nail, subjective and objective, perceived and perceived, love and hate, creator and creation.

-The Existence in the universe is an integrated whole. Therefore, everything is the complement of another or every other thing directly or indirectly.

-All parts are complements to the whole as well as other parts. (Karmayogi)

Comment: Note that a complement can be positive or negative. Lover and beloved (positive); hate and what's hated (negative).

Of all the complements, the complementary nature of the Infinite to the infinitesimal is the most striking. (Karmayogi)

Of all the complements known to us, the complement of a woman to man is the most significant as it represents the universal principles - male and female. (Karmayogi)

Every contradiction can reverse and become a complement.

Example of contradictions: Israelis and Palestinians. Their resolution and harmony would make them complements.

At the highest level of consciousness contradictions are perceived as secretly being complementaries. Eg an enemy may actually help you grow as a person as you perceive new truths in life through such encounters. The enemy in that sense becomes one Guru.

No Title

Through Consecration (opening to the Mother in all activities), and following Karmayogi's 10+ methods of inner behavior (including non-reaction, silent will, attention, patience), all aspects of Parenting can be perfected.

No Title

Life is change. However, we ordinarily want the stability that sameness and non-change brings, which causes us to be in contradiction with the requirements of Life.

Yet we can overcome our fixation with the stable, the unchanging by elevating our consciousness; by surrendering to the unfoldings of life, especially when it is guided by the will of the Divine Mother. Then we will always be on the right path, on the fresh and unexpected tract towards the future.

No Title

Whenever you are upset, angry, frustrated, etc. about the current conditions, catch yourself and quiet those emotions. Life will then quickly move miraculous-like on your behalf.

No Title

In the supramental consciousness we perceive that behind the conflicts and clashes occurring around us, there is a Higher Harmony trying to emerge.

No Title

The lower our consciousness is the more we progress through struggle and strife. The higher the consciousness, the more we progress through positive outcomes alone.

No Title

Culture is the measure of the level of sensitivity we feel in our interactions with others. Eg we behave more courteously, we treat others with greater respect, we are sensitive to the needs of others, we try to make others comfortable. A truly cultured individual embodies all of these and more.

No Title

The true measure of the quality of the outer work is ultimately determined by the quality of the inner consciousness. The inner attitudes and values are far more important than the mere physical action. We should remember that every time we act. As a result, the outer life will continuously respond in our favor.

Outer vs Inner Work

The status of the individual determines whether the work is best done outwardly or from within.

For example, the Physical man will do best to outwardly engage in hard work and do so with skill and diligence.

The Mental man can work outwardly, but is best guided inwardly through higher understanding and values.

The Supramentalized individual can work completely from within and move life without any outer physical action. For example, Sri Aurobindo worked completely from within to win the Second World War.

We can do the same through consecration to the Mother and having at our disposal an understanding of and power over the unfoldings of life.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo discovered that Supermind is the Creator of our infinite-like universe. And yet we have access to that same Supramental power by consecrating to Mother, enabling us to attract and create infinitely as well.

East-West Synthesis through Sri Aurobindo

Westerners are fixed in the material realm, in the scientific, and surface mind. Easterners are fixed in the ethereal plane apart from life, in religion and its practice, including ritual and superstition.

These widely different perceptions and worldviews form a kind of contradiction between these two regions. As they say, "never the twain shall meet." In other words, these world-apart and conflicting views need to be synthesized and harmonized into an integral knowledge that harmonizes the contradiction.

It turns out that Sri Aurobindo has provided that synthesis - in vast detail, with supreme depth of insight.

But are the peoples of the earth ready to embrace it?

The resolution to the problems of the world, and the way forward in the evolution is plainly laid out before us. It just requires certain pioneer individuals to reach out and embrace His integral view, both from the West and the East.

No Title

There are a variety of invisible entities that are either trying to support or ruin our lives.

Comment: There are greater and lesser dark, malevolent forces at work at the subtle, invisible planes. Such forces, called Asuras and Rakshakas in Sanskrit arose at the dawn of creation side by side with the Gods.

They tend to enter certain people's beings to create mischief in the world.

When they perceive a progress occurring through forces of light of certain individuals, in society, et al they tend to activate in order to upstage and spoil that positive evolutionary movement.

People who live intensely vital lives, unknowingly become instruments of these forces, carrying out their malevolence, trying to impede human progress.

On the other side, there are spiritual-oriented entities, including Gods who represent certain qualities like truth, beauty, wealth, security, wisdom, joy, creativity, etc. They also have their play, and can help us and watch over us. They too can enter into individuals and play out their role supporting individual and collective progress.

These negative and positive entities can also be quite small and minor. Eg Mother experienced little tiny invisible entities trying to create mischief, such as small accidents, something like in the film Gremlins.

Mother and Sri Aurobindo inwardly fought against Asuric forces, especially the great ones and overcame most of them but not all. WWII could be seen as being caused by an Asura entering Hitler, which they worked together to overcome in the subtle plane. SA called WW II "Mother's War" as those great titanic dark forces sought to negate Their recent great spiritual progress on earth.

Whenever we try to make a great progress - say to the next level of achievement, - some of these dark forces might fight back in some insidious ways, at times through others, or other mischievous ways where we could trip up.

Among followers of SA and Mother such malevolent beings are called "Hostiles." Interestingly some devotees blame such hostiles for their bad fortune, when it was really their wrong attitudes and behaviors that attracted the negative conditions! Maybe those forces work in tandem with our lower ego movements and ignorance.

We can consecrate any such malevolence, and the influence can dissipate. There are also several powerful mantras we know of that can ward off their influence if conditions become very insidious. I've used it only on a few occasions.

If you notice intense negatives in people nearby, you can practice both Non-Reaction and Hourly Consecration (on the dot), and their influence will soon diminish. Often they just leave, never to return. That has in fact been my own recent experience.

No Title

There has been a startling 90% reduction in Violence in the world over the last 20 years, yet a 5x increase in it being reported.

No Title

Consecration essentially involves the breaking of habit and routine for something higher.

No Title

The Pioneer individual is the great instrument and vehicle of the Evolution.

No Title

Unshackled from repeating habits, the routine, the social norm, the Pioneer Individual furthers society's development, and hence the Evolution.

No Title

The Pioneer Individual is in touch with the subconscious needs of the society, taking it into uncharted waters that benefit all.

No Title

The ultimate Pioneer in the world is one who listens to his Soul for guidance, and surrenders to and becomes an instrument of the Divine Power.

No Title

Strong, undisturbed Nerves are a sign of a developing Inner life.

No Title

It is a common experience in life that when you push aside fear of engaging in a work that seems daunting, it unfolds far more easily than you might have imagined.

Life Response Power of Embracing Another's Point of View

Here's a little challenge for you. As an experiment, in the course of your day try to accept every suggestion every person you encounter makes, putting aside your own view of things. Whether their viewpoint is true or false or in between, by accepting, embracing their point of view, you will immediately rise to a higher level of consciousness, which means that a fuller understanding will flood your mind and good fortune will quickly come your way - often in the form of a life movement that expresses your own original point of view!

This approach might seem counterintuitive and illogical at first, but on closer examination it indicates that when you embrace all points of view, no matter the veracity of its content, your consciousness expands to the plane of Truth, where all is known, and also where that integral knowledge instantly manifests as something real in the world. That sudden manifestation is the positive Response from life to your embracing another's position.

Here's an example: An instructor was giving personal attention to a student. However, after a short while, the student mildly indicated that he felt uncomfortable with the instructor being in such close proximity. On the other hand, the instructor felt this was the only way he could perform the instruction.

After lunch, the teacher had a change of heart and decided to listen to the student's concerns, no matter what his position. Rather than be insensitive to the student's plight, the instructor now made a major adjustment in his training technique.

As it turned out, for the rest of the day the student was all smiles and full of light, whereas before he seemed morose and grim.

That is the power of taking the other person's point of view. Life quickly turns around. And, as in this case, in both parties' favor!

No Title

It appears that the Integral Yoga of Sri Aurobindo is to have total faith in Mother, and all the rest of life will take care of itself. This is what He summarizes as the yogic method of "Surrender."

No Title

For many individuals, nothing is more important than their social prestige (including position, influence, and being appreciated). It is often greater in people's minds than success and wealth; even love and happiness.

No Title

Consecration overcomes contradiction, conflict, and duality, turning those conditions into harmony and oneness.

No Title

The first law of creation is Freedom. The source consciousness, the Divine can do anything it wishes - whether good or bad, great or small, to act or not to act, etc. It is His play. His choice. His decision.

And as we rise in consciousness, we perceive that that is also true for ourselves. I.e. we too have the freedom to act as we please; to become anything we wish to become. Or to not act or become anything at all. It is our choice; our free will to choose how we wish to live our lives.

Relations Among Past, Present, and Future in Life Response

We know the past affects the present, and the present can affect the future. But can the present affect the past? Or can the future affect the present? Well, according to the laws of life response it appears they can.

Eg I once asked Karmayogi if the circumstances that were attracted would occur if the attractor, such as the person who changed his attitude and evoked the response, did not change his attitude. He indicated that it would not. Which in turn implied for one that a person in the present could have an impact on the past, whether for better or worse.

For example, if Eliza in 'Pride and Prejudice' didn't change her opinion about Darcy when visiting his great estate, then Darcy would not have left several early from London and thereby met her at the pond - which brought them together for romance and marriage. In that way, her present would've had an impact on his past! And in turn her present!

Or if I hadn't cleaned my refrigerator on that fateful day, then the new abundant work would not have come to my agent to offer it to me as a response to my cleaning effort.

It also works the other way around, where if my agent hadn't made the effort to secure work in the hours and days before I cleaned out my refrigerator, then I might not have cleaned it in the first place and attracted that work! That party's elevation of consciousness in its present in essence compelled me to act thereby affecting my future.

There is then proof that the hard divisions we make of time - separating past, present, and future - begin to break down as we deepen our consciousness, since any one can determine the outcome of either of the others.

Thus, time shifts from being linear in three statuses to existing in one continuous stream of existence; undivided, not conforming to our normal views of cause-and-effect.

After all, Time emerged from the Timelessness of the Divine consciousness; without division, without any starting or end point. Just as timelessness has no sequence of unfolding of time, so time itself has no linear requirements. Past, present, and future are continually affecting one another in the most unusual of ways, even if it defies our ability to comprehend it.

No Title

In an act of consecration, allowing for Uncertainty of what will happen, what form the response will take shape allows for the widest possibility and greatest results. We refer to it as 'Thy Will - Not My Will - Be Done.' From that poise, we are uncertain of the outcome or the means by which it will be realized, leaving it entirely up to Mother, fully trusting in Her Will, in Her cosmic creative action, even if it is counter to our own intentions.

No Title

The greatest Aspiration in life is the desire to Surrender to the Force, to the supramental Power, to Mother and Her Divine Will, and become an instrument for the Spirit in life.

No Title

Truly successful Individuals tend to spontaneously see things from other people's perspective. That way they garner a wide variety of insights, enabling them to make the best of decisions. So why not make that your daily habit today?

No Title

If you align with the needs of the universe, then your capacity to attract is never-ending.

No Title

The fact of having reached the level of consciousness required to contact a God (of the Overmental Plane or Higher) would be sufficient to solve a problem. (NR)

No Title

One sign of a higher mental consciousness is that the details of their life are well Organized.

No Title

Organization in its various forms makes life more stable and therefore easier to engage in. It creates a foundation of security and ease that supports great success.

Increasing Progress through the Positive in the Emerging Mental Age

In times of old, progress took place mainly through conflict, contradiction, and violence. For example, almost all of Shakespeare's plays involve tragedy and pain, and through it a slow and difficult progress.

But now society is increasingly moving forward through more positive means, with far less of the violence and insentience of previous times. For example, to settle a dispute, we do not have a duel, but take it to court. Likewise, we have an international bodies that prevent nations from arbitrarily attacking strong one another.

As the Mental center has replaced the vital as the main influence and driving force of our being - leading to greater rationality and adoption of human values, - progress is increasingly occurring through the positive.

As Sri Aurobindo explains, the movements of life is shifting from Prakriti to Purusha, from Nature to Soul, from unconsciousness to consciousness.

There is even the emergence of new formations, developments that have NO dark shadow at all. This occurs when the Divine Force is brought to bear; when our life activities are consecrated to the supramental power, to the Mother - which has the effect of only producing the Good, without the negative bi-product, shadow, and darkness.

From that basis, we can rapidly move forward toward fulfilling the deepest aspirations of humanity - establish a life on earth of joy and wonder, of infinite creativity and possibility; establishing New Age guided by the Spirit above and the Soul within us.

No Title

Most of the world is emulating America – the Material leader, while India is destined to become the Spiritual guide and leader.

Comment: Karmayogi indicates that if USA continues to develop psychologically it can move beyond the material leader of the world to the psychological one. If it stays as material-oriented only, then the mantle will move elsewhere.

The other end of the material is the spiritual, where India can one day shine. However, to do that it must first move out of its poverty, adopt material organization, while maintaining its cultural roots. It needs to reawaken spiritually instead of religiously, which means to reach back to the Vedic experiences of the Rishis as Sri Aurobindo has explained, but in an evolutionary context (which He has done), which means the Spirit is to be integrated in life, not experienced apart from it.

No Title

According to Sri Aurobindo for India to ascend to its destined role as Guru of the world, three conditions must be met:

- Asia must rise out of its torpor
- India must emerge from out of its dire poverty
- India must re-federate with its former territory

No Title

Accidents are due to-

- lack of concentration in a given moment
- doing too many things at once
- lack of concern for the details of life
- being mentally diverted
- inattention or not paying attention
- lack of concentration
- negligence toward material objects
- lack of organization
- lack of skill
- anger and bother
- weakened nervous system
- wasted, depleted energies
- doing too many things at once
- impatience, over-eagerness, hurried feeling
- being at odds with others' movements
- conflict between parties
- someone's ill-will
- being reactive to others' intensities
- unexpected occurrence
- karmic destiny
- etc.

"Accidents are expressions of the still unorganised nature of organisational efficiency."
(Karmayogi)

Comment: In 'Gone With the Wind' parents Rhett and Scarlett lose their daughter due to the child falling off a horse. However, in consciousness, it was a direct result of the intense conflict between the child's parents.

To avoid all accidents (and other unanticipated difficulties), Consecrate every life activity, as Appa and others do.

No Title

Patience has the Life Response effect of speeding up results, or even bringing about conditions in the first place where none seemed possible.

On Patience

(from book 'Life Response in Work' by Roy Posner)

"If we look back on a number of the true life examples of over expectation or over anticipation presented so far, we can observe that Patience, or rather lack of it was the fundamental issue. For whatever reason people were unable or unwilling to be still in terms of the timeframes involved, and as a result attracted negatives. (Or instead they had the presence of mind to be still and patient and thus attracted the positive.)

Then what is patience?

Patience can be thought of as a spiritual quality in which we are in the right frame of heart and mind when it comes to TIME.

When we are patient, we not only know what the right timeframe of things to unfold should be, but we also tend to know what to do or not to do, as well as how to do it.

Also, when you are patient and follow the natural flow of life that is presented you, there is a sense of stillness and peace inside.

That in turn builds up powerful positive energies that attract the full cooperation of life.

So why not consider the various ways you are impatient. Make the concerted effort to overcome that inner or outer behavior. Turn every moment of impatience into patience, and watch your life blossom before your very eyes."

No Title

Subconsciously man ordinarily seeks psychological support from the woman in marriage, and she seeks physical security from him.

India-Pakistan Economic Ties

We believe the key to harmonic relations between India and Pakistan is increased economic cooperation.

It is a guiding principle of ours that to resolve an issue at one level, it is helpful to move to a higher level. So to overcome India-Pakistan squabbles over Kashmir and other political matters, economic cooperation becomes very necessary. That is why we have supported and encouraged the India-Pakistan- Iran pipeline as a practical as well as symbolic development for many years.

The scale of our view is essentially: physical (force) > political > economic > social > psychological > spiritual. Whichever base levels there is conflict, have the parties move to the next highest one to solve it.

We also see trade between India and Pakistan (and close by nations) dramatically increasing in recent years, which is an additional very good sign. Also, if cool heads prevail, the Force can do its work and increasingly smooth out matters on its own.

Eventually one day India and Pakistan can be united in some form, perhaps in a federation with the other states from partition forward.

No Title

Life is ALIVE, taking its own natural, self-aware course, whose flow and purpose we are only dimly aware of.

No Title

Unnecessary conversation confuses, delays, or cancels the desired result.

No Title

What we want is the result; not the self-justification of why it hasn't yet happened. Introspection of one's limited consciousness related to the matter will explain the latter scenario.

Taking Responsibility & Super Responsibility

By taking Responsibility and especially by taking Super-Responsibility (sometimes called Consciousness Responsibility), there is never a reason to blame anyone for anything. And as a result, you can reverse any negative condition in life, including those you were technically not responsible for.

Responsibility: (1) I faltered, causing my staff to fail, and I take responsibility and will try to improve things. (2) My staff faltered, yet I take responsibility. I will examine the corresponding negative element of consciousness in myself and change it, which will cause life to work in all our favor.

Super-Responsibility - I have just been hired on to lead the staff I have had no association with in the past. They have experienced failure and discontent. I will take super-responsibility by looking inward to move life in a positive direction for my staff. Eg I will intensely consecrate (open to the higher consciousness) and thereby loosen their failures that occurred before my arrival. I am thus taking super-responsibility for something I had little or nothing to do with. Now life can respond positively for all parties involved!

No Title

We are asked to continually plunge inside in order to discover inspiration, meaning, and higher consciousness to better navigate the outside. It's thus the never-ending journey of OUT and IN.

No Title

Our deepest purpose is to evoke the divine reality behind existence within existence.

Positive and Negative Arriving Together to Work Out the Conflict

(the story of a restaurant sales team)

Sometimes a positive and a negative can happen together at the same moment involving the same circumstance and parties.

A team of salespeople were now at the point of making powerful connections, as their customers were referring other customers to them, dramatically reducing the amount of effort they had to make.

However, at the very peak of this development, the owners of the company cut off all funding for the group. It could not have come at a worse time!

And yet the owners made the decision in order to set a standard for future salespeople, which is understandable from that perspective.

Still the timing was cosmically bad, and now the sales team was forced to start all over with the customer-referrer customers. Moreover, the sales team wondered if their reputation had been damaged and that they had lost credibility with the super-referring clients.

As we see, a positive and negative can come together, as in this case where funds were cut off at precisely the wrong moment, and yet where a standard was established for the future.

It is an indicator that Life is trying to move forward through and beyond the method of contradiction to arrive at a higher harmony.

The future awaits this possibility for the conflictive parties involved.

Reader: Thank you Sir

Life evolves through good and bad, finally lead towards greater Good, though the initial conditions on the surface may look contrary.

In "The Book", the team united together and launched MAI with just "Aspiration" as their asset. Life always evolved through contradictions for them. Despite the initial success of their first product MAIS, they had to give up due to obvious fault in it. That initial failure, the contradiction of life, bonded them more closely together and finally led to "The Book" which guided them the right direction from that day onwards.

Response: Yes, that is exactly correct Senthil. From a higher point of view, the negative in my incident was a way of enabling a higher harmony to unfold (AND a greater outcome of performance and success) for the players. Thus, the negative is a positive in disguise; at least in potential, depending on the consciousness level and attitudes and behaviors of the players.

No Title

Shift your faith in your own skill to Mother's "skill", and life will continually reward you in ways you never would have imagined.

Limitations of Indians

Deficiencies of Indians that Sri Karmayogi or devotees have pointed out:

- laziness, inertia, and sloth
- harmful effects of caste
- dishonesty, lack of truthfulness
- corruption at all levels
- filth and lack of cleanliness
- religious ritual devoid of real meaning
- forgetfulness of Indian spiritual tradition
- disrespect for women in many ways
- materialism from West when devoid of values
- lack of individuality; following the herd
- hoarding gold; not circulating money
- petty squabbling
- garish female dress
- tradition that stifles freedom of expression
- superstitions of all kinds - eg auspicious days
- not knowing way out of poverty
- lack of organization
- ignorance of all sorts
- etc.

Any Indian with one or more of these traits who reverses it will move into alignment with the very best of conditions. Then which one(s) do you identify with, and which are you sincerely committed to changing? Please share your experiences in this area.

Limitations of Americans

Deficiencies of Americans that Sri Karmayogi or devotees have pointed out-

- they "think with their bodies." Ie they are enamored with what their senses (visual, audio) tell them
- they are hypnotized by material things; always talking about it exclusively
- they live on the surface
- they perceive, believe in obvious, mechanistic cause and effect, not subtle influences
- they cannot sit still for 5 minutes, always having to do things
- they are impatient and always in a hurry
- they perceive the infinite in matter; not the subtle, spiritual infinite
- they enjoy their freedom by abusing it
- they talk too much or too loud
- they struggle to deal with psychological issues
- they are swept away by fads and the innocuous
- they hate regulation, and thus seriously abuse themselves when they go overboard
- they are enamored with financial speculation (Great Depression, Recession results)
- they talk about democracy and freedom, but engage in diplomatic insincerity
- they can be very shallow
- their bodies are filled with darkness, not light (as a result of surface living)
- they don't like paying taxes even though that's the patriotic pact we make with govt. to protect us

- they are poisoned by anti-government individualism of the Pilgrims (which is different from individuality)
- they are quick to judge, slow to learn
- they worship and gossip endlessly about their entertainment stars
- in their feelings of entitlement and freedom they abuse the privacy of others (paparazzi)
- they make little effort to learn the deep cultures of others, especially the East
- they show abuse of culture in public places
- they use unnecessary foul language
- they are slow to engage in important wars, though quickly get involved in foolish ones
- they can be cynical and sarcastic
- they often have no self-control
- they are driven to offer an opinion on everything
- they are fully stocked up on guns, leading to endless tragedies
- their mouths often move before they think
- they adore the trivial and the trite

Several of these traits are naturally common to all of humanity.

Any American with one or more of these traits who reverses it will move into alignment with the very best of life conditions. Then which one(s) do you identify with, and which are you sincerely committed to changing? Please share your experiences in this area.

Comment: Naturally Americans also have many positive qualities, which I have written about elsewhere.

Higher Consciousness Individuals Move the World

It is interesting that an individual of naturally developed high consciousness - Michael Gorbachev - lifted society out of the Cold War, preventing nuclear catastrophe, which is where the US and Russia were headed.

Likewise, a visionary like Steve Jobs created technological tools for an entire age. His was a different form of higher consciousness than Gorbachev, but nevertheless was still a form.

Normally only great men foster great movements that change the world - whether a Di Vinci or a Churchill or a Lincoln.

And yet opening to the Spirit makes that possible for ANY individual. After all it is said that "one man can change the world." And by opening to the Force, that possibility is dramatically enhanced, as any person can be that one man; and there can be many such individuals.

What really changes life then is the application of higher consciousness through pioneer individuals. Whether it is there at birth in a person or is developed through a process of personal and spiritual growth, the world moves forward through the great efforts of Conscious pioneer individuals.

And then when you add the Power of the Supramental action - activated through consecrated effort, - then everything quickly becomes possible.

Thus, there is great hope and vast potential for the world. However, we must consciously partake in that social quest. Our minimum effort should to raise our own consciousness in every way we know how, thereby contributing mightily to the movements of progress in the world.

No Title

When you relate to people from your Soul to Theirs, then every person is cherished no matter their station in life.

No Title

A small quarrel or confrontation can ruin a great possibility that is trying to emerge. This indicates that the small is as great as the large; and therefore everything, every detail, every moment should be valued.

No Title

Consecration brings out the divinity, the infinity even in the smallest thing.

No Title

A spiritual act, a consecrated act offered to the Mother, even for the smallest of matters, has the power to replicate and endlessly expand.

Comment: Example: In the 1970s Appa initiated a scheme for helping land owners locally through bank loans that then spread like wildfire throughout India because it was originally consecrated to Mother, plus he had the deep aspiration for the improvement of India, the country he loved. Thus, embedded in a small matter consecrated is an infinite power to replicate and expand.

No Title

Supramental Truth is not truth overcoming a truth, such as one side is right and another wrong, rather it is truth COMPLETING truth. It Completes any limited truths with the fullness of its knowledge.

No Title

The Real (Supramental) Truth is the truth that takes all points of view and harmonizes and then unites them. That is the supramental consciousness.

No Title

From any truth, even the incomplete truth of others, the attitude should always be "what can I learn from this." This is to take the supramental perspective of the Whole of the truth of things.

No Title

Real Truth completes the missing knowledge of any truth, putting everything in its right place.

No Title

Srinivasa Ramanujan, the great self-taught South Indian mathematician, knew the truth of 100 theorems in his Mind, something that is opposite of the typical mathematician who works hard to figure out one of them by racking his brain. His spiritualized mind opened to the higher knowledge directly, and as a result all the theorems were known to him in one by one or in bunches.

That is how the supramental being will increasingly know in future; through a direct intuition, illumination, revelation of the knowledge simply appearing in the mind. It is to be in Identity with the object of knowledge, without the need for thought.

No Title

In a group of individuals each has a part knowledge of the truth. Often each knows truths the others miss. The Whole Truth is that which Completes the limited truths of each individual. Plus, those truths are now all integrated and interrelated. This is the Supramental Truth and Knowledge one can attain. It contains ultimate power for both insight and success in life, with a vast capacity to manifest ultimate positive conditions.

No Title

Truth is the actual nature of Reality, not merely our own individual opinions, attitudes, or beliefs about it. And when we rise toward supramental, truth consciousness, we begin to move into complete identity with and therefore have many-sided integral knowledge of that Reality. As a result, we have ultimate inner power to know, act, and achieve in life. Life collaborates in every way.

Putting Money in Hands of Higher Consciousness

Money is still mostly in the hands of the Asura (dark forces), though that is rapidly changing due to new developments in consciousness, technology, et al in the world.

For us to participate in winning over money to the higher consciousness, we need to rid ourselves of various corresponding darknesses in our own being. That will release positive energies and then developments that will increasingly put money in the hands of the Good instead of the Greedy or otherwise Unconscious.

What then are your corresponding darknesses in relationship to money, - in terms of habit, attitude, motive, belief, behavior, action, - and what will you do to overcome them?

If you take right actions, you will soon notice corresponding positive conditions related to money suddenly showing themselves in your own life, in your immediate circles, as well as in society around you.

Making that corresponding inner change has that individual AND universal power!

No Title

It is heartening to discover the array of Indian business management authors who seem to have a deeper insight in that field than their Western counterparts. It is an indicator of the deep intellectual capacity of India, including a subtle awareness of the Spirit behind that knowledge. This is a welcome trend that will only accelerate in the coming years.

Life Mirrors Our Nature, though in Subtle Variation

According to the principle of inner-outer correspondence everything happening outside ourselves is a reflection of our consciousness within. Therefore, we can always discover the outer event mirroring something in our nature.

However often that correspondence may not be very obvious and direct. Often it may be difficult to detect the inner quality in ourselves that mirrors the outer circumstance. One needs to seek out a VARIATION in attitude to see the inner-outer connection.

For example, say something bad happens in our sales efforts, such as the cancellation of a contract by the client. We then perceive that it is due to the recklessness of one of our salespeople. Being conscious of such things, we now seek to see the inner correspondence, and conclude that we ourselves are not reckless. So, we then ask how does the outer negative of the salesperson and cancelled account reflect something in me?

However, when we think deeply about it and review our lives, we realize that we have actually been acting insensitively and callously to certain members of our non-sales staff. It is not recklessness, but it is close in that insensitivity and callousness show a disregard for others; same as with recklessness. As a result, now we see the correspondence between our behavior and the lost sales account, and hopefully are conscious enough to make the inner effort to change.

We see something similar occurring in families, where a grown-up child rebels against a parent's negative behaviors and beliefs in a particular area, when actually demonstrating a very similar, though not exact same negative trait with their own children. Eg one may rebel against the blatant materialism of one's parent, yet may pamper one's child to no end, causing them to become spoiled rotten. Pampering is a variation of materialism, just redirecting the attachment in a somewhat different way. Now we can perceive correspondence between our parent's negativity and our own.

This all indicates that inner-outer correspondence may not always be very direct and obvious to our understanding, yet it occurs nevertheless, in subtle and not so subtle shadings.

Outer life events still reflect our positive and negative attitudes and behaviors, even if we don't at first recognize them in the mirror.

No Title

If you want the great benefit, then you will need to make the significant change in consciousness that will bring it about.

No Title

All significant improvement in our lives, in the world require a corresponding change in consciousness.

No Title

It is inevitably the case in normal life that horrible, unexpected developments will come our way, forcing us to change. That is precisely why we need to be open to all points of view, including those we disagree with - not just fixating on our own limited perspective, which is often what gets us in trouble in the first place.

By developing a broad, open mind that embraces all possibilities, we avoid those mistakes, errors, and foolish actions that lead to the inevitable unexpected horrible conditions. By being fully open-minded to every side of an issue, we are armored with the multi-sided Truth of things that leads to wisdom, while shielding us from difficulty and pain.

No Title

Followers of Religion have limited experience of the divine, yet the followers insist on their viewpoint as absolute truth. Spiritual practitioners, on the other hand, have more extensive spiritual experience and insight, and almost never insist on the way things should be. Mental and vital humility is a hallmark of their developing being.

No Title

Karmayogi indicated a while back something to the effect that fantasy literature and films, such as Harry Potter, are like training wheels for the Spiritual life. Though the plots may be silly or unfathomable, the magic serves the purpose of stimulating the young person's imagination, and can be a precursor to partaking in a spirit oriented life. In other words, the artificial magic of fantasy entertainment presages the real Magic of the Spirit to act in life.

No Title

"Study without desire spoils the memory, and it retains nothing that it takes him."

When I studied western philosophy in college, I had little interest in the subject. Years later I couldn't remember a thing about what I had learned. Also, years later I would go through computer software coursed. When I would revisit the topic after a long while I was surprised how much I retained, and how useful it would turn out to be. So, one message is clear; take a deep interest in what you learn; whatever it is.

(thanks to GIIMS)

No Title

There is a difference between a perfectionist who obsesses, and one who perfects every detail knowing that the Infinite can suddenly break out.

No Title

We come to wrong conclusions because we are dominated by our prejudiced viewpoints.

No Title

It is normal for individuals to go through several catharses in their lives. However, if at a young age we acquire a knowledge of the subtle laws of Life, we can avoid most of these harsh realities.

No Title

Consecration transcends conflict, creating new, unprecedented possibilities.

Famous Individuals' Catharsis on the Road to Greatness

We see how so many great individuals were forced to go through a catharsis in order to reach the pinnacles of success. It almost seems to be the norm of life. And yet one wonders if it is necessary; if it a requirement of Life.

Eg Abraham Lincoln was often sarcastic and cynical early in his career, and as a result often abused his political rivals. Then one day one of rival challenged him to a duel. Fortunately, at the last moment both parties agreed to halt the life-threatening situation. And yet this event had a great effect on Lincoln's psyche, and he began to change as a person. Years of personal growth ensued, culminating in his greatness as a president.

Likewise, Steve Jobs invented the personal computer, but was then kicked out of Apple and was forced to wander in the desert of technology. It caused him to change as a person, and when he ascended once again the mantle at Apple, he developed a series of even greater products that revolutionized the world. The catharsis of being kicked out of the company he founded changed his worldview, leading to the powerful positive events that followed.

Finally, Darcy in 'Pride and Prejudice' was humiliated when his marriage proposal was turned down by the woman he adored because of his proud and haughty nature, forcing him to reevaluate himself, after which he engaged in a brave deed that enabled him to prove himself and thereby win over the heart of the one he loved. Without the traumatic event of being turned down, he never would have changed.

And yet we know we can attain any of these great results without catharsis if we learn the laws of higher consciousness early on. As a result, we can avoid the pain life brings, and instead live a life of never-ending success and fulfillment.

No Title

Our anger indicates a hidden flaw from our side.

No Title

We think we are different than our parents (including certain of their negative traits), yet we express some of the very same traits (eg toward our children), but in subtle variation that we completely miss.

No Title

Until you apply the necessary inner or outer Method that achieves, life will continually be haphazard.

Non-Complaining Power

One of the common ways that workers spend their lunch hour or other break-time is by complaining about others - whether superiors, peers, or subordinates.

Yet they fail to realize that NOT complaining has the greatest life-attracting power to resolve such issues. By keeping the heart and mind still in relation to the problem, one sends out positive energies that quickly align with conditions that work in our favor. It is truly one of the astonishing subtle laws of life!

No Title

Belief in the power of the unseen is Faith.

No Title

The best way to know God is to become God.

No Title

"Sri Aurobindo always said that the most important, but also the most difficult thing, is to learn to keep one's BALANCE IN INTENSITY. To have the intensity of aspiration [for growth, the divine], the intensity of effort, the intensity of the march forward, while at the same time keeping one's balance – the balance of perfect peace. That's the ideal condition." (The Mother, Agenda 4/22/1967)

No Title

"What people generally call force (in the English sense of the word strength) is something very heavy and tamasic. The true Force is a movement of fantastic speed but... in perfect calm. There is no agitation; the movement is fantastically faster, but without agitation, in such calm!... They generally don't even feel that Force, yet it is the one that makes – that will make – the transformation possible." (The Mother, Agenda 4/22/1967)

Inner Approaches to Relating to Another's Problem

Karmayogi has emphasized that the more we concentrate on a problem, the more we tend to energize it.; i.e. make it worse. So we see that if we are trying to help our children, parents, staffers, etc with their issues, it may be that we are so absorbed by it, attached to it, bothered by it, that we worsen the situation.

Therefore, we can instead offer the problem to the Higher Power, to the Mother, and then FORGET IT, without insisting on a particular outcome. Now we are in a much better position for the Force to act, and have the problem be resolved, or otherwise attract conditions favorable to all parties involved.

Another complementary method is to think about the nature of the problem that is occurring around us, and change our own consciousness correspondingly. That too will have an immediate positive effect on the outer difficulty. Eg we may see that the outer problem can be related to our own dominating nature, or to a fixed point of view, or to some other limiting quality. Though there may be no obvious, direct association in the ordinary sense, there IS a subtle connection between our own limitation of being and the outer problem, which means if you change the inner, the outer will soon react accordingly.

So if you shift yourself away from thinking about the problem others are having, offer the issue to Mother and forget it, and if possible identify any inner correspondence between your own nature and the outer difficulties people are having and change it, it will benefit all parties involved. The result will be that positive conditions will quickly present themselves, resolving their problem.

On Criticizing a Friend

Since it is well known that you can lose a friend by criticizing a friend, one can instead help them along toward higher consciousness by practicing inner methods such as -

-Non-Reaction - to their intensities or things that bother us. As a result, life will soon respond in the positive.

-Silent Will - i.e. not saying a thing, which compels them to speak it out themselves soon after; and can, in the process, cause them to realize their deficiency on their own. This is also a "response from life."

-Completing Forgetting the Matter - which enables criticism vibrations to dissolve, opening the doors to positive conditions.

-Offering the Matter to the Divine - which activates the higher power, enabling positive conditions to manifest.

In this way, instead of criticizing a friend, we can engage in inner methods that enables the friendship to grow, while both of you rise in consciousness in the process.

(By the way, the same approach can work with anyone else - such as a family member or a fellow worker.)

No Title

From one perspective, Perfection not only requires the perfection of the giver of the service, but also the perfection of the party who receives it.

No Title

Life responds through the unknown and the unexpected.

Reader: Sir is it because Divines plan and way are unknown to human mind

Response: It is because there are deep associations between things, which we do not see. And when we energize those associations through an inner method of ours that evokes a response, it is surprising that it occurs, and startling how it takes shape; i.e. how unexpectedly creative it is.

And then, as you suggest, there is a divine intention, which is in touch with who we are, that we need to experience to grow, etc. Such things are normally far beyond human understanding.

So it's all a bit like watching a film or play that we know nothing about. We sit there in wonder at the startling unfolding.

No Title

On the other side of unwillingness and reluctance lies vast success.

No Title

According to Wikipedia: the richest 1% of the American population in 2007 owned 34.6% of the country's total wealth, and the next 19% owned 50.5%. Thus, the top 20% of Americans owned 85% of the country's wealth and the bottom 80% of the population owned 15%." Also (as of 2012) the bottom 40% combine for a paltry 0.3% of the wealth.

Comment: These are extremely dangerous signs for the country (and other nations as well). It indicates that a New Paradigm of Economics - human centered, with the human being at the center of life - needs to replace the current money orientation that is creating this extreme unequal wealth distribution, as well as dangerous forms of speculative financial undertakings.

Individuality, Faith, and Life Response in 'Interstellar'

Individuality is to be optimistic in pessimistic conditions, embracing life's opportunity with a leap of Faith.

In the movie Interstellar, NASA space pilot and father Cooper was initially in that very situation. However, he then shifted from individuality and the optimism that issues from it, and relied instead on Dr. Brand and his "Plan A".

On the other hand, his daughter Murph demonstrated an inner spiritual courage and Faith that proved to be a greater power.

At one point in the story, knowing that there was no longer a Plan A as devised by Dr. Brand; that her father seemed unlikely to come back; that the earth was dying off due to dust storm; and that the gravity equations was not solved, she wondered what could she possibly do?

And yet when she changed her attitude about her father, releasing all her misgivings, she aligned with his consciousness of "third dimensional time" directly and started to receive his message from beyond the spheres. At that crucial situation, she perceived that it was not some ghost she was seeing, but rather it was her father himself who was trying to communicate with her through the bookshelf and the watch.

As she has said at the conclusion of the movie, no one believed in her when she solved the gravity equations, but it was the value of Faith and Courage; indeed, it was her Individuality that solved the problem for mankind.

As such, we see that our past and future always co-exist in our present. Our change in consciousness, including a reversal of our wanting attitudes align us with related consciousness and bring startling positive results as Life Response. How and where it would align, what kind of results it would bring, we may not know; but what really matters is our present moment, our choice, what we are doing at the here and now.

For example, in the movie, young Murph was able to perceive the message from the bookshelf (third dimensional time) as "STAY" and explained it to her father. But he didn't listen to her and was instead convinced that going for the mission was the right thing; and so he chose the other way.

If he would have listened to his daughter, he would have solved the problem together with her. -- by aligning with her in third dimensional time and receiving the message directly without the need to go on the mission. Would that have been possible? I think yes. It may be like getting in touch with one's Psychic being to bring forth results from depths, instead of going through the process in life.

However, he chose in the other direction. As Life Divine message indicates "there is no waste in the universe." The process of going through the mission, travelling space/wormhole/blackhole and so forth gave him the immense experiences and delight for his soul. On the surface, he missed his daughter and the family very much. That Love was the connecting bridge for both of them to align and to travel from surface to depth to bring out the actual knowledge what was needed at that period on earth.

It's like Darcy in Pride and Prejudice. He could have married to Elizabeth at his first meeting in Meryton, but he chose the other way and came back to the same Reality after going through so much experience in his life. (by Senthil R Murugan)

No Title

Taking the other person's point of view can have the life response effect of dramatically reducing the effort required for creating the outcome.

No Title

There is always scope to be more Cheerful. That single inner shift can go a long way toward making your day a happy and successful one. In fact, Life loves to respond with good fortune to that small but powerful psychological gesture.

No Title

Each time you find yourself in an argumentative state, catch it and halt it in its tracks. Now your day can continue in serenity and peace.

No Title

More scientific evidence is coming verifying the ancient wisdom that brain and mind are not the same entity. Brain is a transmitting mechanism that connects thoughts and the body. Mind is an ascending plane of information, knowledge, and truth that exists everywhere and nowhere.

No Title

Shift your prayer from "oh Mother please bring me this and that" to "I offer to you my wrong xyz attitude related to the current matter so that you can act in my best interest."

No Title

We think of the Spirit as being apart from the body, the vital, the heart, and the mind. However, the purpose of getting in touch with Spirit is to uplift and divinize each of these.

The Journey from Ignorance to Integral Knowledge

Aside from his discovery of the Supramental Power (Mother's Force) and the Psychic Being (evolving soul; the spirit inside us), Sri Aurobindo's great contribution has been his understanding of our multi-dimensional IGNORANCE born of creation. His integral yoga is in fact the multi-birth Journey from Ignorance to Integral Knowledge. I.e. knowledge of the--truth of our nature; including its physical, vital, mental, spiritual parts

-truth of our purpose in life

-truth of the nature and ways of Life

-truth of the purpose of Life

-truth of the nature of the transcendent divine

-truth of the super-nature we can become

-truth of where we as a species are evolving towards

-truth of the evolving spirit within us that connects to the Divine Spirit

The Integral Yoga brings this knowledge to us, enabling us to be leaders of the evolution and harbingers of a coming Divine Life on earth.

No Title

No matter how many times you change jobs, Life's circumstances will repeat and compel you to face the same limitation in your character until you make the necessary decisive change.

No Title

Power of Taking the Other Person's Point of View

Taking the other person's point of view is to shift from your limited viewpoint to that of the universe's.

Taking the other person's point of view puts you in touch with the multi-sided fountain of integral knowledge and Truth.

Taking the other person's point of view puts all necessary knowledge in a given moment at your fingertips.

Taking the other person's point of view is a supramental state, as it harbors multi-sided understanding and awareness.

Taking the other person's point of view shifts one from uncertainty and weakness to truth and inner strength.

Taking the other person's point of view overcomes our limiting separative Ego, and engenders Harmony of Purpose.

Taking the other person's point of view shifts one from assertion and defensiveness to tolerance and open-mindedness.

Taking the other person's point of view causes your own (original) viewpoint to emerge and stand out.

Taking the other person's point of view breeds mental silence and stillness.

Taking the other person's point of view engenders vast insight and success.

Taking the other person's point of view is the shortcut to rapid achievement.

Taking the other person's point of view engenders sudden positive response from life of all sorts.

Taking the other person's view is a shift from ordinary life to A New Way Of Living.

Indian names often consist of spiritual qualities and entities, whereas Western names often indicate physical job tasks and locations. It suggests where emphasis lies in their respective cultures, and perhaps also subtly implies limitations, and thus where change needs to take place.

No Title

Despite the appearance of the opposite, society, nations, and institutions are gradually shifting from separateness to integration. It is a movement from ego to self-identity to unity of purpose.

No Title

Impatience often contributes to lack of understanding.

No Title

At the point that you yield to another's point of view, you move to the universal plane, where life responds and your own aspirations are fulfilled.

No Title

At each point where you restrain from arguing or insisting on your position, that idea is progressively realized in the world.

No Title

Advances in technology and medicine will enable humans to live longer, which from one point of view is a laudable goal. From another, one can ask what good is extending life if humanity is going to continue to live in the same lower consciousness.

Sri Aurobindo on the other hand offers simultaneous unlimited life (live as long as you wish) and the rapid evolution of consciousness. In fact, the latter is what enables the former to come about. That occurs when the divine supramental force reprograms the cells to no longer believe in the inevitability of illness, disease, and death. Then one can live as long as one wishes, while living a life of peace, truth, harmony, love, joy, creativity, timelessness, and infinity.

Referrer of Clients Comes Alive!

Rather than complain about another person letting you down in a work, do all you can on your own to make it right. As a result, startling positive conditions will present themselves.

Eg for over a month a sales group was unable to gain the cooperation of a client's general manager who promised to help them secure additional clients. He made promises, but never quite delivered.

Then one day the head of the sales group decided to take action and not wait around for the referrer individual to act. The sales group head was also able to maintain calm and refrain from any animosity towards the referrer.

A short while later the salesperson was very surprised to receive a phone call from the referrer client, as he had never called before! Moreover, he told the salesperson that he was now deeply engaged in the field trying to secure more clients for the sales group!

The salesperson was stunned at this turn of events, yet he knew that by making the decision to take responsibility and do what he could without the referrer, had in fact attracted the referrer who was now fully engaged in fulfilling the promise he had made repeatedly for over a month!

No Title

Willingness brings inner peace, and inner peace bring humility.

Reader: What is "willingness" in this context sir?

Response: Say your boss asks you to do something somewhat challenging. You can be willing or unwilling to do it. If you give in and take their point of view, you become willing, which is often followed by a sense of ease and even deep peace. In deep peace one feels a soft stillness, and the ego fades; and therefore humility can take hold.

No Title

Peace is the pleasure behind the moment.

No Title

Over-anticipating anything, including money, delays it.

No Title

Where Mother's devotees reside, work, or focus their interest, that land, people thrive and prosper, becoming vanguards in the world.

Simultaneous "Unrelated" Events

When two apparently unrelated significant events arrive simultaneously, on deeper analysis you will see that they are actually very much connected.

Eg a man received an email from a boss that was a wholly uncalled for and unfounded rant on the political scene. At the very same time, the man received another message from the finance division of that same firm that funds he had earned were on their way, which was good news

On its own, the man might have thought that that he perhaps he should no longer work for his seemingly crackpot boss. However, the coming funds indicated that despite the rant, it was worth continuing to be part of his organization - at least until signs indicate otherwise.

In this way, through synchronous events, - even if they are seemingly incongruent with one another - can reveal subtle truths and indicators for the future.

No Title

Laziness, unwillingness, blame, expectation, over-anticipation, complaint, mistrust, sarcasm, gossip, carelessness, slovenliness, disorganization, uncleanliness, loud speech, hoarding, wastage, and depleted energies, among others, delay the flow of money in your direction.

No Title

Ironically, "laissez-faire" (free markets) works most powerfully when those individuals, entrepreneurs work for the betterment of the entire society. On the other hand, Laissez-faire by itself, for its own sake, for its own interests alone, gradually destroys or warps itself, as we have seen in recent years.

No Title

The evils of Communism came about because of the excesses of Capitalism (greed, oppression, corruption), as well the meddling of the nations of the ladder in the early formations of the former.

No Title

Mindless pursuit of money, influence, power is a grave digger.

Reader: Sir, I have a question. As a Mother devotee, all the above three things come to us. So what should be our attitude towards it?

Response: Pursue high attitudes -- toward work, life, others, and self; focus on being self-giving; do the work as perfectly as you can; make each day a day of personal growth - while shifting your attention away from obsession with money, influence, and power.

Decide at the beginning of the day which values you are going to pursue - the higher or the lower. The choice is ours.

As Mother devotees, we also gain her power in that process if we choose to call to her at each point.

No Title

The reason there has been a seemingly never-ending "Black problem" in America from the Civil War onward is because it has been a negative life response to the actions of the settlers here who brought disease and death to the 25 million Native Peoples, virtually wiping them out, in the period just before.

Synchronicities and Our Path

The intense Synchronous moments observed in life may be the life-changing experiences coming from our deeper self trying to synchronize with our surface self directly to show us the path. Some examples:

- Darcy's arrival while reading Lydia's elopement letter in Pride and Prejudice.
- The falling of Book from the shelf to Dan in the novel The Book.
- Arrival of Abbe Faria on the verge of Edmond Dante's life in Count of Monte Cristo
- The crucial moment to find gravity solutions for Murph in film Interstellar (Senthil R. Murugan)

Supramental Business Planning

In normal business life, the leaders or founders of the organization bring out the relevant issues they are familiar with, weigh the possibilities, and then come to conclusions that are then acted upon. It is a rational, yet still incomplete approach. A far more successful method would include the following approaches, which essentially brings to bear the power of Higher Consciousness.

-The mind would be more still and more open, attracting intuitions of knowledge without the necessity to think. Thus, the final goal and conclusion of the normal human analysis and synthesis process described above would be known at the outset.

-Through an elevation of consciousness in the planning stage, the goal is achieved before it is even executed as the spiritual Force attracts the outcome at the beginning.

-Through mental silence, higher attitudes, and opening to the Force the results come quickly in ways one would never have imagined, while opening up new opportunities never thought of before.

Such "Supramental Business Life" is available to anyone who wishes to engage in it. It is just a matter of knowing which of the Inner Keys to turn. I.e. which inner psychological and spiritual method to utilize that will quickly evoke the miraculous.

No Title

In the old world, spiritual teachers focused on spiritual matters alone. But increasingly in the new world the Spirit is being applied to the Details of life, bringing out its perfection, infinity, divinity.

No Title

For the spiritual aspirant, the challenge of Life is all inward, not outward.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo, the great spiritual sage and seer, worked inwardly for the independence of India. It miraculously occurred on his birthday, August 15th.

Comment: It is also the day 2 years earlier when WWII ended in Asia, also something he inwardly worked for.

Power of Affection

To feel genuine affection for people around you is a wonderful goal worth pursuing. It is an indicator of a growing consciousness and the spirit moving in life. That being the case, ask yourself which individuals have you been none to pleasant toward or oblivious to - among friends, family, co-workers - who are worthy of your attention and affection? When you then give of yourself in this way, not only will it energize the recipient, but good fortune will descend on all parties.

Sri Aurobindo and Mother: First Avatars Seeking Man, Speeding Up the Evolution

Sri Aurobindo says that in the past the Avatars came down to reveal the divinity, not to work for this transformation. Mother and Sri Aurobindo are the first to come to work for the evolution here on earth.

They did not come just to show humanity that there is a higher reality. They came to speed up the evolution.

They took birth in human bodies to bring the Supramental down into the world. They called the Supramental Force down into matter. They came to do the yoga for humanity.

In the tradition, so far man has been seeking the Avatar. This is the first time that the Avatars have come seeking man. (Sri Karmayogi)

Hypocrisy of US Brings Terrorism: Satyagraha of India Brings Partition

Anti-Americanism, as all feeling protests, is largely due to the aid USA has given this region. Diplomacy has degenerated into organised hypocrisy, which terrorism is addressing, by its bombs. A nation that had wiped out the entire population of Red Indians now espousing the cause of human rights may be a welcome development, but it is ridiculous. Such ridiculous behaviors are without number. Nature's way of answering them is of the type of terrorism.

Nature has presented partition and ten million refugees as an answer to Satyagraha [Gandhi's non-violent resistance], an inadequate force for a formidable cause. Knowing the language of Nature, life, society, time and the ways in which law, government, and the masses function will be a help to study politics. (Karmayogi)

No Title

In potential Internet has the capacity to create more freedom than even democracy.

No Title

The scale of social evolution in terms of governance is-

Repression > Stable, Good Government > Democracy > Inner Freedom

Thus, asking a repressive state to go directly to Democracy without first going through stable, good governance is naive. Russia is a current example.

No Title

The economic prosperity of a nation is directly dependent upon how independent the Individual there is. (Karmayogi)

No Title

Britain brought geographical unity, democracy, modernization to India and her other colonies. (Karmayogi)

No Title

Frustration with the situation indicates several wrong attitudes behind.

Two Doctors

Life's requirements can be greater than an apparent moral good.

Example: A doctor believed that experiments should not be conducted on humans to determine the validity of an untested medical solution. However, the doctor's best friend suddenly had a serious injury, and only an experimental procedure could solve it.

And so despite the doctor's anger with the approach, another doctor conducted the emergency operation using the untested approach. It turned out to work perfectly, showing that Life's requirement was even greater than the apparent moral good of the first doctor.

Life in fact demanded the experimental procedure of the second doctor whom the first doctor believed was in the wrong.

New Article: On Liberality, Conservatism, And Governance In USA – By Roy Posner

[A question was raised as to whether there is a liberal bias in the media and elsewhere in America. That touched off the following thoughts, which came to me in multiple parts.]

Undoubtedly the liberal approach is in the ascendancy, and there is a bias in that sense. And it - Liberal Democracy – is fully spreading throughout Europe and now Asia. It is because that despite its limitations - and there are several key ones - it is far more aligned to the Truth of things; to human values. And if it can (1) rid itself of the belief in giving aid to countries abroad (not good, as they later resent it), and (2) shed the belief that government must spend enormous sums to solve problems, instead of partnering with the public sector, it's overall approach will continue to be embraced around the world.

It is clear that a laissez-faire approach to governance, economics, et al can no longer work in the modern world. As a renowned Indian thinker explained to me, the falsehood that Bush Jr represented had to play out for all the world to see (9/11, Katrina, Financial crisis and Great Recession, misguided Iraq war), so that the laissez-faire philosophy can be rejected once and for all. And so the Republican Party is still reeling from that, and therefore a fanatic like Trump has filled that vacuum.

Then what is governments purpose? For one, government can serve by offering to the people a vision of what is possible, and what is aimed at, as in China, India, and most of Europe; and the private sector and the people are influenced to carry it out. Government should not force that vision and goal on anyone, but nudge society in that direction. America has too often avoided this approach as it is the land of individuality where government should not interfere. But that is no longer enough. When China, India, and other nations are zooming ahead because of that integral approach of government working with the private sector and the people themselves (despite the flaws there), we must reevaluate our own limited laissez-faire, contempt for government perspective of a large segment of the population. We in turn can continue to nudge other nations toward freedom and individuality

The Republican view is dying because it does not wish to follow such an integral approach. And the liberal Democrats will increasingly be forced to follow it due to the pressures in society, if they wish to remain in power.

Ultimately something greater is emerging that we now only dimly see. In parts of Asia and Europe they have already begun this approach with great success. We will see if America follows suit.

A new Human-based (not money based) Economic paradigm is beginning to present itself, as the old ways crumble under the strain of its limitations. A new world is trying to be born.

I believe it is helpful to distinguish between Governance and the Process of Growth in a society.

Societies evolve when Pioneer Individuals bring something new into the world, and then society hopefully follows. In one sense, governance exists to foster this dynamic through leadership. It is to take the best of these ideas percolating from below and make it known to the society as potential objectives to move the nation or community forward. In this way liberal democracies champion the individual while fostering their view for the benefit of everyone.

Liberal democracies are also sensitive to issues like tolerance, fairness, et al, making sure that excesses are avoided in society. It a protection and security function of government.

Weapons proliferation, lack of gun control, financial speculation that jeopardizes the economy are examples of excesses. In the past it was to control over labor abuse, environmental degradation, etc. Modern government seek to protect the public from such abuse, as well as protect the people from foreign aggression, as well as provide basic necessities like infrastructure, a harmonious physical environment, etc.

Encouraging individuality and the ways of pioneers, setting the tone and direction for the people, protection against abuse by other sectors, and the security of the people are amongst governments duties. It becomes a partner in the growth process in society. It is also engaged in the world, not cowering or hiding or being involved in the issues of the world

In WWI and WWII, the Republican Party did not want to get involved in those struggles, putting the US and the world at grave risk. This is a shame that cannot be forgotten. Likewise, during the time of Stalin, liberals in the US were oblivious that he was killing 25 million of his people. That too is a great shame.

In one sense, the entire issue is really about human Ignorance. Both sides -- liberal and conservative -- have it, demonstrate it time and time again. In fact, looking at it another way, governments, the private sector, and the people are constantly swimming in ignorance. And yet also in that sense we can learn from one another to avoid our misconceptions which further harm the world. Thus, that can be another value of governance - the pursuit of Truth.

The era of hard ideologies is ending, as it cannot stand up to the exigencies and pressures of life. Solutions to pressing problems are at hand and that is why we are in an era where we are seeing increasing cooperation among nations and regions in so many areas of life, not retreat into bunker mentality or just "letting things go as they may -- i.e. laissez-faire." All manners of new associations and bodies are blossoming throughout the world seeking to bring fresh, new solutions to the world's problems. These are the types of connections - economic, political, social, cultural - that build bridges and helps solve the problems that are ever-accelerating in society. These interconnections are the necessary steps for not only solving the many problems, but also for the further emergence of Human Unity.

Laissez faire economics and approach to society is now considered a failed method. No one wants disengagement and "letting things be; let the market solve it on its own" approach. It only exacerbates the problems. Engagement in the world so we can move forward together is increasingly becoming the modus operandi. Active bridge building among the nations is increasingly occurring to solve common problems. In Asia, we see this rapidly emerging. EU is the example in Europe.

US will need to increasingly participate with these movements as well. We can work with other nations to solve our common problems.

Conservatives may be alarmed to learn that a light firm of global governance - such as a world parliament or similar - may soon emerge in the world to tackle these increasing pressing cross-nation economic, social, and environmental challenge that cross national boundaries and cannot be solved by individual nations alone.

There is a conservative strain in American life that is anti-government. It's grounded in a truth that is mixed with a falsehood.

The meshing of freedom and Individuality is one of the great contributions of America. It is a combination of values that appeals to almost everyone in society. However, Individuality is not the same as Individualism, which is anti-government. That latter extreme strain of belief has its roots in the Pilgrims who came to avoid intolerance of European nations, but then set in stone an anti-government philosophy that has unfortunately spread and lasted till this day. It has poisoned conservative thinking, and led to US uninvolved at the outset of WWI and WWII, which could have brought totalitarianism throughout the world including the USA. Winston Churchill himself warned his fellow Tories who were not willing to engage the enemy at the outset of these wars due a similar conservative, anti-government strain in England.

A second false belief is the right to have weapons, manifesting currently as 200 million guns in the hands of the public. Such a thing exists nowhere else in the world and is an extreme menace to society. It too has roots in an outdated belief. Guns were acquired by American settlers to protect against Native Americans incursions. But there has been no such thing for over 150 years. Bad habits spread become festering infections in society. The society has now become an armed camp, and can prove lethally dangerous if social problems continue to fester in the society.

Add that to a culture that is obsessed by violence, violent films and video-games, infatuation with street gangs, love of weapons proliferation and technology, crime et al, and you have a corrupted underbelly of society. Old outworn values of Puritan anti-government individualism and 2nd American Gun Rights create a false bottom for conservative forces in America. It is ruining them and their philosophy. However, the public will no longer tolerate it. If you then mix in the often crude cultural behaviors of young people, you have a very toxic combination.

As a result, countries like India which look to America as an economic model also see her culture of violence and guns, of extreme immodesty and lack of purity and say "we don't want those aspects. We will take her economic model, even her culture of individuality, freedom, and tolerances, but not her excesses." This is how America is viewed around the world. When they hear about the gun violence and the rantings of a maniac like Trump, they wonder what America stands for anymore.

And yet Conservatives rightly see the excesses of Hollywood, even as liberals see the excesses of Wall Street. Hopefully, each are beginning to learn from one another, which would be a good thing.

Conservatives also raise the issue that we are moving away from classic culture, such as standard great literature in the name of cultural diversity. Again, there is some truth in this mixed in with a core falsehood.

I recall during the 60s and 70s how rebellious youth in America were exposed to the writings of Native Americans, Sufi (mystical Islam), to the deep spiritual culture and wisdom of the Indian Vedas, Upanishads and Gita; to the writings of Zen and the Buddha, to contributions of blacks and women, and on and on. We were introduced to new worlds, new vistas that the western classics alone did not address. Now this knowledge is increasingly assimilated and becomes part of a much greater knowledge. Well it turns out that Liberals embraced this current, even if they did avoid the classics for a while. It shows their tendency to be in touch with the progressive and evolving currents of society, even though it can seem excessive at times.

I remember when I was a boy and the Judeo-Christian view and the 10 Commandments and Jesus was the only thing we were exposed to; and if we wandered from that straight and narrow we were ridiculed. Contrast that now with endless founts of wisdom that is at our fingertips through the Internet, a system developed by and large by the liberal hippies who became boomers. And the same with the personal computer and the smartphone. And so now as a result we are now a long way from the rigid conservative view of the previous conservative generations.

After all, how can one be an individual if we are locked into a narrow mindset? What good is freedom and individuality, if we are boxed in to only know the traditional way.

Let me end here with this one thought: that there is a difference in my mind between Freedom and Liberty. Freedom is the space that allows us to act in the way we so choose. Liberty is the opportunity in society to experience Freedom. When all facets of society work together, including government, the private sector, the people, et al, then we create the Liberty that allows true Freedom to flourish.

The great eye opener of the 21st century in term of economics has been the Great Recession which itself was initiated by the financial speculation on home purchases. It not only devastated the economy, reduced net worth among all classes, but revealed other problems that had been festering for years. Two are key: One is the utterly skewed income distribution in the society, where now 80% of the wealth is owned by 20% of the people. Where the lower 40% owns less than 1% of the wealth. These are astonishing statistics.

We could argue that this is the natural way of things. That money first comes to the wealthy and then it filters down into the other classes of society. However, there are signs that this unequalness is still accelerating. In a laissez-faire based economics, this may be the outcome, especially if financial schemes (shenanigans) is at the root for the economy. Conservatives have been unwilling to address this, and liberals are deeply concerned, but do not have any integral solutions. Even the recent comeback of the economy, in terms of all time high prices of the stock market and so-called low unemployment is favoring the wealthy who are acquiring most of the newly generated wealth, while on the other side, middle class jobs are for the most part lower-paying, requiring many people to take two poor-paying jobs to survive. The pressures on the middle class are thus becoming enormous.

Which brings us to the second outcome of the Great Recession, which is that income has not risen for the middle class over the last 20 years. That the average salary is the same as it was two decades ago. This is a really startling statistic. I recall Bill Clinton in the 90s continually asking the public, the private sector and all to make sure Americans got the skills necessary for the 21st century. For the most part it happened. His call to re-skill was never heeded to, as people felt comfortable with where they were at. When Globalism took shape, the value of their labor collapsed, or at least it did not continue its steady rise of 40 years.

In the wake of these developments there is an angry public, with even angrier candidates espousing a mixture of coherent and incoherent solutions. Here is where America has lost trust in government's ability to solve problems, even though they the citizens themselves are as much to blame as anyone. It is they who refused to skill up - save the progressive people on the two US coasts who did in fact take up the clarion call. Silicon Valley is the ultimate proof of the power of knowledge to create a new world and break away from the limits of society. It is their Individuality that is creating the new world.

There ARE solutions, such as free education and free MOOC courses on the Internet, etc. that can help people acquire the necessary knowledge and skills for the modern economy. Yet many regions of the country, -- particularly in the Midwest and South -- have dug a deep hole for themselves by not acquiring the necessary skills for higher paying jobs that would enable a nation-wide increase in wages beyond its current 20-year stagnant condition.

One wonders if Capitalism can save them. Or is it really the super-entrepreneurs of Silicon Valley, Austin Texas, Seattle Washington et al who will create the vast wealth that others can become a part of. Maybe government can only guide people in this direction, not solve these problems directly. Or perhaps the problems are really global not local in essence, and a comprehensive solution must come from above. Or both.

In any case, the two parties seem unable to put a comprehensive program together to see our way out of the great problems revealed by the Great Recession.

One other thought: When it comes to the middle class, I have recently been advocating a new theory, which goes something like this: Because the US failed to deal with the poor, especially in urban and rural America from 1950-1990, that "poverty" has now spread to the middle class, many of whom are in essence the "new poor." Or to put it another way, if you avoid a problem that is festering, it spreads. In this case from the lower to the middle class. This is again the result conservative thinking that simply avoids solving such problems, "letting the market decide;" as well as the liberals who have a keen interest in the subject, but do not have a way to solve it other than throwing money at the problem. The ability of public and private sectors to work together to solve the problems are avoided, as each side constantly retreats into its own ideological corners.

It makes me think that the presidential race between Trump and Clinton has been so intense not because of these two players, but because the people feel hopeless in the face of the new economic reality that are now facing. And the more the election becomes a confrontation of personalities, the more the public feels alienated. Of course, blame is fully on the heads of the citizenry as they need to look in the mirror and see what they have advocated over the last several decades, avoiding skills (except at the coasts) and being self-satisfied with the way things were, while the world was rapidly changing.

Enter the role of Globalism into this soup of confusion for the American citizenry. The reasons skills were advocated is because of the global nature of labor. It seeks lowest costs, which puts great pressure on current jobs, when it can be done cheaper elsewhere. Americans like many others had their head in the sand on this issue. They knew jobs were going overseas. What they didn't know is what to do about it. Despite Bill Clinton's clarion call, the issue was pushed aside.

Fortunately, a great element entered the picture in the form of the Internet, and then Smartphones. This opened up infinite opportunities. Those who seized it, whether programmers, or other entrepreneurs rode a vast wave of success. The Internet had suddenly given the entrepreneur a great tool to be great. Internet became a fountain of Liberty, as it created a vast potential for vast numbers of people to become true individuals. This is what the people on the US coasts discovered, especially the West Coast.

Even education itself has been liberated through the Internet, if only individuals here and abroad made use of these enormous, low-cost learning tools. It seems that despite ourselves, some Force is alive in the world that is bringing "economic and social grace" if only we recognize it and take it up. The individuality of individuals can take flight through the blessings of an overwhelmingly helpful new Tool in the world.

Though the political parties are aware of the power of the Internet, there is not yet a comprehensive understanding of how to make use of it. In the meantime, entrepreneurs from below are exercising their Individuality, which is occurring in a dynamic atmosphere of Liberty that enables one to fulfill one's deepest aspirations.

Which leads to what government should ultimately be about. Namely, a human-centered institution from above that gently guides the people to fulfill their deepest aspiration, by helping them become themselves, their True Selves, which is the real fount of all creativity that manifests in the world.

No Title

Accomplishment through insight & intuition, and Self-congratulations do not go hand in hand.

No Title

The greater the powers developed through yoga, the more humility is required.

No Title

Everything that comes to you is significant. A tiny matter can point to, lead to a great outcome if you relate to it in the right way.

No Title

We often come to erroneous conclusions because we Hate something, or because we Love it.

How Societies Evolve and Governance's Purpose

Societies evolve when Pioneer Individuals bring something new into the world, and then society hopefully follows.

In one sense, governance exists to foster this dynamic through leadership. It is to take the best of these ideas percolating from below and make it known to the society as potential objectives to move the nation or community forward.

In this way, liberal democracies champion the individual while fostering their view for the benefit of everyone.

Government Duties

Encouraging individuality and the ways of pioneers, setting the tone and direction for the people, protection against abuse by other sectors, and the security of the people are amongst governments duties.

It becomes a partner in the growth process in society.

It is also engaged in the world, not cowering or hiding or being involved in the issues of the world

Increasing Cooperation in the World to Solve Global Problems

The era of hard ideologies is ending, as it cannot stand up to the exigencies and pressures of life. Solutions to pressing problems are at hand and that is why we are in an era where we are seeing increasing cooperation among nations and regions in so many areas of life, not retreat into bunker mentality or just "letting things go as they may – i.e. laissez-faire." All manners of new associations and bodies are blossoming throughout the world seeking to bring fresh, new solutions to the world's problems.

These are the types of connections - economic, political, social, cultural - that build bridges and helps solve the problems that are ever-accelerating in society.

These interconnections are the necessary steps for not only solving the many problems, but also for the further emergence of Human Unity.

Individuality vs. Individualism

The meshing of freedom and Individuality is one of the great contributions of America. It is a combination of values that appeals to almost everyone in society.

However, Individuality is not the same as Individualism, which is anti-government. That latter extreme strain of belief has its roots in the Pilgrims who came to avoid intolerance of European nations, but then set in stone an anti-government philosophy that has unfortunately spread and lasted till this day. It has poisoned conservative thinking, and led to US uninvolvedness at the outset of WWI and WWII, which could have brought totalitarianism throughout the world including the USA.

Winston Churchill himself warned his fellow Tories who were not willing to engage the enemy at the outset of these wars due a similar conservative, anti-government strain in England.

Freedom vs. Liberty

There is a difference in my mind between Freedom and Liberty. Freedom is the space that allows us to act in the way we so choose. Liberty is the opportunity in society to experience Freedom.

When all facets of society work together, including government, the private sector, the people, et al, then we create the Liberty that allows true Freedom to flourish.

No Title

How can American leaders speak with moral authority and certitude in the Middle East, the Arab world, and elsewhere when it engaged in the systematic annihilation of 25 to 50 million of its own Native Peoples by slaughter and disease.

Subtle Strategies to Counter Bullying, Abusive Behavior

Q: How does one deal with bullying, abusive and threatening individuals?

A: How to respond depends on the plane from which you wish to act -- i.e. physical, vital, mental, spiritual.

First of all, it is best NEVER to lose one's temper; no matter what the situation.

A Mental approach to bullying behavior is to discover strategies that can compel a bully to change; such as contacting someone in authority; working through a common friend, etc.

A step up, i.e. a Spiritual approach is Non-Reaction. By simply withdrawing all anger, bother, even interest, you will begin to see things happening, circumstance unfolding where the bully's ways are being tempered. It takes patience and control of our feelings for such startling positive outcomes to take shape.

Then there is the opposite approach: When I was a child I physically tackled two different bullies who were physically and psychologically abusing friends of mine. That worked somewhat because they responded to force. Unfortunately, they continued to bully other individuals they perceived as weak. This is the other extreme - the Physical approach. It only works when you are "prepared to go to war."

I have seen the power of Non-Reaction to people's behavior, including various forms of bullying and abusiveness. It is simply amazing how it attracts positive change. In tandem with Consecration - i.e. opening to the spiritual Force - it is normally unfailing. That's my suggestion.

No Title

Planning reduces 50% of the physical effort. Consecration can eliminate 100% of the physical, vital, and mental effort. Actually, it can be greater than that, as life responds and the benefit doubles or more!

No Title

If you make the full, exhaustive effort, and the result does not come, very soon after it WILL - in another form, from another direction.

No Title

A consecrated effort brings startling, unexpected results during the unfolding; even before the intended goal is accomplished.

No Title

Withholding a verbal request of another to have something done compels them to act on it shortly thereafter. It is the spiritual method of "Silent Will" in action.

The Nature and Capacities of the Planes of Being

There are four essential planes of being (from lowest to highest) - physical, vital, mental, and spiritual.

- The spiritual is the only plane that can solve problems of any of the others.
- The spiritual is the only plane that can produce results from all others simultaneously.
- The lower plane cannot solve a problem of the higher one.
- The higher can solve a problem of planes lower than it.
- The higher the plane, the more subtle it is; the less material.
- The higher the plane, the less mechanistic and empirical.
- The higher the plane, the more varied the possibilities.
- The higher the plane, the less fixed it is in time.
- Progress is an upward movement amongst the planes, but there is also a descent for it to be fully realized.
- For each plane, there are multiple sub-planes. At least 3 for each; and each of the 12 subdivided by another 3, for 36 at least.
- We can also perceive planes from the surface to the depths. Eg surface Mind to inner mind.

No Title

There will be various points in a project or other work where there is anxiety, worry, bother, etc. It is at these points that all emotion should be withdrawn, all thought of it emptied, as if it were forgotten. Add consecration of the matter as a final touch. Now life can more readily move in these areas, in due time, on its own, creating optimal beneficial results.

No Title

The first thing to do when you Lose something is to remain very calm, have faith, and then proceed as best you can. In such a positive atmosphere, what was lost is bound to be quickly found.

No Title

We see a person before us as a body that is in motion and sentient. But that is not how they are experiencing their own lives. They are experiencing it just like you: from within, inside their body, in their minds, looking out on the world.

No Title

The degree to which you live in the Depths (as opposed to the surface) is a key measure of your yogic achievement.

No Title

The Divine reveals Itself at the end of making the extra effort, going the extra mile.

Real Life Matched by TV Synchronicity

As soon as you switch on the tv after intensely discussing an idea or experiencing specific circumstance related to one's work or self, you are likely to see the show being broadcast presenting the very same thing you were focused on.

How is this possible? How can this billion to one shot matching real life and tv life take place? Indeed, it is a startling subtle association of life known as "synchronicity."

Knowing the subtle laws that govern this and related "life response" phenomenon will increasingly be important and key to success in future.

Two Doctors at Odds & the Requirements of Life

It can be seen that Life's requirements and demands can supersede in truth an apparent moral good.

Example: A doctor believed that experiments should not be conducted on humans to determine the validity of an untested medical solution. However, the doctor's best friend suddenly had a serious injury, and only an experimental procedure could solve it.

And so despite the doctor's anger with the approach, another doctor conducted the emergency operation using the untested approach. It turned out to work perfectly, showing that Life's requirement was even greater than the apparent moral good of the first doctor.

Life in fact demanded the experimental procedure of the second doctor whom the first doctor believed was in the wrong.

No Title

The more your mind is clear and free of all thought, the more intuitions of knowledge of what is necessary to be known will descend into your being.

No Title

Look around, keep your eyes open, your mind alert. Many of Life's subtle laws and ways of working will reveal themselves.

No Title

Willingness to learn from a negative situation attracts a mirror-image positive one.

No Title

It is advised that parents mentor their children; not lord over and dominate them. In adolescence, teen years and forward, parents should pull back further still, letting their children alone determine what they want and who they wish to be. Guidance is welcome, smothering them with our intentions is not.

No Title

As marriage breaks down in the West, learning the inner keys that deepen Romance between partners become that much more important. At RomanceEternal we have discovered these inner methods, and offer them free to the world.

Of course, Easterners are invited as well, as they too can learn the secrets of deep, abiding, long-lasting Love. In fact, the principles of Romance offered are based on the profound spiritual teachings of India and elsewhere

Non-Initiative in Finding a Romantic Partner

Selecting the right partner and living together peacefully in a lasting relationship are not easy. Is there a way to select rightly? Is there a way to ensure that a peaceful relationship lasts? The answer to both questions is 'Yes'. The short answer is patience and good manners.

Eagerness for relationship and intensity of emotions often make us rush into relationships that later disappoint or end painfully. Patience in selecting a partner works far better. Better still, refrain from taking initiative and wait for life circumstances to indicate whether the relationship is really meant to be. Unhurried non-initiative is the secret of making the right choice.

No Title

Hard ideologies prevent one from ever perceiving the integral truth of things.

No Title

10% of the US population now control 75% of the wealth of the nation. This can be the basis of great instability, even insurrection in the country. So far none of the leaders have a comprehensive plan to change this and uplift the Middle Class out of its severe doldrums. Each are stymied by a limiting ideology.

A fresh, new approach, including a Human-centered economics (instead of money centered) as advocated by the World Academy can be the basis of integral growth strategies that can help change the distribution of income and wealth to something that is more fair and just.

To know what you wish to be, begin by connecting to and asking your Soul "what are my deepest Aspirations in life." Answers will quickly come. Now consider the possibilities, and then follow your heart. You will be set on the right path toward success, even greatness.

No Title

Parents who are concerned about the direction of their children's career and meddle in their decision in any way are doing a great disservice. They should completely stay out, and have faith inside that their children are moving in the right direction. That is all a parent can do. More than that is interfering, which is destructive.

Check Out Incident: Sarcasm and Negative Response

It is a subtle truism of Life that even the tiniest sarcasm can instantly attract negative circumstance.

A woman who was a cashier at an enormous department store was checking out a customer who was next in line. It was Saturday and the store was mobbed.

The customer put all his goods save one on the conveyor belt. When the items were being checked out, the man told the cashier that there was one large item remaining in the cart which was too heavy to put on the belt. She vaguely nodded in recognition of his remark.

As she was checking out the items she saw that several items out of -20 were for his pets, and as a result said to the man "boy, your cats are sure spoiled." She said it with a smile. However, the man was surprised to hear her say that and responded that he purchased several pet items because he had run out of everything in that area.

After he ran his credit card through the machine to make the purchase, he reminded the woman about the still unchecked out item remaining in the cart. However, she had already printed out his receipt.

And so she began to apologize profusely to the man, while informing him that he had to run his card once more through the machine to accommodate the item in the cart. In fact, an entirely new bill had to be created. Meanwhile, the cashier continued to apologize profusely for her error, until the moment he left.

As for the man himself, he had remained quite calm throughout the episode, and also sensed the subtle life response principle behind what had taken place.

As we see, a small faux pas in the form of a sarcastic remark can attract problematic circumstance. That even the tiniest, seemingly insignificant remark has the power to evoke difficult conditions.

So the next time you are tempted to express a sarcasm or cynicism, catch yourself and hold back expression. You will be doing yourself a big favor!

PS Remember the large, heavy item in the cart? Well it turned out to be another one of the man's pet purchases, adding just a little bit of irony to this true story!

No Title

Life is a series of natural and spontaneous changes. Don't resist them; that only creates sorrow. Let reality be reality. Let things flow naturally forward in whatever way they choose. (Lao Tzu)

No Title

For any problem we have, there is a set of solutions that are there in the subtle plane that our mind is not able to grasp. However, if we are silent and still, if we consecrate the issues, our mind will expand to that plane and those solutions will enter our consciousness as an intuitive knowledge, or other formations of that Truth.

Feeling Another's Pain from a Distance

One aspect of yogic life is that you experience the physical pains of others who are at a distance.

A variation is that you experience symptoms of an individual who has earlier experienced a serious illness that you only later find out about.

As soon as you understand the external source of the pain, it instantly goes away.

Life Repeats in Business

It is said that life circumstance will repeat again and again until a different consciousness is brought to bear. Consider these facts:

--(2006) Microsoft Windows based PCs has -90% market share. Apple PCs has <10%

--(2016) Google Android based Smartphones has 80%+ market share and growing. Apple Smartphones has <10%

It is the difference between an open system vs. closed system. Microsoft and Google allowed other companies to manufacture their OS. Apple only allowed itself to build them. The world takes to the open system, not the closed away. Closed ones can be for elites, but then it becomes a barrier to global success and becoming a world standard.

It is a subtle principle that life repeats unless a force of Change is brought to bear. Microsoft's and Google's more open system, based on a kind of generosity and open-mindedness of the founders, and Apple's closed system based on a kind of possessiveness of its founders, of keeping its products close to its vest has repeated.

Apple still has time to change course for its future products however. A shift in consciousness will reopen the doors of infinity for them if they so choose.

Detachment & Success

If there is something, someone that you are very attached to, - like a local sports team or a family member - that you also really want to succeed, the best approach is to give up the attachment, ignoring it as much as possible. While you have forgotten, in time, at the right moment, their success will fully blossom.

No Title

In a highly conflictive situation, where the facts bear out that you are mostly in the right, still it is worth considering why you attracted that situation. If you do, you are likely to discover a limitation in your being at play, or there is an area of your being where you are capable of bringing to bear a higher consciousness method you have recently learned about; or both.

No Title

It is more facile to be unique, different, individualistic on the surface than it is in the depths. On the surface, it translates as image. In the depths, it is Aspiration of the soul and being.

Reader: Thank you Sir.

One cannot manifest the Divine will as long as he is member of the collective. Probably being individualistic on the surface is the first step to become a True Individual. Actually, that is ego. But it needs to be outgrown eventually by recognizing Divinity in others around which may bring forth the knowledge from the depths and also might align with the cosmic intent. It's a journey of Self-realization. That's what Darcy had been through in P&P from surface individual to become a True Individual. (From Garry Sir Speech)

Response: Yes, the journey from surface to depths is also one from ego-based individuality to soul based. Now one becomes the True Spiritual Individual, taking all guidance and cues from Within.

No Title

The cosmic, subtle knowledge of how life truly works can populate Artificial Intelligence (AI) systems of the future, accelerating the revolution in human consciousness that is now beginning to unfold.

No Title

Going one step beyond your threshold opens the doors to the infinite.

No Title

Rather than resist a complaint or suggestion of a spouse, do the best you can to see the truth in it, and follow that advice. Life will quickly respond in the positive.

No Title

Inferiority complex related to a matter attracts additional failures.

No Title

Constantly putting down the other side who are successful is a sign of inferiority complex, and invariably attracts additional failure. Best to ignore the opposition, and instead discover one's inner resources and strengths.

No Title

The subtle principles of how and why life unfolds as it does is completely missed by material science. They are focused on the surface, when the Truth of things lies in the psychological and spiritual depths.

No Title

Through Mother, Gorbachev saved the world.

No Title

Hatred of government by US citizens of the South contribute to that area's poverty and destitution.

No Title

While you are absorbed in the needs of the present, your subconscious is guiding your future.

No Title

Jesus who brought Love to the world did not have the Power to avoid the cross.

No Title

Krishna who is adored for his deeds, his associations, and the boons he can bestow, is not truly understood for what he really is - soul of the divine in the world.

Reader: It's His birthday today

Response: I didn't know that. Must have picked up a thought wave.

No Title

In the West, Jesus is worshipped as God. In the East (India) it is often Krishna.

No Title

Avatars point the right way for humans to follow. Sri Aurobindo and Mother went beyond that as they fully engaged in the evolutionary process they envisioned.

No Title

Great avatar Buddha was not able to go beyond "voidism" - i.e. what comes from the negation of the negative, that one is attached to -- which is experienced as Nirvana. The positive side of Spirit, the underlying Reality beyond and including all things was not in his purview.

No Title

It is best to allow people to make mistakes and learn from them instead of pointing out their errors each step along the way. The former has greater life response power to attract the positive.

No Title

There is a difference between our Attitudes (lower emotions) and our Higher Emotions. The former - which include negative feelings of all sorts towards others, work, life, self, - dominate our day, continually spoiling it. On the other hand, the latter - which includes feelings of humility, goodness, affection, self-givingness, generosity of spirit, gratitude, etc.- lift up our day and all those around us. Thus we can judge our day, our life, our being by which side dominates.

Comment: BTW: The former rapidly attract negative conditions; the latter attract the positive.

Oneness in the Organization

Increased harmony among the parts and individuals is key to attracting great success in an organization. Examples are-

- The founders having a deep faith in the performance of the sales staff.
- The sales staff wishing for the founders to see a great return on their investment.
- The owners taking a keen interest in the well-being of its staff, including their personal growth.
- The staff having a deep interest in embodying the personal, business, and social values propagated by the leaders.
- Any movements towards greater cooperation, coordination, and integration in the organization.
- Developing a oneness of purpose between the organization, its products and services, and the customers who purchase them.
- Having unity of purpose, direction, strategy, action, results, and reward.

No Title

When a nation or region cherishes its history and culture, rejecting modernity in the name of tradition, while doing so at the expense of human safety, it is setting itself up for disaster - natural or man-made.

No Title

The "power of positive thinking" is the stable inner consciousness that attracts success.

No Title

Others' insincerity can elicit exhaustion and fatigue in one's being during the interaction, and in the hours and days that follow.

No Title

Physics now understands that the universe's nature depends on that which is perceiving it, not just what it is; indicating that it is less like a great machine and material mechanism, and more like a mental construct; a product and formation of cosmic Mind.

Our Creator Power in Creation

Moving down from Its ineffable, unknowable, immutable status, the Divine became a Being; was then Conscious of Its existence, which released a Force; which caused Him to Delight in that self-awareness. Through that Force He then extended Himself and became the universe. (Ishwara/Creator power)

Similarly, when we rise to our highest consciousness, we become self-aware of who we truly are, which also releases a power, and we too experience the ultimate joy and delight of being. As a result, through that Force we become ultimate Creators in the world as well.

Thus, it is the Divine's intent and purpose for us to mirror the creation power of the infinite Divine in the field of Life, enabling God to become the universe, furthering the Evolution.

No Title

Just like the Creator, we are here to be ultimate creators in creation.

No Title

The evil perpetrated on the native peoples of the United States in the 19th century, - where 25-50 million died through violence against them and the horrible diseases that followed - returned to US in the form of the negative life response of the Civil War, where the nation fractured and almost collapsed, which continues on till this day as the still unresolved "black problem" in the nation.

No Title

India and the East embrace the great infinite-like material capacities of the United States, but increasingly reject her violent gun culture and her more extreme out-of-control, lower consciousness cultural tendencies.

No Title

Most of the problems we see in the Middle East and Arab area nations are a product not only of a medieval mindset there, but of 50-100 years of diplomatic insincerity and hypocrisy of the West in that region.

No Title

The emergence of the middle class in India (and the rest of Asia) resembles in many ways life in America in the 1950s and 60s, except they have skipped right over to the technological, Internet age, while allowing their ancient cultures to reemerge and flourish.

No Title

USA needs to evolve psychologically to continue to be the leader of the world. Economic and military power alone, as in the past, will not suffice.

No Title

Mother in the 1960s describes her vision of dozens of Asian cities with vast skylines. It would later come to pass. She saw the future in Her mind's eye.

Knowing the Ways of the Supramental Force in Our Lives

This Supramental Force is not a force of the body or dynamic force of the vital. Nor is it the idea-force of the mind. Strictly speaking, it is not the force of the Timeless Spirit, the witness Purusha of the Jivatma. This is the force or power of our evolving soul, the Psychic Being, which remains constantly with us, knows no failure and has the capacity of being cheerful forever.

It [the supramental power] is the higher force that created the world acting through our minds. Its essential character is joy. It is best received by human gratitude. It stays on with us forever by our learning the process of its working. It does not move at the speed of sound or even light. It exceeds the speed of Mind and even that of Light.

Mother is the channel for this force. Sri Aurobindo is the Origin.

Let us try to know all about this force or at least all that concerns us in this force. (Sri Karmayogi, from 'Spiritual Opulence')

The Silicon Valley startup mindset is now spreading around the world. Rooted in true Individuality, this soul value is manifesting first as technology-based products and services.

At further stages, it can evolve to become Spirit-based, as the center of individual innovation advances from products and service to entrepreneurial activities of goodness and self-givingness. It is shift from true individuality to True Spiritual Individuality, ushering in a more conscious society and a new stage of life on earth.

Reader: Sir, I would like to know more about what a Spirit-based startup would potentially be like?

Response: If you read the history of MSS it will begin to become clear. Better still you can create it yourself and thereby know it in full.

It would have the basic structure of any organization, with its commensurate goals, strategies, structure, systems, activities, etc. However, it would operate according to all the inner laws described by Karmayogi. My recent list of those factors that evoke Life Response in the LR Facebook group contains many of these. My 'Life Response in Work' book further expands on each of them.

No Title

When you perceive the Divinity behind all forms of darkness, suffering, falsehood, and evil in the world, you quickly become a vehicle for envisioning and intuitivizing the solutions to any of those conditions.

No Title

Mother said that the feminine form is gradually becoming more masculine, and the masculine form is becoming more feminine. She also indicates that the Supramental form will be neither.

No Title

When serving Mother, as soon as the Ego rises, the work collapses.

No Title

True service to Mother and Her work requires surrendering our ego, surrendering our preference, surrendering our ambition.

No Title

When we restrain ourselves from taking an initiative, Life soon initiates on its own, and in a way that is superior to what we would have accomplished had we originated the action.

No Title

A person below us in social status does not mean they are below us in consciousness.

No Title

True self-givingness is to help another accomplish more, without expecting anything in return.

No Title

Prayer is to ask something of, to make a heartfelt request of the Divine in order to gain personal benefit. Consecration is to offer any circumstance to the Higher Power so the Divine can act as it sees fit, divinizing that aspect of life.

No Title

One challenge every day for the devotee is to change his perspective from doing work in the ordinary way to making it Mother's work, and thereby practice the spiritual-like methods and values that entails. It's the old versus the New Way of Living.

No Title

We are hypnotized by material things, surface unfoldings, yet are mostly oblivious to the subtleties and nuances that are the central factors that truly determine our lives.

On Irritation

- Irritation is being bothered by the unexpected.
- Irritation is something at odds with one's beliefs that creates emotional disturbance.
- Irritation tends to quickly attract more of what irritated you.

-Irritation causes you to lose emotional balance, forcing you to be out of kilter with the remaining work.

-Best to control yourself when you are irritated.

-Avoid acting until you return yourself to normal.

-Consecrate irritation so it is diminished and even eliminated short and long term.

Reader: Easy method, but hard to follow, sir.

Response: Yes, trying to do it in ordinary life is quite difficult, but a sincere dedication to one's personal and spiritual growth as an ongoing aspiration makes it much easier.

Inner and Outer Harmony

If there is lack of harmony on the outside, we can seek to discover it inside. I.e. uncover the necessary shifts in consciousness in our nature that will attract commensurate outer harmonious conditions.

Eg a man constantly sought to create outer harmony with others in the wide variety of works he performed. However, he never found it as life continuously disappointed. It was because inside he was bitter. If he got at the cause and shed the bitterness inside, outer harmony with others in the works he performed would suddenly blossom.

No Title

A good deal of what we assume to be true is actually False. That alone should make us humble.

No Title

A spiritual person spends less time seeking boons from Gods, and more trying to emulate the best qualities of that deity. For example, instead of seeking money from Laxshmi, try to become more benevolent and generous in your own life. Take the same approach with any other God you revere.

No Title

We take great pleasure in ranting and raving about the people, places, and things we hate. It is because the intensity of the experience is pleasurable to us, indicating that falsehood lurks at the core of our being.

No Title

When you establish utter Stillness in the midst of darkness, trouble, and evil, the latter dissolves - at first gradually, and then accelerates.

The Happy Food Stand Proprietor

One of the great subtle observations of life is that when you give in to a request you have so far resisted, the whole world can suddenly open up.

A proprietor/cook at a tiny food concession stand, refused to hire an elderly woman because of her age and disfigurement. He lived a lonely life, working hard to pay off debts incurred as a result of a terrible incident that occurred several years earlier. As a result, a kind of darkness continually spread across his face.

One day a young woman implored him to take on the old lady as a helper. He fought against it at every turn. But then his heart melted when he observed the utter goodness in the elderly woman, and hired her on.

When he did, his business suddenly boomed - in large part due to the elderly woman's delicious recipe.

Thereafter he also shed the darkness that weighed on him, and developed a fresh new business that had the effect of making his face continually shine.

No Title

When you do something, a work for Mother, it should not be for yourself, to meet your needs, but for Her intentions in the world, whether individual or universal.

No Title

Contempt for your rival or enemy will only energize them in the subtle plane, increasing their power.

Democracy Not Always the Best Way Forward

It is indeed a strange thing to realize that democracy is not always the necessary step for the progress of a nation. Eg the British helped organize India in ways the latter never would have been able to achieve on her own. In America, the colonial leaders learned everything there was about democracy from the British who lived in its birthplace and cradle. The Americans then implemented it in full later on.

While it is true that democratic countries tend to engage in wars far less than non-democratic, it is also true in certain cases that democracy is not always the best way forward - particularly when the country is decidedly backward or otherwise disorganized. In many cases the nation is not ready for democracy because it has no history or tendencies in that direction. Sometimes such nations need to acquire it slowly, taking a step at a time, to avoid a catastrophic backlash by regressive forces.

On the other hand, it is also true that it was great thing for Indians to force out the British, as she was ready for democracy. In fact, India could have achieved it sooner if not for Gandhi who delayed independence by advocating Ahimsa - non-violence. The result was partition, and two nuclear-armed enemy states facing one another.

While democracy is a great development in the history of society, all nations need not attain it in the same way. The Asian Tigers, Singapore, and China are not exemplary democracies, but may have the type of governance that is necessary. Perhaps even Russia is that way, where the democratic tradition is near zero.

No Title

When Truth is in a showdown with the mind's prejudices and opinions, the latter usually wins. Ignorance is maintained. However, when the body is beaten down and shaken out of its false beliefs through Nature's difficult circumstance, then Truth almost always prevails, as mind and heart finally see the light.

No Title

Different geographical, historical backgrounds demand different ways of development. Each develops its own values. Values of one culture are irrelevant to another, but values are eternal. While social values can differ and even moral values, spiritual values are eternal. The value of a society depends upon its spiritual values. (Karmayogi)

No Title

Truthfulness at the lowest stratum is the measure of a society's integrity. (Karmayogi)

No Title

Real personal values are the bedrock of social stability. That comes out of independence, self-respect, individuality, etc. (Karmayogi)

No Title

Democracy is rule by the people. Rule is authority. That authority comprises of physical vital strength, property, leadership, education, wealth, etc. Without these being widespread, i.e. reaching all the people, democracy has no reality. (Karmayogi)

No Title

Aspiration for surrender is Transformation. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

The fundamentalists can come out of their fundamentalism if exposed to wider ways of life and given a liberal education. (Karmayogi)

The key to the end of fundamentalism is education spreading and prosperity rising.

On Limits to Democracy

"In some places, such as Central Asia, elections have paved the way for dictatorships. In others, they have exacerbated group conflict and ethnic tensions. Both Yugoslavia and Indonesia for example, were far more tolerant and secular when they were ruled by strongmen (Tito and Suharto, respectively) than they are now as democracies. And in many nondemocracies, elections would not improve matters much. Across the Arab world, elections held tomorrow would probably bring to power regimes that are more intolerant, reactionary, anti-Western and anti-Semitic than the dictatorships currently in place." (Fareed Zakaria)

No Title

"The American system is very undemocratic."

Zakaria is perceptive in seeing this aspect. It is not only true of democracy, but every other thing, as discipline, freedom, abundance, etc. (Karmayogi)

No Title

The American public's stupidity is exemplified by the its persistent desire for lower taxes in tandem with more government benefits.

No Title

The Catholic Church seems an odd place to begin the story of liberty.' Contradictions are complements. When the agent who denies liberty goes to his extreme, he exhausts his vibration and begins in the opposite camp the opposite vibration. (Karmayogi)

Comment: Perhaps referring here to Martin Luther, and how democracy in the world largely came about as a result of his protest against the church.

No Title

Luck is Grace and Divine sanction.

No Title

England was under the domination of several countries. She freed herself from all that. A subject nation is qualified to dominate the world. In the process of freeing themselves from the Romans, the Vikings, the French and the Germans, England created the basis of human liberty. (Karmayogi)

No Title

America was the first nation that openly showed that national policies were based on small local causes. (Foundation of democracy) (Karmayogi)

No Title

Freedom is the free living of the positive citizen where his daily needs, not his aspirations, are not interfered with from any social organisation, especially the governing organisation. (Karmayogi)

No Title

The economic prosperity of a nation is directly dependent upon how independent the Individual there is. (Karmayogi)

Measuring Nations' Social Values

Karmayogi advocates that a list of social values be drawn up, each being on a scale from not implemented to fully so, and determine how each nation scored for each value along a scale (eg 1-10). Spiritual values can also be included. Examples-

-Social/Individual Values - freedom, individuality, aspiration, truthfulness, tolerance, justice, fairness, progress, continuous improvement, education, collaboration, organization, trust, creativity, innovation, faith in government, etc.

-Spiritual Values - peacefulness, harmony, goodness, generosity, faith, spirit, etc.

Each nation would have a score for each value, as well as a composite score. There can even be a composite score for each value in the entire world by summing up the nations' scores.

In this way, we can measure the progress of life on earth, determine where there are deficiencies, and thereby devise strategies to increase the lagging values and strengthen further the well-scored values for individual nations and across the world.

No Title

All values are capable of giving infinite growth in life since the values are the passage towards the Reality(Divine) that is infinite in nature. When values are followed or implemented seriously in one's life, the response from the Reality brings abundance in life. Mr.Nirmal of ExNora took a value " Cleanliness and Sanitation" for his personal reason but extended to others (Local slum) near his residence. He did the work tirelessly till he achieved a satisfactory level of sanitation and cleanliness in that area. His value took him to the level of world famous personality and acknowledged him for his service in cleanliness. Such is the power of any value. (Nedumaran Ramakrishnan)

No Title

Reactionary forces condemning progressive matters indicate-

-its short or longer-term success.

-it can now spread around the world.

No Title

We are looking for answers in the outer life; however, they reside within.

No Title

Massive weapons development and proliferation is the evil at the heart of the world.

Embodying Human and Spiritual Values

From out of the Divine Being comes Spiritual Values that enter into the universe. They include Peace, Silence, Truth, Goodness, Love, Delight, Timelessness, and Infinity. It is what the Spirit wishes the creation to embody.

However, when Man evolved out of matter and life forms, he did not have the consciousness to embody these Spiritual Values directly. As he grew in heart and mind, he developed lesser, but critical value, like cleanliness, orderliness, non-wastage, physical effort, cooperation and so forth. Society also evolved its own corresponding values - like tolerance, justice, freedom, et al. Any value embraced has the power to elevate life in both quantity and (especially) quality; taking it to places never before imagined.

And yet as Man continues to evolve in consciousness, he increasingly comes in contact with, begins to embody the divine-originated Spiritual Values. It has in fact vast, ultimate power to enhance life. Now the mixture of human values and Spiritual values merge, and carry the individual and society forward in ways unimagined.

No Title

Supramental Consciousness has the Integral Knowledge of what is necessary to be known at that time, as well as the Will and Power for it to come about.

No Title

Supramental Consciousness has the Integral Knowledge and Will/Power fused, yet also has the capacity to hold back expressing or implementing it, as it might not be the right time and place; considering the person, the environment, etc.

No Title

As you rise in consciousness, the wall separating the inner and the outer thins. Eg you feel less and less separate from others; that you are in fact them, as much as you are yourself.

When you are in the supramental consciousness, the veil completely disappears; there is no difference between the outer and the inner.

You could say the whole world is inside you in that state, and therefore can feel all others at all levels within.

No Title

When Supermind descends in full, creating the supramental consciousness and being, there is also the supermind in the person, in matter that is simultaneously awakening. Thus that Power comes from above and below at the same time in the supramentalized, gnostic individual.

No Title

Karmayogi - the greatest thinker and sage on earth; a multi-dimensional spiritual genius, unprecedented in the history of the world; perhaps hundreds or even a thousand years ahead of his time.

No Title

It would be a great feat if the entire history of the world, including current events, were re-written according to the laws of Life Response. We would see and understand life in an entirely new way.

Comment: BTW: Karmayogi in his writings has already given many dozens if not hundreds of historical examples.

No Title

It would be a great feat if the entire history of the world, including current events, were re-written according to the laws of Life Response. We would see and understand life in an entirely new way.

No Title

When you are universalized (on the way to being supramentalized), each action you take, or feeling you feel, or thought you think, tends to quickly materialize as an accomplishment in the wider world.

Dividing and Harmonizing Power in Creation

The universe that we know of came to be through a process of infinite Division. It is an endless dividing movement that created the lowest consciousness (matter) from the highest (the divine, spirit).

First there was the original Conscious-Force that emerged from the infinite divine. It went through a further dividing process and became a somewhat lesser Knowledge and Will. (It is where Mind originates.) Knowledge then separated, divided from Will, leaving only the force of Will, with the Knowledge dissipating. That remaining force became the Energy that would be the basis of creation. That Energy divided infinite-like down to the atomic level and became dumb, inconscient form of Matter. Here the material universe began.

Like the divine we too create through a process of division. We look out on the mass around us - a Oneness that we cannot grasp. And so we divide that reality, perceiving parts and pieces; individual forms, acts, movements, ideas, thoughts, etc. Through the same process of infinite division from out of the Whole, we are able relate to life and thereby think and feel and act. We then create by continually dividing that reality into new pieces, new possibilities.

On the other hand, if we were to move in the OTHER direction - from the part to the Whole - we would bring unceasing higher consciousness to that aspect. Rather than a process of division, of an increasing consciousness, it is one of connection and integration among the parts; of harmony and unity; where the Consciousness and the Force are reunited in that entity. It is divinity incarnate; the supramentalization of reality.

No Title

Contempt for immigrant arrivals is the negative expression of the next stage of human unity.

Reader: Sir, would be grateful to know bit of explanation to this message. Thanking you advance.

Response: Despite all of the outer negative conditions, the world is slowly but surely moving towards increased human unity. There are so many global and local organizations, - political, social, economic and cultural - indicating this. Moreover, Inter-Nation cooperation facilitates such unity.

Immigration problem indicates an inability of countries to agree on a method to solve it. It is an acutely political deadlock. Nations are reluctant to change to accommodate them; even unwilling to work together to come up with schemes for improvement. Unwilling to address underlying causes. It is the nations' ego fully expressed. And that includes the ignorant citizens.

And yet if they did work together to come up with solutions, it would be a progressive movement, and if successful a further step in human unity.

Thus, we see the immigration problem as negative, when it is really an opportunity for nations to move beyond their ego, their selfishness, their non-cooperation to working together, thereby establishing the next level of unity humanity is moving towards.

No Title

There is a self-existent Reality that is infinite and eternal. It is also a Conscious reality and Being. Moreover, this Being is also Becoming; i.e. coming into existence in the material universe, in our world. In other words, this universe is a progressive manifestation and evolution of that self-existent reality; of that Being.

No Title

We have not yet discovered and developed the power of Consciousness that created us.

No Title

To be truly Conscious is to know-

- that we are infinite and eternal
- that everyone else is infinite and eternal
- that we can experience our own soul
- that we can experience the divine soul of every person we meet
- that every person we meet is truly ourselves
- that the whole universe, cosmos is divine
- that our real existence lies beyond our individual selves
- that we are the entire universe
- that we are transcendent in nature
- that we can create infinitely just like the Creator

This is our true existence. It is our Perfect Consciousness. It is what we are destined to realize.

No Title

It is astonishing to realize that this moment has never existed before, that we are on the front edge of history and time, and we are all pioneers experiencing it together.

No Title

One powerful method to take when there is threat of war or other upheaval or conflict, - and therefore fear and anxiety is everywhere - is to completely forget the matter and focus your energies instead on realizing your own higher nature. Now life will unfold as it must. All things will take shape for the progressive movements in the world as perceived from the highest perspective.

No Title

A Mental-centered person will relate to a Solution to a Problem on a number of, but not all occasions. A Vital/Emotional person will relate to it only when it stimulates him. A Physical person will relate to it only after he is forced to accept it or life bludgeons him to comply. A Spiritual person is one with that solution, and perceives all aspects of it as sudden knowledge appearing inside. He is ready to act immediately as necessary.

Non-Reaction Attracts in Dhanak

If something negative happens to you, such as being lied to and betrayed, yet you do not react, remaining very calm, not speaking about it to anyone, startling positive conditions will soon reveal themselves, often coming as a total reversal of the original negativity, and then some.

In a lovely film called 'Dhanak,' a young Indian girl was distraught that letters she sent to a famous actor to help her little friend overcome his blindness, were being intercepted by her callous aunt.

And yet despite the horror, she did not react with anguish or with blame. She remained unusually calm, something startling for someone so young.

Well it turned out that a very short time later, from out of nowhere there arrived an adult friend of theirs on a bike, who let them know that the actor had instead come to a local village to make a film; an absolutely startling reversal. The disappointment of the unsent letters was now completely reversed. Instead of not being able to meet the actor because the letters of introduction had been hijacked, the actor was sent nearby to them by Life!

The young girl's calm demeanor -- not reacting in the face of potential bitter disappointment -- attracted from out of nowhere the very person who could help her fulfill her deepest wishes for her little friend.

Breaking the Routine at Four Planes

When something happens that breaks the routine, presents something different or new, the quality of our reaction depends on the plane we are centered in at the time. E.g. -

- The Physical being normally does not care about it or want it
- The Vital/emotional being accepts it only if it seems pleasurable or matches one's attitudes
- The Mental being stops to consider its purpose, measures the logic, and therefore can come to see the utility of it
- The Spiritual consciousness perceives it as the natural order of things, as part of the Reality, the All; and Delights in its existence

Stages of the Conscious-Force

When the Reality, the Infinite Divine initiated, the Consciousness and the Force were one. I.e. the Being was Conscious of its existence, which emanated a Force. It therefore was (and still is) a Conscious-Force.

At the outset of creation, the consciousness had separated from the Force. Moreover, only Force remained. It took shape as the invisible, unconscious Energy out of which the material universe would take form.

Now through our progress and growth on earth, the Consciousness and Force are gradually reunited. This is Evolution: the progressive manifestation, materialization of the Conscious-Force in Life.

No Title

In a conflictive situation involving a number of parties, resolution would occur much more quickly if each participant were to put aside their ego. In fact, the result that comes would be the very best outcome for each, as life would respond favorably to their more harmonic tact.

No Title

Physically man and woman represent Division, as one has become two. Spiritually man and woman become Union when they identify with and merge with one another's soul.

The Key to The Novel 'The Book'

The key and "hook" to the story presented in Garry Jacobs' novel The Book is that the MAI team has created an artificial intelligence system that can make recommendations to solve any known problem in the world. As a result, the world embraces it in full. And it is able to solve any difficulty on earth because its logic and knowledgebase is based on a long-lost BOOK that contains the most profound knowledge of existence ever devised by man. That book is actually The Life Divine by Sri Aurobindo and the endless commentaries of Sri Karmayogi and others, though it is not identified that way in the novel.

No Title

"Conformity is the jailer of freedom and the enemy of growth." (John F. Kennedy)

Comment:

"... jailer of freedom"

Conformity opposes those who advocate any new developments in the world.

"... enemy of growth"

Elsewhere Karmayogi indicates that the degree of a society's social progress and economic achievement is indicated by its capacity to develop highly individualistic people.

Destiny's Milestones

If it weren't for that fateful day in 1975 in a suburb of Los Angeles, CA when I met with Garry Jacobs to sell his ashram wares in USA, I would not have been able to link my knowledge of Sri Aurobindo to accomplishing work through consecration to Mother, launching my entire life in that direction.

If it weren't for my desktop publishing effort in 1988 in Berkeley, CA to produce a price list for Garry's company I would not have worked for that chain, which led to my launching a 25-year training career.

If it weren't for Appa's urging Garry to teach me the Character of Life in Napa, CA at his house in summer of 1996, I would never have been set on a course of bringing Life Response to the world.

Oneness & the Response of Life

A life response is made possible because of the Oneness of existence; that from the highest, deepest, and truest perspective, everything is inter-connected with everything else; that all things are in a profound communion with one another.

Therefore, when we shift our consciousness to the positive, a kind of "disturbance" takes place in the stability of that Oneness; a pressing on the strings that connect everything together.

And in order to reestablish the stability, a reaction takes place, and forces are released which we move into alignment with; the result of which we experience as a startling response from life.

No Title

Karmayogi has gone into the deepest depths of Sri Aurobindo's profound wisdom, and as a result has expressed in infinite detail the truths of truth in virtually every field of life.

Taking Another's Viewpoint Attracts Great Benefit for One's Self

If you take another person's point of view that's opposite of yours, - even if it is without merit or negative, - life will invariably create circumstances that fulfill your original suppressed intention.

A prominent, well-respected elderly woman employed a senior member of another race to drive her around town, among other duties. It turns out that the society of the time did not allow someone of his race to mingle with their own.

After a series of dramatic events, the man seemed committed to helping his people's cause. However, the elderly woman insisted that either he occupy his time with his people's cause or work for her; but not both. He knew what he wanted, and yet he held back his feelings and took her point of view - to resume working for the woman.

The next day, he entered a restaurant where he knew he was unwanted by the other clientele; and yet he felt an urge to make himself at home, much to the chagrin of the others who were of a different race. However, just before he had a chance to take that difficult and potentially dangerous action, the elderly woman suddenly appeared and to the shock of all gathered there, urged the man to take his rightful place at the counter. And so he did just that, fulfilling his deepest desire for himself and his people.

When you take another person's point of view, dramatic results can happen, including startling events where your heart's desire - earlier put aside, - become real in the world. It is Life's startling method of rewarding a person who has taken a wider, universal, and more harmonic view of existence.

A Salesperson's Personal Value of Truth Attracts

It is said that if one adheres to high personal Values, luck will descend and you will attract great fortune from life.

A salesman had worked hard for a company, and yet produced hardly any results. Though the product was very difficult to sell, he did not blame anyone, and went further and thought about taking personal responsibility.

And so at one point he made the conscious decision that he would not receive payment unless he succeeded. A week later, he was still unable to secure a sale, and so decided to not bill the client for that period.

Interestingly, on the day that he would ordinarily send the bill, not only did he not do so, but much to his surprise and glee several checks of considerable value arrived at the same time. It was a most unusual and unprecedented experience in this stage of his career.

Because he dug deep and did what he believed was just and right – in this case, adhering to the personal values of Integrity and Truth – Life rewarded him with a sudden cascade of income.

The Devotee and US-Russia Development

When you intensely want something from the world and you are related to Mother and Her supramental power, events can suddenly manifest in startling ways that fulfill your intention.

A devotee had a discussion with a friend in which he intensely described how the United States and Russia had missed the opportunity and not taken advantage of the end of the Cold War to collaborate on important global issues.

The very next morning when he awoke, he read that United States and Russia had seriously agreed to cooperate on the issue of the devastating Syrian civil war, creating a hold on all military activity. It was an unprecedented breakthrough in their relationships since the Cold War ended decades earlier, reflecting the devotee's intense inner aspiration in that regard.

No Title

Throughout your day constantly monitor your Ego, pushing it aside when active, in feeling and action. This is an essential method and activity for living a more Conscious life.

No Title

Impatience has many causes, including-

- living too much on the surface; not referencing the inner being
- inability to find a quiet space inside as circumstance unfolds
- getting too caught up in the needs of the moment in relation to the wider requirements of life
- emergence of reaction (instead of silent witness to life)
- nervous energy in excess unorganised into mental values. (Karmayogi)
- compensating for lost time through negative emotional intensity
- the sensation of the moment viewing eternity. (Karmayogi)
- not realizing that calm best leads to patience that attracts the best results

No Title

Spirit is not to be found someplace else or far away. It is here, Now. Our only task then is to adjust our consciousness to a higher frequency to perceive it.

No Title

Fifteen years later, the public still does not understand that the evil of 9/11 was an extremely negative response of life to the hypocritical meddling and diplomatic insincerity of the West in the affairs of an unstable Middle East region for 100 years.

No Title

Is the Higgs field discovered by science an aspect of the divine consciousness behind the energy that is the source of creation?

No Title

Despite mediocre food, one particular value helped make McDonald's the largest restaurant chain in the world - Cleanliness. People value coming to a clean food outlet, despite so-so food.

Then how much do you value Cleanliness and Orderliness, and what will you do to improve it to attract similar infinite-like results in your life?

No Title

When those who are disenfranchised become prosperous, then religious extremism and terrorism will come to an end.

No Title

Humiliation of Russia by the West after the Cold War ended has brought the undemocratic autocrat Putin and his unpredictable strength.

No Title

The lost opportunity of US and Russia to work together after the Cold War ended may be one subconscious reason for the rise of Trump and his fascination with Putin. It is a negative means of reestablishing the relationship that should have blossomed between the two great nations in these intervening years

No Title

Karl Marx's prediction that most of the wealth of a nation would be accumulated in the hands of the few in capitalist countries has precisely occurred in the United States over the course of the last 20 years.

New Economic Vision

Karl Marx's work is perhaps the only comprehensive critique of Capitalism ever developed. Yet now we need to go further. We need something more substantial.

Karmayogi and Garry Jacobs at the World Academy have provided an outline of that very thing, which is expressed under the moniker "A Human-Centered Economics." It is where Man, the human being comes first, is at the center of economic life, instead of money, as it is now. They have offered the world a profound vision of a new organization of the economic future of humanity.

No Title

Through Mother, Gorbachev neutralized the grave danger of Reagan's collision with the Soviet military that could have triggered global nuclear war.

Thought of the Day:

Values are aspects of Truth. Truth expressed in Life in different forms. They are called Values. Cleanliness is a physical Value. Cleanliness of Singapore indicates that Singapore as a Nation, aspired the truth of Cleanliness. Orderliness is another Truth. Punctuality, Regularity, Trust, Trust Worthiness, Quality, Systemization, Standardization are all different aspects of Truth expressed appropriately at different places or different situations or different levels. The World evolved many millions of times from its primitive forest living only through Values. The indwelling Divine Consciousness, in the process of Evolution, by using the Aspects of Truth brought out this phenomenal Growth. Values can take us to the subtle plane and hence will reveal the new horizons of life what will not be visible for when there are no values in life. Behind any progress in the world, there will be a value visible or hidden. I would call the Values as the subtle vehicles to reach us to riches. The success Stories of Countries,

Continents, Big Corporates and significant Individuals have one thing in common. That is Values. The subtle vehicles took them to the prosperity. (Nedumaran Ramakrishnan)

No Title

One thing I have gradually learned over the years is not to quickly judge what I perceive as a negative situation; as I may not have all of the facts.

No Title

Revisiting a negative situation from the distant past can quickly reenergize it into existence in the present.

No Title

Anger is absence of Mind when truth is trying to reveal itself.

No Title

Life cannot become perfect until we develop a perfect consciousness.

At each point we want to develop a more perfect life, we need to develop a corresponding more perfect consciousness.

No Title

Our life is the field through which we discover who we are.

Everything that happens to us in life, every event is an occasion for us to know ourselves better.

No Title

Without going inside, changing inside, there is no progress in life.

Thus, going inside is the first essential principle of living a spiritual life.

No Title

As we look around and go about our business from moment to moment in the course of the day, our orientation is constantly focused on how the world should change. However, instead we should consider how WE should change.

No Title

We have total power to become what we want to become. Or as Krishna said, "you become whatever you believe you can become."

No Title

Mother is mother of all the Gods, as She is born, originates in Conscious Force (Chit) , the force (shakti) that emanated from the original Being (Sat). Sat-Chit-Ananda are the origins of creation. She asks all Gods (overmental) to surrender to Her Supramental power.

Startling Relationship Between the Darkness and the Light

From the perspective of a higher consciousness, forces of Darkness are often a vehicle for the emergence of forces of Light. Contrary to their intent, the former help the latter more fully come out.

Example: in the film Avatar, the hostile, oppressive evil people of Earth caused the spread-out, non-cooperating, separate clans of Pandora to work together in harmony for to drive the enemy out. Not only did they succeed, but they became a unified people for the first time in their history.

If you study history or current events or even the life of any individual, you will see this startling dynamic frequently occurring. It is one of the subtle principles and indicators of the true nature of existence.

No Title

We all want benefits from the Divinity, but we don't want to change ourselves; to become more divine-like in nature.

No Title

Karmayogi indicates that success will not come to you unless you pay back all your old loans.

No Title

If you want to change the world, then change the corresponding limiting quality inside yourself. Life will respond!

No Title

If you don't react to the hideous beliefs of a business associate, he can lead you to greater success.

No Title

Inconscient+Surrender=Superconscient

Time+Timelessness=Integrality of Time and Timeliness.

In other words

Past Consecration in the present is bright future that is ever present reality.

Nedumaran Ramakrishnan

Siddha Power

According to others, one siddha, i.e. spiritual-like power I have apparently possessed over the years is that whenever someone else's computer stopped working, when I came by and merely gave it a minimum of attention - often without doing anything, - the device would suddenly start functioning again. Having been in the computer business, plus having Mother's Force behind may have something to do with it.

Well it turns out that yesterday it happened once again. I was attending a large gathering of people in the restaurant field, when the next speaker's computer would not work with the overhead properly. I.e. the projector would not adjust and pick up the computer's screen and present it to the large audience. It was a serious interruption in the flow of the morning's activities.

So I got up from my table at the front of the room and walked over to the computer. And though I wasn't able to fix the problem, the second I left, another person arrived who instantly did fix it. In other words, all I had to do was focus my attention on the computer issue and within a minute it was resolved. I have experienced this many times in my life.

I wonder if other devotee individuals have such native on-going siddha powers they would like to share.

Willed Immortality

Mother's Force offers miraculous-like outcomes, including the power to live as long as we wish. If the cells of the body can surrender to that power, then we can begin building an evolved type of humans who can experience "Willed Immortality."

Through the power of the Force, illness, disease, and suffering would begin to vanish, while bodily systems and functions - organs, tissues, fluids, nerves, bone, etc. - would be replaced by new centers of consciousness

Naturally there would need to be a commensurate evolution of consciousness at the other levels of our being - including transformation of our sensations, emotions, attitudes, thought perceptions, values, and intuitive capacities.

As presented in her 6000-page journal called Agenda, Mother Herself pioneered this work of transformation of her physical body in dramatic fashion, and so we can take up that profound inner work from where she left off. Or as Satprem, Mother's main disciple indicated, we can engage in the process of "willed mutation of the species," to bring about a supramentalized existence, including the capacity to choose unending life; or more accurately, to live as long as we wish.

A Cosmic Experience

Today I had a powerful momentary experience. I was thinking a bit about what "universal consciousness" is, such as the idea that we can contain the entire universe inside ourselves; and that we can even affect the entire world from within.

A moment later, I suddenly felt my inner self within extending outward to the entire creation. That I was not just a small inlet of existence, but my consciousness extended outward throughout the cosmos. I was both together, as one endless extended being. That I stretched from within outward forever.

A moment later I was back in my "inlet self."

This happened as I was driving home.

Perfect Equality of Being, Non-Reaction by Identifying with the Supreme as Foundation for Expressing Supermind

Supermind can express itself through a terrestrial consciousness only when there is a constant state of perfect equality – equality arising out of spiritual identification with the Supreme: all becomes the Supreme in perfect equality.

And it must be automatic, not an equality obtained through conscious will or intellectual effort or an understanding preceding the state itself – none of that. It has to be spontaneous and automatic; one must no longer react to what comes from outside as though it were coming from outside.

That pattern of reception and reaction must be ... free from all rebound, you might say. It's the difference between something coming from outside and striking you, making you react, and something freely circulating and quite naturally generating the vibrations needed for the overall action.

... But once the consciousness is identified with the Supreme, all movements are, so to speak, inner – inner in the sense that nothing comes from outside; there are only things circulating ... I never have the feeling of something coming from outside and bumping into me; there's rather the sense of multiple and sometimes contradictory inner movements, and of a constant circulation generating the inner changes necessary to the movement.

This is the indispensable foundation [for Supermind to express in one].

(The Mother, from Mother's Agenda, January 12, 1962)

No Title

In order to get to Truth, the world first had to go through Falsehood. In future, however, we can go from Truth to greater Truth.

No Title

Mother's Force subtly alters the genetic code.

No Title

It's time to spread the word about Mother's Force, the Supramental Power around the world!

No Title

Ideology contains truth, but also filters it out.

No Title

Selfishness is often marked by being caught up in the glee of a separative moment.

No Title

Every moment reveals subtle signs of what to do and what to avoid. Following this approach, you will always be on a glorious, energizing, and ecstatic path!

No Title

Whatever you react negatively towards, you will soon experience yourself, in one form or another; often in exactly the same way.

No Title

People see what they want to see. They will judge a situation based on how they are predisposed. The Truth however often lies elsewhere.

Overcoming Momentary Discouragement Attracts

Right after you catch yourself and cease from being discouraged in a discouraging situation, life quickly clears itself up.

Eg a man was disheartened that his computer was giving problems, and he was therefore unable to complete his work, which seemed endless. However, he caught himself and calmly restarted the machine. When he returned to the work, it not only went very smoothly, but the man discovered there was far less work left than he anticipated!

No Title

Take the other person's point of view, giving up your own; and conditions around you will suddenly become more responsive.

No Title

"Affectation of candour is common enough- one meets with it everywhere." (Pride and Prejudice)

thanks to Saraswathi.

No Title

Perhaps the one great secret about the Great Financial Crash of 2008 is that it was due to lack of controls INTERNATIONALLY. Trillions of dollars from China, Japan, Saudis, etc. throwing their money at trash housing instruments, creating a negative cascade effect. Little has been done on this global front.

And so such disasters can easily happen again, albeit in new forms. And yet on other side of this darkness, there can be harmony and great global prosperity once nations work together, collaborate to set regulation and standards to protect the world of this liking speculative menace. Until then, selfishness and ego reigns throughout the world.

No Title

Each day is an Adventure of Consciousness!

No Title

Our society gets a monster-like Trump because we have failed to work collaboratively to solve our common problems. So the Asura tries to come in on the coat tails of the movement; to "fill the void," as they say.

No Title

Trump has the energy for action, to solve problems, but a vital that readily invites and harbors darkness.

Backsliding in Consciousness

As more conscious individuals, we tend to make steady progress in the course of our lives, but then on occasion we BACKSLIDE and revisit the same limited habits, attitudes, and behaviors. That is why having ongoing, true Sincerity of purpose and inner Commitment to a higher life, to Mother is so important.

After all, we know that the Physical consciousness always likes to retake what we have gained; returning us to emptiness and blandness, as it is in essence perverse. Therefore, being vigilant about backsliding into our old ways and remaining there is an important element of living a truly Conscious Life.

Starting Out Your Day

Instead of starting out our day by reading the papers, watching tv news, etc., we can begin by opening to Mother. Not only will we begin from a higher basis, but it can actually give us the power to attract solutions to the very problems being addressed in the morning media! I.e. positive solutions to current social issues just happen on their own due to our higher consciousness start of the day activities.

In that way, you can literally "make the outer news" from within, changing local or world events in that process.

It begins by focusing your orientation inward and upward at the start of the day, and is fulfilled through startling life response outcomes, for yourself AND the collective.

No Title

When you are on the path and have grown considerably as a person, but then you fall down, go backwards in your life, do not despair, for you have arrived at a lesser starting point from which you can spring even further forward. It is like a long-jumper who garners the greatest speed for the greatest leap the further back he begins. Life will then reward you as you venture forward into new territories of achievement, happiness, and inner fulfillment.

No Title

Ultimately, as long as there is death, things always come to a bad end. Only when the victory is won over death will things cease to come to a bad end ... that is to say, when the return to Unconsciousness will no longer be necessary to allow a new progress.

(The Mother, from Agenda, Nov. 13, 1963)

No Title

All complaint of others invariably leads back to one's own self.

No Title

We believe we have full knowledge of the current situation, when we actually have but a sliver. It is one expression of what Sri Aurobindo calls "our human Ignorance, born of creation."

No Title

When we rise in Consciousness, we are actually coming in contact with the Conscious-Mind that has always been there.

No Title

Consciousness is always there before the form: whether an idea before a technology, or the Divine before the universe.

No Title

Readily feeling Mother, the Divine presence within is a central experience of the serious devotee.

Roofing Contract and the Power of Silence

Recently an associate of mine narrated an interesting story to me that was a reminder of the power of Silence; i.e. how holding back speaking at crucial moments can elicit overwhelming response from life.

My associate friend told me that many years ago he was running a roofing company in the Napa Valley in California. It would eventually grow to become a successful, nation-wide business. However, at the time of the story, it was in its infancy.

Well, one day R went to visit a prospective client. The purchasing agent listened attentively as R described how his service would save his businesses loads of money. In essence, my friend's company could repair existing roofs for commercial buildings at a much lower price than replacing them with new ones, and yet would last just as long. This was the case because of an innovative technology that my associate friend devised in his roofing services.

And so my friend R explained the service to the prospective buyer from every angle. In fact, he just continued to ramble on, describing the product with hardly taking a breath. Meanwhile, the potential customer listened attentively, without saying a word. In fact, there was no sign on his face indicating whether or not he was interested in the service, as he just stared blankly back at my associate friend.

Well at one point my friend realized that he was simply talking too much in his presentation; not giving the potential client a chance to speak. And so R ceased all talking, allowing the properties' owner to have his say. In the next minute or so, the man asked my friend one or two basic questions about the service, which R then responded to.

At the completion of my friend's answer to his simple questions, the purchaser immediately reached into his filing cabinet and pulled out a stack of folders. He then put the folders on the table and said to my associate friend, well "Let's start with these." In essence, he gave my friend the contract for all of those properties!

My friend stared in disbelief at this turn of events. On further reflection, he came to see that the moment he stopped talking and allowed the potential customer to speak, the whole world opened up. It would be one of the seminal moments for his fledgling company; one that would help propel the company to nation-wide status.

As you see, when you speak uncontrollably, you waste precious energies that would better be served by being Silent. When you then catch yourself and halt all such excessive speech, you release powerful positive energies into the field of life that align with the very best of conditions - including an overwhelming response that can change the course of your business and your career!

No Title

The spiritual goal is not to best another, but to give up one's ego.

No Title

Even your enemy is an extension of your soul. Such is the experience of the supramental consciousness.

No Title

There are several levels of interacting with Mother:

1. There is praying, asking for boons and benefits. Anyone can interact with Mother this way.
2. There is working with Her Force to help us overcome specific limitations in our nature. This indicates the aspiration and action of a devotee. It's at a higher plane.
3. There is Surrendering all aspects of one's life; our very purpose to Her. It is the central method of becoming a Supramental being, ushering in a Divine life on earth. It is the highest level of interacting with Mother.

Why These Thoughts?

Why do I write these daily thoughts, especially over the last five years? Here are several reasons that come to mind:

- It is to capture my moment to moment personal experiences and ideas.
- It helps indicate where I've made a progress in understanding and life experience.
- It points out the signposts and milestones of the way forward on Their transformational path.
- It is to document the details of the Character of Life, including "life response"
- It is to document the Inner Life.
- It is to provide a knowledge that can be useful to others.
- it is to contribute to a compendium of wisdom called "mother-base," which can be part of a future spiritual growth program.
- It is to get the perspective of others to these ideas and personal experiences.
- It is for the enjoyment of sharing with others.
- Other?

No Title

A hallmark of Mother is Life coming to you, rather than the other way around.

The Obvious Revealed

The Divine Mother and Her Supramental Force reveals the obvious; even when you did not perceive it as such. Here's an example:

A man had a GPS app running on his smartphone while in his car. He used it to more easily navigate around the huge Los Angeles basin.

The phone itself was held up by a special dashboard holding devise. The little technical marvel served him well for quite a while, but gradually stopped working properly, as it would no longer adhere to the dash. During this time, including that particular day, he tried any number of ways to make it work. However, each time it failed, as the device continuously fell from its perch.

Nearly giving up on the situation, the man offered the matter to the Mother. Less than five minutes later, he realized that there was a special lever on the back of the holder that enabled the smartphone to adhere MUCH better to the dashboard!

He was startled that he never saw this, as he thought he had looked at it from all angles. However, MOTHER saw it, making the solution known to the man in a jiffy!

He understood that She can reveal the obvious; even when we completely miss it when left to our own devices.

No Title

Mothers who intensely scream at their children do not understand the life response powers of non-reaction, silence, and personal attention.

No Title

Even the Asura plays a role in the world's becoming.

No Title

Why not give those deserved individuals in your life Unconditional personal Attention, sincere Affection, and true Love; which means you bestow these attributes of the Heart without expecting any of them in return. Life will respond enormously to such high consciousness human behavior. Where then, with whom will you start?

Reader: Should this be started not from our loved ones or initially with the those we face contradictions

Response: If you have the aspiration to apply these methods, Life will indicate to whom it should be applied.

No Title

In response to tensions between countries or within a nation, Mother asks that we take to absolute stillness and calm inside, pushing aside all bitter emotions, in order to create the best atmosphere, and therefore the best outcome for all involved.

Reader: Sir the same thing applies to family and personal tensions and while putting aside all bitterness it should not be suppressed either dilution/ changing it to sweetness. the second is herculean task

Response: Yes. If you shift out of bitterness, positive conditions will quickly be attracted. It is a personal growth moment, invariably accompanied by life response benefit.

If one goes a further step and change it to sweetness, then LIFE-ALTERING conditions will suddenly appear before the parties involved. It is an evolutionary/like movement. This usually requires the development of an ongoing inner poise of silence and warmth and goodness, which can occur over time. It happens when we see other souls as extension of our own, the reverse of separative consciousness, Ego.

No Title

Often it merely takes a firm DECISION on our part to act in a certain way in order to evoke a magnificent positive response of life. In other words, sudden good fortune can come to you even before you actually ACT on the decision! This extraordinary phenomenon has been our common experience over the years.

No Title

One trait that all nations and all their people have in common is that they are hopelessly PROVINCIAL. That is, they know and care very little about things cultural, social, political, etc. beyond their own familiar territory.

No Title

Each of the nations of the world are raging at their neighbors, expressing their grievances in a circus-like atmosphere of the absurd.

No Title

As soon as you start crowing about a recent accomplishment, it either quickly gets degraded, or other negatives follow.

Life Response Power of Truth

When you reveal to others an important truth that you have been hiding, opportunities of a lifetime quickly open up.

A man was in the running for a very high diplomatic position that would involve resolving difficult relationship between two nations. He secretly harbored a deep desire to attain this position because he felt he could apply high human values in the negotiations.

Unfortunately for him, an older and more experienced man appeared on the scene, and the higher ups were now apparently interested in this senior man to fulfill the high political office. This turn of events deeply troubled the younger man as he aspired for that diplomatic position.

In the meantime, the younger man was afraid to tell his upper-class friends about a boy he had fathered through a relationship with another race.

However, finally he could bear it no more, and revealed to others in the high society he moved in that he was the father of this dark-skinned boy.

A few moments later, the elder rival for the political position met with and went for a walk with the younger man. There he revealed that he was in fact NOT interested in the position, but had actually been sent by his superiors to check out the qualifications and character of the younger man, whom they really wanted to fulfill the position!

When you reveal the truth you were hiding, life has a funny way of quickly responding with startling positive conditions, including the realization of an opportunity of a lifetime; of one's deepest aspiration in life.

No Title

Key to India-Pakistan-Regional harmony and re-federation are increasing and deeper economic ties. (You can solve a problem of the current plane by moving to the next higher one. The conflict here is at the Political plane. It therefore can be resolved by going to the Economic plane, the next one higher.)

(Beyond these are, in ascending order, the Cultural, Psychological, and Spiritual planes.)

No Title

Democracy alone does not guarantee a successful society. E.g. consider the United States (inequality); Russia (authoritarianism); Iran (fundamentalism); India (corruption); etc.

Democracy therefore requires more than its mere existence through free elections to be a successful entity. It needs social stability, economic well-being, fairness and justice, equal opportunity, freedom of the press, religious tolerance, truly free elections, human rights, etc. Otherwise it remains but a hallow shell; an empty husk. A great ideal, unfulfilled.

No Title

The spiritual person resolves all outer problems inside through spiritual methods.

No Title

When life is not moving for you, making the right token effort in a certain direction will energize conditions, opening the floodgates.

No Title

Where in the moment you see no connections between things, look a little deeper, activating the subtle mind, and you will perceive startling associations.

No Title

Because of the veto power of the original five members of the United Nations (and their alternates), that institution is inherently undemocratic. It's too bad because the UN stands for so many positive human values.

Cultivating Cassandras

Great companies combine a strong sense of identity with a fierce hostility to groupthink. Andy Grove, a CEO of Intel, advised CEOs to balance the sycophants they inevitably attract by cultivating "Cassandras" who are "quick to recognize impending change and cry out an early warning". These Cassandras are often middle managers who "usually know more about upcoming change than the senior management because they spend so much time 'outdoors' where the winds of the real world blow in their faces". (The Economist)

No Title

Reduce your compulsion to announce your goal. It will now have a much better chance of succeeding.

No Title

The harder you work, the more opportunities come to you from out of nowhere.

No Title

Tax sheltering is the corporate darkness of our time.

No Title

Faith has eyes that see beyond the visible. (Jubal)

No Title

Indians and Pakistanis get all riled up in the media and amongst the public, leaving peace and harmony an orphan.

Reader: Looks Like Mother Nature Wants that way. Is it not ? Sir.

Response: Yes, Prakriti/Nature wills that. But Purusha/Spirit asks for inner peace on all sides. Shared prosperity is and will accelerate the latter. I believe that is key.

No Title

Though both can be explored, Life Response is a thousand times more powerful than outer space exploration. It's an expression of the infinite power of Inner Space to truly comprehend and improve the conditions Life.

No Title

When you are in a line for service, the instant you consciously give up your bother, the line rapidly moves in your favor.

No Title

Perhaps we could say that a Divine Father (Ishwara) conceived of the energies and values and forms of the universe, and through Her divine Shakti via Supramental action, it emerged from the Divine Mother as real.

No Title

Karmayogi indicates that property ownership and its pursuit is perceived as Ego to a slowly-emerging Supramental humanity.

No Title

Money essentially belongs to the vital plane. It is now managed by mind. We think of bringing an element of Supermind into mind so that abundance will issue by replacing competition of the mind by the cooperation of the Supermind. (Karmayogi)

No Title

Sri Aurobindo's position is there is only JOY all over creation. He even talks of intolerable ecstasy and Mother speaks of unflinching rapture. Still we feel pain, sorrow, suffering, disease and death. Sri Aurobindo says these are all the experiences of the ego, not the inner spirit. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

When the infinite human TRUST reflects on goods and services, infinite money is created. (Karmayogi)

No Title

Competition represents ego and cooperation represents the psychic. (Karmayogi)

No Title

A prejudiced individual is one who only seeks out information and experiences that substantiate his already entrenched beliefs.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo ... had adopted the attitude of complete surrender to the eternal Mother. (The Mother, Agenda, 12/14/63)

No Title

All the lessons that life is trying to teach you for your progress are lined up for you in a perfect progression one after another.

Goodwill Broadcasting

Nothing attracts positive conditions for other parties (and yourself) more quickly than silently welling up, feeling, and broadcasting goodwill toward them.

No Title

Doing the right thing in the present means that you are in touch with the truth calling you from the future.

No Title

The highest men are calm, silent and unknown. They are the men who really know the power of thought; they are sure that even they go into a cave and simply think five true thoughts and then pass away, these five thoughts of theirs live through eternity. Indeed such thoughts penetrate through the mountains, cross the ocean and travel through the world. (Vivekananda)

Process of Achievement & Quick Response of Life

It is not sufficient to have a vague idea of a better life and wish to have it. One should work by formulating clear goals, using the mental faculties to envision the end states in as much detail as possible and 'feel' the desired state emotionally. Finally, one should execute well thought out plans towards achievement of the desired goals as a movement towards the Divine by the Grace of the Divine. i.e. Engage in concentrated, consecrated actions. This way of being quickly leads one into a new life, within weeks or even days. (NR)

No Title

Life Response outcome (sudden good fortune) is a movement of Timelessness in Time, and Spacelessness in Space, as the latter in each pair is reduced in an event.

No Title

Russia and US missed a golden opportunity for cooperation after the Cold War ended. Crisis like Syria, India-Pakistan, and others emerging could easily have been solved if the two had cooperated. Now it is a race to the bottom in various areas of the world.

What will reestablish the Opportunity to re-emerge? Just as the Cold War ended as a result of a secret Consciousness - the Supramental emerging, so Her power can be tapped into again to bring about a new, unexpected form of Harmony in the world. We can each help bring that about by going Within.

No Title

Key to a spiritual life is giving up and broadcasting one's opinions. Keeping it to one's self, or better still, eliminating it in the mind, is one reflection of a yogic poise.

Reader: The personal opinion is at best a limited view; to sacrifice the limited view is to move to Mother's vision, which is the Integral Truth of reality.

Response: Yes, very true Navin. And then there is the fact that the opinion is a form of excessive speech, that wastes energy, that in turn attracts negative conditions.

Reader: Personal opinion is arising out of EGO which The Mother advocates to completely get rid of. Further the unspoken word drains greater amount of energy, which could have been channelized for constructive / positive action.

Evocation from the Past

By intensely revisiting something in the distant past causes you to attract something from that time instantaneously.

A man intensely focused on a music artist long ago from his youth. When he then checked his email, he saw but one entry: it was invitation to attend a high school reunion of exactly that time. He had never received such a request before in his life.

This show that our consciousness has a power over time. It is subconscious, and its reaction is such. However, we can make it CONSCIOUS, and evoke whatever is necessary from the past, ... or the future.

No Title

We will never know the truth of our being, the true nature of reality around us, and truly think, feel, and act unless we shift from our surface consciousness to a deeper poise within, culminating in our True Self. This is the first essential of spiritual life, and our emergence from a limited, ignorant, egoistic existence.

No Title

Karmayogi indicates that the first thing to do to solve a problem is to stop energizing it. When we keep thinking about the problem, we energize it. Even when we consecrate the problem, such as in hourly consecration, we can energize it. Consecration should be an act of Self-Offering to Her and Her will; not an opportune time to dwell on the problem, desperately asking Her to solve it. I.e. instead of remembering, dwelling on the problem on the hour, we should remember Mother alone. Life Response results will then be maximum.

Reader: It is helpful, actually blissful, to become aware of Her presence in the concentration centre or in front of you. If you feel threatened, you can imagine Her large and enveloping you. This shifts the focus to Her and gives immediate relief while the problem itself and its resolution lie in Her hands. The problem/ opportunity are secondary, illusory in a sense...the solution is always to go towards The Mother, because She always does what is required. We describe the situation in order to make it clear to our mind, and to a certain extent, that itself gives some relief, because the situation seems less daunting and manageable. However, as the hours pass, the consecration gets deeper, and you forget the problem completely (as you should), and conscious remembrance of the Divine is left. If you recall Mahabharata, Draupadi Maa dropped all efforts to save herself and gave her mind completely in surrender to Bhagavan Sri Krishna and then He saved her.

Response: N explains it beautifully. The focus should be on Her, not the problem, though a brief offering it to Her at the outset is acceptable. All emotion is to Surrender to Her, to open to Her Will, not the problem however. In other words, Thy Will Be done, Not My Will.

No Title

When the soul forgets it's problems, they disappear. (aphorism of Sri Aurobindo)

No Title

The deeper the source of our consecrated efforts; that is our focus completely on Mother not ourselves, the more She acts in our favor. The shallower our consecrated effort; that is our focus on our own needs, wants, - essentially our Ego, - the less we see Her actions in life.

No Title

The culmination of 10,000 years of abuse of women by men is being played out by Trump's misogynous abuse of Clinton and others of her sex, as she vies to be the first American president in the nation that is the leader and pioneer country of the world. It is a multi-millennial symbolic event, as well as an actual greatly meaningful one.

No Title

Beyond worshipping and adoring Mother is the effort to become Her.

No Title

The global Financial system - currently unregulated - threatens the stability of the world no less than nuclear war.

No Title

Tax sheltering and avoidance are expressions of Dark Money

No Title

Dark Money can bring about the ruination of Man.

No Title

Money is Self-Multiplying, and is doing so at an accelerating pace. The amount of money on hand in the world has increased from $50 to $500 trillion in just the last decade. This is due to the increasing spread of human values, like trust, transparency, truthfulness, cooperation, and innovation. Unfortunately, most of that money is tied up in speculative financial instruments, threatening to bring down the world. As a result, a development and force of Light is for now imprisoned in Darkness.

No Title

Hate is inverted Love. The former can easily turn into the latter when Ego is given up.

No Title

The Hour of God is an article written by Sri Aurobindo. In Tamil, it is Iraivan varum tharunam. Exactly when you understand the value of a particular Value like Punctuality, Cleanliness,

Orderliness, Good Will, Patience as valuable, it is the hour of God in your life. Till such time these values are mere words without any meaning. (Nedumaran Ramakrishnan)

Reader: Sir, in which volume can I find this article?

Response: Karmayogi's commentary:

What needs to be changed is not the method, not the life style, not even Time but everything must be swept away at one stroke. No longer it is gradual change, but now the order of the day is sudden transformation. It is truly the Hour of God. If man fails, God will not go or wait for him but will fulfil Himself.

--

The Time has Come To know this is the Hour of God is to make the distant hour come now. To have that knowledge is not given to mind. It is there in the heart. It arises in the fullness of the heart which comes through surrender.

--

Sri Aurobindo reached the Absolute and realized it fully in His very body. When He did so, He created the Hour of God for Man and in the absence of response, came down to remind man by His own personal presence. He went further to bring The Mother in order to reach man on his own terms. That hour of God is alive in each movement of man at each moment, presenting itself to him eagerly, for him to exercise his choice in its favor.

--

Today, every sadhak, every devotee, and everyone who has known Him in some fashion is the HOUR OF GOD for the world. Sri Aurobindo was the Hour of God, as HE became GOD himself. He has given it to all of us, but to know it as such is still left to the perception of man which is his Self-conception.

No Title

Let's give our ears more of a chance, and keep our mouths at rest.

Arm Cast that Verifies Man's Earlier Subtle Perception

There are subtle signs that appear that indicate that earlier you had made the right choice.

A man that made a certain decision not to act because he sensed danger ahead. He followed that plan and withheld action. Several hours later, in a completely different context, in a completely different part of town, he saw an individual with his arm in a cast which had the bright color that exactly corresponded to the emblem involved in the earlier issue. He was also overheard discussing virtually the very same issue the first man had gone out of his way to avoid!

PS As the first man wrote this post while walking on a hillside, a woman suddenly appeared wearing the exact same colors that were indicated in the original story! She was the only person around! Another indicator verifying the truth of the first man's subtle perceptions and actions.

No Title

When devastation comes to our area, then naturally we show great concern. However when such trouble comes to other areas, we show little lasting interest. Is it any wonder that when we go through a terrible plight, others are mostly indifferent!

No Title

Former US president Jimmy Carter, who dedicated every ounce of his being toward peace, had the following background:

His great-great-grandfather killed a man in a gunfight. His great-grandfather was stabbed to death in a fight, and his grandfather was shot to death in a fight.

As we see, the extreme negative can influence and help create the extreme positive.

No Title

"You only see the turn, you don't see the road ahead."
(from the wonderful film 'Stand and Deliver')

No Title

Patience attracts a result that is even better than the solution to the problem.

No Title

Today, clan loyalty or fierce regionalism is increasingly giving way to a growing sense among many people that we all share a common identity and destiny as human beings. Society is evolving from the nation state to the human community. (Janani Harish)

No Title

The greatest contribution to society comes from the efforts of the True Individual. And the truest individual is one who works for the empowerment of society.

Delicious Dish

When you give up your preference and embrace someone else's point of view, a surprise will surely be in store all around!

A woman asked her spouse if he was interested in ordering a certain dish from a restaurant. He answered that he was tired of having the same old thing. The woman remained silent.

However, after a short while, the man remembered the importance of taking the other persons point of view and shedding one's preferences and reluctances. And so he acceded to her request.

When she returned with the meal, he expected to see the same old thing, but instead it turned out to be a complex and sumptuous meal. He in fact commented that this was the most delicious meal he had ever had from that restaurant.

That's the power of shifting away from one's reluctances and preferences, and embracing another's position, instead of fixating on one's own. Life brings you the unexpected; in this case, a most unexpected and enjoyable delicious dish!

No Title

Professional sports teams often rise to the top of the league securing a championship when their city is going through a great success or boom, or a great failure or disaster. There seems to be no logical correlation; but there is.

No Title

One well-intentioned undertaking failed to gain traction as (1) it was an initiative originating in the mind of a man, rather than from Life; and (2) the inner attitude (of the founders) was positive, but the outer conditions and atmosphere was relatively negative, indicating a poor start. Thus, after very brief mild success, the business failed to get off the ground.

Shift from Wish Magnet to Overcoming Outer Limitations to Attract (by Deepak Chopra)

Sometimes the law of attraction [aka Life Response] is a bit misinterpreted. People use it like a wish magnet. They bait the hook with a dream, toss it out into the universe and expect to draw in money, a soul mate, happiness—whatever big fish they want to land. But think about another natural law: gravity. Gravity isn't selective. It pulls on everything, not just the things you want it to pull.

The law of attraction also pulls on everything; it attracts to you many things at once, not just one thing. The obstacles you meet are part of the whole picture. For that reason, this law can't be used as a wish magnet, even though it would be wonderful if it could. I think it's more useful to use another spiritual law, the law of reflection. This law states that the whole situation around you is you. "I am what I see. What I see is me." [Inner-Outer Correspondence] Once you see it is only you reflecting yourself back, what happens? You become more self-aware. As self-awareness expands, you become much clearer and focused on what you truly want. Then and only then can the law of attraction work for you reliably.

We are not talking about blaming yourself. Many people fear being blamed, which is why it's so easy to project on others. Those around you block your way, keep you from being happy and throw up obstacles to your getting ahead. Such an attitude keeps you stuck because if you are waiting for someone else to change in order to make you happy, you will wait forever. The only change that will make your reflection different is inner change. I mean inner change that is very specific and conscious.

If your reflection is full of stress, do what it takes to reduce your sense of being stressed.

If your reflection causes you to be anxious, look at your own fear. Do what it takes not to be afraid.

If your reflection makes you feel depressed, consider why you feel helpless and hopeless. Do what it takes to have hope and a sense of power over your own fate.

If your reflection shows other people in control over you, look at why you have given up your own power. Do what it takes to reclaim control over your own fate.

I have to use a general phrase like "do what it takes" because every situation has many elements. Maybe you will need to take outer action; surely you will have to take inner action. At bottom, whenever you see something negative in your reflection, three choices present themselves: Do I put up with it? Do I fix it? Do I walk away? These are fundamental choices. It takes self-awareness to know how to make them.

I really want you to make these choices, and the first step is to realize, with true conviction, that everything you see going on in your life is part of your reflection. It is telling you your own personal story, and fortunately, it also contains the clues you need to change that story.

No Title

Arguing is Ego, no matter what the conditions.

No Title

In the future, time and space will increasingly be overcome through Inner means.

Greek Blueberry Yogurt

It is a truism of life that when you have erred in the past, you have the opportunity to revisit the issue, reverse the situation in the next round, making a change to the positive. When you do, not only will you self-correct an earlier false movement, but life will suddenly work in your favor. This is true for something trivial, or for something great. Here is an example of the former, but the principle applies to important matters as well.

A man accidentally ate his partner's blueberry yogurt, when he was supposed to have the raspberry. He felt guilty about the matter, and expressed his contrition. The next day when he was shopping, he noticed that he could purchase a set of identical blueberry-only yogurts. (That struck him as a nice response from life!) And so as he viewed the products, he thought that would assuage his friend's feelings and reverse his previous error. He then went ahead and purchased that item.

When he arrived home, he happily showed the 4-pack of blueberry Greek-style yogurt. She looked at it for a moment, and then exclaimed. "You know you can have the whole thing, since I am not too fond of yogurt anyway." The man stood there in a daze. He thought that he had purchased the item for her benefit, but now was she not only rejecting it, but it was now his to have!

After a moment he reconsidered the situation and realized that it was a positive life response to his effort to rectify and reverse a wrong of the past in the next round. This dynamic occurs for the most trivial matters, such as blueberry yogurt, or for the most important developments in one's life, whether work, relationships, money, etc. When we consciously reverse a mistake of the past, the present blossoms before our eyes!

No Title

Each physical disease has its own unique psychological cause, and therefore its corresponding psychological solution.

Predecessor/Successor Phenomenon

Calamity or other forms of intensity at the beginning indicates the same throughout the terms and/or at the conclusion. Bush and Gore virtually tied at the end of the 2000 election, throwing the country into turmoil. The Supreme Court then made a controversial decision. giving Bush the advantage, who became president. It was soon followed by 9/11, Katrina hurricane killing thousands, the faulty Iraq War, and the greatest financial crisis in America in 75 years. What occurred at the outset was indicated in the unfolding and at the end of the term.

Kennedy and Nixon had a similar ordeal in the 1960 election, as Kennedy prevailed in a controversial outcome. He was later assassinated before completing his term. The beginning was a predecessor, that indicated the final outcome.

Bringing Our Profound Knowledge to the World

Q: If we see and have access to the profoundest of Knowledge on earth - from Sri Aurobindo, Mother, Karmayogi, et al - what can we do that will truly bring it to the world?

A: One thought is that it will manifest to the degree we make our own corresponding growth within.

Each person can discover what that entails - whether a missing aspiration, overcoming a wrong attitude, adopting a key value, or making the right inner and outer movement that attracts corresponding results.

G got to the top of W not because of his or Karmayogi's ideas, but because he discovered the particular, right inner levers that attracted the result that lifted him up - not unlike chutes and ladders. He examined the life conditions, even when extremely challenging, and made the necessary inner adjustment, and was thereby propelled to the top. Being in that power position, now the Knowledge he and his colleagues had developed could spread.

What about us? In the depths we can discover those unique levers that are required of us, attracting the results, the Opportunities that enable us to present the unprecedented Knowledge we have created for the world.

So what are those unique levers? Deep introspection will reveal what is required. And that's precisely what some are beginning to engage in.

Being Responsive to Change

Life constantly changes, shifts direction, subtly making new requests of us. Therefore to be successful in life we need to be responsive to that change - whether small or significant.

Thus we need to be vigilant and overcome our physical/material consciousness that does not want to change, that is fixed; that is unresponsive to the flow of events, the shifting of circumstance.

It is then simply a matter of recognizing our unresponsiveness, our reluctance, our indifference to life's requests, and take action in the opposite direction.

Life will then quickly respond to you in return, and forever be your friend.

No Title

The first step for going in the right direction is to stop going in the wrong one.

No Title

True consecration is not to want something and offer it to Her so it is realized. Rather true consecration is to want Mother and nothing else.

No Title

To have the Mother give us what we want is not what being a devotee is about; even though she will grant us anything we wish. Rather being a devotee means we want Mother and nothing else, for the experience of Her filling up our being is what our Soul truly desires.

Giving Up Our Right and Claim Attracts

It is a subtle truism of life that when we give up our right and claim to something, the very best conditions related to that area will return to us.

Eg, one man gave up his claim to a property jointly developed with his partner, after the latter demanded the entire land be placed under his control. The second man naturally was happy to receive it, even though the first man was the person who truly developed the property, raising its value considerably.

However, after a short while the person in charge of all the lands said to the second man that he must give the entire property back to the first individual!

Because the first man gave up his rights and claim to the land, the very best conditions came to him from a higher power.

No Title

We ask Mother for blessings, hoping She improves our lives. But what will really energize Her blessing are our corresponding changes in consciousness - whether overcoming negative attitudes; worn out, fixed habits; and destructive behaviors and beliefs. Then She will be energized to rapidly move on our behalf!

What Consecration Does

Consecration solves problems, resolves conflicts, dissolves dead habits and un-wanted traits, opens up new opportunities, generates freshness and enjoyment in everything we do, widens the personality, deepens our awareness, and reveals one's true inner self. Through consecration the Divine unveils to us its presence in the world around us and deep within ourselves. Consecration makes our lives a joyous living. (Karmayogi)

Negative Thoughts that Fulfill Themselves

The power of attitudes is most easily demonstrated in the negative. "I had a deep fear that something would turn out bad and it did... I told them it could not be done that way and I was right". How many times can we catch ourselves saying or thinking: "I told you so" or "This task is beyond my capacity" or "They will not understand me." When we anticipate the outcome of an event, our attitude has the power to fulfill itself in life, like a self-fulfilling prophesy. Every problem or constraint we meet in life has its counterpart in our own attitudes. (Karmayogi)

Comment: It is because we live on the surface, instead of in the depths. Surface living allows the separative self, the Ego to dominate, which in turn brings out our worst of our attitudes - towards others, work, life, and self. Constant Consecration, non-reaction, and taking the other person's point of view deepens the consciousness, lessens the Ego power, and thereby softens our negative attitudes.

Freeing Ourselves from Our Attitudes

The greatest power of attitudes comes from giving them up. No matter how justified an attitude may appear to be, when we cease to insist on it, rise above it and free ourselves from its grip, our personality opens and grows, our being expands and our consciousness is elevated. We become younger, freer, and happier. (Karmayogi)

Our Attitudes Come from Others

Very few of our attitudes are really our own. If we examine our attitudes toward most things in life--people, communities, habits, customs, etc.--we will find that almost all of them have come from our families or our peers. Even when we take pride in the fact that we have given up family attitudes, if we scratch the surface we will find they are still there. Attitudes toward authority, money, wealth, education, social position, and occupation usually have deep roots in the past. (Karmayogi)

Opposition to Inner Insistence

The more you insist on your position in your mind (without verbalizing it to anyone), the more people will appear and take an opposing view. Releasing the insistence inside dissolves the outer opposition.

Faith in Supreme to Make Right Choice

There are times when a collective of individuals have to make a choice - such as among three candidates for office, or to lead a company, etc. However, as a spiritual individual and observer of the situation we can have an influence on the outcome of events from within ourselves. And yet, with our limited knowledge and understanding, we don't necessarily have all the facts to make the right choice.

And so we offer the matter to the Higher Power, as it not only knows the current conditions, but the future circumstance as well. On our behalf, it then selects that individual or party that allows the full play and development of the positive, of real progress, even if the choice seems, at least in the short run, to be at odds with the truth.

In the final analysis then, we need to offer the matter to the Supreme, to the Mother and have faith in that choice; as She is in touch with past, present and future; as well as the full play and unfolding of what will bring about substantive change in the world.

No Title

We are here to open to, adore, and surrender to Mother and Her Force so we can evolve into our highest consciousness, culminating in a Supramental existence

No Title

The whole world is subconsciously doing yoga. As human beings, we can become conscious of that process and consciously evolve ourselves. (Karmayogi)

No Title

In their pure form, Goodness, Self-givingness, Generosity, Gratitude are neither mental nor emotional. They are psychic or spiritual. (MSS)

Token Effort of Giving Out Cards Attracts

Sometimes life requires us to make a small, token effort in one area in order to attract positive conditions in another.

An instructor and consultant had not received any training inquiries in quite a while. In addition, several other paying projects were coming to an end. And so he wondered where his next set of funds would come from. A month passed, and his concern only mounted.

Then he came to know about a small opportunity. Rather than forget about it, in deference to the bigger issues he was confronted with, he saw the small, somewhat humiliating effort as a kind of stepping stone in consciousness that could draw the larger paying works toward him.

And so he began giving out many cards at many locations in order to fulfill the small token work. Well, it turns out that after only one hour of making this multi-day effort, he received a sole email in his Inbox in which he was offered a substantial amount of training work, when he hadn't had any in months!

By making the token effort in a relatively small ego-deflating area, he was able to attract a result in another area of greater concern. He smiled as this happened, as he had experienced this dynamic not a few times in his life!

No Title

India and its vibration of Harmony can bring about reconciliation among any set of conflictive nations.

Eg India is working closely with both Russia and the US, which can in turn help smooth out relations between these two superpowers. There are many other possibilities.

No Title

US is the great economic and military power. Will it then emerge as the great psychological leader? If not, it can occur elsewhere, such as India.

No Title

India has a great advantage, as it can bring its natural spiritual capacity to all interactions, both at home and abroad.

No Title

Inner peace and Non-reaction will attract the best results, whether regarding US-Russian deep chill, India-Pakistan hostility, bitter US election, etc. Reaction and accusation will only intensify all problems.

No Title

If each side in a conflictive situation sees how their own consciousness attracted the negative condition, - eg in US-Russia tension, India-Pakistan hostility, etc. - it can quickly improve outer circumstances from within.

For example, the US and the West humiliated the Russians after the end of the Cold War, keeping them at arm's length in global decision-making; relegating her to a second-hand citizen, No wonder she elected an autocratic strongman to abuse the West.

Likewise, India's Ahimsa [non-violence] delayed independence and gave the British a chance to divide and conquer, which took shape in the form of partition. Also, India's evil untouchability [Dalit] attracted negative conditions to their doorsteps.

In this way, we see Inner-Outer Correspondence in action. Fortunately, we can reverse ourselves, seeing things anew, and thereby attract enormously positive conditions.

No Title

Deep, LONG-LASTING conflict indicates deep, long-lasting unity to come. Or to put it another way, the length of the problem indicates the depth of the resolution. On this basis, India and Pakistan can reunify over Kashmir. I.e. resolution of long-lasting deep conflict over Kashmir can be the basis of their reunification.

No Title

Constant religious celebrations, even when well-intentioned indicate that Indians are for the most part not serious about seeking, embodying Higher Consciousness in their lives.

No Title

For decades Americans - rich, poor, and in between - have been unwilling to use up their vacation time, as they just love to work. No wonder they became the greatest economic power in the world!

No Title

Recent Darkness settling over the world indicates the Asura is trying to block the Light that is rapidly accelerating and spreading on earth.

No Title

All those who have accomplished in the world have known the power of Silence, Silent will, not taking initiative, not parting with information out of enthusiasm and excitement believing oneself to be frank. This is a knowledge of which the Rishis have laid down the rules by their own living.

... A still higher knowledge is the capacity NOT to prove one's rightness whether it is a theorem in Mathematics or a concept in philosophy. (Karmayogi)

No Title

Cheerfulness solves problems is a yogic principle. FDR .. was able to solve the world's greatest economic problem [the Great Depression] because he could maintain his cheerful demeanor during those oppressive days. (Karmayogi)

No Title

It is a spiritual principle not to activate the hostile forces by undue concern. Attention energizes. (Karmayogi)

No Title

-The intense ASPIRATION of the society, expressed through individualistic entrepreneurialism, is the dynamic that drives modern populations to economic success.

-It is the very secret of America's success, and serves as a model for the rest of the world.

No Title

At certain critical times, the great economic success of America, - born of intense aspiration expressed through individualistic entrepreneurialism, - has been ruined by Money taint. Great Depression and (recent) Great Recession are two examples, originating in unbridled financial speculation. It indicates that without higher values, Money Greed and therefore ruin become a product of economic success in the modern environment.

No Title

For well over 150 years Americans have had an intense ASPIRATION for success; and as a result, they succeeded beyond compare!

Role of Government in Terms of Economy

Government should allow the society to grow economically without interference, save for essential protections for the population.

But when the society falters, government is required to step in to remedy the problem - as it did in America after the onset of the Great Depression under FDR, and as is also necessary now in the wake of the Great Recession, which not only crushed many in the middle class, and revealed no wage growth in America for 20 years, but also uncovered the fact that 5% of the people control 80% of the wealth.

Otherwise the society should take to Individuality and entrepreneurship, which is exactly how United States accumulated its unprecedented wealth over the last 50 years.

No Title

United States is not really a Capitalist country, but more of an Entrepreneurial one. Whenever it takes to the former, it abuses itself; when the latter, it seems to expand almost infinitely.

No Title

"Appreciate where you are in your journey, even if it's not where you want to be. Every season serves its purpose." (anonymous)

We also call this "Accepting the Givens of Life." When you do, - such as embracing your current work or situation, no matter how uninspiring - positive conditions suddenly start taking place, such as a golden opportunity arising; whereas sulking about your current condition attracts the (negative) opposite.

Evoking "Instantaneous Miraculousness"

At the point you shift from complaint to non-complaint, or blame to non-blame, or reaction to non-reaction, or unappreciation to appreciation, or reluctance to acceptance, or ill-will to goodwill, life responds out of all proportion in your favor. And it occurs instantaneously. We call it "instantaneous miraculousness."

Hack Attack: Progress via Positive Emerging from Negative

We know how an evil deed can cause great pain for the victim. Less understood is the phenomenon that a nefarious negative deed can backfire and make the positive force it opposed even more powerful.

Eg one nation hacks another nation's presidential candidate in order to prop up the opposition whom it favors. However, after a brief period of time, the content of the hack reveals unknown outstanding positive qualities of the first, hacked candidate.

If we examine with subtle eyes we can perceive how a negative is often turned into a positive when an underlying and unexpected truth is revealed. Thus a positive emerging out of negative is one of Nature's secret ways of progress.

No Title

One by one each of the social values of socialism is being adopted by liberal democratic capitalist nations. They engender greater trust and social cohesion, which has the effect of strengthening nations, while accelerating the money supply.

No Title

The whole society speculating in questionable financial instruments is a kind of sickness. It destroys trust, and therefore, longer-term, taints and withers the supply of money in the world.

No Title

We focus on what we want from the Divine, from Mother; not what She requires of us.

"Mother, let me be open to, surrender to what you wish of me."

Evolution of Money in Society

"Greater Trust accelerates, self-multiplies the Money supply in the world."

In the history of money, we see evolution of form: barter > coins > bills > checks > credit cards > smart phones, electric pulses.

It is increasing subtlety, from physical/material barter to invisible pulse wave.

The scale also indicates ever-Higher forms of Trust among the population, between institutions and people, etc.

This increasing Trust accelerates circulation of money, which increasingly expands the money supply in the world.

Eventually Money Self-Multiplies, heading toward infinity. As a result, all the funds necessary in the world are produced. (Eg global money supply is now $300 trillion whereas 10 years ago it was less than $50 trillion.)

Now Money needs to be more equitably distributed, which requires the adoption of higher social Values.

Evolution of the society evolves Money - in terms of money's form and quantity. Evolution of money also helps evolve the society. Eg venture capital in Silicon Valley.

No Title

Money is a social force, a Divine Force. All that is asked of us is to use it right. If we do, it expands infinitely for the benefit of everyone in the world.

Non-Reaction Power

To the degree you ignore another's negativity, eliminating any emotional feeling, is the degree that Life will respond and neutralize their offending behavior or at least dissolve their influence. This is a great secret of the inner method and power of Non-Reaction.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo asks us to give up Overmental consciousness of Gods - Krishna, Rama, Durga, etc. - for Supramental consciousness of the Divine Mother and Her Force, as it is the evolutionary power now fully available and active in the world.

The Mocked Become Tomorrow's Dominating Power

One wonderful aphorism and truth I learned along the way is that "what is mocked and laughed at will one day rule the world."

Eg the European continentals laughed at the English 500 years ago. She then became the most powerful nation in the world with a vast empire.

The British laughed at the Americans 250 years ago. The US became the world's greatest economic and military power.

The US East Coast laughed at the West Coast, particularly California. From the latter emerged Silicon Valley, leading the world into a new technological era.

We see similar dynamic elsewhere; eg the world 50 years ago mocking China and India as basket cases, who are now leading the world in growth, and vastly accelerating in their level of influence.

And what of the Middle East, Africa, etc tomorrow?

We see the same dynamic in politics, business, etc.; even in the schoolyard, where the denigrated, awkward teen one day becomes a genius that takes society to new vistas.

Let us therefore be humble and cherish all individuals and collectives, for they may spearhead the next set of changes in the world.

No Title

One expression of the dark side of the marvel of social media is a tendency toward mass conformity.

No Title

Life consists of human pleasure and pain. Yet we can go beyond both by opening to and surrendering to the spiritual Force, the divine Mother. Then we experience spiritual Pleasure without any corresponding pain. It is Supramental Life; A New Way of Living.

No Title

We love to repeat the same thing ad infinitum, which keeps us from moving forward - like walking in place. It is the physical consciousness, born of matter, that does not want to change. It is our fixed, habitual nature that tethers us to the past in the present.

No Title

True Happiness is not found in someone else, but in Self.

Comment: I.e. Self is not our ego self. Self is our essence and being; our individual soul and spirit.

Simply Knowing What Needs to be Known

Gurdjieff's and Sri Aurobindo's both agree that our tendency to live on the surface of life is the basis of our Ignorance - leading to our perpetual error in thought, attitude, habit, and belief. They also agree that these limitations in our nature can be overcome by discovering our deeper self and soul within, as well as the transcendence above. That in turn leads to the development of a higher consciousness, and a new type of individual; one who simply Knows what needs to be known without thought at any given moment, leading to a perpetual Knowledge of the truth of things, enabling a great power over life.

No Title

We have explored many dozens of subtle laws governing life in these pages over the years. Eg the many subtle principles involving the success or failure of individual Acts; or the laws of Life Response. Almost none of these principles are currently known by humanity, though in 100 years or less they are bound to be more widely perceived and utilized.

Interestingly, when we evoke the spiritual Force, Mother, all of the laws that have governed and dominated life on earth are shifted further to the positive. In that way Supramental Life has its own subtle laws of existence, superseding those of Nature. To know both sets enables us to come out of our fundamental Ignorance, and thereby become the Masters of Life.

No Title

In a world where power of true individuality is increasingly afforded to us, Conformity still reigns supreme.

No Title

Opportunities coming to a devotee means Mother is increasingly moving towards you.

No Title

Cosmic beings - like Gods, asuras, raksheras, angels, spirits - preceded human beings.

No Title

When an individual fanatically expresses a questionable idea and insists that his position will be overwhelmingly accepted, you can be assured the opposite will take place in the extreme.

No Title

In a crossroad situation, try to get in touch with your Inner Guide. It will show you the best way.

No Title

Traditionally, men depend on women psychologically, while women depend on men for physical security. Breaking out of that stricture is biological progress: i.e. discovering that missing aspect that we lean on in another in one's own self.

No Title

Indians often seem confined by conformity, while Americans often abuse their individuality (rebelliousness). It would seem that a happy medium can be found. A quiet true individuality?

No Title

The deepest and truest expression of individuality issues from soul.

No Title

The social environment drives one into conformity. We act and think and talk just like everyone else. Few are willing to venture outside that societal box. Those that do, in a positive way, become heroic individuals.

No Title

Technology is marvelous, but what really has power to move life are human values. When applied, they shift things from their current finite status to their infinite capacity.

No Title

When we utilize personal values, we fulfill the divine intent to bring its "real ideas" - i.e. Spiritual values - to the world.

Spiritual values include peace, silence, harmony, oneness, truth, wisdom, goodness, love, delight, timelessness, and infinity.

No Title

Have you ever noticed that when you navigate through a difficult passage, pushing yourself through the obstacle, that when you get to the remainder of the work, it is so much easier to accomplish! Not just easier compared to the difficult work that preceded it, but far easier than you expected it to be in the first place. This has been my quite common experience over the years.

On India's Spirit-based Emergence in the World (by Karmayogi)

- India is sleeping not because she is sleepy, but because of a wider scheme of Nature that she should wait till all others wake up.
- The instrument we had a few thousand years ago, the Spirit, is thousand times more powerful than the latest instrument of the richest nation.
- We are poor, dull, and blind because that is the fashion in which our treasure should be preserved, as gold is buried in the forest and is covered by an anthill or thorny bushes.
- We may sleep, but that Spirit, "that which is awake in things that sleep" * is awake all over the world. In India too, it is stirring in the subtle plane.
- When the energies of that Spirit are linked to the life of today through an ORGANISATION, the transition in progress will resemble the speed of the rocket.
- The crucial thing is that the cream of the nation should awaken to this possibility and fashion that critical organisation. Prior to that, the values by which that organisation should emerge should be espoused by the population. In the corrupt atmosphere of today, this possibility is a vanishing dream.
- Otherwise, the population should awaken to this possibility and fashion that organisation themselves.
- The cream can do so in a short time. The masses will take a long time, but in either case it is a certainty.
- In the event of the elite failing, an infinitesimal minority of a few hundred idealists doing it in their lives to a great perfection can usher it in almost as a miracle.

-- In any case, such a change can come about ONLY by utter truthfulness that is absolute.
-- My own hope is India still has that aristocracy of Satyam.
-- I do see the distant signs of that splendor. The majority may fail, the minority too may fail, but the underlying SPIRIT cannot fail. It accomplishes by Self-Conception, not depending upon externals.
--The only question is through whom and how soon?
--Are you willing to be the vehicle of Indian Spiritual Prosperity? If so, India will achieve in the short run. (2004, from 'Spiritual Opulence')

No Title

Have you ever noticed that people get upset, angry when things go wrong, such as when the lights go out. When they do react that way, it almost ensures that things are going to continue or get worse, now or later. On the other hand, quiet Non-reaction to the issue attracts positive results, such as the problem instantly resolving itself.

Reader: It really does pay to go silent for a while and to consecrate and if time is available to visualize the positive outcome with Mother involved...like if lights are out, one can see Her switching them on.

No Title

Instead of complaining about or being disappointed by a negative situation, discover what there is to be learned, because behind the problem powerful positives are waiting to be discovered.

Non-Reaction Power

To the degree you ignore another's negativity, eliminating any emotional feeling and response, is the degree that Life will respond and neutralize their offending behavior, or at least dissolve their influence. This is a great secret of the inner method and power of Non-Reaction.

Reader: True but very hard to practice as we are bound to react for any act. Needs to be extremely cautious to refrain from reacting.

Response: Yes, it can be for the beginner. However, if you develop a deeper consciousness within, it makes it much easier. That's why a spiritual approach to life is so helpful.

Also, if you see it work once by not reacting to the outer intensity, and attract the startling positive result, you are quickly reminded to try the approach again when the intense outer situation arises.

We know a number of individuals who practice this approach regularly and continually see a marvelous sudden positive life response effect.

If you try it in a few small situations, you can begin to develop this capacity. It takes a certain amount of will, sincerity, and faith.

Non-reacting done in tandem with Consecrating (offering the outer negative intensity to the Mother), then becomes a marvel of startling results. Self-control and Faith are then key. Miracles then take place.

Attitude Change from Below Can Attract Massive Organizational Success

Even an individual on the lowest rung in a business or other organization can have a vast impact on the success of the business by simply changing his own attitude in one or several areas. That change in consciousness then vibrates up and attracts powerful positive conditions for that collective. It really can happen that way.

Husband's Journey from Separateness to Oneness

When you give up your own ego wants, needs, and desires, shifting your focus to another - such as helping them fulfill their aspirations, - life responds, and fulfills your own needs and more.

Eg a man decided to give full attention to his neglected wife for one full year putting aside a golden opportunity in his career that would likely never come again. His whole life till that point was wrapped up in his own career.

A year later after taking a long trip with her, she finally got pregnant, something she deeply desired up to that point; plus he was unexpectedly offered that very same job position of his dreams!

By focusing on someone else's needs above his own he attracted a plethora of positive condition for both he and his spouse. It was a journey from ego and separateness to harmony and Oneness with another, which is a sure sign of an evolving spirit.

Universalizing By Going Within

When you go within and discover your soul, the psychic being, you universalize. In that state, you feel no boundaries between you others; that they are part of you and you are part of them. In that state, you feel no boundaries with life. It is Oneness of being. You may even experience the universe inside yourself or that your body and being extends endlessly beyond the boundaries of yourself.

Harmony, Mutuality, Oneness in Supramental Life

Harmony is a form of peaceful relation, devoid of conflict or problems with others and with life. Mutuality is greater still in that we are inexorably bound up with the concerns of others and life. It is intertwined harmony. Beyond that is Unity, where we have lost ourselves, are one with the needs and concerns of every person and thing we encounter in life. We have lost ourselves in Other, as we and they are one.

Harmony, Mutuality, and Unity can then be thought of as a mantra of the aspiring supramental being aiming to live a Supramental Life.

No Title

Stagnation has its pressing issues. So does growth.

True Self, Genius, and Education

In sum, the person who becomes consciously aware of his or her true self will facilitate the expression of his or her individuality, thereby accelerating the process of personal accomplishment and growth for themselves and the world. Moreover, social organizations where facilitators like teachers and leaders bring out the true essence and potential of individuals will foster an ever-expanding community of entrepreneurs, creative artists, and free thinkers. One could even imagine a society where the number of geniuses expands a thousand-fold through this dynamic. In fact, one Indian school taking this approach advertised its goal as "every child a genius."

Supramental Education

Among other things, connecting with our True Self enables our mind to expand in all directions so that intuitions of knowledge come pouring in from out of nowhere without thought - radically accelerating the knowledge-acquiring process.

In addition, through True Self (psychic being), we break down our separation with others, enabling us to interact in the Learning process with ever-wider groups and collectives of individuals. This shared experience widens and deepens our knowledge of the subject matter under consideration.

In that way, inner, soul-based personal experiences are simultaneously both individualized and universalized - expanding in all directions, overcoming space and time (i.e. Life Response).

That's what mooc4 (or Mooc10!) is about: both realms - individual intuition and revelation, and shared knowledge with collectives - functioning together.

Supramental Education is then both Individual and Universal knowledge acquiring experience - occurring simultaneously with one another, while fully integrated for ultimate Insights of Truth.

Reader: Sir I did not understand the Mooc4 or Mooc10 part

Response: Moocs are free or very low cost online college level courses available to anyone that have been developed by the finest universities in the world. MOOC = Massive Open Online Courses.

It Harkins a potential technological revolution in education

Mooc2 is an improvement.

Mooc4 is a term developed by an MIT professor that allows for vastly-collaborative one-to-many-to-many arrangements for certain Mooc courses. He has shown it to work, which could lead to a low-cost revolution in learning.

You can lookup "Mooc" on the internet (Eg Wikipedia). Then also do a search for Huffington Post article on Mooc4 for powerful experience at that level.

Mooc10 - I am slightly joking here. Ie, that system would have to evolve to its 10th release level to be supramental!

Supramental Perception: Journey from the Part to the Whole

Many times we read or hear about something and think that is inconsequential or ridiculous, only to later discover the truth in it, in which case we are taken aback.

Our error begins in the mind which only believes in what it knows, what matches its current limited knowledge. It is the minuscule Part that is Mind, looking out on the Whole of the Reality trying to match it to the sliver it perceives.

That is why personal growth and especially Yoga (conscious evolution) exists: to deliver us from the Part the mind sees to the Whole that is the Reality is in every subject matter and life experience so we know the integral Truth of things. It is what could be called Supramental Perception and Life.

No Title

If you want a negative situation to cease from continuing, let go of your negative feelings about the situation. Doing so will release positive energies that will attract corresponding positive conditions.

No Title

Nothing resolves a grave situation faster and more completely than calling intensely to the Mother. It is the life response power of Consecration; the Spiritual Force in action.

(If accompanied with the thought/feeling of "Thy Will, not my will, be done," then it has extra power. If also practiced at the top of every hour, on the dot, the prayer/calling is infallible.)

Non-Reaction that Lifted an Organization Member to the Top

When a member and several associates were sued for taking an august institution in directions beyond what its name implied, to embracing dozens of other fields and disciplines, it ended up causing an uproar, then a vote of all the members, in which case the man rose through that emergency poll/election from somewhere in the middle of the pack of 500 members to head of the institution, steering the influential organization in an entirely new, progressive direction, expanding its influence internationally.

He did so through the advice of a spiritual mentor and practiced absolute Non-Reaction and Equality of Being to the intense negative situation, attracting startling outcomes that took him from the object of a nefarious suit to the top of a world-influencing organization in a month's time.

No Title

We may have democracy, or we may have wealth concentrated in the hands of a few, but we cannot have both. (Louis Brandeis)

No Title

Despite all of its inherent advantages, Democracy does not guarantee a fair and balanced economy. It is subject to huge distortions of economic benefit. Therefore, it may not be right for all countries at the outset, as we have seen in Asia and elsewhere.

No Title

The estrangement between the United States and Russia is the most troubling and likely the most dangerous condition in the world.

No Title

At each moment scan yourself and release the dark emotion, attitude, thought, belief, habit that is simmering inside. The day will then smile on you with good fortune (instead of the opposite).

No Title

Indulging, showing accidents, violence, cruel circumstance, suffering, et al in order to get kicks and thrills shared with others, is a lower, vital movement that has the power to attract the same back to you.

"Past Consecration" of Negatives that Attracts Positive Conditions in the Present (by Karmayogi)

"After long periods of association with Mother's ideals, it is possible to feel that certain defects insist in one's life. These have their roots in the make-up of one's personality. Mother's Force acts in life through the individual mind. It is true that Mother's Force is infinite and can have beneficial effect in spite of the deficiencies of the person's mind or character. There are many occasions when we see the expression of it. It is also true that man's mind is a manifestation of the Divine and its aspects begin to assert themselves as and when man grows. A time comes when man cannot move ahead loaded with his deficiencies. They are to be removed before he goes ahead in his sadhana.

Let us take the situations where an industrialist faces a strike situation. The strike will have a history of many years. Settlements arrived at in earlier situations will have a bearing on this strike. Personal relationship between the employer and the strike leaders will have a history of its own. There would have been times when strikers would have had their way in spite of their illegal actions. Management would have yielded. In other cases management would have succeeded in splitting the union and forcing the strike to withdraw. Laws would have been implemented with a vengeance to one's own advantage. Things would have snowballed and the situation will make one see it is useless to resort to any of the old ways, good or otherwise. Human strength and human resources come to their tether end. In such situations people say, "I have been praying constantly, but nothing stirs." Yes, he has been praying that he must have his way, Mother should lend Her Force to him against the other! Things don't move and won't move. In Mother's kingdom, nobody is against any other. Surely there is a solution acceptable to both at the next higher level of interests. It is here we feel it is in the power of any devotee to move things almost instantaneously. It is in his power to correct all lapses of the past. Man lives in the past, present and future. Mother's Consciousness is ever present. It includes the past and the future. It is timeless. Man lives in the plane of time, but the Divine lives in eternity. That is why we say things can be corrected instantaneously. Numerous examples can be cited.

All that the devotee has to do is to retire to an isolated place and relax himself physically and mentally, recollect the history of the situation before him. As and when the past events flash before his mind, he must offer them to Mother. Always, each such item will be connected with a mental habit or temperamental behavior of his. He must offer such habits to Mother now. It is best done if it could be done with right feelings. A sense of unburdening will come over him. This can be periodically repeated until the desired momentum is gathered. The problem in hand will begin to thaw in parallel. Things will move swiftly.

These problems exist in many layers. Each time one will be able to undo one layer. One has to continue till the whole past of the situation shows itself before the mind to be offered to Mother. In doing so, it will be helpful to look inside oneself for the same attitudes of mind as those projected on him by others. For instance, if the employer feels that the strikers make unlawful claims, he himself will use unlawful habits in another domain of his life. If he ceases to do so, the strikers will change their mind at once. As we are to Mother inside, so life is to us. Sometimes we will be guilty, not on the same plane but on a different plane. For example, the company may not take initiative to return articles or money of others because no claim is presented. The workers may reflect this attitude in their plane as: we will not work unless we are constantly supervised and checked. To correct the latter situation, it is enough to initiate action to return all that does not belong to the company.

To bring the past before the mind and offer it to The Mother is one of the most effective ways of correcting a tangled situation. It is better done by withdrawing one's own psychological enjoyment in having done past actions. If you have dismissed an officer on the expiry of his term (instead of normally renewing it) so as to bring in one of your men, you must now regret having done so and deeply resolve not to do so in the future. For a devotee, this might have resulted in the non-renewal of a license at its expiry. Psychological purification fortifies this reviewing. This is an unfailing way of bringing Mother's Force to bear upon a situation for its immediate solution.

The same holds good to anticipating the future plans and offering them to The Mother. That may be called Anticipatory Consecration whereas the former is consecration of the past.

-- We generally take for granted that past is past and is to be left as such. We apply this principle even to the Divine Capacity. That is a limitation of our faith.

-- We live in time, i.e., the past is inaccessible. Mother's Consciousness is in the plane of timelessness, i.e., the past is accessible for consecration.

-- The past of an act is still buried in the present act and that is the lever for us to act upon it.

-- The Divine acts on life through the human mind. Hence the mind often acts as a limitation. This limitation is expressed as aspects of temperament.

-- Strands of the act and aspects of the temperament dovetail into each other.

-- Past reviewed helps dissolve the physical past of the act but leaves a psychological remainder.

-- This remainder hangs on aspects of temperament

-- To attempt to shed the aspects of temperament is truly a reversal of consciousness at the plane of behavior.

-- Reviewing the history of the act suddenly takes on itself a great velocity and becomes the reliving of it.

-- The soul relives the entire life at the time of death. Conscious reliving of an act is psychological rebirth into Mother's Consciousness.

-- These reviews move matters and dissolve the problem gradually, but surely. But reliving instantaneously solves the problem miraculously. Review belongs to the physical part of mind, reliving is psychological

-- There is no human problem that cannot be so solved if only commensurate interest can be evinced."

"Integrated Approach to Peace & Human Security in the 21st Century"

This just released article has the potential to change the direction of society, and the course of life on earth - by Garry Jacobs, leader of the World Academy and Mother's Service Society. (begins) "Humanity has made remarkable progress during the past two centuries in advancing peace, democracy, human rights, economic development and social equality. The evolution of human relations has progressed far from the time when physical violence, war and conquest were the predominant form of international relations. Diplomacy has evolved from political negotiations at the conference table to mutually beneficial economic exchange and creative cultural integration. But the ideal of peace and human security for all human beings remains elusive, distant and utopian. Violence and insecurity persist and social harmony is threatened by the competition for political supremacy, markets, jobs and scarce resources. ..."

Value of Deep Gratitude Returns 20-Fold

When you sacrifice your all financially for another party in gratitude for what they had earlier bestowed on you, life tends to instantaneously respond by returning the funds 10-100 fold.

A man was loaned £600 pounds for a business undertaking when he was strapped to the limit. (In modern terms its equivalent value is perhaps £25,000.)

Years passed and his success was only modest. At that time he learned that the party who had loaned him those funds long ago were now themselves in difficult straits. He wanted to help them, but he himself had little more than £600.

He struggled with the issue, acknowledging it could put his own family at risk. However, he felt deeply about returning the financial favor.

It turns out that the day after transferring the funds, he learned that an anonymous donor had sent him 10-20 times the amount he had just spent! It would come from a source completely unrelated to the party he had given the £600 to. Life had conspired to bring good fortune through another friend who felt grateful to him, just as he felt grateful when he gave his last funds to the original party.

That is the life response power of the high human value of Gratitude. Infinite-like results suddenly open up in your favor.

Exceptional and Problematic Qualities of America & Americans

Exceptional Qualities of America, of Americans:

- Work hard
- Organized material life to the hilt
- Accumulated huge wealth
- Brought out the infinite in matter
- Have generally high business values
- Are individualistic, entrepreneurial
- Have assimilated and ennobled waves of immigrants
- Various race, cultures, religions, etc generally get along
- Are generally trusting
- Are friendly and flexible
- A general level of honesty & integrity
- Are generous and charitable
- Increasingly becoming psychologically complex
- Economic and military leader of the world
- Values education
- Generally optimistic
- Value and experience high levels of freedom and liberty
- Other?

Problems in America, with Americans:

- 200 million guns in hands of its citizens
- Weapons proliferation throughout world
- Obsession with violence on tv, games, media, etc.
- 10% own 80% of the wealth
- Averages wages have not increased in 20 years
- Average savings is one months' salary
- Unregulated financial speculation; Black Money
- Surface, material, sense orientation
("Americans think with their bodies" i.e. five senses)
- Can't be still for 5 minutes
- Facile culture
- Many have general contempt for government
- Are gleeful about avoiding paying taxes
- Love benefits that come their way, but are unwilling to pay for it (as tax)
- Often don't practice what they preach
- Diplomatic insincerity
- Support what is in own self-interest, not what is right
- High levels of crime
- Problems of poverty, infrastructure, etc. unaddressed
- Lacking skills for new economy
- Serious falling out with Russians
- Others?

Mother says that Americans are like chicks peeking out of their shells, peeking out into the world, thinking they know everything, how to solve everything, but know nothing (of what is deeper; of higher consciousness).

No Title

When you are connected to Mother, She constantly fills you up with right thoughts, indicates the right course of action, leads you to the right location, and otherwise guide you hand-in-hand throughout your day. The result is startling positive outcomes, spontaneous joy, and deep inner fulfillment.

No Title

Boasting indicates Life's coming abuse upon one's vital/emotional and physical consciousness.

No Title

Churchill who saved the world from fascism when Sri Aurobindo evoked a fog at Dunkirk, returned to lead the country and attracted a poisonous fog that killed up to 12,000 Londoners in 1952. The coal-based smog mixed with the fog, and proved lethal. Sri Aurobindo had by now withdrawn His Force, as He now sought the end of colonialism which Churchill was against. He was soon unceremoniously removed from office.

No Title

Life often creates a schism between one's beloved and one's deep commitment to work and society. It is resolved by a subtle balance that offsets the limits of one's nerves. A higher and deeper spiritual orientation makes that resolution and balance possible.

No Title

To truly know Spirit is to see it in the details of life. To see it only apart from life is a partial view advocated by the Tradition. Modern life demands the spirit's application in the Multiplicity.

No Title

Many of the things you assume to be true are not. So find out more about that subject or matter.

No Title

In the midst of turmoil, inner and outer silence will produce the best outcome.

No Title

Neglecting a matter deserving of your attention compounds it on the subtle, and therefore the material plane.

No Title

We, in Tamilnadu are an ethical culture whose values are enshrined in the Thirukkural. One of our values is to honor another's opinion. Thiruvalluvar goes to the extreme length of saying that even when served with poison we should happily drink it. The other man's point of view is thus sacred. (Sri Karmayogi)

Source of Indian Corruption

Sri Aurobindo used to say, 'I know my countrymen'. Having lost the power of thought, passing through eight centuries of slavery, the Indians who were once known for their prosperity and truthfulness lost both and along with that the self-confidence for survival. It is a wonder that in such depraved conditions we still are left with some things that can be called GOOD. Our political corruption is one expression of a social status developed over almost a millennium.

On Overcoming Indian Corruption Without Condemnation

There is disgust in us for the prevailing state of affairs. It cannot be sufficiently condemned. At this stage, it is better to pause and remind ourselves that by condemning we shall be postponing the day of its exit. Condemnation is a negative appreciation, a negative attachment. Let us know calm comprehension is superior to condemnation. That way corruption will find its exit at the earliest. (Sri Karmayogi)

Organization of Society Around Its Aspiration

Society for us is a collection of a great many individuals or communities. It really is not that. It is an organised entity, organised by its social will. Society has an aspiration. It is subconscious. That aspiration translates itself into social will. It achieves what it aspires for. There is more. Society is integrated in its consciousness around its aspiration not as an organisation but as a live organism like the human body. It is not moral like man. It is non-moral or amoral. One thing is true; it is fully active all the time conscious or subconscious. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

A humility that is incapable of being humiliated is needed for accomplishment. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

Corruption becomes the order of the day when those who are unfit to be honest employees become the boss. (Sri Karmayogi)

On Corruption

(extracts from article 'Corruption' by Karmayogi)

Corruption has its basis in life, mind, spirit and beyond. Poverty is the basis in life that permits man to seek corrupt solutions. Where poverty was permanent, corruption can develop into a way of life. It is at this stage corruption becomes a culture, acquiring complex social forms with the approval of the society.

Every nation has gone through a phase of corruption. Now they have outlived it. They have done so by education, prosperity and social values.

Corruption is availed of by those who have no self-respect, who are not ashamed of ill-gotten wealth.

Education gives self-respect.

The right person exercising his personality of integrity sends a message to the nation: All is not lost; everything can be saved, if the right move is made.

Corruption is in the form of bribes to political bosses to secure undue favors. So, what we know as corruption is predominantly achieved through illicit money. Still, I should say this is confined to the surface layers of the society. I say so because there are still a rare few politicians and officers who are totally free of corruption.

Government has power enough to abolish corruption if the leader is incorruptible.

One of the laws of social evolution is the worst leads to the best. ...

Corruption now will certainly give the society the lasting significance of great values. All the developed countries now cherish such an experience. ...

It [corruption] is one of the processes of accomplishment before a society becomes civilized and acquires values.

Organisation comes first, values next. India is in such a phase. What is now understood as corruption is an overwhelming flood of good things of life before any organisation can be developed to receive them. Values are nowhere in the picture.

Abundance of quickly advancing prosperity has no patience with values that are constricting. Hence the appearance of corruption

Corruption is a comprehensive process of high accomplishment for competent men not used to the compunction of conscience or cultural values.

Suppose USA which is on the list of corrupt nations in the 8th place decides to move to the first place and eradicates corruption in every form in all walks of life, her hegemony will be at once lost and a nation that is a non-entity now will occupy her place. Corruption at no level can be totally given up without losing the present eminence attained through corruption.

1. It is within our [India's] power to get rid of corruption to a great extent.
2. Whatever the route the society takes, the goal is going to be wonderful.

There is disgust in us for the prevailing state of affairs. It cannot be sufficiently condemned. At this stage, it is better to pause and remind ourselves that by condemning we shall be postponing the day of its exit. Condemnation is a negative appreciation, a negative attachment. Let us know calm comprehension is superior to condemnation. That way corruption will find its exit at the earliest..

Corruption is the most common behavior of the undisciplined member of an unorganised group when they are not caught and punished.

--

Corruption becomes the order of the day when those who are unfit to be honest employees become the boss.

Corruption rises in men in whom there is no sense of shame or self-respect.

Societies that have not essentially overcome corruption can develop through corruption.

Presence of violence sustains corruption.

The demagogue is one who can rouse the masses by his mastery of linguistic eloquence. Demagogy differs from eloquence in that the latter expresses thought while the former expresses emotions. It is an instrument that can stir up turbid emotions and can pander to the low tastes of the population. It is a rich soil that can breed corrupt fruits.

Corruption is attractive to non-achievers. They believe they can achieve by corruption what is not attainable. They are unaware of the other aspect of it. Resorting to corruption they will soon be debarred from the zone of accomplishment.

Capacity to accept low standards of living, a low standard of morals breeds corruption.

Advancing technology makes the unscrupulous adopt corrupt practices without compunction.

The native home of corruption is diplomacy. Its shining instrument is the medium of bargaining.

The Book's MAIS Expert System Is Based On Sri Aurobindo & Karmayogi

In Garry Jacobs' novel 'The Book,' the protagonist group's MAIS Expert System draws on the various principles of Sri Aurobindo's metaphysical opus The Life Divine, plus Karmayogi's many spiritual insights and methods for evoking positive response, to create an ultimate system of intelligence that various organizations of the world vie to obtain in the story.

MAIS is not only able to determine the likely outcomes (positive or negative) of any approach or decision that an individual or group takes, but also has the profound wisdom to recommend the very best approach to solve any short or long-term problem occurring in the world. (It thus is not only a technological means of furthering social progress, but also a method of furthering human evolution on earth.)

Trump and Economic Problems of Heartland

Rise of Donald Trump is a negative life response to the USA's inability to work collaboratively to solve its economic and social problems. Negative in that an individual of low character is forced on the nation.

It can be looked on as positive in the sense that the deficiencies of the society can now be more targeted and addressed. This especially so in the South and the industrial Mid-West, where wages have completely stagnated over the last 25 years, and opportunities are limited. On the other hand, the coastal cities have adopted and joined the New Economy, including tech and globalism. These other "heartland area" are backwards, like to maintain the status quo, which prevented them from acquiring the skills for the modern age. They were thus annihilated by globalism, where labor is shifted and utilized to where most efficient. The "heartlanders" sat on their hands when Bill Clinton in the 1990s implored people to acquire the skills of the 21st century. The coastal cities took it up to a large content, and they prospered. The inlanders and southerners remained unmoved, and as a result became angry when things did not change.

And so it is now Trump's problem to deal with.

Trump, Putin, and Russia

The great danger in the world (2016) is the rift between the US and Russia. There has been a terrible falling out. It was mainly caused by the US and the West who humiliated the Russians after the Cold War by ignoring them. The autocratic Putin came to power and is widely supported by Russians because of his forcefulness in the wake of their humiliation.

It is therefore ironic that Trump, an individual of very low character, is amenable to Putin and Russia, and can thus potentially assuage them and reestablish positive relations.

It is continuously ironic that reactionaries like Reagan, Nixon, and Trump who hated communists are able to make accommodations with them (China, Soviet Union, and now again Russia).

And yet America runs the risk of being ruined by Trump's mercurial and unstable Ignorance, which is a further negative response to America for humiliating and marginalizing the Russians.

No Title

She [Mother] wanted Indians to wean themselves from worshipping the Gods in the temple and offer their worship to the Supreme only. Again, this wish has been ignored with the vast majority of the Hindus choosing to visit temples and keep worshipping their favorite gods. (Karmayogi)

No Title

Centuries of persecution of Harijans by caste Hindus led to their alienation and consequent embrace of Islam so that they could be free. This in turn led to the birth of Pakistan as a separate nation. Conversely, a fair treatment of Harijans will lead to the undoing of Pakistan and its subsequent reintegration within the Indian union. (Karmayogi)

Harmony of Nations (2016-17)

With the onset of the Cold War, India and Russia became partners, one reason being Russian belief in the liberation of India during British rule. Then realizing that India and Russia were partnering, the United States began to support the Indian adversary - Pakistan. Each stronger nation of the dual pair supplied the weaker ones with arms, eventually including nuclear technology. The race towards death and destruction had begun. Kashmir and other issues were the fuse. Two nuclear adversaries now stared across one another with hundreds of nuclear weapons promising Armageddon.

With the end of the Cold War matters softened for a while; at least from the perspective of Russian and the US. However, with the continued annoyance of terrorism, the US began to slowly move away from supplying Pakistan with arms. Several years later she found and killed Bin Laden, and became ever more aware of the danger of the Pakistan military in relation to dealing with terrorism. In the US, therefore there began a tilt towards Asia and away from Europe, with warming relations with India slowly taking hold.

In the meantime, Russia had begun to befriend Pakistan, as the latter was in alliance with China. Russia wants to be close to China for her emerging economic strength and markets, and hence part of a China – Pakistan – Russia alliance. And yet Russia continues to supply India with military hardware, one reason being Russia needs capital.

So we see that Russia is playing somewhat of a balancing act. Meanwhile US is allying with India as a counterbalance to the Russia – China – Pakistan alliance. This in turn can cause a strain for both Russia and the US. Russian straining relations with India, her long-term ally; and US with Pakistan as the former seeks help in locating sources of terrorism in Pakistan and Afghanistan.

In addition, we have had the rekindling of a Cold War-like environment recently between Russia and the US, mainly due to Russia's sense of inferiority caused by US and the West's neglect of the Russians following the end of the Cold War, elevating Putin in power as a model of strength to counter their inferiority complex. He seems to relish abusing the Americans, just as they had earlier abused Russia after the fall of the Berlin Wall.

On the surface, we thus now see a US – India alliance vs. a Russia – China – Pakistan association.

So how can this potential conflict be broken? One way is for there to be a cooling off between the US and the Russians, and the same between India and Pakistan. Also, in general, China seeks markets and may be more flexible all around, so long as she does not dwell in their desire to keep certain territories out at sea. In addition, as globalism spreads and the interrelations between nations strengthens, absence of political ties will further defer to economic ones. Finally, since there are problems common to all the nations (lack of jobs, unemployment, debt, unequal money distribution, financial recklessness, the environment, etc.), some intermediary group or organization or nations can help develop strategies for common improvement. Garry Jacobs in a Cadmus article proposes the birth of one such institution.

Aside from the outer, there are "inner means" for further developing further political harmony among the nations. One way is to take inner responsibility for outer conflict by changing one's own corresponding limitations of consciousness. Eg if an adversary nations does something not to our liking, we can discover what in us corresponds to that deficiency; and then change that attitude and behavior. When we do, the outer life will responds in kind such as the adversary suddenly acting in a way that pleases us. We call the outcomes of this powerful inner/outer correspondence a "Life Response."

This and other methods, such as Consecration and taking the other party's point of view are what can be called the 'Spiritual frontier of diplomacy.'

No Title

The Trump voters have legitimate grievances. However currently their means of achieving it appears without substance or highly flawed.

No Title

Globalism is a positive development in the wider scheme of things, as it indicates a further interrelation and integration of humanity through economic development. However, its implementation, currently unorganized in the world, have left gaps where many have suffered as jobs have left, leaving people underemployed and without skills.

No Title

One area where Trump excels is in bullying the weak. However, there is hope. Karmayogi says: "When a bully bothers a timid colleague, others instantaneously rush to his help. It is a response of social goodwill and culture."

Intro to Life Response

An American businessman who promised an Indian fertilizer company a 70 crore loan from a bank, met the Bank of America officers in 1972. In those times, these were novel ideas but he was determined to call at as many banks as necessary. Bank of America said that only 2 days earlier they had opened their South-East Asian fertilizer division!

In pursuit of an important work, we want to meet a friend whom we have not met for a few years. On leaving our house, in a pleasant surprise, he enters our house. Life is full of such strange events. Literature too is teeming with such incidents. History has the same character. I call this phenomenon of ready help coming in an inconceivable fashion 'Life Response'. "Thank God, you have come," we exclaim. We also feel we are in luck. We are right.

But this is not the caprice of Life. There is a law behind such occurrences. Some half a dozen such events described in detail and the laws underlying explained will make it clear that such a phenomena follow their own rules. One who knows such rules will always discern how such events come to pass. There is more.

Should one not submit to life, but rise above the social average and evoke the Spirit, he can make Life Respond. Life Response is a known phenomenon, not the capacity to evoke a Life Response. Still it is not totally unknown in life. Extraordinarily courageous people say, "Well, I have never been let down". Optimistic persons, when their hopeless project comes round, say, "I know it will come round." It can come round to anyone who relies on the Spirit. (Karmayogi)

Life Repeats Phenomenon in USA Election

Karmayogi indicates that we can predict the future if we truly know the laws of life response, and are able to keep our ego at bay.

In the year 2000 after two consecutive Democratic administrations in the United States, Al Gore lost to the Republican George Bush jr. even though Gore collected more votes. The Electoral College proved decisive.

In Bush's administration, there was one calamity after another - 9/11, hurricane Katrina, a false war in Iraq, and The financial catastrophe that almost brought down the world economy.

In 2016 a very similar set of circumstances unfolded. After two consecutive Democratic administrations ended, Donald Trump the Republican defeated Hillary Clinton even though she received more votes. Again, he won through the system of the Electoral College.

This indicates a repetition; and it is one subtle principle that life will tend to repeat over and over again unless there is a decisive shift in consciousness. And so we see a repetition in this most recent 2016 US election of the earlier election of 2000. That would suggest that the coming administration of Trump will again be calamitous, as it was with Bush jr.; perhaps even more so.

Global Solutions to Economic and Social Problems in Wake of Shocking USA Elections

For several years, I have been speaking about the economic discord in America to a somewhat surprised international audience - including the issues of very stagnant wages for most Americans over last 20 years, 80% of the wealth in the country being in the hands of 10% of the people, intense job insecurity, lack of savings, sense that no one cares or has a winning solution, etc.

I also mentioned that neither political party had a solution to these issues because the issues loom so large, beyond the scope of their ideology and viewpoint. In fact when we step back and examine the situation we see that it is in fact a Global problem not a local or national one alone; one that has taken other shapes - including feelings of lack of opportunity, acute accumulation of debt, extremely high levels of unemployment, vast job displacement in the wake of globalization, a deep sense of hopelessness and rage, inducements towards fundamentalism, nationalism, and terrorism etc. Moreover, these issues cannot be solved by individual nations by themselves as they are too all-encompassing, but can only be resolved at a broader, global level.

The Trump victory is a shock to the system; an indicator of a festering global economic recoil taking its first shape, with many others likely to follow.

Fortunately, one individual, Garry Jacobs, in his recent brilliant article for Cadmus Journal has laid out the problem in full, along with a number of excellent strategies for Improvement. And not just at the economic level, but also in terms of peace, the environment, and overall in what can be called "Human Security."

I advise all those seeking guidance on how to create a more secure life for humanity take the time to read his detailed masterpiece of analysis and call to action. It is an extremely timely article, given the shocking events of late, including the worrisome Trump election.

2016 US Election, Political Establishments, and Vision of Our Future

- Trump is/represents a vulgar, brute force that has also waylaid the political establishments.
 - The Trump victory was a smashing of the Republican and Democratic establishments, though a force without any knowledge of what to put in its place.
 - Trump absorbed the anger of those left out of the global economy that the political establishments were unable to address.
 - The solutions to the nations' and the world's problems lay beyond the two American political parties. That is why they were smashed in the recent presidential election.
 - The two American political parties, being ideological and fixed or limited, are not in touch with the emerging higher solutions for the well-being in the world. Hence they were cast aside by Life in the primary and popular elections.
 - There are insightful individuals who have the solutions to economic and other forms of insecurity in the world, unknown by the establishments, but they need to be heard.
- Here is one great example by Garry Jacobs in his detailed article about the future economic and psychological security of mankind:

No Title

If you don't assume a person will act a certain way, chances are good they will not.

No Title

The prosperity that came to the US East and West coasts through intelligence, entrepreneurship, and skill did not come to the US industrial heartland, the South, and rural America. Trump subconsciously stepped into that breach in order to turn their anger and frustration into success to match their coastal brethren. Furthermore, that possibility will need to extend to the disaffected around the world. For that to happen, new forms of global collaboration will have to take shape, as well as fresh, new insights and policies that have never existed before.

No Title

Indians now have Aspiration and Will for success. What is missing is Organization of that intent in order to focus it, and application of human Values to amplify it.

No Title

The Trump victory is an acknowledgement that the old ways (of both parties) are not working to meet the needs of the dispossessed, though it doesn't yet have a clue of what an effective replacement should be.

No Title

There are many fine secular and spiritual teachings around the world. However, Karmayogi's is of a much higher order because it utilizes Supramental Perception to bring out the integral macro and micro details, across all fields of life, in a way that has never existed before.

Response of Life to Reaction vs Non-Reaction

If you respond to a problem with anguish, the problem will take on new forms and intensify in the hours or days ahead. On the other hand, if you respond calmly, with a silent heart and mind, the problem will dissolve or another form of good fortune will come to you.

A woman was aggravated with her son's actions. The next day she learned that he had committed a crime and was in jail awaiting a hearing.

That same woman a short time after, walked to the ocean's edge and went into a state of peace and calm. Very soon after, her son was found not guilty, and the man she was having trouble engaging in a relationship with suddenly seemed open to the possibility.

Reader: An adjunct is that after consecration, if the problem seems to worsen, that is a sign of the deeper levels of the problem surfacing themselves for resolution. For example, my car went out of gear and refused to take gear thereafter. This fortunately happened in my own yard, and further investigation revealed a rare problem in the gearbox itself. The mechanic was able to diagnose other problems that would not have been revealed during a routine service and sort out both the original problem but two additional ones.

Response: Very true.

No Title

People who are fixed and insist on their point of view, when it is clear they are in the wrong, are inviting being humbled by Life.

From our side, we need not respond with a counter view to their insistence.

And if in due time they have their comeuppance, it is impermissible for the spiritual individual to gloat.

No Title

Unfettered, insistent religious proselytizing, accompanied by a sense of certainty in one's mind, causes human darkness to spread. Humility, on the other hand, has far greater positive effect, penetrating to the soul and spreading throughout life.

No Title

Trump is the latest bursting forth of the infection of human insecurity in the world. More will likely come, and from other directions, including completely opposite points of view.

Terrorism is also a product of insecurity - with an economic source. Financial crisis was an example of extreme excess that amplified insecurity. Disbelief in the institutions of governance, economics, business, etc. to foster human insecurity is another dimension.

A New Way of Thinking needs to meet the challenge of human insecurity accelerating in the world.

Global Crisis Needs New Thinking (by Garry Jacobs)

All of the threats to peace and human security persist and continue to grow. The urgent compelling need for radical change and the growing danger of continued inaction are indicated by the lack of a compelling vision of the future, the loss of confidence in traditional institutions, rising cynicism regarding prevailing economic theory and policies, growing hostility to business and financial institutions, the backlash against globalization, the sense of helplessness to combat climate change, the inward turning of nations, rising disillusionment with established parties and policies, and growing resentment, alienation and violence among the youth. The social compact for peace, freedom and prosperity for all so enthusiastically embraced in the early 1990s has been replaced by a growing sense of uncertainty and insecurity regarding the future of the human community.

This trend is not inevitable. Crises can be converted into opportunities. History confirms that it often requires the intensity and urgency of serious crisis to generate the willingness for radical change. The growing disenchantment with national politics is a negative sign of a positive opportunity. The loss of faith in conventional social theories and policies is a demand for urgently needed new thinking. The failure of international institutions to fill the vacuum created at the end of the Cold War is an invitation for radical reform. Circumstances are now ripe for bold international political action to promote new thinking, strategies and policies. Opportunity knocks for an international coalition of nations, institutions and individuals dedicated to establishing a new paradigm for global peace and human security.

(excerpted from article "Integrated Approach to Peace & Human Security in the 21st Century", Cadmus Journal)

No Title

A New Way of Thinking needs to meet the challenge of human insecurity accelerating in the world.

Evolution from the Nation State to Psychological, Social, and Cultural Integration Among Nations

Social evolution has progressed up to the level of the nation-state and struggles to advance haltingly beyond it. Peace and human security are still organized on that basis. Yet many of the essential conditions for permanent peace and human security necessitate cooperation and collaboration between nations. ...

Ensuring lasting peace and human security between nation-states will require psychological as well as social and cultural integration. Efforts to achieve global peace and human security can have only limited success so long as our educational system highlights differences in national culture, our economic system promotes competition between nation-states, and our political system places emphasis on national sovereignty rather than human unity.

(by Garry Jacobs; excerpted from article "Integrated Approach to Peace & Human Security in the 21st Century", Cadmus Journal)

No Title

Sri Aurobindo defines Human Unity as "the attempt of human mind and life to grow out of national idea and form and even in a way to destroy it, in the interest of larger synthesis of mankind."

No Title

Observe how a small thought taken in the right spirit can become an opening to a deluge of knowledge.

No Title

Immediately Consecrate any negative condition, thought, feeling, or action you experience - so that it does not later repeat, or indicate a negative final outcome of a matter yet to come.

Black Money and the Common Man

Black Money flows not just from above - from among officials, businesspeople, leaders, and other powerful individuals and institutions, - but also from below through the Common Man. Bonet Kannothe gives a number of examples, as it relates to India:

1. Common man is the one who goes and gets his groceries from a retail shop for cheaper price, knowing that the retail shop hardly pays any tax at all.
2. Common man is the one who prepares fake rental agreements and shows it as proof for HRA.
3. Common man is the one who pays bribe (through black money) to a government official, just to make out work easier.
4. Common man is the one who accepted Rs. 500/1000 (Black money) from both political parties that are contesting elections.
5. Common man is the one who purchases a product without bill, to save money (thereby creating black money)

6. Common man is the one gives maamool (black money) to the police for keeping their illegal shops
 7. Common man is the one who offers bribe (black money) to the police for drunk and drive, not wearing a helmet, etc. instead of paying heavy fines at the court.
 8. Common man is the one who saves money little by little and purchases property and registers for under market value to save money (thereby creating black money)
 9. Common man is the one who gives donation (Black money) to a private school who won't give a bill
 10. Common man is the one who doesn't even understand that he is entitled to far more privileges than he/she is currently receiving, which is drastically reduced to corruption/black money
 11. Common man is the one who complains about the corrupt system but doesn't take any steps to correct the system, but instead keeps on playing the blame game.
 12. Common man is the one who is complaining now that this Bold step is causing inconvenience to them.
 13. Common man is the one who justifies all these acts saying politicians are corrupt, so we can be corrupt too.
- So I am asking how can one cleanup a system that you and me (Common Man) are an integral part of?

No Title

to my progressive friends in America. To the degree that you don't react - in your nerves, your emotions, and feelings, even your thoughts - Trump will avoid doing or dramatically tone down harmful things you perceive. I have already seen proof substantial results of taking to this inner, spiritual approach.

Trump, Putin, and Russia

Many may abhor the reactionary policies and crude personality of Trump, yet his presence has already served to cool the dangerous conflict we have seen brewing in the last few years between Russia and the US. This was threatening the world's stability. Trump's interest in working with Putin was perhaps alone why the higher power acceded to Trump's ascent. In one sense, everything else became secondary to this dangerous escalating conflict.

The next step is to create economic and social well-being for the planet, something that appears opposite of Trump's temperament. That too will play out in direct, contradictory, and ironic ways for the purpose of creating greater political, economic, social, and cultural stability and harmony in the world.

No Title

Instead of merely condemning one's self for mistaken behavior or action, try to uncover a good out of that difficulty or problem. Then you will see how even the negative can serve Life's purpose.

No Title

Inner Guidance comes from the Soul (psychic being). Eg "Yes, do this, but avoid that." Intuition of knowledge enters the mind without thought. (Eg the equation of material life suddenly enters Einstein's mind as $e=mc^2$ from out of nowhere.) Both are spiritual movements evoking the superconscient.

No Title

There is a fine line between anger and righteous indignation. And yet the spiritual individual avoids both, attracting what is necessary and right from the world.

Double Evolutionary Movement; Global Unity, True Spiritual Individuality

There are two simultaneous, yet opposite and complementary movements taking place in our evolution: a macro shift from identifying with our nation to that of the entire world; and a micro movement toward greater individuality culminating in individualistic behavior emanating from the Soul.

In this simultaneous evolutionary development, we fully embrace the fact that we are Americans or Indians or members of any other nation we dwell in, but then we transcend that and identify with the whole of those nations increasingly interlocked in harmony and unity. All nations are then able to work together as one to build a new world beyond one national identity to solve all its present problems, while opening up endless opportunities.

Complementing there is an increasing movement where people express their deepest individuality, not following the herd view, but instead awaken to one's soul and our deepest purpose here on earth, receiving continuous ultimate individualistic guidance from within. In that way, our attitudes, values, behaviors, and actions express a most profound uniqueness and true spiritual individuality, contributing dynamically to our own betterment and fulfillment, as well as that of the world.

No Title

Man must emerge out of his small shell of nationalism and view the wide world as his own. (Karmayogi)

No Title

The two World Wars of this century where fifty million people died for their nations were the symbolic destruction of the human physical rigidity characterised by nationalism. The end of the Cold War, the vital extension of the World Wars, gave rise to globalization and thinking in terms of internationalism. (Karmayogi)

No Title

This moment never existed in the history of the universe, and we are privy to it!

No Title

Apparent impending negatives that carry fear will often dissolve into nothingness when ignored.

Stages of Relations Among Nations

Self-formation of the individual nation state has been the first level of development, taking shape over the last several centuries. It is identity of self of each nation. It reaches its zenith in cultural richness. Yet over time it can become Egoistic, whether as brute force and aggression, or stagnate and ossify - as insularity, as inward-looking separateness from the remaining nations of the world. The Ego of Nations has led to the three great wars.

Identification with all other nations is a further stage of development of the Nation. It sees other countries as part of one's self, and one's self as part of the community of other states. We are just entering this stage in recent decades, with economic globalism an early manifestation.

Individuality to Mutuality to Oneness are the stages for maturation of the individual Nation. We are currently climbing out of the first stage, trying to tether with the second. Our destiny is reach the last one, characterized by the Indian motto "Unity in Diversity."

Expecting a Negative Attracts It

Expectation that someone or some party will act negatively will help insure that it does.

A woman told her friend that the matriarch of the family who was on her way to visit was bound to be highly critical of her and her family. Indeed when she arrived that is precisely how she behaved. In fact, on her arrival everything conspired to go wrong, fulfilling the woman's earlier negative expectations in the extreme.

As we see it is always best to refrain from expressing a potential negative outcome, as we will give it energy to come about!

No Title

It is often difficult to gauge the truth of things until some time has passed or one has digested the facts and issues from all sides. That is why there is a profound relationship between Truth and Patience.

No Title

As we have seen, Democracy itself, despite all its great benefits, does not guarantee equality in society. Incomes there can be radically skewed towards the wealthy, and the wealth of the country can reside in the hands of the very few. However, a HUMAN-centered democracy does insure much greater equality and opportunity, including for those nations currently with wealth imbalance. Let's see it come about.

No Title

Society is beginning to move from ego-based nationalism to a human-based internationalism, on the way to World Unity.

No Title

What Americans have not yet come to understand is that our problems are simply shadings of broader global problems - economically, socially, environmentally, psychologically, security-wise, etc. And that is true for every other nation on earth.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo asks us to shift from focus on our national identity to a global view of being citizens of the world.

No Title

In a decent society, there is perhaps no more patriotic act than to pay one's taxes. It is the essential covenant between the individual and the nation. We pay in, and the government keeps us secure and free to pursue our aspirations in life.

No Title

Two world wars including 50 million dead and the Cold War that could have ended civilization were the product of unbridled nationalism - both as assertion as well as lack of cooperation among the countries. Thus, sincere Unity of Nations beckons us.

No Title

We think that life is about obtaining what we want, but it's really about what our Soul aspires for in this existence, which our surface being may be at odds with. Therefore, it is worth discovering who we really are; why we are truly here. The answer to those questions lies within.

Citizens of the World

From here on in let us focus on being Citizens of the World, rather than merely of the nation we belong to. That way we can focus on the issues that are increasingly affecting everyone, not merely those that our own countryman are constantly absorbed with. After all, when we address the issues at the macro level, the local micro levels benefit as well -- i.e. ALL nations, communities, and other collectives.

Sri Aurobindo tells us that the Unity of Nations and the world is our destiny. Let us start today by making some gesture in that direction - as Citizens of the World.

Balaraman's Vision of Mother

Balaraman is a mirasdar living in his native village. He is devoted to the Mother. His entire family is devoted to Mother. His thoughts come to him as images; rather, he thinks in images. Whenever he meets me he used to describe the many visions he had. Some are of Mother and others are of life. I used to think the Rishi was in him.

One day late in the evening he came out of his village house and he was struck by a vision whose immensity immobilized him. Standing on the edge of the road outside his house, he saw a huge light (Brahmanda jyothi). To his great surprise, it fragmented into a million bits of light that spread all over the world, and each bit lodged in one human being. He was overwhelmed by the vision, but by itself it explained nothing to him.

The next morning the All India Radio announced that The Mother of the Ashram had attained Mahasamadhi and She had left her body at 7: 30 p.m. the previous day. This news and the time of Mother's departure immediately helped him understand his previous day's vision. It showed that Mother had not merely left the world but was enshrined in every human heart where a soul lodged. (by Karmayogi)

No Title

There is a difference between having faith in Mother that She will do everything we want, and having faith in Her that She will do what is best for us.

Nationalism vs Love of Country

There is a difference between Nationalism and Love of Country. The former concentrates energy on one's own nation, at the expense of others; not caring about their condition or plight unless it serves one's interests. The latter is deep appreciation of one's nation, of its great attributes and character, and includes a willingness to do what is necessary for its betterment. It also sees how it can aid in the improvement of surrounding nations, as well as how it can be aided by them. It is an harmonic rather than an exclusive view.

Nationalism easily can get caught up in darkness, in the form of mindless self-aggrandizement, chest pounding, and sense of superiority; whereas true love of country emanates light, is expansive, and touches others in a mutually engaging way, contributing mightily to the progress of the world.

No Title

When you connect with your soul, the psychic being inside, you are living in both time and timelessness; actually, Timelessness in Time.

No Title

Calling the Mother from the psychic being within has ultimate spiritual, psychological, and material power.

Global Minimum Wage

With massive underemployment, low wages, spreading around the world due to the negative side of globalism, ownership of the world's wealth in the hands of a few, et al, a Global Minimum Wage has been proposed as a way for people to sustain themselves on the at toward creating future growth.

"Peace and rising expectations fueled by the information age and rising human insecurity resulting from unfettered markets are an insufficient foundation for building a peaceful and prosperous world. The absence of international regulation and coordination is exploited to the advantage of multinational corporations at the expense of job seekers.

Global policy coordination can stabilize global labor markets, but it will not address the severe inequalities in wages, which are aggravated by the ease with which jobs now move from one place to another. Some form of GLOBAL MINIMUM WAGE which could be graded according to average national income, would more substantially benefit low income workers with minimal impact on total employment. Its main affect would be to remove the price subsidy which presently benefits more wealthy consumers domestically and abroad."

(from article 'Integrated Approach to Peace & Human Security in the 21st Century' by Garry Jacobs)

No Title

Nationalism - separative, ego consciousness that avoids international cooperation - creates problems greater than the issues it hopes to resolve.

Life Orchestrates Startling Confluence in Sports Event

There are ebbs and flows of Life; including ups and downs. Eg a dynastic sports team that was at the top of its field one decade is at the very bottom in the next. Not only that but the new top dog and dynasty rubs salt into the wounds of the once great team now at the bottom.

For example, it turns out that on the very day one poor team served to honor the owner who guided them in their glory days, he was drowned out by traveling fans of the now great team. Plus, it was unusually miserable outside and the stands were mostly empty of local fans since their home team were at the bottom of the standings.

In other words, all of the negative things the once great team did following their reign now rushed toward them in this one sorrowful symbolic event. And out of 32 teams, the very best one had come to the stadium of the worst to humiliate them in any numbers of ways.

It is thus startling and infinitely revealing how Life orchestrates reality down to the smallest detail in such minor (or major) events. Through her actions, Ironies appear at every level. Karmas of the parties come together in startling way, not only indicating the ebb and flows of Life, but the fact that She is indeed conscious.

No Title

In the coming Supramental existence as envisioned by Sri Aurobindo, Prakriti (Nature/Life) and Purusha (Soul, Spirit) are no longer differentiated opposites, but have fused into one essential thing.

No Title

A primitive man perceives only the material reality, complemented by a God in his heaven. A highly conscious, evolved man perceives all planes of existence, from matter to spirit, all intertwined, making up an omnipresent Reality, an All, that is secretly an evolving divinity emerging in every person, every event, everything.

No Title

I am writing these posts so individuals can have the future consciousness of humanity today.

Life Repeats in Accelerating Fashion

A great insight of life is that everything tends to repeat. Eg if a woman is weak in deference to a bullying boss and out of anguish moves to a new job, she will tend to meet with the same situation with a boss there. Moreover, the second and ensuing mimicking iterations will tend be WORSE than the previous. Eg the second boss will not only be insensitive, but she may simply fire people at random. This repeating pattern - that also accelerates in its repetitions - holds true for positive and negative circumstance since Life can repeat along either track.

Another example: In the 2008 US Democratic Party primary, Obama got the nomination even though Hillary Clinton won the popular vote. Eight years later Trump won the US presidency though Clinton won the popular vote. It was a repetition for her; and the second iteration was even worse than the first.

No Title

Human consciousness is so corrupt that people prefer the misery and ignorance of the EGO to the luminous joy that comes from sincere surrender to the Divine. Their blindness is so great that they refuse even to attempt the experience and prefer to be subjected to the misery of their Ego rather than make the necessary effort to free themselves from it. (The Mother, from Agenda Feb 10, 1972)

Comment: Every so often in the course of the day we can check to see if we are experiencing/expressing our Ego. If so, we can catch it in its tracks, avoiding negative outcomes and response from life.

Ego expresses in a thousand ways, among them: being inconsiderate of others, thinking only of one's self, acting in selfish manner, arrogance, pride, superiority, asserting opinions and points of view, not listening, closed-mindedness, boastfulness, dishonesty, deceitfulness, self-pity, ignorance, unbridled desire, self-love, meddling/interfering, seeking approval, feeling spurned, anger, hate, delusional, etc.

Longer term we would need to develop a deeper poise and consciousness within to avoid the reparative inner and outer behaviors of ego.

No Title

Can you move about today and perceive that each thing you encounter is an expression of the Divine?

No Title

We voice our opinion, believing we have special insight into the facts on a matter, when in fact we barely know a fraction of the truth. That alone should humble us, but instead all-powerful, impenetrable Ego fixates on what we believe to be true, thereby holding sway over our lives.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo indicates that neither the current Scientific formula, nor a perfected economic society, nor democratic existence, nor varying structure of governance, nor religion are enough to create the higher, perfected, divine society and existence that the world is moving towards. It is the Spiritual Change of individuals that alone can transform the race and bring about a new perfected Divine Life on Earth.

No Title

When you are on the precipice, and circumstance seem dire in the extreme, a sincere, emotionalized prayer will always be answered.

Small Act Attracts African Doctor's Great Turnaround

We have seen over the years that a willingness to overcome a hesitation to engage in the smallest act can open the doors to infinite-like results from Life.

In a true story, an African doctor living in rural France found himself about to lose his license due to the acts of several vindictive individuals. In addition, his wife ran out on him for spurious reasons.

In the midst of this his child asked him to take him to a soccer match, something that was the furthest from his mind. However, in deference to his child, he gave in. There he discovered that his daughter was one of the players, in fact the very best one on the team! Now suddenly everyone in the town was on his side, and the devious individuals who plotted against him meekly scurried away. In addition, his wife came back to him at the same moment!

What could have precipitated this vast turnaround? It was a willingness to engage in a small compassionate act; in this case, accede to the request from his child, while in the midst of a terrible ordeal. His capacity to defer to the boy, when most individuals in his predicament would focus their feelings laser-like elsewhere, attracted the sudden, vast, and unexpected turnaround in his life!

Comment: It shows how the smallest, the seemingly insignificant act can have an enormous impact on our lives. That the infinite is waiting in potential to come out of every finite act, thought, feeling, etc. And that is because every finite has its source in the Infinite Consciousness.

No Title

With Mother's Consciousness you can control the weather, make bad people disappear, end an on-going crisis, make well the seriously ill, stop wars that are about to start, make foreign enemies retreat, evoke protection from an impending attack, bring the future into the present, cancel the burden of the past, cancel apparent negative certainties, quickly turn opportunities into realities, discover the truth in a confusing situation, get right to the heart of the matter, accomplish in a day what takes a month, find what seemed hopelessly lost, appear at just the right moment, avoid natural disaster that has come to neighbors, become more beautiful or handsome, evoke opportunities out of nowhere, make one's face constantly shine, have one's heart constantly open, turn scandal into fame, observe the judge suddenly reverse in your favor, quickly go from the bottom of the barrel to the top, come in contact with one's soul within, perceive others as extension of one's self, continuously feel happy inside, have unruly children become still, argumentative spouse become agreeable, hear divine music where there was none, become more intelligent, stronger inside, more sensitive to others, have your work already accomplished for you, turn critics into adorers, mean landlords into self-giving helpers, long-delayed problems being solved, argumentative relatives agreeable companions, uninteresting situations into thrilling discussions, cruel bosses into compliant mentors, sick friends suddenly healed, no one in line when you check out, broken machines suddenly start working, inadequate supplies turning into abundance, miserly friends acting generously, perceive insights everywhere, constantly see right flow of life, costs get reduced, value/benefit increases, hostile friends retreat, support from unexpected sources, stuck traffic starts moving, work heads toward perfection, everyone seems friendly, ...

Karmayogi: Supramental Avatar of Knowledge

A genius is one who brings out ultimate knowledge in a field in his time, more often than not emanating from experiences of spiritual mind - i.e. through silence, vision, intuition, etc.

A genius also normally applies himself to a particular field - like Einstein to physics and Ramanujan to mathematics. It is however rare to apply one's genius to multiple fields simultaneously.

And yet Karmayogi has done just that. Through his genius-based efforts he has brought out infinite-like wisdom from many fields of life simultaneously - including the domains of social development, education, history, literature, economics, spiritual growth, human evolution and transformation, and the nature of creation and reality.

And he has breached, gotten to the essence and core of each of these fields in vast detail through many thousands of unprecedented, ground-breaking insights, a feat unknown in the world till now.

Moreover, he has INTERCONNECTED these thoughts in unimagined ways, creating in essence an Integral Wisdom across all fields of life. Over the years I have thus referred to him as a multi-dimensional Spiritual Genius.

I am even tempted to say he has attained Supramental Genius in the plane of Knowledge. Ie become an avatar-like Personality for our time and all time. One whose Wisdom can move the world forward toward its infinite possibilities in this accelerating Mental Age.

Reader: I love this post sir. You have put in words what I feel in my heart. Appa has also helped the growth of so many individuals so that we may become like Him. Appa's writings are a revolution for the Indian. If we follow it truly, very soon India will be at the top leading the world.

Response: Thank you for that very true insight about India's potential great advantage through Appa. Perhaps we can say that the Knowledge is fully supramentalized when each of the things Appa wishes to happen, as expressed in the thoughts, does so.

No Title

As an evolutionary movement out of Ego, Property will increasingly be given up.

Controlling Negative Reaction Attracts

When you refrain from reacting to the negative intensity of another, - whether a boss, leader, politician, peer, subordinate et. - their behavior will invariably start to soften in the days and weeks that follow. It is additional proof that you really can alter conditions of life from within.

French Fry Ego Lesson

We can see the negative-attracting power of Ego in this innocuous little true incident I just experienced:

Two young boys are squabbling over who gets the larger portion of one order of French fries. One boy grabs as much as he can, while the other pulls the tray to the opposite side of the table to keep away the food! A truly pathetic incident to observe.

As it turns out, to the very end they engage in this friendly yet irritated competition for the upper hand.

When they then exit the restaurant and come to their bikes, one boy notices that the back wheel has gone flat. They're not too happy with this development, and of course ignorant of the subtle cause.

It is a simple but true exposition of the power of Ego to attract the negative, and do so virtually instantaneously to their false behavior.

Actually, unbeknownst to us, we too are engaging in such behaviors all the time, with the same negative-attracting results that follow.

Only in our case God is observing these situations, and shaking his head at the pathetic selfish, egoistic Ignorance on display!

No Title

Many people seek a cadre of friends. In higher consciousness, the opposite takes place, as many old friends disappear, and key new ones appear unsolicited, corresponding to new stages in one's life.

No Title

Friends disappearing and others appearing on their own is a sign of one's rising consciousness.

No Title

Can you sense, feel the Soul in each person you come in contact with?

No Title

An act that takes a good society from tax-evasion to tax payment is a patriotic act.

No Title

Selfish people do not perceive how being benevolent can attract all that they want, and more.

No Title

Five ascending levels of Prayer:

- (1) please dear Lord, God, Mother let me have such and such and such
- (2) please dear Lord, God, Mother remove this problem from my life
- (3) please dear Lord, God, Mother help me correct my ways in order to improve my life
- (4) please dear Lord, God, Mother show me how to become a better person
- (5) please dear Lord, God, Mother I surrender to you all my life, purpose, and being

Pollyanna's Conscious Happiness Attracts

In the course of our day we experience many things. What follows each depends on the attitude we bring to bear. One key reaction to the unfolding of our day is whether we see things in a positive light or from a darker perspective. When we react cheerfully and happily, not only do we feel more energized and uplifted, but we attract positive conditions from life.

In the story of Pollyanna, a charming young girl very consciously has this positive view of life. Moreover, she aggressively yet sweetly advocates others to practice it as well. In fact, she continually asks them to play the "gladness game;" i.e. to consciously see each moment in a positive light.

Though they are resistant at first, they come around and see the wisdom in the little girl's approach, and as a result each of their lives turns around. Good fortune follows their efforts.

As a result, the people of the town are deeply grateful to Pollyanna for showing them a better way to live their lives. In essence, she has attracted goodness and happiness from every quarter.

Comment: I am tempted to say she is a child guru, and therefore one could devote one's self to her "teachings." In essence, she is at war with pessimism in the world, and she asks all to follow.

Reader: As a total aside, the author of Pollyanna, Eleanor H. Porter, is from Littleton, NH, which is where I frequently do my grocery shopping (I go between North Conway and Littleton since I live in between both). Perhaps it is a coincidence (yup...right!), but Littleton - which honors the book and author and has a bronze Pollyanna statue - is well known for its very courteous driving on its Main Street.

I have never been able to figure it out, but I have never been in a town where nearly everyone "gives way" and allows cars to easily enter traffic from side streets, people wave and smile while crossing the street, and more. John and I always marvel at how "good" it just "feels" to be able to participate in such an upbeat way of helping others - even when it's just a simple act of letting people get into traffic.

Perhaps that "gladness" from the literature has somehow rubbed off on the people in town. Not that the town isn't without its issues, but it really is interesting that no other town I've ever been in has that particular vibe...

Response: Thank you Kathy for sharing your fascinating connection with the story.

We see that a simple but profound idea in the author's mind has not only touched many people, but continues to spread throughout the (real) town and around the world.

At the end of the story of Pollyanna there is a shine on all the faces of those who had been touched by her, and they are now able to further spread that positive attitude, appreciation and goodness to others. What a response to Pollyanna's conscious decision to view things from the bright side of life.

No Title

We are living the past's future, and the future's memory.

Reader: What does this mean sir?

Response: In the past, we imagine the future. We are now in the present living that out. Also in the future, we think back through memory. We are in the present creating that memory.

No Title

How can one know what something Truly is if it is always being compared to something else?

No Title

The mind does not readily perceive that Life can rapidly move forward through negative circumstances.

(It reminds us that from the highest perspective, the divine Reality is the ALL, is all things, including both positive and negative, and therefore everything together serves a purpose in moving conditions forward.)

Global Minimum Wage

To overcome low wages, low savings, under employment, and a general sense of insecurity of citizens around the world, Garry Jacobs, the CEO of the prestigious World Academy and VP of Mother's Service Society, has proposed a Global Minimum Wage.

"Peace and rising expectations fueled by the information age and rising human insecurity resulting from unfettered markets are an insufficient foundation for building a peaceful and prosperous world. The absence of international regulation and coordination is exploited to the advantage of multinational corporations at the expense of job seekers. Global policy coordination can stabilize global labor markets, but it will not address the severe inequalities in wages, which are aggravated by the ease with which jobs now move from one place to another.

Some form of global minimum wage, which could be graded according to average national income, would more substantially benefit low income workers with minimal impact on total employment. Its main affect would be to remove the price subsidy which presently benefits more wealthy consumers domestically and abroad."

(CADMUS JOURNAL Volume 3 - Issue 1, October 2016 Integrated Approach to Peace & Human Security in the 21st Century Garry Jacobs)

Power of Withholding Response

When you restrain yourself from responding to a questionable idea being asserted, others tend to soon come forward and make that point for you. (They are in essence picking up your energy or vibe, adding to what they believe, and moving your/their position forward.)

A woman made a blanket, highly-questionable remark on a particular subject on the Internet. An insightful man reading her remark saw the holes in the argument. He was energized to respond, but held himself back. A short while later, someone else responded to the woman with a well thought out retort. It was virtually the same thing the insightful man wished to say, but held back.

The incident was simultaneously an example of the Life Response power of Not-reacting to another's intensities; as well as the power of Silent Will, in which you refrain from voicing your position, causing them or others to speak it out for you.

Both tend to attract unexpected, startling results from the field of life.

No Title

An individual can have terrible viewpoints on virtually all matters, yet have one insightful perception that can save the day. In that way, we need to be open to all people and what they say - even the brute, the bully, and those otherwise absorbed in falsehood.

Subtle Synchronicity

Increasingly a respected, insightful man was told by individuals that his daily remarks often exactly corresponded to things they were just now experiencing, even though they had not been in contact with him in any material way. How could he know what they were experiencing; or have his thoughts be synchronous with what they were experiencing?

He understood that it was due to the fact that he was increasingly moving into a wider field of existence, beyond the bounds of his individual self, into what we may call a "universal consciousness;" where their world and his intersect in the subtle plane.

No Title

When a serious problem reveals itself in society, we often see the lowest element step in first to address it.

No Title

In Integral Yoga, we are constantly shedding the old skin of who we were for something Marvelous we are Becoming.

How Indians Triumphed in America

"Today a quarter or more of the Indian-born workforce is employed in the tech industry. In Silicon Valley neighborhoods, such as Fremont and Cupertino, people of Indian origin make up a fifth of the population. Some 10-20% of all tech start-ups have Indian founders; Indians have ascended to the heights of the biggest firms, too. Satya Nadella, Microsoft's boss, was born in Hyderabad. Sundar Pichai, who runs Google, the main division of the firm Alphabet, hails from Tamil Nadu."

I hope you get a chance to read this uplifting article from Dec 1, 2016 edition of Economist magazine below:

No Title

"We are all drops of awareness, in an ocean of consciousness." (unknown)

No Title

When an opportunity presents itself, shift from indifference to sincere interest, or from vital enthusiasm to consecrating the possibility.

The Complete Opportunity

We can make perfect an incoming Opportunity by responding to it through a Complete Act:

- (1) The Mind perceives the Opportunity and possibility. It registers as a solid idea.
- (2) The idea then garners the emotional sanction and will of the Vital. There is a real desire for it to happen; for the Opportunity to become real.
- (3) The (Physical) body then executes it by taking whatever action is necessary, while demonstrating right attitudes and skill.

Life then invariably cooperates through that inner and outer effort. I.e. The Opportunity blossoms as a reality.

If the Opportunity is also consecrated, then a powerful development is bound to take shape.

Alternately, if you Consecrate the very moment the Opportunity arises, and then detach, you can attract something unprecedented in Life.

Reader: This is exceptionally relevant for me right now, Roy... I'm going to do a bit of consecrating on a particular opportunity that has presented itself. However, the opportunity isn't just mine for the taking - my work needs to be reviewed and accepted in order for me to be able to participate and use the opportunity. It's rather important, and I want to approach it in the correct manner.

No Title

At each point you think of the Mother, the spiritual Force instead of the Problem, Life cooperates and acts in your favor.

Life Responds to Balance in One's Life

If you create more Balance in your life, good fortune will quickly follow. In which areas then are you negligent and therefore deficient?

Eg an individual scores himself on giving proper attention in various the areas of life:

Work 110%

Family 60%

Health 70%

Friends 80%

Chores: 50%

Other: ?

From this we see that this sample individual is overworking a bit, needs to put more energy into Family matters as well as chores, and somewhat improve health. When he takes such action within a few hours or days Life suddenly comes forward with positive developments, whether in the changed area or somewhere else. It will be a miracle to behold.

Life Response Power of Embracing Another's Truth

The more you do what people suggest or ask of you unhesitatingly, the more life will cooperate with you: even if what they ask of you seems wrong-headed!

It is because when the mind expands to embrace others' viewpoint, it moves one from the part to the whole, from the local plane of truth and knowledge to the Universal. Moreover, it is not so much the details that matter, as the willingness to join the Oneness of existence by embracing others' truth.

A man was asked by his friend what the frequency of being paid on a new service he subscribed to. At first he took it lightly. Then he looked into it, and discovered that there was a simple system to get paid, and that he would receive his due funds much more quickly than he had believed!

Because he listened to and acted on his friend's question, he was ushered into wider field of existence, from which life tends to respond in your favor!

No Title

"Taste of Ignorance" = taking pleasure in one's Ignorance, believing it to be the truth.

The Tutor: Astonishing Life Response Association Between Distant Past and Present

We ordinarily perceive events occurring in the present, and then as necessary are able to make associations between them. I.e. we readily understand the cause and effect relations among them. However, we don't easily see how events from the Distant Past relate to our present experiences, nor do we perceive that these associations are really quite startling. Let me give you a recent example.

About 40 years ago, a friend of mine invited me to tutor individual students in a class of Dyslexic children. I ended up doing one-on-one sessions in mathematics and other subjects with several students, one at a time. It turns out that had a particularly memorable (and amusing) session with one of the students; one that my friend and I enjoyed discussing over the years.

It turns out that I renewed my friendship of 40 years about a dozen years ago, and my friend and I would email one another several times a year. We even visited one another several times. Well, one day several months ago, I came to realize that my friend's invitation to teach in the school of the Dyslexic children all those years back was actually the beginning of my 40 years' instructor career! I never made that association till then, and so I felt gratitude toward him and that opportunity.

Now here's where the story gets interesting. The other day I did my first tutoring session in 40 years with a young man, as all the rest of my instructing for all those decades was in corporate classroom training in California, mainly in the San Francisco Area, including Silicon Valley. And so this small tutoring job was harkening back to the one-on-one work I first engaged in decades ago and never really did since. That is until the other day.

As so after the session was over, I exited the facility and got into my car. I then picked up my Smartphone and looked through my email. It turns out that only One message arrived. However, when I looked closer I was startled to realize that it was from my friend of 40 years ago!

In essence, because I had done a one-on-one tutoring session just now, essentially my first in 40 years, I moved into alignment with the very person who gave me my one and only previous tutoring session 40 years ago! Thus, the present and the distant past were intimately, inexorably connected.

From this incident, we see that Life is really Conscious. It "keeps track" of the past and coordinates it with events in the present and the future, creating innumerable startling associations. We call them Synchronicities, though I refer to them as responses from life, or Life Response.

It turns out that they are occurring all the time, but we miss them because our "subtle antennae" are not engaged. When they are however, we continuously experience the most startling circumstances, linking past, present, and future. Moreover, the startling experiences energizes us to no end.

We call such experiences, moments of "Instantaneous Miraculousness," and it is there for us to perceive at any time we make the effort to closely examine the events in our lives.

No Title

Devotees of the Mother who dedicate themselves to a field or work subconsciously attract results that affect the entire society, though they may not know they've been instruments, or had any great personal success in that area.

No Title

We have seen the stunning power higher levels of cleanliness has to attract good or great fortune; in particular, greater money and wealth. And so we applaud India's monumental effort to increase its level of cleanliness and orderliness. Only good will come of it.

Vast Benefits of Being in "Time" Instead of "time"

Normally we are in the present, while being "burdened" by the past and the future. I.e. as we move from moment to moment, our view of reality is affected by our past experiences and our future expectations. It causes the present to be clouded by past and future. It is not therefore the pure Present.

However, when we are in a higher consciousness, our inner being sends up guidance of those things from the past that would be helpful for the current moment, while also providing intimations of the future of where we are truly headed. This heightened awareness in the present gives us great advantage in navigating our day, whereas the normal, lower consciousness approach is filled with obstacles that lead to poor choices and decision making.

The key however is to deepen your consciousness on a regular basis so that past, present, and future become one undivided Timeless reality that enables you to take right action that attracts infinite-like results.

It is the difference between living a life of "Time," rather than "time." The former enables 10 times the results in the course of your day.

Regular Consecration (opening to the spiritual Force), and constantly taking others' viewpoint deepens the consciousness, shifting you from the experience of time to Time, and thereby attracting its startling inner and outer benefits.

Cosmic Time Leverage

Before there was space and time there was timelessness, where all is linked. Even when space and time came about, it was integrated as supramentalized consciousness. Past, present, and future are One.

Now we can experience the same when we rise in and deepen our consciousness. Then Life becomes a startling Mind trip as we experience the Oneness of Time in our daily experiences. It gives us cosmic time leverage that enables superb decision making, and the startling positive life response conditions that follow.

Self vs Life Initiating in Terms of Success & Response

There is a difference between your coming up with a notion /idea and then taking action on it, compared to Life presenting the opportunity to you in the first place and your acting on it to fulfill it. When you initiate to fulfill your own idea, it tends to succeed far less often than when life comes to you with the idea/opportunity and you respond to it, taking it up in full. The latter not only succeeds more often than self-initiating, but also attracts very positive results. Actually, when devotees take up a Life Initiative, a life-originating opportunity, it is really Mother who is behind it.

No Title

When you take an interest in something you are not normally interested in, Life suddenly takes an interest in you.

No Title

Sudden, great success of local sports team is often accompanied by great tragedy or astonishing positive developments in the wider community, whether ongoing or recent.

No Title

Honesty is aided by accurate, precise thought based on truth; perceiving the practical and emotional value in it; and then expressing it accordingly through right inner and outer behavior.

No Title

Impatience and accident go together.

No Title

Solutions to intractable problems rapidly occur amidst absolute calm and infinite patience.

No Title

We must stop confusing religion and spirituality. Religion is a set of rules, regulations and rituals created by humans which were supposed to help people grow spiritually.

Due to human imperfection, religion has become corrupt, political, divisive and a tool for power struggle.

Spirituality is not theology or ideology. It is simply a way of life, pure and original as was given by the Most High. Spirituality is a network linking us to the Most High, the universe and each other. (Haile Salassi)

Reader: To my understanding, it's Study, Research or Realization of how life or Spirit involved in matter which can be done with their own instrument which is our Physical Body and its components. It's what we Call Education I think.

Reversal of Attitude About Job Re-Attracts It

When you make a decision not to take up an opportunity, but then see the error of your ways, the possibility suddenly comes back to you again ON ITS OWN! It is a reminder of the Life Response power of shifting one's attitude to the positive.

An instructor was offered a training job, but did not accept it because the commute seemed unworthy of the effort. However, then he discussed the issue with a friend, and saw the error in his ways. He then sighed that he made a mistake and that the work was lost.

Within two minutes of that contrition, the opportunity came back to him through his agency! He sat there stunned about something he thought was gone forever. What seemed utterly improbable had now become the reality!

The instructor then went ahead and responded positively to the opportunity that returned to him.

Life Response Power of Giving Up Our Opinions

We love to offer and assert our opinions. Yet when we give them up life cooperates and new opportunities come our way.

(The opportunities come in the area OPPOSITE where we earlier asserted. Eg if we favored one group over another, by giving up opinions in that direction, we receive opportunities originating from the opposite side.)

No Title

Current state of the world is Disunity on the way toward Global Unity

No Title

Over 100 years ago, the business barons in the United States cared little about the plight of the worker, but that changed due to adoption of higher human values in corporate America. In recent decades, companies have continued to care little or just play lip service to helping resolve the problems of society; however, that too is beginning to change. And Human-centered Values among the players is once again leading the way.

No Title

The more you hate the leader (even without expressing it), the more he will act in a hateful way. Silent, unemotional concern, even forgetting the matter has the effect of Life's circumstance reigning in the abusive leader, or creating unexpected negative conditions that greatly weaken him, even humble him.

No Title

Silence - of speech, thought, even movement (stillness) - attracts positive conditions from out of nowhere.

Meditations on Spirit and Evolution of Life

-Through our psychological and spiritual growth and evolution, the world is increasingly being divinized; which is God's intent.

-Through evolution of Life on earth, the world is becoming God. God in material form.

-God has become the world, and through our consecrated efforts, the Mother we are bringing out its full divine nature.

-Opening to supramentalized Force, Mother hastens the evolution and the divinization of life on earth.

-God has hidden himself in Life so we can have the joy of re-discovering Him in it.

-Rediscovering God, the Divine in life is Evolution.

-Evolution is the re-discovery of Spirit in life.

-God is ultimately both Spirit and Life. The All. The Reality.

- God, the Reality is everything that is, and everything that isn't.
- Matter and Life are God in disguise.
- The outcome of our spiritual evolution is Joy spreading throughout the world.

No Title

Evolution is growth in consciousness.

No Title

Trump is helping America and the world evolve by devolving.

No Title

The Heaven we seek is not beyond this world, but in it.

No Title

Custom education to meet the needs of each individual person is where the future lies

Psychic Being/Evolving Soul

The Soul, Jivatman is a spark of the Divine, eternal. It goes back to Being when the individual dies.

The Psychic Being, which Sri Aurobindo said was his greatest discovery, is an adjunct to the Soul. It is an Evolving soul, entity which is learning from each successive birth it inhabits in order to continue its journey from Ignorance to Integral Knowledge.

In that process, it deepens the inhabitant's consciousness, opens one to the divine Shakti, the Mother, enabling the supramental transformation of his being and the life around him, and the establishment of a new race of individuals, culminating in a Divine Life on Earth.

No Title

Intense vital movements short-circuit money.

No Title

In many fundamental ways animals and humans are very much the same. Sri Aurobindo calls Man the "thinking animal," evolving toward a true Human existence; and eventually a New Species and Supramental Life.

No Title

Krishna said in the Gita "you can become anything you want to become."

No Title

Sri Aurobindo indicates that Life is evolving through the evolution of consciousness. And Consciousness is evolving through the Organization of Life. The two go together.

Thus, our life is developing because we are becoming more conscious. And our consciousness is gaining power because of the life we have developed outside. (MSS)

No Title

In Sri Aurobindo's epic poem 'Savitri' (essentially the Mother), she has come to defeat Death as a reality in life, which her lover Satyavan represents through his plight in the story. Savitri succeeds and conquers death, ushering in a New Spiritual Age.

It is then our goal as humans to do the same in the evolution: to overcome death as an end goal of the transformation of our being through the development of a supramental consciousness by opening to Her Force.

No Title

When we are patient we perceive what to do and in the right order, understand the necessary time period required of each, and yet are fully, quietly absorbed in the needs of the present.

No Title

The pioneer will often be condemned for his actions or beliefs from all quarters. At a later stage, the new values he has brought forth will become those of the society itself.

No Title

Patience is not getting ahead of yourself, which puts you in harmony with the rhythm and flow of Life, thereby garnering Its cooperation with your efforts.

The Small Opens to the Infinite

Often times a great opportunity will come out of a small association with another person or group. So keep focus on even the smallest matter or detail between yourself and the other party because it might lead to an opening to the infinite!

(It is proof that within the finite, the smallest thing, lies the infinite. That is because within it is an involved Consciousness of infinite possibilities of Divine origin.)

No Title

Being silently bothered by circumstance, even when you are in the right, only aggravates it.

No Title

The whole world wants to partake in prosperity. It's not just for elites. LIFE wants that to happen. We are currently in that transition. Events expose all the things that are preventing that new reality from taking place. Just now the dams are being broken. A more just, fair, and humane world awaits us.

No Title

Beneath the outer veneer, the global economy is being driven by Financial speculative forces bringing great wealth benefit for the few, disregarding the vast needs of the many.

No Title

Perhaps the most significant political development since the end of the Cold War was the West's humiliation of the Russians, marginalizing them in global decision making. Gorbachev, MSS, and others have expressed this view. The rise of authoritarian, undemocratic Putin and his popularity there can be understood in this light; as a way Russia is trying to gain self-respect.

Controlling Emotion through Rational Mind

The rational mind controlling the dark vital/emotional being is a key to personal and spiritual growth.

Eg let's say in the middle of a work you are informed about the latest development concerning funds coming your way. You react to the situation with emotion of high anticipation. However, then you catch yourself, and continue your focus on completing what you are now doing, putting the incoming email to the side for a moment. Then you also remember to consecrate the incoming email as it can be good or bad news. When you then get to the email, you discover to your delight that all has worked out fine.

By having the rational mind control your vital emotions, you are able to attract positive conditions. Consecrating it takes it one dimension further, evoking optimal results from the field of life.

No Title

When a problem is investigated from all sides, the solution is relatively easy to discover and implement.

As Universal Beings, We Can Change the World from Within

We think we are just are our own limited individual selves. Yet we are much more than that. We are the entire universe; actually, we are the Reality itself; the All; undivided, Infinite and Eternal.

This means that from within we can alter anything about ourselves, our friends, our families, our work, the community, the nation, the society, the world, and the cosmos. We have that power within ourselves. By opening to the power of the Divine Mother, we can target and project our Aspiration on all and anything. Life WILL respond.

Startling Double Synchronicity with Baggar Vance

The other day I had a marvelous experience I would like to share.

A friend of mine and I decided to watch the film The Legend of Baggar Vance (from 2000), which I had seen several times before over the years. It is essentially the Bhagavad Gita presented in a modern context. It is the tale of the local golfer Junna (as Arjuna) competing against the two greatest golfers in the world. Junnah/Arjuna is guided by Baggar Vance, who is the equivalent of Krishna. (The title "Baggar Vance" is similar to Bhagavad Gita.)

Baggar shows Junna not only the keys to golf, but to Life Success. He shows Junna how to become "one with the field," enabling perfect execution in works; here meaning the capacity to execute the perfect golf shot. Baggar also reveals himself as a supernatural divine presence; infinite and eternal, which Junna begins to realize he too can become.

While watching the film I could feel the essence of Krishna coming through the performance of actor Will Smith. Junna is also convincingly performed by actor Matt Damon.

Then my story changes. The next morning I headed out to a client, but before that I stopped at a restaurant for breakfast. At the facility, they have several mounted televisions - presenting various content, like news, weather, human interest stories, sports events, interviews, sitcom excerpts, etc.

However, when I got there that morning and looked at one of the screens, I saw that they were showing highlights of women golf pros performing at their craft. I immediately saw the connection with watching Baggar Vance the night before. I smiled at the synchronicity of the two events. It was a million to one shot of this taking place, yet I have had this experience hundreds of times before.

A minute later the presentation on the tv changed and instead there was an interview with none other than ... Matt Damon! The very actor who played Junna in the film from 2000 I watched the previous night!

I was stunned and gripped by the profundity of this super response from life; as if Krishna had simultaneously orchestrated the situation and blessed me with his cosmic smile.

It was a trillion to one possibility, yet it occurred.

And It was yet another reminder that when we deeply focus on something - here the powerful spiritual-like events in the film - more of it comes to us from out of nowhere.

Then you realize how cosmically interlinked all things are in the universe, something we can constantly perceive if we just open our eyes.

Reader: Beautiful lesson today, Roy, and I enjoyed that YouTube clip. In another addition to your story, here's a little "coincidence" for you: The other night, we had the TV on and for the first time in my life I saw the name of that movie, "Legend of Baggar Vance" in the movie listings. I had absolutely no idea what that was, and very nearly turned it on to see, but didn't feel like I had the patience for a movie. It is now on my list of must-sees!

Reader: 10th December was Gita Jayanthi here in South Africa. I'm not sure on which day it would have fallen in the USA with the time difference, but surely an interesting synchronicity.

In the Wake of Russia's Humiliation

25 years ago, the Cold War ended, but the West and its leaders claimed victory, leaving Russia feeling humiliated. Years of further humiliation followed as the Russians were left out of new developments in the world, and were threatened by an advancing NATO. She then turned around and elected an autocratic, undemocratic leader in Putin to gain a sense of self-respect. Because the West did not embrace Russia as an equal partner at the end of the Cold War, Russia acted aggressively through Putin.

Her hacking the US in the recent election was the most brazen act yet in Russia's attempt to rise out of her humiliation. She was usurping democracy in order to put in place a leader (Trump) who was, despite his many awful characteristics, a friend of Russia; even an autocratic, undemocratic, mercurial, and dangerous Russia.

In one sense, we have returned to the moment of the end of the Cold War, and the question of whether Russia and the West are equal partners in the future is once again being raised. It is occurring through negative events, with negative actors playing out on the world stage. It is life responding to the West's insensitivity to the Russian Bear 25 years ago.

No Title

Karmayogi says the Chinese (like the Indians) are a subtle race. You can see this quite clearly in Lao Tzu's 'Tao te Ching,' which contains a number aphorisms and principles of what are essentially methods of evoking sudden good fortune, Life Response.

Being Prepared for Our Future

"Y2K should serve as a cautionary tale for us. Not so much for what took place, but for what didn't."

When the clock ticked to the year 2000, many on earth were fearful that many systems throughout the world would fail, leading to global catastrophe. Instead everything seemed to go smoothly, startling many who thought doom was imminent.

Then in the aftermath of "U2K," many in the media claimed the effort to upgrade systems' computer code for the new millennium was all a waste of time, since nothing happened.

But was it a waste?

A few months after IBM claimed that if it had not engaged in extensive reprogramming, it would have lost hundreds of millions if not billions of dollars itself. Multiply that by many hundreds and thousands around the world and it indeed could have been the greatest technological and economic catastrophe in history.

Being prepared is a thoughtful work; a quiet one too as one does one's best to insure smooth flow of life in future. Too many of us live for today, forgetting that tomorrow beckons.

And yet if we are conscious, we can sense subtle danger that lies ahead, and act now to prevent future catastrophe and ruination. That goes for ourselves, our families, our communities, or anything else in life.

If that is the case, then we can ask what are those aspects of the future that we ourselves are neglectful of, unprepared for. What future disasters can we avoid by being thoughtful about the exigencies of the future.

Y2K should therefore serve as a cautionary tale for us. Not so much for what took place, but for what didn't.

PS By the way, Life has a funny way of cooperating with such conscious attempts to safeguard our future by working on our behalf when we arrive there.

True AI Wisdom

We can only develop true Artificial Intelligence (AI) when we understand the true nature of human and cosmic consciousness, as well as comprehend the subtle laws of Life. Sri Aurobindo and Karmayogi have revealed all of these for us, much of which is explained in Garry Jacobs' novel The BOOK, about an AI company that has come upon and incorporated the most profound Wisdom of Life in their AI software that can solve any problem on earth.

No Title

If your belief in a matter is determined by your biases - political, religious, social or otherwise, - you will never know the Integral Truth of things.

Broadcasting One's Success Attracts Negatively

As soon as you broadcast your success in a given area, it immediately begins to diminish.

Eg a man somewhat proudly pronounced how he was helping the organization he was part by contributing content. The next time he went to that source of information for new developments, he discovered that it had virtually dried up!

No Title

Mind living on the surface is fooled by first impressions.

A "Complete Work" that Evokes the Infinite

Krishna indicated that we should engage in Works not for our own sale, for our own accomplishment, but for the sake of others, and ultimately as service to the Divine.

We can interpret "Works" not merely as physical effort, or performance in our career and work life, but any and every ACT we engage in. Each Act can then become a "Complete Act", which is determined by-

- Clearly knowing what we want to accomplish
- Having the intense aspiration and Intention for it to come about
- Executing it with full effort and skill
- Applying high personal values
- Executing it with positive attitudes and optimism
- Partaking in it with heart and soul
- Striving for perfection in the execution and outcome
- Planning the effort; Organizing the details
- Not being attached to the fruits, rewards
- Making the full persevering effort
- Being fully absorbed and focused, not diffused and spread out
- Avoiding negative attitudes towards others, the work, one's self, and life
- Engaging in it with quietude and steadiness
- Being patient and avoiding expectation
- Maintaining balance with other aspects of One's life
- Not being bothered by challenges and obstacles
- Seeing difficulties as opportunities
- Perceiving the positive emerging from the negative
- Not reacting and being steady in the face of others' intensities
- Seeing the details in terms of the wider whole of things
- Understanding the Essence of things and what is really trying to come about
- Always seeking to get at the heart of the matter
- Having the perfect skills necessary for its execution

- Giving up old, dead habit and routine for the new
- Being cooperative and collaborative with others
- Willfully serving others
- Not broadcasting one's success
- Not being bothered by failure
- Learning from our mistakes
- Constantly learning new things
- Acquiring all necessary knowledge
- Stilling the mind so one intuitivizes what to do and to avoid
- Maintaining a deep center so Guidance percolates up from within
- Waiting on life's initiative coming in before acting
- Seeing things from the perspective of others
- Being selfless and self-giving
- Feeling gratitude and appreciation
- Being guided by the Truth of things, not opinions or prejudiced
- Being open to possibilities, not closed-minded
- Seeking benefit for others, not just self
- Consecrating it (opening to the Force) before, during, and after
- Having infinite Faith in the process and the outcome

Engaging in any and all of these will not only result in a Complete Act, a Complete Work, but to the degree implemented will continuously attract positive conditions from life. As a result, the infinite will currently fill the current finite. Accomplishment, as well as the satisfaction of all involved will be never-ending.

Inner-Outer Correspondence

"All in this universe is connected through an invisible link and each action by us affects all in the chain known or unknown and creates a rhythm of response across the universe. This rhythm affects each involved in a good or bad way depending on what type of stimulus they have given."

No Title

"Please" adds sweetness to a request.

No Title

Over-Expectation and Over-Anticipation have a tendency to stop things dead in their tracks. I.e. it attracts non or negative response from life.

Hour of the Unexpected in Global Events

An argument can be made that the Divine brought Trump to power to stabilize the relationship between USA and Russia, which in recent years and months had become very dangerous to the entire world.

And yet it can also be argued that we all get the dubious baggage of Trump as a negative life response to the West's neglect and disdain of Russia since the end of the Cold War; humiliating them as it were; not involving them in global decisions since they were perceived as the "losers." (Gorbachev called it the "Triumphalism" of the West, beginning at the end of the Cold War, that led to the autocratic, undemocratic yet strong Putin, who gives the Russian people a sense of dignity.)

It is my view that because of all of the delicate relations among China, Russia, India, Pakistan, and USA, Trump will have to tread delicately not to offend. Internationally his previous boisterous proclamations will be reined in, especially if he wants economic progress.

Besides, the unknown always comes and "trumps" ideology. Eg Bush Jr, desiring to impose undeterred, free-market Reaganism, met with 9/11, Katrina, a dubious Iraq war, and the global financial crash triggering economic near depression under his watch. Now, as it was then, it is the Hour of the Unexpected.

No Title

Because we are in essence a Soul, we are infinite and eternal beings, extending in all directions, existing forever in space and time. It is then only a matter of developing our Consciousness within to perceive it so; and to make it fully real in our material existence.

The Pure, Self-Existent Consciousness Unfolding in Life that We are Destined to Realize, to Become (by MSS, Roy Posner)

There is a self-existent, Conscious Reality, a Being, which is Infinite and Eternal that is the source of and has become the universe.

The Tradition has missed that the source consciousness is not just a Being, but a Becoming of that Being.

Being is thus Becoming. This universe is a progressive manifestation and evolution of that Self-Existent Reality.

Therefore, if you want to know what the world is going to become, you have to know about that Something that is emerging that was hidden. It is Alive, something Conscious.

Thus, you can't judge the universe from what we see; from matter, but instead see this universe as a progressive manifestation of the Being; of Consciousness and Life.

What then is Consciousness?

As we understand it, consciousness is the thinking we do, the awareness we have, and the capacities we have through our minds.

However, mind is not pure Consciousness, but only an imperfect, little expression of True Consciousness. We are Ignorant in so many ways. (The 7 essential ways that Sri Aurobindo explains.)

Thus, Mind consciousness is not the end of the (evolutionary) story. It is only the start.

How then would the perfect Self-Existent Consciousness be?

A pure, perfect Consciousness would-

- know ourselves and others to be Infinite and Eternal. That because we are in Essence a Soul we extend infinitely and eternally in all directions in space and time.

- know the Divine Soul of every person we meet; constantly relating to the Divine in other people.

- know that the whole universe, the world is Divine.

- know that the world and the universe is a very small place. That our existence goes beyond the universe. That the infinite, eternal Reality expressing in the universe is infinitely greater than the universe.

- know that we are an expression and incarnation of the Ishwara, the creator, who has created the universe.

This is the Becoming of that Self-Existent Reality. Until then we are not conscious; only living on a superficial shadow of that consciousness.

And this movement of the Becoming of that infinite, eternal Self- Existent Consciousness and Reality is not going to stop until we become conscious that this is what we are here for; that this is our Destiny to realize and become.

[based on the message and teachings of Sri Aurobindo's 'The Life Divine']

No Title

Society is simultaneously evolving and cracking up so the New World can be born.

No Title

The British liberated India from its sleep. Gandhi liberated India from the British. Nehru brought socialism to India. Singh liberated India from socialism's bureaucratic limits. Modi is liberating India from material filth and psychological corruption.

No Title

When consecrating a problem, such as an illness, focus on the Mother and Her Force, not the problem. The former rectifies it; the latter deflects its resolution.

No Title

For every piece of mis-information one knowingly subscribes to, advocates, and communicates, a serious negative response from life will follow. Or to put it another way, spreading lies and the like will invariably boomerang and attract the fury of Life.

No Title

The body normally heals itself when IT decides, not when we decide. And yet through the Mother's supramental Force that limitation is overcome.

No Title

Over-excitement about a success quickly attracts its opposite. However, a measured response will elicit even greater accomplishment to follow.

No Title

If the Force is working through you, all you have to do in life is listen, and follow its directions.

US Economic Challenges

Among the economic challenges facing the US are:

- the startling fact that average wages are the same as they were 20 years ago, an unprecedented development in US history
- the equally startling fact that 80-90% of the wealth in the country is in the hands of less than 5% of the people, also unprecedented in the extreme, and dangerous to freedom and democracy
- that current wages are insufficient for a vast majority of people to keep up with cost of living, placing huge strains on individuals and families
- that the cities on the coasts are prospering while inland areas, including industrial Midwest and the South are struggling, creating a 2-region economic reality at odds with one another
- that unregulated financial speculation threatens to take down the US and global economy at any moment
- that huge percentage of the population do not have the necessary skills for the work of the 21st century
- that there is no safety net or hope when being left out as a result of job flight through globalism
- that healthcare costs are skyrocketing
- that higher education is out of the reach of a large percent of the population
- that greed and materialistic values are distorting the direction of society
- that many of the issues are of global scale and so can only be solved through global cooperation and collaboration, whereas countries are pulling in their own direction, exacerbating the problem
- that no one has a comprehensive, Integral plan to solve the issues, with parties falling back to their ideologies

-that there is disconnect between business, government, and the people
-others?

No Title

A value implemented produces great benefit when it is accompanied by other related, supporting values. Eg democracy is greatest when accompanied by freedom, individuality, diversity, equality, and fairness. Likewise, customer satisfaction is best when accompanied by quality of goods and services, innovation, responsiveness, organization, goodwill, etc.

Making Best Use of Increased Energies that Come through Consecration

When you have a problem, are ill, or are experiencing any other life challenge, it is an indicator of lacking Energy on your part - whether physical, vital, mental, or spiritual, depending on circumstance and the individual. However by opening to the Mother, to Her spiritual, supramental Power, -- aka Consecration - the problems tend to quickly give way or simply disappear. Moreover, the energies that were lacking are restored accordingly.

And yet there is a tendency to SQUANDER those energies when they return by speaking too much, thinking too much, by getting too caught up in our vita/l emotions and desires, by taking to unnecessary physical actions, etc. However, if we were able to be STILL when the energies come and positive conditions are restored by Her Force, they will build up even further, quickly evoking even better, even more startling positive conditions in our lives.

No Title

Society is familiar with human evolution as a movement from the ape to Man, but not his evolution from that point forward. Sri Aurobindo has outlined that evolutionary possibility in extraordinary detail - from the current, continually emerging mental-based Humanity to a Spiritual-based one.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo's integral understanding of existence draws the Arc of Tomorrow.

No Title

A study found that Americans who prioritize doing good for others are almost twice as likely to say they are happy about their lives. In essence, the more we are one with the rest of humanity, the better we feel. (thepowerofideas.com)

No Title

Many of the intense illnesses we experience - severe headache, toothache, et - are due to connection with others who are angry with us and have ill-will, or have negative need or dependence, or we are otherwise at odds or in conflict with. When from our side we realize the association, or from theirs they soften their stand, the pain tends to rapidly subside.

Distortion of Truth and The Doubly Failed Businessman

When an individual subscribes to lies, whether he knew of its underlying falsehood or not, the outcome will reveal itself negatively in another area of his life, often as failure.

A man was part owner of a rising business. He had put great effort into it over the course of three years. Still he maintained an utter certainty that it would succeed, and that his approach was bound to succeed, despite what others had said.

Somehow he got very caught up in the US election. He sent out 3 or 4 letters that detailed his opinions, with striking intensity, bordering on bitterness. He had listed a dozen or so of the extreme untruths about one of the candidates that had been spread by the foreign and domestic hacking web sites that had infiltrated all aspects of the Internet in the USA. Virtually every untruth was made up for the purpose of defeating her in the election. He fell for this information hook, line, and sinker, expressing it in his letters in considerable detail, as did millions of others.

But what was most interesting is that during the week it was revealed all throughout the world that these were in fact untruths made up in minds of various hackers, the businessman called a loyal friend to essentially say he has failed in his business venture.

You see, the two events go together in Life Response phenomenon. The lies he subscribed to revealed to the public the same week he is utterly demoralized and calls the friend that he has failed in his venture. They are synchronous in consciousness.

In fact, we can go further and say that they are the SAME weakness in his consciousness expressed two ways: an utter belief in his infallibility, i.e. my way or the highway, and his propensity to naively embrace false information - both expressing a fundamental Ignorance and Falsehood. It is a case of two sets of untruths moving together, eventually expressing their negative outcomes together.

Landscaping Response to Individual's Decision to Goodwill Broadcast

Broadcasting our goodwill to others we know has a great tendency to evoke good or great fortune for the recipients of those vibrations. Plus it, in effect, benefits the sender as well. We have traced a number of startling instances of the Life Response power of sending out feelings of goodwill.

Well today I noticed a new wrinkle of this phenomenon, as follows.

Several years ago, a man's friend offered him a new living situation in a new city when the first man had to leave his old residence. However during the time, he lived in the new location, there were a number of problems, one of which was lack of upkeep by the owners.

Now three years later, the man decided he was going to well up goodwill feelings and broadcast it to several friends; one of whom was the friend who helped secure his new residence.

Well within 5 minutes of making that decision, five men arrived on the scene and proceeded to engage in the first major landscaping upgrade on the property in three years!

By merely making the DECISION to broadcast the Goodwill - he had not actually taken the action yet - he attracted a wonderful result for his personal surroundings! That was a new wrinkle for me in regards to the enormous Life Response power of Goodwill.

No Title

Surface consciousness divides. Inner orientation harmonizes.

No Title

Consecration works! Every little thing that you consecrate in the course of your day will turn out like a golden Jewel.

No Title

Every devolution sets the stage for an even greater evolution.

Involutionary and Evolutionary Processes

The Involution is the process by which the universe came to be from a Divine source. The Evolution is the process by which the universe progresses by rediscovering and manifesting its Divine nature.

To know where we are headed in the Evolution is to know where we have come from in the Involution. They mirror one another in the reverse.

Global Harmony Among Nations, and Overcoming Terrorism and Economic Failure

The problems that individual nations are having with solving terrorism shows that it is an international problem that needs to be resolved collectively.

Unfortunately, nations are being nationalistic and want to handle it themselves through their own strength (which will be elusive), and that nations are at odds with one another over a host of other issues and are therefore reluctant to, or are uncomfortable with collaborating to overcome terrorism.

Thus, in a funny way terrorism serves to try to unite nations in collaborative effort, forcing them to overcome their own limitations. This we might say is the longer-term intention of Life: to create increasing global harmony. (We could also say that the very decentralized nature of terrorism is Nature's way of forcing nations to work exceedingly close to solve the issue; hence furthering the global unity, fulfilling the vision and dream of Sri Aurobindo and others.)

It also shows the need for some sort of global rapid reaction force to quickly arrive and overcome problematic conditions, such as cells of terrorists or other outbreaks of violence.

More telling, the world could use a World Parliament or similar with teeth and power of action to pass collective legislation to overcome the economic anguish that is often at the root of terrorist acts.

Just now the world is in chaos in terms of terrorism, as well as various facets of economics. The reality is that these two are inexorably related, and that only collective action will solve issues that are simply too great for individual nations to resolve on their own.

Comment: The approach India, Pakistan, and Iran have been trying to collectively work out to bring economic benefit is one model of the power of economic collaboration to develop nations and thereby reduce anguish and the threat of terrorism that follows.

Ultimately associates of mine and I (and others) see no real military solution to terrorism. It needs to come from something higher - which is political/diplomatic, but even better, more powerful - economic.

Contemplating Causes that Have Thrust Us Forward

This time of the year often compels us to look back on our lives. If we are truly conscious, we will be particularly interested in how the past shaped us; made us who we are.

One aspect is to recognize those individuals who directly had a hand in our progress; our movement forward. Though we may think we've progressed due to our own efforts, we may forget those people and our critical moments with them that shaped the course of our lives.

One way of looking at that is to consider what attracted their critical inputs in the first place. E.g. one man was catapulted into the spiritual life by a close friend. And yet it was because the recipient's father had nurtured that friend over the course of years that the recipient attracted the great benefit from the friend. It was goodwill of the father toward another coming back to the son.

In another instance, the same man found a link between the spirit and a new-found career, melding them together, from another friend a few years later. Again, it was a response to something; but to what? Looking back, he realized it was due to his own deep Aspiration to find work where he could apply the spirit. And he found exactly what he was looking for through this friend!

In this way, each of us can look back on our lives and see the correlation between the response that thrust us forward and the underlying cause that attracted it. We can see it emerging from an aspiration within ourselves, but also from outside influences that altered the cause of events in our favor.

No Title

Mother has said that having the Divine Consciousness puts us in the right attitude in regards to our actions, towards things, brings an atmosphere of consecration, of suppleness, assent, aspiration, goodwill, plasticity, and effort for progress.

(paraphrase of P.V. Sankar)

No Title

Nature's Way is to create and solve many problems simultaneously.

Reestablishing Solid US-Russian Relations Despite Great Dangers

It is interesting that Putin and then Trump announced their desire to upgrade their nuclear arsenals on virtually the same day. They may want to dominate the world agenda this way.

It would be an interesting development. Positive in one way, as it would bring US and Russia closer after recent extreme estrangement and Western humiliation of Russians since the end of the Cold War. This would relieve tension at the top.

Nevertheless, it could be very dangerous to the rest of the world, since their policies and tactics are highly questionable.

It seems that Nature wants to reestablish a more solid basis at the top, even though it seems to be run by unstable personalities, with regressive agendas. There are many ironies in these course of events.

No Title

Even though reestablishing positive relations at the top between US and Russia can be a great positive realignment, it may be up to other nations and associations to lead the world forward to solve its ever-increasing social and economic problems.

No Title

If the US and Russia increase their stockpiles of nuclear weapons, as advocated by Putin and Trump, it would be telling the world that any country can develop such weapons, leading to a great nuclear weapons race among the nations, radically destabilizing life on earth.

No Title

We are moving towards greater global unity not so much through harmony among the individual nations but through increasing regional Associations of Nations. Then the associations themselves associate with one another to further the global unity process.

No Title

Through Sri Aurobindo's Wisdom and Mother's inner Guidance we become more aware of the emerging trends and possibilities for the world.

No Title

The Russians hacked the recent American election because she subconsciously felt humiliated, left out, and unappreciated by the West since the end of the Cold War.

No Title

Intractable long-term conflicts like Israel-Palestine and India-Pakistan (over Kashmir) may only be solvable through the action of the divine Supramental Power (as was the end of the Cold War). On the other hand, the Northern Ireland conflict was mostly resolved as a result of one side backing down, which was a movement of their higher consciousness that brought benefit to everyone.

No Title

Should China see the wisdom of creating an Asian Union along the lines of EU and promote Asian currency, she has a great opportunity to play in the affairs of the world in this century. (Karmayogi)

Catching the Business Wave of Change

To be a great success in your field, try to discover and align with broad social - i.e. universal - movements. Catch the wave of change, of the new. Eg Narayana Mouthy of Infosys was not a powerful man, but he created a giant IT industry in India by aligning and moving with the cosmic movement of IT growth.

No Title

Rather than merely condemn a leader for his foolish action, conceive of a number of practical positive solutions in that area. In that way, you turn his negative energy into a springboard for positive change.

No Title

An incoherent, unorganized viewpoint and perspective leads to, attracts unintended negative consequences.

No Title

The future is about creating unions of nations, and the union of those unions. This is one key expression of the further organization, integration, and unity of the world.

Santa's Miraculous-Like Delivery of Presents and Mother's Cosmic Experiences of Space Time

How can we explain Santa's unfathomable ability to deliver presents to two billion children within 24-48 hours? Relativity and quantum physics try to explain it but fall short. Let me offer one possibility that might bring us a step toward answering that (imaginary) possibility.

As explained in Mother's Agenda, the Mother and Satprem have had a variety of conversations where Mother was able to either abridge time or expand it. Let me give you two examples, which are fantasy extrapolations of interactive experiences they actually had.

-In one scenario Mother brings a spoon with food in it to her mouth, and suddenly stops cold. She is frozen in that position for 20 minutes. When She comes out of it, Satprem asks her about her experience. She answers that she literally experienced only a few seconds of time.

-In a reverse situation, Mother brings the spoon to her mouth again. Stops for a second and then resumes. When Satprem asks her what she experienced, she said she experienced a full 20 minutes of time with detailed events. In yet another incident she says several days went by for her in the one second she was frozen with the spoon as perceived by Satprem.

There are moments of space-time that are outside the bounds of understanding of relativity theory and quantum physics. They do however relate to the power of Consciousness itself. It shows us that these theories of physics are but an outer shell of something far deeper and more complex; the capacity to overcome the expansion or contraction of space-time through the experiences and capacities of someone with a supra-human consciousness.

Therefore, one suggestion is for scientists to try to rise to her level of consciousness, and then become real cosmic pioneers of space-time! Then they may be able to explain the fantasy of Santa Claus in "real" (consciousness-based) terms; not merely the mechanical, mechanistic and material!

Disassociation from Corruption Attracts in 1000 Rupee Note

There are times when you receive something or otherwise become part of something that has shady or other untoward qualities. When you come to extricate yourself from that situation - whether because you have suffered as a result of being connected to it, or have simply through higher consciousness seen the falsehood in the association, - life will greatly reward you in some fashion.

In the Indian film '1000 Rupee Note' a woman gains funds - a 1000 rupee note - through a shady, corrupt politician. When in her poverty she tries to spend it on necessities, everything goes wrong. She is even arrested by a corrupt policeman who take the money from her and spends it on food for his staff! She is not even able to purchase a picture frame for her beloved son who has recently died.

At one point, she becomes fed up and simply wants to distance herself from the entire disastrous matter and go home. When she does, and boards the bus, the man who was trying to sell her the frame with her son's picture runs up to her and gives her the frame with picture intact for free! She is startled by this development, and then sitting beside a friend who has now become her newly adopted "son," and with framed picture in hand, she becomes completely blissful, as the two circumstance give her full purpose in life. Always optimistic, she is once again happy to no end, but now with an inner richness.

As we see, extricating ourselves from falsehood in whatever way is a sure way to bring good fortune and happiness in our lives.

No Title

The invisible is more powerful than the visible.

Historical Progress and the Reversals of the False

Often for progress to occur in history it is not the person in the know that is demanded by Life to grow further, but he who is fully in the Ignorance to reverse his limiting attitude and grow into the light. That is why at one level we often need to be patient with falsehood-oriented leaders so they can emerge into some greater truth none of us would have fathomed.

The brute, anti-communist Nixon going to China to negotiate with the despised Mao to open up relations, and the ignoramus Reagan negotiating with the hated enemy, the dark Soviets to end the Cold War are two such instances of reversal of consciousness that come to mind.

No Title

As long as our consciousness is imperfect, then we can never perfect the outer life. Ending war, poverty, disease, et al - gaining a more perfect life, - cannot happen until we have made a commensurate gain in consciousness. The two go together.

No Title

Life, and all that happens to us, is the field by which we discover who we truly are.

Everything that happens to us is thus an occasion to know ourselves better.

Thus Life and our experiences in it are the means by which we rise in Consciousness, and thereby develop a more perfect, even a divine Life.

No Title

The first essential thing to live a spiritual life is to shift our consciousness from an outer orientation, to an inner, deeper poise within.

Without going inside, changing inside, becoming conscious inside, there is no progress in Life. This is true because Life evolves by Consciousness.

No Title

Our fundamental orientation is on how the world, others should change; not how we should change.

On Possession of Property

- Obsession with preservation of property leads to reactionary thinking.
- In the emerging Divine Life, property is progressively dispossessed.
- Focusing on property is a tendency of the Physical Ego.

-The poor need to possess before they can dispossess. Many others too, as they need to learn the means and methods of accomplishment.

-Auroville is a kind of experiment in social life trying to distance itself from possession of property.

No Title

The West humiliated the Russians after the end of the Cold War - keeping them at bay for decision making, expanding NATO as a threat against them, encouraging shock economics, etc. Instead of being partners, the West (and especially the USA) practiced "triumphalism" of "we won, you lost" mentality, instead of moving together as partners.

The result was Russian humiliation, and the ascent of the autocratic, undemocratic Putin who gave Russians a sense of strength. Hacking US election was another unfortunate and harmful sign of Russian desperation.

Now (as Gorbachev has recently stated) the USA and West need to reestablish equal partner relations with the Russians to create a solid basis for global stability.

No Title

The Force that is there from 1956 in the earth's atmosphere overtly had been there in buried potential ever since the creation of the earth. Those collective and individual urges that invite that Force overtly or covertly into their functioning are evolutionary in every sense of the word. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

Faith in Mother arises when we lose faith in ourselves. It is the voluntary giving up of one's faith in one's capacities that generates Faith in the Mother. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

Sri Karmayogi says he is tempted to call Mother's consciousness "spiritual technology."

No Title

Karmayogi says Mind and culture are absent in America. Her's is a society that values and has succeeded greatly in acquiring prosperity and wealth; not thought and powerful ideas. That approach worked for a while, but now she is deeply suffering the consequences.

No Title

Asians, including Indians seek to emulate USA economically, but without the unregulated financial speculation that threatened to and still threatens to bring down the world economy.

No Title

Most who have taken the Spirit, value children and family. They welcome it as central to their lives. Then there are the few who value their lack of family and children that enabled them to focus laser-like on their spiritual development.

No Title

Stupidity is inability to or unwillingness to learn lessons from the past. Eg if unregulated financial speculation led to the great crash of 2008 that way-laid economies of the world; and then after a recovery took place, the people seek to abolish all regulation once again on risky stock trades, then rational Mind has been abandoned. Stupid people, caught up in their vital blindness, would once again rule the day. And consequences once again would be infinite.

No Title

What people consider their "rational thought" is not so. It is actually their own prejudiced view. True rational thinking utilizes impartial logic and reason that arrives at Truth, while getting to the heart of the matter. It is rare indeed.

No Title

Stubbornness is unwillingness to embrace or act when the solution is right before you.

No Title

Bitterness is unwillingness to take responsibility for the conditions one finds oneself in.

No Title

Opposition to a higher position energizes it. Eg environmental degradation (global warming) deniers taking over the government in America is energizing California's commitment in the environment area - with new pollution standards, new clean products and services, new industries, high paying jobs as a result, etc.

"In a paradoxical way, it [the opposition by the global warming deniers] could speed up the efforts of leaders in the world to take climate change seriously," he said. "The shock of official congressional and presidential denial will reverberate through the world."

New Forms of Education for a New World

"Humanity confronts challenges of unprecedented scope, magnitude and intensity. The evolution of an increasingly complex, highly integrated global society necessitates the development of a more comprehensive and integrated science of society. Radical changes in education are essential for effectively addressing these challenges. Present knowledge is outdated and inadequate. The modes of learning and thinking fostered by the present system are insufficient. A radical reorientation of educational content and pedagogy is urgently needed."

-Garry Jacobs, CEO of the World Academy (WAAS), and VP of Mother's Service Society (MSS)

Power of Faith that Comes from Within

In the film 'Chariots of Fire' based on the true events involving the great British runners in the 1920s Olympics, Eric Liddell is both a superb runner and an eloquent spokesman for his Faith.

In this video clip, we see how Eric intensely speaks of the spiritual power of Faith that comes from within that mirrors a runner's intensity and will.

The speech has such power that it evokes the sunlight after a hard, uncomfortable rain. I see that moment as a powerful metaphor, as well as a response from life. It is also a reminder that we too can evoke that Power from within, from the depths of our souls - whether our faith is in Christ, Krishna, Mother, or whomever.

Power of Environmentalism to Attract

We know that higher levels of Organization, including increases in Cleanliness, Orderliness, systemization, and maximum use of resources attract unexpected positive conditions.

It turns out that Environmentalism is a GLOBAL form of higher levels of cleanliness and orderliness, and therefore its implementation will tend to attract positive conditions, including the unanticipated further wealth and progress of that community.

Power of Withdrawing from a Work Not Right for Its Time

If you raise your consciousness in one area by doing the right thing, life will tend to respond positively in another.

A man decided that he would not pursue developing the next book, site, et al, requiring a great mental effort, as it would not only tax him physically, but take him far afield from what he needed to do shorter-term.

And yet within 24 hours of doing so, a colleague, out of the blue, came up with what was essentially the heart of the knowledge and wisdom that would be required for such a work.

The man was utterly astonished (but somehow not surprised), as he saw the power of not only not initiating action (waiting on life's initiative instead), but also had the good sense and understanding that such an effort would distract him from what was key to focus on at this point in his life.

Instead someone came forward from out of nowhere and in essence provided the wisdom that would be a core part of such an effort.

No Title

In one sense Life Response is really an Occult work -- drawing out miraculous-like experiences. On the other hand, accessing and embodying the Divine reality in order to evolve and transform ourselves and life is truly a Spiritual work and experience.

No Title

We are Force without Being, causing us to be Unconscious. Therefore, we need to discover our own (Psychic) Being within, uniting it with Force, so we can truly become Conscious.

No Title

Try to go deep, rather than live on the surface, And from there call Mother. Now you are beginning to live a spiritual life; on the way to transformation and even supramentalization.

No Title

The more impatient you are with the progress, the more things get delayed.

Comment: (In such stations, putting the matter out of mind (even forgetting it) can often speed progress, as life works on your behalf.)

No Title

Superficial understanding of a matter brings wrong results from action.

What Occurs at Outset Indicates Final Outcome in Computer Consulting Incident

Life contains subtle laws, 99% of which are not known by we humans. A number of those principles revolve around our actions. We call them subtle Laws of Acts. One of the central laws is that what occurs at the outset of any circumstance, indicates the outcome. Let me give you a recent true-life example.

A man was working on a contract basis with clients. Each contract was a mini project that would generally take less than a day. His latest contract was with a gentleman who wanted improvements in his spreadsheets which were built to beat the state lottery.

When the consultant first arrived at a restaurant to meet the man, they both acknowledged that they had not brought their computers! Each thought the other would bring one. Things had thus gotten off to a rocky start. The consultant then (despite the fact that it was not really his responsibility) volunteered and went home to retrieve his laptop. But when he arrived there, his expensive eye-glasses broke in two. Already the consultant, well-versed in the subtle laws of life, including those of outcomes at the start, clearly understood what was going on.

When the consultant then returned to the restaurant and interacted with his client, he came to understand that the spreadsheet system, built to beat the lottery, was very complex. The consultant's contracts were normally for relatively simple or moderately complex projects.

As things progressed, the client grew impatient and agitated, even though he didn't have the language skills to explain the system clearly to the consultant. He just said that a programmer had previously developed it, and that he would move fast when he programmed, and all the developer would do is type a few things, and wham it would be fixed. Therefore, he expected the same of the consultant now working on the system. And yet the truth was the very opposite. It was enormously sophisticated and complex. Thus, the expectation of the client for the consultant was completely out of line with the reality of the situation.

Things then went from bad to worse. In the end, the consultant said he could go no further, as not only was the spreadsheet system too complex to easily fix, but the client wouldn't pay him for services rendered so far. The client then proceeded to ask the consultant to do additional work for him, even though he wasn't willing to pay for the work already done!

And so, the consultant was more than happy to extricate himself from the situation. As he drove home, he saw clearly the nature of the unfolding of events. It also struck him clear as day that things at the very outset did indeed indicate the final outcome. The fact that they both were without computer, forcing him to have to drive all the way home, though bringing the laptop is normally the responsibility of the client, would indicate the final disastrous outcome.

In fact, it indicated the difficulty of the steps along the way, including the impossibly difficult spreadsheet. How could the consultant quickly improve on it, when it was like a mesh of tangled wires that needed to first be unraveled? Fortunately, as he headed home he acknowledged to himself, that he had taken it all in good spirits. Knowing the subtle laws of life help enormously in that regard!

Mother's Will for Us is What Our Soul Wants

We pray to Mother asking for all sorts of things - more money, better position, better grades for our children, a bigger house or car, etc. She can give us that, but the asking only increases our Ego.

Instead we should open to Mother and indicate "Thy Will Be Done." In that way, Mother's Will, not our will is fulfilled, as She gives us precisely what She wants of us. Mother's Will protects us from our own Ignorance, of what our surface consciousness wants, and instead give us what our Soul desires, enabling our growth in consciousness.

Shedding Ego by Giving Up Opinions

The fundamental problem with Ego is that we think we are separate from everyone else. When we are around others and our opinions prevails, it is a failure from the Soul's point of view. It is only when we acknowledge that everyone else's viewpoint is correct, is there real success from the Soul's perspective. This is then a reversal of consciousness; an indicator that we are moving from the ego to the Psychic Being, the Soul.

No Title

Each time there is a Reversal of Consciousness in our own or the world's being, an instance of good or great fortune takes place - i.e. Life responds.

No Title

The central movement in our being on the way toward a Supramental Consciousness and Life is a reversal from the predominance of the Ego to the Psychic Being within.

No Title

With significant Egoistic tendencies of nations like USA, Russia, and China - India can serve as a buffer that helps create further harmony in the world.

No Title

If you don't have something good to say about someone else, keep it to yourself. Engaging in conversation about another's negative qualities tends to reinforce it in consciousness, causing that quality to persist or even increase. On the other hand, withdrawing negative comment attracts more favorable conditions for yourself relative to that individual.

Experience of Simultaneous Time

In normal life, we perceive the circumstances of the present, but have no real perception of what the future will bring, nor clearly perceive how the past has impacted the present moment.

However, when we come to the Spirit, this begins to break down. In that state we not only have an acute awareness of the unfolding of the present, but we have visions, intuitions of the future that would come to us; plus we perceive more clearly how specific elements of the past are impacting present conditions, i.e. the current moment.

Thus, in the spiritual domain - ordinarily experienced from within - past, present, and future are not separate entities but become one continuous single stream of existence, available to us in the eternal Now.

There is also another dimension of time to consider.

We are normally caught up in the moments of time. We do not feel that we are free of it. However, in the spiritual life, we can connect with a sense of timelessness, mirroring the state of the original divine Consciousness from which all things emanate.

And yet it is not just Timelessness we seek, - such as when we are separated from life through meditation as the ancient Rishis experienced in India, - but rather we experience a kind of Timelessness in the details of time. This is a progressive and evolutionary timelessness. So that when I undertake any action I feel the Infinite and Eternal behind my actions, enabling the most profound perceptions, and therefore the finest decisions that lead to the most successful actions and outcomes. In essence, I bring a higher consciousness that moves me out of the bounds of time, while deeply affecting the world.

Sri Aurobindo combined these two dimensions of time: the time of past, present, and future melded together in one unified experience, to a second dimension which is the timelessness in time that enables ultimate success in the details of life. He combines these two and calls it "Simultaneous Time" as both the oneness of past present and future, and the time of timelessness in time are both occurring simultaneously in our experience.

The spiritual individual constantly lives in this framework of time, has ultimate practical and spiritual experiences, and therefore becomes an evolutionary personality and being.

This dual experience of time is where the future of humanity is headed. Is the basis of what Sri Aurobindo calls a new human species on the way to creating a Divine Life on earth.

Comment: I am thinking of some practical examples of either aspect of Simultaneous Time:

A. Oneness of Past, Present, Future:

-Just for personal enjoyment I found and viewed a simple drawing of mine that was a picture of an unusual creature. A day later I went to see the newly-released popular sci-fi film 'Arrival' and there was that same creature in a very similar form, though I had no idea there were any creatures in the film. From the perspective of watching the film in the present moment, I could think back to viewing my drawing and see the connection.

In this way, if we are immersed in an inner consciousness, intuitions can constantly enter our being that can indicate the future, what we will experience in the future. I.e. while looking at my drawing in the present I can have a vision of seeing the creatures when I am in the theater in the future watching the film.

(BTW: It turns out that the film Arrival is actually about an alien race that live in the Oneness of Past, Present, and Future, and wish to teach that capacity to the people of earth. One woman attains that power. It also turns out that after I saw the film I thought I understood Simultaneous time that much better than before, and so that is why I wrote the above article! Every few years I try to repealing it, based on a (hopefully better) new understanding. Here's a link to discussion of Time in the film. <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=6QAujmYORLA>)

-When we engage in Past Consecration, we are altering present conditions, based on past negative influence. Yet there is also the power to reverse the negative past itself!

-Many individuals had premonitions of 9/11. One friend was setting up a convention in New York City on how to prevent security attacks in buildings when the 9/11 incident occurred. On the way to work a man tuned into his radio to learn of the attack when he exactly came to a point on the street where he had earlier had a violent stomach cramp. etc. In these cases, the present was subtly indicating negatives of the future. The three time periods were interconnected at the subtle plane, essentially indicating their Oneness. (BTW: It is for this reason that is recommended that we consecrate a negative that is occurring, so it won't repeat in the same or different form in the future.)

B. Timelessness in Time

-When I engage in a work, I am focusing on Time. But I can do that work with reference to Timelessness, which is a release into silence, into non-anticipation, into patience, etc. which allows the work to go exceedingly well. It evokes response from life. It is Timelessness in Time.

Karmayogi indicates that when we move into the depths and touch the psychic, we experience Simultaneous Time (i.e. A+B above). Synchronous, Life response life occurs when we function from that poise. I.e. Space and Time are overcome in the material world around you; eg in the work we do.

Mother's New Year Messages

"Blessed are those who take a leap towards the Future."

"This wonderful world of delight waiting at our gates for our call to come down upon earth."

No Title

A seed has within it the knowledge of how to become a tree. We have buried within us the knowledge of how to become a divine-like Supramental being.

Comment: It is because it was out of the supramental consciousness that the universe came to be, and thereby us.

Sri Aurobindo and Mother in Relation to Sri Krishna

1. It is believed by devotees that Sri Krishna was the previous incarnation of Sri Aurobindo, though there are no reports that Sri Aurobindo confirmed it.
2. Sri Aurobindo has commented that Krishna's Ras lila dance should not be viewed as immoral. It should be seen as a dance where Sri Krishna shares the delight of his soul with the souls of the gopikas who danced with him.
3. In Thoughts and Aphorisms Sri Aurobindo mentions Krishna's Gitopedesam as one of the four most important events in history for having spurred the start of devotional religion.
4. In his collected poems He mentions Krishna in many of his poems. This tempts readers to believe that Bhagawan Himself was an ardent admirer of Sri Krishna.
5. During the Alipore court proceedings, Bhagawan had an experience of the Universal divine where he saw everybody and everything as forms of Narayana who is the parent God behind Sri Krishna.
6. In her younger days before her meeting with Sri Aurobindo she used to refer to a saint that she regularly met in her dreams as Sri Krishna and identified Sri Aurobindo as that Sri Krishna.
7. It is based upon Mother's request that Krishna descended into Sri Aurobindo's body in 1926 which is celebrated as the Overmental Siddhi day.
8. When Mother was trying to supramentalise her body, she had a spiritual experience where she found that Sri Krishna was following her and even putting his arm around her shoulder.

9. In Agenda she has said that when she expressed a doubt about the various Gods and their musical instruments Sri Krishna appeared before Her along with Saraswathi and claimed that he was really using his flute while Saraswathi insisted that she played on her Veena.
10. When Mother was holding group meditations in the Ashram meditation hall, many Gods used to attend that meditation sitting on top of the pillars there and one of those was Sri Krishna. (N. Asokan, MSS)

The Divine's Communication to Humanity

The Divine has tried to Communicate with humanity many times through its messengers as well as through historical events. Whether humanity heard the message or cared for the message is not clear. Still he has done his part almost in a Nishkamya manner. Let us see some of those communications.

1. Through the appearance of Jesus he tried to tell the Jews that He is essentially a being of love and not a stern judge. His message was not received well by the Jews though others were more receptive.
2. Through the appearance of the Buddha, the Supreme tried to convey the message that a life spent fulfilling desires is a vain effort and that one should seek liberation from the hold of desires through attaining Nirvana.
3. Through the Gitaopdesam of Sri Krishna, The Divine tried to convey to humanity that nishkamya karma is the best way to do one's work in life and surrender to the Divine Will is the best way to be free from Karma.
4. Through the long period of European renaissance, He demonstrated to the World the full power of mental creativity.
5. Through the American revolution he gave a powerful call to humanity to become aware of human rights and the dignity of man.
6. Through the French Revolution He gave another call to humanity on the need for liberty, equality and fraternity and initiated a movement for the dislodging of monarchies throughout the world.
7. When the call to Freedom went out of control and allowed lawlessness to spread throughout Europe, again through the appearance of Napoleon He tried to teach humanity the need for order, discipline and authority etc.
8. Through the Russian revolution, He gave a call to the world to get rid of capitalistic exploitation and inaugurate the socialist era in human history. Unfortunately the call to socialism was not correctly implemented in the U.S.S.R resulting in the reappearance of autocracy till 1990 when Gorbachev put an end to it.
9. Through the two world wars The Divine sent a very clear message that imperialistic era in human history was nearing its end and that those trying to give it a new life deserved a good beating.
10. Through the arrival of Sri Aurobindo and The Mother the Divine has sent out a latest communication that the time has come for humanity to go beyond the mental stage and take steps to pass into the supramental stage. The spiritual ground work has been done and the results are waiting to unfold. (N. Asokan, MSS)

Spiritual Solutions Suggested for Global Problems

Though a lot of discussions are going on in Public and International Fora for solutions to global problems, only very rarely is a spiritual perspective on these problems is even considered. Spiritual solutions may sound very simple but they are effective and shorn of mental complications. Let us see some such solutions as advocated by Bhagawan Sri Aurobindo and Mother.

Problem	Spiritual Solution
----------------	---------------------------

1. Global poverty	The Productive skill of a sizable section of the world population remains substandard. They must be raised to match the level prevailing among Western Populations who are highly motivated to live a comfortable and prosperous life. Such motivation is missing among Asian and African people.
2. Terrorism and Violence	They are the result of anger felt by aggrieved people who perceive a miscarriage of justice rendered by the global community. If those miscarriages are set right, such terrorist attacks will disappear.
3. Pollution and Global warming.	Earth's capacity for absorbing man-made waste has been severely strained leading to an excess piling up of waste which appears to us as pollution. Earth must not be seen as mere earth, but as Bhooma Devi, (Mother Earth) and efforts must be taken to bring down waste generation to levels that Earth can manage with. As we human beings like to dress up in new clothes, so does Goddess Bhooma Devi also wants to wear neat dresses and appear clean.
4. Unemployment	The global economy is ill-designed to give everybody an opportunity for productive employment. If it is spiritually realized that society's productive power is infinite, it will at the same time give rise to endless employment opportunities.
5. Nuclear threat	Man functions motivated by ego which is capable of wrecking great destruction. If ego submits to the rule of the Spirit this threat will cease as the spirit is not capable of destructive functioning.
6. India versus Pakistan problem.	Hindus and Muslims must realize that they are both brothers. Such an awareness will recreate favorable circumstances for both nations to join together.
7. Israel versus Palestine problems.	What was said about Hindus and Muslims applies to Jews and Muslims as well. If they also realize their brotherly unity, they can live together as one nation.
8. Global water shortage	Rain is a sign of grace. Deficient rain suggests withdrawal of grace from humanity. If instead of rejecting grace, humanity chooses to welcome grace, rain will come in abundance and river water disputes between nations will disappear.
9. Drug addiction and alcoholism and sexual abuse of women.	People who value sensory pleasure above everything commit these wrongs. If such people realize that there are greater pleasures than mere pleasures of the body, they will reform.

10. Caste riots, race riots and religious riots.	These are crude behaviors caused by the upsurge of primitive elements in human personality. A descent of supramental grace alone can purify these tendencies and rid humanity of these destructive practices.
---	--

Process that Brings About the Supramental Divine Life on Earth

We live in Ego, Ignorance, Time, and Finite. It is because we live on the surface of life. When we move to the depths, - culminating in the Psychic Being, the evolving soul, - we shift from Ego, Ignorance, Time, and Finite to Oneness, Knowledge, Timelessness, and Infinity.

How does this happen? From the psychic, we tend to shed our preference and opinions; give up our own viewpoints, adopting others'; and are still, not reacting to the intensities of those around us. Thus, Ego breaks down, we garner more knowledge of the truths of life, and now behave and act in ways where we are in tune with Timelessness, attracting infinite-like results, overcoming limits of space and time (Infinity).

Also, from the psychic being we more readily open to the divine Mother, to Her Supramental shakti, enabling the progressive transformation of our nature and the divinization of life around us.

As a result, we become ultimate creators through that Force, mirroring the original creator (Ishwara) who used Supramental power to evolve this universe. Thus, we each become ultimate Creators in creation, bringing about a Supramental Life on earth, embodying the spiritual qualities, the Real Ideas of the divine Reality in our being and the details of life. They are Silence, Peace, Truth, Knowledge, Wisdom, Goodness, Harmony, Love, Beauty, Joy, Timelessness, and Infinity.

The journey within to the psychic, and the opening and surrendering to Her Force above is the dual process of the yoga that brings about the Supramental Divine Life on earth.

Living in the Depths and Vast Accomplishment

Living on the surface of our being - where most humans are centered, - limits our success and accomplishment. There ego, ignorance, time, and finiteness dominate.

On the other hand, as we center ourselves in a deeper poise within, we gain more power to accomplish. There we experience silence and stillness, harmony and oneness with others and life, a deep integral knowledge and wisdom, an intensity and power, the joy of life's experiences, the capacity to overcome space and time (life response/sudden good fortune) through our aspirations and actions, etc. All previous finites, limits of possibility, become infinities of accomplishment.

No Title

It seems that the only way we feel genuine sympathy for others' plight is when we deeply experience it ourselves - whether individuals, communities, or nations.

No Title

You can make the case that India has a great, rich culture because she is able to express herself in language, in art, in spirit through an astonishing array of illuminating analogies, metaphors, similes, and mythos - in order to explain life, as well as how to live it.

On the other hand, Americas is nearly the opposite, as these qualities are weakly developed, which is one reason that despite her great material capacity, military strength, and psychological complexity, it is considered by certain thinkers to be a nation lacking in real Culture.

No Title

Karmayogi has indicated that he would like devotees to take to careers in Literary Criticism, - thereby revealing the Subtle Laws of Life at work that others can learn from, - rather than becoming computer programmers, doctors, and such. (I suppose in-depth film critiquing would be included.)

Reader: Thank you. Maybe I foresaw this in the 70s itself, switching from my Physics degree to Literature for my Masters!

Response: Congratulations Krishna.

A little personal background: Once I wrote to Karmayogi asking him about what could be my future work, and he listed out in detail several lines I could pursue; one of which was Literary Criticism. I did in fact take that up in part, writing very long critiques of the film Seabiscuit, as well as the English tv series House of Elliott (30+ serial episodes).

Then there was my contribution on Pride and Prejudice that MSS themselves have developed in vast detail. Eg Karmayogi and I did a 300-page literary study together on P&P, one of his first studies on the story. Then there were my other film critiques, which were part of many other film analysis presented at the Mother's Service Society and Human Science sites. My focus in these critiques were mostly targeting key Life Response circumstance in the story, though the critiques of Seabiscuit and House of Elliott were broader.

Then of course Garry Jacobs in collaboration with Karmayogi wrote brilliant analysis of all manner of fiction and film. Just on Shakespeare alone Karmayogi and Garry collaborated on analysis to bring out stunning insight on a wide variety of the plays.

All of these not only involved Life Response analysis, but exploration of the wider "Character of Life." This is an area that the multi-dimensional spiritual genius Karmayogi has opened up for the world. His brilliant, insights into the subtle laws of life are unprecedented in world literary history; as he has had the spiritual experience to describe each one of them in vast, startling detail.

From this basis, any individual can take up literary criticism/analysis, opening up that field in ways unimagined. We all certainly encourage it!

Literature sub-site of Mother's Service Society site:

<http://www.motherservice.org/literature>

Reader: Thanks for the detailed insight. I remember reading your analysis of Pride and Prejudice. You will be glad to know my elder daughter is also a journalist and reviews films, TV series as well as graphic fiction.

No Title

Ask Mother for what She wants of you, not what you want of Her.

No Title

Intense reaction with emotion to disturbing events is not what we want; rather non-reaction in the nerves to that intensity, still allowing for the possibility for action as necessary if perceived from a state of inner calm.

The "Greatness" of Atheism

Q: If everything is Divine and there is only One Divine how to reconcile the fact that Atheist who are his creation do not believe in Him?

A: Sri Aurobindo goes even further. He says, very often the atheist is more sincere than the devotee. It is because the atheist does not know anything of spiritual qualities by himself, doesn't believe anything, that he is searching for the answers.

Atheism has done great service by having the courage to sincerely question the superstitions of religion and elsewhere. 500 years of Atheism has allowed the people to question, to ask the question - what is the truth?

So they have provided a great service by asking the people to search for knowledge instead of superstitious beliefs.

In other words, the Divine has also created Atheists so that the world can make greater progress. (paraphrase of Garry Jacobs)

Comment: A great dialogue takes place throughout the marvelous film Contact, based on a novel by scientist Carl Sagan, about man's search for extraterrestrial life throughout the cosmos. Here atheism and spiritual experience are in contradiction but move toward resolution and integration in the story. At the end, the scientist Eleanor "Ellie" Arroway who was a total skeptic and atheist has had an overwhelming journey throughout the universe that became a profound mystical experience, thereby uniting science and spirit within her.

Thus Atheism served her well on the way to discovering Truth, including a sense of cosmic awe that is a spiritual experience. She has confirmed Sri Aurobindo's viewpoint on the matter.

In this clip, Ellie expresses the emotion and faith of that intense experience after her return from her journey across the cosmos

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=l8sdx dgTMIo>

Reader: Thank you Sir.

As a coincidence, I just watched the movie today and trying to comprehend the movie. It does not matter whether one is Atheist or one who believe in the Divine. Those who are in the pursuit of Truth sincerely would be able to experience THAT one day. The Divine can be experienced but not explained by human mind.

In the movie, Dr Ellie Arroway didn't believe in God as she was a scientist on the surface. But in her depths she was in the quest for Truth. Indeed she experienced that Reality one day, but she could not able to explain or prove to anyone.

Response: Senthil, a magnificent "coincidence" (synchronicity, life response)!

Karmayogi says that life responded with the disbelief of the world audience to Ellie's outer and inner journey because she herself as a scientist disbelieved in the mystical/spiritual. It was a negative response. But then she gave a convincing speech to the world directly from the heart of her experience, which would cause some on earth to believe her, furthering the evolution. She was thus a pioneer for a certain subset of believing individuals; something like Rhonda Byrne and The Secret.

Also let us not forget that science is making a startling number of discoveries that supports the truth of the subtle undercurrents of the universe, including such principals as Entanglement that explain inner-outer correspondence of Life Response.

Thus, in many case atheist scientists are paving the way for the spiritual understanding of the underlying factors governing the Reality!

Synchronicity Involving Psychic's Office

I have been experiencing many startling synchronicities of late; perhaps one an hour. They each can be considered mini life responses.

Eg yesterday while driving with a friend, I stopped on a major road in the Los Angeles airport area, and mentioned that six months earlier I had driven a psychic and her child to the child's school. As I narrated the story to the friend as we waited at a stop light, she pointed to the right and said that we were exactly along-side the office of the psychic! I had no idea we were anywhere near her office, and had long forgotten where precisely that was! In essence, I had a psychic experience involving a psychic.

This is the type of experience I am having at least once an hour; sometimes 4 or 5 times within a single minute. Sometimes I would implore the universe "please stop, so I can concentrate elsewhere!"

It is an indicator that Supramental Life is accelerating. The Force is densifying for those who seek to open to it.

Finite and Infinite are Part of Same Reality; Turning Finite into the Infinite

Q: How to reconcile the concept that the Divine is operating in the Infinite dimension, whereas we are operating in the finite dimension?

A: The Divine is Infinite. But it is not true to say that He is operating only in the Infinite dimension.

The Divine is not only Infinite, He is One, includes Finite, Infinite and Everything. What we see as finite is the frontal appearance of the Infinite Divine. So it's our view and perspective that matters. We think that we are poor, we have an incurable disease and that's why we are limited using our senses, but the True Omnipresent Reality is only One.

The right question is how to bring forth the Infinite Divine to the finite which we experience on the surface of life? The short answer for that is to go to give up our Ego, reach the Psychic being within, and universalize ourselves by identifying others as part of our own selves.

By doing so, we would perceive not only the Truth of ourselves, but the Truth of everybody else around us which constitute the whole REALITY.

Thus, it is not necessary to leave the earth in order to realize the Infinite. We can manifest the Infinite in all finite things (that we perceive by our senses).

For example, In Pride and Prejudice, Darcy experienced Infinite Delight when Elizabeth embraced his proposal the second time. Out of that successful small proposal (which the first time failed due to his lower consciousness) came this time as infinite joy that could last a lifetime. (paraphrase of Garry Jacobs)

Solving Global Economic Challenges

Among the central economic problems in India are poverty, corruption, bureaucracy, and unpaid taxes. Among the key problems in USA are wage stagnation, skills deficit, low savings, and radical wealth distribution imbalance.

Each country's economic challenges can be accounted for this way. There are dozens of types of economic problems. Most nations will not be able to solve their problems on their own. A comprehensible regional and global approach will help greatly. Many successful associations have been formed at the top and continue to accelerate benefiting the members; while entrepreneurial efforts continue and are rapidly expanding from below. The associations among nations will continue to expand horizontally; even as their efforts integrate with entrepreneurial efforts vertically.

The key is putting the human being at the center of life; not just money; not the Ego of nations, of businesses, or anything or anyone else. Working to uplift the individual human to enable their fulfillment in life is the deepest value and goal. Cultural, psychological and spiritual integration are steps beyond.

Realizing Truth with or Without the Guru

The Guru has an important place in the spiritual tradition, but the soul is never limited by it.

The real Guru is the Inner Divine. Every Shastra can offer us something at a particular time, but the real Shastra is the Truth that we can discover inside. For example, Sri Aurobindo had Guru Lele for just only 3 days, the rest He did Himself.

There is a Truth in the Guru. It does not mean that we cannot realize Truth without outer Guru.

There is also a value in any scripture. Sri Aurobindo had himself read all the scriptures and studied them. We should not be limited by any of them. (paraphrase of Garry Jacobs)

No Title

Steve Jobs was great not because he created a successful company, but because he discovered the soul-value that "an Individual can change the world."

Being in the Becoming

The Indian tradition is to seek Moksha (liberation) in the Spirit, the Being apart from Life, whereas Sri Aurobindo advocates discovering Spirit/Being in the details of life - i.e. Being in the Becoming - thereby evolving and divinizing it.

The Divine Expresses as Transcendent, Universal, Individual; the Totality of these is the Reality, Brahman

Traditionally we call the Divine, God the "Transcendent" aspect of the Divine. However, The Transcendent is only one expression of the Divine. The Divine actually manifest three aspects, forms of itself - the Individual (ourselves), the Universal (the universe) and the Transcendent (the divine spirit).

Together these three are called "Brahman" by Sri Aurobindo. When he speaks of Brahman, He does not mean only the Transcendent. What He has said is, the Universe is Brahman and the Individual are also Brahman. They are three expressions of One Reality. The One Reality is Brahman.

Brahman is thus the All; the creator and creation; the Spirit and Life; the transcendent, the universal, and the individual. And the Divine expresses in each.

The Divine as Our True Self

Sri Aurobindo's philosophy is the Transcendent has become the universe, and then you, the individual soul. That's why He says, why do you want to worship God, when you can become God?

The Real God is not separate from us. It is our True Self. (paraphrase of Garry Jacobs)

No Title

In the Divine Life, we as individual forms manifest the Divine's Will Uniquely and Infinitely.

Reconciling Opposites through Others' Point of View; It is Supramental

Q: How can we reconcile opposites we encounter in life?

A: Opposites are reconciled based on the plane we are in.

-In the physical plane, we reconcile the opposites by conflict.

-In the vital plane, it is by competition

-In the mental plane, it is by compromise.

How then can we reconcile opposites in our own lives?

Instead of asking and asserting our Ego, we can embrace the Other Person's Viewpoint. Then the real Truth of each side can be realized.

By taking to the other person's viewpoint we move to the Supramental view where the many-sided, integral truth of things is known. It is only in the Supramental view that the Truth behind the contradictory view of the individual parties reconciled.

So the real reconciliation comes, when we want the Truth instead of our preference, our opinions, our ego, and so forth. It is when we want the Mother's Truth.

There is no reconciliation toward Truth in Ego, which only wants to be separate from everyone else and assert its own position. (paraphrase of Garry Jacobs)

Comment: It is my experience, that when we take the other person's point of view - no matter what the degree of truth or falsehood in it -- the other party or someone else suddenly starts advocating your position, even they have not been compelled to do so. It is a Life Response (sudden good fortune) reaction.

No Title

Though the Divine originates in the Transcendent, it has come to express in the universe (Universal) and in each of us (Individual).

Similarities of Films 'Contact' & 'Interstellar'; Science's Pursuit of Understanding of Simultaneous Time; and Knowing the Integral Truth of Existence

This film Contact (1997) is very much like Interstellar (2014) and both are connected in many ways. Some of the synchronous observations between the two movies are:

1. Both women, Dr Ellie (Contact) and Dr Murph (Interstellar) were individualists.
2. Both were in pursuit of Truth in the depths of their being
3. Both were very much attached to their father. The love, the affection between them was the connecting bridge that made that Reality happen.
4. Both valued and demonstrated Faith and Courage, when the whole world thought the other way or believed it was impossible.
5. We can find the sources of Truth like Simultaneous Integrality of Time in Sri Aurobindo's writing. But how to understand that if we don't experience it? Science is in the quest of pursuing that Truth to make it into Reality and thus to explain the spiritual principle via scientific method.

For example, in 'Contact,' we didn't know who had designed the space travel machine. As science and technology has evolved significantly since then, 'Interstellar' has explained it beautifully and convincingly; how that knowledge could have been transmitted to solve the space travel equations by instantaneously communicating in third dimensional time and thus solving the problem for mankind.

6. Matthew McConaughey the actor played a key role in both movies.
7. The key message of both movies I think is "The pursuit of Truth", or Sri Aurobindo's message of "Don't stop in the middle". As Garry Jacobs has explained, every tradition, every practice has a value in it, but they are not ultimate. We may follow any but should not be limited by any. We should go on till we find the Integral Truth. An Integral Truth is not a substitute or a replacement for other partial Truths, rather it will reconcile all the other Truths. (SM)

Reader: When I have seen Interstellar. I could see Sri Aurobindo explanations on Timeless Dimension with the attempt to understand Timeless Plane through graphical representation. And I never got opportunity to discuss about it around my circle until now. And the movie Contact attempted 20 years back to shed a light on us, now it's explained well with the advancement in the present technology in the movie Interstellar. It is showing that Supramental Energy is at work constantly to make us understand what SRI AUROBINDO is talking about through different medium. One should know the core Principal of SRI AUROBINDO's Vision to Connect the dots happening around us which is Immortality otherwise it stays just as another movie in our life Time.

Response: Excellent point VPB.

... and now this year we have the marvelous film Arrival, which is what started my recent thinking about Sri's Aurobindo's Simultaneous Integrality of time.

No Title

Equation for the Supramental experience of Time, based on the teachings of Sri Aurobindo and Karmayogi:

SIMULTANEOUS TIME = Past, Present, and Future in the Eternal Present + Timelessness in Time

Turning the Finite, the Small into the Infinite, the Great

It is a spiritual principle of life that the smallest thing can be an opening to the largest thing. Therefore, we should pay close attention to and perfect the small matters we encounter in order to realize its infinite potential. In other words, at any moment the Infinite can break out, emerge from the finite.

This cosmic dynamic can occur at the physical, the vital/emotional, the mental, and the spiritual levels (including Supramental by opening to the spiritual Force, the divine Mother).

In this short video, it is demonstrated at the raw physical/material level. We have seen it miraculous-like occur at the other levels as well, evoking startling life response (sudden good fortune) results - i.e. the infinite suddenly, from seemingly out of nowhere emerging from the finite.

That being the case, what small tasks, or feelings, or thoughts, or intentions, attitudes or values can you more perfectly execute or consecrate, evoking the sudden emergence of vast positive results in that area?

Keep in mind that behind all finite things is an involved, absorbed Infinite. That is because everything, including the smallest matter or thing has its origins in the Divine, which is an Infinite reality.

<https://www.facebook.com/Nassim.Haramain.official/videos/483108088547121/>

No Title

Silence Phenomenon: Refraining from expressing an opinion, - even forgetting the matter completely, - causes the idea to spread.

Even Clean Person Can Quickly Attract Great Benefits through Modest Increase in Cleanliness

We know that Higher levels of Cleanliness attracts good fortune. This is true not only for someone who is slovenly and makes the effort to become cleaner, but even for a relatively clean person who raises his level of cleanliness by say 10%.

A man decided to finally purchase a vacuum for his car, then made the effort to clean the inside, including all the rugs in the vehicle. Within 24 hours his housemate discovered that she was now fully certified to receive certain important funds from the government, where it was doubtful before, including an additional unexpected immediate cash payment. Meanwhile the man's own client who had been tardy in paying a bill now quite overdue suddenly began processing the payment.

Our efforts of cleanliness and orderliness will generally always bring good fortune - in the form of more work, more money, more resources, new opportunities, and so forth. Even the clean individual will attract such results when his threshold of cleanliness is nearly at hand.

Not Reacting to False Action of Another Takes Man to Better Locale

If you refrain from responding negatively to an error of another party, you will quickly be taken to a more positive place.

A man was entering a parking space in front of a supermarket. He clearly had the right-of-way, when suddenly another car crossed two spaces illegally and took the space that he was entering. After a slight bother, the man continued on, seeking a parking space. When he turned the corner he found a space almost exactly in front of the supermarket!

By not reacting to the false action of another, an individual was taken to an even better location.

And while this may be a relatively small event in the course of one person's day, this Life Response principle holds equally true for much more significant circumstance of your day; and even your life.

Each Day ...

Each day we are challenged by a unique set of circumstances demanding our attention, intention, knowledge, skill, effort, right attitudes, personal values, etc. Each circumstance can also be Consecrated, so we gain the full cooperation of Life, including the quick dissolution of any problem. If we follow that formula, each day will be a Marvel of astonishing perfect outcomes, vast success, and ecstatic Joy and Delight of being.

No Title

People give up their superstitions when they see the benefit. Not before.

No Title

Reality is like layers of the onion. It depends on which layer or level you want to view it from.

No Title

Infinite variation of flowers; infinite variation of people; reflecting infinite variation of the Divine in life.

New Economic Theory (NET): Reconciling the Creative Individual and the Collective

NET can resolve the incessant debate regarding the apparent contradiction between private interest and public good by reconciling them within a larger formulation of human security, welfare and well-being that takes full cognizance of the mutual interdependence between these two aspects of social reality. The creative individual is the catalyst for all social innovation, development and evolution. The development and evolution of the collective ensure the greatest possible distribution of benefits to its individual members. NET can best be founded on a conception that recognizes these two dimensions as mutually complementary rather than mutually antagonistic.

--by Garry Jacobs, from article 'Contours of New Economic Theory'

When you put together deep knowledge about a subject that intensely matters to you, charisma happens. You gain courage to share your passion, and when you do that, folks follow. (Jerry Porras)

-thanks to VPB

No Title

The beginning of love is to let those we love be perfectly themselves, and not to twist them to fit our own image. Otherwise we love only the reflection of ourselves we find in them. (Thomas Merton)

thanks to RomanceEternal on Facebook

Benefits, Limits of Materialism

Sri Aurobindo has indicated that Materialism has done a service to mankind by eradicating the superstitious beliefs which came out of individual interpretations which are only partial truths of the whole Reality.

Instead of believing such partial views, beliefs, Materialism washed away all such beliefs; indeed, it is the service to humanity as this has created the quest for the Integral Truth.

Materialism holds to the philosophy represented by science that established strict processes and methods to validate a theory to ensure whether or not it is true.

Thus, Materialism helps discipline the mind of intellectuals to think of things from many different points of view; to study other possibilities rather than quickly accepting a position and jumping to conclusions

However, it does not mean that materialists are not superstitious. Quite the contrary, the materialists are equally superstitious, if not more so.

Eg scientists are superstitious in that they tend to deny or avoid the more subtle workings of life, including the nature and reality of Spirit. Scientists are thus locked into limited perceptions of life that their methods seek to overcome.

The partial view of materialism is also the cause of attracting negative "shadows" to each of their discoveries, eg nuclear bombs to nuclear discoveries, or pollution as side effect of technology.

In the final analysis, Materialism has helped in the evolution of life on earth, but now it must be shed must be shed for the sake of Truth and Progress. (paraphrase of Garry Jacobs)

Power of Spending, Circulating Money

One great spiritual insight into the nature of Money is that the more we spend, the more we receive. On the other hand, the surface materialistic view is the opposite; that when we give something, we will have less.

Therefore, we should overcome our hesitation to spend, especially when that hesitancy originates from tightness, stinginess, and possessiveness.

That does not mean that we should waste money, eg spending lavishly to fulfill our lower desires. But rather when there is a real need, good cause, instead of possessing it (limited view), we should spend freely and happily (expansive view).

Perhaps most interesting of all is that when we spend money freely for wholesome things, letting money circulate instead of hoarding, possessing it, Life tends to quickly return the favor. She will respond with sudden good fortune, in the form of fresh supplies of money coming in from out of nowhere, new opportunities suddenly arising, etc. That too is a spiritual principle.

Money's Mission on Earth

[A question was raised of whether we really need Money in the world.]

Colleagues and I believe money is a Social power, even a Divine resource and power, that allows for progress when used properly. Its form, nature, and behavior are based on the level of trust among its holders. The greater the trust, the more subtle the form, the more it circulates and expands, and the greater its power.

Ultimately money would likely be unnecessary, especially when living in a spiritual-like environment like Auroville, where everyone is working for the same purpose - spiritual progress. A step further is no possessions.

Until then money will be used in increasing subtle forms, with increasing positive power and effect in the world.

Money has evolved from barter to a physical thing to a check to a credit card to an electronic pulse of debit or credit. It will continue to evolve in new ways presently known or unknown.

Money is now self-multiplying to enormous sums due to its increased circulation and to increase in productivity-related values in society. Currently that vast, ever-accelerating amount is just not distributed correctly. It is in the hands of dark forces among the people. This vast horde of money needs to get in the hands of everyone, not just a few.

And yet Money is now accelerating in quantity beyond belief, making vast prosperity possible for every person on earth someday. In 25 years every person in earth could in theory be a billionaire.

Spiritual pioneers will give up money for a life based on trust in the mutual exchange of goods and services. But for most of the world money still has a psychological, social, and spiritual mission.

Money in all its forms can disappear when it has fulfilled its mission in the world - to create material security and well-being in life.

No Title

The biological process of overcoming limits of the physical is to direct the Force into the cells of the body so that it no longer believes in the inevitability of pain, disease, suffering, and death. Eventually new organs and biological systems begin to take shape.

No Title

Best to refrain from trying to change an ignorant, false individual. Either the exigencies of Life will compel them to change through conflict, pain, and anguish, or it will be for another life.

No Title

Through Mother we each have inner power to shape events in the world.

No Title

Russia is trying to regain a sense of self-worth after the humiliation of the end of the Cold War, and the West's disdain for Russia's inputs in global developments since that time. Now there is a swing in the opposite direction, with Russia flexing her muscle, after being ignored and humiliated by the West. It is an inevitable movement, though it is also somewhat of an extreme one. Hopefully, Russia will gain the respect of the West as well as discover the right balance to deal with her endless problems at home and abroad. Her rapprochement with US is a welcome sign.

No Title

Wherever you over-assert, you are bound to attract and encounter opposition. Thus its best to restrain yourself as much as possible, and be humble. That way you will gain many more supporters than detractors.

No Title

Strong emotional outbursts are usually followed by sheepish, sincere apologies. It is recognition that the unbridled vital ego had briefly taken over one's consciousness. Personal/spiritual growth overcomes this and similar tendencies, as our being is more centered in the depths than the surface.

No Title

What you intensely/emotionally oppose gets energized and expands through your opposition. On the other hand, putting the matter out of mind causes it to move in your direction.
Corollary: Silence moves opposing things towards your position.

No Title

When you call to Mother to solve a problem, focus on Her, not the challenging issue at hand.

No Title

Often individuals who are wealthy have pronounced, fleshy ear lobes.

(Currently Bill Gates, Warren Buffet, Donald Trump, Michael Bloomberg, Larry Ellison come to mind.)

Reader: Interesting observation sir

Response: The Mother's lobes were large as well, as she had the infinite power at her disposal to marshal the world's wealth, though that is not the course she took.

Low human values invite disaster - sooner or later.

Little Perceived Vast Collective Developments in History

Most Central and South American of native blood don't realize that they their ancestors were Asian in origin.

Most Americans don't realize that their white ancestors in the US were responsible for the death of 25 million native peoples through violence and disease.

Most Russians are oblivious to the fact that their powerful leader Stalin had 30 million fellow countrymen shot to death during his reign.

Most Tibetans don't realize that though the Chinese brutalized them, life was forcing them to give up their occultism and other practices for something Higher. Even the Dalai Llama recognized this.

No Title

It is interesting how Great Britain was abused in WWII. Even by its friends. Karmayogi says: India stabbed Great Britain in the back in their fight against Hitler and was rewarded with Freedom. U.S.A. was unresponsive till she was attacked, and she became the superpower as a result of Britain's total sacrifice.

No Title

This moment never existed in the history of the universe. And we are here to be part of it, partake in it, enjoy it!

Human-Centered, Not GDP View of Economic Well Being of the Individual

Disposable income, level of employment, health and well-being, fair income distribution, education-based potential, etc. are measurements of the status of the Human individual in nations, and is thus a more proper measurement of well-being in society compared to GDP, whose factors can create extremely harmful imbalances and distortions for the average person even when that index is going up.

Eg in America 5% own 90% of the wealth, and huge speculative financial movements take place which can both bump up GDP, yet have an extremely adverse effect on individuals, as captured in progressive, Human- centered indexes like HEWI (Human Economic Welfare Index), developed by Garry Jacobs and Ivo Slaus, executive leaders of the World Academy of Art and Science.

'ANWL' Book & Supramental Life

The tome 'A New Way of Living' can develop into the handbook for living a Supramental Life. It explains existence from the perspective of-

- the Individual (personal & spiritual growth)
- the Universal (society's growth, the nature/character of life),
- the Transcendent (the Divine Source of all things)

Supramental Life embodies these three aspects of Reality - Individual, Universal, Transcendent - integrally, seamlessly, simultaneously.

Supramental Life is the realization of Sri Aurobindo's vision of a Divine Life on Earth.

Through our inner and outer efforts of Higher Consciousness we bring this about.

Karmayogi has explained it from every angle; in extraordinary, vast detail.

Life Response is the entrance way.

Mother's Supramental Force is the central means to make it happen.

Many dozens of inner methods bring it about.

The subtle Laws of Life will explain how everything unfolds.

The Process of Creation turns Energy into this unprecedented Reality.

This Blueprint of Tomorrow progressively manifests as Supramental Life.

No Title

To understand the overall Russia-Trump matter, one needs to go back to how the West and the US humiliated Russia after the end of the Cold War, by confronting her with NATO, by keeping her out of the loop on international matters, etc. Gorbachev said that Western "Triumphalism", instead of working as equal partners with Russia, set in motion events that led to the autocratic Putin being in power, who gives the Russian people a sense of strength and dignity, despite his brutalistic tendencies.

Trump has subconsciously connected to the reestablishment of ties with the Russians, which is a good thing, despite his own dangerous, low consciousness rhetoric.

Let us see what takes place.

Opposition and Progress

Opposition and opposites stimulate progress. ... Sri Aurobindo's idea, it seems, is that opposites are the most effective and rapid way to knead Matter so that it may intensify its manifestation...

... We begin to understand very concretely – that all those things [difficulties, opposing forces] are only goads to make the Manifestation progress and grow more intense, more perfect...

If the goads are crude, it is because the Manifestation is very crude. As it grows more and more perfect and apt to manifest something ETERNALLY PROGRESSIVE, those very crude methods will give way to more refined ones, and the world will progress without the need for such brutal oppositions.

(The Mother, from Agenda, May 15, 1963)

No Title

Evolution is the shift from power of convenience for the few to that of the collective, bringing fairness and justice to all.

(paraphrase of Nedumaran Ramakrishnan)

No Title

Sri Aurobindo sent his Energy to Churchill, enabling him to win World War II. Likewise, the Mother sent Her Force to Gorbachev enabling him to end the Cold War.

No Title

Startling fact: Of the 4 billion people around the globe without access to the internet, one-quarter of them live in India.

Reader: and they are about to come on online...

Response: Yes it is true! However, India still having very serious problems getting 750 million out of poverty.

Reader: As open source continues to gain momentum, it will enable a kind of renaissance across the globe.

No Title

My aspiration is to bring Mother and Her Power to the world. It begins with Consecration, expands through Life Response and Character of Life knowledge and experience, culminating in the realization of the Process of Creation and Accomplishment, human Transformation, and a Divine Life on earth.

No Title

The reason for intense skewed distribution of wealth in the world is lack of skills, aspiration, and wherewithal at the bottom, and human selfishness and indifference at the top. There are also untold number of causes in between.

It's a reflection of lack of Human-centered values, now dominated by Money values at the center of life.

Three Levels of Logic and Intention: Human, Life, and Divine

There is our own human logic; our view of how things should be, and how to make them come about. Above that is Life's logic and its determination, which transcends human logic.

And yet beyond that is Divine logic, which is the Ultimate determining Force of where things should be, and are truly heading.

For example, a leader may come into power and have such and such intention for his organization. That is his human logic at work. But then Life's situations and circumstance take over and overwhelm human intention, forcing it in the background.

And yet there is a higher force, Divine logic that is unfolding that transcends our intentions, as well as Life's forceful designs. And if we are in touch with that Supreme Power, then we overcome our limited human understanding, as well as the imposing positive and negatives of Life's intention, evoking ultimate conditions. We then become a Conscious Center of that Infinite consciousness, enabling its great Intention to progressively spread around the world.

Instructor Shifts Away from Separation, Attracting Wonderful Result

When you change your attitude about a person, shifting from separation to connection, fortuitous circumstance can suddenly occur, and others can blossom right before your eyes.

An instructor was having a problem with a slower student, and did not know what to do. He then thought about the matter and decided to give her some extra attention. When he did that, she quickly discovered a new feature that suddenly made her job position so much easier. It was a revelation for her, and a startling coincidence that the feature was just what she needed.

And we see that this synchronicity of events, this "Life Response" occurred because the instructor shifted his attitude from separation and distance to embracing the needs of another individual. In essence, it was a journey from division to Harmony.

No Title

Beneath all the dramatic changes in the world, as well as all conflicts and contradictions, is a further movement toward World Unity, including the prosperity and well-being of all the peoples, classes, nations, etc.

No Title

How to make Globalism work for everybody in the world is one of the great issues of our time.

Eliza and Darcy Align in Space-Time

When life response occurs, two parties move into alignment in the same space-time, place/moment. Interestingly, neither normally knows that they or the other party is doing so.

One of the most powerful example of this synchronistic dynamic can be seen in 'Pride and Prejudice.' There Eliza Bennett visits Darcy's estate when he is away on business, and realizes to her surprise that he is in fact a good man, not a prideful one as she had come to believe. Thus, an invisible attracting dynamic takes place, as he physically moves toward her - returning early to his vast estate from a business trip. This dynamic also occurs the other way around.

As a result of their complementary shifts in consciousness, they arrive in the same point in space and time. They are stunned at this development, yet are deeply happy inside, as they have secretly come to long for one another. Their relationship is thus rekindled, and they are soon married.

What has happened is that their Higher consciousness - in the form of more positive attitudes toward one another - has aligned both parties in space-time, bringing great, even ultimate reward to both.

It turns out that this dynamic is happening to each of us all the time, to a lesser or greater degree. Unfortunately, we are normally unaware of the fact. However, we can become keenly cognizant of this phenomenon, and thereby continually evoke startling positive results. It is one of the great subtle powers of human existence.

No Title

For America to continue to lead the world, it must advance beyond material and military power to the psychological and the human. Otherwise, others will take the mantle and shape global events.

No Title

What good is creating jobs in your country if it causes others in other nations to lose theirs? That is why nations need to more deeply collaborate in formulate human benefits for all. Nations acting alone create a zero-sum game, which does great harm to the world. Collaboration and integration among the peoples of the planet creates an "everyone's a winner" mentality.

No Title

Freedom is fulfilled through fairness and equality; fairness and equality through freedom.

No Title

The best way to counter a reckless leader is to practice Non-Reaction to his/her tendencies, which will Attract beneficial conditions for those involved. On the other hand, reacting will only energize his/her negative behavior.

The Force, Not Artificial Technology Can Establish True Unending Life

There is now discussion of how we can reach immortality through the power of Technology. However, there is already a "Spiritual Technology" available to us that can lead us toward unending life on earth.

If we open to the Divine Supramental Force, the programming of the cells can be altered so that it no longer believes in the inevitability of a need to decay, or to formulate into disease, or even to die. In that way, the body's cells are able to overcome its millions-year old negative program, replacing it with a New Possibility of Unending Life.

This was in fact the great effort the personality known as the Mother made to transform her physical body in order to bring about a new human species that can be immortal, or live as long as one wants.

Not technology, but the spiritual Force can create true unending life. Not artificially, but through the supramental Power that is the source of this world.

This was part of Indian seer and sage Sri Aurobindo's vision for a new humanity. Willed endless Life; the emergence of new type of human body consisting of centers of consciousness replacing current systems, organs, and all; all on the way to the establishment of a Divine Life on Earth.

Trust and Prosperity

Karmayogi says that the key to prosperity in the world is Trust. Let us think of some examples:

- We trust the banks and place our money in it.
- The bank loans out funds as it trusts its borrowers.

- We accept money credit card, and Internet pulse of credit/debit because we trust in the system.
- We trust in other parties, communities, nations, people, spurring economic development.
- We trust in the products and services we are offered by others when we embrace them.
- We trust in our government to utilize our paid taxes efficiently.
- We trust in the Spirit, and Luck comes our way.
- If we are more fully conscious, we learn to trust others, not always being skeptical, fearful, cynical, etc.
- Others?

At each point that we move toward Trust, whether psychological or spiritual, development takes place. Now as the related monetary funds circulate, even more development occurs.

Ultimate Trust arises by connecting with our Soul that is in touch with the Soul of others and the worlds institution's Essence and Being. Goodwill, energy, and increasing Wealth naturally follow suit.

No Title

When Life makes requests of you and you shun them, you are likely to fall back and suffer the consequences. If you are a spiritual devotee and this happens, it is doubly worse, as it is likely the Divine behind Life making the request. Fortunately, if you suffer as a result of not taking up the opportunity, and acknowledge it through contrition and humility, it will often come back later on in another form for you to latch onto.

No Title

Right attitude equals speed, high performance, success. Wrong attitude equals slowness, delay, imperfection, failure.

No Title

Loving your job/work tends to attract unexpected new opportunities. Tolerating it has an opposite effect.

No Title

The infinite multiplicity that the Reality divides into includes everything - including all positives and negatives. It includes infinite negative variations, so they can evolve into their corresponding positive state, enabling the Reality to become an infinitely varied Divine multiplicity.

No Title

An infinitely Divine multiplicity here on earth will progressively exceed the underlying Supreme consciousness, which has no material variation.

No Title

Life in earth will progressively exceed God, as it continues to materialize Him in infinite variation.

No Title

Forces that oppose a progressive cause tend to energize it.

No Title

Regressive forces can unknowingly become instruments of social movements, as they can unconsciously latch onto something bigger than themselves.

No Title

If you overcome your hesitation of spending on something very important, life will return the favor by filling your coffers or otherwise bringing good fortune.

No Title

When you are involved in works for Mother, you are invariably engaged in a Universal work; i.e. for the world, society, not just for one's self. That makes it more challenging, as well as more satisfying.

No Title

Often freelancers don't attract work because they really don't want to work; or earn; or both. However, as soon as their attitude shifts, work begins to pour in.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo's teachings are so utterly different from the Indian tradition that learned Indians failed to understand him. Certainly, the people around him did not.

Disciplines for Integral Yoga

[Sri Aurobindo's] Integral yoga carries with it many disciplines. Instead of blindly following them, it is worth knowing the reason behind the discipline and acting with the necessary knowledge.

1. Don't complain.

The very act of complaining energises the thing complained about. Hence the prohibition against complaining.

2. Don't drink liquor and don't smoke

Causes a big drop in consciousness level requiring a great effort to come back to normal. Hence the injunction against these two.

3. Physical relations with one's married partner

Causes tremendous loss of energy which could have been positively channeled for higher purposes.

4. Don't take initiative.

Most initiatives are ego-based and therefore end up in failure. When life takes the initiatives, then it succeeds. Hence the advice against taking initiatives.

5. Don't attend funeral rituals.

Devotees who die, don't need funeral rituals. By carrying out rituals one is only needlessly delaying the departed soul from going to the feet of the Mother. Hence the warning against attending rituals.

6. Don't make demands on people for this or that favour.

The Mother is attending to our needs all the time. Hence it is necessary to tell Her only and She will arrange. People may sanction our request or not depending on their convenience whereas Mother always grants a sincere prayer. Hence the impropriety of making demands.

7. Don't pick quarrels.

When two people are quarrelling, both are in the wrong according to Mother. Hence the devotee is asked not to quarrel.

8. Don't put your faith in money, position, people or social status.

All these won't come to our help all the time. The only sure unfailing support is Mother's grace. Hence devotees are advised to give up these undependable supports.

9. Don't be proud or vain.

Pride and vanity only help to swell up one's ego which sadhaks are supposed to give up. Why strengthen what one is supposed to give up. Hence the advice against pride and vanity.

10. Don't be tempted by lottery schemes or engage in usury.

Lottery schemes are controlled by dark forces which are inimical to devotees. Hence one is advised to keep away from lottery. For some unspecified reason the Mother is against money-lending. So one is asked to honor Mother's wishes.

11. Don't follow traditional rituals.

Traditional rituals are most lifeless and empty. By practicing them one is only committing oneself to deadening forms which are against the spirit of integral sadhana which is full of life.

12. Don't go about worshipping Gods.

The Gods are fully satisfied with their splendours and have no interest in progressing further. The aim of integral yoga is to go to supermind which is above the Gods. Why stand in awe of Gods when one wants to go higher?

13. Don't be habit bound.

The aim of integral yoga is to be always fresh and spontaneous. By acting out of habit one is only strengthening one's fixity. Therefore, one is advised against forming habits. Many people have regular waking and sleeping hours and eating hours etc. It is fine but to the extent these are habits they are against the spirit of sadhana.

14. Don't engage in violence.

Except where Divine sanctions it, violence has no place in a sadhak's life. One can achieve whatever one wants through surrender and consecration. So where is the need for violence?

15. Don't become a slave of physical comforts or of money which is man's own creation.

Slavery to comforts only strengthens one's identification with one's own body, whereas the goal of yoga is to detach oneself from one's body and be identified with one's soul. Enslavement of any kind is against the spirit of this yoga which calls for mastery over material nature. (MSS)

No Title

Unknown to each, several scientists from around the world will invent the same thing but in a different way. Same for other professions/fields and their corresponding ideas, actions, etc. It's like an invisible cosmic cloud of information that moves across the world that we pick up on, believing it to be our own, yet is universal.

Comment: In Supramental consciousness we not only can be receivers, receptacles, but also be Initiators, Originators of such cosmic thought waves in the world.

No Title

Sri Karmayogi is a constant receptacle of the Divine through has infinite-like writings, which are utterly Fresh and Creative. He is an Original Thinker and Cosmic Genius, who is in tune with, is manifesting infinite iterations, variations of the Supreme's Real Ideas, as that unprecedented knowledge just pours out of him.

Like and Dislike of One Another, and Attraction Power

We shouldn't feel dislike toward others. It should be neutralized by overcoming our wanting attitudes toward them. We can even go a step further and from within send them, broadcast our goodwill. These will attract positive conditions all around.

However, if they have dislike for us, we should first of all not react, nor should we send them goodwill, as it will only ricochet negatively back on us.

In addition, there may be some aspect of their ill-will that relates to a negative attitude on our part. In that case we should investigate and make the firm decision to overcome it. Life will respond positively to that as well.

No Title

So many are talking about getting jobs in the tech industry and such, but we still need people who understand the fundamental workings and character of Life. Literary criticism, evolutionary psychology, historical analysis based on consciousness approach, etc can aid and advance the Evolution as well; maybe more so.

No Title

The great psychological disease of the modern world: IMPATIENCE, and the negative conditions it attracts.

No Title

What the modern world requires is maximum speed in tandem with infinite patience, enabling ultimate accomplishment.

No Title

"Brexit and the election of President Trump are the symptoms of society's preference to cling to the past rather than engage with the challenge of making the most of the future." (Rob Nail, CEO of Singularity University)

No Title

Inner orientation in the Depths enables ultimate outer perception and attraction power.

For Leslie

When the book 'The Adventure of Consciousness' by Satprem fell on Garry and Leslie at Moe's bookstore in Berkeley, California in 1972, it set in motion a series of events that brought Garry and Leslie to Karmayogi, and brought myself to Garry and Leslie.

A whole world of startling events followed.

I thank her for her wonderful interactions in the early days of Mere Cie; for her marvelous, flawless transcriptions of Appa's works; of her very helpful interface between Him and myself in many communications over a decade ago; for her inspiring work at Primrose School; and most of all in the joy she expressed in her words, her actions, and her smile.

Her Journey now continues with Mother in the Great Adventure beyond.

Connecting to Universal Waves of Information

Important ideas coming into our minds are often not our own, but invisible waves of knowledge from the subtle planes of Mind that we latch onto. That's why thoughts come simultaneously to several individuals at once, or inventions occur in several places in the world simultaneously, though there has been no contact or association among them.

Observers then turn around and call such developments "coincidence," when in fact the participants are sharing Waves of Information moving through the cosmos.

No Title

We want Life to move in a straight line; in a direction we perceive is to our advantage. However, Life is Conscious and full of surprises, that are there for our personal and spiritual growth, not our convenience. Let us therefore become conscious of the things that come our way, and what purpose it serves to elevate our lives.

No Title

In an open society, treacherous leaders can spur Progress through intense reaction to their negative actions.

No Title

People who relish disasters of all sorts can quickly become victims of it in their own lives. Best to stay away from, not broadcast such circumstance, lest you attract similar conditions to your person.

America has Wasted its Wealth by Not Investing in Its People

"American international companies made millions and millions of dollars from globalization ... The question is: where did that money go? It was wasted, Ma explained.... What if they had spent part of that money on building up their infrastructure, helping white-collar and blue-collar workers? You're supposed to spend money on your own people... It's not globalization – and everything that comes along with it, like free trade and outsourcing – that's to blame for America's woes. It's the way the country's elite managed the process."

-Jack Ma (founder of Alibaba, China's largest online retailer):

No Title

Mother may not give us the complete solution at once, but instead presents it over a certain period of time in order to give us the integral fullness of circumstance.

No Title

Often when there is intense disenchantment in society, individuals of lower values, or low consciousness circumstance will seize the day. Ascendancy and effect of the Higher will only come later.

The Specter of Nuclear World War

The lucrative arms business is suddenly expanding rapidly again, even as the nations of the world are becoming increasingly belligerent toward one another, leading to the real possibility that nuclear world war could break out very soon. "It all looks as if the world is preparing for war," said Gorbachev recently. Let us therefore pray for its reversal.

(This article explains it very well.)

<https://www.thenews.com.pk/print/183086-The-spectre-of-a-war-in-the-world>

No Title

It is a burning passion in me that India should awake to her Spiritual Treasure and become prosperous soon. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

The advent of the Spirit in life makes what is rare today widespread tomorrow. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

Wherever life opens prosperity, religion goes to the background...

... Hence the remedy for terrorism lies in opening up the avenues of Economic Betterment. (Karmayogi)

No Title

In India, we have not only subtle knowledge but subtle knowledge that is spiritual. Sri Aurobindo's Force gives a further evolutionary dimension to that Spirit. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

The guarantee to work is the basis of economic security. (Karmayogi)

Dark State of the World - 2/1/2017 - and the Way Out

- Dangerous Nationalism is on the rise around the world, creating vast friction within and among nations.
- Nations are rapidly rearming and acting bellicose toward one another, quickly moving the world toward regional or global tactical or even Nuclear War.
- United States is rapidly approaching insurrection and even Civil War-like conditions.
- Extremes of wealth inequality are threatening to tear nations and communities apart.
- Global warming is accelerating, threatening the sustainability and even the continuation of the physical earth.
- "Men, countries, continents! The choice is imperative: Truth, or the abyss" said the Mother.
- Thus, Sri Aurobindo's "The Hour of God" has truly arrived. We need to shift in consciousness today for now is the opportunity to make a great advance.
- Intense spiritual Prayer and Faith is needed to overcome these rapidly emerging dark circumstance.
- Only the Force can overcome these eventualities, as it did to win WWII and ending of Cold War.
- "One man can save the world," the wise man said - which Churchill, and then later, Gorbachev accomplished.
- Global Higher consciousness, Peace, unprecedented Prosperity for all, and serious movement toward Human Unity would be the result.
- The choice is ours.
- May Higher Minds prevail; not egoistic and selfish ones, as is now the case.

No Title

For spiritual aspirants: try not to control the world. Instead let the Divine behind Life, the world control you. Results will be astonishing.

Intense Focus Attracts Related Beer Truck Instantaneously

When you intensely focused on an issue, trying to see its fine points, life will suddenly present things directly related to what you were thinking about in ways that will astound.

A man was thinking about the issue of illegal immigration; i.e. whether it is a political issue or social issue or both. The particular question was whether or not companies should allow advertising in relation to their point of view on the issue. As an example, the issue was related to a national beer company's commercials on television.

The man continues to focus his mind on the issue. He was also walking at that time. It turns out that as soon as he stopped thinking about the issue and looked up, he immediately saw a truck owned by that very same national beer company he was thinking about! In fact, he had not seen a truck related to any beer company - let alone this well-known firm - in months if not years! Yet within 30 seconds of concluding his thoughts on the issue there suddenly was a truck in front of him from that very company. It was in fact the very first vehicle he saw.

The odds of that happening are a million to one, and yet he knew that that is precisely how life responds when you focus intensely on an issue, and try to dig further into the truth of things.

It turns out that he had had this sort of "life response" experience dozens if not hundreds of times before. Each time he was reminded of the subtle and miraculous-like undercurrents of Life.

No Title

We have found that when you embrace your current situation, such as a job position - rather than shirking it and hoping to get out for something different - life soon takes you to a better situation. Thus putting full effort and positive attitude into one's current work - no matter how good or bad - quickly attracts better conditions for that person. In other words, embracing the present - rather than shunning it - guarantees a better future.

No Title

When the Divine has willed the emergence of supramental Man, no amount of human opposition can impede such emergence according to Mother. (Sri Karmayogi)

Maximizing Economic Security

Creating all the essential conditions to access and capacity to obtain remunerative employment of every citizen who seeks work is the optimal strategy for maximizing economic security for all ...

-New Economic Theory (NET) by Garry Jacobs

No Title

As you grow in consciousness, certain friends and relatives will recede from your life.

Comment: They recede because they cannot contribute to your further progress; and in certain instances may even be hostile to it.

No Title

Do you know what your Soul wants of you in this Life? If you do, you are well on your way to living an Adventure of Consciousness!

No Title

Self-Awareness is truly knowing who You are, and what You really want

No Title

A well-formed thought or note has real influencing power, whereas rough, ragged, hurried, impatient expression attracts negative unknowns.

Beyond Nature's Way of Division to Enable Progress

The more intense the division, the more integral, powerful the coming together. Eg WWII was followed by European Union; the conflict between Eliza and Darcy in Pride and Prejudice was followed by their intensive, benefit-spreading coming together.

On the other hand, Perpetual Higher Consciousness avoids the negative side, the conflictive, and goes directly to the positive outcome, rapidly turning limitation, finites, into infinite-like conditions. This will increasingly be the way of the future as we develop our consciousness to a higher level. In essence, the way of Spirit replacing the way of Nature.

No Title

If you want to attract opportunities for career success, you really have to want to work.

No Title

The material universe is the physical body of God.

The Traditions vs Sri Aurobindo's Integral View of Existence

Sri Aurobindo talks about the truths of the traditions in detail like the truths of Bhakthi Yoga, Raja Yoga, Gnana Yoga and how they can be taken further to evolve the truths of an Integrated view, which He calls "Integral Yoga."

The truth is Satchidananda is real, the Spirit is real. At the same time, the matter is real, the life is real, and the mind is real as well.

The tradition has discovered the truth of the Spirit. But it has missed the relationship between the Spirit and the world.

Sri Aurobindo's view is to build on that essence of truth and how to forge that relationship to make it conscious through the discovery and utilization of the Psychic Being (evolving soul) and Supermind (the spiritual Force and creator of the universe).

How to do it? Sri Aurobindo has given us the map, the engineering drawing, the detailed methodology for assembling the parts of the universal nature to reveal that divinity. (Paraphrase of Garry Jacobs)

Spirit vs. Soul

Q: What is the difference between Spirit and Soul?

A: Spirit is the Unmanifest Divine in the Transcendent.

Soul is the Spirit in the Universe. (Garry Jacobs)

Reader: This area I am not able to follow.

Response: You can think of Soul as spirit gathering in the heart or essence of the material world. Each of us has a Soul, as does the world and universe. Even objects have a kind of essence or Soul.

Soul is thus a gathering of spirit at the heart of the universe and each human.

Soul is also evolving, gathering new experience in a progressive movement, whether at universal, global, or individual level.

Evolution itself is the progressive movement from Nature (Prakriti) to (Purusha); from the slow and difficult way of Life to the more rapid, harmonious way of Essence/Being/Soul.

Individually it is a movement from the surface consciousness to the Depths within (culminating in soul/psychic being),

Behind Soul is the transcendent Spirit, the Divine, including Its Cosmic Intent.

Soul, including Psychic Being, is the interface between Nature/Life and Spirit; the bridge between these two realms, serving a progressive, evolutionary purpose. Eg it is where Timelessness and Time meet.

No Title

It is gratifying to me to see an American make an Indian more individualistic, and see an Indian make an American more spiritual.

No Title

While Patriotism is a generally positive love of country, originating anywhere along the political and social spectrum, Nationalism is a powerful negative force of Ego that tends to end in War.

No Title

Systemizing enables greater speed in life, as it produces simplicity of execution. It is one expression of the power of Mind to organize life.

If that is the case, then what can you systematize in your life, accelerating results, and therefore your or others' success?

No Title

Each generation tends to ignore the cultural developments of the previous one, seeking new expression. The former then fades from the scene. The latter eventually too is forgotten, as the next generation after appears.

No Title

Hopefully young Indians will take the best of America, -- freedom, individuality, entrepreneurship, intention, hard work, giving up inhibition, optimism, prosperity, et al, -- without taking the worst; the excess.

The Great Missed Opportunity and "Triumphalism"

An opportunity missed can ruin a life. When the Cold War ended the West and Russia had the opportunity to solve the world's problems. Instead the West marginalized the Russians and practiced what Gorbachev recently called "Triumphalism." i.e. America and the West's view that "you Russia lost and we the West won, so retreat from the world stage."

Since the end of the Cold War (1989) Russia was humiliated. marginalized, ignored, left out of international negotiations, and even threatened by an expanding NATO. And so in response, in order to gain self-respect, to give them a sense of strength the Russian people have chosen an undemocratic autocrat in Putin.

When we miss a golden opportunity, life can respond, setting loose great negative forces in the world.

No Title

Physically controlling terrorism is a good thing. The more countries cooperate to end the scourge, the better. However, to END terrorism, we must help create prosperity in the nations where they originate. When people acquire material goods and move up the ladder of prosperity, they are far less likely to take to extreme fundamentalism, nationalism, and the like. Let's create a global solution to resolve this problem economically.

Guiding Our Way Forward

When I notice the ongoing success of a function, such as a computer app, and the decision I had to make among several choices to pick the right one months or years ago, it is clear that a Higher Power was at work making just the right choice as it related to yet-to/be future events and circumstance.

Or to put it another way, Mother knew the future when we were deciding in the present, Guiding our way forward.

Unconsciousness and Response of Katrina

When you have an insistent false view of reality, sooner or later Life will respond with negative circumstance, though not necessarily in the form you might expect.

George Bush Jr as president of the US did not believe in global warming, coming from an oil family; the fuel that dramatically accelerates it.

You might think life would then respond with a corresponding, mirror-image vast disaster related to oil. Instead Mother Nature gave the country Hurricane Katrina that put a Southern city under water and killed more people than 9/11.

Katrina came under his watch as a negative response to his beliefs about global warming, coming to his beloved South. It was as if She said, "well you don't believe in a truth in one form; well I'll give it back in another!"

It was no coincidence it happened on his watch at that time. Or to put it another way: "Life is Conscious; even if we are not."

Comment: If we examine our own situation, we will see how we too attract negative conditions due to our limited opinions, attitudes, behaviors, and beliefs. However if we identify and reverse them, negative conditions will evaporate, or positive new ones will suddenly appear. This holds true for any Collective as well, such as a family, a business, a community, or nation.

Difficulty of Sri Aurobindo's Path

In Sri Aurobindo's integral yoga, you are constantly stretched to the limit. Life constantly takes you to extremes, with your capacity to surrender the only way forward. Moreover it's only when you surpass that limitation, that roadblock of life, that sticky point, that you have a further breakthrough into the light, making a yogic advance; rarely before.

Thus, Integral Yoga is not for the faint of heart; even those spiritually disposed.

No wonder Sri Karmayogi does not actively recommend the Integral Yoga to anybody, with its vast extremes and difficulties to negotiate; except in those cases where an individual intensely aspires to do so. And even then he cautions.

And yet it is the most powerful spiritual approach that exists on earth to reach the Supramental heights and an integral, spiritual transformation.

Strategies to Increase Harmony, Romance

Here are a number of strategies to create greater Harmony in your significant relationship, that will also have the effect of increasing the level of Romance between you.

- Focus on giving, not taking
- Shift from your wants to theirs
- Don't blame them for anything
- Take responsibility instead of blaming
- Don't complain
- Don't over-react to their bother. Be still.
- Listen first, talk after
- Take their point of view, giving up yours
- Don't irritate them
- Don't tease them
- Acknowledge their good points
- Acknowledge what they have done well
- Don't harbor resentments
- Give up any ill-will
- Catch, halt any bitterness
- Don't try to change them
- Don't point out their deficiencies
- Don't try to dominate them
- Halt all Ego movements in relation to them
- Speak more softly, respectfully
- Treat them like royalty
- Feel and express gratitude
- Re-balance your life, priorities for them
- Engage in enjoyable things together
- Give up expectations of them
- Let them be free
- Always ask them what they want
- Make yourself peaceful inside
- Feel your soul, as well as theirs

Pick out several harmonic, romance-inducing strategies and begin implementing them today!

No Title

Deregulated financial speculation is the greatest threat to the world economy today. It is the hydrogen bomb of global economics and social stability.

One Week's Work in One Day

Work is done by several people in several fashions. People working in a sluggish organisation visiting alert companies often find that there the work is done quicker. What they do in a month gets done here in a day or two. They are all appreciation. It stops there. NO ATTEMPT IS MADE TO KNOW HOW THE WORK WAS DONE QUICKLY. You may have seen uneducated people, or less educated persons trying to write down the monthly accounts. They take a whole day. While doing it, they perspire. It is a work of half an hour to an educated person. A graduate in an office was trying to draft a reply to a routine letter of ten sentences. He wrote it down ten times and spent a full hour on it. Obviously, he had no skill and language was a bother. Still, IS IT HUMANLY POSSIBLE TO DO SEVEN DAYS OF WORK IN ONE DAY?

The value of a programme can be best appreciated by the CEOs of companies. They attend seminars paying a fee of Rs. 25,000/-. There are two parts in the scheme. The first is elimination of waste, alertness, memory, presence of mind, unruffled temper, organised work, etc. One who is unorganised and sluggish will double his efficiency by doing all these. Maybe he will treble it. That is the smaller part of it. A Dutch girl was in tears when she was given a 50-hour work in a 40-hour week. A colleague consoled her and tried to help her. The first thing he asked her was to write down all the work and post the shortest time it needed next to it. She did that. It totaled 27 hours. She was all smiles. OUR WORK IS NOT TIME CONSUMING. OUR WAY OF DOING IT IS.

CEO's are efficient. They do not commit such lapses. The second part of the programme is to upgrade the idea behind the organisation of work. Here we can only mention the principle, not offer a detailed explanation accompanied by a striking example. The secret lies in the fact that we LOVE what we do as we are efficient in doing it. Instead of attending to the details, one should take care of its essence. CAPACITY TO MOVE AWAY FROM THE LOVE OF DETAILS TO THE SIGNIFICANCE OF THE ESSENCE ENABLES ONE TO DO IN ONE DAY THE WORK OF SEVEN DAYS. The basic contradiction lies in the fact that efficiency is attention to details. It is possible for us to take care of the essence without losing hold of the details. Learning to do it requires the discussion of an actual work. No question need be raised as to its possibility, as the people above us are already doing it. It is not a knotty problem, but a subtle tangle one needs to undo with penetration. (Karmayogi)

Making Extra Effort Attracts Next Level of Training Materials

Willing to go the extra mile to clarify that which is confusing can suddenly open up opportunities that take us to the next level.

A man engaged in learning a complex and comprehensive software application made an extra effort to discover how one particular obscure feature worked. After pushing himself to find information about it, discovering it, and then making the extra effort to learn it, he suddenly discovered an even higher level of training course available for the application. In fact, it was just what he needed at that point in his self-training efforts!

When we make an intense, persevering effort - i.e. going the extra mile, - it has the power to attract new opportunities and benefits that are precisely what we need at that point in our development. It almost seems like magic, yet it is how life works when perceived from the subtle level.

No Title

Consciously going the extra mile is preferable to doing so unconsciously on occasion.

Comment: With this approach Response from Life will be much more consistent, cumulatively taking one to peaks of success.

No Title

Saturation at the current level attracts conditions that take you to the next level.

Spirit and Soul According to Sri Aurobindo

For us, Spirit is soul or God, a power that presides over human destiny, as we take government to be a power in the capital.

Spirit, to Sri Aurobindo is the experience of Sat [the original Being] while it tries to objectify. This experience renders Sat into substance. It is out of that substance the world is made.

It is difficult for us to distinguish between Spirit, Soul and Being. He explains that Spirit in the transcendent plane is before Time was created and Soul is the Spirit in the Cosmos and Universe. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

We can inwardly call to the Spirit to bring about Truth in the world for a great cause, dissolving the opposition. It is an ultimate expression of the method of "Silent Will."

No Title

One expression of Supramental Life is everything dovetailing, synchronizing exactly at the right moment among the parties and circumstance, while being fully conscious of all movements involved at each point along the way.

No Title

When you look up, it is not just God's sky that you see, but God in the form of Sky.

No Title

In normal life, we enjoy repeating our personal habits over and over. In higher consciousness, Spiritual Life we enjoy doing things differently each time as circumstances and intuition dictate. Freshness, energy, and joy invariably follow; not to mention unexpected, positive response from Life.

No Title

The world has been evolving very fast in consciousness in the several decades, and has shown that it ready to go to an even greater stage of cooperation. However, there are dark forces that do not want that to happen. They (dark forces at the subtle plane) want to take a stand against such Progress. And so circumstance take shape that work out the movement to the next stage.

Interestingly, even the progressive forces have their dark spots. And so Nature creates circumstances for the dark forces to reveal their falsehood so that they are overcome, while the progressive forces are purified and further enlightened.

Betrayal is Ignorance of our inner limitation that attracts from life the betraying outer result.

On Betrayal

Here are some powerful insights on the subject of Betrayal, by Karmayogi.

- Betrayal seeks you as you still cherish loyalty.

- Betrayal in friendship only expresses that the growth cycle of the relationship is completed.

- If you betray one who lovingly trusted you, it comes back to you.

- When a dearly loved friend betrays you, the heart gets crushed and knowledge is born. What gets crushed is faith in falsehood and what is born is Truth. Whose heart was false? His who betrayed or the one that was crushed? Only falsehood gets crushed. Truth never gets that turn.

- One avoids betrayal if he has the knowledge not to depend on them. (Karmayogi)

Comment: Perhaps we can say that when a work is done from a higher consciousness, there is loyalty that is without attachment, preventing or not being bothered by betrayal.

Ignorance of the Visual Sense

People see what is in front of them, and then jump to completely erroneous conclusions. It is because we live on the surface, and the discriminatory mind is held at bay, while the sense mind (visual, auditory) is in the fore.

An individual saw a photo of a potential skyscraper. He then asserted that it was a shame that there were no other pictures showing the front side. In fact, he assumed they were never created. In fact, there were in existence those very photos, which had recently been presented to the audience interested in the topic.

By being dominated by what he saw before him through the visual sense, his mind was not thinking logically, which would enable him to consider other possibilities. Sense mind is like that. It is more often than not, limited, exclusionary, and illogical. It is our front facing visual vehicle of Ignorance in the world. And it leads us to wrong conclusions many times in the course of our day. Just observe yourself in the course of your day, and you will be astonished how often the sense mind comes to the wrong conclusions.

Special Capacities of Mother's Grace

We know Mother's Grace is supramental and that therefore it is something special and different from the grace of overmental Gods. Let us see some sample demonstrations.

1. Grace can cancel all our past wrong doings and give us a new start in life. For example, if a debtor sincerely regrets his past debt-ridden life, She can help clear all his debts and make him start his life afresh.
 2. Grace always gives more than what is asked for. For example, if a devotee prays for a 1000 Rupees annual Increment in salary, grace can offer him 2000 or more.
 3. Grace can bring about new opportunities in the horizon of the devotee's life which never existed before in his life. For example, a normal business man will get export opportunities which he never expected.
 4. Grace can solve long-standing problems in no time leaving the devotee totally surprised. For example, a husband and wife who were separated for 10 years will find themselves together after the wife starts offering harmony flowers to Mother for just a week.
 5. Grace can bring about new laws to favour a devotee. For example, a devotee hesitated to opt for VRS as she feared loss of income. Government announced that those opting for VRS will be paid lump sum for all remaining service years.
 6. Grace can turn trouble into a benefit for a devotee. A devotee's agricultural property was constantly invaded by cows for grazing which spoiled his crops. Complaints to the village chieftain proved useless. This prompted the devotee to raise Bamboo along his farm's borders. Now the bamboo fencing is providing an impenetrable protection for the whole of his property making cattle invasion an impossibility.
 7. Grace can make a remote distant possibility in the future an immediate present reality. For example, a devotee hoped to expand his business to 500 crores by the end of his life which meant in his 80s. Surprisingly he reached that level in the next 10 years.
 8. Grace can help retrieve lost valuables. For example, a devotee lady lost her passport and the government refused to give her a new passport demanding that the lost passport be returned. She voiced a prayer and the same day an employee of a travel agency came to her house saying that she had left her passport in their office 3 months ago when she came to book some flight tickets.
 9. Grace can help devotees crippled by disease to recover enough to do work like every other normal person. For example, a lady proved unfit to do domestic work for which she was hired due to circulatory problem. But her living in a devotee's house cured her complaint and she worked for another 30 years before she was advised to take rest.
 10. Grace can make a failure pave the way for a bigger success. A devotee failed in his IAS entrance exams. Later on he wrote bank exam and passed and was posted as a Bank Manager.
- Special Capacities of Mother's Grace

We know Mother's Grace is supramental and that therefore it is something special and different from the grace of overmental Gods. Let us see some sample demonstrations.

1. Grace can cancel all our past wrong doings and give us a new start in life. For example, if a debtor sincerely regrets his past debt-ridden life, She can help clear all his debts and make him start his life afresh.
2. Grace always gives more than what is asked for. For example, if a devotee prays for a 1000 Rupees annual Increment in salary, grace can offer him 2000 or more.
3. Grace can bring about new opportunities in the horizon of the devotee's life which never existed before in his life. For example, a normal business man will get export opportunities which he never expected.
4. Grace can solve long-standing problems in no time leaving the devotee totally surprised. For example, a husband and wife who were separated for 10 years will find themselves together after the wife starts offering harmony flowers to Mother for just a week.
5. Grace can bring about new laws to favour a devotee. For example, a devotee hesitated to opt for VRS as she feared loss of income. Government announced that those opting for VRS will be paid lump sum for all remaining service years.
6. Grace can turn trouble into a benefit for a devotee. A devotee's agricultural property was constantly invaded by cows for grazing which spoiled his crops. Complaints to the village chieftain proved useless. This prompted the devotee to raise Bamboo along his farm's borders. Now the bamboo fencing is providing an impenetrable protection for the whole of his property making cattle invasion an impossibility.
7. Grace can make a remote distant possibility in the future an immediate present reality. For example, a devotee hoped to expand his business to 500 crores by the end of his life which meant in his 80s. Surprisingly he reached that level in the next 10 years.
8. Grace can help retrieve lost valuables. For example, a devotee lady lost her passport and the government refused to give her a new passport demanding that the lost passport be returned. She voiced a prayer and the same day an employee of a travel agency came to her house saying that she had left her passport in their office 3 months ago when she came to book some flight tickets.
9. Grace can help devotees crippled by disease to recover enough to do work like every other normal person. For example, a lady proved unfit to do domestic work for which she was hired due to circulatory problem. But her living in a devotee's house cured her complaint and she worked for another 30 years before she was advised to take rest.
10. Grace can make a failure pave the way for a bigger success. A devotee failed in his IAS entrance exams. Later on he wrote bank exam and passed and was posted as a Bank Manager. (N. Asokan, MSS)

No Title

When you see how everything fits together in your life, nothing can ever seriously disturb you.

Various Ways Increased Harmony Elevates Life

Sri Aurobindo said that all problems of life are problems of Harmony. Thus if we address the lack of harmony, we can solve any and all the problems of life. Eg-

- greater Harmony solves the problems that exist among nations
- greater Harmony bridges the gap and solves problems that exist among government, the private sector, and the people
- greater Harmony solve the problems that exist between individuals
- greater Harmony resolves problems that exist within collectives; whether within a nation state, the locality, community, an institution, a business, a family
- greater Harmony amongst the different parts of our being – physical, vital emotional, mental, and spiritual - eliminates all problems we counter, and attracts the greatest positive possibilities

- greater harmony between our values and beliefs, with our behavior and actions resolves problems and attracts ultimate success
- greater Harmony between what your promise and what you deliver will garner the cooperation of life.
- greater integration and Harmony among the field of Life - science, technology, sociology, psychology, etc. - enables deeper insight for each of them
- greater Harmony between Spirit and Life rapidly evolves the latter.
- greater Harmony between the needs of the individual and that of any collective elevates both.
- others?

No Title

... to rest and enjoy ourselves, now it is not the time for that. We are here to prepare the way for the new creation. (Mother, from Agenda)

Life Moving towards You Succeeds

Whatever comes to you of its own accord, its own initiative, that you embrace, tends to succeed; whereas what you initiate tends to succeed far less often. It is because the former has the sanction of Life, even the Divine; whereas the latter only has your sanction.

Shedding Dishonesty Attracts

Sri Karmayogi says Dishonesty is India's greatest failure. Not merely politicians and officials, but the common man as well.

It is also a proven subtle law of existence that shifting from Dishonesty to Honesty attracts sudden good fortune from out of nowhere. This is where India can dramatically accelerate its development.

Each citizen should therefore examine his attitudes and behavior, and block out Dishonesty, substituting Truth of thought, feeling, and expression, which will cause Life to present golden opportunities, rocketing him to the top. It will seem like a miracle!

--

"Dishonesty is to act without honesty. It is used to describe a lack of probity, cheating, lying or being deliberately deceptive or a lack in integrity, knavishness, perfidiousity, corruption or treacherousness." Wikipedia

No Title

It's easy to be critical of others, but it's much more difficult to be Non-critical. The latter takes true conscious restraint. And yet practicing it will create better relations with others, while attracting the sudden onset of positive conditions. Thus, being non-critical is a spiritual virtue; a sign of a higher consciousness personality.

Intimacy and Intensity of Love In 'The Notebook'

(SM)

In the film 'The Notebook,' Noah and Allie were attracted to one another, and they spent their summer holiday moments together, and life was like heaven on earth.

It was a time where there was no influence on them from mental considerations, family or society. They loved each other intensely, and their moments were filled with joy, freedom and love.

In one such moment, Noah expressed his dream of buying an abandoned house. Allie then expressed how she would like it to be furnished, and how she would like to spend their life in it as a family. Noah then promised Allie that he would do so in the future. It was a dream that came from the depths of their Being.

In the meantime, they were forced to separate due to her parents' influence. As a result, their love and dream then moved into the depths of their being, as they were moved about by the surface happenings of their lives.

We have seen that Initiatives originating in Life (as opposed to our own efforts), and the synchronous, serendipitous moments we experience are the guiding lights that show us where we should focus our energies, which in turn can ultimately lead us to what we are destined to experience.

When Noah got back from the war, his father gifted him the abandoned house, which was in essence an initiative of Life. And when he looked at the home, the first thought that came to him was of Allie. So he decided to renovate the house and then began working on it.

In the meantime, he discovered that Allie was in a relationship with another guy (Lon). Though he felt disappointed, he did not react to it and instead focused on completing the house as intended (thus practicing "Silent Will"). Indeed, he did so, completed the house which came out beautifully.

At the same time, Allie got engaged, and was about to marry Lon. At this very intense moment, she happened to see the picture of Noah with the completed house in a newspaper. It was Life's initiative once again.

It led her to meet up with him up, and she realized how she was so much more free and cheerful than in the past, where she was happy, but really just content within social limitations. They finally got married and lived together till the end.

In our life, how many life initiatives and synchronous moments do we notice? And do we think about it seriously, and pursue it accordingly?

Before Noah and Allie were reunited, both were in a relationship with other people. If they were destined to marry each other, why did life introduce other people in their lives which caused unnecessary pain and? This pattern can be seen in many movies - like "Serendipity", "Sleepless in Seattle;" and also in many relationships. There is no easy or general answer as each case will be different.

However, what I thought of was this: each soul is here to learn particular lessons and go through certain experiences. The purpose is not only to gain a knowledge, but to give certain experiences to other souls, and through their interaction those other souls would grow as well in that journey. Probably that was the case for the various partners in this film.

In real life, we are not aware of our soul's purpose. Could we progress in our life without going through such unnecessary interactions, thus avoiding such painful shifts? Perhaps so, provided we were very conscious about what's happening within us, around us, life's synchronous moments and so forth.

[Issues addressed: intensity/depth of love; Life's Initiatives Succeed, Silent Will, Power of Intention, Necessity of Life Experiences to Grow, Soul's experience]

No Title

We can live an ordinary life like everyone else or we can commit to an extraordinary existence as envisioned by Sri Aurobindo and the Mother. It is that great decision that awaits us. What then will you do?

No Title

In a general and absolute way, difficulties are ALWAYS graces. And due to ... (how can I put it?) human weakness they fail to be helpful. Difficulties are ALWAYS graces. I have been on earth for quite a while this time and always – always, always, always, without a single exception – I have seen in the end that difficulties are nothing but graces. I can neither feel nor see things otherwise because it has been my experience all my life. I might be upset at first and say, "How come, I am full of goodwill, yet difficulties keep piling up...." But afterwards, I could have simply given myself a slap: "Silly you! It's just to bring more perfection to your character and the work!" There.

(Mother, from Agenda, April 4, 1972)

Que Ta volonté soit faite [let Your will be done] – WHATEVER it is.

Voila. That's my position. (The Mother)

On Higher Consciousness Governance

One can govern without taking sides. That is the mistake of all the governments; they reduce their capacity tremendously. But beyond the mind, there is a higher and deeper consciousness – they would find a Consciousness in which one can make use of all the capacities. It is a question of the consciousness being broad enough, so that each capacity can be put in its place in order to make a general harmony.

(The Mother, from Agenda January 20, 1973, spoken to the Dalai Lama, who was sick of politics, its divisiveness, and therefore uninterested in governing Tibet one day again in future.)

Life's Initiatives vs Our Own Intention

Q: You indicated that Life's Initiatives succeed, whereas our own initiatives succeed less. But don't our dreams, our intentions also bring about success?

A: Intention, Aspiration surely moves one toward a goal. It does not however guarantee success in the desired area, as what Life wants of you may supersede your intentions. My own experience has been that almost every success I have had come when something or someone came to me, offering an opportunity. When I initiated strictly on my own, without any outer influence, there was limited or short-term success.

Of course, our subconscious and Soul being aspires too, but unlike the surface personality and its intention, the Soul is fully in sync with Life's, the Divine's initiative coming to you. In a fully conscious individual, one's Intention and Life's influence and initiative become one.

Eg Steve Jobs did not change the world simply out of his own intention, as there was already a computer revolution developing. He caught the wave and built on it. On the other hand, he was also in touch with his True Individuality, his Soul purpose, which sent him in the right direction, attracted the right things and thereby altered the technological history of the world.

Thus, if one's Aspiration is deep, Life will tend to conspire in your favor. And yet, even then, Life, the Divine may have different plans for you!

No Title

If you call to the Universe for it to bring something significant to you, -- i.e. what IT wants and intends for you, (not what you want), -- and you have faith and are patient, Life will seek you out with golden opportunities. It is the real Secret behind 'The Secret.'

No Title

Self-giving is the path to transcending ego and universalizing the consciousness so we truly live for the Divine in others, the world and beyond, rather than our own personal advancement. (Garry Jacobs, MSS)

No Title

The more we advance on the way, the more the need of a divine Presence becomes indispensable – imperative and indispensable. (The Mother, Agenda, February 21, 1973)

Our Purpose: To Have an Individual and Global Consciousness Together, Merged

I have a sort of impression of knowing the why of the creation.

It was to realize the phenomenon of a consciousness which would have at once an individual consciousness – the individual consciousness we have naturally – and a consciousness of the whole, a consciousness (how to put it?) ... it could be called global.

But both consciousnesses merge into something ... which we have yet to find. A consciousness at once individual and total.

And all the work is to merge the two consciousnesses in a consciousness which is both at once. That is the next realization. (The Mother, Agenda, October 30, 1971)

No Title

What people call "Luck" is the onset of unexpected, sudden good fortune from the field of Life due to shifts in one's consciousness to the positive.

No Title

Dark/asuric titanic forces can galvanize, deepen, make more aware and conscious the forces of Light.

No Title

Personal initiatives are increasingly becoming painful; while responding to Life's initiatives, to Her's becomes pleasurable when acted upon.

Reader: Why increasingly?

Response: The more conscious you become, the more resistance when you initiate on your own, as you become (in one sense) even more out of tune with life

No Title

We make quick, fast, inaccurate judgments about others because we live on the surface. And yet from a deeper poise within, we tend to reflect more on the situation before making blanket statements about others. Patient there, we inquire, we contemplate, we learn, and are therefore more likely to be in touch with the truer Truth of things.

No Title

A positive or negative experience suddenly coming can indicate not just one thing but several, or even a dozen simultaneously. It is another indicator that Life/Nature always moves on several fronts simultaneously, which is Its great Efficiency.

No Title

-Moving away from the habitual activity that gives satisfaction and identity helps you open to what is trying to come.

-Give up habits that bring satisfaction and identity, so the descending Grace will enter without pain and the corresponding opportunities flooding in will be realized.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo came to tell the world the beauty of the future to come... He came to give – not a hope: a certitude of the splendor towards which the world is moving. (The Mother, from Agenda November 27, 1971)

No Title

Greater than the folly of men is the Light and Strength and Force of the Divine Mother.

Tyranny and Love

-Tyranny is lack of means of expression of intense love.

-Tyranny is intensity of love ill delivered.

The victim of tyranny when he penetrates it and reaches the truth inside can surrender to it if he wants to transform tyranny into Love. Surrender is the alchemy that transforms cruelty into Love. (Karmayogi)

No Title

A capable man who is strict will become a tyrant. (Karmayogi paraphrase)

No Title

Tyranny is cruel, unreasonable, or arbitrary use of power or control. Thus, a tyrant is one who expresses these qualities to the detriment of others.

Higher consciousness shifts one from the ego-orientation of Nationalism to the harmonic, human-centered state of Internationalism. It is a shift in focus from me to us. From preoccupation and strict assertion of my land first, to that of the needs of all on Earth.

The Future Is for Fairness, Not for Tyranny

Man was physical at the dawn of civilisation. The physically strong man became the ruler. He was not elected or selected. He foisted himself on those who were weak. People worshipped his strength. The original meaning of the word tyrant was leader. That was so in Greece, where democracy was born. Today man is not so physical or even vital. Mind has emerged in action, if not in mastery. Cruelty is frowned upon. (Karmayogi)

No Title

Higher consciousness shifts one from the ego-orientation of Nationalism to the harmonic, human-centered state of Internationalism. It is a shift in focus from me to us. From preoccupation and strict assertion of my land first, to that of the needs of all on Earth.

No Title

The future is not for the national collective, but for the Individual. Democracy, socialism, Individuality and Spirituality will rule the future. (Karmayogi)

No Title

European Union can become even stronger when member nations abandon their self-absorption with their own concerns to that of the needs of all members. It is a movement from national ego to greater collaboration, integration, and harmony. Its success can then serve as a model for the whole of humanity to follow in its progressive movement toward Human Unity.

No Title

Each significant disaster that arises opens up vast opportunities for unprecedented positive change.

Comment: This disaster opens up possibilities for dramatically improving the infrastructure throughout the United States, which can be a great boon for the county:

<http://fortune.com/2017/02/18/oroville-dam-california-flood/>

The Future and Spirit

The Future is not for rituals and ceremonies. It is not for religion or religious worship. The Future is for the Spirit. (Sri Karmayogi)

Avoiding Life's Negative Repetition

Each small negative event usually indicates another one to come; often one much greater. Therefore, one should consecrate the small negative immediately after its occurrence to prevent the bigger one from coming later on. After all, life's Acts tends to repeat. Through consecration we overcome that tendency, avoiding future failure and pain.

In Depths Intuitions are Revealed

As soon as you move to a deeper consciousness, intuitions of what needs to be known, what is necessary to do next, etc. suddenly present themselves in your mind, thereby avoiding pitfalls and problems.

No Title

Turning off your mind when it is not necessary is a wonderful thing to do; with marvelous benefit.

From Nation-state to Individuality and Internationalism

We are gradually moving away from the pre-eminence of the nation state. It is happening from two directions. From below, through the increasing empowerment of the Individual; and from above through various formations of international collaboration, on the way to global unity.

Comment: Over 75 years ago this is what Sri Aurobindo suggested would occur in his society-oriented books such Ideal of Human Unity, the Human Cycle, etc.

On Mother's Birthday

21st February is the day the Divine - Shakti - presented herself in a physical form to the world. SHE has declared that SHE is a force in action. Mother played that role to the Power of Sri Aurobindo. He said that His powers would have remained with Him if Mother had not arrived. Mother is eternal. She has always been there and always will be there. (P.V. Sankar)

No Title

On the surface, the conflicts and contradictions we have with others get amplified; while in the depths they are assuaged and harmonized.

Two Words

In the spring of 1976 Garry Jacobs said to me the two most important words of my life just before I went out selling that day for the first time for his fledgling import company in California, Mere Cie. He simply said: "Remember Mother." As a result of those words, my life would never be the same.

Ego and Life Flow

As soon as you add your ego to the Flow, things quickly move out of sync.

Detachment and Speed

Attachment to and expectation of potential future outcomes makes time go slow; often painfully so. However, when we are detached and not expecting - i.e. in the Right Flow - life moves fast, and successfully so.

Assumptions: Fact Checking Our Lives

Assumptions are the bedrock of our mental existence. We go forth in Life assuming certain things to be true, and our decisions then follow.

However, if we were to examine our assumptions against the true truth of things, we might be in for a shock how often we assumed wrong.

Eg one man seeking to sell his books abroad assumed that most Indians spoke English as a second language, when in fact only 10% do.

Such assumptions can also relate to great historical events. Eg Nehru, the first Indian prime minister assumed the Chinese would cooperate over border matters and instead invaded India. Likewise, Gandhi his mentor assumed that peaceful non-violence would bring about

Indian independence without violence, when it actually elicited the opposite with millions dead, plus partition of future nuclear enemies.

It is always helpful to consider the truth of our assumptions. I recall Karmayogi imploring me to check the historical facts whenever I made factual statements in my books and articles. When I went back and fact checked certain specifics in Wikipedia et al, I discovered holes in several of my assumptions. Sometimes I was taken aback, but in the end I was happy to discover the real truth of things.

How many things we assume to be true, but are not. It is one of the great ways we express our Ignorance in life.

All fields of life have their assumptions. Science's worldview assumes that the material reality alone is real, with other dimensions of existence questionable. Here the assumption in essence denies or ignores the subtle and spiritual. How many limited or false assumptions are there in other fields of life, in the institutions we partake in, and all?

Carefully examining the assumptions around us can purify and uplift a work. It can also help us understand a great work. Eg in studying Sri Aurobindo's metaphysical epic, the Life Divine, it might be worth listing out some of the assumptions he makes about reality. That way others can more readily understand his worldview, and thus the dense words and arguments in his great work.

Likewise, we can examine our own worldview and fact check our own assumptions. Maybe years ago, we had an experience in a certain direction and now assume that all such matters must turn out the same way. It can be a dangerous assumption for ourselves and others.

Or maybe we were raised with a certain philosophy in business or economics and we hold onto it doggedly, regardless of the reality Life is presenting.

In such ways, our assumptions are often riddled with falsehood and error. It happens in regards to money, to romance, to every aspect of our lives.

Fact checking the truth requires an open and discriminating mind. It is thus one great means of continuous personal and spiritual growth.

Comment: (response PVS)

Thanks to Roy Posner for this veritable post. My understanding from what Roy has stated is that we must not stop short of our assumptions but must go into the Truth of the matter.

Assumption, I feel, is a very powerful tool that our ego employs to keep all our senses under the cloud of ignorance. On a louder thinking, I felt the 'assumption' is the engine of our day to day activities and thus keeps us perpetually completely immersed in ignorance. It is very amusing to note that the foundation for all top management tools like Forecasting, budgeting, Strategic Planning, Balanced Score Card, Bench marking etc. is full and full assumptions.

Mother says The Truth cannot be expressed in mental terms. The Truth cannot be formulated, it cannot be defined - it is to be lived. The Truth is something living, moving, expressing itself at each second, and it is one way of approaching the Supreme.

Kalidasa has referred to the extraordinary capacity of swan 'separating milk from water' in the Abhijnanasakuntalam drama. Can we be like Swans separating Truth from assumption?

One way, I feel is by Ātma-vichāra, by looking at any thought other than our primal thought 'I', which is the domain of Rishis.

The other easiest way for us is to perpetually refer our thoughts to MOTHER and be guided by HER dictum. In other words, we have to replace assumption with consecration that will ultimately make our whole Life their Yoga. Again, easily said than done.

Post Serendipity

When posts appear exactly when people need them, even though the author has no knowledge of what those individuals are going through, it's a sign of a rising Unity consciousness; otherwise known as "Supramental."

Detachment Attracts Startling Outcome

When you detach yourself from your position in a debate with another, startling outcomes can come about, including the complete reversal of the other individual's point of view

Eg one person shifted from defending his position to utterly forgetting about it, and an hour later the other individual told him that she had never received his point of view in the first place through the Internet, and now that she mysteriously did, she completely sympathized with the man's earlier point of view!

Blame to Inner Responsibility

A rising consciousness is indicated by a shift from placing blame on externals to taking Inner Responsibility for conditions.

Acceleration of Humanity's Progress

Human progress is accelerating; not just materially or technologically, but in knowledge and understanding, and even psychologically.

Though not occurring evenly, in some area the change is approaching the exponential.

Humanity has evolved in the last 20 years as much as the last 100, the recent 10 in what it took in the previous 40, etc.

If human nature evolves concurrent to those other rapid changes, then a New Age will truly begin. Short of that it will likely be a ragged, yet still with a dynamic movement forward.

Also, those Spiritually connected, who are fully open to the evolutionary change can increasingly serve as guides into this New Unknown.

Reader: I was reading about this a few minutes back. If the universe were a year old, then it would have begun on January 1st at 00:00:00:00.

The Solar System would have formed on the 1st of September, and by the 23rd, the first life would have evolved. Non-avian dinosaurs would have lived between the 26th and 31st of December, and the lineage of humans and chimpanzees would have diverged on December 31st at 20:00.

Humans would have evolved at 23:52, and put a person on the Moon by 23:59:59:54. <http://www.thestargarden.co.uk/Timeline.html>

Response: Yes, scientist and author Carl Sagan pointed this out in the Cosmos TV series several decades ago. Thus, the trend line of our current and future, ever-accelerating, exponential evolution would become an ever-decreasing micro-infinitesimal.

I would add one more entry to the extensive, mainly-material timeline: Supramental Consciousness and Power descends on earth in 1956, altering and enhancing inner power over Life.

No Title

The more complete your faith, sincerity and surrender, the more will grace and protection be with you. (Sri Aurobindo)

Great Blow as Grace

Grace does not work according to human demands or conceptions. It has its own law and way. How can it? Very often what seems to be a great blow or calamity at the present moment may appear to be a great blessing after ten years and people say that their real life began after that. (The Mother)

The Experience of the Divine Consciousness

Disciple: What will happen if one realizes the divine consciousness?

Sri Aurobindo: First thing, you will become calm, quiet; secondly, there will be the feeling of strength, I mean the presence of a Force. Thirdly, the sense of the Infinite will be felt, you will feel yourself as the Infinite. Fourthly, something will be always there behind which will be able to govern the nature. Also, the sense of Eternity and of yourself as Immortal. Even though the body dies you know you are immortal. Also, there are many things more. For example, freedom from everything even from the world. You realize the Transcendental and the Universal consciousness.

On Destiny

Destiny is not a thing fixed. It is just a complex of forces which can be changed. (Sri Aurobindo)

Silence and Intuition

Disciple: How to get the intuition? By calmness of mind?

Sri Aurobindo: Calmness is not enough. Mind must be silent.

No Title

People here are epitomes of the world. Each one represents a type of humanity and if one type is conquered that means a great victory for the work. (Sri Aurobindo)

Comment: We can identify one special type each of us represents (in terms of a deficiency). If we overcome it, it will vibrate out and likewise change something corresponding throughout the world. Thus, we are truly Universal beings (not just individual) when we shift our consciousness this way.

For example, a mental, spiritually oblivious tech can perceive the true underlying subtle laws which will not give him great power, but eg evoke the sudden arrival of a consciousness movement among scientist, or mathematicians, et all. Similarly, an uninvolved mother, a strict parent, a lazy worker, etc. can evoke some corresponding development in society, such as a new material benefit coming to many or a new law passed.

The question to ask yourself then is what "impossibility" do I represent? A man of advanced consciousness, yet who is heavily in debt? A great thinker who is also impatient with others ignore it? Etc. etc.

Once you figure it out and then shift the deficiency to the positive, it can vibrate out and change the world correspondingly.

Connecting with the Psychic Being

Disciple: How to gain control of psychic control (evolving soul)?

Sri Aurobindo: By constant remembrance, consecration of ourselves to the Divine, rejection of all that stands in the way of the psychic influence. Generally, it is the vital that stands in the way with its desires and demands. And once the psychic opens it shows at every step what is to be done.

Creating Goodwill Inside

Disciple: how to see good in everybody, how to love all and have good-will for all.

Sri Aurobindo: One has to start with the idea of good-will for all; to consecrate oneself to the Divine, try to see God in others, have a psychic good-will and in oneself reject all vital and mental impulses, and on that basis proceed towards the realization

No Title

Each time you gleefully describe a past negative event like a natural disaster or a man-made one, you evoke the conditions for it to happen again.

Power of Intuition in a Sped-Up World

With the world speeding up, the normal mind, our thinking mentality is increasingly unable to keep up. Instead a Spiritual Mind needs to begin to replace it, including an Intuitive capacity where knowledge enters the mind without thought from out of nowhere, with just the right solution or information needed.

That way the knowledge and truth required is able to keep up with the vast change accelerating around us. In fact, it even puts us ahead of the game.

There is also a way to facilitate this process: Allowing the mind to fall Silent as often as possible tends to evoke these miraculous-like Intuitive results.

No Title

We witness the dissolution of marriage as an institution, but fail to see the emergence of companies, schools, offices - institutions - replacing the role of the family. Organisations tend to replace the family as the basic social unit, thus allowing the social evolution to rise to greater heights. (Karmayogi)

On Socialism

-[Spread of social benefits is Socialism.]

-The aim of all socialism is to distribute prosperity over the entire population.

-Distribution of profits will eventually lead to a kind of socialism.

-Socialism [has] succeeded all over the world clandestinely through capitalism.

-[Capitalism is embracing and implementing the values and benefits of socialism.]

-USSR [through its initial values] gave socialism to the entire world. [despite itself being a police state through state socialism]

-[Socialism is spreading around the world through capitalism, without police state of state socialism.]

-USSR at one stroke awakened all the European states and USA to the stark reality of Socialism and made the lives of the workers all over the capitalist countries better off than in USSR.

-[The world does not appreciate that Russia before, during, and after the Revolution brought socialism and its benefits to the world.]

-Technology is trying to deliver man the social goal of socialism/communism

-Capitalism was compelled to work for socialism more successfully than USSR by a process no one ever contemplated as Silent Will.

(Karmayogi, with additions in brackets)

On Speed

--Speed is a movement of Time. All activities occur in the plane of Time. If the speed of the movement is increased, it affects all others. Hence progress is assured.

--Speed is the elimination of any gap in movement.

--Events in the physical plane move at the speed of objects – Slowest. In the vital plane the speed is of the events – as fast as events move. In the mental plane thought moves, not acts.

Life moves by the mental plane as fast as thought can move the events and acts. In the spiritual plane action is instantaneous. --In the supramental plane acts are raised to Marvel and are made instantaneous.

--When the outer becomes inner, speed rises phenomenally.

--The speed of consciousness enables the basket of fruit to become an endless source of supply of fruits. ... As God has created the world through that Process, Mind is creating an endless supply of fruits by its increasing Speed.

--When we are functioning in time (the successive process of time) our learning or unlearning should take an enormous time. When we are in the Timeless, their speed is enormous.

--Life and yoga are the same in their type of process; only their speed is different.

--Before you think and formulate the thought, the impulse of the vital makes several moves. Life outside also moves many times. Here we see the speed of life far greater than the mind's thinking.

--The more we shift from reliance on the physical methods, the more we rely on the power of mind through technology and organization, the greater the speed of the results.

--Realisation of the place of SPEED in creation by the mind may be enough to abolish violence in one's mind.

A knowledge of the process of creation will inform him of the value and meaning of SPEED, a movement in Time.

One reaches an inner calm that is a reservoir of creative energy in the world when he understands the role of Speed in Time.

-The speed of ascent is the speed of Time. The speed of descent is that of the Timeless. Their meeting gives the ascent the speed of descent.

--The value of money rises or increases with its speed of movement.

(Karmayogi, extracted from various sources)

No Title

Mother saw the Mantra of Life in Sanskrit, Einstein saw the formula of the Universal energy, Srinivasa Ramanujam received theorems from those planes. That is by intuition. (Karmayogi)

On Artificial Intelligence

Artificial Intelligence (AI) and artificial common sense are attempts to mentalise Matter in the computer.

Technology essentially devises a material pattern that lends itself to being a silent instrumentation for the mental process.

Opening and closing a ball pen by pressing the bottom is made possible by a spring and a bend in the wire.

Sri Aurobindo speaks of consciousness buried in Matter. Upanishad says, "HE sleeps not in those who sleep."

In this sense, the project of Artificial Intelligence gains in evolutionary significance. (Karmayogi)

Reader: Sir can you throw more light on this....

Response: If we learn how to perceive the subtle truths of life, we can incorporate it into the AI software, dramatically aiding the world. Hence its evolutionary significance.

Also, just the fact that you are seeking that subtlety - i.e. the truths of the Character of Life - is a yogic like effort at the level of Mind, also an evolutionary development.

Garry Jacobs' 530-page novel 'The Book' is in one sense an exposition of this possibility.

No Title

Surrender, is the Conscious Act of Forgetting, all the layers of our Personality, so that MOTHER takes it up. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

Internet in cyber space is creating unity that is missing on earth. Its contributions are overcoming Time by speed, overcoming ego by making possessiveness impossible, free service that eliminates profit, global reach by electronics. (Karmayogi)

Cosmic Coincidence Over LaLa Land

Close by to my home is Signal Hill. When you venture to the top of it - around 500 feet - you can see a vast expanse of the Los Angeles Basin. From that vantage point on a path at the top of the hill you can pan from the coast all the way across the heart of LA to Orange County, with the huge, snow-capped San Gabriel mountains as a backdrop. You can even see the skyline of downtown in front of the mountains, as well as the Hollywood sign just a bit to the left.

Yesterday I did my usual daily walk on Signal Hill - this time in the mist, as the end of a rain storm had passed through. As I parked my car to get out, I noticed a huge rainbow in the sky. I also noticed that it was beginning to fade, so I somewhat hurriedly walked around the bend to get a better view and hopefully a photo with my smartphone. When I arrived there, I saw the rainbow right over downtown and the Hollywood sign area.

As I continued to walk in that direction, I thought that this was a very significant occurrence. For one, I never saw a rainbow from Signal Hill, and second its location was astonishingly specific. Then I remembered that the Academy Awards were to occur that night, and so I felt strongly that the lovely occurrence of the rainbow was related to that somehow. Several hours later I mentioned that possibility to my friend, though she looked at me in slight bewilderment.

I did not watch the Oscars that night, but when I woke the next morning and learned that they had mistakenly switched the Best Picture award, creating the greatest confusion in Oscar history, I knew that my experience of the rainbow over the Hollywood sign was a prophetic gesture of Nature, indicating what was to come.

It was doubly interesting as the confused movie was called "LaLa Land," a backhanded reference to the derisive nickname for the Southern California metropolis which I was overlooking from the hill.

In addition, I knew that the confusion of presenting the wrong winner at the Oscars was endemic of the entire vibration that has been occurring in America over the last few months, as a president exhibiting tyrannical-like behavior has been confusing Truth with Falsehood in an almost unending fashion. The atmosphere of the country is so rife with nervousness, confusion, and vindictive falsehood that it spreads to the nation's most famous entertainment ceremony. Even on a normally happy occasion such as this, truth and falsehood, fact and fiction were royally confused.

No Title

The individual that people will deride and make fun of will often rise up to lead an entire new movement for the community or the world.

No Title

Youngsters with normal, average souls tend to live on the surface of life, and are preoccupied with the mundane, the material, and the superficial; while youth with ripe souls tend to stand back and examine life from a certain distance, perceiving in their own way the ignorance and folly of others.

No Title

We see the enormous rise of socialistic benefits - not state socialism - engulfing Europe over the last several decades; and increasingly descending on America as well.

Socialistic Benefits in Capitalism

Here are examples of Socialistic benefits that have emerged through Capitalism:

- Right to unionize
- 40-hour workweek
- Paid overtime
- Paid vacation
- Workman's Compensation

- Unemployment Insurance
- Paid pregnancy leave
- Concern for worker's safety
- Management eliciting employee feedback
- Employees ability to buy shares in the company
- Employees right to own the company
- Consumer protection laws
- Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection
- Court/legal protection
- Provision of protection, including police force, fire, garbage, military
- Public-funded roads, bridges, transit systems, etc.
- Public funded schools, libraries, postal service, etc.
- Municipal, state, federal parks, zoos, etc.
- Socialized Health care
- Food and drug oversight
- Disease control prevention
- (to be continued)

Comment: Here is a more complete list for USA in particular:

<http://www.dailykos.com/.../-75-Ways-Socialism-Has...>

No Title

What ultimately determines success in Life is one's own Self and Individuality, and thereby one's Purpose and Being. The deeper one is lodged in Self, the greater the potential released.

The Mother talks about Total Surrender

"You see, in the present condition of the world, circumstances are always difficult. The whole world is in a condition of strife, conflict between the forces of truth and light wanting to manifest and the opposition of all that doesn't want to change which represent in the past what is fixed, hardened and refuses to go.

Naturally, each individual feels his own difficulties and is faced by the same obstacles. There is only one way for you. It is a total, complete and unconditional surrender.

What I mean by that is giving up not only of one's actions, work, ambitions, but also of all one's feelings, in the sense that all what you do, all what you are, is exclusively for the Divine. So, you feel above the human surrounding reactions. Not only above them but protected from them by the wall of the Divine's Grace.

Once you have no more desires, no more attachments, once you have given up all necessity of receiving a reward from the human beings whoever they are and knowing that the only reward that is worth getting is that one that comes from the Supreme. And that never fails.

Once you give up the attachment of all the exterior beings and things, you at once feel in your heart this presence, this force, this grace, that is always with you. And there is no other remedy. It's the only remedy for everybody without exception.

All those who suffer, it's the same thing that has to be said. All suffering is the sign that the surrender is not total. Then, when you feel in you a 'bang' like that, instead of saying, 'Oh this one is bad', or 'This circumstance is difficult', you say, 'My surrender is not perfect'. And then you feel the grace that helps you and leads you and you go on.

And one day you emerge in that peace that nothing can trouble. You answer to all the contrary forces, the contrary movements – the attacks, the misunderstandings, the bad wills – with the same smile that comes from full confidence in the Divine's Grace. And that is the only way out, there is none else.

This world is a world of conflict, suffering, difficulties, and strains. It is made of it. It has not yet changed. It will take some time before changing and for each one there is a possibility of getting out. If you lean back on the presence of the Supreme Grace, that is the only way out."
(Mother)

No Title

Supermind, Mother's Force quickly resets reality in your favor.

No Title

In Supramental Life, all is done for you, as a result of your conscious or subconscious evocation of the Force. In one sense, all you have to do is "show up", and enjoy the startling benefits.

Surrendering to the Mother and Her Force is in one sense the relatively "easy" part. Transformation of our being at all planes, culminating in the physical, then follows, which is challenging in the extreme. 99% of us have not come even close to the first part, let alone the Integral Yoga that follows.

Power of Mother's Force, Good-Will to Attract Good Fortune

"As both my husband and I are employed, my son was taken care of by my sister-in-law and her husband. He was given more affection and pacified by both my sister-in-law and her husband all the time. They felt no one should raise their voice and scold my son.

After my sister in-law's husband's demise, my son came under my control and we shifted from Erode to Chennai. Previously my son was matriculating and enrolled in school, though his English was poor. When he had returned to Chennai, he was put under CBSC BOARD to study. I was shocked to see my son's academic performance; i.e. his marks. He scored very low.

I regularly spent some time with him in his studies, sitting with him. I then realized that he did not have the capacity and willingness to study.

It is Karmayogi who introduced MOTHER in my life through the article "Idhuvarai balikaadha praarthana ini balikkum" With reference to Appa's books, I understood the power of Sri Aurobindo and Mother.

With sincere prayers to Mother, my son was able to get through in his 10th public exam; and also he was able to score even a little higher in his 12th.

Finally, he was able to climb up the ladder with Mother's Force acting on him and scored 75% (First class) in his degree. After a while much to our surprise, he secured his favorite job position in ZEALOUS SERVICES as a quality analyst and customer support executive.

Yesterday with reference to your guidance, I sent Good-Will to my brother, and as a result my son to our surprise again completed his certificate course in Talley and got an 'A' Grade."
(R)

No Title

The ultimate form of activity originates in Conscious passivity.

Comment: It is the yogic inner poise that attracts results infinite-like.

No Title

Life is constantly throwing new challenges at us. The question is whether or not we embrace them in a positive way. If we do, we tend to shoot up; if not, we are liable to take the slippery slope downward.

Tips to Extend One's Youthful Years

It is generally known that Mother devotees look much younger than their age warrants, the secret being the Mother's consciousness that resides within them. The Mother herself has said that youth has more to do with one's attitudes and mind-set than with one's body. Let us therefore see what tips are available to extend one's youthfulness.

1. Exercise your body well and eat moderately. That is neither overeat nor eat below your requirement.
2. Engage yourself productively for at least 6 to 8 hours per day If not more. Please don't stop working simply because you are officially retired. Please continue working so long as your body permits.
3. Please avoid bad habits like drinking, smoking, overeating and taking drugs etc. At the same time avoid wasting time by idling.
4. Always keep an optimistic outlook on your life and fill your imagination with rosy pictures of what you are going to achieve in future. These may range from becoming a millionaire, a big business magnate, a V.I.P politician and a notable author, artist and a sports person etc. What matters is that such a rosy picture must fire you with a big ambition to achieve whatever the goal may be.
5. Always seek challenging circumstances that draw out your best efforts. Set goals that most others would find difficult to achieve. For example, if you are a humble clerk in some government office, set the goal of becoming the secretary of the department before you reach the age of 50. If you are a businessperson, set the goal of earning in millions and finding your name in the Fortune 500 of your country.
6. Please don't let yourself be plagued by anxiety, fear, worry and doubt. All of these wreak great damage on one's psychological health and bring about premature ageing, as well as a haggard appearance.
7. Please learn the art of staying cheerful all the time. Learn to look at the defeats and failure you face as a normal part of the ups and downs in one's life and keep up the feeling that you will overcome the setback in your life.
8. Exercise your creative powers freely and think of innovative ways to come up in your life. Nothing gives more refreshing energy than the joy of discovering one more innovative approach in one's life.
9. Please keep your surroundings clean. Please follow punctuality and implement other values in your life such as honesty, harmony, productivity and ensure that there is a definite plan and goal to your life.
10. The Divine consciousness is ever fresh and ever creative. So try to forge an inner link with the divine consciousness and thereby connect oneself with the fountain head of youthfulness.

(N. Asokan, MSS)

Reader: I would also add consecration of speech and food...both are manifestations of the Life Force itself, so consecration of the same is consecration of Life Force.

No Title

Life is constantly moving towards Goals we do not perceive. Perceiving our goals in terms of Goals Life seeks to manifest is to Universalize.

No Title

Embracing the New fills our life with dynamism.

Russian interference in the American election is a negative life response to the US and the West ignoring, keeping at arm's length Russia after the end of the Cold War.

Values of Human-Centered Economics

Current [Economic] theories value growth, money, markets, systems and rules. Human-centered economics should be based on values of freedom, dignity, security, welfare, well-being, sustainability and evolution. (Garry Jacobs, CEO World Academy)

Individual as Catalyst for Progress

The individual as leader, pioneer, inventor, artist and original thinker is the catalyst for all social innovation, creativity & evolution. (Garry Jacobs, CEO World Academy)

How Society Evolves

Society evolves by increasing levels of consciousness and organization directed in pursuit of universal values of freedom, human dignity, equality, interrelationship, innovation, creativity and individuality. (Garry Jacobs, CEO World Academy)

No Title

Technology and the Internet are the means by which Mind subconsciously has paved the way for the spreading of the Spirit.

Faith in the Face of the Challenging New

When something new comes up that is a dramatic change from the ordinary, the physical consciousness ordinarily rises up in opposition. It does not like change, as it wishes to repeat the same thing in an habitual manner.

However, that is just the occasion to offer the matter to the Higher Consciousness, to the Divine Mother in a gesture of Faith in Her Power to help you navigate the challenge. That then becomes a nexus point, a reversal of consciousness in which we shift from ordinary Life to Divine Life.

No Title

Long-term, Loyalty is not engendered by asking or demanding it from others, but by involving them in decisions where they are fully respected.

No Title

As the mind grows subtler, one is increasingly able to probe the depths of Truth.

Being True to Himself Attracts Loving Partner

When you break away from a partner (romantic, business, other) of a lower consciousness, who is moving in the direction opposite of your own, a person of higher caliber tends to quickly arrive on the scene to fill the void, and then some.

A man was engaged to a woman who was becoming increasingly materialistic at a time he himself was making breakthroughs in his level of awareness. The more he progressed, the greater the discord with his partner.

Then one day, he could take it no longer, and broke off the engagement. Immediately a sweet, lovely woman completely in tune with his new view of the world appeared on the scene, adoring the man for what he was.

By being true to himself and his newfound awareness, by being strong and doing what was necessary, he attracted the true love of his life.

No Title

In a positive atmosphere, an action reflecting a higher consciousness will attract a corresponding positive response from life. In a negative environment, the response is more likely to be muted or negated.

Reader: I think only 'silent will' can be a solution for transforming a "negative environment"... although anything 'positive' is hard to do in an environment full of negation... But if one happens to be in a so-called "negative environment", then perhaps only 'silent will' can help. ...What do you think about this Roy?

Response: I would say that taking an action in a negative environment is always best consecrated. Our actions should also be kept under the hat to not draw attention to it; so yes Silence or Silent can be helpful under such conditions.

Key to overcoming a negative environment (whether or not one is trying to accomplish something) are not reacting to its intensity in any way, and if serious enough, engaging in hourly Consecration to offer it to the Divine Force.

Spiritual Recommendations for Business Enterprises

Business is mostly run these days in a very commercial manner with profit being the main motive and values given only a negligible importance. However, Spiritual ideas can definitely have a big impact on business if the business community receives them well. Let us therefore see a sample list.

1. Values are the power engines of any business. So, any business that implements values is sure to succeed.
2. Materials respond very well to positive attention paid to them. Therefore, good care of the premises, good maintenance of the production facilities and proper care of the products traded will ensure the enterprise a much longer life than expected.
3. No business is fully perfect at any point of time. There is always infinite scope for improving the operations of the company. So one must always look for scope for improvement in maintenance, production, sales and stocks and accounting etc.
4. The employees of any company are a real asset to the company. The more the company takes good care of them, the more it will prosper. Coke company has a policy of wishing its distributors be prosperous first before the company receives any money. Such a policy has brought great prosperity to that company.
5. The company must keep itself fully aligned with the tastes and requirements of the market and must not allow itself to get deviated. Chrysler car company allowed its car designs to be way out of touch with customer preference and as a result suffered huge losses.
6. Lack of orders and idle workers and machines is always a sign that the company is defective in certain key areas. An inner correction there is sure to bring about an outer response.
7. Funds shortage is a sure sign that values and activities inimical to prosperity are being practiced in the company. If those malpractices are removed, prosperity is sure to return to the company.
8. One must make sure that harmony prevails at all key interfaces of the company such as that between management and workers, company and its customers, company and suppliers and company and government etc. If such an harmony is assured, the company will fly like a rocket and when this harmony is disturbed it will go slow like a bullock cart.
9. According to Divine Mother, the best way to earn more money is to spend more. Therefore the company can spend liberally in modernising its machinery, in the upkeep of its premises and in paying its employees.
10. It is tempting to avoid paying income tax. It is usually seen as a short route to maximize profits. But experience has clearly shown that only those companies that pay proper taxes flourish in the long run. (N. Asokan, MSS)

(comment by PVS)

Asokan Sir has crisply presented the invaluable spiritual principles for any business in 10 points. Thanks.

"Spirituality in Business" is a subject most earnestly discussed, researched, deliberated and applied worldwide. There is a continuous effort by Corporates to institutionalize indispensable spiritual principles in the organizational culture.

Khalil Gibran says "Work is Love made visible"

More and more people want to bring a greater sense of meaning and purpose into their work life. They want their work to reflect their personal mission in life. Companies are finding the most effective way to bring spiritual values into the workplace is to clarify the company's vision and mission, and to align it with a higher purpose and deeper commitment to service to both customers and community.

The simple steps required to develop a spiritual organization are very easy to implement. They include:

Shared vision.

--High level of individual and organizational integrity.

--Culture that values service, excellence, dedication, contact with the customer and action over personal advancement and personal gain.

--Cooperation, communication, and community.

--Supportive environment for the individual's growth

--Culture that supports personal growth.

Spirituality is an experience that there is something more to life than just our narrow, ego-oriented view of it. When the Managers develop the spiritual side of their life, develop a quality of lightness, appreciation and humor. They bring a sense of optimism to life, even in the face of problems. They don't take themselves too seriously. They are fully alive, and they radiate this aliveness to others.

Most of the top-ranking Business Consultancy firms are using spiritual approaches for the betterment of their clients.

Sri Aurobindo's revelation to the world is "All Life is Yoga". Running a business or managing a business is also part and parcel of our life. Applying Sri Aurobindo's creative spiritual principles to the business, any organization can seamlessly become a "Living Organisation". Pujya Appa's prescription for any business is that "balance the five components" first and growth will follow.

Accepting Loss of Prestigious High School Position Attracts It Back to Student

This happened way back in 1997 when I was studying in 12th grade (High School) in Chidambaram. I was 16 years old then. In our school, there was a practice every year on Teacher's Day that a high school final-year student would become the "Chief Guest" for the Teacher's day function at school. It is one of the prestigious moments for a student, who will distribute prizes to the teachers and preside over the function.

I've always been fascinated by the Chief Guest role and wished that I would become one during my final year. Every year I used to think so and then forgot about it.

During my final year, my class teacher adopted a new method of selecting a student's name out of a lot - which were written on pieces of paper - who would then become the Chief Guest for that year's celebrations. Honestly, I hoped that my name would be drawn; but unfortunately, it did not go to me, but to a friend who used to sit next to me in the class. I felt sad that my name was not drawn, but never felt anything about the friend who got the role.

And yet very soon after. I changed my perspective and felt happy about the outcome, and congratulated her with a full heart. In fact, I gave her some tips on how to present herself when she presided the function at the podium. And so, I forgot my wish and then went home without any expectations, jealousy, frustrations, etc.

The next day when I arrived at the class, there was a discussion going on among some of the students with our class teacher. I went ahead and sat in my seat. My friend who was selected the day before for the Chief Guest role then came over and told me that she is not ready to accept the role as she was feeling nervous. I was surprised to hear this, and told her to remember the tips I had given her previously. But she was not ready.

By then our class teacher asked me to come over to her location. As soon as I reached there, she told the students that Tharani (me) would be the right person for the Chief Guest role, that she had decided so, and then asked the students what they thought about this. She asked: Is this good to you all students? Everyone unanimously said yes and congratulated me. I was shocked and surprised. I never thought things would turn out this way. I was standing there silently.

Before I could say yes, my teacher decided that I would be Chief Guest, and so asked me to get ready. She then left the class for prayer. I was startled. I couldn't believe in anything. It was completely Mother's Grace.

On reflection, I also realized that because I gave up my attachment to winning the role and accepted the situation as is, the position of Chief Guest miraculously came back to me. That is the power of changing a negative attitude.

(RT)

Queen Victoria's Newfound Openness and the Ride of a Lifetime

When you give up your restrictive view and open to the wider field of possibilities, life can bring you great benefit, often exceeding what logically seemed possible.

In the British TV series Victoria (2016), based on true events, the young Queen of England, has begun to settle into her role, with the support of her young German husband, Prince Albert. However, Albert often feels confined by his role and by the fixed habits of the royalty that surrounds him, and therefore ventures out to explore various possibilities, something his wife, the Queen of England, has mixed feelings about.

In the meantime, the Queen is caught in the middle of the usual squabbling between the two political parties of Great Britain.

One day, Prince Albert goes out to meet Sir Robert, the leader of the opposition party, to ride on a new invention – the Railroad Train. The Queen is not too happy with this as she sees Albert acting too independently, and besides the man he is with is of the party that the Queen is not well disposed to.

When Prince Albert returns, in a fit of anger she gives him a piece of his mind. And yet the next morning, she ventures out and watches the sunrise and has a mystical-like experience of openness and clarity. As a result, that day she ventures herself, and herself takes a ride on that train, just as Prince Albert did with Sir Robert the day before! She thoroughly enjoys every minute of the ride; the very opposite of her perception of the day before. Her entire demeanor has now changed.

Soon after she gets word that not only the party she is disposed to, but the opposition party are BOTH in favor of legislation she has proposed; something almost unheard of in political discourse. It was a startling turn of events in her so-far brief reign as Queen.

Because Victoria had the morning vision, and as a result became more open, and then ventured onto the train ride, Life returned the favor and offered her a political outcome she never would have imagined. Her new-found OPENNESS to life around her, including the needs of her husband Prince Albert, OPENED the portals to a corresponding wider possibility by enjoining the two parties in a way no one would have imagined.

No Title

What Sri Aurobindo meant is] that the world of the soul and the inner realities are so much more wonderful than the physical realities that all the physical "wonders" make you smile.

(Mother, from Agenda, May 29, 1965)

The True Laws of Life vs. the Superficial Ones

For me, circumstances, characters, all events and all beings move about according to certain "laws," if I may say so, which aren't rigid, but which I perceive and because of which I can see: "This will lead to that, and that will lead there, and this person being like that, such-and-such a thing is going to happen to him, and ..." It's growing increasingly precise. I could, if it were necessary, make predictions based on that. But the relation of cause and effect in that domain is, for me, absolutely obvious and corroborated by facts.

While for them [scientists], who do not have that vision and that consciousness of the soul, as Sri Aurobindo says, circumstances unfold according to other, superficial laws, which they consider to be the natural consequences of things; quite superficial laws that do not stand up to a deeper analysis, but they don't have the inner capacity, so that doesn't bother them, they find it obvious.

(Mother, from Agenda, May 29, 1965)

Comment: In essence, She is perceiving the principles governing Life, and hence Life Response.

Reader: Roy, i have a question. Outline of the situation: there is someone who has done something intensely grievous (permanent and definitive and this took that someone more than 10 years) to someone else who was not aware of this at all and who had not any feeling of enmity toward that other someone, but years ago that other someone needed that someone who but when wanted to help that person was suddenly 'hindered' to do so and could not reach that other someone, despite having offered telephone number in case something came in between, that other someone was in most desperate need of that someone, the someone who intended help was suddenly hindered the moment this someone wanted to go out for the appointment with that other someone..., the next the someone who intended to go to the appointment but who was suddenly 'hindered' which grieved that someone too and could not reach that other person, tried afterwards to find that other person but nowhere to find and so sadly had to give up and hoped that other someone would still make it..., many years later a robbery of most strange type occurs to the someone who was hindered without their will and beyond their power, many intensely personal created art works of a lifetime throughout many years etc. and personal photos etc. are taken with the robbery (not money etc.), the victim of the robbery suffers intensely and grieves immensely as too it also destroys the future and other people in sharing the artworks etc. (these are lost with the strange robbery), the victim suffers immensely deep and starts to remember all the personal works and because the suffering is so intense starts to remember each detail of many years ago and then sees, discovers to utmost bewilderment, the other person of long ago had initiated this to happen; the other person feels guilty, but meanwhile has reached the high position sought after those many years ago and must have that moment lost all hope to reach that position ever because the person needed was beyond own will suddenly abruptly hindered and could find no way to reach the other person.... but had always wished that other person would reach the wished for position etc. and never thought anything "bad" of that person..., this so was not the case with that other person who must have felt full of hatred, anger, madness and so had wished some 'evil fate' for that in this regard totally innocent person..., after so many years... caused immense grieve to that innocent person and caused damage also to humanity, while having reached the high and influential position years ago had wished for that precisely the innocent person had wished for that person years ago to reach..., now the outcome was felt by that other person.... and at first 'guilt' became part of that other person's experience, the victim however would like the other person to transform and leave the ego behind and in no way feels like causing a similar sad event for the other person, despite all damage done. My question now is how could 'life response' balance the situation the highest good for humanity and life all in all is served?

Response: Thanks for the note Anjez. Some thoughts:

-The abused party should try to understand what attracted the abuser.

-The abused party can also come to understand what purpose this served, is serving in his/her life.

-If the abused comes into that knowledge and also offers it to the Divine Mother's Force with intensity, it can open up great possibilities from the field of life. It can have multi-dimensional effect.

No Title

The purpose of integral yoga is to unfold the Infinite in human life. - Sri Aurobindo.

(NR)

No Title

God did not so much create the world, as He became the world.

Reader: And is the Universe

No Title

Science and Spirit are coming to the Truth of Reality from opposite ends.

Reader: Interestingly Science is part of the Spirit so can only make an attempt at describing the whole of which it cannot ever see. It is a cell within a tree within a forest..... trying to describe God which is its whole. It is like a caterpillar trying to describe a Butterfly. (IMO)

Response: Yes, from one perspective all comes from Spirit. However, Science has mostly focused on the material realm, which is a view of the part, not the whole.

And yet Science is moving slowly to a wider and deeper understanding of Life, while those engaged in Spirit are increasingly applying it in Life (including material existence), instead of apart from it. Thus, "Life application" draws both towards a more integral understanding and truth. I. e. a more complete understanding of the Reality.

No Title

Science has revealed the superstitions of Religion: Spirit, the superstitions of Science.

No Title

Science is moving slowly to a wider and deeper understanding of Life, while those engaged in Spirit are increasingly applying it in Life (including material existence), instead of apart from it. Thus, "Life application" draws both towards a more integral understanding and truth. I. e. a more complete understanding of the Reality.

No Title

Though it now expresses negatively through cyber-attacks, leaks, and other forms of hacking of others' information, what is gradually occurring deeper-still is the end of human Secrecy.

No Title

Negativity normally comes to us through our weak spots in consciousness.

No Title

Reactionary forces use lies and deceit to further their cause, masking truth and progress.

No Title

They say that Hinduism is not a monotheistic religion, like Islam, Christianity, and Judaism. Actually, in one sense, Hinduism in its essence is the most monotheistic of all, as it believes that there is but One Reality -- God and Life inexorably linked and woven together.

No Title

If you consecrate each challenge that rises in the course of your day, having full faith in the Mother, your daily life will become a never-ending Adventure of Consciousness and Joy.

If you want to see changes in other people, make the necessary corresponding change in yourself.

No Title

Mother says that every single thing that has happened in Her life, including the most difficult, has served to intensify Her faith and further develop Her consciousness. Devotees can view their own lives similarly.

No Title

What people don't realize is the vast power of Sri Aurobindo and Mother to alter the conditions of life on earth. They are vessels for the Supramental power, something unprecedented in the earth's history. Bhagavan describes Its effective power as one of "Instantaneous Miraculousness." Anyone can tap into that cosmic force at any moment for instantaneous, unprecedented positive results.

Application Rejection that was a God-Send from The Mother

I took up my Biology group in my 11th and 12th as I had no interest towards the computer Science and so I chose up my graduation also in Biology. I did my B.Tech Biotechnology in a reputed and branded institution.

Biotech students mostly prefer to take up their Master's studies in Abroad and I too had the same idea. 3 years passed. When I was in my final year, all department students who were eligible without backlogs were asked to attend the placements. The company which was about to come for the recruitment was an Excellent MNC. Initially I possessed no interest to walk through placement as I felt biotech is no way related to MNC. But we were compelled to attend in order to show high number of placements in the record. I and my friends went through the placements.

1ST Round I had my aptitude test, I had no expectation. I was ok with both success & failure in clearing the 1st round. With Mother's blessings, I got cleared in my 1st round and went in to the 2nd Round. 2nd round was more of technical round, I and my friends prepared for this round hardly as it was not easy for us to learn about all the technical programs in computer science. Again, I would say, With Mother's blessings I got cleared in my 2nd round. The happiest moments happened when, me, along with my friends cleared the 2nd round. We all went to 3rd Round. 3rd Round was the personal interview (HR round). I would say this was the easiest round as the questions posted to me by HR were simple and I was able to respond him quickly. When I was about to complete my HR round, My HR said "Avanthikaa I would like to meet you in my MNC". I was so happy to hear that from him and hence was confident that I would be shortlisted in the final round also.

At 12am (early morning) we were all waiting for the results. My college placement coordinator began to read the names of those students who had been shortlisted in the final round. Around 800 students were waiting for the results. I was expecting my name to be read out by the coordinator. All my friend's classmate's names were called but not my name.

I still felt my name would be the last but then unfortunately my name was not called. Around 694 students had been shortlisted and I dint get through. The worse feeling.

I really felt very bad, frustrated, when all my friends' names were read and not my name. Also, I remembered my HR telling me that "he would like to meet me in his MNC". But I dint know what went wrong. I was so upset. I got in to my bus with full of tears in my eyes. I was not able to tolerate my Emotions. When I reached home I cried loudly to my Mother saying her that all my friends got selected in that MNC and I was not. She said everything happens for good and asked me to sleep. I had no sleep that night. I had lots of questions breaking inside my head and for the next few days I didn't turn up to anyone neither my family nor my friends. I felt lonely and bad when I had to meet my friends in my college. My heart and mind was heavy. Whenever I saw Mother's photo I stood in front of that Cried badly and asked what did I do? I gave my best and HR told me that he would like to see me in his organisation and all my friends were selected why not me? I also asked Mother standing in front of her photo "Its only because I dint ask you that I want to be placed in this MNC I dint get this opportunity, and if I had asked you, you would have made me to get through the final round is it?" asking this question I stood for sometime viewing her photo.

The next few days and weeks passed, and I still felt heavy without knowing the reason of being rejected by the MNC. I prepared for my GMAT and wrote. I scored 612/800 and applied for two universities abroad and got shortlisted by US university and a Singapore university. I felt little happy though I had the heaviness lasting in me. Then, another MNC came and recruited 5 students out of 400 students and I was the only girl from whole final year who got placed in that MNC and this gave me little more happiness. My questions filled with loads of doubts dint vanish.

The months passed and I was choosing for my career path to move on. My friends were all waiting for the MNC'S call letter and they had no further alternative. They all decided to get in to that MNC as it was about to pay quite huge amount for freshers. I also tried cracking Indian colleges for my Masters and I got through the admission. The Sweetest part came later. The answer for my questions were let out. i.e. The MNC which neglected me and took most of my friends had some problem with the management people of my college and they decided to break the contract and all the placements for about 694 students were cancelled and as a result most of friends resulted in disappointment as they had no other alternative and the admission for the Master's program was also over. They had to wait for an year.

This is the point which made me to realize the reason for my rejection by the MNC. My heaviness went light. I felt like flying. I felt Mother was with me at each and every incident that happened. I was filled with the bliss that night. I understood " THE POWER OF MOTHER AND AUROBINDO". I also felt no one else could take care of me and give best things in life as MOTHER does. I realized that "Mother always gives her child the best opportunity that a child could have".

(A)

Response: It shows the power of Mother as well as the gaps in Faith we have of Her. True faith accepts all that comes, no matter what the result. It is beyond any apparent good or bad result. Faith in Her Force at each point not only always produces the right results, but also eliminates anguish along the way.

This story thus has a happy "life response" oriented ending, but also a good lesson for the future about our level of Faith in the Higher Power.

No Title

Before an entity can go to the next highest state, negativity can intervene, tearing away at Progress, yet secretly helping the entity to confront its limitations. Now it can move to the next highest level.

UK's Brexit is a potential example in terms of the European Union, as is Trump in America relative to Globalism and World Unity.

No Title

It's very interesting, you know, the greater part live in the past; a good number (they are more interesting) live in the present; and just a few, an infinitesimal number, live in the future.

(The Mother, from Agenda, February 14, 1972)

No Title

But how wonderfully things get organized when you really and sincerely put yourself in the Divine's hands!

(The Mother, from Agenda, February 16, 1972)

No Title

Mother indicates through spiritual evolution we will see in future decrease and eventually elimination of-

Property attachment, Materialism, Authority, Conformity, Secrecy, attachment to Money, Marriage, and even Family.

New Spirit-based Species on Earth

Sri Aurobindo and Mother indicated that a New Spirit-oriented species would evolve out of the current human one. In Agenda She explains the various visions and experiences She had of the New Species.

In one instance, She became this new being at the subtle plane. She was enveloped by it; in essence becoming it. As she looked at her body, She saw it. Tall, slim, with no organs for digestion, procreation, etc all, replaced with centers of consciousness.

Naturally they will be completely transformed beings, supramentalized and realized in mind, psyche, emotion, etc. now also in physical substance, shape, purpose, capacity.

Some of these Supramentalized individuals - filled with that Force at all levels - will be pioneers of this New Race, living alongside the current humanity, after which they will further spread. They are in essence a new Supramental species, living a Divine Life and Existence on earth. The results for the world will be beyond breathtaking.

Life Response Power of Reversing Irritation

We have often seen over the years that turning irritation into pleasant demeanor can instantly attracts good fortune.

A man and his friend both needed to print to their printer from their PCs. There was a problem in making connection with the printer. Because of this and other matters, the man became a bit irritated.

He then caught himself and resumed his normal pleasant demeanor. The printer suddenly came back online, much sooner than he expected.

By shifting from irritation to pleasantness, he evoked a very rapid positive response from life.

No Title

It boils down to this: Faith in Her; nothing else.

Comment: (or perhaps we can say "Faith in Her, primary; everything else, secondary."

We Are Amalgam of Positive and Negative Traits, as Seen in Pride and Prejudice

Q: How is it possible that a girl like Lissy who can respond to a fake and superficial personality like Wickham can also respond to a serious and meaningful personality like Darcy?

A: Darcy two is a product of two parents. He describes his father as very good man. I believe he learned pride and self-importance from his mother, not surprising since she was Lady Catherine's sister.

Eliza has a developed mind and intelligence, good values and manners all acquired from her father. So too she has her mother's attraction to red coats and handsome flatterers. So we can explain it as a product of her inheritance. Like all of us, she is a product of two very different parents and shares characteristics of both in a unique combination, very different than what the other four children inherited.

At the same time, we see that Eliza's high character comes from her mind and her attraction to falsehood comes from her vital. The emotions of deep affection for Jane come from the heart in between. Her great accomplishment is to rise above the vital falsehood and live by the light of her mind, which brings Darcy.

We can also see the Darcy acts from two distinct aspects of his personality -- the proud, pompous, self-centered and very silly sense of self-importance and arrogance which brings him to dances so he can refuse to dance and objects to Bingley marrying Jane but is ready to propose to Eliza. His assuming Eliza wants to marry him is act of folly and foolishness. His proposal to her is as awkward as Collins'. If he has an inner being of good character, goodness, generosity, he also has an outer character groomed to aloofness and obedience.

Sri Aurobindo tells us that we all are a mix of multiple contrasting and often competing personalities held together by being in one physical body. We can all identify the contradictions among our own selves -- the mix of higher and lower impulses, the good and bad urges, the gems of knowledge and insight acquired side by side with areas of blind and utter ignorance and folly.

The story is great because these two characters both lean toward their higher side and progress through the effort to better themselves rather than to dissipate like Lydia. So they share some higher values and also a will for progress and perhaps it is that which really attracted them to one another. (Garry Jacobs)

Challenges That One Must Encounter in Purna (Integral) Yoga

Though Bhagawan [Sri Aurobindo] and Mother have laid out the path that we all must tread, our task does not become any easier because of that. The road to transformation still presents many challenges that one must successfully face. When we relate to Mother as a spiritual mother, she is kind and generous and showers us with lots of grace. But when we relate to her as our spiritual guide, she becomes a tough task master and the soft maternal side disappears from our view to be replaced by a stern teacher. Still, undaunted we must go on and emerge as winners. Let us therefore see some sample list of challenges that we must face.

1. Anyone setting on the journey of purna yoga, must widen his mental understanding so that he can see any issue from a whole perspective and not just his perspective only. Unless he embraces the other person's point of view, he will never get to a full understanding.
 2. He must shift from looking at contradictions as antagonistic pair of opposing forces to a higher level where they appear as complementaries working towards unity.
 3. He must move away from his rational and analytical mental faculties and instead try to develop illumination and intuition that give the whole picture in a flash.
 4. His mind must come to accept that suprarational solutions to problems are possible when the spiritual grace starts acting on matter. For example, he must come to believe that grace can help a patient live on when no medical cure is available.
 5. He must have the conviction that all hardships that he has encountered have come to him only to awaken his consciousness and that they have all come to him only to teach him a lesson.
 6. He must learn to give unconditional love to others and stop expecting rewards for the kindness he has shown. That is the nature of the divine love that Mother is showing to her children and so he must follow her in that respect if he is sincere in his sadhana.
 7. He must learn to see that as he is to Mother so is life to him and take the blows and punishments he gets from life to mean that something is wrong in his alignment with Mother.
 8. As Mother is a fountain of joy, he must also learn to radiate joy all the time to others around him and ensure that his native joy is not conditioned by the good or bad events or good or bad news that come to him.
 9. As mother was a hard worker, he too must work hard and exert himself to his utmost capacity hoping that at the point of exhaustion Mother will take over.
 10. He must take the illnesses of his body as reflecting the inner imperfections and decide to cure the outer malady by curing the inner imperfection first.
 11. He must not be a slave of sensory pleasures and must become their master first. He must make his body serve him rather than he be seen serving his bodily needs. For example if his body tells him that it is hungry, and it is time to eat, if he runs to the dinner table dropping the work on hand then he is a slave of his bodily needs. On the other hand, even though the body tells him that it is hungry, if he can make it postpone eating till the work on hand is finished, then he is master of his body.
 12. As the finest indication that all is well with him, he must succeed in maintaining Mother's light on his face all the time and be recognised as a light bulb in the midst of ordinary faces.
- (N. Asokan, MSS)

Science's vs. Sri Aurobindo's view of Evolution of Forms

The evolutionary perspective of science is of the biological form evolving by competition for survival resulting in greater powers of consciousness, whereas Sri Aurobindo affirms the spiritual evolution of consciousness which puts forth new biological forms more capable of expressing that consciousness. (Garry Jacobs, MSS)

Imagined Technology Is Realized by Others Decades Later

["The Secret" basically says that if you conceive of something that you want to see come about, deeply believe in that possibility, and offer it to the Universe, it will occur sooner or later. In that way, The Secret and Life Response are quite similar. Here then is a true story and experience of an Indian friend of ours illustrating that process.]

"Though Television had made its entry in India much earlier, in the later 1980s there was a B/W TV in our Grandma's home and it was such a pleasure to watch Ramayana/Mahabharata serials on Sundays. My grandma's home was in Trichy approximately 150 kms from Chidambaram where our family lived. I was 7-year-old girl and my brother was just 2-year-old then. There was no TV in our home.

Our dad was constructing a house at that time and during one of our vacations in Trichy he bought a calling bell for our new home which was in the shape of small TV. I was looking into it deeply when one of uncles was making fun of me mentioning; "Look my girl, this is a small TV where your favorite news reader appears and will read news for you". I was thrilled to hear this. I definitely knew that it is a calling bell and its purpose. But when my uncle was making fun of me, I imagined how good it would have been when there is a TV like this which you can carry it wherever you went. I felt light and happy. I felt really good.

When we were coming back to Chidambaram by train, again I was thinking how nice it would have been if there is a TV of that small size that you can carry it if you have to travel like this and watch Ramayana/Mahabharata so that you cannot miss the telecast even if you are not at home. I mentioned this to my parents, but they didn't pay attention to what I said. But I felt happy about my what I imagined. I was not a grown-up who doubted imagination and its possibilities. An so time moved on, and I forgot about the matter.

22 years later, I was working as a Software Engineer and developing applications for iPhone/iPad in Chicago, USA for a major retailer where one could install this app for purchasing goods online using iPhone. Several apps were in the developmental stage and iPhone 3 had made its entry in the market with the potential for online streaming of videos. In fact, in one of our meetings I commented that that iPhone is an extension of a mobile phone and not an alternative for laptop/desktop. I was not very thrilled about the iPhone at that time as my focus was only in developing the apps. I had never explored the iPhone fully.

After a few years, everybody realized the potential for smartphones and live streaming. As a result, I now came to realize the comment I had made few years back. iPhone/iPad had in fact become an alternative for laptop/desktop, and the TV too.

Now I remember my imaginative experience as a small kid and the happy feeling associated with it. Indeed, what I imagined came true.

The only difference is that the kid who imagined that possibility just felt happy about her experience, never doubted, and forgot about it; but the adult though still to imagine about does so always with doubt, fear and expectations.

I had come to realize the message of The Secret. Conceive, Believe, Offer it to the Universe; and sooner or later it will come true.

(RT)

No Title

Surrender is Faith deepened.

When A Person Become an Individual

So much has been written about the individuality of Lizzy and Darcy [in Pride and Prejudice] that it has become necessary to define when a person becomes an individual. So let us see a sample list of situations that promote individuality.

1. When a man does what he thinks is right though he sees others around him not following what he does, then he is an individual. For example, a person may stick to his policy of not taking bribes when he sees all the others in the office taking bribes. Such a commitment makes him an individual.

2. When he has given his word and does everything to honor it though it is not advantageous to do so, that him an individual. Let us say a rich young man falls in love with an ordinary middle-class girl and promises to marry her. His parents arrange for an alliance with another rich girl who will bring a lot of dowry. But if he rejects the rich alliance and marries the girl he has loved then he is an individual.
3. When he ignores outer appearance and cares for inner values then he is an individual. Let us say a fresh M.B.A post graduate seeks employment in his company and demands 50,000 rupees salary. Another man who has passed only plus two but has 10 years' experience managing another workshop employing 50 people, is also asking for manager job and demands only 20,000. If he values experience and not just the M.B.A degree and selects the plus two candidate, then he is an individual.
4. When he is confronted by a formidable challenge and the situation looks hopeless, he is able to courageously declare that he can face the challenge successfully, then he is an individual. For example, when Hitler threatened to attack England and surrender seemed to be a foregone conclusion, Churchill bravely declared that England need not surrender but can win the war, that makes him an individual.
5. When he is financially down but refuses to avail financial help offered by friends and relatives and says that he will come up on his own, that makes him an individual.
6. When he wants a job but refuses to ask for recommendation and tries to get the job solely on his merit that will make him an individual.
7. When a big fortune will come to him if he agrees to a proposal not to his liking and he refuses that makes him an individual. Let us say a rich uncle wants to adopt him as his foster son promising him a fabulous inheritance. He knows that his uncle has made his money by dishonest means and so he refuses to become his uncle's heir. That makes him an individual.
8. When he refuses to lie and thereby denies himself an advantage, that makes him an individual. Let us say a young man wants to join the army as an officer and passes the test. During the interview, he is asked if he has ever taken drugs. If he says no he will get selected as an officer. But during his college days he has smoked Ganja a few times. So he admits to smoking Ganja and loses his officer post. But his honesty makes him an individual.
9. Let us say a young man is promised a big rise and promotion in his office if he agrees to play politics and join in secret intrigues. But he refuses to join such intrigues and insists that he will get his promotion by fair means only, then that makes him an individual.
10. If a man does not switch his camp loyalties for the sake of getting money and position that makes him an individual.

(N, Asokan, MSS)

No Title

When we open to Her Force, Mother rapidly brings life under control, and then some.

Reluctant Instructor Pays the Consequence

Several of those who are close observers of the subtle laws of existence have pointed out that if you are reluctant to take up a request in one area, Life will often take away in another.

Though offered to him directly, a trainer was unwilling to offer his services on a subject matter he felt he had long ago outgrown.

It was only several years later looking back in retrospect that he realized that about the same time of his reluctance to teach those courses, the major instruction work which he normally engaged in and paid well had begun to dry up.

As we see, if we are unwilling to embrace what Life presents to you, it may simultaneously take away something else that you cherish.

No Title

A contradiction, conflict unsettled will come back again, albeit in a somewhat different form.

No Title

The true consciousness needed ... is to look at one's own faults first, before complaining about others' faults, and to mend one's ways before demanding others should mend theirs. (Mother, from Agenda)

No Title

Let us not rush to judgement about a matter until we have the necessary facts to come to a reasonable conclusion. Truth calls out for that openness and patience.

No Title

Opposition to falsehood and evil can occur:

- physically through insurrection and battle
- vitally through intense emotion
- mentally through logical argument
- psychologically through willed purpose
- spiritually through Silence that opens to Divine power

Surprise Treat

Sharp, surprising things happening to us is always an indication of Life Response in action. And yet do we know the inner or outer cause on our part that precipitated it?

Take this simple little story that occurred the other day:

A senior instructor on break from teaching a class tried on two different occasions to purchase a treat from a vending machine using his credit card, but in both instances failed. It turned out that the WiFi-based system for payment was not functioning properly.

However, a few minutes later in the classroom, completely unsolicited, someone arrived on scene and handed him a treat from that very machine! He was very surprised by and happy about the sudden turn of events!

On further reflection, he realized they he had earlier tried to help a friend purchase an item from that very same machine, though once again he met with failure. And yet he further understood that the surprise treat coming to him from that same machine through a friend of a friend was the result of his Goodwill effort to help the first friend just a few minutes earlier.

In other words, the surprise coming to him was an indicator of the Life Response phenomenon of inner-outer connection in action.

No Title

AI (Artificial Intelligence) will have the greatest solutions, advice power when it is programmed with the (dozens, hundreds, even thousands of) subtle laws of life that Sri Karmayogi has revealed to the world.

Realization of Mistake Attracts Instant Improved Condition

[When you realize you have done the wrong thing and feel a sense of contrition for the fact, good fortune will tend to quickly move in your direction. Consider this true-life story from a friend of ours.]

"This happened recently when I visited a bank nearby to withdraw some cash. I entered the bank and pulled a token for myself and started waiting. I realized that at least 15 members were waiting before me and I had to wait for nearly half-an-hour for my turn.

Meanwhile I thought of purchasing some groceries from nearby shops and then come back. But before stepping out of the bank, I decided to do be a clever woman. I pulled out another token for myself so that even if I had to miss my turn for the previous token I can still use the current token.

After finishing my purchases from all shops, I came back to the bank only to realize that the previous token number was about to be called. There was a woman with a preceding token number doing some transactions and I was waiting for my turn. I was happy that the next would be my turn. When the woman was done, the cashier was about to press the buzzer, but all of a sudden she stopped and came out of her place and went somewhere. I started waiting for more than 5 minutes. I was irritated as how this could happen only to me.

I started waiting and suddenly I asked myself whether I committed anything wrong. I realized that I shouldn't have taken 2 tokens. I should not have taken chances and acted like an overly clever lady. As soon as I realized that, the cashier came in and took her seat and pressed the button to call my token number! I was thrilled!"

(TR)

Cascade of Life Response from Past Restarts in Present

Today I was reading an old post from 2012 (that Facebook re-presented for me), where I explained that I had been experiencing a "cascade of the miraculous," with one life response occurring after another in a very short period that day. It was an astonishing experience to go through back then.

Then out of curiosity today I did a search on "the miraculous good fortune" in Google, and much to my surprise my two books (Life Response in Work and the Miraculous Phenomenon of Life Response) came up first among thousands of images. It was totally unexpected!

It was if the Cascade of the Miraculous -- the entry of which Facebook had reposted for me as a reminder -- was now CONTINUING! It was also a reminder that a life movement of a particular type will tend to repeat when focused on again.

No Title

In Supramental Consciousness everything is revealed to you at the exact precise moment it is required; not before or after.

Evil Out of Good; Good Out of Evil

Q: Sri Aurobindo has mentioned that the Good can come out of Evil, and vice versa. How to reconcile it?

A: Sri Aurobindo says, as long as we are in the ego, even our good act can have both consequences of good as well as egoistic.

When a man commits a good act, he becomes satisfied, which is out of ego. As a result, he receives the consequences as the act of goodness and at the same time the act of being satisfied, pride and so forth. Likewise, when he performs a good act to an evil man, he receives that evil from him in return as a consequence for his egoistic satisfaction.

For example, in Pride and Prejudice, Darcy told Fitz William that he had prevented Bingley from getting married to a woman of unreasonable background and culture. Karmayogi has mentioned that Darcy was not at fault for advising Bingley not to marry Jane as indeed her family culture was low. However, he did that with an egoistic nature, out of pride. As a result, the negative response came back to him at the crucial moment of his life when he proposed to Elizabeth, who humiliated him down to earth.

On the other hand, an evil act may have good consequences if we approach it with right attitude. For example, Wickham's scandal helped Darcy to reflect his own mistake, reverse them and thus he became a true gentleman.

[Also, the evil consequences of World War II resulted in good in terms of human evolution by liberalization of European colonies over India and Asia.]

As we see, life is not completely one or the other. Life evolves through both good and bad to manifest a bigger Reality.

However, one can still commit an act of goodness without the shade of ego; and such an act will have only positive consequences. It is not impossible, but quite difficult as ego plays a bigger role in all the acts we do.

As a devotee, what do we have to do? Before committing an act, we have to consecrate and offer it to the Mother in order to free from negative consequences. (Garry Jacobs, MSS)

Conversation Tips

Here are some thoughts on how to behave when engaging in conversation with someone:

- Listen first; speak after
- Think about what they are really trying to say, what they really want, beyond their words
- Try to keep the conversation in the direction of the other person, not just your own interests
- As often as possible try to take the other persons point of view, even if it is wrong, as it will attract positive conditions in the dialogue
- Only speak when they are ready to listen, as they may be preoccupied elsewhere
- Always be respectful of the other person
- Continually praise the other person's thoughts or ideas, as appropriate
- Never be accusatory, or inflammatory, or irritable, or sarcastic or cynical
- Consecrate, open to the Divine Force before any conversation to ensure the best outcome
- Silence the mind as much as possible, letting insight and intuition flow

No Title

The "Instantaneous Miraculousness" of Life Response seems startling to people, as it is beyond the pale of normal causality. Yet it is actually Normal existence, that Mind completely misses. Fortunately, the individual with Supramental perception perceives this miraculous dynamic most of the time.

Deciding in Direction of Truthfulness Over Dishonesty Attracts

[In life we are constantly facing cross-road decisions, both great and small. When we choose in the right direction, such as truthfulness and honesty over dishonesty, life tends to quickly return the favor, in small or large measure. Here is a friend's life response incident that reflects this dynamic.]

"This happened last year in the UK. Our family was in the UK due to my husband's onsite assignment. It was a week before our arrival in India. We were coming back for good, so we did a lot of purchasing.

One day our son was at school and my husband took leave, and we both went to make some last-minute purchases as well as packing things. We went to a mall and I was feeling thirsty. So we purchased 2 water bottles. I opened 1 bottle took a sip and realized that it was sparkling water. Both the plain water and sparkling water were sold under the same brand and we didn't take the time to read it fully before taking the sip.

So we went back to the shop to purchase plain water and to return the unopened bottle. I told the shopkeeper the situation and he just asked us to keep the bottles on the same rack and pull out the plain bottles. In fact, he was so busy doing other things that he didn't notice whether we were following his instructions. So we kept the unused bottle in the rack and pulled out the plain water instead, and decided to use the soda water as we have already opened it.

As we were making our way to the next shop, we both were smiling at each other for the same reason. Though there were chances that we could have replaced the used soda water as I just took a sip, we never did that. Our hands were not dexterous enough for that, and so we smiled at each other as we talked about that.

Later when we were about to pay bill for our purchased goods, the cashier handed us a gift coupon for that day with a value of £9! I was surprised and asked him whether we can go back now and use it. He smiled and said yes. I was thrilled and went ahead for some more purchase.

Returning my husband and I realized the incident was a life response for our truthfulness. The cost of a soda water is £3, whereas the coupon value at the end of the shopping was £9, which is 3 times more than soda water. We were thrilled and realized how life responded in our favor."

(TR)

No Title

Mother's Force overcomes confusion at the mental level, fear at the vital/emotional level, and strain and pain at the physical level.

No Title

Conflict is Nature's great but difficult method of creating higher levels of harmony. On the other hand, Spirit sidetracks such contradictions in the Way Forward.

No Title

Doing what Life or your deepest Being is compelling you to do is usually more important (and effective) than following what your surface being desires.

No Title

The more you Non-react to the deeds of a treacherous leader, the more Life will deflate his power.

No Title

When you are in alignment with Mother, She not only gives you what you wish for, but far exceeds it in unexpected, dynamic, and fully-satisfying ways.

No Title

If you begin to break your harmonious relationship with a community that has been exceedingly helpful to you, other parties who depend on you will suddenly start breaking that association.

Mother's Work: Bridging the Extremes of Her Identity with the Supreme Above and the Darkness Below

No later than yesterday night, I had this feeling: "My god, there's always farther down to go! It's always lower, ever lower." And at the same time, my identity with the Supreme keeps growing while I simultaneously seem to be going down into the most incredible dark dregs of ... yes, of mud, ever possible in life.

... "But why! Why am I seeing all this? Am I losing my contact?" On the contrary, it felt closer and closer, stronger and stronger, more and more conscious, luminous, and at the same time ... this (gesture below).

... my impression was that the higher I rise, the more I notice things below... the more I feel this constant, luminous Presence, the more I see those things. So it has become very clear to me that it is impossible to manifest THAT integrally without everything below being offered up to the Light.

... "How do I do His work? What's the new way of doing the Work? ... And the reply came, very concrete, without words: "By bringing the two extremes together.

You join the two extremes. Your whole work is to make the junction."

--The Mother, from Agenda, November 14, 1962

No Title

The most trivial work can be used to learn the laws and methods of life response to evoke sudden good fortune.

No Title

Romantic, human love is an egoistic version of Divine love; i.e., the love we feel when we commune with the Supreme.

No Title

Evil is acting harmfully to others' great detriment, based on ignorant, false beliefs that one has intensely emotionalized.

On Overcoming Evil

-Evil uses the imperfection of the good to destroy the good and establish evil, but it does not see it is destroying itself widely.

-The evil in us, if condemned morally, will be negatively fortified. To know how that evil is perfection of good and how it circles the good in us, will help dissolve it. Condemnation confirms, understanding dissolves.

-The evil of the world is not to be confronted outside in a head on collision. It has to be tackled inside by transformation.

-Spiritual awakening is the death knell for evil. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

Impatience dramatically reduces potential solutions.

The Good Behind Evil

-Why God has created evil and poisonous insects is an eternal question. An answer is available in the process of creation of Self-absorption and the method of evolution and transformation. Good when self-absorbed becomes evil, nectar when self-absorbed turns into poison. Evil is necessary for something to be transformed into Good.

-Evil sheds its mark of evil and reveals itself as a marvel when you move from scorching it to understanding it, tolerating, appreciating and finally enjoying its play. Enjoy the play, evil becomes Good.

-Evil uses the imperfection of the good to destroy the good and establish evil, but it does not see it is destroying itself widely.

-To know that evil is a great Good is knowledge.

-Capacity to see only the goodness in evil is the formula of Life.

(Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

The full GOOD does not ordinarily come out unless there is Evil to compel it to go higher. In that way, Evil serves an evolutionary purpose. When it then fulfills that role, Evil is invariably destroyed.

Non-Reaction Power

In spiritual Life, the more we refrain from initiating an action, the more Life comes to us. Eg a devotee decided to map out a new direction for his career, but nothing came of it, as no one really responded. So he gave up pursuing the matter, and just decided to see what would come on its own. A few days later, a new set of contract work unexpectedly came to him, which he gladly accepted.

No Title

Evil compels the good to become the GOOD. Spirit fulfills it.

No Title

In innumerable instances, we can see how evil (or something approaching it) has served to heighten and perfect the good.

No Title

Speaking ill of someone tends to quickly attract negative circumstances.

No Title

Not reacting with intensity to a negative situation soothes it.

Taking Another's Point of View Resolves Serious Computer Problem

By merrily accepting another's position, whether or not it is true, can instantly resolve a serious problem.

A man was having serious difficulties with his computer. He could not copy files or folders, nor execute other commonly used routines. He was stuck in this precarious situation and did not know what to do.

A friend of his suggested that the problem might be caused by the new optical mouse he had recently purchased. He then continued to experiment to see what the source of the problem was, though he thought and told her that it was doubtful that the mouse was the cause of the problem.

Then he decided to take her position, whether or not true, as he understood the law of taking the other persons point of view. Within two minutes the computer started acting perfectly fine as before! They both smiled as they understood the miracle that had just taken place!

Devotees Carry Around Mother's Grace

People usually try to avoid certain things that are not safe for them. A few years ago, when share-auto was introduced in Tamil Nadu, India, the share/auto drivers took too many passengers than they should transport. Moreover, this overload of passengers caused accidents.

However, when I went to book service a few years back, - I usually take share autos, instead of town buses - I no longer heard about any share-auto accidents after that!

Thanks to Mother's Grace.

(DM)

Comment by RP:

You must be carrying Mother and Her Supramental Force with you.

Comment by D:

Yes sir. Mother is always with us when we do service to Her

Power of Cleanliness and Orderliness Revives Malfunctioning Computer

Few months back, my office laptop was unable to go into 'hibernate' mode whenever I intended to bring it to meetings/discussions. As a result, either I had to carry the laptop without closing it, or shutdown and restart as and when needed.

One day during meditation, it came to my mind that I should implement 'cleanliness and orderliness' principle here. I then cleared the unwanted stuff of my office desk and also cleaned up unnecessary files from my laptop.

To my surprise, my laptop immediately was able to change mode (to hibernate and vice-versa) without difficulties.

Mother's principles always work, everywhere, anytime.

No Title

Most of what interests and excites us culturally in our generation will be long forgotten in the minds of those who live one or two generations down the line. That is why we should always live with the future evolution in mind. Besides, that way your life will always remain fresh, instead of being tied down to tired, nostalgic memories, or hypnotized by the latest crazes and fads.

Spiritual Potentials that Await Mother's Children

Children of Mother have enormous spiritual potentials which hinge upon their taking to Mother fully. Let us see some such potentials.

1. Vast Earnings -- According to Shri.Karmayogi, any devotee of Mother can easily earn one crore ($150,000+) per year which would be greatly in excess of his annual requirements.
2. Leader in Field -- Another point that Shri.Karmayogi would like to stress is that any devotee can become the leader in any field that he is operating in. Whether it be business, farming, civil service or professions or politics he has the option to be the leader there.
3. Life Under Control -- Devotees of Mother have the potential to bring Life fully under their control if they choose to surrender to Mother fully. When Life sees that they have surrendered to Mother fully, Life in turn chooses to surrender to them fully and act as per their wishes.
4. Expands Infinitely -- Should any devotee allow Mother's infinite consciousness to be born within him, he can see that whatever he touches expands to infinite dimensions. If he takes to organic farming that field will expand rapidly and if he takes to handicraft exports, the export market will expand by 1000 times etc.
5. Spiritual Joy - -Should he allow Mother's love to be born in him, he can see what immense joy he can derive by practicing self-giving and he will see himself turning into some spiritual Kamadhenu.
6. Radiance -- Should he allow Mother's joy to be born him, he can see himself glowing like a 1000 watts light bulb.
7. Problems Disappearing -- Should he allow Mother's strength to be born in him, he can see problems that appeared to be of Himalayan proportions turn into petty sandhills overnight.
8. Attract Many People -- Should he allow Mother's sweetness to be born in him he will see people flocking towards him all day long as ants swarm towards a honey pot.
9. Atmosphere of Harmony -- Should he allow Mother's harmony to be born in him, he can see that wherever he goes the atmosphere of harmony goes there before him and life cooperates fully with him to the last detail.

(N. Asokan, MSS)

No Title

I am often struck by how my young Indian friends have this tendency to conform. More individuality -- i.e. not following the herd, thinking for themselves, and discovering their true selves and acting from it -- is something that would be helpful to them and the world.

Rooting for a particular outcome is a good thing. Connecting with and rooting for what the Mother wants is much better, as the latter has tremendous Life Response impact on the outcome.

No Title

Not reacting to another's intensity is the journey from negativity to neutrality. Taking the other man's point of view is Supramental. Not initiating - instead waiting on Life's initiative - is to be one with the Reality. Each attract good or great fortune from out of nowhere, often instantaneously.

No Title

Wherever there is lack of Organization – uncleanness, disorderliness, missing plan or procedures or systems, waste of resources, etc. etc. – you invite negative circumstances to be evoked from life. Accident, confusion, depletion of funds, work going sour, etc. are examples of such negative conditions.

Shifting from Blaming Others to Overcoming One's Own Corresponding Limitations

When you are bothered by another's action and are tempted to complain, it's best instead to look inside, examine one's self, and see the corresponding limitation and change it.

One man was constantly complaining to his mate that she was unable to maintain her attention when he spoke to her. This irritated him to no end.

But then he began to see that he was too quick in asking for her attention or he spoke too soon before he had it. He now understood that it was an opportunity to grow - i.e. by changing himself inside rather than blaming someone else on the outside.

Willingness to Embrace Current Work Takes One to Pinnacles of Success

Over the years we have seen that a willingness to embrace one's current position or work, no matter how unfavorable or come down in position quickly attracts conditions that propels one to the heights.

Eg a once high-flying executive embraced a humbling position he was pit in, rather than disdain it. As a result, two stupendous opportunities came to him at the firm, which quickly propelled him to the top of the organization. It even opened a door that gave him an opportunity to rectifying an earlier great failure that caused to tumble from the heights.

That is the life response power of embracing one's current position or work no matter how distasteful.

No Title

Knowledge can be apprehended at several levels; from surface to depths: i.e. from form to content to Essence culminating in Truth. Rarely are the latter touched upon in human discourse. However, a spiritualized Mind is fully absorbed there

No Title

Principles of "Life Response" properly understood and implemented can solve any and all problems of the world.

Asking the Divine to Transform Our Limited Nature

... as you go forward and as all that Consciousness, in fact, grows more and more alive, true and constant, how at first you feel you are a rotten bundle of insincerity, hypocrisy, lack of faith, doubt, stupidity. Because as (how can I explain?...) as the balance changes between the parts of the being and as the luminous part increases, the rest grows more and more inadequate and intolerable. Then you are really utterly disgusted (there was a time when it used to hurt me, long ago – not so long ago, but anyway long enough, a few years ago), and more and more there is the movement (a very spontaneous and simple movement, very complete): "I can't do anything about it. It's impossible, I can't, it's such a colossal work that it's impossible – Lord, do it for me." And when you do this with the simplicity of a child (gesture of offering), really like this, you know, really convinced that you cannot do it, "It's not possible, I'll never be able to do it – do it for me," it's wonderful! ... Oh, He does it, mon petit, you're dumbfounded afterwards: "How come! ..." There are lots of things that ... prrt! vanish and never come back again – finished. After a time, you wonder, "How can that be?! It was there...." Just like that, prrt! in a second.

But as long as there is personal effort, it's ... oof! it's like the man who rolls his barrel uphill, and down it rolls again every minute.

... But it must be spontaneous, not as a calculation, it mustn't be done with the idea, "It's going to work." It must truly be done with the sense of your complete helplessness and of the very formidable dimension of the task that ... "Oh, please do it Yourself; I can't – it's not possible."

... There is no greater joy than to know that you can do nothing and are absolutely helpless, that you're not the one who does, and that what little is done – little or big, it doesn't matter – is done by the Lord; and the responsibility is fully His. That makes you happy. With that, you are happy.

(The Mother, from Agenda, August 11, 1964)

No Title

One expression of a higher consciousness is the capacity to lead people and circumstances to a plane where a harmony is worked out.

No Title

Bravado is acceptable in certain cases, eg to rally the troops. However, it can also attract dark forces and conditions.

A Physical mainly person "thinks" through his senses, including the visual. A Vital person mostly thinks with his emotions and feelings. A Mental person predominantly thinks with his mind, using rational thought. A Spiritual person does not think at all, as knowledge simply appears in his field of awareness.

How the World Is Getting More in Line with the Supramental Manifestation

Though Sri Aurobindo and Mother have predicted that the supramental manifestation is still very far off, what we are seeing gives us the feeling that the world is getting ready for this very supramental manifestation. According to Sri Aurobindo, prosperity and security and knowledge are very essential for the manifestation to take place. These three things seem to be much better now than before and as such the world seems to be a better place for the supramental manifestation to take place. Let us therefore see what those favourable conditions are.

1. Compared to the economic conditions prior to 1956, global prosperity is much higher now than before. All over the world, people are better fed, better clothed and sheltered than before.
2. More people all over the world are better educated than before. Knowledge is a key requirement for the supramental manifestation. As such this increased awareness will definitely be very helpful.
3. Though the world has entered the nuclear age, a third world war has not broken out and people are living there lives in relative peace and security. Such a peaceful atmosphere is very conducive for the higher manifestation.
4. Prior to 1956, people were heavily steeped in religion and life revolved around going to temple, church and mosque. This however is not the case now. A lot of people have weaned themselves from the hold of religion and declared themselves as free thinkers. This freedom from religion is a great help in the direction of supramental manifestation.
5. It is said that human unity is a major requirement for supramental manifestation. Internet and social media have unified the world as never before. Cold war has ended putting a stop to East & West hostilities.
6. Better health is said to be a requirement for the supramental manifestation also. Even by this standard, the world is much more healthier today than it was prior to 1956. People live a longer life span and are better fed and are free of major epidemics.
7. There is a greater spiritual receptivity in the world now than before 1956. A lot of young people in countries like America and Europe have turned towards Eastern spirituality and given up their traditional pursuits of money, comfort and sensual pleasure. This has to be seen as a big victory for the Spirit.

8. Physical cleanliness is a key requirement for supramental manifestation. The world is certainly much cleaner now than before. Sanitation and sewage disposal have made world's cities much cleaner places to live.

9. Rising individuality is one key hall mark of the emergence of the spirit. People were very much dominated by the power of social authority and mass conformity was the order of the day. But now individuals have freed themselves from the hold of social authority and are freely voicing their opinions and doing what they think is right. This marks the first step in the emergence of the spiritual individual.

10. Abundance is a sign of spiritual prosperity. We are already seeing an abundance of consumer goods as never seen before. The number of vehicles on the road, the variety of clothes and electronic gadgets available in department stores all speak of unheard of prosperity. This can be taken as the forerunner of the supramental abundance that is on its way when money and goods will be as plenty as water and air.

(N. Asokan, MSS)

Comment :

It's a very thoughtful list.

Here are additional signs that may indicate alignment with Supramental:

-Values, such as exist in companies and other organizations - like customer service, appreciating the worker, safety, -- are on the increase.

-Socialistic, human-centered attributes are increasingly adhered to - like fairness, justice, minimum wage, maternity leave, etc.

-Truth is increasingly valued

-Environmental concerns are on the increase

-Democracy is on the increase, allowing for greater freedom and tolerance.

-Internet has come to the world, giving access to all manner of information instantly

-Global cooperation and collaboration are on the increase - economically, socially, culturally - providing an umbrella of greater possibility.

-Types of families, living arrangements, marriage variations, etc. are on the increase adding to choice and freedom.

-Greater percent of the population are demanding to be part of the world's success.

-Global consciousness is on the rise.

-A big upsurge of people being predominantly psychological and mental, instead if physical and vital.

-Dramatic reduction in violence - over 90% worldwide since WWII, including 50% in the last 20 years.

-Movement away from socialistic economies in China, India and elsewhere, and towards socialistic in Europe, increasing prosperity.

-Money self-multiplying in the world, offering potential huge windfall for every citizen on earth.

-Human centered economics being offered to the world from various sources.

-"Shared economy" concept on the rise.

Problems with Religion

The Mother has issued a call to humanity to wean itself from the hold of religion and come over to spirituality. She has done so based on her understanding that religion is not conducive to spirituality. Let us try to find out why religion is not conducive to spirituality.

1. Most places of worship have been taken over by hostile forces as the atmosphere in such places tend to be very low. Such a low atmosphere attracts hostile forces to come and settle down there. The reason for the very low level of atmosphere is that most worshippers who come there voice all kinds of prayers both right and wrong. While Divine beings are unable to sanction wrong prayers, false beings readily do so. As the intensity of wrong prayers increase, divine beings are forced to vacate the temple and that paves the way for hostile beings to move in and fill up the vacuum.

2. Religions make a ritual out of everything and in this process end up making everything mechanical and lifeless. Carrying out life less rituals is very inimical to spirituality. In this manner religion ensures that spirituality has been driven out of religion.

3. Religious beliefs are very often authoritarian and dogmatic and not open to modification. Over the years this lack of flexibility tends to make religion become petrified like rock and thus become the very opposite of the ever-present freshness that is the nature of spirituality.

4. Many religions have organisations that govern the day-to-day administration of religious institutions. These institutions and authorities give interpretations that distort the original meanings of the scriptures and effectively distance the common man from the God head that he is worshipping.

5. Religion does not give any scope for dissent which is available in spirituality. When Martin Luther challenged some basic tenets of the Roman Catholic Church he was expelled. But when Satprem argued with Mother at many points during the recording of the Agenda, She listened to his arguments without showing any displeasure.

6. Many religions visualise God as some autocratic despot unwilling to share his supremacy with man and reluctant to share his divine qualities with man fearing that it may lead to man becoming his equal and no longer his subordinate. This is far from true as the real Divine being is only very happy to let man become divine also.

7. Each religion believes it to be superior to every other religion and insists that its particular set of beliefs alone is the real truth while deriding the belief systems of other religions. In this way religious discord has spawned enmity and hatred among religious followers and led to holy wars causing thousands of deaths.

8. ALL religions prescribe uniform methods for its followers and show little individual adjustments to each person's peculiarities. But spirituality is very adaptable and each one is given full liberty to fashion his own individual approach to sadhana and Godhead.

9. Religions are very resistant to accommodating new knowledge. For example, Islam assigned a subordinate position to women in its inception and it holds on to that position even after 2000 years while the position of women has vastly improved. But in spirituality man and woman are both given equal rights with Sri Aurobindo and Mother as the best examples.

10. Religion is static and does not have a progressive and evolving view. But spirituality is very progressive and looks forward to seeing humanity rising from its present mental stage to the future supramental stage.

(N. Asokan, MSS)

No Title

Any time you make an attitude more positive, you create a ripple in the universe that attracts good fortune.

No Title

Through consecration a hopeless situation is quickly resolved. Perhaps there is no greater miracle of life!

No Title

When you move to a higher value in relation to another party, life can respond with overwhelmingly good fortune.

For example, let's say that you are motivated by money when it comes to your client, but then you change to focusing on the client's true purpose and deepest values. As a result, a titanic change suddenly comes about in your life, such as a significant other who was about to leave you (and also believes in higher human values) suddenly comes forward with a proposal of marriage.

No Title

The Divine doesn't want you to suffer. Rather the Divine want you to elevate your consciousness so you come out of suffering.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo has fully explained how the Divine Reality became the universe, and the way forward in the evolution that culminates in a new Supramental Race beyond the current human species.

No Title

An individual who refuses to learn from others - only through experience - will be wasting decades of his life.

No Title

Human Ego exacerbates chaos and confusion in life. Controlling it brings about harmony and therefore greater success.

No Title

Conflicts in work has one common source: human Ego.

No Title

Ego is the ultimate time waster, as one has to traverse the long arc of chaos and conflict it generates.

No Title

Life often responds gradually or fitfully to your deepest aspirations, as the Divine wishes you to first learn certain important lessons along the way.

No Title

Nature/Life knows each of our strengths and weaknesses. It is incorporated in the cosmos, and therefore determines how Life will treat us.

No Title

Nothing really matters except Faith in Her. All then works out exactly as it should.

No Title

Each Harmonic act quickly attracts positive results from life; whereas each Ego movement attract the opposite.

Experience of Time from the Psychic Being

In ego, we experience one moment at a time. In the Transcendent we experience a oneness of time; a timeless Eternal. As our Psychic Being (evolving soul) within is on the border of these two, it can see both aspects together: i.e. it can see the Timeless Eternal unfolding in Time. By moving our consciousness to the depths within, we can begin to connect to our Psychic Being and begin to have such experiences. (paraphrase of Garry Jacobs)

Not Reacting to Our Enemies

Sri Karmayogi's theme is that we energize the opposition by reacting or responding to them. It is a practical experience not only for the individual but also to the group, including our enemies.

It is a fundamental law that when we respond and react to an enemy who provokes and annoys us, the stronger they become. Instead we should focus on Mother, and forget about the enemy. In that way, the opposition would actually become a basis of our progress! (paraphrase of Garry Jacobs)

No Title

In intuitive and supramental consciousness you perceive so many connections between things that you do not see through ordinary mind.

A Devotee's Outlook on Health Matters.

As devotee I would like to share my understanding of health issues with others. Whether they are correct or not from the medical point of view is for doctor devotees to decide.

1. A sound and strong health is a must for seekers of Integral yoga so that their bodies can bear the inrush of spiritual forces should that happen. That is why I believe Mother recommended physical exercises for all Ashramites irrespective of age.

2. The psychological condition of people is equally responsible for people's health as are physical factors. That is, a happy and cheerful and confident personality can maintain a good health even if diet is not good while a worrisome and diffident personality will be prone to frequent physical break-downs even if his diet is very good.

3. An illness in the body according to Mother always signifies that something is ill in the being. The latter precedes the former. A psychological depression invites cancer formation as the depression drains the person's energy, thus weakening the body's integrity and allowing disruptive forces to start operating.

4. The human mind has the capacity to exaggerate minor disorders into major break-downs and thereby cause many unnecessary visits and treatments at the hospital. People who are deprived of attention are known to use illness to attract attention by getting admitted into hospitals as in-patients.

5. That placebos cure illness as much as real medicines attest to the mind's power of cure arising from mere belief. Conversely even the most potent medicines fail to cure patients if he has given up his belief that he can get well.

6. The role of Grace in curing illness is to act like a catalyst. In many chemical reactions catalysts speed up the chemical reaction just by acting as a connecting agent. In a similar way, Grace acts as a catalyst by speeding up the physical curative process by serving as a link between the body on the one hand and the curative process on the other.

7. A good deal of current diseases and disorders have risen chiefly because man has gotten out of alignment with Nature. Till two centuries ago man ate well and worked equally well thus using up all his physical energies. Now he continues to eat well while at the same time drastically reducing the work load. The result is he has a lot of unused energies in his body which manifest as type 2 diabetes.

8. Mother says death comes to the body only after the physical being gives up the will to live. Why and what for it chooses to do so is a mystery known only to the person's soul.

9. If the soul decides to cure a person, it can do so overnight and transform a hopelessly sick person into a perfectly fit one in just one night. An accidental encounter with his psychic being led to a patient's full recovery from a near fatal illness which totally perplexed the doctors attending on him. The patient, on his part, could not bring himself to tell the doctors that his chance encounter with his soul has saved his life as he thought that they just would not believe him.

10. A descent of Psychic Peace can cure a heart ailment, dissolve kidney stones and erase all traces of cancer in the body.

No Title

... the psychic [being] has to remain very much in command of the whole being – the whole bodily being – guiding the life, then the mind has time to be transformed. (The Mother, from Agenda, December 18, 1971)

Comment: Sri Aurobindo says in Life Divine that when the psychic (evolving soul) moves to the fore of our being, the spiritual transformation, - i.e. transmutation of the mind to non-thought, intuition, revelation, etc. - can take place. Supramentalization is a further stage.

Confusion Conveyed

Over the years we have noticed that if you talk about your past confusion with others, you are likely to attract more confusion in the present!

For example, one woman relayed her experience to a client about the confusion she had involving a purchase she made for her grandchild. Immediately after that nervous explanation, she ran into more confusion when a key data system at work seemed to have problems!

Thus, we see that it is in your best interest to keep past confusion to yourself!

No Title

Inability or unwillingness to engage in nuanced arguments in developing solutions to persistent problems insures acute failure down the road.

Why We Are Here & How to Make It Happen

You are here now, I mean on earth, because you once chose to be – you don't remember it, but I know; that's why you are here.

Well, you must stand up to the task. You must make an effort, you must conquer pettiness and limitations, and above all tell the ego: your time is over. We want a race without ego, with the divine consciousness in place of the ego.

That's what we want: the divine consciousness, which will enable the race to develop and the superman to be born.

(The Mother, from Agenda, April 2, 1972)

No Title

The best remedy (I mean the easiest) for me, is: what You will – what You will, in all sincerity. In all sincerity.

(The Mother, from Agenda, April 12, 1972)

No Title

A debauched life can open the door for evil to enter and replace it.

Life Response in World Events

"Life Response" - evoking good or bad fortune from seemingly out of nowhere - happens not only to the individual, but also in business, in current events, in history, in war, in peace, among nations, etc. In world events, it can be seen most strikingly.

-eg the West attracted the Soviet police state under Stalin by meddling in the Russian Revolution, which it sought to squash. It was a negative life response to a wrong intention.

-It occurred recently with the rise of Putin; a reaction to how the West humiliated Russia after the end of the Cold War, causing the nation to lose self-respect and elect an autocratic strongman to regain it. Again, Ego of the West evoked a negative personality.

We can also see how the Spirit can shape world events, evoking powerful positive response from life.

-It happened in WWII when Sri Aurobindo sent his Force into Churchill, rallying the world against German fascism and aggression. After the war he withdrew His Force, and the British Empire collapsed, freeing India and other nations.

-It happened in 1989 when Mother from the ethereal plane ended the Cold War that threatened nuclear annihilation of the world by putting Her Force in Gorbachev.

No Title

Ideological differences are cast aside as prosperity increases through economic integration. It is one expression of the evolutionary movement of society.

Special Attributes of the Divine Consciousness

The Divine being whom we call God has some unique attributes which men don't have. Let us therefore see what those attributes are.

1. He is the ultimate reality behind existence named Brahman and the whole universe and its infinite number of constituents are only Himself in various forms.
2. The Brahman when it manifests takes the form of Sachchidananda where sat is existence, chit is consciousness and Ananda is bliss.
3. The divine consciousness is infinite and it is this very infinity that is the cause of his total freedom and it is out of this freedom that his bliss ensues.
4. What we call manifestation is a projection of this divine consciousness. As a projection, it appears to be outside the divine consciousness. But in reality, the entire creation is only within the divine consciousness.
5. The delight of the Divine is self-existent and is not dependent on anything coming from outside.
6. The Divine took a plunge into ignorance from his high level of omniscience and the delight of liberating himself from that ignorance is greater than the static bliss he experiences at the level of sacchidananda.
7. When the subjective state of Sacchidananda objectivises itself, it appears as Supermind which is described as Truth consciousness.
8. The Divine appears as itself and as the world both at the same time and both are equally real. His infinite consciousness does not suffer any diminution for having turned a portion of Himself into creation for the simple reason that infinity cannot be diminished by any amount of subtraction.
9. Brahman as the Absolute Reality escapes all definitions and cannot be limited by any definition. It is because he is above all qualities, he is able to generate an infinite number of qualities.
10. The Divine consciousness is fully equal and cannot be disturbed by any outward happenings.
11. Though there is a lot in this creation that is imperfect and evil, the Mother has asked humanity to wait till the last act of this drama when the marvel will unfold.
12. Evolution has come up with the human body to house the human mind in the human brain. The Supermind is working to evolve a Supramental Body to give it a proper housing. It is believed that the Psychic Being [evolving soul] in the future will take on a solid and dense form and serve as the Supramental Being.
13. Sat splits into Truth and Goodness while Chit splits into Knowledge and Force. Ananda gives rise to Joy, Love and Beauty.
14. The Divine is a gender-less being though at the level of humanity his executive power of Divine Shakti has been termed Divine Mother.
15. The Divine being takes on human forms now and then in order to be close to humanity and teach them how to become Divine like himself. His last messengers were Sri Aurobindo and the Mother. They lived their whole life as a living demonstration of what divinity can mean for humanity. It is up to humanity to take the cue and respond.

(N. Asokan, MSS)

No Title

Faith is spontaneous knowledge in the Psychic. (The Mother)

On Dynamic Faith

Beyond absence of faith, and even Faith itself is to possess Dynamic Faith. It is to feel that no matter what happens to you, that the Divine Grace is always there, always with you, watching over you.

As a result, we are able to face all difficulties, pass through all dangers, while nothing untoward stirs inside. Our faith is total, pure, sincere, dynamic, never-ending.

Life therefore becomes startling, miraculous, energizing, joyful, ultimately fulfilling.

Going Beyond Human Psyche to Cope with Intensifying Pressures of Life

Though we are excited by technology and its ability to solve problems in the world, the human psyche is being mightily taxed by circumstance and events around us and in the world.

Therefore, something needs to supersede the human mind and our "desire soul." What can that be? It is the Spirit; which can also be thought of as "raising one's consciousness."

If we don't take to this inner life - through which we can more readily connect to the divine Spirit and its Force, - we are increasingly bound to be eaten alive by the realities and pressures of life.

Fortunately, through development of higher consciousness - whether higher attitudes, behaviors, attitudes, perceptions, beliefs, values, etc. - we can avoid this outcome. In fact, from that higher poise we can turn the vast pressures and difficulties of life to our advantage, channeling them into vast positive opportunities for ourselves and the world.

No Title

Putin and Trump are the negative result of the West and Russia not working together after the end of the Cold War. It is life responding, trying to create a new bond between the two sides, yet through negative individuals that both sides deserved.

No Title

Blaming and complaining about others are two common expressions of human Ego. And yet the spirit-oriented individual is always vigilant of them, rejecting them outright when they appear in one's consciousness.

No Title

If it weren't for a number of negative conditions I experienced, a number of key positives in my life would never have taken place. And that is pretty much true for everyone.

Greatness of Sri Karmayogi

Sri Karmayogi has shown through thousands of thought entries how Sri Aurobindo and Mother's teachings can be understood in terms of all of the events and developments of the last 50 years; massively applying, extending their Knowledgeable and Wisdom to all fields of life; and further clarifying through his vast, unbounded spiritualized intellect the way forward in the Evolution.

Sri Karmayogi is in my view the greatest original thinker in the world of the last 50 years, a fact one day that humanity and a coming super-humanity will awaken to.

Cleaning Neglected Area Attracts Instantaneous Startling Result

When you give attention and clean or order something that's been neglected for a long time, life will instantaneously respond accordingly.

A man's difficult neighbor to a man was finally moving out and only their last mobile storage unit remained. It stayed there for a while; perhaps too long to the man.

Then one morning the man decided to clean out a neglected area of his yard, bordering out another neighbor. It was filthy; filled with leaves and other debris. When he completed that brief effort, he heard a noise in his front yard, and realized that the mobile storage device of the difficult neighbor was after two weeks suddenly being propped up and ready to be taken away by a truck attached to its front.

As the truck with storage unit left the areas, the man knew that his effort at cleaning a much-neglected area instantaneously evoked a positive Response from Life

No Title

When a dark force retreats from one's environment, positive opportunities quickly present themselves.

No Title

Flowers know much better than we do. It's spontaneous, not thought out, not willed: it's divine vibrations that express themselves spontaneously. (The Mother, from Agenda January 11, 1967)

No Title

Sarcasm tends to invite retort in a group setting. Best to explain your view in logical terms, or better still remain silent, so it spreads in the atmosphere, causing others to pick it up and even adopt it.

Four Levels of Relating to Spirit

Utilizing the Divine to help you cope is stage one use of Spirit. Opening to the Divine when you have an acute problem is the second level of Spirit use. A third level is where your focus in the course of a day is the Spirit, and from there everything follows. A fourth level is to Surrender to the Divine, as you're very purpose of existence is centered there.

No Title

When your value, belief is false, Life will present circumstances that will challenge it. Will you then notice the correspondence? Will you then change your ways if you do? If so, life will become your great Ally.

No Title

US and Russia working together can help solve most of the major political issues and conflicts of the world.

No Title

Low values of an organization shift the useful positive energy to a competitor with higher values.

Book Sales "Coincidence"

What we call "coincidence" is simply an inability to understand the deeper reasons why we are unexpectedly connecting.

A man met another individual for the first time in a restaurant, and the second person narrated to the man his background history in selling books online. The first man listened attentively to his interesting stories.

Then one day six months later, the two met for a second time in another restaurant far away, which they both perceived as an amazing coincidence; a one in 1 million shot.

However, the first man on further examination of the situation realized that he had recently taken on the new prospect involving the sales of books online; precisely the earlier avocation of the second man that he had discovered in their first meeting.

That was the reason they met again; in what they considered a virtual impossible coincidence. It was because the second individual represented that same vibration of online book sales that the first man was now pursuing. Thus they met in the same place in space and time.

Coincidence is thus really connections of interest at the subtle plane that make things connect in space-time at the physical plane.

No Title

In a troubling situation, not worrying about the outcome or response of others attracts the best result.

No Title

Intense anger by a devotee not only can draw out negative circumstances from his own small circle, but can attract substantial negative events in the world.

What You Believe in Determines

- If you believe in yourself, your capacities will uplift you
- If you believe in others, their interest and gratitude will take you higher
- If you believe in your true self and soul, it will guide you toward your ultimate purpose
- If you believe in the Divine, it will take you to the heights and depths of the Supreme.

No Title

At the moment you garner the courage and break away from circumstance that has long-time oppressed you, Life moves forward and offers its full protection.

No Title

Let us be patient and optimistic, do what is necessary, and the best will come.

Examples of How Materials, Objects Mystically Respond to Attention

[giving objects, machines, properties, etc. proper attention cause them to evoke startling response from life. Here are a number of examples:]

1. My father owned a cashew Estates in Ramapuram near Cuddalore. He maintained it well and spent a lot of money in developing that Estates. Later on a property dispute rose between him and another man who claimed rights over it. The odds were stacked heavily against my father as he did not have any documentary records to prove that he owned that property. The court judgement went against him. The man put up the property for sale. Surprisingly nobody would buy that and finally he was forced to sell the property to my father only who had all along been taking good care of it.

2. I once owned a drilling machine and I was taking good care of it. I lent it to an electrician who reported to me later on that it was stolen when he left it on his bicycle. I was sad for a few days and reported it to my father. He said that it won't go away from me as I had taken good care of it. Just as he said on the third day the electrician met me and handed over the drill saying that whoever took the drill left it in a shop that the electrician frequented with instructions to hand it over to him.

3. In our compound a particular place in the garden looked very dirty. I spend an hour cleaning up that place and wondered what reward I would get. Surprisingly Dharmapuri centre which had not given me any bathi order for 3 months or more called me up and placed an order for 10000 rupees worth of incense. This happened within half of hour of cleaning up that place.
4. I own a desk top computer which I am maintaining quite well. One day a Singapore devotee called me saying she would to gift me something. I suggested a lap top for which she immediately sent the money. It looked like life was gifting me an extra computer for taking good care of my earlier computer.
5. I used to have a scooter model called Hero Winner. It soon became unpopular in the market and it was given up as a failure model and stores even stopped keeping spares for repair. But I insisted on keeping this failure model as it was serving me very well. I hunted down a spare parts shop in Chennai and regularly purchased spare parts for repair whenever I needed to service my scooter. But at one point yielding to pressure from family and friends I agreed to dispose of the vehicle for a paltry 3000 rupees. On the day I decided to sell my machine I sent my car to Chennai for some work. At around 11.00 clock I got a call from my driver saying that Check post authorities have detained my car saying that it was plying as a taxi without paying tax and that they would release my car only after due taxes have been paid. I immediately understood this incident to be the result of my scooter reacting to my proposal for sale. I immediately gave up the idea. Within minutes my driver called to say that they have released the car after some devotee friends of mine went to that place and assured the check post authorities that the car was not a taxi but kept for personal use only.
6. In our house frontage a few plastic chairs are kept for visitors to sit. One day my wife spent considerable time cleaning those chairs by washing them with soap water. Next day early in the morning when she opened the door she was surprised to see a big bouquet of flowers resting on one of those plastic chairs that she had cleaned. She took it as a sign that the chairs were very pleased with the attention that they got and they were demonstrating that by adorning themselves with flowers.
7. Prior to 2013, I used to live right opposite to my father's house. It was the ground floor of an old house. But I took it as it was right near to my father's house. I lived there for 14 years and during that long time I spent more than a lakh of rupees towards repairs and maintenance for which I did not charge the owner. At some point of time my father agreed to build a 2nd floor to his house so that I could shift there. I understood that the old house that I had spent so much money on was showing its gratitude to me by making my father build a whole new floor for me to shift to.
8. We moved to the house we are living in around 1980. It has been 37 years since we moved to this place. When we came here a mechanical wall clock was installed. My father insists on keeping that clock even now and makes it run by giving keys now and then. Digital clocks are now available. Still he is very fond of that mechanical clock and to everyone's amazement it is still working if somebody gives the key. (N. Asokan, MSS)

Sudden Turnaround Reflecting Man's Decision to Change His Life, Follow Sunlit Path

A friend of mine who was angry that he had been cheated out of shares in an organization, wrote me about his dilemma the other day. In return, I asked him to not react with any intensity to the situation, to see if there was any possibility that he cheated others in the past (causing him to be cheated now, according to the law of inner-outer correspondence), to consecrate the entire matter to the Mother, etc.

Only a few days later, he wrote me the following:

"I have decided to take the spiritual path.

I have been reflecting on my own failings in life to have attracted the type of people and circumstances and consecrated them all to the divine mother. I am sure my journey to redeem myself and rediscover the sunlit path of Mother has perhaps just started.

Miraculously, I have started receiving phone calls for businesses that I have initiated weeks and months ago. My application for refinancing that was under consideration for months to pay all my debts and taxes been pre-approved today. I am invited by the principal of a law firm today, to be part of it.

I am grateful to Mother. I am also eternally indebted to you for your prompt and kind response."

This is a typical Life Response reaction to those who change an attitude, let alone those who make the firm decision to turn around their lives.

No Title

Coming at things from the widest variety of perspectives enables true, integral understanding.

Subtle Indications from Life of What Is to Come

We have read so much about life response from Appa's writings that we should realise by now that life gives many subtle indications of what is going to happen later on. Let us see some such subtle indications.

1. My father had a coconut garden in Cuddalore town itself in the 1960s. But he noticed that workers from nearby Ramapuram village (nearly 10 km away) used to come and work there. He was intrigued by this event and wondered what it meant. Later on a few years later when he bought a cashew estate in Ramapuram itself, he realised that it was a subtle indication of what was coming on in future.

2. The Mother saw in a vision that Chinese people were moving about in Calcutta streets. Immediately she realised that it was a subtle indication of later Chinese invasion which proved to be true.

3. The Jalianwala Bagh incident in which many people lost their lives was a subtle indication that Indian freedom will be accompanied by violent bloodshed and that it won't be free of violence as Gandhiji had wanted.

4. My father wanted to teach consultancy to a devotee in the 90s to which the devotee responded. When he came here, he sent some consultancy papers to him for reading before he came up the stairs to meet him. The devotee later returned the papers back to Appa through the servant who had brought them. Appa noticed that the papers were all in disarray with the numerical order all changed. He understood that the devotee will fail in consultancy which proved to be true later on.

5. When Pakistan was proclaimed an independent country in 1947, the Pakistani flag was hoisted all over West Pakistan, but was surprisingly absent all throughout East Bengal. It was a subtle indication that later on East Bengal will leave the Pakistani union.

6. In the 19th century Ramalinga Adigalar said that a saint from the North would come and settle in Tamil Nadu. It was a subtle indication that Sri Aurobindo would later arrive.

7. A team of Indian professionals showed great interest in learning consultancy from my father in the 1990s and started seeing some income. However, they relied heavily on another senior consultant to bring new clients. Their failure to bring a new client on their own initiative was a subtle indication that their joint consultancy would soon wind up. True to life's indication, the consultancy did come to an end.

8. Sometime in 2015 a building collapsed in Chennai causing many deaths. It was a subtle indication that an Important VIP would be passing away soon. True to that indication the T.N. C.M passed away in December 2016.

9. On India's Independence Day Gandhiji was missing in Delhi as he was conducting Padayathra in Bengal. It was a subtle indication of the end of his role in the freedom movement. True to that indication, his life came to an end in Jan.48.

10. An ardent disciple of my father used to come on the 1st of every month to attend the Prosperity day calling from 90 to 93. My father offered the devotee a chance to visit America and learn the Glen-doman method of teaching. The minute she learnt that she will be visiting America soon, she stopped coming for prosperity day calling for six months in a row without offering any explanation. Later on in the year 1999, my father had to inform her to stop coming to MSS or MMC. Her earlier discontinuation for 6 months of prosperity calling in 93 was a subtle indication of the permanent injunction to visit MSS and MMC that came in 99. (N. Asokan, MSS)

Comment: In 1976, I came up to the San Francisco Bay area to do some sales for the Los Angeles-based Mere Cir imports who were selling goods from the Ashram, Auroville, and MCC. When I arrived there, I went to visit an old acquaintance who when he learned what I was up to mocked my sales effort; saying that I had given up on my artistic and social ideals, when in fact the opposite was the case.

It also turns out that that same meeting I first saw my future partner for a sales business we would create. After a brief successful run, our sales company fell apart due to many simultaneous difficulties.

In other words, the old friend's negative expression (at the time of my first glimpse of my future partner) was an indicator of the great difficulty that was to come.

In 1989 I was working as the national franchise manager of desktop publishing centers located throughout the world. One day my manager suggested that I train a few people on several software applications. It seemed like a come down, yet I accepted it in full. Several days later two beautifully dressed, lovely women approached me and asked if I would join their software training organization. It was as if they were angels who appeared from out of nowhere with this compelling opportunity.

It would in fact kick off a successful 30 year training career that continues until this day.

In other words, their coming to me from out of nowhere, with no effort on my part, was an indicator of the success that was to come.

No Title

In Savitri Sri Aurobindo indicates that in the subtle planes there are higher worlds of consciousness waiting to manifest on earth. However, we need to open ourselves, our consciousness in order for these higher realms to manifest on earth.

No Title

When you ask something of someone that is not yours to ask, you may instead lose an advantage with them you already had.

No Title

When we move out of doubt and fear and the inevitability of suffering and death, replacing it with Faith in the Divine, in Mother, and the Grace that follows, we have moved into the Supramental consciousness of Truth of being, enabling a divine existence for ourselves and an immortal existence on earth.

Goddess Revealed

In the recent Savitri speech by Garry Jacobs on Sri Aurobindo's epic spiritual poem Savitri, he shared an experience of Sri Aurobindo who had met a certain Goddess in His vision and finally recognized that Goddess when he went through the Vedas.

In the midst of the speech, N. Asokan asked the Garry who that Goddess was. Garry could not remember at the time and told the audience that we should be able to find that incident from Karmayogi's books.

Today I was making a list of Karmayogi's books for a project I am undertaking, and in the evening started to read His book "Pushpanjali" from the point I left off earlier that morning.

I was then thrilled to find the answer to the question from that book, as Karmayogi has shared that incident and the Goddess name was "ILA"

I believe it was a life response due to the related project I have undertaken in regard to Sri Appa's books, or it is simply the atmosphere that Sri Appa's books contain. (SM)

Comment: "In Vedic literature, Ilā is also known as Idā. Idā in the Rigveda, signifies food and refreshment, personified as the goddess of speech. Ilā-Idā is also associated with Sarasvati, the goddess of knowledge." Garry Was conveying knowledge (about poem Savitri) through his speech.

Ways We Spoil an Activity

The outcome of an act can be spoiled in a variety of ways. Here are several causes:

- Our focus is diverted by some other matter, causing the present act to be partially ignored, leading to it being spoilt.
- We are in a rush, ruining the right flow, thus negating a positive outcome.
- We overly focus on the goal to be achieved, ignoring the attention the process, the details of the act demand, leading to spoilt outcome.
- We are troubled by matters, bringing negative energy to the act, and thereby attracting negative circumstance while engaged in it.
- We are too eager to show the results to others, thereby negatively affecting the right flow of completing the act.
- We are not properly prepared to do the act - in terms of concentration, skill, necessary information, knowledge, organization, time-wise, energy, resources, etc.
- We have inadequately focused our intent, our goal, and purpose.

Such results come from an unfocused mind, or the vital/emotional being that is carried away. The spiritual approach is to quiet the mind, to settle into the act, to know where one is going and to consecrate (offer it to the spiritual Force) at the outset.

True Value of Life Response

Life Response (onset of sudden good fortune) is truly valuable when it is a means of developing one's consciousness; not merely an occasional striking event you notice along the way. The former indicates Sincerity of purpose and Aspiration for Inner Growth; the latter, mere Curiosity.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo indicates that death is simply a deep-seated, seemingly intractable Habit; one that can and will be overcome through our evolution in Consciousness.

On Karma

Karma is a vibration of conscious or subconscious intent from an individual or collective that moves out into the universal field of life, links up to corresponding circumstance, individuals, etc, and returns sooner or later to that person(s), as positive, neutral, or negative life conditions, depending on the quality of the original force.

No Title

Through one's higher consciousness of Non-Reaction and Consecration, a nefarious, unstable national leader will be progressively pacified by the Force, reversing his positions and tactics.

Values Energize Any Work Activity

In any work-related activity you engage in, think of the deepest personal, business, or social value related to that endeavor, and intensely wish for its fulfillment. It will broadcast a powerful positive force that can attract a far greater than expected result.

Eg instead of merely thinking about the details of a project involving the disseminating of profound books, you instead imagine the benefits the reader will derive from taking in that knowledge. As a result, startling, unexpected positive results will follow. One man tried this approach and a few minutes later received a completed very important document from a colleague that he did not expect for weeks if not months!

Values like Customer Delight, Truthfulness, Integrity, Goodwill, Perfection, Harmony, and Peace will take any work to the next highest plane.

No Title

Opening the mind to new areas that challenge our mental capacities unexpectedly attracts the support and involvement of people with that capacity.

Integral View of Circumstance

By understanding the principle that Nature/Life works on many fronts simultaneously will help us integrally comprehend circumstance in the world.

-Each problematic situation is a product of a variety of circumstance; much of which seems to an average mind not directly related.

-Each central situation in the course of its resolution is resolving multiple problems at once.

-This is the integral view of the Higher Consciousness.

-We can obtain that view by giving up our prejudices, shedding our ideologies, and quieting the mind so that a multi-sided knowledge can enter a still mind absent of thought.

Non-Reaction Power

"Don't get upset with people and situations, because both are powerless without your reaction." (Pooja Bedi)

When you don't react, remaining still, life responds and their power begins to dwindle; i.e. Life takes away their negativity.

No Title

Technologies become obsolete, whereas the laws of the Character of Life retain their sparkle and startling Truth-value into the future.

Overcoming Obsession/Fear Attracts One's Heart's Desire

One subtle, yet startling observation about life is that giving up one's over-attachment to an outcome greatly increases the possibility of it coming about.

Here is a true-to-life example:

'Home Fires' is a British period television drama about the life of Women's Institute members on the Home Front during the Second World War. It is set in a rural Cheshire community called Great Paxford.

Miriam Brindsley is the wife of local butcher. The thought of war terrifies her, therefore she continually fears for her son's life after he enlists and heads to battle. Then one day he is reported missing, causing Miriam to go into a daily state of mortal fear for his life.

Miriam's continually husband tries to sooth her, but she tries to do everything to discover her son's whereabouts, to the point of deep obsession. She is constantly on the verge of going mad.

One day several months later her husband finally convinces here to let go and let things be, even if it means accepting that their son is dead. Several days after doing just that there is a Nazi bombing raid on the town, which is followed by their son's startling arrival. The parents and the son deeply embrace.

A little while after, the husband praises his wife for believing that their son was alive; and now he has returned. However, on deeper analysis, we see that it is because Miriam has GIVEN UP her obsession that she attracts their son back to them.

In other words, by giving up her over-attachment and hysterical behavior about her son, it creates the calm conditions by which her son returns unharmed.

That is the power of detaching from one's negative obsession and fear. You attract your deepest aspiration in life!

Often ignoring a problem that deeply troubles us will compel Life to dissipate it.

Overcoming Wrong Consciousness that Precipitates Delay

If something does not occur on time as expected or is otherwise delayed, check the limiting inner attitude or outer behavior that might have precipitated it. When you reverse it, the thing desired will quickly appear. Eg-

- if you waste money, then money coming in may get delayed.
- the account you expected to obtain was too quickly or unnecessarily verbalized to others
- the long-term accolade you expected from your boss does not come because the work you did that day was sloppy
- funds do not balance in your account for the month because that day you were not frugal in a purchase
- important papers do not arrive because you were overconfident they would come
- work does not arrive because you were too lazy to do today's chores.

Recognizing and reversing any of these inwardly or outwardly will facilitate the originally hoped-for result. Consecrating it - offering it to the Mother -- will give strength to that possibility.

No Title

Symptoms of life outside are observable, not controllable. They are observable as well as controllable in their origin of inner impulses. The capacity to control the inner impulses offer mastery of the outer life. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

[from Within] one man can change the world.

No Title

Unlike the tradition Sri Aurobindo says there is nothing but the Divine: i.e. the Divine manifest, and the Divine hidden; and nothing else. This totality is the Reality; Brahman; the Absolute; the All.

No Title

Difficulties are Opportunities concealed.

No Title

The inner flame of Aspiration for the Divine to descend and enter this world is the starting point of the integral yoga.

No Title

To know Mother acts and how SHE acts is to be conscious. When one is conscious, that capacity to invoke the Force is permanent. (MSS)

Reader: At the very "lowest" level, consciousness of Mother is needed to remember to call Her.

No Title

To remain open to the Mother is to remain always quiet and happy and confident - not restless, not grieving or despondent, to let her Force work in you, guide you, give you knowledge, give you peace and Ananda. If you cannot keep yourself open, then aspire constantly but quietly that you may be open. (Sri Aurobindo)

No Title

The more a regressive force pushes in its negative direction, the more it compels a corresponding progressive force to intensify.

Power of Embracing Opportunities, Relevant Requests Coming Your Way

Life coming to you on its own is normally much more powerful than your going after life. When embraced, the former tends to succeed very often, while the latter not as much.

A man was offered the opportunity to engage in a new software product. It would allow inspiring mini audio messages on the subject of "Life Response" to appear in people's smartphones on a daily basis. He was hesitant about taking it up, as he had other ideas in mind. However, soon after he changed his point of view.

And so the man began to make audios for the public for this project. As it turned out the individual who made the original offer, could not follow through as other matters became more pressing.

And yet, as it would turn out the individual who made the audios met another man who would later create magnificent videos out of the original audios. By embracing the original opportunity of the second man, and working to make it real, the first man was able to attract a third individual who turned his own inspiration into a work of art.

From this true story, we see that it is important to be vigilant of opportunities or relevant requests coming your way. Taking them up in earnest can propel you to the pinnacles of success, as life will tend to respond out of all proportion in your favor.

Making Right Cross-Road Decision When There is a Problem

When something isn't working out, it usually means it requires more of your attention, or it is time to move on to something else. Knowing how to negotiate such situations is a key to success in life.

Eg you are trying to make a new post, but the system gets bogged down and begins to run slow. Either it means you need to be more patient or perhaps adjust your computer for more efficient operation, etc.; or it is an indication that life wants you to move onto something else. Being able to work your way through such situations and having the subtle sense to make the right choice is one of the keys to great success in life.

Tip: Developing an Intuitive capacity gives one the subtle sense of what to do, as the thought of the right choice enters the mind without having to think about it. How is that possible? Through inner growth, consecration, silencing the mind, et al deepens the consciousness and opens the mind to Intuitions of right knowledge and action in such cross-road situations.

No Title

When people assert their point of view to the point of belligerence, then you sense Ego spreading throughout their being.

No Title

In a world progressing rapidly, reactionary forces dramatically present themselves so Life can purge them once and for all from the consciousness of humanity.

No Title

Lack of inclusion of certain segments causes positive forces to be confronted by negative ones who are secretly seeking to be part of the whole.

Terrorism is one example; rising out of the anguish of poverty. As is the abuse of Russia toward the West due to her being ignored. Also, the arrival of Trump in the name of the dispossessed.

It is Life's difficult, yet necessary movement toward an inevitable higher Harmony. To that effect, all sides need to work out the issues.

Equality of Being During Math Test Attracts Great Results

[when you remain very still when difficulties arise and go a step further and offer it to the Spirit, not only will you solve an immediate problem, but you will also attract powerful positive results related to the bigger picture. Here's an example:]

"I was studying in Engineering college then. We were giving mid-term tests and on a particular day when the incident happened, it was math based subject Control Systems. I didn't do the previous mid-term test well and hence I was preparing well this time in order to score well.

On that morning when I left home for the exam I forgot to take pro-circle instrument (for angle measurement) and a graph sheet for the test. I didn't realize this until I received the question paper and started reading the questions. Because both the questions were math problems and required pro-circle, graph and scale. I had a scale but forgot to bring the other 2 things. Usually I get panic. But this time I stopped myself getting panic consciously and just called MOTHER. That's it, I never bothered about anything, marks, results. I felt the calmness inside. I stood up and asked the invigilator (who happened to be one of the lecturers teaching a subject for us that semester) whether it is possible for him to allow me to go and buy a graph sheet from the student-store located downstairs. Usually teachers would not allow any student to go outside the class until the test is over. But I tried my best to put forth my request as that was the best that I could do at that time.

The teacher came forward to help me. He said it would take a lot of time to go and come back. He immediately asked the students in that hall whether anybody has got extra graph-sheet. One of my friends gave me a sheet. I thanked both of them and started working on the sheet. After some calculations, I realized that I needed a pro-circle to continue working on the problem. But I felt I cannot go back for one more help. I didn't get panic this time too. Since I've practiced several problems on graph-sheets I know where will a 60-degree line pass through inside a square. I completed the problem without using a pro-circle. I wrote the final answers and came back from the hall.

After a week or so, when the corrected test papers were distributed, our teacher mentioned that lot of students have not scored well this time and many were not able to complete the problem precisely. She worked out the problem on the board and explained the steps and wrote the final answer too. I was startled to see the results as they were so precise and exactly the same as mine. Only few students got the correct result and scored full marks. I was one among them.

I thanked Mother and later realized that not reacting to the situation and choosing to remain absolutely calm and do the best that could be done at that moment was the start and Mother's Grace followed."

(RT)

Appa's Initiative Coming In as Opportunity for Me

When Karmayogi asked Garry and Bob to teach me Appa's core principles at their house in Napa in 1997, it opened the door to my creation of Growth Online, the books I have written on Life Response and others, and the serious practice of personal growth and yoga.

Appa saw the signs from his side - as I had worked with them on a business venture the previous year - and acted to initiate this project. From my side, I received an opportunity from him, - an external initiative coming in - which usually ends in success, as opposed to Initiating on one's own, which brings success less often. It has taken me almost exactly 20 years since those weekly teachings began to recognize this dynamic.

No Title

Neo-Fascism is trying to spread around the world (Philippines, Turkey, Russia, USA, Egypt, etc.) in the vacuum of liberal democracies inability to incorporate the dispossessed in society - in terms of poverty, unemployment, low skills, low wages, refugee status, terrorism, etc. It will force the progressive forces to seriously work together in that regard, thereby uplifting all peoples, while negating the further rise of an odious movement.

No Title

Comment Wikipedia: "Neo-fascism is a post-World War II ideology that includes significant elements of fascism. Neo-fascism usually includes ultranationalism, populism, anti-immigration policies or, where relevant, nativism, anti-communism, anti-socialism, anti-Marxism, anti-anarchism and opposition to the parliamentary system and liberal democracy."

David Brooks explains this very well in this article in NY Times:

<https://www.nytimes.com/.../the-crisis-of-western-civ...>

No Title

Overcoming reluctance to engage in a small thing reveals a much greater one.

No Title

Over-Attachment to a person, place, or thing can blind you from the Truth when negative circumstance involve them.

No Title

As long as you have negative emotional feelings toward another when condemning their troubling behavior, you too will be in the wrong. On the other hand, if you catch yourself and shed that harmful emotion, those you rail against will magically begin to change their awful ways, or other surprising beneficial results or events will take place. It is a powerful truth of Life, ... and Life Response.

Abusive Boss

Anger toward an abusive boss compounds the problem, intensifying the negative relationship. Instead, being non-reactive to the boss' behavior and becoming peaceful inside, while wanting positive change, will attract positive circumstance - such as someone working against him on your behalf, the reversal of his abusive behavior, his disappearance from your life, etc.

No Title

An intense negative coming your way will on self-reflection reveal corresponding negative behavior or habit or attitude or belief on your part. Thus, in one sense, such problems occur to help you grow out of your limitations.

Evil is a Moral Reality; Not a Material or Spiritual One

Q: If God really exists, how is it possible that permits evil?

A: Evil is real to the human moral view. It has no reality. An object is materially real. Evil has no material reality, its reality is moral.

Fire is real to us, not to the fire walker.

For a child that detests going to school, school is evil. It is evil to that age, not really.

In the last century war-wounded legs were to be amputated. The wounded soldiers dreaded it and slept with a revolver to prevent the surgeon coming. It is an evil that saves his life. A stray dose of whiskey was all the anesthesia at that time. Is it really evil to save a life amputating his leg?

The daughter-in-law finds the mother-in-law evil and vice versa. It is there in their attitude, not in reality.

A spoilt child raised on sweets and chocolates finds good food evil. The evil is not in the food, it is in the child's attitude.

Widow marriage was a great evil in the last century.

The evil changes with Time. சத்தி is incarnate cruelty. As women poisoned their husbands when secure, சத்தி was instituted to prevent it.

There was a real instance of two wives competing to burn with the dead husband. The military General gave the verdict on behalf of one who happily allowed herself to be consumed by the flames.

What is really evil can be an enjoyable good in certain conditions.

Evil has a moral reality, not a material or Spiritual reality.

(Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

Give yourself unconditionally to others, and the Divine will compensate you a thousand-fold, whether or not others give you in return. (paraphrase of N. Asokan, MSS)

No Title

Through our rise in Consciousness, the Invisible increasingly manifests as the visible.

Reader: visible through 'insight' in the mind

Response: Eg adopting invisible human values, life outside ourselves is heightened, accomplishment increased.

Through invisible silence, we are better able to cope and succeed in the outer world.

Through invisible consecration startling positive outer events occur in the world.

Through control of our invisible (to us) emotions, we attract sudden positive outer circumstance

Etc.

Sri Aurobindo's Dream

- reunification of India
- prosperity for India
- re-emergence of Asia
- world union, human unity
- India as guru of the world
- transformation of humanity
- emergence of supramental race
- divine life on earth

No Title

We know of God, but not of God's body, which is the universe.

Mother Explains How to Reach and the Experience of the Psychic Being

In order to find the soul, you must go in this way (gesture of going deep within), like this, draw back from the surface, withdraw deep within and enter, enter, enter, go down, down, down into a very deep hole, silent, immobile, and there, there's a kind of... something warm, quiet, rich in substance and very still, and very full, like a sweetness--that is the soul.

And if one is insistent and is conscious oneself, then there comes a kind of plenitude which gives the feeling of something complete that contains unfathomable depths in which, should one enter, one feels that many secrets would be revealed... like the reflection in very peaceful waters of something that is eternal. And one no longer feels limited by time.

(The Mother)

No Title

Both religion and science have failed to explain how the Divine became the universe. And yet Sri Aurobindo has explained it in full.

No Title

Westerners have a difficult time relating to and staying with Life Response and related phenomena as their surface, physical, material nature dominates their existence; not the depths, not the subtle and causal.

Reader: I think it must be because "traditionally", or such, ego and ratio stand in the way and consequently "spiritual dimension" is seen as "superstition"...

Response: Yes, the European mind (including USA) is rooted in science and the material, solidified by a certain rationality (scientific method and rational thought) that excludes the unseen and subtle (that has no material basis). It is their Superstition.

No Title

By insisting on their approach establishes a type of Ego go that is adverse to other points view, experiences, etc.

No Title

After two world wars Europe is now liberal-minded, but still indifferent to the ultimate forces behind our existence.

No Title

Ironically Jesus - a spiritual figure - has helped humanize them through focus on compassion and love.

Reader: How do you, Roy, think to --given the situation-- best induce circumstances that the "spiritual dimension" can be reached?

Response: What people are doing with hatha yoga, mindfulness, and all are good things. Also as the world intensifies we begin to appreciate stilling the mind to come up with spontaneous intuitive solutions without thinking etc. if the EU deepens it could also help.

Sri Aurobindo says Europe should look to Asia to learn about the spiritual source of things, the subtle workings of life, etc.

Of course, Life Response knowledge and practice would be a natural!

Reader: So... this may take another generation if all goes 'well'?

(i.e.: it so will not happen 'now', that is: it will not be "mainstream" now, but perhaps within another generation yet to come...)

Response: Something like the hippies exploded on the scene and then quickly disappeared. It was supramental according to Mother, until it imploded due to wildness, drugs, sex, etc.

Likewise The Secret dramatically arose on the scene from seemingly out of nowhere. It is in reality the first wave of Life Response for the world. (Ours is another, or several levels higher still.)

The Divine is preparing many things behind the scenes, and they will come out as necessary.

The Supramental Consciousness can break out in new forms, new ways, in an instant.

But so can another financial crisis and calamity, to name but one area.

The Divine knows the right time and place.

All we need to do is Aspire for something higher, and be patient.

Things happen in stages. But certain stages can come very fast! So keep an eye out!

Reader: "The Divine knows the right time and place. All we need to do is Aspire for something higher, and be patient." Okay... "The supramental consciousness can break out in new forms, new ways, in an instant." It could help if we consciously call on (?) the 'supramental force'... then if so, what is the best way to do according to you, is it through "consecration"?

Response: Remember the Mother before doing anything important. Also recognize and consecrate any negative attitudes. You will gain enormous power over the outer life, constantly evoking the miraculous. Also, every act or feeling of goodwill or self-givingness or gratitude will attract wonderful outcomes.

No Title

Asia, the East offers the infinite, eternal Depths to the West; while the West has given or rekindled the infinite material wherewithal to the East.

No Title

The world is being strained in the extreme with acute problems because it is lost on the surface consciousness; in the physical, material mind, at a time when problems are accelerating, which only intuition (powerful knowledge, solutions entering a silent mind without thought) and other formations of spiritualized mind can grapple with and resolve.

No Title

Mothers persistently screaming at their children only intensifies the unruly behavior of the child. Patient, quiet discussion has a much more lasting effect.

No Title

Karmayogi implores us to constantly distinguish between Physical, Vital/Emotional, Mental, and Spiritual in any situation or circumstance. That way we can make intelligent distinctions in life that bring much greater, deeper understanding, and therefore the very best insights and strategies for improvement going forward.

No Title

Mother was disgusted by the Christian image of the crucifixion and the need to suffer intensely to reach the divine. The Divine she said should be obtained by Truth, Harmony, and Love, which Christ embodied, as did a number of other great spiritual figures.

Reader: I noticed something in the Lord's Prayer...Jesus says "forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us" (this can only be attained in the state of Advaita)...he has not said anything about his death paying for sins. Also, he often said to people "your faith has healed you"...so he clearly taught a path of purification by Grace.

No Title

Technological artificial intelligence is a sign that an even greater Spiritual intelligence is about to emerge in the minds of humans.

Comment: Perhaps we can say that AI will be the "offloading" of the current human intelligence from human to tech, enabling humans to now see into the deep Life laws and spiritual insights of a still, spiritualized mind of intuition, illumination, and supramental perception.

Reader: Roy, I am thinking: what about re-learning how to consciously relate to 'nature', i.e. non-human life forms, relating to Planet Earth and all its inhabitants in a profound respectful way unlike now... how do you see artificial intelligence could be helpful this way?

Response: Any time a major decision has to be made, we need to look at it holistically, at the various sides and issues. AI can insure that happens before final decisions and courses of action are made. It sees things at various planes simultaneously, and whatever is not considered or out of balance relative to the rest is flagged for further consideration.

Certainly human-centered factors are part of that consideration. As would those factors affecting the environment - sustainability, and all. Compassion for non-human life forms would be part of human-centered or environmental factors or values that would go into AI knowledge base and decision-making algorithms. This also can be included in education curricula.

It all depends on how serious we are about applying higher, human-centered and environmental values.

Compassion is another, that is a spiritual value.

Reader: Okay Roy, ... I am now thinking of --only for example-- the invention once of microscope (say that is also "artificial intelligence", albeit perhaps a bit uncommon when thinking about 'AI' today) through which so 'micro-organisms' can be seen and reflected upon, studied further etc. etc., that else could not have been detected.... so that way the "microscope" may add to "spiritual intelligence" of humanity..., i.e.: a rise in awareness that there also exist 'micro-organisms' that cannot be seen without a 'microscope'...; is such how you mean in your upload when you say "Technological artificial intelligence is a sign that an even greater Spiritual intelligence is about to emerge in the minds of humans."?

Response: Tech AI is happening because spiritual experience is knocking on our door, which requires us to unload ordinary rational thought and thinking into software. Same with Internet, where these systems can hold facts, so we can focus on deeper insight, original thinking and such.

Reader: I hope so.... (given the fact that the Internet also knows so-called "trolls"...)

I think it all depends what is the content of the AI that could unleash 'spiritual intelligence' to emerge or... dawn onto humanity as a species, as a whole species in harmony and respectful appreciation together with all other life.

Response: -Yes, the quality of the personal and social Values are key.

-Asuras (dark forces) also enjoy the Internet, and are increasingly ruling many foolish young men. We need to find positive outlets for their energies, instead of destructive ones. It also relates to economic insecurity of individuals who take to such malicious behavior. Let us pray that this calms down

Quality in the New Education

The capacity to untap the full potential of the individual for self-guided learning, critical and original thinking, problem solving and application of knowledge to real-world issues determines the Quality of Education. (World University Consortium, founded by MSS)

No Title

We are constantly offering our opinions on matters without checking the facts. On discovery of the truth, we are royally embarrassed.

No Title

Try something different today, and see if life responds.

Romance Reborn

Annie was puzzled and disappointed when the passionate longing and intense affection she felt for her boyfriend when they were 6000 miles apart gradually diminished when they got back together.

But then IRES showed her how she could revive the original intensity she had felt during the initial stages of romance. Three weeks later Annie reported that she felt like a new person. Not only her boyfriend but other people were responding to her in new, unexpected ways.

Power of Non-Dual View of the World

Try to avoid looking at the other person as something separate and different than you. Rather see them as a part of, an extension of you; and you a part of, an extension of them. The same between yourself and anything else you encounter in life.

This creates a non-dual view of Reality, of existence - that enables awareness to emerge out of Ignorance, harmony out of separation, and fulfillment and joy out of emptiness and conflict.

No Title

It is best not to take out your frustration on others; whether your children, your workers, etc. Instead go to a deeper place within where you can separate yourself from what frustrates you, understand its source, and then begin to let it go. Now your relations with others will be more gentle, more peaceful, harmonic.

No Title

Every problem has an inner source within us, though we look for it, perceive it only on the outside.

Reader: How do you mean this Roy: when we look within, we perceive it only outside

Response: I mean we can discover how we are the cause of the outer problem, whereas we normally only look for outside causes. We can discover something correspondingly wanting in our consciousness that is reflected in the outer negative circumstance.

Eg instead of blaming others, or looking for a simple mechanical cause, like machines not working properly that in turn causes the business to slow and money lost, we can say that our wrong consciousness attracted that result. We can discover the wrong attitude, belief, habit, behavior, etc. that helped bring that about. It means to take inner responsibility for outer problems and circumstance.

The problem is we live on the surface, and therefore only perceive surface, outer causes. Moving to the depths, a deeper poise enables us to see our consciousness as cause, or if not ourselves something else deep within others, or deep within the circumstance itself.

Reader: inner-outer movement.... change the inner --thus the outer will no more have "effect" on the inner...., yes, this way of looking/seeing so to say more 'introspective' is familiar (but can be also "forgotten" in the "day to day" daily life once perhaps 'routine' of some sort comes along or "conditioning" can get a hold etc.)

Response: Yes, that is why one needs to build a deeper center, so we can easily embrace inner-outer correspondence in our daily lives. A deeper center comes through stilling the mind, taking the other person's point of view, practicing non-reaction to the intensity of others, and regular consecration (i.e. offering to the Divine Mother) of current circumstance.

Inner Power that Helped End the California Drought

For last five years California had the worst drought in 160 years. Climate scientists said California had less than one percent chance of beating the drought, and the recovery would still need to take decades according to researchers who studied weather patterns going all the way back to 1571. Despite 100 to 1 odds and other dire predictions, it rained furiously over the past six months, and suddenly and most unexpectedly the drought in California ended.

Some thoughts on this:

Weather pattern is in part determined by the flow of the Jet Stream. Last year while everyone was saying how dry it was, I kept thinking that there is vast amount of rain OFF the coast of California, about 200 miles out to sea. No one ever talked about it, but I kept noticing this tremendous amount of rain so nearby, yet so far.

I thought if only the Jet Stream shifted a bit we on land can enjoy this enormous amount of rain.

And so I followed the patterns regularly and then on daily basis I hoped for a shift, put out a kind of prayer, but then did not insist, and withdrew my attention.

The Jet Stream started to shift, came directly over the state, and the rains poured in.

Sometimes during this process, I would even wave my hand over the map of the weather and Jet Stream imploring it to fully envelop the area. I also hoped it would gather over the dams in the eastern mountains (Sierras). Several dams overwhelmed by the rain broke and threatened people below. Fortunately, only a few died.

Sometimes it looked like it would never stop. They called it a "River of Rain", from California to Hawaii that went on for days and days. It even threatened a great catastrophe, but fortunately it soon relented. 160-year drought ended in several months. Rain totals were double and triple normal. On my street, twice there was two feet of rapidly running water, and rubber boats (Kayaks) were floating by with happy passengers steering them! It was beyond belief.

No Title

To the degree the US and Russia insist on having them, nuclear weapons will spread among a number of the remaining nations.

No Title

Because the Asura senses the world is rapidly moving toward human unity - through globalism, increasing associations among nations, the rapid rise of Asia, and other means, - it has forged an alliance with Extreme Nationalism in certain countries to block or deflect that progress. How that gets resolved will determine the speed and quality of further integration and unity of life on earth.

No Title

When individual nations pull in their own direction, oblivious to or consciously separating themselves from others, you create the ripe conditions for War.

No Title

With the number of problems accelerating and intensifying in the world, the Asura (great dark force) has seen fit to enter the fray and do its mischief in order to block their resolution and further human progress.

Reader: driven by "the ego"?

Response: Problems due to increasing complexity and a surface human mind not capable of grappling with it; so problems persist, intensify, creating great pressures. Dark forces can enter the out of control situation and thereby influence circumstances.

Reader: In another post you stated, if I do understand well, that --though not necessarily a 'precise' citation--- "they secretly want to be part of the whole"...

Response: That's interesting. Maybe I meant that even the dark forces subconsciously want to be transformed into the Good. I am not sure of the context. 😊

No Title

Sri Aurobindo's famous dictum that "all problems in life are essentially problems of Harmony" is increasingly obvious when we look around and view the situations and conditions of the world.

Comment: In other words, by moving to a higher harmony (among individuals, parties, efforts, ideas etc.), we can solve any problem.

Garry Jacobs' novel The Book is filled with examples of this happening among the participants, in the situations, in the storyline, enabling forward progress of the AI company that is at the center of the story:

No Title

People's unrestrained vulgar behavior and persistent use of extremely foul language gives license for dark forces to seep in.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo's greatest intellectual work is 'The Life Divine,' where he explains all matters related to Spirit and Creation; whereas his greatest spiritual work is 'Savitri' where he poetically described in 20,000 lines, 400 pages His and Mother's actual mystical experiences.

No Title

The cure for Democracy is not to destroy it, but to make it more democratic.

Reader: The perfect platform to establish Unity, Harmony, Joy, and freedom is Democracy. All other social systems suppress one thing or the other and establish a partial result.

Response: It is interesting that the view you express is certainly something MSS accept as generally true, yet in Appa's critique of the book of CNN's Fareed Zakaria, he repeats that Democracy is not the only way forward. Progress can happen through other systems as well; sometimes even better than the current forms of Democracy. Eg through democracy you can still elect a tyrant! (as we have seen in several countries lately). And in a poor country democracy is liable to turn against the people who are in a weak position whether through tyranny, corruption, etc: Then there is the issue of how public apathy can ruin democracy. Hence going forward, we need to make Democracy more democratic for it truly be an effective approach to governance.

<http://www.karmayogi.net/?q=publicawareness>

Here is the lengthier article where Democracy is brought into question by Appa in his vast review of Zakaria's book on Democracy. The (lengthy) article is all encompassing and very enlightening, on a variety of subjects:

<http://www.karmayogi.net/?q=futureofdemocracy>

Quotes by Appa from the article: "The assumption that democracy is a panacea for all ills is as valid as Lenin's assumption about state economy or Hitler's idea of the superiority of race."

"Democracy is a positive form that arose against monarchy. Zakaria ignores the negative side. He assumes that democracy is absolutely GOOD. He ignores what Sri Aurobindo calls the dark imperative.

As thinkers assume democracy is infallible, the French assumed the King was infallible.

At all times MAN has considered his new idea infallible which means he is selfish, oblivious, and considers himself infallible."

"Democracy is one major aspect of polity. It is a passing phase."

—

Appa notes that Americans superficially think that Democracy in USA means more freedom, but for most people there it really means Prosperity, even if lacks true liberty, freedom; and the ascension of inequality and ignorance of truth prevails.

Reader: Sir, I visualize Democracy as an ultimate evolutionary stage, where all the social systems will reach finally. The democracy as a system is not in a position to bring any significant change in the society's adverse features since the psychology of low consciousness is to make use of freedom to establish its nature in the society. When supermind was descent in the playground, Mother saw the darkness(Anthakaram) of the world covered the supramental light and it could not establish itself in the world. I see Democracy as a stage which will be the order of the world effortlessly when the darker forces are transformed into positive higher conscious forces. Please read the word "platform" as "plane" since it is the plane of Unity, Harmony, Joy, and freedom.

Response: Yes, it has that in potential. I wonder if we could gradually move towards a system where there is no system. No real government. Kind of like Auroville, which is really based on a set of principles, spiritual principles, where there is decentralized, loosely-fitting organization and governance.

Reader: Sir, It will be the reality of the world when all the people of the world raise their consciousness (guided by their psychic Being) towards the evolutionary spiritual goal (towards Gnostic Living). Different governments, different societies, with varied interests, justify or fight for their side of justice (petty Conflicts to Great Wars) is nature's way of ruling the world. It is a good idea to form similar systems like Auroville all over the world to study and understand the purpose of such set ups. With that paradigm, the meaning of development, work, market and so many other things will be redefined.

No Title

"Another day for you to realize Me"

No Title

[Presented here is a poem by SM about the suffering of the main character of Dumas' great novel 'The Count of Monte Cristo' and how it relates to our lives as devotees.]

EDMOND DANTES

When one has immersed deeply in surface life,
And his destiny is to accomplish far greater,
Life has no means to divert him to his soul's path,
Except only by introducing,
Disappointment, failure, suffering and so forth.
And yet one can look deep and find,
Hidden beneath such problems,
Concealed the opportunity, always,
A shorter path to accomplishment,
Which may not appear apparently so.
As such,
Nothing is a test,
Nothing is a punishment,
Nothing comes to one for no reason,
Even including evil and falsehood.
The deeper the issue, could it be greater the destiny awaiting?
The life of Edmond Dantes might shed some light,
And teach us how Life works.
Edmond Dantes,
An ignorant and innocent sailor,
A person of naïve goodness,
Was Happily content in his life
As a first mate of the ship, Pharaon,
And with Mercedes the fisher girl.

Being naïve and good,
Yet lacking knowledge,
Will do more harm than benefit,
Particularly in a negative atmosphere.
And it needs wisdom to give that value strength.
Dante's innocent and ignorant nature,
Made him vulnerable to
Danglars's jealousy and Fernand's evil plan.
Life used these forces in that negative atmosphere,
And put an end to his surface life.
On the verge of getting married,
He was sentenced to prison,
Not knowing what his mistake was,
And not knowing who was behind that evil plan.
Chateau d'If, the prison,
An inconceivable place for punishment,
Where nobody could survive,
He was fortunate to endure,
Not just one or two days,
But for more than six years.
Life had left him alone, yet it had greater plans,
It awaited the right alignment, and the moment.
Days passed, and one day,
Depressed Dante thought he had no hope for the future,
And wanted to end his life.
On the brink of commuting suicide,
Life intervened.
The Grace came as a knocking sound.
It was Abbe Faria, a fellow prisoner,
A priest and an intelligent scholar,
Who had dug a tunnel hoping for escape,
And ended up in Dante's cell.
Behind that chance-like event,
Life had played its role,
And made their connection for a purpose.
As Abbe's soul was earnestly waiting
To pass on his knowledge to the next,
And Dante's soul was searching for answers,
They became truly acquainted with one another.
Now after a long period of darkness,
Dantes had finally faced the symbol dawn,
And embraced it very well.
In the following eight years,
Abbe had become everything to Dantes,
As a Teacher, Guru and Father.
He not only solved the puzzle of how Dantes was betrayed,
He also taught him everything in the field of life,

Language, culture, science and so forth.
And also practical skills like sword fighting.
Dantes evolved to greater heights,
In the shortest time imaginable.
On Abbe's death bed,
He shared the secret of the treasure,
Hidden on the island of Monte Cristo.
After his death, Dantes used Abbe's body as a tool,
And escaped from the prison.
Later, he went on to discover the treasure,
Married the princess Haidee,
And lived as a most powerful, wise Count
For a long period of time.
What Abbe had dreamed, was fulfilled in Dante's life.
So, as devotees,
Do we have to look for problems, failures in Life?
Indeed the answer is NO.
The Mother's Sunlit Path, awaits us always,
If we seek that path Sincerely.
Still, at certain times,
Life has its own way to uplift us to the next level,
And it may come as problem, challenge or other ways.
In those difficult times,
By having Faith in The Mother,
Accepting what Life has given,
Doing the best we could do at that moment,
And moving with patience,
Will help us cross the difficult days faster.
As Mother has said,
Faith is the Surest Guide in the Darkest Days.

Spontaneously Taking to Right Action

When a method for attracting life response or otherwise improving your life moves from the idea, a thought [mental], to the emotions based on your experiences [vital], and further still ingrained in the body consciousness [physical], it's utilization becomes second nature to us. Now you can go about your day and you will spontaneously act in the right way according to the subtle laws of life, as it is now ingrained in the very fiber of your physical being. As a result, the world constantly responds positively to your every behavior, as if every step you took were followed by the blossoming of flowers.

No Title

The West Coast of the US - untethered and far away from the establishment East Coast - comes up with the most creative ideas and ventures, as presented in tech, entertainment, and many other areas of life. As the US East Coast was a leap beyond Europe, so the West Coast has that relationship to the East. It even reflects commercially. The five highest valued companies are on the West Coast, and they are all Tech. 30 years ago, suggesting such a thing would garner the scorn of the East, just as they experienced the scorn of Europe many decades earlier.

Strange Dynamic of New Work Inquiries

It is my experience that new work doesn't come until the current contracted work is engaged in; not before. As soon as I engage the latter, customers come out of the woodwork seeking my services! This extraordinary phenomenon has occurred many dozens of times throughout my working life.

No Title

Each time your thoughts or feelings go negative, offer it to the Mother. Soon after positive circumstance are bound to take shape.

No Title

There is no point of arrival; there is only this moment.

No Title

That which observes what one is observing.... or thinking, or feeling, or acting ... is your True Self and Soul.

Quiet Intimations of Whom You Can Become

"Dreams [i.e. whom we aspire to be in life] always come from behind you, not right between your eyes. It sneaks up on you.

When you have a dream, it doesn't often come at you screaming in your face, "This is who you are, this is what you must be for the rest of your life." Sometimes a dream almost whispers.

And I've always said to my kids, the hardest thing to listen to - your instincts, your human personal intuition - always whispers; it never shouts. It is very hard to hear.

So you have to every day of your lives be ready to hear what whispers in your ear; it very rarely shouts.

And if you can listen to the whisper, and if it tickles your heart, and it's something you think you want to do for the rest of your life, then that is going to be what you do for the rest of your life, and we will benefit from everything you do."

-Steven Spielberg, famed film director

Reader: Dear Sir,

The word "dream" is it literally meaning the dream we experience during our sleep or it is meant to phrase "the instinct"? Thank you Sir.

Response: "Dreams" here meaning our Aspiration in life of what we want to be. I slightly corrected article for clarity. Thanks.

No Title

The more you rise in consciousness, the more new vistas of inner change are perceived to be achieved.

No Title

The closer you get to one's spiritual goals, the more the field of spiritual potential expands before you.

No Title

As one grows older, nostalgia, as well as experiences of our youth may flood our thoughts. That persistent look backwards may be a sign that we have stopped growing, and therefore have come to the end.

No Title

Sri Aurobindo sent his Force to Churchill, helping him win WWII, but then withdrew it after victory so the British Empire could collapse, which it did.

No Title

Expectation takes us out of the present moment.

The Mother and Lost Items

Over the years we have seen a particular power of the Mother to help us find lost items. Here a friend's recent report who was on vacation in the American West with a friend.

"This is what happened today: We arrived in Zion National Park and I put my wallet and cash envelope in my backpack.

Before taking the shuttle through the park I went into the gift shop to purchase a couple of magnets. I looked into my backpack for my cash wallet and couldn't find it. So I needed to use my debit card instead.

I walked back to the RV and consecrated to the Mother that I would find my cash wallet.

I got into the camper and emptied the back pack. No cash wallet. I called Amy to see if anyone found it and turned it in. I then turned around and saw the wallet on the floor in the passenger seat! As I found it, Amy came into the RV.

-Sue"

Comment: Once I was with this same woman on a trip to Hawaii. When we arrived at the airport there after a 3000-mile trip from San Francisco, we could not find one of our pieces of luggage. We scampered around looking for it, but could not find it. We were so upset by this development, considering that it was the start of our 25th anniversary vacation.

Then I intensely consecrated the matter to Mother. A few moments later - voila - there it was!

Upon further discussion, it turned out that my friend had consecrated the matter as well.

Yes, it was another example of Mother's special power of helping others find their lost items.

First Recommendation to Elicit Response in Business: Cleanliness & Orderliness!

Normally the very first recommendation we make to our business customers and clients is to clean up and make more orderly their facilities wherever possible; especially where neglected. When they perceive it or not, this quickly elicits powerful positive response from life in the form of more money, more sales, more opportunity, suddenly appearing from out of nowhere! It is itself miraculous-like and the foundation for all other miracles to come!

Comment: Here are a number of astonishing stories of how taking to cleanliness and orderliness attracted sudden good fortune! (You may need to download after opening.)

<https://1drv.ms/b/s!AjayTOYvR8hzgY8LWd5f1OjTWKFi7w>

No Title

Inside Modi's great financial, economic, anti-corruption, and cleanliness campaigns is the threat of rising groups supporting Hindu fundamentalism and nationalism, including those who are aggressively intolerant. We know that the Asura can enter such an opening and wreak havoc on society. We already see similar things spreading in different parts of the world. Let us hope Modi navigates this obstacle as skillfully as he has the remainder of his progressive platform.

No Title

When the Soul evolves in us, it becomes the Psychic Being. And when the psychic being fully evolves and reaches its ultimate capacity, it becomes the Supramental Being.

No Title

Our Aspiration for the Divine, for Mother to manifest in life is the flame of the psychic being in us. And it is through that aspiration of the psychic flame that the divine life on earth can come about, will be made possible.

No Title

As supramental beings we each become ultimate Creators in life, just like the divine creator, the Ishwara. Thus, He creates, manifest the universe in the Involution, and we create a divine life on earth in the Evolution.

No Title

Given the current conditions, what happens at any moment is always for the best; including the worst of things. But that doesn't mean that there can't be an even better way. There is. But given the current reality, atmosphere, et al, even an apparently limiting result is the best that can be.

No Title

There is never all truth on one side and none on the other in a contradictory or conflictive situation. Levels of truth reside in both. Therefore, integral Truth and Evolution takes place through the play and reconciliation of these two opposites.

Reader: Can we say Truth is conflict-free. If there is a conflict we have to take responsibility as there is a false viewpoint in us?

Response: Yes, when the Integral Truth is reached, there is no conflict; instead a higher harmony is reached. When we give up our Ego-driven position, that only our side of the truth is true, we go beyond the contradictions with others and establish a more harmonic basis with them.

By the way, Sri Karmayogi tells us to always embrace the other side's, person's point of view, even if wrong, as it tends to attract the integral Truth presenting itself. I.e. Life responds, often embracing our own original position. (I.e. the other side will come around and agree with us!)

No Title

Taking another's viewpoint is the beginning of establishing the Supramental (Truth) Consciousness in our being.

Reader: "By the way, Sri Karmayogi tells us to always embrace the other side's, person's point of view, even if wrong, as it tends to attract the integral Truth presenting itself. I.e. Life responds, often embracing our own original position. (I.e. the other side will come around and agree with us!)

Taking another's viewpoint is the beginning of establishing the Supramental (Truth) Consciousness in our being." This is maybe especially helpful when 'irreparable damage' was done not based in truth but on false assumptions, so when that way (based on false assumptions) a hurt was done from one against another?

When having to deal with "asura", the asura force of darkness, I was wondering how to best deflect and the connection in higher harmony of the "Supramental (Truth) Consciousness"... also: can the "asura" be taught (?) about the Supramental (Truth) Consciousness at all?

I found this: <http://www.karmayogi.net/?q=node/421> In "637. The Irrational Politician"it says "During the first decade of the twentieth century, Sri Aurobindo entered politics. Someone who knew his yogic bent asked him why he came to politics from yoga. He replied, "When an Asura is sitting on your Mother who is prostrate, how can anyone think of anything else?"....

Response: Act with higher consciousness to keep out asuras. Consecrate too for self or society.

No Title

When there is Aspiration, - a flame and call for the Divine to descend here on earth, for the Mother and Her Force to enter our lives, - the Psychic Being is born within us.

No Title

Do it the right way, the best way; not merely the same old way.

No Title

Humiliation is one of the causes of fanatic ferocity. (Karmayogi)

Comment: In fighting for freedom, men feel righteous, noble and proud. There is something more deeply seated than the national freedom. It is one's self-respect. There are moments in history when a population or a section of population is HUMILIATED in such a fashion that they cannot publicly acknowledge it to others or even to themselves. At such moments, men lose their balance and readily grow irrational. When leaders are absurd, irrational and still have a vast universal backing, it means there lies a deeply buried injustice. Such movements will always win and long rule over the territory they won. Ireland was one such. Irish Catholics were, by law, banned from judgeship. They were prevented from becoming bishops. They were called stupid and ridiculed. The Irish too acknowledged it to be true, but could not openly acknowledge it. Hence the ferocious fanaticism. Humiliation is one of the causes of fanatic ferocity. Thus, the leaders become irrational. (Karmayogi)

"When leaders are absurd, irrational and still have a vast universal backing, it means there lies a deeply buried injustice."

Russia seems like this now. They were humiliated and ignored by the West after the Cold War ended. Through the autocratic, undemocratic Putin they feel some self-respect again. From time to time the country's irrationally lashes out.

No Title

The nations of the world have to come together to solve problems that individual nations cannot do by themselves. This is the true Globalism that awaits us; and a harbinger of Human Unity. I.e. Unity in diversity.

No Title

Perhaps the most powerful way to thwart terrorism is to put modern appliances, household goods, and the like in their hands. They will forget their fundamentalism. Just trying to kill them off is like mowing the grass. They are temporarily cut down, but then they come back thicker and taller (with more intensity and greater quantity). Thwarting them in tandem with making them prosperous and an open-minded education seems to be a logical way forward.

Reader: This is wonderful. Global prosperity will abolish terrorism.

No Title

In a conflict with another, you may be in the right; however, the person in the wrong might know something about your limitations. Therefore, it may be wise to examine and accede to their insights about you as well. That's why it is said that contradictions are ultimately/secretly complements that can help one another. It also is why it is said that Nature works on multiple fronts simultaneously - to improve things, to foster progress through a great efficiency.

Concept Clarified Attracts

When you make the extra effort to clarify a concept for someone else, sudden good fortune will come your way: from that person or somewhere else. It is the Life Response power of taking to higher levels of mental organization.

Eg a man was having trouble working out with a colleague overseas a method by which his social media posts would get to the wider public. Rather than giving up on the issue, he made the effort to explain it even more clearly. A minute after posting that updated instruction his colleague on the other end informed him that the entire problem had been solved!

No Title

Shift any act from dullness and routine to freshness and energy. New unthought of possibilities are bound to quickly arise.

Karmic Consequence in America

The annihilation of the Native American population of 3-5 million people through violence and disease by the white military and settlers in the 19th century karmically attracted the Civil War shortly thereafter, pitting brother against brother in the bloodiest American war ever.

Likewise, US citizens now foolishly possess 200 million guns, companies trade vast amounts of military hardware around the globe, and the nation still stocks thousands of nuclear warheads; also awaiting their karmic consequence.

No Title

As we have seen, - and shocking to many, - tyranny can arise even in democracies; as we have witnessed recently in Egypt, Turkey, Philippines, USA, and Russia.

Coming Unity of Nations

The one solution to the current predicament of each nation pulling in its own direction at the expense of others, leading to acute tensions and potential for a multiplicity of local wars, is Global Unity and Governance. In fact the intensity of the disunity is a frontal distortion for the unity that is coming.

Also, the varying associations among nations of Asia - economic, political, cultural - can serve as a model for forms of international cooperation for the rest of the world. Asia has become the leader in this movement.

It was Sri Aurobindo's dream to see brought about international harmony through a network of association, and Human Unity through growth in Consciousness among the people, all on the way to the establishment of Divine Life on earth.

We still appear to be in a relatively early stage of that process, though things seem to be rapidly progressing, despite all of the outer discord.

No Title

Giving up all emotional feelings towards the person or group you disdain sends out a vibration that helps mollify, deflate, cancel their positions.

No Title

Lack of fairness for all people in a nation makes democracy practically worthless.

Sri Karmayogi's Prosperity Dream for India

It is my ardent wish that the lowest member of [Indian] society should enjoy all that the highest member now enjoys. I may be labelled a Dreamer. Was it not a dream that India could become free without an armed insurrection? How many of our dreams have come true. In fact, what we have not dreamt of is being given to us by technology. Spirituality can give anyone in Truth, anything he deserves. (Sri Karmayogi)

Internet & Global Market

To any man functioning in the local market or national market, Internet offers a global market. He must avail of it. (Karmayogi)

Relationship Between Population and Power of Currency

Karmayogi says that when nations band together, the power of their currency rises. We saw that with the establishment of the EU.

Suppose, Karmayogi conjectures, China and India band together to create a common currency. Or something similar among any number of nations. Its value relative to the rest of the world's currencies would rise dramatically. That would drive higher levels of prosperity.

Karmayogi also indicates that if there were a Common World Currency, its power would be awesome, infinite-like; and all on earth would share in its benefit. Why would it rise in value in such a way? It is because it would be the currency of 7+ billion people. Population gain, Karmayogi claims, increases the power of the currency it utilizes, bringing prosperity to all.

Vibrant Companies are Stimulated, Not Destroyed by Merciless Competition

A fully ORGANISED company cannot die whatever the competition is, however unscrupulous they are.

Organisation is health, vitality. It is healthy irrespective of the environment. There are various levels of organisation. The company that faces stiff competition will survive if it is organised enough to survive in the environment. A company that is integrated with the society will be vibrant. Any society is moving on certain lines. On those lines, the society will carry great force, as the Indian society is moving towards greater education and greater prosperity.

To minister to THOSE needs consciously is to be vibrant. That vibrancy is a vibration of growth. Strong competition will stimulate that vibrancy. At a time when companies are dying like flies crushed by the competition, a vibrant company will find itself growing. Competition is a welcome stimulus for an organised, vibrant company.

Forty new entrants in the scooter market twenty years ago struck terror in the heart of Bajaj. That year, he grew 100%. (Karmayogi)

No Title

When you withhold the urge to inform others of potentially bad news, they tend to quickly come forward to inform you of unexpected good news.

Comment: Eg a man was about to tell his friend who was on vacation about some potential bad news on the home front. However instead of messaging her about this issue, he remained silent. And yet when he did speak to her, she immediately presented him with some unexpected good news!

No Title

"Necessity is the Mother of Invention"

Is the aphorism that life is constantly proving true.

Comment: Eg for years people talked about building cars that fly. However now that traffic is so congested on the roads in Silicon Valley and elsewhere, (and drone and electric technology has emerged), a plethora of new and existing companies have suddenly and most seriously taken up the challenge of building them.

Necessity (in tandem with innovation) has thus spurred Invention.

No Title

The pioneer individual leads the society forward. Who then is the pioneer within ourselves? It is our psychic being, the evolving soul within. When we are conscious of it, (and maybe even when we are not), it becomes the leader of our being.

No Title

It's best not to forcibly take someone to places they are not capable of; whether in terms of understanding, psychological or spiritual development, and so forth. Allow them to be who they are; at the level they are at. Anything else would be an injustice.

Life Response Power of Restraint, Non-Interference

The more we restrain ourselves from interfering, warning others, or otherwise involving ourselves in a negative situation, remaining silent and still instead, the greater life will respond in our (and others') favor.

Eg, instead of actively warning a second party of a third party's potential treachery in relation to the second, life unexpectedly brings positive developments in the form of a fourth, who now most unexpectedly bonds with the second, creating a positive, buoyant atmosphere instead of one of fear and paranoia.

In other words, by standing back, restraining himself and not interfering, the first party set in motion positive developments that proved beneficial to all.

No Title

Each day offers us the opportunity to awaken our Aspiration for the Divine and join in the Adventure of Consciousness and Joy.

No Title

Constantly seeking approval indicates missing self-esteem, support, precariousness of position, etc.

Comment: Building inner strength is one antidote. That can come from overcoming a life challenge, rising in a position, higher knowledge, spiritual perception, deep faith, etc.

No Title

We think of Ego in terms of overbearing strength, but it is also there in sense of inferiority and weakness.

No Title

We can change any of the outer conditions from within, without any physical action on our part. We just need to know which inner method/lever to bring to bear in each situation.

Obsession

-Obsession is dogged determination to act repeatedly in a certain direction.

-Obsession is a habit, routine, activity you cannot break for psychological reasons.

-Obsession is unwillingness to let go, whether the intent is good or bad.

-The officer who chased after Jean Valjean in Les Miserables was obsessed in the extreme, and committed suicide when the obsession came face to face with Love and Truth.

-Every culture has its overbearing obsessions. Rather than control them, they indulge them, relishing the fact, giddily enjoying in blissful ignorance.

-An obsession can start off as a truth, but then loses its purposefulness, turning negative through mindless repetition.

-In Obsession, the subconscious rules the conscious.

-Obsession reflects a truth that has been twisted by a psychological deficiency.

-Obsession tries to turn illusion into reality.

-Obsession and ego often go hand in hand.

-Obsession's root is human Ignorance.

- An obsession can be positive if behind it is a high value or noble quest.
- Obsession and single-mindedness are not quite the same.

No Title

Mother may send us to a physical place or psychological situation we may not want in order to broaden our outlook.

No Title

I recently had the experience while eating a delicious slice of pineapple that the food actually seemed happy to be serving my needs; that its purpose was being realized through my eating and enjoyment. A gesture of self-givingness from the plant kingdom.

No Title

Each difficulty we encounter is secretly a spur for us to acquire the next level of consciousness.

No Title

Shifting from aloofness/indifference to involvement/engagement opens endless possibilities from the world around us.

No Title

Often, we give to others what we didn't receive in our lives. I.e. we compensate for that which is missing inside.

For example, a child who was ignored by her parents may as a teacher give her young students a great deal of attention, winning the admiration and affection of many.

No Title

-Evil, despite its egregious falsehood, will normally hold several truths that the good does not perceive.

-When the good perceives the truths that evil knows, it becomes the Good. Now life progresses. Evil disappears.

Reader: Interestingly, while you can't call an act of nature evil, no matter how catastrophic and disastrous, it can its wake reveal much that "the good" did not reveal. Hurricane Katrina is a case in point in its exposing racism, political corruption, governmental neglect, et.al. I agree with the irony that the evil of human origin will expose what "the good" doesn't or can't. Well said.

No Title

Patience discovers truth. Impatience, ignorance.

No Title

As soon as you go beyond your greatest fear, Life opens up in ways unimagined.

Reader: ow to overcome fear?

Response: Replace it with Faith. Eg faith in Her, the Mother, the Divine.

Going beyond our greatest fear also requires the development of inner Psychological Strength, which is built up through life experience as well as on-going faith.

No Title

The Divine is always observing the Play of Life, smiling and responding positively wherever there is an evolution in consciousness.

No Title

Reality is God and the universe, without the seam.

Mother's Service Society

For 40 years I have had the pleasure of working with The Mother's Service Society, an organization that has pioneered the practical application of spirituality in a wide variety of fields of life, including – social development, education, literature, history, current events, science, economics, business, family, and the psychological and spiritual development of the individual.

Please visit if you have the chance to make use of this incomparable global resource.

<http://www.motherservice.org/>

No Title

At some level, every false leader we attract, we deserve. Knowing why is wisdom.

No Title

The Phenomenon of Life Response occurs-

- in Life Itself
- in Our Own Lives
- In Work
- n Business
- in Society
- in Current Events
- in History
- in Literature, Film
- in Science
- in the Environment
- etc.

From Complaint to Taking Full Responsibility

Level 1: I discover a problem, and blame you for causing it

Level 2: I see my hand in the problem; what I did or failed to do that caused you to create the problem

Level 3: I take full responsibility for the problem, and refrain from narrating to the other person their responsibility

Level 4: I consecrate the entire issue, the responsibilities, offering it to the Mother, hoping for better situations in future; perhaps for life to respond

Disparate Things Arising Together Are Related

According to a deeper view of life, all events which occur at the same time or at same place are related to one another in some manner, even if on the surface they seem to have nothing to do with one another. Often the relationship is in the form of a subtle correspondence between the events, including a similarity, a mirror image of one another, or even a reverse expression of the same type of situation.

Eg you are having a conversation with a friend who is explaining the concept of personal Values, and in the middle of the dialogue a senior author calls who is a friend of the friend of mine, and who is known for writing about business Values for the American Management Association, of which he was president. Superficially you may not perceive a connection, but if you think a bit about what this person represents, you will see a connection; that he has called at this time as a synchronous circumstance to your learning about those same issues he is deeply involved with,

Thus, when things are happening to you in a certain direction in the course of your day, pay attention to what otherwise suddenly arises from an entirely different direction. If you seriously think about what is going on, - the issues involved, who the parties are at play are, and their propensities and beliefs, et al, - you will begin to see the subtle correspondence between the circumstance that you did not perceive originally. When you perceive the deeper connection, it is startling to behold. As a result of this approach, you can an entirely different perspective of life's unfolding!

No Title

If you don't accept the Grace coming in, it will often go to someone related or even nearby.

Seeking Help from Those with Ill-Will Backfires

It is a basic law of life that seeking help from a person with ill will always backfires on the one who seeks that help.

Eg parents have ill-feelings about the direction their child is taking, as it appears he is moving away from them in terms of distance and interest. It turns out that each time he borrows certain amounts of money from them, things go wrong for him, including further losses

Success, Failure of Similar Initiatives Indicate Final Outcome

When two individuals take a small initiative in an area and for one it works out and for the other it does not, it indicates bigger success to come for the person who succeeded in the earlier small initiative, and failure for the other person.

Eg in the film 'Wicker Park,' Alex goes into the camera shop hoping to meet Matt but fails. Lisa goes into the shoe store willing to meet Matt and succeeds. This reflects the fact that Alex's initiatives will eventually fail to win Matt and Lisa's will eventually succeed in getting him back.

No Title

How can you garner the emerging integral knowledge and truth of a matter if you are already pre-disposed in a certain direction?

Truth requires an extremely open mind, and better yet one that is empty of thought and can be filled with intuitions of integral knowledge that pour in from the spheres.

Rise of Socialistic Qualities In The World And The Fascistic-Like Backlash

One of the reasons for the rise of Neo-fascism in the world just now is that is a reaction against the rapid expansion of socialism throughout the world. This is not the socialism where the government employees all the people, or of communism. Rather it is that which brings socialistic-type, human-centered benefits to all the people at all levels of society - merging freedom and individuality with fairness and security. These socialistic-type benefits have taken form in many different ways (as explained in this article):

<http://www.dailykos.com/.../-75-Ways-Socialism-Has-Improved-A...>

This rise of socialism in the form of socialistic-type benefit in many ways started in in Scandinavia, which has the highest rate of human satisfaction and prosperity in the world, spread throughout the EU, and is now unfolding in USA and elsewhere. The neo-fascistic, alt right, etc. are the reaction of the forces that do you not want this to come about, though it is inevitable. It is after all a human-centered economics, which is spreading by itself around the world. That is the case because the people want all of these benefits, despite what they say or the candidates they vote for.

This gradual change that has occurred and will continue to occur is not the end of capitalism. It is rather the merging of capitalistic and socialist qualities on the way toward creating a more prosperous, free, fair, and just society.

Beyond that is greater harmony in the world, on the way toward Human Unity.

Expansion of Socialistic Tendencies

Karmayogi has indicated the expansion of socialistic tendencies as inevitable for the well-being of the world. It is an expression of a Human-centered economics; not money-centered that it is trying to grow beyond.

(from Karmayogi)

"... for the Individual. Democracy, Socialism, Individuality and Spirituality will rule the future."

"Marx's idea of Socialism never gained ground for seventy years until Lenin made it a reality. It ended up as a reality of command economy and police state [USSR]. After seventy years, it destroyed itself.

Socialism in the sense of welfare to the masses has become an abundant political fact all over the world."

"... socialism succeeded all over the world clandestinely though capitalism ..."

Karmayogi also indicated that Marxism failed under state socialism of the USSR, as it became a nefarious police state, yet succeeded in its values and programs and policies under Capitalism; a great irony.

Marxism failed under state-run communism and succeeded, and will continue to succeed under Capitalism.

Karmayogi also pointed out that India was close to going communistic, but instead the main parties adopted many of the platforms and policies of communism, avoiding a communist state, while bringing benefit to the people.

No Title

Evil often takes shape when an ignorant body of people are blindly led forward by a nefariously charismatic leader.

No Title

Personal Transformation cannot occur in full for the individual unless the society is also evolved, transformed.

Reader: It contradicts with the famous quote "One man's perfection can save the entire World" (or a similar quote)

Response: He can change the society as he changes himself.

No Title

Steve Jobs gave us (the society) the Smartphone, even as he in many ways changed his demeanor after he was tossed out of Apple and returned with better interpersonal, human skills.

No Title

One man can change himself and the world simultaneously.

Or to put it another way, the Spiritual Pioneering Person is both a true Individual and a true Universal being together.

Reader: Could we say,

When the society is in positive atmosphere and want to evolve, it would be easier for an individual to transform and also to make contribution to the society. It's like how Darcy had transformed in the positive atmosphere.

On the contrary, when the atmosphere is negative one need to take a great struggle to transform himself. As what Dantes had gone through in The Count of Monte Cristo.

Thank you Sir.

No Title

The people who have led and collaborated with Mother's Service Society have in their lifetime been great Pioneers of the Spirit; thrashing their way through the jungle of human (and their own) unconsciousness, providing devoted and heartfelt service; as the Force, Mother, the Supramental Power increasingly permeates the world around them.

No Title

When you say, write, or do something that turns out to be the right thing at the right time for another party (while having no knowledge you did so), it means you are tuned into "IST", Intuition Standard Time.

No Title

Paralysis of individual nation's inability to solve national problems indicate the need to go higher, - i.e. to international, collective solutions, where countries can help one another en masse.

No Title

Signs of failure in the EU are not indicators of it breaking up, but rather its power to become even stronger; even influencing other nations to take similar approaches (as we are increasingly seeing in Asia and elsewhere).

No Title

Our efforts to eradicate terrorism, and overcome economic problems, - like low employment and wages, and high debt, - is forcing global organizations to become more integrated and united, pushing past their differences.

Thus, these apparent negatives spur higher levels of human unity. This is Nature's method of progress: creating and resolving contradictions enables more intense formations of Unity and Harmony among people and institutions.

No Title

Being part of the tech scene in San Francisco/Silicon Valley has been thrilling for me for these decades. However, the ability to tie this into Mother's work has elevated it to absolute thrilling!

No Title

We want to keep grabbing benefits from the world, but the only way that truly happens is not by taking, but by Giving. That's precisely what attracts powerful positive life response! Unfortunately, we have it the wrong way around.

No Title

Nature/Life normally gives you one chance to right a wrong. If you make a mistake that causes a catharsis, its full fury is held back, as you are given one more opportunity to do it right. If however it's done wrong a second time, - through ignorance, proud intention, malice, or deceit - then Life's (Prakriti's) full force and fury tends to be released.

No Title

You can execute each important activity of your day by just doing it; or you can consecrate it to Mother, making it fresh, and attracting very positive outcomes.

No Title

Impatience for it to begin blocks/delays that which is trying to get started.

No Title

Those who fully adapt when the routine or the familiar are taken away tend to be great successes.

What Bothers Us About Others, We Tend to Exhibit Ourselves

What a person doesn't like about the behavior of others, he tends to exhibit himself to one degree or another.

E.g. a businessman tended to get annoyed when in a group discussion there was confrontation among the members. It irritated him that people couldn't get along, as he believed in the importance of group harmony.

Yet on closer analysis we see that he often himself got into conflict with others, in a variety of ways, that in essence put him at odds with his own belief system!

So that brings up the question: in what ways are we similar to that which we don't like in others or in life? And what will we do to change that dynamic?

Works Given by Mother & Our Growth in Consciousness

-When through Mother you receive a new work with new features, it will contain the next level of content that you were ready to learn based on your previous knowledge. Thus with Her you are always on a path, - given new concepts, values, etc. to acquire, - that are conducive to your growth in consciousness. Moreover, She is always aware of what is needed.

-When Mother gives you a work, that content is also preparing you for a future work that you don't know about or how to perform, though She knows what that is.

-Mother is constantly giving you works or otherwise creating conditions that are conducive for making a growth in consciousness.

No Title

If the mind is in touch with one's soul, genius can be developed.

No Title

A possibility becomes a problem so that the problem can reveal the possibility. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

When the Supermind arrives, every man will become an avatar. (Sri Karmayogi)

No Title

That which observes that which is observing is the Soul.

Reader: What is Spirit then?

Response: Spirit is the Transcendent Reality, the Divine behind all things, infinite and eternal, and includes the soul of each person. The soul is the Spirit within us.

Reader: How these are connected., the Individual Soul and the Universal Spirit? My understanding is it's a continuous stream of existence a higher and lower Consciousness. Can you clarify little more?

Response: inner-Outer Oneness, Psychic Being, and Life Response

-The outer world and our being are not divided as we perceive when we live on the surface, but a single stream of continuous existence. Thus, from within, through our higher consciousness, - higher attitudes, focused intention, non-reaction, consecration, etc. - we can evoke positive conditions from the world outside ourselves. This is Life Response.

-The soul within us is an inlet of the divine spirit, which is an ocean. The soul has an evolving part called the psychic being, that has travelled with us through many births, including this one.

-When we are centered deep within, culminating with connection to our psychic being, then that experience of one continuous stream (Oneness) is amplified. From that consciousness, we can more readily make the outer respond from within us. And if we call Mother from there, we become the ultimate Creator in life, the Ishwara on earth, as life responds overwhelmingly.

No Title

As we get supramentalized, - i.e. integrally transformed at various planes of our being, - we are increasingly able to shape world events from within.

No Title

Efforts to the point of near exhaustion, - whether physically, emotionally, or mentally - attract sudden good fortune.

No Title

The popular aphorism "one good turn deserves another" is actually a law of Life Response.

No Title

There are certain individuals with whom you connect with, - either in person or using communication technology, - who will cause you to fall ill. They generally have ill-will towards you. On the other hand, there are those with whom you connect with who will quickly make you feel better. They likely feel a high level of Goodwill towards you.

No Title

Connecting to the psychic being is a matter of concentrating inside, moving your center of being deep within, yet doing so without thought.

The Startling Secret of Criss-Cross Circumstance In Our Lives

There are times in our life when two or more major circumstance are taking place simultaneously. While they may appear to have nothing to do with one another, often it is the case that a shift in consciousness in one can very quickly impact the other.

A woman had lost her husband in a car accident, yet as life would have it, she was offered the chance to adopt and care for a child. She was hesitant to get involved, - i.e. give her affection and love - for fear that she would get her heart broken again.

She was also in charge of a manufacturing operation that made parachutes for pilots. One day her plant was shut down when the parachutes were found to be defective. She was now also likely to go to jail.

One day she saw the child gently sleeping, and then felt an overwhelming emotion toward him. She began to sob uncontrollably. All the pain of the loss of her husband came out, even as she had now changed her view and decided to adopt the child.

The next day, she happily reported to a friend that she had gotten news that she had been cleared of all charges and would not go to jail, which was a great relief. She also learned unknowingly to her that gangsters had infiltrated her parachute plant, causing the factory to squeeze costs to make more profit for them, at the expense of quality and safety.

In addition, her friend most shockingly admitted that she had been the one to bring in the gangsters, as she had gotten mixed up with bad people for a number of years in order to survive financially.

As we see, when the woman gave in and agreed to take in the child, life instantly brought her news that freed her from serving time in jail, plus she learned the truth about the gangsters, unburdening her from that psychological weight.

In this situation, two critical circumstance in her life had in fact crisscrossed - the child and the plant issues - indicating that there was a reason they occurred at the same time. When she gave into life through the child, the universe rushed in with the truth that freed her from both physical and psychological baggage in relation to her factory.

Life often crisscrosses two or more circumstance in our lives this way, and by raising our consciousness in one, we can instantly affect the other in a positive way. It is one of Life's secret methods of growth and progress.

No Title

The difference between life as we know and life as influenced by Mother is tremendous. Our life gains a new respectability. Our daily activities yield greater results than usual. Our intelligence gains a greater sharpness. Even if we work all day, we will not feel tired. We will experience an abundant enthusiasm. Wherever we go, we will feel welcomed. (Karmayogi)

Complaint to Constructive Criticism, to Silent Will, to Consecration

Complaining is different than constructive criticism. The former contains ego and therefore tends to attract the negative.

And yet we can take things to a higher level still. Beyond constructive criticism is Silent Will, where you silently wish for improvement without vocalizing it. It has a great power for other others to pick it up and accept it and act on it.

Beyond that is consecrating It, and then forgetting about it, letting the divine, the Mother take care of it all. Like Silent Will it too can evoke startling positive results; here through Supramental power.

Vast Efficiency from Higher Levels of Organization

Organization of one's self, of a routine, of an activity, of a process, of a system can increase efficiency of result 10-100 times. E.g. Henry Ford revolutionized manufacturing in 1913 by creating a process that broke the assembly of the Ford Model T automobile into 84 distinct steps as the car moved down the line on a conveyer belt. The process revolutionized production and dropped the assembly time for a single vehicle from 12 hours to 90 minutes. Ford was able to reduce the cost of the Model T from $850 to $30 and produce a car every 24 seconds.

What do we need to organize in our personal or work life to a greater degree?

[thanks to Karmayogi]

Making Contact with the Psychic Being

In order to find the soul, you must go in this way (gesture of going deep within), like this, draw back from the surface, withdraw deep within and enter, enter, enter, go down, down, down into a very deep hole, silent, immobile, and there, there's a kind of... something warm, quiet, rich in substance and very still, and very full, like a sweetness--that is the soul.

And if one is insistent and is conscious oneself, then there comes a kind of plenitude which gives the feeling of something complete that contains unfathomable depths in which, should one enter, one feels that many secrets would be revealed... like the reflection in very peaceful waters of something that is eternal. And one no longer feels limited by time.

One has the feeling of having always been and of being for eternity.

That is when one has touched the core of the soul.

No Title

In a negative atmosphere, a relatively minor negative circumstance can attract a much larger one. When the atmosphere is positive, the greater negative will tend not to occur.

Comment: In a positive atmosphere, small positive gestures are rewarded with bigger ones. Eg in Pride and Prejudice, in which the atmosphere is positive, the Gardeners kindly invite Eliza up to their county, and as a result she finds out the truth about Darcy's nature at his nearby estate, which kindles their romance, leading to their marriage.

No Title

Things become divided so they can further unite.

Reader: But what is the importance of those division...for a higher Unity?

Response: Yes. Until a higher consciousness is brought to bear, life evolves fastest through intensity of division, discord, contradiction that evolves into higher harmony, unity. However, with Sunlit Path (relying on Mother exclusively,) the progress, evolution doesn't have to go through intensification of division. It is always fully in the positive, while melting away the negative.

Reader: "(...)evolution doesn't have to go through intensification of division. It is always fully in the positive, while melting away the negative." 😊:)

Things that Win Mother's Appreciation

The number of qualities, acts and attitudes that would please Mother are endless in number. However, we can select some key acts and attitudes as they increase our receptivity and take us near to Mother. Let us see some of them:

1. Keeping things neat and orderly.
2. Working to the maximum of one's capacity.
3. Not relying on mental reasoning but relying on the faith of the soul.
4. Staying cheerful all the time irrespective of good news or bad news.
5. Remaining truthful and shunning falsehood in all its forms as lying, cheating and trickery etc.
6. Doing all of one's daily activities such as eating, dressing, going to work through consecration.
7. Keeping a progressive attitude and trying to improve oneself all the time.
8. Practicing life response and trying to correct all outer problems through inner corrections.
9. Doing one's work as an offering to the Divine.
10. Taking up a constant prayer that Her Will should be done and not one's own Will.
11. Looking at hardships that come to oneself as occasions for correction and self-improvement.
12. Boldly confronting the challenges that come up in one's life and looking at problems as disguised opportunities.
13. Staying alert and conscious all the time.
14. Keeping oneself under the protective circle of Mother and not doing anything that would cancel Her protection.
15. Exhibiting good will to those one is dealing with and being grateful to all those who have given help and support.
16. Giving consideration to the truth in the other man's point of view.
17. Avoiding religious rituals and worshipping traditional gods.
18. Attempting to wean oneself from mechanical habits and trying to act fresh and be plastic.
19. Keeping one's body physically fit and well-conditioned.

20. Treating bodily disorders as expressions of inner disorders and curing the inner disorder as a way to the cure of the outer malady. (N. Asokan, MSS)

No Title

Accepting responsibility for the wrongs in the lives of our friends & relatives is "Consciousness Responsibility." (Sri Karmayogi)

Reader: This is wonderful sir. Can we say Doctor Thorne does it? When Roger kills his brother, he takes responsibility for bringing up Mary Thorne Response: Yes, to a large degree. I think full Consciousness Responsibility is where we do not have real, direct connection with those individuals who committed the wrongs. Eg a manager makes many mistakes, causing all sorts of problems in the company. A new manager is brought in, and takes responsibility for every wrong committed by the previous manager. He does not blame anyone, including the previous manager. He figures how to right those wrongs, by himself, both psychologically and tactically.

his is most powerful when done spiritually, as one can consecrate all the problems, making it easier to right the past wrongs as powerful positive response from life.

No Title

When you withdraw from insisting on your position on a matter, Life quickly comes forward out of the blue with developments or knowledge that fully affirms your position. It is a miracle to behold!

No Title

It's only the ego, in tandem with the surface, physical consciousness that blocks us from realizing that every other person is you.

Two Vacuum Cleaners

If you lose a useful possession, device, benefit, etc., but then refrain from complaining about the fact, fresh supplies will arrive from out of nowhere, often replenishing what you had previously.

After years of good use, a man's vacuum cleaner suddenly stopped working. However, rather than complain about the fact, he made do with a simple broom and pan. Though it took extra effort, he simply enjoyed what he was doing with a lesser tool.

Well it turned out that a few days later, he was most surprised when on her own a housemate purchased another almost identical vacuum cleaner for him! Now he was happily back to work cleaning with a much more efficient tool, just as he had done in the past.

Taking the tactic of not complaining and practicing equality of being when the device expired, he attracted a perfect, very similar replacement from seemingly out of nowhere.

It turns out that we can take that approach in our lives whenever anything material or otherwise goes wrong. That way we can attract marvelous things back to our person!

On How Gangsterism Formed in America and Exists in the World

The role of gangsters in American politics is something that cannot be missed.

Life in America started in the wilderness. It creates the possibility of muscle men looting the produce at the time of harvest. The possibility of the earliest settlements came to stay as a feature of wild life. It was felt as a necessity by men of muscle power. Many work and produce. Those who are endowed with strong muscles and no conscience find looting a possible profession. Even after towns came to be organised that way of life was an avenue of earning for many, especially because men in power sought their help to quell strikes, break processions, shut down orators, assassinate leaders.

Gangs come into existence in the social life and operate in collusion with political leaders. The [MSS Social] theory must have its pronouncement on this feature.

An ideal monarch can wipe them off or keep them in control. In a democracy as the low passions of high placed people are in display, the high ambition of the lowest section of the population is not only not denied existence but are enfranchised. To them, particularly the strong amongst them, democracy is a fertile opportunity.

Society in this respect has always preferred the method of allowing the population to exhaust their exuberance to suppressing them. It is in tune with the spirit of democracy of adult suffrage. It allows the ignorance of people to be slowly educated by experience.

The ignorance of illiterate voters is the political counterpart to the violence of the muscle men that are gangsters. In a dictatorship, there is a large possibility for the gangster to become the chief. Gangsterism is the dictatorship of the illiterate muscle.

Additional:

-Enthusiasm is for production, not for governance. In the absence of mental energy to create new political organisations, the strong in politics become gangsters. There is no mental energy for abstract ideas or their application to new conditions of government. Mental sloth is the result.

-The Crime Syndicates of Chicago of which Al Capone was the crux were born because of ill-housed overcrowded apartments of business nationalities - Study of these gangster lives will complete the knowledge of American Prosperity. Out of these crime dens was born the best of artistic work such as the furniture industry.

He whom we call a gangster now was once a great hero and a ruler.

(Karmayogi)

Inner-Outer Correspondence of the Negative

From any negative experience you have, you can relate it to something amiss inside - whether wrong attitude, belief, behavior, action, etc. When you do, and then reverse it, life will rapidly respond in your favor - by cancelling the negative, by bringing about a new type of positive, both, or something beyond.

Examples:

- A businessman had ill-feelings toward another. His business started failing. As soon as he recognized and then reversed the attitude, prosperity quickly began to come his way.

-A woman was ashamed that she had a particular living condition, and thus lied about things. Her own psychological and her interpersonal relationships with others deteriorated. She then reversed herself, and told the truth. Suddenly her husband was elected to high office, when it was almost certain he would lose the election.

-A father realized that through his neglect he had created a condition for his daughter to run away with a scoundrel. He changed his view and decided to give his children more attention, which instantly resolved the scandal involving his daughter.

-A captain of a ship, in search of an enemy vessel had fully garnered the ill-will of his crew. He then understood it was due to his callous actions. He then reversed himself and did something of great benefit for his first mate. As a result, the enemy ship he was seeking suddenly appeared, miraculous-like before them from out of the blue, completely vulnerable. As a result, the captain and crew destroyed the enemy vessel.

No Title

Any small thing you resist embracing or acting upon, but then take up, will unfold like a miracle.

No Title

We are all drops of awareness in an ocean of consciousness. (anonymous)

Comment: When we connect to the psychic being within and the supermind surrounding us, we experience the entire ocean of consciousness in our individual being; gaining its vast wisdom, sweetness, serenity, and power.

No Title

A growing consciousness weeds out what is no longer necessary; that is unessential. It is a form of personal organization - i.e. prioritization in life.

This includes withdrawal from certain friends, relatives, colleagues; as well as activities, projects, goals, etc. who are no longer helpful to that rising consciousness.

No Title

Acts or circumstance that arise at the same moment, that on the surface seem unconnected, are actually inter-related from the perspective of a deeper consciousness.

No Title

Organization of self - in terms of time, space, knowledge, skills, resources, work, activities, thought, behavior, attitudes, values, purpose, character, etc. - makes things so much easier and more pleasant for others.

No Title

A growing consciousness weeds out what is no longer necessary; that is unessential. It is a form of personal organization - i.e. prioritization in life.

This includes withdrawal from certain friends, relatives, colleagues; as well as activities, projects, goals, etc. who are no longer helpful, who may even be harmful to that rising consciousness.

Effect of the Force in Recent World History

Sri Aurobindo won WWII by sending his Force to Churchill who quickly moved up the ranks, convinced a nation and the world of the necessity of taking up the fight, and led the Allied victory over unprecedented tyranny.

Likewise, Mother sent Her Force into ICPF and Gorbachev and ended the Cold War that threatened the end of the world through nuclear annihilation.

It would be interesting to know Their and Our effect on the world in recent years and now.

Hippy Legacy and the Force

Mother suggested that the supramental Force descended into the Hippies in the 1960s, leading to new lifestyles, new ways of seeing the world, and new formations of life. It was however cut short when they could not hold the Force, and took to extreme wildness and drugs, with a number of their cultural heroes dying.

In the wake of the Hippies came the New Age movement, the Computer and Technology revolution in Silicon Valley, the empowerment of the Individual in companies, cross-culturalism of all sorts, a new sense of inner and outer Freedom, and the Environmental movement, to name a few. Their influence can be thought of as unprecedented in modern history.

Through the Hippies, the Divine loosely spread around the world, uplifting the society in terms of human and spiritual values.

Now it is up to us to solidify and further advance their legacy and ideals. That will happen when we make the sincere, conscious effort to call down the Force into our lives.

No Title

When a supramental-influenced individual takes up a new, obscure area of life, sooner or later it expands greatly, as the wider society fully adopts it.

No Title

When you develop the subtle sense, you acutely perceive how each thing is dovetailing with the things that are to follow.

Comment: ... and therefore where to put your focus in a given moment, the order of things to come, the deeper purpose of what you are doing, and so forth.

Life Response Power of Controlling Our Opinions

There are times when we are so sure of ourselves and communicate our opinions, only to discover it was false information - much to our embarrassment. It is what happens when the vital/emotional being dominates our mind; fortifying our impulsiveness, impatience, pride, combativeness, and prejudiced viewpoint.

And yet if we control ourselves in such situations and refrain from expressing our viewpoint, soon after unexpected positive conditions are likely to present ourselves - often in the form of reinforcing what we originally believed!

One individual noticed many times over the course of his life that when he refrained from expressing an opinion in a heated, divisive issue, his point of view was suddenly expressed eloquently or emphatically by others in the media; or sometimes evoked real world circumstance that fully embodied his position!

Withholding a vital opinion has enormous power to spread one's truth to others; even to manifest as something real and material in the world.

No Title

An emerging Supramental consciousness increasingly senses future directions and outcomes, and shifts his focus in that direction, landing in the right place at the right time.

The GOOD vs Destructive Good of Science

The reason that science creates good things that are accompanied by destructive bi-products - like industrial pollution, nuclear bombs, environmental degradation, et al - is because it sees things exclusively through the physical and material; avoiding the deeper, invisible, and ethereal planes (from the psychological to the spiritual).

It is the combining of matter and spirit by Science that will reveal true Truths of existence; manifesting the GOOD in its discoveries and technologies, avoiding destructive bi-products of the Good.

No Title

In a work, it is often how you react to psychological challenges that is key to attracting a great outcome.

No Title

